Council Finalizes City Contract

After minor revisions a transfer station contract gained the approval of the Wayne City Council during its regular meeting Tuesday night in the Wayne City Hall.

Mayor Freeman Decker was given Council authority to sign the agreement if Ron Roots of Fremont approves the revisions.

In other action during a short meeting, the Council rejected an assessment schedule for the downtown sidewalk project on recommendation of City Administrator Fred Brink. Brink said he felt the schedule did not reflect what the Council had intended and that he would meet with the engineer and have another schedule drawn up. He said he would ask the engineer for a detailed breakdown of the work done on the sidewalk project.

Stan Johnson appeared before the Council to present a petition for the paving of an alley between 12th and 13th streets.

The matter was referred to the City Attorney to verify the signatures. The Council will also get a cost estimate for the proposed paving.

The City Attorney outlined what he felt should be basic points in a city parking ordinance. He suggested the establishment of a "Violations Bureau" within the police department to serve as a collections agency for parking violations.

The Wayne Police Department is maintaining its position of not writing warning tickets for parking violations until such time an ordinance is drafted. The City Attorney said a rough draft of the ordinance would be presented at the next council meeting.

Brink asked the Council to consider asking for bids for a new bucket truck. He said the present truck is obsolete and is costing the city for repair bills.

He was given authority to put together a package for a new truck which is estimated to cost $24,000.

The Council directed the City Attorney to draw up an ordinance for annexation of properties outside the city limits which are now being served water and sewer service. The area in question is 3rd street, Coryell Auto and the Fairview apartments.

Set Aside Dates Set

Signup for the 1978 set aside program started March 1 and ends May 1, according to Alden Johnson, Chairman of the Wayne County ASC Committee.

The County Committee is expecting a good signup in Wayne County. The set aside program affords producers an opportunity to reduce their acreage of grain crops and participate in the loan program to hold grain off the market.

The reduction in grain crops and storing of grains will help bolster market prices, Johnson said. Those who participate in the program will be eligible for grain loans, disaster and deficiency payments.

Participation in the program is dependent on the producer having a set aside equal to 10 percent of his 1978 planting of corn, grain sorghum and barley and 20 percent of his wheat planted. In addition he is required to limit his plantings of grain crops plus his set aside to his normal crop acreage (NCA).

Notices have been mailed to all Wayne County producers informing them what their NCA is. The NCA is the total of the farm's 1977 grain crops.

A producer will indicate his expected plantings and set aside when he signs up, Johnson advised. However, he can change his plantings up until the time he reports his compliance with the program. Reports will be required by June 25 for small grain crops and by September 1st for other grain crops.

Johnson encouraged all producers to go ahead and sign up. They can decide later whether to participate or not.

Session Set

MRS. L.R. ALBERTSEN of Wayne shops Arnie's with the $25 food certificate she received from The Wayne Herald. Mrs. Albertsen was first place winner of the Herald-sponsored "Recipe-of-the-Month" contest. Mrs. Bruce Luhr, also of Wayne, was second place winner of the first monthly contest. She received a $10 food certificate redeemable at Arnie's, Johnson's Frozen Foods or Wittig's Food Center.

Name Recipe Winners

By LAVON BECKMAN

Two Wayne women will be packing a few more groceries in their shopping carts this month as a result of winning last month's "Recipe-of-the-Month" contest sponsored by The Wayne Herald.

Mrs. L.R. Albertsen, who won first place for her Cauliflower Walnut Bake, will have an extra $25 to spend with one of Wayne's grocers. Mrs. Albertsen's recipe appeared in the Feb. 2 edition of the Herald.

Her dish, which calls for sour cream, nuts and shredded cheese, among other ingredients, adds a new dimension to the flavor of cauliflower and makes for a tasty addition to any meat and potatoes meal.

A refreshing dessert, richly flavored with a graham cracker-candy bar crust and topped with a filling of vanilla pudding and ice cream, earned Mrs. Bruce Luhr the second-place prize of a $10 food certificate. Mrs. Luhr's Butterfinger Dessert recipe was among those printed in the newspaper on Feb. 23.

Both Mrs. Albertsen and Mrs. Luhr were presented their food certificates from The Wayne Herald this week. They are redeemable at Wittig's Food Center, Arnie's or Johnson's Frozen Foods.

Mrs. Albertsen, whose husband is retired, said she has entered recipe-type contests for years and has won such prizes as cash and kitchen appliances.

One recipe contest even struck up a new friendship in Pennsylvania for Mrs. Albertsen. Years ago she entered a contest in a Pennsylvania newspaper. A woman in Pennsylvania, who lost the recipe, wrote Mrs. Albertsen for the ingredients.

Since then, the two women have been corresponding regularly and exchanging recipe ideas.

Mrs. Luhr said she has never entered a recipe contest, but loves to bake. She is a registered nurse at Providence Medical Center and her husband is a Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance salesman. They have one son, 15-month-old Justin.

The "Recipe-of-the-Month" contest goes on, and all area cooks are invited to send their favorites to Recipes. The Wayne Herald, 114 Main St., Wayne, 68787.

Each Thursday edition of the Wayne Herald carries recipes from those submitted to the newspaper. At the end of each month, the best recipe, along with a runner-up, will be selected.

Winner of the best "recipe-of-the-month" will receive a $25 certificate to be cashed at Arnie's, Wittig's or Johnson's Frozen Foods. The person whose recipe is runner-up will be awarded a $10 food certificate.

There are no categories for the contest. No official entry See NAME page 10

Tag City On Water

Wayne consumes this month will receive a notice which, in effect, states it's okay to drink the water.

The notice, which will be included with the monthly billing, states the city has been in violation of state federal water safety regulations.

The notice is signed by Mayor Freeman Decker who explains "The Public Water Supply serving the City of Wayne did not meet the requirements of State and Federal law between the periods of Oct. 1, 1977 and Dec. 31, 1977."

The city has been cited by the state department of health for failure to submit sufficient water samples to the State Health Department Laboratory to adequately demonstrate the safety of the drinking water supply.

Bruce Mordhorst, city clerk, treasurer, said the failure to meet the regulation stems from a misinterpretation of a public law which requires two samples of water weekly.

During the period in question, the city sent 14 samples when it should have sent 24. City officials pointed out the samples submitted met or exceeded the drinking water standards as set out by public law.

Mordhorst said he has been in contact with state officials to assure them that corrective action has been taken and that every effort will be taken to prevent recurrence.

Mordhorst also said some 100 other communities in Nebraska were in violation for the same reason as Wayne. He said vagueness in the law resulted in the misinterpretation but now the meaning of the law has been outlined and the city is in compliance.

Lower Lagoon Regulations

Wayne and two area communities using lagoons will not be required to build mechanical wastewater treatment plants.

Winside and Carroll are also among some 100 Nebraska communities affected by the decision to ease pollution standards.

The 16-member private citizen Environmental Control Council made the decision upon the recommendation of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control (DEC).

The council sets the pollution standards and regulations under which the DEC operates.

A spokesman for the DEC said the decision will mean a considerable savings for federal, state and local governments.

Jay Ringenberg, section chief of DEC's water permits and enforcement section, said that each of the communities would not be spared the expense of building the treatment plants.

He estimated the savings from one fiscal year's worth of grant allocation money to be about $27 million, or roughly $270,000 for each community.

Ringenberg said Wayne, Winside and Carroll could figure their savings to be 12 1/2 percent of the estimated figure, since that would be the amount of matching funds required of them to build a new system.

The DEC has been a national leader in the effort to convince See LOWER, page 10

Three Gals Repeat on Herald's 'All-Area' Dream Team

By BOB BARTLETT
If three of the five faces on this year's Wayne Herald All-Area girls basketball team look familiar, it's because those three are no strangers when it comes to winning awards.

The 1977 seniors Sydney Mosley of Wayne, Cheryl Abts of Laurel and Paula Hoemann of Winside — once again lead the selection of the top five area cagers on the second annual All-Area squad.
The three, plus Susie Erwin of Allen and Robin Mills of Wakefield, were unanimous choices of their coaches for first team honors among the many athletes from the five area high schools being considered for the awards.
They carry over from last year's awards the high scoring and tough rebounding which has made them leaders on their respective high school teams.

Mosley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mosley of Wayne, is the top point-maker among the three gals with an average of 14.8 points per game. Her physical size (six foot) allows her to dominate play in the middle, said Wayne coach Curt Frye. In addition, she pulled down over 12 rebounds a game to help open up the Blue Devils' fast break offense.

Abts is a close second in the scoring race with 13 points per outing. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Abts of Dixon "has been one of the top hustlers in three years she's been out," pointed out coach Everett Jensen. "Her hustle and desire in all phases of the game has made her a leader," he added.
On the board, the 5-9 gal has cleared 11 caroms.
There's no doubt that Hoemann regained her ranking as a scoring leader for the All-Area Team, tossing in nearly 12 points a game. In addition the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoemann of Hoskins has been the Wildcats' leader on the boards with almost 14 rebounds a game.

"Paula makes our offense work. She's very aggressive on defense and a terrific rebounder," coach Kathy O'Connor added.

