

MRS. DICK Carman, Wayne County Heart Fund chairman, gives a packet of supplies to Area Captain Mrs. Don Sherbahn. Mrs. Gerald Bofenkamp, (seated) another area captain, checks over her supply packet. The packets were distributed last Thursday as one of the final steps before the fund drive starts Feb. 1.

Fund Drive Readied

Take Heart...By Giving

The boundaries have been outlined and the goals have been set as the Wayne County Heart Association geared up for its annual fund drive.

Mrs. Dick Carman, county heart chairman, said the final arrangements are being completed with the drive set to begin Feb. 1. Area captains Thursday picked up their supplies from Mrs. Carman, marking one of the final steps before the workers are given the green light.

She said she has high hopes residents within the county will again respond to the fund drive and put the county over its financial goal as they did last year.

Mrs. Carman said the goal this year is $3,508.35. County residents surpassed last year's goal by $300.

Mrs. Carman pointed out the county drive is being held as a part of national endeavors. She said the goal of the county organization is the same as that of the national group in that it wants to provide a means to reduce "needless death" and disability from cardiovascular disease.

She said that more than half of the 14,500 deaths this year will be due to heart disease, according to Herbert Reese, M.D., president of the Nebraska Heart Association. Cardiovascular disease remains the number one killer in this country.

Deaths from heart and cerebrovascular disorders and arteriosclerosis in Wayne county were reported to be a total of 43 out of 81 reported deaths, Mrs. Carman pointed out. She said figures for 1977 have not been published by the Bureau of Vital Statistics. "There was a total of 3,819 men and 3,570 women within the state for this same period of time whose deaths were attributed to some sort of heart disease."

During February, county and city volunteers will canvass the neighborhoods distributing heart-saving information and collecting money to be used in support of research and program activities. "We need all the volunteers and money we can get," Mrs. Carman said. "Remember...we're fighting for your life and we ask that you give generously when a volunteer calls on you."

Wayne city captains are Mrs. Harvey Brasch, Eleanor Edwards, Mrs. Don Sherman, Mrs. Hank Overin, Mrs. Douglas Helmers, Mrs. Byron Heier, Mrs. Tom Ortmeyer, Mrs. Leo Hansen, Mrs. Dick Wurdinger, Mrs. Darrel Fuelberth and Mrs. David Zach.

Wayne county precinct chairmen are Mrs. Jerry Dorsey, Strahan; Mrs. James Corbit, Hunter; Mrs. Ernest Siefken, Plum Creek; Mrs. Ronald Lange Hoskins; Mrs. Russell Hoffman, Hancock; Mrs. Larry Fuoss, Chapin; Mrs. Ted Wittler, Sherman; Mrs. Richard Carstens, Brenna; Mrs. Albert Fuoss, Wilber; Mrs. Archie Weber, Garfield; Mrs. Dean Junck, Deer Creek; Mrs. Albert Nelson, Leslie and Mrs. Randall Blattery, Logan.

The community chairmen are Mrs. Edward Oswald, Winside; Mrs. Erwin Ulrich, Hoskins; and Mrs. Esther Batten, Carroll.

Bid Openings

Highlight Agenda

Two bid openings highlight the printed agenda of the Wayne City council meeting scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Bids for the Roosevelt Park storm sewer will be opened at 8 p.m. and bids for electric materials will be opened at 8:30 p.m. Other items on the agenda include two resolutions, a review of the police-station wagon bids as well as a ball park renovation.

The complete agenda appears elsewhere in this issue.

Rural Workshop

Area financial institutions are sponsoring a financial workshop for farm couples. The workshop will be held Feb. 22 at the Woman's club room, in the City auditorium in Wayne.

Click, Click; Push, Pull That Quick!

It's no longer a matter of Wayne county residents going into the county treasurer's office and asking for a new driving permit. Now they have to smile to get it.

As of Jan. 1, all drivers renewing or getting their license for the first time must have their picture taken and mounted on the new drivers licenses.

The process takes about five minutes from typing of the new license, to the flash of the camera bulb and finally the laminating of the picture and license.

The process is speeded up with the use of a Polaroid camera which develops color pictures in a minute, Meyer pointed out.

The cost for a new license ranges from free for those persons changing their name or address to $7 for a four-year renewal.

A driver who moved from another state and needs a Nebraska license for one year has to pay $2.50. Otherwise, drivers who want to renew for two years must pay $4. A three-year renewal costs $5.50.

County Treasurer Leon Meyer said that the big rush to get old driving licenses renewed generally is on Wednesday when driving license examiners are at the courthouse.

