House Interior Damaged by Fire

By BOB BARTLETT
A fire at the Dave Lutt residence, 118 Birch, did extensive interior damage Sunday night.

Volunteer firemen from Wayne battled the blaze for about an hour and a half as gusty north winds dipped temperatures to seven below zero.

Korn, the fire broke out about 8 p.m. in the fire place area and quickly spread through part of the north wall and into the attic. The total estimate of damage was put over $5,000 as a result of the fire burning out most of the wooden beams and structures along the wall and in the attic.

Wayne Man Steps Down

Allen O'Donnell, Democratic National committeeman from Wayne, notified members of the party's state central and executive committees that he is resigning his party post effective March 12.

O'Donnell said he will officially hand in his resignation at the March 12 meeting of the central committee. He said he made the announcement now so that it will "allow time for the forces in our party to determine who they wish to have serve the party in this position as my successor."

Also included in the letter, which was dated Jan. 10 but released last weekend, was a suggestion by O'Donnell that his successor continue to help with the so-called Breadbasket conference.

He said, "Whoever you select, I do urge he continue to provide leadership in the Breadbasket conference of the Democratic National committee."

O'Donnell also pointed out "Nebraska — with the excellent work of Gov. J. James Exon as the leading national spokesman for the farmers of the Midwest, with Frances Ohmstede as chairman of the Farmers' Caucus of the DNC and with our formation of the Breadbasket conference — is the leader in the fight for the family farm in America."

Mrs. Ohmstede is from Guide Rock and is the Democratic National committeewoman from Nebraska.

O'Donnell did not outline in the letter what his future plans are but according to a story by Associated Press, he intends to announce his candidacy for the Democratic Congressional nomination, 1st district, in the near future.

O'Donnell was a career military man serving with the air force before coming to Wayne as an instructor in political science, Wayne State College.

County Road Plan Hearing is Jan. 17

The Wayne County Commissioners will hold a public hearing in connection with their one to six year road improvement plan Tuesday, Jan. 17 at 2 p.m. in the Commissioners Room.

Lutt, his wife and their two boys were at home when the fire was discovered. The family was watching television when they heard crackling noise. At first, they thought it was snow blowing against the side of the house, but later the sounds got louder.

Lutt said he looked around the fire place when he noticed that part of the floor had been burned out. "I quickly told my wife to take the kids out of the house," Lutt recalled.

Because of the extreme cold weather, firemen used tanker and pump trucks to supply water to fight the fire. One fireman, Bob Stanley, suffered frostbite to his right ear, but later was pronounced to be in good shape.

Neighbors helped to salvage furniture and clothing before the fire was extinguished.

The family spent the rest of the night at the Neil Swanson house. Remodeling of the year and a half old house began Monday when a construction crew from Carhart Lbr. Co. started boarding up the north side of the house. Lutt said that most of the north wall and an eight-foot section of the attic wall have to be replaced.

Offer Class For Drivers

"Looking out for the other guy" is the topic of a defensive driving course scheduled for the Wayne area during the month of February.

The course is being sponsored by the Wayne Jaycees as a service to the area. The dates are Feb. 6, 13, 20 and 27. The classes will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each evening at the Wayne High School.

Date Preston, a member of the Wayne Jaycees, said there is a one-time charge of $6 for the course. Additional members of a family can enroll in the course for $3.

The price is higher for those who have had major driving violations which have affected their permits to drive. Preston said the charge for the course is $18 for those who have lost their drivers license as a result of a violation and $12 for those who have lost their license and have been ordered by the court to take the course.

Preston said the class is limited to 20 persons. He pointed out this course is the same that all state employees and school teachers take.

Moving Out of Ward

Councilman Thomas Resigns from Post

Jimmie Thomas, councilman fourth ward, has resigned from the city council as he is moving out of the ward and state statutes require a council member representing a ward to be a resident of that ward.

the announcement Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the city council.

Mayor Decker said he is not yet ready to make an appointment to fill the unexpired term of Thomas who has served nearly 2 1/2 years on the council.

The Wayne mayor stated he wants to get some input from the council as "they (the council) will be working with him longer than I will."

Mayor Decker added that he is going on record as not being a mayoral candidate for another term. He will have served four years as mayor when he finished this term.

Mayor Decker said the appointee he is looking for must fit certain basic qualifications: he must be a Wayne businessman, a Wayne homeowner, been a resident of Wayne for at least ten years and "he must be convinced himself that Wayne is the finest city in the world in which to live and work."

For the second straight session, the council members worked through city business in record time. A motion to adjourn came at about 9 p.m. after the council had completed the announced agenda.

After hearing one objector to the one and six year street plan, the council passed a resolution adopting the plan.

In the other advertised business, Administrator Fred Brink opened four sealed bids for a new police station wagon.

Bids were received from Chrysler Center Motors, Coryell Auto Company, Roy Hurd Ford and Mercury and Ellingson Motors, incorporated, all of Wayne.

After reading the bids, Brink said he and his staff would review the bids because of variances from the published requirements for the new vehicle. He said he would come back to the council with the review which would outline the deficiencies.

In other action the council tabled a request by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce to tax outside businesses (outside of the Wayne community) from doing business in Wayne referring directly to a recent auction sale.

They held a tote-board vote turning down a motion to allocate a new pickup truck to the water department and agreed to approve a $277,000 materials

Drama Club Wins Contest

Some Thought It Was Fun

"To be or not to be," is not a question to be answered by the Wayne High School Drama Club. Instead, its members would respond in kind to: "To be and to be," as they placed first in the West Husker One-Act Play contest held Saturday at Hartington, CC.

The placing makes it five in a row for the Wayne High Players. They will participate in the district contest to be held Jan. 19 at Wayne State College. Plans

THANKS to the cooperation of Wayne State College, youngsters in Wayne will have a place to ice skate this year. The college donated a piece of land located between it and Providence Medical Center. According to street superintendent Vern Schulz, the pond is ready to be used now. Taking advantage of the new facility are three fourth grade students from Wayne's West Elementary School. While Jim Thomas, left, ties his shoes, Penny Paige and Susan Hirt test the ice. Last year the city used its tennis courts for ice skaters, but had to abandon that idea after expanding ice caused extensive damage to the court surface.

Sideline 'Foul' Draws Attention

Charges are expected to be filed in Wayne County court this week against a Madison youth who allegedly started a fight with a Wayne High basketball player.

According to investigating officer Keith Adams of the Wayne police department, the youth struck Dave Schwartz as he was warming up for the varsity match at the Wayne gym.

The youth escaped from police, but enough information was gathered about the youth to make the arrest, Adams said.

Giese Elected Wayne School Board President

Wilbur Giese Monday night was elected president of Wayne-Carroll Public Schools Board of Education as a part of the annual Organizational meeting of the board. He served as vice president of the board last year. Giese replaces Mrs. Dorothy Ley as president of the board. Mrs. Ley's name was placed in nomination to serve another term as president, but she declined the nomination citing lack of time to give "meaningful policy and instruction leadership the post demands."

was elected vice president of the board.

In other business, the board examined a plat showing boundaries of Tara Ridge Addition, a new housing development which is making application for annexation to the City of Wayne.

The plat was presented to the board by Pat Gross who told the members some 24 lots are included in the initial development. The board did not voice any objections to the proposal. Present regulations call for any annexation be submitted to the school board as well as the Planning commission before any formal action can be taken by the city council.

Harold (Mac) Maciejewski,

Wayne public school athletic director, appeared before the board as spokesman for a committee of school administrators and coaches seeking a new building for storage of athletic equipment, locker room, practice area for wrestling and a coaches room.

Maciejewski said present dressing space is crowded in present facilities. He added the facilities were designed for boys sports activities. "We now have a space problem since girls sports have become a part of the high school program."

He pointed out the proposed building would serve many areas of the athletic program as

By Study Committees School Needs Voiced

The first recommendations reported out of committees made up of faculty, citizen and student members covering specific areas of the broad spectrum of activities before the Wayne Public School Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

The recommendations represented the majority opinions of the various committees.