With their height and ability, those three were very effective throughout the season from their center positions. To verify their talents, two were chosen to their all-conference teams.

Mosley was named West-Husker All-Conference and Hoemann to the Lewis and Clark Conference. Abts' team doesn't belong to a league.

Both Erwin and Mills have all-conference credentials to prove that they are equally deserving of the Herald's All-Area award.

Erwin, who was selected to the Lewis and Clark team, average over 11 points a game and three bounds to help lead Allen to the state Class D tournament.

Coach Steve McManigal didn't hesitate to point out that all three of his nominees (including Lisa Erwin and Stacey Koester) for the Herald's team deserved to make the first quint. "Throughout the year they've all performed well," he emphasized. "Each has pulled out wins on their own."

He added that the effectiveness of all three helped his Eagles pull out a 41-38 win over Cedar Bluffs in the regional contest to win a trip to state.

Mills earned Lewis and Clark honors for her leadership from the guard spot. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mills of Wakefield has been scoring about 12.5 points a game.

What made her even more of an asset to coach Elie Studer's Wakefield team was her torrid shooting from the free throw line. The Trojanette made 54.3 percent for 44 points.

THIS YEAR'S All-Area girls basketball has three gals who made the first team for the second year in a row. They are, from left back row, Paula Hoemann of Winside, Sydney Mosley of Wayne and Cheryl Abts of Laurel. Also making the top five are Robin Mills of Wakefield, right, and Susie Erwin of Allen.

Eagles Will Be on the Short Side

Allen Will Be on the Short Side Against Nelson '5'

By BOB BARTLETT
Allen High girls will get a taste of what it is like to be on the short end of the game tonight (Thursday) when they face a tall Nelson club in the first round of the Class D state tournament.

Playing at Lincoln High School auditorium, the 15-2 Eagles of coach Steve McManigal no longer will possess the high advantage they held over most clubs during their 1977-78 campaign. Instead, McManigal's quint will be looking up most of the time at one of the taller front lines to make the state meet.

The 17-2 Tigers of coach Tom Murray will be lead by 6-3 forward Tammy Allard, who's been averaging nine points and nine rebounds per game. At the other forward spot is 5-7 DeAnn Hurt, the only underclassman on the senior-dominated starting line-up. Hurt, a junior, and six-foot center Mary Schutte are scoring seven points a game. On the boards, Schutte has the advantage, 10 caroms to five for Hurt.

The other two senior starters are guards Devrie Soulek and Barb Corman, both averaging five points a game. Corman, at 5-6, is the taller of the two. Soulek is 5-4.

The strengths in Nelson's offense has to be its balanced scoring, said Murray. "No one has a double-figure scoring average," he added. "The key to our game is that we have seven girls who can score."

Murray said that the type of offense his team uses is dictated by "what kind of defense we're looking at." On defense, the Tigers primarily use a 1-3-1 zone. Apparently his defensive strategy has worked. The only losses have been to defending Class D champion Shickley, which returns to the state meet with a 19-1 record, and Hordville.

Nelson's move this year from the Republican Valley League to the Twin Lakes Conference hasn't hampered the Tigers in posting league championships. As expected, Nelson won the conference title with an unblemished record.

Last year his team, which has See ALLEN, page 10

Monroe Ranks Among Elite In NAIA Wrestling Hall of Fame

Ken Monroe left a national champion's mark as a wrestler at Wayne State College from 1970 to 1973, but more recently he pinned down a permanent position with the nation's wrestling elite by being named to the NAIA Wrestling "Hall of Fame."
Monroe, a three-time NAIA wrestling champion, was formally inducted Wednesday in ceremonies held at the NAIA national wrestling tournament in Whitewater, Wis. Monroe is the second WS athlete to be selected for hall of fame honors. Former WSC football player Virgil (Bud) Lindahl was inducted in 1961.

Monroe, who wrestled in the 167 pound class, compiled a record of 92 wins, nine losses and two draws at WSC. He gained his first NAIA title as a freshman in 1970 with a record of 24-4. He received his second title as a junior with a 24-0-1 record, including a 7-2 decision in the NAIA finals over the same wrestler who defeated him in an overtime decision in the finals the year before. He won his third national title as a senior with a 26-2 record.

Monroe, now a patrolman for the Norfolk Police Department, exhibited unusual leadership abilities and competitive spirit as both a wrestler and a football player at Wayne State.
His final match as a senior showed the spirit and pride that enabled him to overcome many difficult opponents. He trailed 3-2 going into the final period of the NAIA finals, but emerged a 5-3 victor, gaining his third national crown in four years.

While at Wayne, Monroe also gathered a number of other honors. He was selected as the Omaha World Herald's 1973 Nebraska College "Athlete of the Year;" he won the Nebraska College Conference Championship three times; won the NAIA District II title two times and won the WSC "Athlete of the Year" twice.

He won two state championships early in his career at East Leyden High School at Franklin Park, Ill., and was named to the Illinois "All State" football team in his senior year.

The "Hall of Fame" recognition was awarded not only for Monroe's outstanding wrestling performances but also for his leadership abilities and sportsmanship.

WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour said Monroe was a "take charge" student during his years at the college and an outstanding individual. "He represented a fine model as a student-athlete," said Seymour. "Other young men following Ken gained much from his leadership qualities."

Olsen Named To District Cage Squad

Wayne State College senior Mark Olsen has been named to the coaches NAIA District II basketball team, according to district chairman Mack Peyton, athletic director at Chadron State.

Coaches from all 10 district teams cast ballots to choose the 10 best players in the district. Olsen was in a six-way tie for ninth place.

Olsen, a 6-4 senior from Hampton, led the Wildcats in scoring the past season. He scored 465 points in 30 games, an average of 15.5 a contest. Olsen was also one of the leading rebounders on the club with See OLSEN, page 10

Wildcats Present Seward Final Season Win Over Washburn, 97-93

Now He's Hall of Fame

KEN MONROE was a leader during his high school and college days, particularly during his four years at Wayne State where he earned three national championship titles in wrestling.

WS Coaches Sign Up 24 'Blue Chip' Players for '78

The Wayne State Wildcat football team should have a promising season next year, now that 24 outstanding high school seniors have signed "letters of intent" with the Wildcats.

An early recruiting trip by coach Ralph Barclay to Illinois junior colleges has turned up five blue-chip football prospects for the Wayne State Wildcats.

Kevin Savio, Pete Passaglia, Mickey Venegas, Bud Matthews and Bob Ohse, all graduates of Illinois junior colleges have signed with the Wildcats for next fall.

Four of the five players attended Illinois Valley Junior College. The other, Pete Passaglia, is a graduate of Harper Junior College. Passaglia was an Illinois Junior College all-conference kicker last season and is expected to give the Wayne State grid team some added punch in the kicking

Midland Crushes Kittens' Hopes of Regional Berth

All hopes of Wayne State's women earning a berth in the regional AIAW Tournament in Moorhead, Minn., went out the window Sunday afternoon at Chadron when powerful Midland knocked off the Wildkittens, 84-64.

Midland, 26-1, jumped out to an 11-4 lead, but the Wildkittens cut the margin to 15-14 with 13 minutes to play in the first half. Wayne then went into a cold spell, scoring only seven points for the remainder of the half. The Warriorettes led 46-21 at half time.

Wayne fought to within 12 points with four minutes left in the game, but Midland's starters re-entered the contest and the Warriorettes pulled away.

Julie Brinkman led the Wildkittens with 21 points. Julie Petronis added 13, Lori Erwin 12 and Lori Langel 11. Rhonda Field led Midland with 28 points.

This was the second straight year that Midland has defeated Wayne in the state tourney finals.

Wayne State was without the services of Connie Kunzmann in the title game. Kunzmann's career was ended in the semi-final game Saturday night against Hastings which Wayne won, 82-68. Kunzmann scored 11 points. Brinkman and Barb Bettin were the big guns, potting 16 points each.

The Wildkittens defeated Peru State, 65-49 in first round action Friday night. Kunzmann led Wayne with 14 points and Brinkman added 12. The Wildkittens led all the way, grabbing a 31-19 lead at intermission.

Wayne State finished the season with a 20-11 record.

Three Pace A Leaders To Victory

With three players scoring better than 20 points each, Team 4 coasted to its third straight win of the second half Monday night, downing Team 5, 87-60 in men's A league basketball.

Dave Scheel led the trio with 26 points while Bruce Johnson had 24 and John Rudebusch had 22.

In second place with two wins and a loss is Team 2, a 81-75 winner over Team 7. In that contest, Tyler Frevort sank 22 points and Mike Sharer hit 20 to overshadow Bob Keating's 34 for the losers.

There's a four-way tie for third place between Teams 1, 3, 5 and 7, all with one win and a loss. Team 3 earned its first win with an 88-76 decision over winless Team 6, which drops to 0-3.

Results: Team 4 — Dave Scheel 26, Bruce Johnson 24, John Rudebusch 22, Bob Nelson 9, Kevin Murray 6; Team 5 — Mark Engler 17, Tim Robinson 14, Mike Hansen 10, Mark Lowe 8. See THREE, page 10

Wayne State cagers gave coach Jim Seward a well-remembered going away present Saturday night when the Wildcats dumped Washburn, 97-93, for their 17th win in 30 games and final mark of 7-7 in the Central States Conference.