Financial Disclosure

'Sunshine Act' Draws Clouds

Candidates who have filed papers with the county clerk, indicated they aren't all that thrilled about the new so-called "Sunshine Act" but it isn't all that bad, either, according to County Clerk Norris Weible.

Weible said he has heard some complaints about the financial disclosure law but, he added, the forms aren't that difficult to fill out.

"Actually, the forms are fairly simple," Weible said. He said also the information isn't all that revealing. "Persons who don't have to report any real estate holdings or indebtedness, have only a few blanks to fill in other forms."

He said it becomes a little more involved when a person filing for election has real estate holdings. "The land holdings require only a legal description. The reporting of indebtedness is a little more specific, Weible said, in that "it requires the person filing for office to list his (or her's) indebtedness that is more than $1,000 and the indebtedness of $1,000 or more of persons in the immediate family."

Weible said the disclosure law encompasses all elective officials, including members of land use and planning and zoning commissions or boards. He said school board members and board members of municipal utilities are not required to file a disclosure statement.

Weible explained that elected officers must file a disclosure statement by April 1 of this year, "even if their office is not up for election."

The purpose of the "Sunshine Act," according to Weible, is to establish the confidence of the public in state and local government. Nebraska is 1 of 35 states to have a disclosure act.

The report covers campaign financing of candidates for office, lobbyists and conflicts of interests of officeholders. "The report should do two things in preventing conflicts of interest; people can know their officials aren't involved in public office improperly to their own benefit and it serves to install more confidence in government," according to James Baylor, executive director of the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Commission.

Persons have until March 10 to file for elective office. The primary election is May 9.

Weible reminded chairpersons of the two major political parties they must file the number of delegates they want certified to the respective county conventions. The deadline is Feb. 1, he noted. The county chairman of the Democratic party is Allen O'Donnell. Kent Hall is the county chairman of the Republican party. Both men are from Wayne. Weible said if the number of delegates for certification is not filed in his office by Feb. 1, he will automatically leave spaces for two delegates.

Class of 1980

Leaves its Mark

The Allen high school graduating class of 1980 has already made its mark on the "outside world."

A class ring lost by Allen High School Sophomore Paul D. Brunham was found some 620 miles away from Allen by a western Nebraska housewife.

The ring turned up in an egg carton purchased by Mrs. John Triple of rural Mitchell, Ne., which is near the Nebraska-Wyoming border.

Store officials told the Scotts Bluff Star-Herald the eggs came from the Nash-Finch warehouse in Rapid City, S.D. Warehouse officials said the eggs were from the Waldbaum Egg company in Wakefield where Brunham was employed.

Cost-Cutting

Workshop

A cost-cutting workshop will be held March 1 for area farmers.

Don Spitzke, county agent, said the afternoon meeting will be held in the City auditorium in Wayne with extension specialists discussing such topics as crop cost-cutting, purchase of land and other areas in the financial spectrum.

Proclaims

Heart Month

Wayne Mayor F.B. Decker today (Monday) issued a proclamation designating February as American Heart month and urged area residents to support the 1978 Heart campaign to be conducted nationwide.

In the proclamation, Mayor Decker asks for support of the Wayne Heart campaign in the fight against the nation's number one killer, cardiovascular diseases.

The mayor noted these diseases accounted for more than 350,000 deaths last year and more than half of the deaths from all causes.

More than two million volunteers nationwide will join in the effort to distribute heart-saving information and collect funds for heart research, education and community service projects. These programs are aimed at reducing premature death and disability from diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

Providence Board

To Have Laymen

For the first time, Providence Medical Center, Wayne, will have lay persons on its governing board.

Hospital Administrator Marci Thomas, who was appointed to her post at a corporation meeting held last Thursday, said five area persons have been appointed to the board. She pointed out this is an expansion of the board. "The five Sisters will remain on the governing board."

Those invited to serve on the board are Densil Christiansen, Kenneth Olds, Dr. Lyle Seymour, Felix Dorsey and Becky Kidel. Sisters who will remain on the board are Sister Fridberta Hanele, Sister Salvina Seufert, Sister Gertrude Marie Wolfer, Sister Giselinde Schaut and Sister Anneta Salber.

Board officers will be elected at the first meeting in February. Mrs. Thomas said the meeting date hasn't been set yet.

The decision to include lay members on the board was made at the corporation.

Mrs. Thomas said an appreciation dinner was held for members of the Hospital Advisory committee. She said this committee will remain active and that new members will be appointed at a meeting to be held Feb. 27.