Marie Mohr presented a report on "Learning Climate," citing the need for expansion of the art program and recommending a 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. school day.

She said it was the feeling of her committee that both areas be considered priority one which, according to the guidelines set out for the committees, solicits immediate action.

The Wayne High School home-making instructor said the interaction of her committee surfaced the need for a full time art instructor to lend aid in grades K-8. She said most teachers expressed the feeling they are not qualified to teach art and asked for professional outside input. "They would like a fulltime instructor, would settle for a parttime teacher and will accept help of any kind," she explained.

The early start and early dismissal was recommended to help in scheduling extra-curricular activities so they do not keep students at school for long periods of time.

She said reports indicate most students are at school by 8:30 a.m. "Which seems to indicate they are able to comply with an earlier schedule." School now starts at 8:50 a.m.

The purpose of the recommendation, she explained, is to help phase out "before school" sports practices and other school activities and give the students time after school to take part in activities and "still be home in time to eat supper with their parents."

Mary Ann DeNaeyer presented recommendations covering the governing body, administration and staffing. She said the committee recommended a task force be established to study budget requests.

She said the so-called task force would be made up of members of the community, a school board representative, representatives from each educational area, an administrator and a representative from the non-certified staff. A chairman would be elected from the group.

Heading the list for examination by the task force would be building priorities, changes in courses offered and cooperative educational programs in occupational education within the local industry and cooperative programs with Wayne State College in those discipline areas not available through the high school curriculum or where the student demand is low.

The source of the recommendation, she said, came from the external visitation team and her committee and the reason for it is to make for better understanding by staff and and community regarding budget decisions. She pointed out it is the opinion of her committee the educational benefits would be immediate and should be given

Buses will leave from Gib-son's parking lot in Wayne at 6:30 a.m. Cost of the trip is $14.25 and includes bus fare, a noon luncheon, and the registra-tion fee.

Mrs. LeRoy Creamer, citizenship leader, said any interested person is invited to join home extension club members on the trip. Reservations should be made at the Wayne County Ex-tension Office or with Anna Marie Kreifels, area home ex-tension agent at the Northeast Station, Concord.

Persons participating in the tour will observe the unicameral in session, tour the governor's mansion and state capitol build-ing, and will join state senators for lunch.

The Dixon County council met at the Northeast Station Jan. 4 with new chairman Mrs. Carl Armstrong, Anna Marie Kreifels handed out new handbook materials for 1978 and explained the order of the club president's notebooks.

Health and safety leader Mrs. Larry Lubberstedt reported that 27 persons received their cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) certificates during December training sessions at the North-east Station.

Each club received a copy of the National Information Bureau's ratings of 333 national charities, which appeared in the May 1977 issue of Good House-keeping. It was announced that the Better Business Bureau is also compiling a new listing to use as a guide for charitable donations.

It was announced that the council is interested in sending a diabetic youth between the ages of 11 and 17 to Camp Floyd Rogers this summer. Club members who know of a young-ster who could attend are asked to contact the county health leader by mid-March.

The council is planning to help support a diabetes clinic for Dixon County in 1978 if they receive help from the American Medical Student Association.

Mrs. Clarence Rastede, treas-urer, presented the budget for 1978 and asked that all dues be paid by March 1. Mrs. Carl Armstrong urged the clubs to submit nominations at the April council meeting for delegates to attend the state convention.

Mrs. Carl Armstrong will be the representative to the Omaha Homemakers' Day. Representa-tive for the Stouland Home-makers' Day is Mrs. Verdel Erwin.

Anna Marie Kreifels urged all club members to attend the Helen Becker conference on rural health at Norfolk on April 18. The program will be "Stress and its Relationship to Our Health." Robert Eliot, a physi-cian from the University of Ne-braska Medical Center in Omaha, will deliver the keynote address. There will be work-shops during the morning and afternoon.

Each club is asked to send their health leader to the Nor-folk meeting. Registration fee for the county health leader will be paid by the council.

It was announced that a bus tour will be held this year instead of the annual spring tea on April 26. Mrs. Harold Kjer is chairman of a committee planning the tour. Committee members are from the TNT and Merry Homemakers Extension Clubs.

The January training lesson, entitled "On Your Own," will be held Jan. 24 at 9:30 a.m. at the Northeast Station. The meeting date was changed because of the "Leap on Lincoln" tour slated for Jan. 26.

Wildcats Nudge Bennington for Second Pirates Dominate WH Tourney

By BOB BARTLETT
For the first time in four years, Winside High failed to capture the championship title of its own 16-team meet Saturday.

The Wildcats however did latch onto second place — the lowest the area Class C grappling team has finished in its nine-year history of the tournament.

Plainview, which won the meet with 122½ points, took the lead early in the two-day match at the Cats' auditorium and held on despite challenges from Bennington and Winside.

The Pirates of coach Al Tamborelli had a three and a half point spread over Winside going into the consolation rounds. Bennington moved ahead of coach Randy Humpal's Cats by a half point to trail Plainview by six points going into the finals.

With the help of wins by Plainview's 98-pound Curt Hart and 167-pound John Halsey, the Pirates racked up the winning points to take home the crown. Winning second place wasn't so easy for the Wildcats.

Winside's LaVerte Miller won the 155-pound class by default when Plainview's Ron Christensen couldn't wrestle in the championship round due to a neck injury sustained in a semi-

win the 185-pound title. Heavyweight Mitch Pfeiffer claimed second after a 10-5 loss to Oakland-Craig's Scott Lindstrom, as did Rick Bowers who lost 13-6 to Norfolk Catholic's 105-pound Kaylen Belville. All told, the placings helped to give Winside a one and a half point cushion for second over Bennington.

Although Wakefield didn't have anyone in the finals, coach Lyle Trullinger's Trojans did gather up several third place finishes. In the consolation rounds, Chuck Sherer handed 145-pound Mike Braum of Hooper-Logan View a 2-0 setback, 155-pound Dean Sharp beat Randy Bremner of Scriber, 4-3, and heavyweight Craig Nelson pinned Rick Graae of Norfolk High reserves in 3:36.

Wayne Girls Put 6-2 Record On Line Against 8-0 Howells

Wayne High's 6-2 girls basketball team will take on undefeated state-ranked Class C Howells tonight (Thursday) for the championship title of the Stanton Invitational.

Howells, which is ranked seventh among the top 10 teams in the state, will carry an 8-0 record into the 8 p.m. contest at the Stanton city auditorium, and with what Blue Devil coach Curt Frye described as a well-balanced ball club.

"We won't have the luxury of blowing them (Howells) out in the first quarter like we did against Leigh," Frye pointed out after his team's 58-37 victory over Leigh in semifinal action Tuesday night.

The Devils romped to a 21-5 lead, then coasted to a 31-9 halftime showing as Lesa Barclay and Susie Proett popped in game totals of 13 and 10 points respectively.

Barclay also led Wayne on the boards, pulling down eight of the team's 33 caroms. As a team, the Devils shot 39 percent from the field and gave up the ball 20 times on turnovers.

Wayne goes into tonight's game as the defending invitational champion after stomping host Stanton, 37-16.

Frye sent in the fivesome of Julia Dorcay, Stacy Jacobmeier, Shelly Davis, Joiene Bennett and LaVonna Sharpe who pumped in a total of 33 points.

Sharpe, a junior, led her group with 11 points — good enough to tie junior Peg Pinkelman for high scoring honors.

As a team, Wayne made 46 per cent of its shots to record a season-high in points.

Wildcats Make It 4 Straight

Wayne State won its fourth straight game Tuesday edging Peru, 110-107 at Peru.

Mark Olsen led the Wildcats with 23 points. Four other Wildcats scored in double figures. Joe Peitzmeier had 19 points, Gary Billings, 18, Wayne Iba, 14, and Lennie Adams, 13. Dan Shouse led Peru with 33 points.