The win ended Seward's four-year career at Wayne State with a 64-45 record.

Wayne State never trailed in the contest, but it was reasonably close all the way. A layup by Mark Olsen with nine minutes to play in the first half gave the Wildcats a 36-29 lead, but the Ichabods cut the margin to two before Lennie Adams hit two free throws and completed a three point play to give the Cats a 55-45 half time bulge.

It was Adams who fueled the

Free Throws Push Wisner Past Devils

Wisner Pilger, with four players scoring in double figures, turned back a determined Wayne High club Saturday, 60-57, in the first round of Class B district boys basketball at Platte College in Columbus.

Led by Jeff Heimbald with 21 points, the third-seed Gators battled a nip-and-tuck game with the Blue Devils until the closing minutes when Wayne lost the services of leading scorer Tom Ginn.

Ginn, a junior, led coach Bill Sharpe's quint with 16 points and nine rebounds before he exited the contest with five minutes to go, picking up his fifth personal. He finished the night shooting 80 percent from the floor in what Sharpe proudly called one of Ginn's best efforts.

"Actually the whole team did a tremendous job," the fifth-year head man pointed out. With the exception of senior John Keating, most of the varsity players got on the scoreboard. "Keating didn't score but he had a good floor game with 10 assists," Sharpe said, adding that "we needed all the help we could get against a tall Wisner team."

Wayne connected three more shots from the field than Wisner, making 28 of 59 attempts for 49 percent. The Gators, who finished one percentage point better from the field, sank 25 of 50.

Wayne, which ended the 1977-78 campaign with a 6-13 record, was ahead by one after the end of the first period, 14-13. Wisner took the lead in the second period, 32-30, before the Devils trimmed the lead to 43-42 going into the final stanza.

Wisner used its' height advantage to outmuscle the Devils on the boards, 35 caroms to Wayne's 27. The Gators also fared a lot better at the free throw line where they virtually beat the Devils. Wisner went to the line 19 times, making 10. Wayne was one for three.

Lack of height may again be another factor when Wayne takes to the court next season. The Devils will lose two from this year's squad, Keating who is the tallest on the team at 6-0, and Dean Carroll.

Next year the coach hopes that Randy Dunklau will put on some extra inches to lead his club in the middle. Also, he's planning to keep up his running style with the help of Ginn, Brad Emry, Al Nissen, Dave Hamm and "one of the quickest guards in the country," Jeff Zeiss.

Wildcats in the second-half too. He scored eight straight points in a two minute span that kept Wayne in command even though Washburn's shooting had picked up. Adams finished the night with 23 points.

Wayne State enjoyed their largest lead of the contest on a basket by Adams with 10:47 remaining that put them up 79-67; then Washburn dug in for their comeback. Led by Ed Parker's six points in the last 1:30, the Ichabods cut the margin to four points three times, but each time the Wildcats converted on crucial free throws as the Ochs cut the margin to foul on defense.

Joe Peitzmeier, who had an off night at the free throw line (7 of 12), scored Wayne's last four points from the charity stripe. Gary Billings added 16 points for the Wildcats, while brothers Dave and Bill Hull paced the Ichabods with 20 and 19 points, respectively.

Washburn is 19-7 overall and 9-4 in conference play.

Wayne enjoyed their best shooting night of the season, connecting on 52 percent. Washburn hit 59 percent.

GARY BILLINGS weaves his way in between two Washburn defenders Saturday night to score two points Saturday night as the Wildcats dumped the Ichabods, 97-93. Trying to block the shot is Ed Parker (31).

Thought for Today
By Rowan Wiltse

"Think that day lost whose slow descending sun views from thy hand no noble action done..."
Jacob Bobart

There is no lack of things to do. The setting sun usually finds us weary from all the tasks that each of us has as our daily responsibility. But, do we try to include some "noble action" in our busy days?

If need not be some big newsworthy project. It need not even involve a great deal of time. When we do some kind, unselfish thing for another person, it is a "noble action." When we brighten someone else's day, we also benefit ourselves; our day has not been lost.

Everyone should have some understanding of funeral services, to be prepared for any emergency. We are available to answer your questions at Wiltse Mortuaries, so phone us... no obligation of any kind.

Packed Up and Ready to Go

PACKED in these boxes is over $164 worth of groceries Stan Hansen was able to gather in three minutes at Arnie's Tuesday morning. Hansen, who guessed the correct gas mileage on a 1978 Ford at Roy Hurd Ford Mercury Inc., was given three minutes to sweep up the groceries he could as the prize for first place. After hustling through the aisles, Hansen said his primary targets were meats, coffee and fabric softeners — three items which cost the most. Hansen's guess of the gas mileage was right on the button — 20.1 miles per gallon.

$25 Consolation Goes to Swanson

Leota Swanson of Wayne is the latest winner in the weekly Birthday Bucks promotion. Mrs. Swanson won the $25 consolation award last week when her birth date of March 20, 1924 was the closest to the winning date of May 6 of that same year.

She was shopping at Bill's G.W. when the winning date was announced at 8:15 p.m. Drawing the date was Donna Shuffel of Gerald's Decorating Center.

If Mrs. Swanson's date would have matched the winning date she would have won the $650 grand prize. Now that total goes up $25 to $675 for the drawing tonight (Thursday). To be a winner, a shopper need not purchase anything. Just be present in a participating Wayne business.

Some Trees' Still Available

Although 16 varieties of Clarke-McNary tree seedlings are sold out, some can still be ordered, according to Stan Stirling, Dixon County Extension Agent. Applications for seedlings at $14.50 per 100 for windbreak, woodlot, erosion control, wildlife, or Christmas tree plantings only, are available through the Extension Office. Trees are delivered to the purchaser in early spring by the Nebr. Forest Service.

Varieties available in good supply are Redcedar and Rocky Mountain Juniper. However, Rocky Mountain Juniper is susceptible to Phomopsis blight and is not recommended.

Limited supplies are still available of the following: Southwestern White Pine, Black Hills Spruce, Black Walnut, Nanking Cherry, Siberian Elm, Red Oak, Silver Maple, Hackberry, Green Ash, and Bristly Locust.

Tentative orders are being accepted for five evergreens which are considered sold out, but a few unsold trees may remain after bundles are prepared. These are Ponderosa Pine, Austrian Pine, Scotch Pine, Jack Pine, and Colorado Blue Spruce. A separate application must be filled out for tentative orders.

Additional information can be obtained from the Dixon County Extension Office at the North-east Station near Concord.

Jenness: Heart Attack Victims Can Be Saved

The alarming rate of persons dying from heart attacks can be curbed if a person knows what to do and does it quickly, said Miron Jenness.

Last year over a quarter of a million people died as a result of not getting quick medical treatment following a heart attack.

But a lot of people could have been saved, Jenness pointed out to members of Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday.

Available in Wayne county and throughout parts of North east, Nebraska are cardiopulmonary resuscitation courses (CPR) to train laymen on what to do for a heart attack victim, or any person who has stopped breathing.

Jenness, who is one of three qualified CPR instructors in Wayne County, said that the training takes only nine hours over a three-day period.

He advised a lot of persons who play in the Wednesday Night men's golf league to take up the course because "no one knows when someone will have a heart attack and will need immediate CPR."

CPR can also be used in the case of drowning, electric shocks, sensitivity reactions such as bee stings, asphyxiation and anesthetic idiosyncrasy (I.E. body reaction to mixing drugs with alcohol).

A person carries with him all the tools necessary to apply CPR, he went on. All that is needed are hands, lungs, a mouth and a head to know how to administer it.

Jenness started CPR training in Wayne County about a year ago and has driven over 2,700 miles throughout Northeast Nebraska to continue the training.

Besides Jenness, other instructors teaching the course are his wife, Louise, a staff nurse at Providence Medical Center, and Gary West, physician's assistant at Bethnack Clinic in Wayne.

Why does Jenness offer the training?
"I've seen too many people die because when there could have been something done to save a life," he answered. "Maybe now more people can be saved if more persons know what to do."

Allen

been together since girls basketball started at Nelson four years ago, was second in the conference. Another statistic the coach pointed out was the "Tigers" record over four years: 50 wins, five losses.

To stop Allen, Murray went on, his team will focus on the sister team of Susie and Lisa Erwin. Murray figures that with his girls' advantage, Nelson will continue to dominate the boards as it has done all season long. "We've been averaging 10 more rebounds a game than our opponents," he said.

McManigal is aware that his club is a little smaller than Nelson, but figures his team can overcome the height problem with a fast-breaking offense to outscore the Tigers.

"We're very willing to fast break on a team and move the ball as much as possible. If that doesn't work, we'll try a patient offense to get the good shot."

Generally, he went on, that good shot will come from the outside, namely his guards, 5-7 Susie Erwin and 5-8 Stacey Koester. Both are averaging 11.7 points a contest.

Leading the Eagles is freshman Lisa Erwin with a 13.5 clip. Playing her forward spot, Erwin also is the top rebounder with 11.5 caroms.