Can Tell Them A Thing or Two

Everyone has heard, more than once, "I'd like to tell them a thing or two". Now everyone has that chance, at a public forum sponsored by Region IV Services, Wayne and the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities.

The forum is scheduled for tonight (Monday) at 7:30 p.m. in the West elementary grade school. The meeting site is barrier free.

The "thing or two" Region IV wants to hear, are comments and suggestions from all interested citizens as to how existing programs and services might be improved, and what services and programs to plan for in the future.

Moderator of the forum will be Ken (Dutch) Sitzman, past vice president of the Wayne County Association

Dyas to Discuss Farm Economy

Hess Dyas, candidate for Congress from the 1st District, will be in Wayne Tuesday afternoon. "Interested citizens," both those who haven't met Hess and also the many friends he already has in Wayne, are invited to visit with Hess over a cup of coffee anytime from 1:45 to 2:30 p.m. at Jeff's cafe," stated Dorothy Ley, member of the district-wide Dyas steering committee.

Mrs. Ley added, "In a farm economy such as Wayne county, top priority in the selection of a congressman should be his firm commitment to 100 per cent of parity for the farmer plus political knowhow and ability to influence others to adopt the same position, once he has been elected."

"I am convinced Hess qualifies in both vital areas."

Driver Injured

Icy streets Monday night were blamed for a one-truck accident on Interstate 680 near Omaha, involving a Carroll man.

Arthur Cook, 66, reportedly lost control of his tractor-trailer rig when it skidded, struck a guard rail and flipped on its side and was left hanging over the I-680 bridge above West Center Road.

Cook, who was driving for Schmode-Weible Transfer of Winside, was listed Thursday in fair condition at Omaha Bergan-Mercy hospital with several broken ribs.

The truck, which was empty at the time, sustained extensive damage.

The tours are open to the public at the following times: Jan. 30-31, 9-10 a.m. and 1-2 p.m.; Feb. 1, 11 a.m.-noon and 2-3 p.m.; Feb. 2, 10-11 a.m., 2-3 p.m. and 7-8 p.m.; and Feb. 3, 9-10 a.m. and 1-2 p.m.

Money-Making Project

Group Opposed to Banning the Can

There is at least one group in Wayne which is opposed to banning the can.

Clients at the Wayne Adult Development center recently delivered some 380 pounds of recycled aluminum cans to the redemption center in Norfolk. They received $64.

The recycling of aluminum beer cans has been underway for several weeks, according to Rosalind Meier, director-of-the center.

She said the cans are picked up each morning from Wayne businesses who are cooperating with the project. The cans are taken to the center where they are sorted and crushed.

The project, the first of its kind in Wayne, serves to provide a small income and is practical in that it helps to conserve natural resources as the cans are melted and reused.

Mrs. Meier said a person or group having beer cans to discard may bring them to 206 Logan between the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Replacing Windows

Approve WSC Renovations

The awarding of a 90,000 contract for renovations to the Wayne State college (WSC) Education and Humanities buildings was approved by the Nebraska State College's Board of Trustees in Lincoln Friday.

The contract, awarded to Element Control company of Omaha, will allow for the replacement of windows in the two buildings.

Dr. Ed Elliott, vice-president of WSC academic affairs, said the window renovations will save the college money in utility expenses over the years.

"This is just one phase of the total renovation plan for these buildings," he said. "This is an important first step."

A low bid of $17,506 by Christiansen construction of Pender was also approved by the board for exterior surface repairs to the Val Peterson Fine Arts center.

Replacing Windows

The awarding of a 90,000 contract for renovations to the Wayne State college (WSC) Education and Humanities buildings was approved by the Nebraska State College's Board of Trustees in Lincoln Friday.

The contract, awarded to Element Control company of Omaha, will allow for the replacement of windows in the two buildings.

Dr. Ed Elliott, vice-president of WSC academic affairs, said the window renovations will save the college money in utility expenses over the years.

"This is just one phase of the total renovation plan for these buildings," he said. "This is an important first step."

Application Made

Application has been made to provide touch tone dialing for the Carroll exchange.

Application has been filed by Eastern Nebraska Telephone company of Blair.

In other business, the board approved the appointment of three full-time and 29 part-time faculty members. Full-time appointments include Dr. Steven C. Dinsmore, interim assistant professor, education; John R. Paxton, interim instructor, business and Dr. Cawas Mody, interim associate professor, social sciences.

The board also approved the resignation of WSC basketball coach Jim Seward. The resignation is effective May 4, 1978.