Wayne (7-4) led 64-51 at half-time, but Peru narrowed the gap throughout the second half. The hot shooting of Olsen and Peitzmeier late in the game protected the lead as the two seniors combined for 21 points in the last 10 minutes.

Peru outshot the Wildcats from the field 54 percent to 47 percent, but Wayne won the battle of the boards. Joe Curt led the Cats with 11 grabs.

Rogers' Layup Lifts Knights Past Trojans

Rex Rogers drove in for a layup in the closing minute and Oakland-Craig cashed in at the free throw line Friday night to come from behind to nip host Wakefield, 65-63.

Rogers, who tied teammate Tory Baldwin with 17 points, grabbed a free ball and raced to the basket for Oakland's first lead of the second half and the Knights hung on to hand coach Joe Coble's Trojans their fourth loss in eight games.

"What it all boils down to is rotten defense," Coble pointed out, adding that "we played defense with our hands instead of our feet."

The coach explained that his players were called for 22 fouls, allowing the Knights to go the free throw line 26 times and pick up the win.

Although Wakefield was out-sized by the taller Knights, the Trojans stayed with the East Husky speedsters throughout the first half. Oakland took a two point edge at the end of the first quarter, 14-12, and managed a one point lead at the half, 30-20.

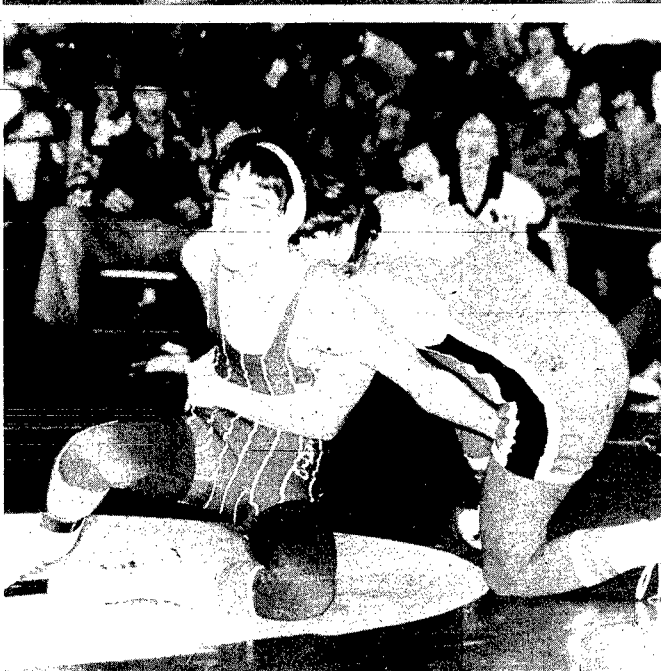

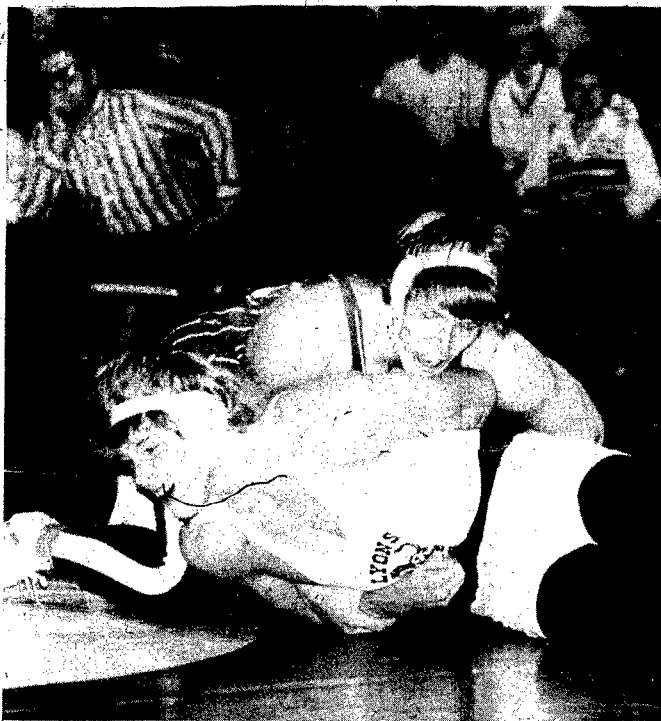

Val Johnson and Barry Jones guided their club to a five-point Wakefield lead early in the third quarter and the Trojans hung on for a one-point margin going into the fourth.

Johnson gathered all his points from the field while Jones canned six fielders and was two for three at the line.

"Barry did an outstanding job," Coble reflected, giving praise also to Todd Swigart who came off the bench in the third quarter to also spark the Trojans.

Wakefield's defense early in the second half allowed the Trojans to move into the lead by limiting the Knights to one shot and clearing the boards on missed attempts. Jones led rebounders with 13 as Wakefield finished with a total of 30 caroms.

Coach Everett Jensen's crew again was led by Cheryl Abts with 18 points. Deanna Manz was second in scoring with 14. In an overtime decision, Lau-

IN THE FINALS of Winside's tournament, two Wildcat grapplers won their weights and two others finished second to lead Winside to second place among 16 teams. Bryan Svoboda, top, won the 185-pound division with a 6-0 decision over Hooper-Logan View's Mike Tranmer. In the middle, Winside's heavyweight Mitch Pfeiffer runs into trouble with Oakland-Craig's Scott Lindstrom. Lindstrom won the weight class, 10-5. Below, 105-pound Rick Bowers grimaces as Kaylen Belville of Norfolk Catholic holds the Winside grappler for a 13-6 loss. Winside's 155-pound LaVerte Miller won his match by default.

Second Half Defense Lifts Laurel '5'

Laurel used a man-to-man halfcourt defense in the third quarter Monday night to overcome host Hartington Cedar Catholic, 53-39, for the Bears fourth win in eight games.

In the first half, Laurel used a press defense until Cedar escaped and started hitting the basket from 20 to 25 feet out. The plan worked for the Trojans in the first quarter for a 12-11 lead, but started to fall apart in the second period where Laurel gained the lead 30-27 going into the third period.

Coach Everett Jensen's crew again was led by Cheryl Abts with 18 points. Deanna Manz was second in scoring with 14. In an overtime decision, Laurel JVs pushed their record to 5-1 with a 31-25 victory. Kaye Anderson, who rallied the Bears with all six points to break the 25-all score after four periods, finished the game with 17 points.

Laurel 59, Osmond 46

Laurel shot a season-high 38 percent from the field Saturday night to whallop host Osmond. Cheryl Abts pumped in 21 points and Lisa Galvin added 10 as the Bears pushed their record to 3-4. Coach Everett Jensen also credited the play of sophomore Roxi Kraemer, Susan Stark and Julie Anderson.

All three helped to take up the slack of senior Elaine Guern who suffered a broken leg in a car accident. The second leading scorer and rebounder for Laurel is lost for the season.

Abts was five for five from the field in the first quarter to lead Laurel to a 16-9 lead. She continued the hot pace, hitting 10 of 12 for the night.

WH Matmen Pin Neligh For 2nd Win

Wayne High grapplers pushed their dual record to 2-3 Tuesday night by winning all but one match in their 46-6 smothering of visiting Neligh.

Wayne was nearly back to full strength with the return of Kirk Echtenkamp (132) and Dan Mitchell (185). Still missing from the lineup were Don Straight (155) who is on vacation and Kelly Hansen (138) who is lost for the remainder of the season with a shoulder injury suffered last week.

The Blue Devils posted a 33-7 victory in the junior varsity match as the locals won seven of nine matches.

Nebraska's Wildlife Habitat Is Becoming a Reality

The first tract of wildlife land has been acquired, over 10,000 acres of private land reserved for wildlife, and the stage set for a doubled tree planting effort on state lands since the Game and Parks Commission's Wildlife Habitat Program began last July 1.