Manning the other forward slot is 5-9 junior Pam Brownell with 7.5 points a game. The center is 5-8 sophomore Lisa Wood with four points per game and eight rebounds.

Overall, McManigal's team is one of the youngest clubs in the tournament with only three seniors on the varsity squad.

Allen's only losses have been to Newcastle, which went to the state meet last year and Laurel. The winners of the Lewis and Clark Conference has the momentum going, McManigal pointed out. "This week, however, we've got to settle down and realize we're in a tournament with the best teams in the state."

The key to beating a tough Nelson club and going on in the state tournament relies on a number of factors, the coach said.

"First, we have to set our goals, and second, we have to be mentally and physically ready to play."

Three Eagles

Allen has three girls listed among the top 10 shooters in the Class D state tournament, according to an article in the Omaha World-Herald Tuesday.

Freshman Lisa Erwin is second with a 13.3 average. Sophomore Stacey Koester is ninth with a 10.4 average and junior Susie Erwin is 10th with a 10.3 clip.

In rebounding, Lisa is 11th with a 10.5 average.

As a team, the Eagles have been scoring an average of 45 points a game while giving up 31. Their field goal percentage stands at 35 percent and from the free throw line they're hitting 49 percent.

Nelson is scoring 42 points a game and giving up only 25. The Tigers are shooting 29 percent from the field and 46 from the charity stripe.

A morning session will cover lifting techniques with emphasis on power lifts. An afternoon session will concentrate on developing specific summer and in-season programs for football coaches and players.

Matthews, Savio and Ochse were also honored by that conference for grid iron excellence. Matthews was a first team offensive selection at high end while Savio was tabbed on the second team as a center. Ochse was named to the honorable mention for his role as a defensive linebacker.

Another prospect, this one home grown, is Van Wurst, a two-year all state offensive tackle from Millford. Wayne State head coach Del Stoltenberg said Wurst is a "good prospect with good size (6-1, 215) and he will probably be moved to offensive guard next fall."

Stoltenberg said overall recruiting has been good this year making next fall's outlook favorable.

"We're definitely ahead over last year in recruiting," Stoltenberg said, who was the "Coach of the Year" in the Central States Conference last season. "I think our recruiting success can be attributed to a number of factors. Our recognition as a member of the CSC; the successful season we had and the scholarship limitation of the bigger schools all have helped."

Wayne State finished 7-3 last season, its first year in the CSC and came in second in the league. The Wildcats have nine men returning and six men on offense, including Bob Barry, the CSC's leading rusher last year with 1,130 yards.

Others who have signed letters of intent to play football at Wayne State include Mike Maxwell, Tekamah; Rusty Kerr, Des Moines, Ia.; Andre Murphy, Chicago, Ill.; Perry Paganellis, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Gene Klinke, Northland, Minn.; Dan McCarthy,ubuque, Ia.; Blake Moritz, Osmond; Dane Yovich, Kankakee, Ill.; Scott Agau, Des Moines, Ia.; Greg Kein, Davenport, Ia.; Marc O'Dell, San Diego, Calif.; Ron Barrio, Davenport, Ia.; Mark Conway, Emmetsburg, Ia.; Ron Collier, Freeport, Ill.; Paul Sobansky, Oakland; Gale Hamilton, Plainville; Dan Ferris, Omaha; and Dan Green, Sioux City, Ia.

a 5.4 average. Olsen hit more free throws than all but one player in the district, (teammate Joe Pettmeier). Both connected 135 times from the charity stripe this season.

Olsen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Olsen of Hampton and is a business administration major at WSU.

Others named to the District II squad are: Tim Williams, Bellevue; Roosevelt Watkins and Steve Coon, Chadron State; Earl Westbrook, Concordia; Robert Eubanks, Deane; Paul Bergman and Doug Sweeney, Hastings; Tim Mohanna, Tom Ritzdorf and Dave Hahn, Kearney State; Danny Shouse and Ron Mercer, Peru State and Steve Gustafson, Dana.

Those selected for the District II team will be considered by the NIAA Basketball All America Team selection committee for the 30-man team to be announced following the NIAA National Championships in Kansas City, March 13-18.

the federal Environmental Protection Agency to allow each state to set its own standards for lagoon systems, Ringenberg said.

Ringenberg as well as DEC Director Dan Drain and Water Division Chief Bon Wall have attended various meetings of environmental officials to stress the need for a more lenient approach to lagoon systems.

Lagoons have had to meet the same standard for suspended solids as required of mechanically operated systems which is 30 milligrams per liter. However, because of the high concentration of naturally occurring algae in lagoons, the system could not attain standards during the times algae is present.

The standard adopted by the council is 80 milligrams per liter, a level Ringenberg said will not have any serious effect on the environment.

Ringenberg explained that the department's procedure now will be to evaluate each lagoon to determine which ones will meet the new standard. He added that he is confident that most will be within the limit.

Other Midwestern states have or will be following Nebraska's example, Ringenberg said. Lagoons systems are a sensible and economic method of handling wastewater in states like Nebraska, he said, where there is more evaporation than precipitation. Naturally there are fewer maintenance and upkeep costs on the non-mechanical systems, he added.

Lawmakers deal with variety of issues

CAPITOL NEWS

By Michin Paul

Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — Nebraska lawmakers, nearing the halfway point of their 60-day session, have been busy dealing with a variety of issues, ranging from home-land exemptions to product liability insurance.

Unicameral Speaker Roland Luedtke of Lincoln has been allocating specified periods on the daily agenda for consideration of the more controversial legislation.

This means the senators have been debating the same measures for several days in a row, but usually for only one hour daily on each bill. Because there normally are numerous amendments to bills about which there are strong differences of opinions, it can take up to a week for some of the more hotly-debated proposals to get preliminary approval.

A case in point is the bill that would allow Omaha to increase its 1 percent sales tax to 1.5 percent so sufficient revenue can be generated to get the city through what its officials claim is a very tight financial squeeze.

At this writing it appears the bill will eventually win approval, but whether it will be enacted as emergency legislation remains doubtful. If the emergency clause is tacked onto legislation, it goes into effect more quickly.

Some senators who live a long way from Omaha vigorously fought the bill, mainly because they said it would erode the state's sales tax base. Some legislators believe the legislature made a serious mistake when it permitted any city to impose its own sales tax.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha tried to kill the bill, arguing his city has surplus funds and that the Legislature is being made into a "scapegoat" for poor fiscal management in Omaha's government.

Gasohol Bill to Floor
Members of the Legislature's Agriculture Committee believe it is time that the state either make an all-out effort to start a gasohol program or abandon the project.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said Nebraska should get serious about the program "or let somebody else take the ball in another state."

The committee reported to the floor of the Unicameral a bill that would provide seed money to help interested Nebraska communities produce gasohol, a blend of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent grain alcohol.

DeCamp said Nebraska pioneered the idea of blending the fuel and has a duty to proceed. The bill provides for up to five $500,000 state-supported grants that would be matched by communities interested in constructing grain alcohol plants.

Sen. Martin Kahle of Kearney, a member of the committee, said, "I'm sick and tired of sitting on our hands and not doing anything. I'm willing to lose the money."

The committee chairman, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, was instrumental in 1971 in getting the Legislature to establish the Nebraska Gasohol Committee.

He has made it plain he thinks the state has been dilly-dallying when it should have been actively boosting the gasohol concept.

Another person with the same viewpoint is Holly Hodge, chairman of the Gasohol Committee. He said a two million-mile road test proved the product is feasible. Cars that used gasohol recorded up to a 5 percent mileage increase, he said.

Bigger Tax Break

While working on homestead exemption legislation, the lawmakers almost took away the tax credit from those under 65.

Under the homestead exemption program, property tax relief is given to the elderly and disabled and is computed in part on the basis of their income. But there is also an exemption of about $25 available to every homeowner who applies for it.

That takes about $6 million out of the state treasury annually. In the opinion of Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, the exemption should be geared to help elderly Nebraskans with low incomes. He got 22 of his senatorial colleagues to agree with him, but needed two more to put an amendment into the bill being debated.

The measure also includes a sliding income scale provision to facilitate figuring the amount of an exemption for the elderly. For example, a married couple with an income of more than $4,200 would receive an 80 percent exemption. Under the bill, the amount of the exemption would decrease as income rises, and vice versa.

Under another section of the bill, persons 65 and older would not have to pay property taxes on the first $25,000 in the valuation of their homes. The current ceiling is $15,000.

Sen. Bernice Labedz of Omaha introduced the bill last year. She has insisted that the Legislature act on the measure this session and several times balked when it was suggested that the debate be postponed until later this spring. Her bill has been given first round approval.

Three Want Job

Three more state senators have announced they want to keep a seat in the Legislature, but not the ones they currently occupy.

Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg and Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia recently announced they will be shooting for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. And Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln indicated he had all but made up his mind to get into the race for the same job.

Luedtke announced a long time ago he would not seek reelection to the Legislature and that he planned to get out of active politics. He said the only office he might seek would be that of attorney general, but only if Paul Douglas did not file for another term. Douglas has since said he will try to retain his post and will not be a Republican candidate for the US Senate.