Info Officer

Gloria Lessmann is the new community relations officer at Northeast Technical Community college effective Jan. 9, replacing Pat Dinslage.

Class of 1980

The Allen high school graduating class of 1980 has already made its mark on the "outside world."

A class ring lost by Allen High School Sophomore Paul D. Brunham was found some 620 miles away from Allen by a western Nebraska housewife.

The ring turned up in an egg carton purchased by Mrs. John Tripple of rural Mitchell, Ne., which is near the Nebraska-Wyoming border.

State officials told the Scotts Bluff Star-Herald the eggs came from the Nash-Finch warehouse in Rapid City, S.D. Warehouse officials said the eggs were from the Waldbaum Egg company in Wakefield where Brunham was employed.

Cost-Cutting Workshop

A cost-cutting workshop will be held March 1 for area farmers.

Don Spitzer, county agent, said the afternoon meeting will be held in the City auditorium in Wayne with extension specialists discussing such topics as crop cost-cutting, purchase of land and other areas in the financial spectrum.

OBSERVATIONS

They're human after all

The farm strike is floundering in its own wake of self pity. And so it should. The revolt of the American farmer came as no great surprise. We here in the Wayland area rub shoulders with our farmer friends every day. So we have been aware of his problems for some time.

We feel it is time for the farmer to shed himself of the image of being omniscient to all people. He must be accepted as a human being who cannot be taken for granted any longer. He suffers. He cares. He is concerned. His kids get hungry, too. While we sympathize with the farmer, we cannot condone his method of trying to manipulate emotions to bring about a solution. Most of us in a free society rebel against a threatened strike or boycott. We can become downright grouchy when backed into a corner.

We suggest a one-to-one confrontation on a non-emotional level. We suggest that the farmer be accepted as a concerned citizen who is looking out for the welfare of his family and the good of the nation. The American people are not dumb. Most of us can read... and write... and listen. We can accept a problem on its merits and, most times, we can come up with a workable solution without threat. We can analyze and reason if given the facts.

Parity is a word usually used in agricultural circles. Most of us recognize it in this context. Many, however, cannot correlate it with their own lifestyle. They are not able to evaluate it in coming to a solution regarding the financial problems of the farmer. So why not put the problem in a more easily recognized form so the majority of people can lend themselves to making intelligent input to finding a means of mending the financial backbone of Rural America?

Perhaps if we state a farmer's family life is endangered, we can make more people understand the problem. When it comes to raising children, farmers have the same concerns as other parents. They worry about crime, permissiveness, drugs, alcohol and outside influences.

In a recent study, farmers regard financial pressure as the single greatest danger to family life of rural America. Nearly 52 percent cited money worries as their major concern.

The second greatest danger, according to the survey, is permissive parents with materialism, both parents working, crime, television-movies, drugs, alcohol, permissive attitude about sex and divorce in that order.

Despite this, nearly eight of ten farmers said they would do it over again if they had to choose and 46 percent said they would be unhappy at a job in town even if it provided a higher income. This is surprising since a majority of farmers felt their standard of living was about the same or lower than their city counterparts.

Farmers gave several reasons for preferring rural life to city life. An overwhelming majority (88 percent) feel farm families are closer knit than city families and that overall, farm children have more advantages than children raised in cities.

Though most farmers indicated they would welcome having their children take over the farm operation one day, only two out of ten said they would be disappointed if their children decided not to go into farming.

Put these findings into a general category and most will find the farmer is not a spiteful breed of cat, after all. — Chuck Barnes.

You can bet your thermal underwear on one thing... Nebraska weather is no different than that in other Midwestern states. If you don't like it, just wait a minute.

—CHB—

However, there is one new twist we hadn't experienced before concerning Midwest weather. We watched as the temperature plunged some 16 degrees to a minus one. It's one thing to freeze to death but to get a lay-by-play of "just how cold is it," should be grounds for a plentiful punitive damage suit.

—CHB—

While the weather still has a bagful of wintry tricks, there are some evidence that spring just might make it again this year. We watched as an air conditioner was being touted over the teevee as the temperature was a good minus ten. And there is talk going around that professional baseball spring training is to get underway next month.

We don't like to continually beleaguer the U.S. Postal service. So we're tossing a bouquet its way as a letter addressed to the "Dwayne Herald" was delivered to us.

He said he prefers a Flowering Crab tree to be planted by the fire department so the members of the department will have someone to go when they have something they want to "talk" about.