Increased hunting, fishing and trapping fees and the $7.50 Habitat Stamp bought by all hunters and trappers are financing the Commission effort. The program is designed to combat the dramatic decline in Nebraska wildlife populations brought on by habitat destruction in recent years. It involves the purchase of public wildlife lands, improvement of habitat on lands already in public ownership and incentives for landowners to provide habitat on their property.

"I think we're off to a pretty good start, considering the short time we've been at it," said Harold Edwards, in charge of the program.

The first purchase of wildlife land made with Habitat Fund money is already complete, a 160-acre tract on the Elkhorn River near Neligh. It will provide access to the river for fishing, as well as river-bottom habitat and hunting land.

"We have a number of other tracts under consideration, and have several contracts to purchase, though the transactions are not yet complete," Edwards said. He noted that a number of tracts have been offered to the Commission by interested landowners, and that the Commission is always interested in offers of land for sale from all over the state.

"We are looking for several kinds of land. We would like to acquire wetlands in the rainbasin area of our state because those are disappearing rapidly. We would like land along rivers and streams. And, we are also interested in timbered areas. But, we don't want good farmland because we really can't afford it."

"We would also like tracts of at least 160 acres, and 320 or larger would be even better. River access tracts could be smaller, however," Edwards said.

He noted that the Habitat Program has budget authority to spend $776,000 for land the first fiscal year, and that the agency should be able to approach that figure in acquisitions.

Another phase of the program involves habitat improvement on private lands through natural resources districts. Under this portion of the program, the Commission provides 75 per cent of the money that the districts pay to landowners for various wildlife habitat practices. The NRDs pay the other 25 per cent.

Landowners can be paid up to $27.50 per acre per year for participation in the program. One practice involves the planting of trees, shrubs and native grasses and maintaining those plantings for several years. Another approved practice is the protection of marshes, timbered and grassy areas, or other habitat. Landowners may also collect for planting sweet clover mixed with oats or wheat. The grain can be harvested, but the clover is left standing for two years.

The programs vary from one NRD to another. Some also pay for fencing of habitat to prevent grazing, for example.

"We had over 10,000 acres of private land enrolled by late November, but I expect 30,000 to 40,000 acres to be signed up by the end of the fiscal year next June 30. We have funds budgeted to cover up to 63,000 acres, but this figure will probably not be achieved this first year.

"Just how much money we do collect from the permit fee increases and Habitat Stamp sales remains to be seen. Some of us feared a drastic decline in permit sales due to the increased cost, but so far, we have been pleasantly surprised by the sportsman's response," Edwards said.

Habitat management on public lands is another important phase of the Habitat program. Tree planting will be nearly doubled on Commission wildlife lands next spring, and grass and other habitat plantings will also be increased.

Roadside habitat is also important. The Commission is providing counties with grass-legume seed mixtures for planting along new or reconstructed roads, which makes excellent nesting cover for pheasants and other wildlife. Already, more than 30 counties are involved in this phase of the habitat program, creating 27,700 acres of habitat along more than 500 miles of rural roads.

The Commission has also entered into an agreement with the Corps of Engineers and the University of Nebraska for a seven-year habitat improvement project on Harlan County Reservoir. It will involve 15,000 acres of wildlife land, and all general recreation land open to hunting, and the interspersing of habitat into croplands on the reservoir. The commission and the Corps of Engineers will furnish funds, and the University will furnish the manpower.

The Commission is also seeking cooperation of public utility and irrigation districts. For example, one such district is nearing an agreement to turn over management of some 500 acres of its land for wildlife habitat, while continuing to serve its primary purpose.

"I firmly believe that we are making good use of the sportsman's Habitat Stamp and license money. But, I hope they realize that their investment in wildlife habitat is going to take some time to produce results. It takes time to buy land. It takes time to plant and raise trees or shrubs. And, after you have the habitat, it will take a bit more time for wildlife to respond. But, we've made the commitment and begun work, and that's the most important step," Edwards concluded.

The Bluejays poured on the scoring in the second quarter with a 37-point spree for a 59-35 halftime lead in East Lewis and Clark Conference action.

The 2-6 Eagles of coach Lee Reimer had four players in double figures. Tod Ellis led the quarter with 19, Jerry Stewart and Rich Stewart had 14 apiece and Bart Gotch made 11. Allen made 26 of 65 shots from the field.

Walthill also was victorious in the reserve match, winning 58 to 53.

Eagles Hold Zerbe to 14 In L-C Tilt

Allen held Newcastle's high-scoring Valerie Zerbe to 14 points Saturday night and as a result corralled the rest of the Red Raiders into a 34-27 loss in Lewis and Clark Conference action at Newcastle.

For the Eagles of coach Steve McManigal, the win was the fourth straight after an opening loss, and marked the fourth win in East Division play.

Junior Pam Brownell and sophomore Lisa Wood double teamed Zerbe to shut off Newcastle in the race for first place in the East half.

"We were the better team Saturday night, however they (Newcastle) have an excellent squad and we expect more close games," Manigal said. Allen will face the Raiders possibly in the Ponca tournament and districts in February.

The difference in the ball game was turnovers. Allen gave up the ball 12 times compared to 29 for Newcastle. The Eagles, led by freshman Lisa Erwin with 16 points, hit 32 percent from the field and grabbed 22 rebounds.

Backstop / Bob Bartlett

PROS INTERESTED: Several professional football teams from the National Football League have expressed interest in at least two players from Wayne State. Senior Duane Carlson, who was named NAIA All-American and Little All-American, has been contacted by letter from the Dallas Cowboys. Underclassman Dale Pelland has received letters from the Chicago Bears, Cincinnati Bengals and the Cowboys, to name a few NFL organizations.

SOPHOMORE runningback Bob Barry, who led Wayne State with a season rushing record of 1,130 yards, decided to drop classes this semester in favor of picking up a few hours this summer.

According to coach, Del Stollenberg, Barry intends to enroll next fall providing he has enough credit hours for the term. The coach explained that Barry opted to go back to the farm in Battle Creek now because he's tired of classes.

On the brighter side, Stollenberg pointed out that recruiting top-notch gridders is on the upswing. So far he and his staff have been combing a number of states, coming up with what the coach believes will be a few winners. From Illinois will come three all-state junior college transfers, namely center Kevin Savio (6-3, 225), tight end Bud Mathews (6-2, 220) and defensive tackle Leonard Roboczewski (6-3, 240).

Also from Illinois is Ander Murphy, who decided to sit out a year following high school graduation. He's a 6-2, 225 defensive tackle.

Closer to home, the coach has grabbed a pair of promising Tekamah-Herman players. Mike Maxwell, will transfer from Doane as a 5-10, 180 defensive back. And Randy Saxton, a 1977 Class C all-state player, will make Wayne State his home next year when he'll test his strengths as defensive end.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: After Notre Dame's kingsize upset of former No. 1-ranked Texas last week, one Irish fan marched into Jeff's Cafe wearing a sweatshirt with the caption, "God created whiskey so that the Irish couldn't rule the world."

FROM THE LOOKS of it, the chances of Wayne State's getting into the NAIA District basketball playoffs may have doubled. Rumor going around in the coaches circle is that the district proposed doubling the number of church and state schools which can qualify for the nationals to four. Break that down and its two state and church schools each.

If the proposal goes through, that doesn't necessarily guarantee the Wildcats a trip to the playoffs, said coach Jim Seward. As it stands now, Kearney is the frontrunner in the state division with one loss. Chadron and Peru are neck-and-neck with eight wins or better versus four losses.

Seward rates his team's chances of making the playoffs as not so good. Reason: Wayne's schedule of upcoming games is a lot tougher than either Chadron's or Peru's. If the rating system was based on a team's schedule, like it is in surrounding states, perhaps the picture would be brighter for the Cats, Seward points out.

SEEMS LIKE its been so long ago since I tried picking prep winners in basketball that I think I'll start over.