The lawmakers have made several significant changes in the products liability insurance bill, which at this writing was among the hundreds of measures awaiting first round approval.

The senators amended the legislation to provide for a four-year statute of limitations on lawsuits alleging death, injury or damages because of defective products. They also provided for a 10 year statute of repose, limiting the filing suits to 10 years from the time of the original sale or lease of an allegedly defective product.

Another amendment would force every insurer to file an annual report with the State Insurance Department. The report would list the costs of liability insurance, the number of claims processed and the amounts paid out.

OBSERVATIONS

A progressive project

It's encouraging to see continued progress in the Downtown Wayne Improvement project.

The tree program is nearing its goal of 40 trees at designated points throughout the business district. Chamber Executive Gary Van Meter had nearly 38 trees subscribed early this week.

Other pledges for trees are expected in the near future. Van Meter said there is no foreseeable problem concerning over-subscribing for trees. In fact, City Administrator Fred Brink said additional areas for trees would be spotted along the business district if the need called for it.

While we hesitate to lean on "there is nothing as lovely as a tree," we'll do it for the sake of illustration of the cooperation which has made the improvement project so successful.

As a newcomer to the community, we are more conscious of the downtown improvements. We suspect we are no different than other visitors or newcomers to Wayne as to the reaction to the overall appearance of the community.

The progress and pride are evident to the point of being overpowering.

We don't mean this to be a lot of blue smoke. We are sincere when we say we appreciate what has been done to make Wayne a better place in which to live and work. And we are impressed with what is to come.

Bob Carhart, co-chairman of the Downtown Development committee which made recommendations to the city council, had more than a note of pride in his voice as he whisked through years of planning and work.

Carhart and his committee came to the council with firm recommendations born out of cooperative ideas. The council did not accept them carte blanche. After a great deal of study, the council passed Ordinance 823 Sept. 9, 1975, establishing a Downtown Improvement and Parking District.

The ordinance set forth boundaries of a parking district and uses to which additional revenue would be used. These uses included:

Off Street parking for the business district, the acquiring, construction, maintenance and operation of public off street parking.

Improvement and decoration of any public place in the district area.

Promotion of public events which are to take place on or in public places in the district area.

Creation and implementing of a plan for improving the general architectural design of the public areas in the district.

The development of any public activities in the district areas.

Any other project or undertaking for the betterment of the public facilities in the district area, whether the project be capital or non-capital in nature.

Replacing sidewalks in the downtown area is one of the more obvious undertakings. The cost of the project was $264,045.17.

Business places in the downtown area have picked up the banner and have renovated store fronts all of which adds to the overall project.

Main street has been resurfaced which lends to the original purpose of the project.

We are not viewing these improvements through rose colored glasses. Nothing is perfect. There is still room for improvement. However, we appreciate what has been done as we feel the project is of benefit to the residents of Wayne and to those who make Wayne their shopping city.

We sincerely hope this is a continuing program to make the best better. To say "well done" is not enough. "Wayne is a Winner" better describes the intent and positive action of those who make Wayne the city it is... its progressive residents.

Quick political quiz

President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States

WASHINGTON — Here's a quick quiz for you:

1. Political contributions by business heavily favor the Republican Party. True? False?
 2. Big Business spends more freely than Big Labor in political campaigns. True? False?
 3. Public financing of congressional campaign expenses would reduce the influence of all major special interest groups on American political life. True? False?
- If you answered "true" to any of the above questions, the following information will be of special interest to you.
- In 1976, interest groups donated a record $22.6 million to congressional candidates, almost twice the figure for 1974. This money helped the 924 general election candidates for Senate and House seats to spend an estimated $99 million in their campaign efforts.
- The largest money source was the AFL-CIO's network of national and state Committees on Political Education (COPEs) which, joined by other unions, contributed a total of $8.2 million.
- In the same election, corporate and business trade association political committees contributed about $7 million... some $1.2 million less than labor.
- Common Cause made a study of where this interest group money went. Here's the breakdown:
- $13 million for incumbents running for re-election.
 - $4 million for the challengers.
 - $3 million to candidates for a vacant seat.
 - $2.2 million to candidates unsuccessful in the primaries and to special election candidates.

By party affiliation, labor organizations gave very heavily to the Democratic side of the aisle — over $2 million in the Senate, and close to $4 million in the House. Senate Republicans received only $94,000 from labor and House Republicans some $135,000.

A real shocker for many people is the tally of where the business contributions went. In the Senate, Democrats got $1.2 million and Republicans $1.3 million. In the House, Democrats got about $3.8 million compared to a $4.3 million for the Republicans. Close to a tie in both cases.

Two important conclusions can be drawn from this data:

1. The influence of business contributions on American elections is often wildly overstated. Business gives less in total than labor, and the pattern of contributions is less monolithic.
2. The incumbents already enjoy an enormous advantage over challengers.

In light of this information, what would you think of legislation to (1) increase the advantage of incumbents, and (2) magnify the political power of labor relative to business?

There is such legislation before the House right now. The bill number is H.R. 5157. It would limit the amount of money that could be spent on a given race, and provide federal matching funds (at public expense) for campaign contributions.

That certainly sounds fair enough, until you consider a couple of key points.

First, the incumbent gets the advantage of constant free publicity by virtue of his office, and such important privileges as free postage. Consequently, raising extra campaign money is now the only significant means open to a challenger for offsetting these advantages of incumbency.

And second, the legions of organized labor are able to provide many valuable "volunteer" services to a candidate other than cash — such services as get-out-the-vote drives, telephone banks, brochures, etc. With a ceiling of cash contributions and federal matching funds available, the unions could use more of their money to support these manpower-related activities. So they would win going and coming.

Thus do the incumbents seek to protect themselves and their friends with "public interest" legislation. It's called doing well by doing good.

Limits Placed On Farm Jobs

Youths 14 to 16 years of age are restricted from doing many farm jobs on farms other than their parent's farm. These restrictions have been made by the Department of Labor. Included in these restrictions is the operation of a tractor of over 20 pto horsepower.

However, with special training these youths can receive exemption certificates which will exclude them from these restrictions.

As part of the 4-H Youth Development Program, the County Extension Agents in Dakota, Thurston, Wayne, Cedar, and Dixon Counties in Nebraska will present a 24-hour training program on March 11, 18, and 25 which will meet these requirements. The course will be given at the Northeast Station near Concord from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M. each day.

This course is excellent training for all young tractor operators, as safety and tractor maintenance are the main subjects taught.

There is a $4 registration fee payable in advance. If a boy or girl will be 14 this summer, they are eligible to take the training also.

Those completing the training will have an opportunity to obtain the Nebraska Tractor Drivers Permit as part of the training.

A car driven by Jamie Henderson, 312 E. Seventh, struck a parked car on the Wayne State College campus about 4:20 p.m. Monday. The impact drove the parked car into another parked vehicle. Owners of the cars are Robert Rosenbaum of Bowen Hall and Frank Kolar of Danneberg. Ronald Hansen of Winside reported that his car was hit by an unknown vehicle about 2 p.m. Saturday on the 300 block of Main. Hansen said that the driver of the other vehicle struck the rear end of his car and left the scene about 11:45 p.m. Friday. Darrell Alvin and Al Mohfeld told police that they were assaulted by two persons while at Big Al's place, 109 Main.

Bean Days In Lincoln

In 1976, Nebraska produced 20 million bushels of soybeans. In 1977, the state reaped nearly 40 million bushels. The recent Nebraska Planting Intentions report indicates that soybean acreage will increase 21 percent in 1978 from 1977 figures—a record high of 1,450,000 acres.

Soybeans are an increasingly important crop, said Dr. Donald G. Hanway, professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR).

That is part of the reason that Nebraska Soybean days has been expanded to two days from one day in previous years, he said. The annual conference will be held here Feb. 27-28 at the Radisson Cornhusker hotel.

Hanway said another reason the program was expanded was for a "more effective educational effort for our Nebraska soybean growers."

The event is sponsored jointly by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources; the Nebraska Soybean association and the Nebraska Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing board (NSDUMB).

Injections Still Best For Iron Deficiency

Giving baby pigs an iron injection continues to be the most effective and economical way to guard against iron deficiency anemia, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln swine nutritionist told those attending the annual Nebraska Feeder Pig Exposition in Columbus recently.

Dr. E.R. Peo, Jr. said giving pigs a shot of iron dextran when they are about four days old is a more sure way of keeping the hemoglobin count up to an acceptable reading of eight or more.

Peo said that despite many efforts over the years, no one has succeeded in figuring out a way to get a significant amount of additional iron into piglets through the sow's milk. Experiments have shown that most iron compounds fed to sows are not absorbed into the body but instead pass through the alimentary canal and are expelled with the feces, he said.

Peo said, it has been verified that a commercial product containing Iron Proteinate does raise slightly the iron level in sow's milk. However, because of the small amount of iron in the milk related to the pig's needs, the sow could not produce enough milk—nor could the pig drink enough—to meet the iron requirement during the first critical weeks after farrowing.