A touch of corn. The cold weather which we have been experiencing the past few days has just cut short street-corner conversations. Duane (Kunzman) reports in the Tecumseh Chieftain. Soon as it warms up a bit, there will be a lot of catching up to do.

Need to document tax returns

A Texas doctor several years ago claimed tax deductions for thousands of dollars he had spent on his luxurious yacht. Not only did he claim the deductions, he got them. The reason, says the Nebraska society of certified public accountants, was documentation. The doctor was able to produce detailed records showing that he used the yacht solely to entertain other doctors who referred patients to him.

The documents included these ship's logbook, giving the names of guests and the dates they were aboard; records of cases referred to him by each guest; and bills, receipts or canceled checks covering all the costs of operating the yacht. Nothing was missing.

The CPAs estimate that, unlike the doctor, thousands of other taxpayers lose perhaps millions of dollars in legitimate deductions each year simply because they are unable to document their expenditures or have lost the records that would remind them that deductible expenses were incurred.

So CPAs recommend, whether you prepare your own tax return or have it done for you, that the process begin with a thorough search of your records and your memory — your memory because, although documents drawn up at the time of the event are decidedly preferable, it is often possible to reconstruct records after the fact.

And, the CPAs suggest, it is best to round up all the evidence before starting to fill out the return, to save a lot of your time as well as that of your tax advisor, whose meter will be ticking while you search.

What papers are needed at tax time? To begin with, those showing income you received. This means W-2 forms from your employers, which will also show federal, state, and local taxes withheld, and Social Security contributions made. (If you worked for more than one employer it's possible you paid too much into Social Security and have a credit coming.)

Other income that should not be overlooked is interest received. For that you should have your copies of Form 1099's that were sent to Internal Revenue Service by your bank or savings and loan. Dividends you may have been paid will be shown on statements from your security broker or on Form 1099's. Bank deposit entries should reflect other earnings such as rents or royalties.

If income of some types such as gambling winnings can be reduced by balancing them off against losses, valid documentation is especially important, say the CPAs. One gambler who tried to offset winnings by producing fistfuls of losing horse race tickets lost his case when many of the tickets were found to carry heel prints, indicating they had been picked up from the ground after a race.

After documenting earnings, try to find what evidence you can of costs you incurred in producing that income. The cost of going to and from work is not deductible, but other business travel can be. If you use your car partly for business, because of inflation you may want to consider itemizing your costs rather than taking the standard mileage allowance, but first be sure you can prove what you spent. A log showing business and personal mileage driven will be a big help, as will credit card bills if you charge your auto expenses.

Documentation of business entertainment is more important than ever. IRS has become very hard-nosed about requiring not only receipts for expenditures reported but detailed information about persons entertained and business accomplished.

If you had investment income, pull together evidence of what you spent on financial publications, advisory services, safe deposit boxes in which you stored your securities, and travel costs in visiting your broker.

The next item that may require documentation is exemptions. You aren't likely to be asked to prove that your spouse or children under 19 are truly your dependents, but if they don't live with you or have substantial income of their own, you might have to show that you provided more than half of their support. The same for elderly parents or others who depend on you.

Canceled checks and divorce records should make documentation of alimony payments quite simple, but these are among the papers to have at hand.

For evidence of the main types of deductions — medical costs, contributions, interest, state and local taxes and casualty losses — while major expenses should be easy to document with receipts and canceled checks, a thorough search of your records and recollection should bring tax saving by uncovering the smaller, easily-overlooked deductible expenses.

For example, in the medical category, there's medical transportation, prosthetic devices such as contact lenses, and health insurance, any of which can be a big item for many taxpayers. Or under the contribution heading, there are the out-of-pocket costs of working for a charitable organization.

The CPAs suggest an item-by-item review of every receipt you were given in 1977, every check you wrote. Pull out those that have any possible tax connotation, however remote. Let your tax advisor decide whether they can be useful.

One final document that will be needed is a copy of last year's tax return. That will remind you or your tax advisor of carryovers, depreciation rates and other procedures you have been following that must be continued consistently in the '77 return. Last year's return might also dredge up a deduction or two you had forgotten about.

How about that luxurious yacht?

WE ALL WANT TO HEAR ABOUT IT!

New Pastor Arrives in Winside

Installation services for the Rev. Lon DuBois will be held on Sunday, Feb. 19, during the 10:30 a.m. worship service at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Winside.

DuBois and his family arrived in Winside earlier this month, where he will serve as minister at Trinity Lutheran. He delivered his first sermon there on Jan. 22.