In case no one noticed, I've skipped picking winners while manning both the sports and news editors jobs.

Here's how Dave and Ray pick 'em: (winners in boldface) Friday — Allen at Ponca, Wakefield at Walthill, Wayne at Stanton, Winside at Coleridge; Saturday — Laurel at Neligh, Pender at Wakefield.

For my selections, look elsewhere than the sports page.

Sophomores Down Invading Norfolk

Jeff Dion sparked Wayne High sophomores to a 60-53 come-from-behind win over visiting Norfolk High Monday night by scoring 11 of his 12 points in the second half.

The locals trailed 27-25 at the half as Norfolk forced Wayne to break its pre-game plan of taking the good shots. However, coach Ron Carnes' team regrouped in the last two periods to settle down and work the ball for the shots.

Dion's 11 markers along with the balanced scoring of Jeff Zeiss with 19 and Randy Dunklau with 13 put Wayne in front for its first win against no losses.

The Blue Devils made 23 of 49 shots for 47 percent. Also scoring for Wayne were Stewart Nissen with six, Scott Wessel with five and Steve Sorensen with four.

Minor Accident

Minor damage was reported in a two-vehicle mishap which happened Jan. 3 on Highway 15 7 1/2 miles south of Wayne. The Wayne County Sheriff's office said a camper being pulled by a vehicle being drive by Lowell D. School Sets Auction Date

The Wakefield School Board of Education Monday night set Feb. 4 as the date for an auction sale of surplus school equipment and property. The auction will be held in the old Wakefield high school beginning at 2 p.m. Major items to go under the gavel are the old Ag Building which housed the industrial arts classes and a vacant lot south of the old high school building which is owned by the school district.

The Great Plains Auction company with offices in Wakefield will conduct the sale. In other business, Randy Larson was elected president of the Wakefield Board of Education, replacing Marvin Borg. Larry Clay was re-elected vice president and Sid Preston was named secretary of the board.

The board formerly accepted a letter from the Wakefield Education association asking the board to negotiate teachers contracts. The board sent a letter of acceptance to the association with negotiations to get underway later this month. Dr. Gary Bennerotte, superintendent, was offered a three contract by the board and the principals in the district were offered two year contracts. Salary ranges will be finalized next month.

The board examined curriculum changes and will explore them in depth next month. The board also made decisions as to what is still needed in the new high school building. A list was made from a walk-through of the new building and it contained such items as trophy cases. Supt. Bennerotte said the video tape system in the new high school will be operation by next fall.

The Governing Body committee also recommended that an inservice training program for the board be developed by the board in conjunction with an external consultant. The chairperson said her committee felt the entire board does not have the opportunity to attend meetings and improve their skills of boardship. This also was given a priority one rating.

Another recommended goal by the committee is the office of the superintendent with his secretaries, and office of the high school principal with his secretaries be separated. It was pointed out the reason for the recommendation is the superintendent should not be more concerned and aware of the high school activities and the high contract for the extension of an underground system to Fairacres.

They passed a resolution regarding the sanitary sewer extension district No. 77-1 which included some revised cost figures but did not change the low bid figure of $220,000.

They asked the city engineer to examine a canopy under construction by Coyvill Auto Company for public safety and to have the city attorney make certain the structure does not conflict with statutes.

The city engineer discussed with the council inequities in assessments for the downtown improvement, centering mainly on corner lots. The council acknowledged there is no formula for the improvement assessment which would ferret out all the inequities and that adjustments would have to be made to fit certain situations.

The council considered collecting debts owed the city for electrical services that have been outstanding for as long as one and one-half years.

City Clerk and Treasurer Bruce Mordhorst asked the council to "forgive" the debts so that he could take them off the city's books. The consensus was that it would be a waste of time and money to attempt to collect them.

A haul-away contract from the new transfer station was explained by the city attorney.

Dedicate

the school is now officially open for learning and as a homecoming of kind for some.

Gary Lund, key-note speaker for the dedication, is a 1955 graduate of Wakefield high school. He is presently supervisor with the department of education in Lincoln.

Lund congratulated those present for their attitude, interest and involvement which has resulted in a new building which in turn makes for a complete educational program, he said.

Lund set the pace for nostalgia as he reminded those attending the dedication that he has deep roots with the community and school system as he is a member of a three generation family which has been graduated from Wakefield high school.

Lund said his graduating class had 32 members. Classes were held in the old three-story high school building. "He said his father was graduated from the same school in the late 1920's and his grandmother was a Wakefield alumni, being graduated from Wakefield high school sometime in the 1880's."

In a symbolic ceremony, Ben Forst who had the construction contract, presented a key to Ron Muesel, representative of Architects Plus, who in turn presented it to Marvin Borg, president of the Wakefield school board.

Prior to the ceremony, guided tours were conducted through the new building.

school principal than the other building principals and activities. The recommendation asked for a priority one rating.

Rodella Wacker presented the recommendations of the Services for Children for Special Needs committee, citing as the first goal the need for a speech clinician for a longer period of time to service those children with delayed speech as well as those with articulation and other speech related problems. "The clinician needs time to interact with the classroom teacher for inservice purposes."

Also recommended was the maintaining of the present program for academically talents; utilize the present classroom teacher to the fullest for the purpose of interaction with the classroom teacher and consider expanding the program to include K-4 children.

She pointed out the reason for the recommendations is to provide instruction to children with handicaps in the least restrictive environment, provide mainstreaming when possible and team-teaching as much as possible.

She said the educational benefits would be immediate and long-range. The immediate benefit would be to serve the children with handicaps according to needs and the long-range benefits would be the early detection of handicaps.

Priority one rating was placed on the recommendation.

The board expressed interest in each of the presentations but said they wanted to reserve comment until all of the committees had reported.

Committees scheduled to be heard at the next regular meeting of the school board, Monday, Feb. 13, are Building and Grounds, Community Relations, Special Services and Student Activities.

well as centralizing certain aspects of the program to make it more effective and efficient. Also, Giese presented a rough floor plan for the structures and gave a "ballpark" cost figure of $50,000. The board took the matter under advisement.

The board passed a resolution indicating the school district's willingness to comply with federal regulations pertaining to the responsibility for the distribution of Federal surplus property. The state department of education previously was responsible for this area but it now is in the hands of the state department of roads.

The board agreed to a proposal by the Wayne Education association to negotiate salary and working conditions for the 1978-79 school year.

The meeting was called to order at 7 p.m., one-half hour earlier than usual. The board indicated the 7 p.m. start would be in effect for the next two board meetings. The next meeting is Feb. 13.

State political pace begins to accelerate

CAPITOL NEWS
LINCOLN — As predicted by just about everyone who follows Nebraska politics closely, Congressman Charles Thone has become a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

Now serving his fourth term in the House of Representatives, Thone, a Lincoln attorney, noted he is the fifth current Republican member of Congress to announce as a candidate for governor.

He said all five "realize that statehouses are the places where the action is going to be — where strong leadership can be effective in getting power back from Washington."

Thone said this country is "on the verge of a powerful political movement" that will strip "some of the excessive power from the inefficient and non-responsive federal government."

Because Americans have come to the realization that "overgrown centralized government doesn't work very well — we're going to see some power restored to state and local governments," Thone said.

In his first day of campaigning during which he visited cities from one end of the state to the other, he said he has a proven record for fiscal conservatism. He stressed that the National Taxpayers Union had named him in the top 10 percent in voting to curb federal spending.

As governor, Thone added, he would work closely with the Unicameral and would seek the counsel of every state senator. He further promised a forward-looking program, without any tax increases, to present to Nebraskans next January.

He also pledged that if elected he will hold special meetings in each of Nebraska's 93 counties annually and will hold weekly "citizen hours" to the governor's office. The latter would allow ordinary citizens to come to his office without an appointment to "give me their thoughts and suggestions," he said.

Thone noted that three other Republicans have declared their intention to be candidates for governor. He said all are honorable men and added he will not attack them.