Iron deficiency is an "old" problem in swine production, the UNL researcher commented. He noted that it has been aggravated in recent years, as swine have been raised on concrete in confinement. Previously, much of the pig's iron requirement was met through rooting in the soil.

"Milk is a perfect food except for iron and one or two other nutrients," Peo said. Because pigs often double their weight in one week, an increasing supply of blood cells is needed. The pig does a good job of keeping iron in its body, he said, but it becomes diluted—and the pig becomes anemic—as rapid growth occurs, unless supplemental iron is made available.

Pigs born healthy have enough iron to sustain them for about two weeks before early signs of iron deficiency begin to show up, Peo said. He pointed out that the most desirable, fastest-growing pigs suffer the earliest iron deficiency. "The slower growing pig doesn't get as anemic," he remarked.

Symptoms of iron deficiency are progressive and well-known to hogmen, Peo said. A first clue is often a pale or yellow cast on the snouts and hoof crowns. As anemia progresses, respiration becomes rapid as the circulatory system labors to get oxygen to the body because of a low number of red blood cells. In the latter stages, the animal becomes weakened and bewildered and a condition commonly called the "thumps"—a high heart rate and fluid accumulation—See INJECTIONS, page 5

Court Sets Precedents

A recent Nebraska Supreme Court decision has posed a new consideration for anyone planning further development of the state's underground water resources for irrigation purposes.

The high court's decision clearly establishes the precedent of potential liability on the part of the irrigator and also makes clear that water for domestic use takes top priority.

The assessment of damages in the case to reimburse the plaintiffs for such things as deepening their domestic wells and installing a new pump carries serious implications for those who insist on making huge investments in irrigation equipment in areas of marginal underground water resources where recharge is extremely slow.

It holds implications for those well developers (irrigators, municipalities or industrial users) who ignore the fact that underground water moves and they do not have a guaranteed right to unlimited pumping.

It poses some less clearly defined questions for all irrigators in an area when their wells start pumping air instead of water. Do they simply deepen their wells and continue pumping or will they be more ready to adopt more conservative, regulated pumping schedules? The court ruling serves as a warning that water conservation and water use planning should take place before crisis situations develop. Some of the comments voiced at public hearings of Natural Resources Districts to establish water control areas have been discouraging and unrealistic. In some areas where water levels have been dropping steadily and alarmingly for years and wells have gone dry and had to be deepened, there have been statements opposing any type of regulation, including well metering. The Natural Resources District concept of keeping water regulation and control in the hands of local people was never intended as a license to do nothing, but rather as a vehicle for people who know the situation best to provide fair and practical answers.

Up to now, the state's vast underground water resources have gone unregulated although studied, surveyed and monitored for years. There are plenty of warning signs that say this situation must change. Developers are beginning to think more carefully before they sink a deep well, invest in a $60,000 center pivot system, and start paying high fuel costs to irrigate land that isn't even suited to summer-fallowed wheat.

The economic facts of high production costs, not just good conservation, say that such things should never happen... not to irrigate and produce crops that are already in surplus and selling for less than production costs.

Now the court decision adds the factor, "What happens if all my neighbors' domestic wells go dry? Will I be paying them damages and find myself unable to use this expensive outfit?"

There is still suitable land and water resources for irrigation development in Nebraska... but better planned and with more consideration for sound conservation and best use of our soil and water resources and the rights of friends, neighbors and all Nebraskans.

INSULATE SWINE BUILDING
A 75 pound hog raised in 30 degree temperature must eat 3.7 pounds of feed to gain one pound of weight. The same hog at 60 degrees requires 2.7 pounds of feed to make a weight gain of one pound.

Feed is too expensive to double as fuel for keeping farm animals warm. Insulation provides a cheaper method. In winter, insulation first works to preserve heat in a building. Secondly, it prevents condensation by keeping walls nearly equal to the temperature inside the building.

Condensed water may cause damage to the building by rotting or swelling of the walls. To minimize condensation in walls, a good vapor barrier, such as unbroken polyethylene sheeting, should be installed near the surface of the inside wall.

Attaching insulation right beneath a steel roof will decrease drip caused by condensed moisture. This drip is especially annoying during winter morning damp periods.

Insulation of buildings is also advantageous in the summer. A 75 pound pig needs 3.0 pounds of feed to make a pound of gain at 90 degrees. At 80 degrees, the same pig needs 2.8 pounds of feed to gain one pound.

As hogs grow larger they are more sensitive to heat than to cold. Therefore insulation is more important in farrowing and nursery buildings than in fattening.

LIQUID FERTILIZER

Liquid fertilizers should be judged primarily on their nutrient content. While water weighs a little over 8 pounds per gallon, liquid fertilizers, because of the dissolved fertilizer salts, weigh nearly 12 pounds per gallon. Therefore, a liquid fertilizer such as 7-21-7 contains .84 pounds of nitrogen, 2.52 pounds of phosphate P2O5, and .84 pounds of potash (K2O) in each gallon. This means 100 gallons of a 7-21-7 supplies about 8 pounds of N, 25 pounds of P2O5 and 8 pounds of K2O. The nitrogen, phosphate, and potash found in this liquid fertilizer is generally no better or worse than another liquid or dry fertilizer containing equal amounts of nutrients.

However, as carriers of zinc, especially with zinc oxide, the polyphosphate liquid solutions such as a 7-21-7, 11-37-0 or 10-34-0, may be somewhat more effective than other phosphate carriers. For the most part decisions on which phosphate carriers to use should be based on the price of nutrients received with considerations for handling and ease of application.

Farm Bill 'Tiger' Loose

The bill to revamp the 1977 Agriculture Act as introduced by two members of the House Agriculture Committee indicates that the prolonged clamor for the government to take immediate action to raise farm commodity prices has unleashed a "tiger" in the farm and ranch sector.

Its sponsors say it would raise farm commodity prices to 90 percent of parity, but they readily point out that it contains these features:

—The Agriculture Department would decide annually how much of each price supported commodity would be marketed.

—Farmers would be given "marketing certificates" representing their individual shares of the national sales total.

—The bill would make it illegal to buy or sell support-covered crops without a marketing certificate. Any farmer making such a sale could be penalized by a fine and order denying him certificates for three to five years. One of the sponsors cheerfully explained, "In effect putting him out of business."

—The bill would set up a retail price review board and give the President power to roll back any retail food increases which the board found unwarranted.

This particular bill is sponsored by Reps. Richard Nolan

(D-Minn.) and George Brown (D-Calif.). Other similar bills aimed at that much publicized goal of "100 percent parity" are being readied by such highly conservative members of Congress as Nebraska Sen. Carl Curtis and Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas.

The "tiger" unleashed is the danger that a coalition of Democratic and Republican members of Congress may pass a bill which of necessity will contain some of these elements that obviously would bring U.S. agriculture under further bureaucratic and political control. This is something none of the farmers and ranchers have said they want.

The problem is over-production and if wheat is going to be $5.04 per bushel and corn $3.45 per bushel provided by the Federal Government with the taxpayers' money, then that government is going to tell farmers how much they are going to produce and sell, and fine them and put them out of business for violations. "Marketing certificate" is just another word for a license to farm and to sell your products.

It represents regimentation of the economy. How all this would effect the nation's livestock-oriented agricultural industry has not been spelled out. There has been no estimate as to what such a program would cost in dollars. It has not been explained how U.S. wheat could be sold on the international market when the world market price is far below $5.04 per bushel. Certainly Canada, Australia, Argentina and other wheat-producing nations could sell all they could produce for $4.95 and U.S. wheat could continue to pile up in farm storage and government bins until the taxpayers got tired of paying storage costs on it.

As for giving the President power to roll back retail food prices, surely livestock people remember 1973 when the Nixon Administration put a lid on meat prices at the wholesale level. The cattle industry is just now showing some signs of recovery. See FARM, page 5

YOU'RE READY TO EXPAND

There's two ways to expand. For some it's possible to buy or rent more land — and then take on the work of farming it. Others have decided to expand up with a Harvestore System, you expand by harvesting more of what you grow, making beef with more of what you harvest, and feeding more cattle with the ease of push-button automation — and your cost per pound of grain is going nowhere but down. You're ready for it.

OF ALL THE DODGE TRUCKS REGISTERED IN THE PAST 10 YEARS, 96 OUT OF 100 ARE STILL ON THE JOB.*

That's better than Chevy. That's better than Ford.

Dodge trucks have acquired quite a reputation for being tough and dependable. And the figures prove it. All but four out of one hundred Dodge trucks registered in the last ten years are still on the job. And that's good enough to beat both Chevy and Ford.

But toughness and dependability aren't enough. Not for us... not for you. So we're busy building a reputation for comfort and style, too. To make sure you not only get where you're going, mile after mile and year after year... but that you look and feel good while you're doing it. ing from that control debate. Is this approach going to stabilize farm production costs? Wheat at $5.04 is meaningless to the farmer if his production costs rise to $7.00 per bushel and he is limited to what he can sell. Is the President to be empowered to roll back the price of tractors, combines and fertilizer? Will soybeans ever be $10.00 per bushel again if the government decides to set a $5.00 or $7.00 or "whatever" price floor under them?