DuBois' family includes his wife, Myrna, and daughters Letha, five years old, and Laurel, who will be two years old in February. They came to Winside from North Platte, where he served as assistant pastor at the First Lutheran Church.

DuBois, who is 36 years old, fills the vacancy created when the Rev. Paul Reimers moved to Osceola after delivering his farewell sermon the end of May. Reimers had served as pastor at Trinity Lutheran Church for eight years.

DuBois was born at Friend, Nebr., later moving to Lincoln with his family. He graduated from high school there in 1960. He met his wife at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, where he graduated in 1965 with a bachelor of science degree in general agriculture.

Mrs. DuBois had one year of nursing left when they were married in August of 1965. He returned to the University with her, where he majored in zoology in zoological science and received a secondary school teaching certificate.

Following the graduation of his wife, DuBois attended Central Lutheran Seminary in Fremont while she taught home economics at North Bend High School. Because of a merger of smaller Lutheran seminaries of the synod, DuBois spent his next three years attending a Lutheran Theological Seminary at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada.

He graduated from seminary in 1970 and returned to Nebraska to serve parishes at Wolbach and Hardy. He also served as interim pastor at Glendale and Blue Hill during 1975-76.

The new Winside minister plans to further his clinical pastoral education at Sioux Falls, S.D. next fall, where he will attend chaplaincy training one day each week. DuBois said he hopes to do chaplaincy work in Wayne County and the surrounding area.

THE REV. LON DUBOIS will be installed in services at Winside Trinity Lutheran Church on Sunday, Feb. 19, at 10:30 a.m. DuBois is pictured with his wife, Myrna, and daughters Letha, who is five years old and in kindergarten, and Laurel, who will be two years old in February.

Married Men Work More and Longer?

Family responsibilities make a big difference in the working status of men, according to Janet Wilson, Extension consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Regardless of the presence or number of children, nearly all married men between the ages of 25 and 55 are in the labor force, she says.

In addition, married men are more likely to work longer hours and to hold a second job than other men. Thirty-four per cent of married men in the United States moonlight in order to meet family expenses, compared with only 15 per cent of other men.

Single men have a lower rate of labor force participation than any other men, she adds.

Studies also show that the larger the family, the greater is the likelihood that a married man over 55 will continue working according to Wilson. "Many men delay their retirement until their youngest child leaves home or completes school," she notes.

'You Bet It's Cold Out There'

Neither Snow or Cold Stops This Runner

By RICK POMERVILLE
WS Information Director

It may be hard to think of outdoor track or cross-country running on these cold winter days, but no matter what the weather is, Kurt Lancaster of Wayne State College is still running his 56 miles every week.

"I only run about eight miles each day when the roads are snowy or if it's windy outside," the senior education major said. "But when it's nice out I will go back up to about 10."

Lancaster, a cross-country and track runner, doesn't hurry when dressing for his running. He wears two sweatshirts, a nylon windbreaker, a pair of sweat pants, wool socks, running shoes, heavy gloves and a woolly hat to help withstand the cold. He said running helps keep him from getting too cold and he has been seen running on days when the temperature was well below zero and the wind chill factor below -50 degrees.

"You darn right it gets cold," he said. "But I like running outside because I can get my roadwork in. It gets monotonous running in a gym."

Lancaster has been running twice each day, preparing for the coming track season, which begins for WS Feb. 4 at Doane College. He runs about three miles during the early morning hours and about five more later in the day, every day.

"A double workout is better for you," he said. "I like being up before anyone else anyhow."

He said there are drawbacks to running in the cold. His face turns a tomato red and resembles a bad sunburn. "The cold makes you awful sluggish," he said. "The thing I do not like is running into the wind; it really stings the face."

This will be Lancaster's first official season for the Wildcats. He was ineligible to run during the fall cross-country meets because he is a first-year transfer from Midland Lutheran College. Conference rules required him to "sit out" one semester.

Though he practiced with the Wildcat cross-country team, he did not compete in meets.

He had considerable success running in non-college events, finishing first in the Westmar "Run for Fun" race, third out of 160 runners in a distance run in Columbus and third of 88 runners in the Wayne "Turkey Trot."

Lancaster said he thinks his winter running has improved his endurance and speed and that he is ready for the coming track season.

"I'm ready to go," he said. "Our first meet is against Doane and they are a real strong team. I want to break 10 minutes in the two-mile for the first meet. If I do I think it will give me a psychological boost and I should run well after that."