"Ours will be a positive and affirmative campaign," he said. "I will talk about the issues." A spirited primary campaign will strengthen the Nebraska Republican Party.

Thone confessed he has dreamed of being governor of Nebraska "since I was in high school." He practiced law in Lincoln 11 years, served on the staffs of two U.S. senators from Nebraska, has been an assistant Nebraska attorney general and deputy secretary of state for Nebraskans.

Rogers Also Files
 Vance Rogers of Lincoln, former long-time president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, completed filing for the GOP gubernatorial nomination one day before Thone announced he would be seeking voter approval in the same race.

Rogers wasted no time in sending a signal to the western part of the state, an area with a lot of Republican voters.

He pledged his administration would bring to state government "a new awareness of western Nebraska and its importance in the life of the state."

He added he was "keenly conscious of the contributions of western Nebraska."

Rogers acknowledged he had his work cut out for him in his attempt to win the Republican nomination because he came into the race as "a political unknown."

But he said he made what he believes is "a significant stride" to remedy that problem by numerous appearances across the state during the past 11 months.

He said he was much encouraged by a poll of 150 Nebraska Republicans by his campaign organization. The survey showed him trailing Thone only slightly when the results of the 53 who responded were tallied.

According to Rogers, another sampling of voters showed he was very popular among those who had attended his speeches in various parts of the state.

In his travels around Nebraska, Rogers said he has found people are "fed up" with government, big government, and with the philosophy of tax and spend.

He said farmers and ranchers are getting "a raw deal" and that the time has come for governors from farm states to organize into a block that would have significant "clout" in Washington.

Legislative Session Begins
 Nebraska's lawmakers wasted no time getting down to business after they were gavelled into session to complete the work of the 85th Legislature.

More than 100 bills were tossed into the legislative hopper on the opening day of the 60-day meeting, and hundreds more were being readied for introduction.

Gov. J. James Exon was not on hand to greet the legislators because he was in South Sioux City to participate in a meeting of federal mediators, officials of Iowa Beef Processors and representatives of the labor union that has been on strike at Iowa Beef's Dakota City plant for more than 10 months.

But the governor sent a welcoming message to the Legislature and pledged his cooperation in helping expedite legislative business.

Exon advised his budget recommendations will be submitted no later than Feb. 10 and perhaps as early as the end of January.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, Unicameral speaker, had served notice he would have a full day's activity lined up on opening day, and he kept his word. Starting about Jan. 18, Luedtke would like the Legislature to set aside two weeks for committee hearings on new bills. Those hearing days would not count against the 60-day constitutional limit on legislative sessions in even-numbered years.

Luedtke has further suggested that after the hearings on new bills, the senators have full-day floor sessions on those measures, taking up the budget in mid-March and adjourning around April 10.

If that timetable were met, there would be a month before the May 9 primary election when 25 legislative seats will be at stake and some senators will be seeking other political offices.

When the lawmakers came back to work, there were 172 bills left over from last year to occupy their time. The hold-over measures included 29 that individual senators had designated as their pieces of priority legislation last year.

The first 100 bills this year included two proposing abolishment of the sales tax on food. Sen. David Newell of Omaha sponsored one to exempt food from the tax starting Jan. 1, 1980, and Sen. Ernest Chambers, also of Omaha, introduced the other, which would get the tax repealed sooner.

One of a series of bills prepared by Senator Herb Duis of Gothenburg would make the minimum sentence for first degree sexual assault 25 years without hope for parole. Another would mandate a sexual psychopath hearing for anyone convicted of sexual offenses.

Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo submitted a bill that would restore the old formula for distribution of state aid to schools.

His legislation would earmark $10 million in per pupil aid and $45 million in equalization aid.

First Bill Advanced
 The first bill to win preliminary approval in the Unicameral this year triggered more than 90 minutes of debate and resulted in a revision of the state's "Sunshine Law."

The measure, LB 186, deals with land use zoning requirements and is aimed at correcting procedural problems that planning commissions have experienced.

The section that stirred the most controversy would have required only the planning commissions in Omaha, Lincoln, Douglas County, Lancaster County, and cities with a population of more than 10,000 to file financial disclosure statements.

A majority of the lawmakers agreed with Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch who argued the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act should cover all planning commissions, and should not be limited to those in the heavily populated areas.

A number of county planning commissions have resigned in protest to the financial reporting requirements.

No deal — No meal

Dear Americans: Wayne

I attended a meeting and tractorcade of American agriculture at Grand Island Saturday. We came away proud to be a farmer and proud to be an American. No, we are not members, you cannot be, as there is no membership, no dues, nor any leaders. This is people with a problem, trying to tell our nation about it.

Why the tractors, you say, it takes gas, and time and money; yes and don't forget it takes guts to get up at 4:30 on a cold January morning to load them up or drive them for miles, organize them and contact all the authorities. It takes telephone bills, printing and long hours, all volunteered. These people are sincere, dedicated farmers, with their back against the wall. They are trying to get the attention of those that should be concerned.

Don't think you are not involved, because if you eat you are.

Did you know International had closed its plants for three weeks? John Deere has laid off hundreds of workers? Zenith and Hy-Gain have closed their American plants, that we only have 2 American shoe factories left. These are facts, not hearsay.

All the farmers ask for is "parity" or "equality", profit enough to continue their task of feeding our nation and many others. Every farmer feeds 56 people, when one stops providing, you might be the one that goes hungry.

Don't say, when they strike, because they have, it hasn't quite reached Wayne County but it will. Many states have 95 to 99 percent participation and they will not go to the fields and work from sun up, till sun down, for less than production. They have debts to be paid or lose the land and equipment they have worked so tirelessly for. They are not a violent group but as one said "I was asked to take up a gun and fight for my land twenty years ago, well I'm still going to fight for it, the only way I know how."

It's time we give them our support and at least listen. Their meetings are opened with a Prayer for guidance and strength and a pledge for the flag of the country, they are asking to help them. They may be only 4 percent of the dominoes but don't think the other 96 percent can stand without them, on empty stomachs for long. — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jager.

Open letter from Governor Exon

Lincoln
 I would like to express my thanks and gratitude to the many Nebraska drivers who made the year 1977 one of the most notable in traffic safety history. The past year's total of 348 traffic-related deaths was 54 less than the previous year, and can be compared only to the fatal counts of the early 1960's. This achievement could not have been possible without the demonstrated strength of unity and dedication by Nebraskans from all walks of life. With the continuing reduction of traffic fatalities in past years, we have established a lifesaving record that has set a standard for all of us to follow in the years to come.

I want to thank all of those agencies and individuals who were involved in this great effort, whether they be news media, local and state law enforcement, emergency medical teams, driver education teachers and the many safety-minded groups that are too numerous to mention. All Nebraskans share in the great benefit of knowing that fewer traffic fatalities mean more loved ones are still with us.

Although we in Nebraska have established an enviable record that we can be proud of, we must continue to challenge the future and make further improvements. With the new year just beginning, let's resolve ourselves to the task of improving our driving habits even more. By lowering the death toll even further, we can wish to each and every one of our Nebraska drivers a happy and safety-oriented 1978! — J. James Exon, Governor.

OBSERVATIONS

Knowledge in the key

The all-new Wakefield Junior and Senior high school plant was dedicated Sunday with guided tours producing many "Oh's" and "Ah's" from pleased patrons of District 60R. And rightfully so, as the new building, which houses grades 7 through 12, is one of the finest in the area.

The dedication statement pretty much justifies the building's place in the Wakefield educational system. It is dedicated to "the betterment of youth and their education."

"The statement goes on to explain that when this building is utilized by our professional staff and it's supporting team, we will be able to give the young people the necessary tools to meet the challenge of the future."

And so be it. Education is the key to the future. But the person with the key must know how to use it in the lock before it can be of any lasting value.