Make no mistake, the hard elements contained in the Brown-Nolan bill "to save the family farm" are the "real price" that farmers and ranchers are going to be offered and perhaps even have crammed down their throats.

Livestock Marketing Outlets Total 629

There are 629 outlets in Nebraska where one or more species of livestock may be sold, not including special sales by breed associations and livestock shows.

This and other statistics on livestock marketing are included in a NebGuide publication authored by Dr. Al Wellman, Extension livestock marketing economist in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Wellman breaks down the total number of outlets as 75 auction markets, one terminal market, 34 local markets, 346 livestock dealers and order buyers and 173 slaughter plants.

Auction markets operate in the majority of Nebraska counties. The one terminal market is at Omaha.

Local markets are defined as those having fixed facilities (pens, chutes and scales for handling livestock), and operating on a regular schedule on one or more days a week. Most local markets are buying stations by packers, and most handle only slaughter hogs. A few act as dealers by taking title to the livestock and then reselling animals, in most instances to a packer.

Livestock dealers are independent operators who buy and sell livestock. They take title to livestock and resell to a third party. Most dealers have limited facilities for livestock handling, many times only a truck.

Order buyers act as the agent of buyers for procuring livestock. They charge a fee based on a per head or weight basis. Many order buyers also operate as dealers.

Of the 173 slaughter plants in the state, some are large enough to slaughter livestock and sell the product as wholesale. A number of these plants have locker facilities and sell directly to consumers. Plants that buy and slaughter livestock and sell either at wholesale or retail are federally inspected. Local plants or lockers that do custom slaughtering only are exempt from federal inspection.

"Data are not available to determine how Nebraska producers market their livestock through the various market outlets," Wellman said. However, information about total marketings by livestock species is compiled and distributed by the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service and Information about packer-procurement of livestock is available from the USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

Statistics for 1975, the latest available from USDA, showed that Nebraska packers acquired the majority of livestock in the three major species (cattle, swine and sheep) directly from country dealers (local markets, dealers and order buyers), as contrasted to auction markets and terminal markets.

The exception was cows and bulls, with 38 percent purchased from country dealers, 18 percent from terminal markets and 44 percent from auction markets. Percentages on other species and classes of livestock, from country dealers, terminal markets and auction markets, respectively:

All cattle—70, 23 and 7 percent; steers and heifers—75, 23 and 2 percent; calves—100 percent from country dealers; hogs—77, 11 and 12 percent; sheep and lambs—92, 1 and 7 percent.

tion in the lungs—marks the pig's demise.

Earlier treatments for baby pig anemia were swabbing the sow with an iron solution, or putting an iron compound paste in pig's mouths. Neither of these treatments is popular in today's large-scale operations.

Ferrous sulfate is a common iron compound used to supply supplemental iron to pigs.

Ferrous fumarate was favored by some researchers because fumarate is a compound found in the body of swine, and it was thought coupling iron to it would be an effective way to get iron to pigs through the sow's milk, Peo said.

When sows were fed Ferrous Fumarate, their pigs did not have iron deficiency, he said. However, it was learned that most of the benefit came from the pigs rooting in the manure of their dams, and picking up the iron that way rather than through nursing. "If you can figure out how to increase iron in blood of pigs through the sow," you'd get a Nobel Prize," he told producers at the Columbus meeting.

It all adds up, Peo said, that it is cheaper and better for pigs to get the iron themselves rather than through the sow.

Experiments which indicated improved performance of pigs fed iron proteinate, including a good survival rate, does raise a question as to whether it is cheaper to supply iron to pigs in the sow's diet or in some other way, Peo said.

The answer still comes up "there's no point in running it [supplemental iron] through the sow," he said. In the case of iron proteinate, it would be necessary for the pig to consume seven liters of milk a day to get enough iron from the sow, Peo explained.

In addition to the initial shot in the neck or flank during the first week after farrowing, Peo said, UNL animal scientists recommend a follow-up oral treatment with an iron compound at about three weeks of age. Iron sulfate can be put in the creep area where a pig can get at it. This works well in most units, but facilities with all-slatted floors present a problem, Peo said.

A good management goal is to help the pig avoid the depression in natural immunity and low point in hemoglobin which often occur at about the same time, Peo said. "Three weeks is a critical point for scours as the low level of immunity is reached," he added. While many producers like to nip the eye teeth and castrate pigs the first day, and are tempted to give iron shots then to avoid further handling, an injection with 100 mg. iron the fourth or fifth day will extend the iron in the body, Peo said.

Pigs need 80 ppm of iron in their diets. Diet levels often vary from 40 ppm to as high as 400. "Pigs can tolerate 140 ppm of iron in their diet with no problem," Peo said.

An index developed to evaluate iron sources consider biological availability to the pig, cost per unit and the substance's compatibility with other elements.

Based on these factors, Peo said, ferrous sulfate scores high, with the one disadvantage that it absorbs water and tends to "clump."

Ferrous oxide is a poor choice; ferrous carbonate is not as available to the pig's system as it should be and rates low on this attribute; Iron Proteinate is classified good but is "fairly expensive."

Suggest 3 Methods For Corn Rootworms

According to University researchers, the three methods of reducing rootworm risk in corn are crop rotation, soil insecticides, and adult control. Crop rotation is the oldest and most reliable method. Corn is the only crop western corn rootworms damage, so rotating with any other crop that is free of most weeds and volunteer corn results in starving the larvae, reducing the risk the next year corn is planted.

Rotation will not be 100 percent effective, as alternate crops that have volunteer corn, fox tail, pollen producing weeds, or if the crop itself is producing pollen in late July and August, will attract beetles from adjacent corn fields to feed.

Beetles feeding in soybeans, milo, alfalfa, red clover, or weeds will lay eggs in these fields and can cause economic injury to corn the next year. Rotating is probably 80 percent or more reliable.

Soil insecticides are the most reliable control in continuous corn. The band application protects the critical root area, but does not protect roots outside the band. Therefore, even with good root protection a large number of beetles may emerge in the field, having survival on the unprotected roots outside of the treated band.

Controlling beetles to prevent larval damage the following year is not reliable. In over 40 tests conducted by Dr. Z. B. Mayo the past 5 years, spraying once for beetles was as effective as a planting time soil application only half of the time. No added benefit was achieved by using both adult control and a soil insecticide. Soil insecticides alone provided more consistent root protection.

Several cultural practices are helpful to reduce yield loss, but have little or no effect on populations. Time of planting, adapted varieties, fertilization, and irrigation management are all important cultural practices that should be considered.

According to John Witkowski, District Extension Entomologist, 1978 recommendations for rootworm control in continuous corn have not been altered significantly from 1977. The major change is the suggestion that corn planted prior to May 7 be treated with a soil insecticide at cultivation before June 10. The reason for this is to increase the amount of insecticide present just before or at egg hatch time. Insecticide use guides for corn and sorghum should be available shortly after the first of January.

Materials for planting time application are Furadan, Coumat, Dylonate, Thimet, Lorsban, and Mocap. For cultivation application—Dylonate, Furadan, Diazinon, Thimet, and Mocap.

WHAT'S REAL FOOD?

It's sometimes assumed there are two kinds of foods in the world: "real" and everything else. What is the difference? Actually, the distinction between natural and man-made foods is not as sharp as it may seem. There's nothing wrong with any foods, as long as they are nutritious additions to your diet. But there is some confusion regarding such foods as imitation eggs, artificial bacon, or any of those so-called synthetic or man-made. Are they real foods? The more you understand about what you eat, the better off you'll be. First of all, imitation does not mean inferior. Imitation foods are just as nutritious as those grown naturally. Man-made foods are handy. They are quick to prepare and taste good — not occasionally by consistency. Since they can be made under conditions more controllable and predictable than the weather, imitation foods don't fluctuate in quantity and quality quite the way natural foods do.

Storage is not a problem as most man-made will keep for a long time. Some synthetic foods offer alternatives for people concerned about cholesterol. And probably most important — man-made foods will help make sure the world has enough to eat. In a world of more and more people, with less and less available farmland, synthetic foods play an important role.

However, man-made foods can be costly to buy. With extra packaging and production costs, your food dollar is spent in a hurry. And many people still prefer the flavor of naturally grown foods.

Whatever happened to real food? It's still here. It's just that today it comes in more varieties and with more alternatives than ever before.

Section 2 — The zoning administrator shall be appointed to these additional responsibilities by resolution of the County Board and his/her appointment shall come into effect on the date of the meeting of the County Board. During temporary absences or disability of the zoning administrator, the County Board shall designate an acting zoning administrator.

Section 3 — The County Board of the County of Wayne hereby designates Flood Hazard Boundary Maps' No. 1 thru 6 dated August 16, 1977, and amendments, as the official maps to be used in determining those areas of special flood hazard.

Section 4 — Permits Required: No person, firm or corporation shall erect, construct, reconstruct, improve, modify, building or structure in the County or cause the same to be done without first obtaining a separate development permit for each such building or structure.

a. Within Zone(A) on the official map, separate development permits are required for construction, substantial improvements and other developments, including the placement of mobile homes.

b. Application: To obtain a permit, the applicant shall first file an application therefor in writing on a form furnished for that purpose. Every such application shall: 1. Identify and describe the work to be covered by the permit for which application is made.