CHUCK SHERER's move on Ward Wacker appears to resemble a tackling play in football. Actually the 145-pound grappler was trying to pin Wayne's matman to pull out a victory. Wacker held on in the closing seconds to avoid giving up any points for a near fall, and consequently won the match, 11-10.

Devils Spoil Trojan's Bid For New Season Dual Record

Wayne High grapplers stopped Wakefield from bettering its season record of five dual wins Thursday night by staking a 39-21 decision on the Trojans' mat.

The Trojans, who went into the meet with a 5-2 record, will have to wait until Tuesday, Feb. 7, to see if they can set a school record when they face invading Winside in the final dual of the year.

Meanwhile, Wayne evened its season mark with three wins against three losses in what coach Don Koenig said was a good match for his wrestlers. Again the Blue Devils gained most of their points in the lighter weights where they won two by decisions, a pin and a pair of forfeits.

The fastest pin came in the first match where Wayne's 98-pound Larry Hank nailed Dave Stelling in 1:10 of the first period for his 13th win in 16 matches.

Although Hank's record is one of the best, two Wayne grapplers are ahead of Hank. Danny Mitchell gained his 15th win at 185 pounds by tagging Verdell Ekberg in 1:32 of the second period. For Mitchell, the win made his overall record 15-2.

Perhaps the best news for Wayne fans is that the team's second leading wrestler in the win-loss column will be returning to the mats. Senior Kelly Hansen will wrestle at 132 following a three-week layoff due to a shoulder injury. Koenig expects his team leader who is 13-2 to be back on the mats sometime this week.

Looking at his team, the coach noted that all but one matman has a winning record.

Winside Drops Two

Both Winside junior high teams dropped contests to visiting Coleridge Friday.

The seventh grade fell, 8-2, and the eighth grade lost, 12-10, in overtime. Leading scorers for Winside were Jim Krajciak with four and Brian Bowers with two.

Wildcats Stop Fast Break But not Coleridge's Hefner

Winside controlled Coleridge's fast break Friday night, but couldn't stop the Bulldogs' Monte Hefner as he hit half of Coleridge's 20 points in the fourth period to down the Wildcats, 55-49.

Hefner put the cap on the Bulldog's come-from-behind play in the second half after trailing coach Sam Colvin's quint, 22-21 at the end of two periods.

In the clubs first meeting, Coleridge used its fast break to blow the Cats off the court. This time, however, Winside's defense slowed the Bulldogs, allowing the home team to take command the first half.

"The key is that we controlled the fast break and we did a lot better job this time than last," Colvin noted after his club dropped its' ninth contest in 10 outings.

Coleridge put up a total of 71 shots, making only 21 for 28 percent. However, the Bulldogs controlled the boards handily with 53 rebounds including 30 on the offensive boards.

The Cats hit better than the field, 38 percent, but weren't able to get vital second shots to stay in the West Lewis and Clark Conference battle.

Injuries are plaguing Colvin's club. Bob Hawkins is still out of the lineup, Colvin pointed out, adding that his team missed Hawkins' nine points and eight rebounds a game.

Paul Roberts poured in 15 points to lead the Cats while Chuck Peter had 10 and Chuck Mann contributed nine.

Fewer Pheasants, Fewer Hunters

The number of hunters registered at the lab was 2,027, 64 percent of the 1976 total of 3,173. Hunters walked away with 343 pheasants in 1977, compared to the 454 bagged last year. The 1977 total was 76 percent of the 1976 figure. The lower numbers were logged in spite of a longer 1977 hunting season.

In addition to the pheasants, 1977 hunters bagged 13 quail, 112 rabbits and eight squirrels. Dr. Warren Sals, field laboratory supervisor, said the heaviest hunting pressure occurred during the first three weeks of the season and accounted for the majority of the game taken.

Workshop Slated Feb. 9

Have a surplus of fresh fruits and vegetables each summer? The Nebraska State Horticultural society can help gardeners plan to market their crops through a Workshop on Direct Marketing of Horticulture Crops to be held Feb. 9 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Union.

Don Janssen, UNL Extension horticulture assistant, said three examples of direct marketing will be discussed at the workshop—farmer's markets, roadside marketing and pick-your-own operations. The program will include experts in direct marketing from Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Janssen said "the opportunity for these market systems in Nebraska is excellent. The climate is good for vegetable production and tree fruit was once a major crop in the southeast region of the state."

In colonial days, selling produce directly to the consumer constituted a majority of the farmer's income, Janssen noted. Today, from-the-farm and on-the-farm marketing can be a profitable outlet for the grower's produce.

"Shorter working hours, more leisure time and consumer's greater mobility have contributed to the increased popularity of these types of selling," he said.