The caliber of education coupled with necessary educational tools should be the basis for making certain the future is secure. But it doesn't necessarily follow that education and digested enough of it to be graduated from a secondary school, that person is going to be able to cope with a future which, is nebulous at the very best.

We have been told the greatest asset a person has is what is in his head. Even more important, we think, is how this asset is applied.

There has been gentle unrest among leaders of our nation concerning the education of today's generation. Because of their position they are more knowledgeable about what kind of future is in store for the present generation.

And they have appalled by some of what they have seen.

It is difficult for us to accept that many of the high school graduates of today are not meeting the basic standards such as reading, writing and logic. For the most part, we here in Mid-America require the best of instructors and teaching techniques so that we can be reasonably assured our children will have the basics for tomorrow's world.

Because of our interest and involvement in making certain our children have a reasonable education to equip them for the future, we have been able to keep the standards of education in line with the changing times. We do not have "education factories" which based on numbers rather than quality. And because of this, we congratulate the Wakefield school board of education and the patrons of the Wakefield district for their foresight and interest in providing not the best in the way of education, but common-sense logic in how that education is best put to work for the benefit of the individual and the world. — Chuck Barnes.

FmHA Loan Funds Set

Approximately $11 million has been allotted for Business and Industry guaranteed lending during fiscal year 1978. The funds will be available statewide LaVern Ostendorf, local Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) county supervisor, announced this week.

FmHA through its Business and Industry Loan Guarantee program provides the funds to develop or finance business or industry. The program's goals are to create and maintain employment, and improve the economy and environment in rural communities.

Loans are open to any legal body, including individuals, public and private organizations, and federally recognized Indian tribal groups. The projects must be located in open country or towns of up to 50,000 people. Priority is given to applications for projects in open country, rural communities, and towns of 25,000 and smaller.

Farmers Home assistance is provided through loan guarantees in which the loan is made and serviced by a private lender. The lender must be one who routinely provides credit to the local community. Possible lenders include national and state banks, Federal Land Banks, Production Credit Associations, Banks for Cooperatives, and savings and loan associations. Any other lenders, such as insurance companies, credit unions, and mortgage companies are eligible if approved by FmHA. In some special cases when a guaranteed loan is not available, Farmers Home may directly make and service the loan.

Ostendorf explained that for the funding, applicants apply for the guarantee through their private lenders. When approved, FmHA enters into an agreement to reimburse the lender for any losses that may be sustained up to 90 percent of the total of loans loaned plus the interest. This type of assistance is to assure protection for the lender. This enables them to make loans greater than their normal lending limits.

The Comptroller to the Currency has ruled that only the nonguaranteed portion of the loan counts against a national bank's legal lending limit per borrower. Bank regulatory agencies in most states have adopted the same rule for state See FmHA, page 5

LOW QUALITY ROUGHAGE

Cattlemen with straw and chaff or other low quality roughage to feed to wintering beef cows should utilize such feeds early in the pregnancy period.

Straw or low quality roughage can meet energy requirements for maintenance. These feeds are useful for generating heat, but provide little else in the way of nutrients.

The best time to utilize straw and chaff for dry cows is during this time of year. Low quality hay should also be fed first, saving the better quality roughage for later in the gestation period. By February, the spring cows calving should be getting a ration of good quality roughage. The tendency may be to save low quality roughage as a last resort feed, but it can be utilized best early in the wintering period.

Straw and other low quality roughage is useful only as an energy source, and is lacking in protein and minerals. Protein can be provided by feeding alfalfa hay or a commercial protein supplement. Mineral deficiencies can be met by feeding a high-phosphorus livestock mineral or a mixture of 50 percent steamed bonemeal or dicalcium phosphate and 50 percent trace mineral salt.

CHILL FACTOR IN PLANTS

In recent years the weather bureau and safety specialists have made us aware of the chill factor for people. This same chill factor is important for your plants.

Some plants which survive winter temperatures in Minnesota may not overwinter in Nebraska. The winter temperatures in Minnesota are lower, but is the chill factor lower? Nebraska's winter temperatures very often go below zero and many times this is coupled with 20-30 miles per hour winds. This is a severe chill factor for plants.

Couple this chill factor with little or no snow cover, warm winter sun which can result in fluctuating freeze-thaw cycles, improper management of your plants and next spring some of your plants may be dead.

Wrap thin barked and newly planted trees with commercial tree wrap to protect them from the winter sun and wind. If the ground is bare around trees you can add mulch although you need to watch for possible mice or rabbit damage.

Lincoln — After an unexpectedly good year for hog prices caused by abnormally cold winter weather and high incidence of disease during the spring and summer that reduced litter sizes, the nation's pork industry likely will resume an expansion this year that started in 1976, according to Dr. Larry Bitney, extension agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The result could be sharply lower hog prices throughout 1978, averaging $32 to $36 a hundredweight for the year, with producers facing losses by fall, he said.

Pork prices averaged $40 in 1977, $43 in 1976 and $48 in 1975, he noted.

For the year, Bitney said, pork production is expected to climb by 10 percent. Other pressures likely will come from an increase in poultry production and a widening in the currently narrow farm-retail price spread for pork, he said.

If weather and disease problems are absent this year, prices should drop to their lowest level of $30 a hundredweight or lower during the last three months of 1978, Bitney said. For that to happen, he said, March through May farrowings would have to increase by an expected 10 percent.

"Efficient producers should be able to realize a reasonable return for their labor and management through at least the first half of 1978," he said.

"Total production costs must be paid in the long run, but established producers usually can hang tough through these loss periods of the hog cycle if they can cover their cash costs and possible labor."

"But potential hog prices of

"Total production costs must be paid in the long run, but established producers usually can hang tough through these loss periods of the hog cycle if they can cover their cash costs and possible labor."

"But potential hog prices of much as 15 percent higher than 1977 during the third quarter of this year if the expected farrowings from last December through February of 1978 are up 11 percent as expected, the economist said. If that occurs, he said, market prices could dip to an average of $32 to $35 a hundredweight.

"However, if weather and disease problems of the magnitude of 1977 occur, supplies will not be as great and a summer price peak of $40 is possible," Bitney said.

He said producers should have lower total production costs throughout the year because of lower feed prices. If corn prices remain at about $1.90 a bushel and soybean meal prices stay near $150 a ton, total production costs should be about $35 a hundredweight, Bitney said.

"Of the $35 figure, he said, feed and cash non-feed costs would amount to $24.50, labor would be $3, overhead and management would reach $2.50 and building and equipment costs would be $5.

Bitney said other factors that could boost an otherwise sagging price picture for pork in 1978 include: — an expected three to seven pound decrease in per capita beef consumption and an anticipated five- to nine-cent a-pound increase in retail beef prices caused by higher cattle prices. — an "all-time high image" for pork as a result of quality improvements by producers and market promotion efforts of the National Pork Producers Council. — increasing sales of pork in fast food franchises.

Bitney said per capita pork consumption probably will increase from 62 pounds in 1977 to between 68 and 71 pounds this year. Per capita pork consumption hit low ebb in 1975 when it dipped to 55 pounds a person.

CORN

"If corn reserves continue to build with increased farm activity in the loan program, it may be optimistic to expect market prices to approach the loan rates of $2 per bushel until spring planting. After that, weather conditions for the new crop can strongly influence the price trend," said Linsenmeyer.

The U.S. produced another record corn harvest in 1977, totaling 6.4 billion bushels with an average yield of nearly 91.5 bushels per acre.

"Because of the tight roughage supplies in some areas and the low feed prices relative to livestock prices, corn used by feeders in 1977-78 is expected to consume nearly 3.8 billion bushels or nearly 60 percent of domestic production," he said.

Another 1.7 billion bushels are expected to be absorbed as U.S. corn exports in 1977-78.

Domestic Feedgrain Demand to Increase

Lincoln — Total use of U.S. feedgrains in the 1977-78 market year is likely to be 3 to 4 percent larger than in 1976-77, but will remain below 1977 production levels, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln assistant professor of agricultural economics.