2. Describe the land on which the proposed work is to be done by lot, block, tract and house or address or similar description that will readily identify and definitely locate the proposed building or work.

3. Indicate the use or occupancy for which the proposed work is intended.

4. Be accompanied by plans and specifications for proposed construction.

5. Be signed by the permittee or his authorized agent who may be required to submit evidence to indicate such authority.

6. Within designated flood prone areas, be accompanied by elevations (in relation to mean sea level) of the lowest habitable floor (including basement) or in the case of floodproofed non-residential structures, the elevation to which it has been floodproofed. Documentation or certification of such elevations will be maintained by the County Clerk.

7. Give such other information as reasonably may be required by the County Clerk.

Section 5 — The zoning administrator shall review all development permit applications to determine if the site of the proposed development is reasonably safe from flooding and that all necessary permits have been received as required by Federal or State Law.

Section 6 — The zoning administrator in reviewing all applications for new construction, substantial improvements, prefabricated buildings, placement of mobile homes and other development(s) (as defined in Section 2 of this resolution) will:

a. Obtain review and reasonably utilize, if available, any regulatory flood elevation data from Federal, State or other sources, until such other data is provided by the Federal Insurance Administration in a Flood Insurance Study; and require within areas designated as Zone A on the official map that the following performance standards be met:

1. The first-floor elevation (to include basement) of new residential structures shall be elevated to or above the regulatory flood elevation.

2. The first-floor elevation (to include basement of non-residential structures) be elevated or floodproofed to or above the regulatory flood elevation.

b. Require the use of construction materials and utility equipment that are resistant to flood damage.

c. Require the use of construction methods and practices that will minimize flood damages.

d. Be designed or anchored to prevent the flotation, collapse or lateral movement of the structure or portions of the structure due to flooding.

e. Assure that in regard to mobile homes, specific anchoring requirements are:

1. Over-the-top ties be provided at each of the four corners of the mobile home with two additional ties per side at the intermediate locations and mobile homes less than 30 feet long requiring one additional tie per side.

2. Frame ties be provided at each corner of the home with five additional ties, per side of intermediate points and mobile homes less than 30 feet long requiring four additional ties per side.

3. All components of the anchoring system be capable of carrying a force of 4,800 pounds.

4. Any additions to mobile homes be similarly anchored.

Section 7 — The County Board shall review all subdivision applications and shall make findings of fact and assure that:

a. All such proposed developments are consistent with the need to minimize flood damage.

b. Subdivision proposals and other proposed new development greater than five (5) acres or fifty (50) lots, whichever is lesser, include within such proposals regulatory flood elevation data in areas designated Zone A.

c. Adequate drainage is provided so as to reduce exposure to flood hazards.

d. All public utilities and facilities are located so as to minimize or eliminate flood damage.

e. New Water and Sewer, etc. — New and replacement water and sewer systems shall be constructed to eliminate or minimize the inflow or discharge into floodwaters. Moreover, on-site waste disposal systems will be designed to avoid impairment or contamination during flooding.

Section 9 — The County Board will insure that the flood carrying capacity within the affected or relocated portion of any watercourse is maintained. The County will notify, in riverine situations, adjacent communities and the State Coordinating Office prior to any alteration or relocation of a watercourse, and submit copies of such notifications to the Administrator. Moreover, the County will comply with appropriate State and Federal agencies in every way possible in complying with the National Flood Insurance Program in accordance with the National Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973.

Section 10 — This resolution shall precede over conflicting resolutions or parts of resolutions. The County Board of Wayne County may, from time to time, amend this resolution to reflect any and all changes in the National Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973. The regulations of this resolution are in compliance with the National Flood Insurance Program Regulation as published in the Federal Register, Volume 41, Number 207, dated October 26, 1976.

Section 11 — Definition: Unless specifically defined below, words or phrases used in this resolution shall be interpreted so as to give them the same meaning as they have in common usage and so as to give this resolution its most reasonable application.

Areas of special flood hazard: The land within a community subject to a one percent or greater chance of flooding in any given year. This land is identified as Zone A on the official map.

Development: Any man-made change to improved or unimproved real estate, including but not limited to buildings or other structures, mining, dredging, filling, grading, paving, excavation or drilling operations.

Flood: A temporary rise in stream's flow or stage that results in water overflowing its banks and unconfined areas adjacent to the channel or an unusual and rapid accumulation of runoff or surface waters from any source.

Floodproofing: Any combination of structural and non-structural additions, changes, or adjustments to structures, including utility and sanitary facilities, which would preclude the entry of water. Structural components shall have the capability of resisting hydrostatic and hydrodynamic loads and the effect of buoyancy.

Habitat floor: Any floor used for living which includes working, sleeping, eating, cooking or recreation or combination thereof. A floor used only for storage purposes is not a "habitable floor."

Mobile home: A structure, transportable in one or more sections, which is built on a permanent chassis and designed to be used with or without a permanent foundation when connected to the required utilities. It does not include recreational vehicles or travel trailers.

Mobile home park (subdivision): "Mobile Home Subdivision" means a parcel (or contiguous parcels) of land which has been divided into two more more lots for rent or sale and the placement of mobile homes.

Regulatory flood elevation: The water surface elevation of the 100-year flood.

Structure: A walled and roofed structure, including a gas or liquid storage tank that is principally above the ground, including but without limitation to buildings, factories, sheds, cabins, mobile homes and other similar uses.

Substantial improvement: "Substantial improvement" means any repair, reconstruction or improvement of a structure, the cost of which equals or exceeds 50 percent of the market value of the structure either (a) before the improvement is started, or (b) if the structure has been damaged and is being restored before the damage occurred. For the purposes of this definition, "substantial improvement" is considered to occur when the first alteration of any wall, ceiling, floor or other structural part of the building commences whether or not that alteration effects the external dimensions of the structure. The term does not, however, include any alteration to comply with existing State or local health, sanitary, building or safety codes or regulations as well as structures listed in national or State Register of Historic Places.

100-year flood: the condition of flooding having a one percent chance of annual occurrence.

Mexican Lass Prefers Students to P.E.

Some of the students at Allen High School started to moan when the school's latest foreign exchange student said that her math and English classes at Allen were a lot easier than physical education.

"The P.E. classes here make you do a lot more work than classes in Mexico," said 17-year-old Ana Maria Sepulveda as she seriously looked at fellow students.

Chacha, as her friends call her, is spending the second semester studying at Allen High while living with the Harlan Mattes family.

The daughter of a dentist, she is the oldest of seven children who live in the little town of Caderata, located near Monterrey, Mexico.

Maria was in her 12th year of studies in Mexico before she left her country to study life in the United States. While attending classes at the University of Monterrey, she decided she wants to go into computer work. As a result, Maria concentrated her studies in the field of math and computer science, two fields she really enjoys.

To help her understanding of math and English language, she signed for several math courses at Allen along with two English classes, an art course and two home economics studies.

Living on the Mattes farm isn't Maria's first taste of life on a farm. Her grandfather also has a farm where she lived for several weeks each summer. The major difference in the types of farms is the large numbers of livestock and variety of crops raised on U.S. farms, she pointed out.

The black-haired lass will live with the Mattes family until July 1 when she will return to her native country.

TWO ALLEN High students, Teri Kjer, left, and Mari Clough, get a closer look at where Ana Maria Sepulveda grew up in her native country, Mexico. Ana, right, is the latest foreign exchange student to arrive in this community of 350 to study and enjoy life in the United States.

Fires Burn Fewer Acres During 1977

Wildfires blackened less acreage in Nebraska in 1977 than in any previous year, according to Joseph Range, extension and assistant state forester, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Range said a record-low total of burned-over acreage was reported for the second straight year in the state. The 13,015 acres burned last year compares to an average of 50,000 annually for the previous five years, he added.

Range said the 1,763 wildfires reported by fire chiefs to the Nebraska Forest service in 1977 was approximately the same number as the previous 5-year annual average, but down from the high of 2,687 wildfires in 1976.

The average loss of seven acres per fire also was the lowest on record, Range stated.

"Debris burning was the greatest cause of wildfire with 509 instances, followed by railroad-related fires with 387," Range reported. Other causes included equipment use, 161; fireworks, 109 and smoking, 108. "Lightning, the only cause not related to human activities, started 125 fires," the forester said.

While wildfires occurred every month of the year, the three months with the most fires reported were March with 356, February with 337 and July with 325. Only 27 fires were reported in January, 1977.

Ten fires burned more than 300 acres each, while more than 1,500 fires burned less than 10 acres each. "No fire burned over 1,000 acres, which is unusual for Nebraska," Range commented.

Heavy rains in 1977 helped reduce hazardous burning conditions caused by three previous years of droughts, Range explained. "Evidence that the drought continued through February are statistics showing more than three times the normal number of fires in February," he said. Above-normal precipitation occurred from March through September.

Good progress occurred in reducing fires in the following categories: Railroad-caused—down 24 percent from the average year; equipment-caused fires—down 17 percent from the average; There was a 400 percent increase in fireworks-caused fires in 1977.