The workshop is open to all producers who are interested in increasing their income through marketing their own produce. Janssen said. The $5 registration fee may be paid at the door or in advance by writing Direct Marketing Workshop, 102 Plant Industry Bldg., University of Nebraska, Lincoln NE 68583.

Farm Brief

Total farm debt in the U.S. rose $16 billion (15.6 percent) during 1977 and now stands at $118.7 billion as of January 1, 1978. In terms of either dollar amounts or percentage increases, this 1977 increase in the total from debt is the largest ever recorded. Farm debt rose 12 percent in 1976; 11 percent in 1975.

UNL Irrigation

An irrigation scheduling workshop sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will be conducted in Lincoln March 14-15.

Importance of irrigation scheduling is emphasized by Paul Fischbach, UNL Extension Irrigationist, who said pilot projects in 1976 and 1977 have shown an average saving of 35 percent of water and energy. "This translates into a saving in pumping costs of $7 to $9 per acre, or an average savings of $1050 to $1350 for 150 acres of irrigated land," Fischbach said. Applying the right amount of water at the right time also avoids leaching nitrogen per acre, he added. More details on the workshop will be released soon, he stated.

Ecofallow Conference

An ecofallow conference for credit representatives, custom applicators, dealers, farmers, and other agricultural professionals will be held Feb. 27 at the Holiday Inn, Ogallala, and Feb. 28 and March 1 at McCook, according to Robert Klein, Red Willow county extension agent. Ecofallow is a rapidly growing concept for conserving moisture and energy in wheat and row crop areas of west-central, central and southwestern Nebraska, involving the use of chemicals to control weeds within limited machine tillage operations.

The session at Ogallala will center on equipment, techniques and recommendations for winter wheat and ecofallow rotation. University specialists, chemical and equipment company personnel and farmers experienced in using ecofallow will share the speakers platform. The Feb. 28 program at the McCook Elks lodge will zero in on application of chemicals for ecofallow and the following day's session at the same site will center on ecofallow in winter wheat, corn, or sorghum rotation. Klein warned that participation is limited to 250 persons each day and advance registration by Feb. 17 is required.

The play "Macbeth" was not printed in Shakespeare's lifetime.

Designed for Pre-School Children Three 'P's' Program Growing

Project Predict and Prevent, a program designed to help preschool children and initially a part of the Wayne-Carroll school system, has grown in three years to an activity encompassing six northeastern Nebraska counties: Wayne, Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox and Thurston.

Instead of holding learning sessions in the homes of children as was done at first, trained teachers now meet individual children and their parents weekly at centers in Wayne, Hartington and South Sioux City.

Scheduled appointments ensure that each child receives the full attention of the teachers. Conferences with the parents, held at the same time, include evaluating progress made by the child during the previous week, planning activity for the week to come, issuing teaching aids as required, and consultation in general.

Project Predict and Prevent is concerned with children from infancy, to five years of age. Experts have long since determined that a child starts learning at birth and that developing and learning capacities are fairly well set by age three. One of those experts, Burlon L. White, head of an internationally known preschool project at Harvard University, writes "It follows that being a parent is the most important job in the world."

Project Predict and Prevent follows those precepts. The staff holds group sessions with parents several times a year in addition to the conferences held by teachers at area centers, and parent counseling is available upon request.

There are thirty children enrolled in the program at present and ten more are on the referral list. Your Recipe Could Be Worth $25!

Hey cooks! If $25 or $10 in extra food money at the end of the month sounds good to you, then sharpen your pencil, write down your favorite recipe, and get in the running for The Wayne Herald's "Recipe-of-the-Month" contest, starting next month.

The Herald needs more recipes from area readers before the contest can begin. A lot of readers would love to share your culinary secrets, and, in addition, you could win $25 in food certificates redeemable at local food stores.

The contest rules are simple. Just mail your best recipe, or recipes, to The Wayne Herald, 114 Main St., Wayne, 68787. Don't forget to include your name, address, and telephone number on each page.

Recipes will be printed throughout the coming months in each Thursday edition of the newspaper. At the end of each month, all recipes printed during that time will be considered in a contest to determine which is best.

The winner of the "Recipe-of-the-Month" will be awarded a $25 certificate redeemable at Arnie's, Johnson's Frozen Foods, or Wittig's Food Center. In addition, the person whose recipe is picked as runner-up will receive a $10 certificate to spend like cash in any of the three stores.

So hurry and get your recipe mailed in. All types of food dishes will be considered for the contest.