Dr. Dean Linsenmeyer noted that consequently, feedgrain carryover stocks at the end of 1977-78 are expected to have grown to about 43 million metric tons, which is 13 million metric tons more than last year.

The Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said that generally favorable growing conditions, except on the southeastern states, as well as some increases in harvested acreage resulted in a total feed-grain harvest of nearly 200 million metric tons, which is all time high.

"In comparison with the 1976 U.S. production, the 1977 oats harvest was up 35 percent; barley up 7 percent; grain sorghum up 7 percent and corn up 1 percent," Linsenmeyer said.

Added to last fall's record harvest were the 29.8 million metric tons carryover stocks as of Oct. 1, 1977 from the previous year's production. "This combination brings the total U.S. feedgrain supply to nearly 230 million metric tons as compared with 210 a year earlier," he said.

Nearly 5 percent more cattle are on feed this winter than last the specialist said, and forecasts indicate that domestic feed consumption will demand 6 percent more feedgrains than in 1976-77.

"In relation to international demand, world coarse grain production for 1977 will likely be down about 2 percent from a year earlier. Although western Europe has recovered from the drought with a 21 percent increase in coarse grain harvests this year, the U.S.S.R. coarse grain crop was down nearly 22 percent from last year with minor coarse grain short falls occurring in Brazil, Argentina and South Africa," he said.

Linsenmeyer predicted that lower U.S. grain prices, smaller foreign harvests and the continual expansion in overseas livestock and poultry feeding industries will help maintain total U.S. feedgrain exports in 1977-78 at only slightly lower levels than in 1976-77.

duce limited results" because of a strong desire for self-sufficiency and the need for foreign exchange to pay for imported oil by potential customer nations for American farm exports, Peterson analyzed. "Lip service will be paid to promoting U.S. agricultural products in foreign countries but results will be disappointing," he predicted.

While agricultural exports will be an important source of revenue for American farmers and foreign exchange earnings for the United States, he said, the value of all 1977-78 exports, estimated at $22 billion, will be $2 billion less than a year ago.

"Increase in value of exports to the USSR and eastern Europe will be more than offset by declines in value of shipments to Japan and western Europe," Peterson said.

U.S. ag imports which should reach about $13.5 billion, will result in a positive trade balance of $8.5 billion, far short of the $40 billion to $45 billion needed just to pay for imported oil, he said.

Peterson said recovery from the 1974-75 recession years has been slower in most of western Europe than in West Germany, Japan and the United States. And in other developed countries, as in the United States, gains in consumer income likely will be spent for non-food items, he said.

In the United States, continuing a slow economic recovery from the 1973 recession, an inflation rate of 7 to 8 percent will limit gains in real consumer income to about 3 percent, most of which will be spent for items other than food, Peterson said.

Food prices will rise by 4 to 5

Ag Picture Remains Dim

Lincoln — With world food supplies expected to be abundant in 1978 following two successive years of high production of grains and other commodities, a fear of scarcities has changed to concern over surpluses and low prices.

This situation, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension agricultural economist, means American farmers cannot expect a return to 1973-75 levels of farm product export volume and prices except in years of widespread crop failures in other major producing areas.

Dr. Everett E. Peterson, in an overview of U.S. food and agriculture policy extending into 1978, said enthusiasm for an international grain reserve has subsided because of substantial improvement in world grain supplies.

Peterson said the United States has unilaterally established a grain-reserve through its extended resale program. "This (action) reduces our chances of persuading other exporters and food-deficit countries to share in the cost of holding such reserves," he said.

He said the United States again has assumed the role of "residual supplier to the world" and will bear most of the burden of adjusting agricultural production to world food supply changes.

The UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources economist expressed pessimism on the outcome of current international trade talks in lowering barriers to American farm products going to Japan and western Europe.

The negotiations on a new General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) "will produce limited results" because of a strong desire for self-sufficiency and the need for foreign exchange to pay for imported oil by potential customer nations for American farm exports, Peterson analyzed. percent as marketing costs rise in response to higher wages and higher transportation, packaging and other costs, he said.

Many consumers, with most of their disposable income committed to fixed payments, are expected to respond to the anticipated hike in social security taxes by cutting food expenditures, he said, unless there is an offsetting increase in wages or salaries or reduction in federal income taxes. Demand for food will expand slightly in 1978, however, because of population growth, reduced unemployment and expanded domestic food subsidy programs, Peterson commented.

The new farm legislation will have little effect on retail food prices with the exception of sugar, Peterson said, which has a 13.5 cents per pound support price to producers that was included in federal farm legislation. This is expected to account for a .5 percent hike in total food costs to the consumer, he said.

In relating other provisions of the Food and Agriculture Act (farm bill) to food policy and farmers' incomes, Peterson said farm price income support features "show that urban congressmen and senators will support income transfers to agriculture in return for food supply security and an expanded food subsidy program for low-income people." The $8.7 billion USDA cost of domestic food subsidy programs for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1977 was "an important source of demand for U.S. farm products," he said.

While foreign food assistance programs (PL 480) was extended with minor changes, concessional sales and donations of food at 1954-72 levels are unlikely because of improved world food supplies, Peterson said, although American farmers would welcome expanded foreign food aid.

Under the new act, farmers will be protected from income losses because of export embargoes. If such export restrictions are invoked on any commodity, the loan rate must be set immediately at 90 percent of the parity price.

Finally, Peterson said "more emphasis will be placed on human nutrition and food safety in 1978 and beyond." Farmers and ranchers need to become informed on these developments "to adjust production and marketing to resulting changes in demand for food rather than resisting such changes," he suggested.

"Like it or not, food and farm policy no longer is determined exclusively by the 'agricultural establishment,' but will be influenced even more by interest groups with legitimate concerns over food supplies, prices, nutritional value and safety," he said.

Cynthia Jorgensen of Wayne is the latest winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion. She was at Frederickson Oil Co. just north of Wayne last Thursday night when she discovered that her birth date of May 19, 1945 was the closest to the winning date of Aug. 23 of that same year. As a result, Mrs. Jorgensen won the $25 consolation award. Had her birth date matched the winning date, she would have won the $475 grand prize. Now that amount goes up to $25 to $500 for the drawing tonight (Thursday) at 8:15. Drawing the winning date last week was Gerald Bofenkamp of Gerald's Decorating Center. It's easy to be a winner. No registrations or purchases are necessary. However, a shopper must be present in a participating store at the time the drawing is announced. Consolation winners in drawings three weeks ago were Tom Hattig and Marjorie Vooghs, both of Wayne. Hattig was at Coast to Coast on Dec. 21, 1956 was announced. His birth date is Feb. 26, 1957. Mrs. Vooghs was at Surber's on Dec. 29 when she learned that the winning date was May 28, 1917, missing her birth date of May 12 of that same year.

Van Meter: Success Depends Upon You

"Success will work for you if you work for it," said the new executive vice-president of Wayne Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries. Gary Van Meter, who took over that position at the beginning of the year, told members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday that in his message to members of the Chamber, growth of the town is based upon the active participation of its businessmen as well as townspeople. Van Meter emphasized "Commerce is as Commerce does" by pointing out that business in the Wayne community can grow if enough people are willing to help. The 26-year-old Red Cloud native, who spent the last four years in public relations for an Omaha insurance firm, explained to Monday's gathering that the reason he chose Wayne was to get back to the small-town life. He noted that the congestion of the big city overshadows the lucrative salaries and benefits offered by big companies in large cities. The life in small towns is more appealing because there is room to grow, he said. During his first month as Chamber manager, Van Meter said he intends to visit with Chamber members and discuss with them some of the problems and goals of the Wayne chapter. Before Van Meter's talk, acting president Leon Meyer, inducted the Rev. Kenneth Edmunds as the club's 66th member. Rev. Edmunds has been pastor of First United Methodist Church in Wayne for three and a half years.
