

Carhart to Build Component Homes

Carhart Lumber Company, Inc., Wayne, this week announced the formation of a new manufactured housing division called "Hercon Homes."

Carhart estimated that the present production of housing will shift from a heavy emphasis on multi-family housing to single family housing. The present plant will handle production of 250 homes per year.

The first syndication of the Heritage manufacturing system happened five years ago with the organization of a new plant in Idaho. Since then plants have opened in Washington, Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Minnesota, Kansas, North Carolina and in Canada.

Carhart said the initial agreements were signed with Heritage International in September of 1977. The Wayne manufacturer will be known as "Hercon Homes" in its agreement with Heritage International and in its marketing of homes.

"Hercon Homes" will be made available to prospective home owners through a network of builder-dealers in Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. Carhart said the principal reasons for the "Hercon" program are to satisfy builder needs, to control the cost of a custom-design home and to assist the builder through the term of construction to its end.

He noted an additional principal advantage in the immediate pricing of homes and apartments for the dealer through computerized updating of price listing.

It was pointed out that now, through the "Hercon" Home-division, builders can take advantage of the benefits and features of a total house package.

At Wakefield

Voters to Have Choice In General Election

Wakefield voters will have a choice between three candidates for the office of mayor in the primary election May 9.

The name of Fred Salmon will be included with two candidates who have filed for the same office.

Merlin "Lefty" Olson and incumbent Alfred Benson filed before the deadline March 10. Salmon's name will be included as a result of a petition circulated to have his name placed in nomination as a candidate for mayor.

The petition contained 32 signatures. The minimum was 28 signatures which represent five percent of the total number of voters for governor in the last general election. Other city races include one for the Ward — council seat. Incumbent Phil Rouse and Ronald Sampson have filed for the council post.

Four have filed for seats on the board of education. They are incumbents Randall Larson, Larry Clay and Sid Preston and Larry Pretzer.

The names of the board of education candidates will not appear on the primary ballot since there must be more than two filings for each vacancy before the names will be included on the primary ballot. Voters will select the board members in the general election in November.

Interest has been shown for the Dixon County offices. Six candidates have filed for County Sheriff. They are incumbent Dean Chase, Harold D. Osbahr, Bill Moore, Jr., Gary Kayl, John D. Lund and Paul Blatchford. Chase and Moore are Republicans. The others are Democrats.

Four candidates have filed for supervisor, District 5. They are incumbent Merle Von Minden, Vernon "Doc" Ellis, Dale Furness and Robert Frerichs.

Filing for other supervisor posts are incumbent Jerry Knerl and Max Carnell, District 1; incumbent Donald Thomas James M. Olander and Thomas Brennan, District 3; incumbent Donald Mackling and George Emmons, District 7.

Others seeking county offices are Nellie Mae "Rusty" Anderson, John Street and Fredrick Kraemer for County Treasurer; Jan Stading and Jim Lewon, County Assessor; Audrey Dohma and Lionel Bostwick, County Clerk; Merle Kingsbury, County Attorney; Irma Foulks, Clerk of the District Court.

Incumbents David Watchorn and Vern E. Jones have filed for the Dixon County Noxious Weed Authority.

Those who have not yet registered to vote have until April 28 to do so. Residents to be eligible to register and vote may do so at the City Clerk's Office in Wakefield. In order to vote one must be living in Wakefield as of April 18 of this year. Registration must be done at the City Clerk's Office.

Meeting Set For Program

The Wayne County ASC Committee will hold informational meetings to provide information on the set-aside and grain reserve programs. Alden Johnson, Chairman of the committee, said the meetings are needed due to the lack of producer's understanding of programs.

The meetings will be held at the Fire Hall in Hoskins on Wednesday, March 22; at Ron's Steak House in Carroll on Thursday, March 23; and the Black Knight in Wayne on Friday, March 24. The meetings will all start promptly at 1:30 p.m., Johnson advised.

Most producers do not understand what the set-aside is based on, Johnson said. He will also explain what practices are eligible on set-aside and how other farms fit into the farm's participation. See MEETING, page 5

WSC Offers Regional Aid

The Nebraska State Colleges Board of Trustees approved a request Friday that will allow Wayne State College (WSC) to assist Northeast Nebraska business and industry in improving management and operational efficiency.

Wayne State will be allowed to participate as a regional Nebraska Business Development Center (NBDC) as an extension of the Small Business Administration. WSC is one of five designated development centers in Nebraska. The Nebraska system, once fully developed, will be used as a model throughout the United States.

As an NBDC, the WSC business division will be assigned cases through the University of Nebraska at Omaha. WSC business faculty expertise will be available to assist regional business and industry with specific problems. Dr. Neil Swanson, coordinator of the new business center, said the NBDC program will be a good information resource for regional businesses.

"I am looking forward to the center becoming a source of business information for Northeast Nebraska," he said. "As an NBDC we will also be a training center for the needs of regional businesses."

In other action, the board approved the transfer of $132,800 in excess state appropriated energy funds to nonrecurring library expenses. The funds, originally allocated for energy costs at WSC, will now be used to purchase new library books and equipment. Such transfers are allowed under L.B. 533 of the 1977 legislative session.

WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour said the transfer will increase the resources available at the WSC library. "It will help strengthen the library facilities," he said. "We recognize the importance libraries play in education and we think it is important to use this money for this purpose."

The board approved a request for $30,650 for WSC dormitory and Student Center improvements. The funds will be used to purchase furniture, carpet, kitchen appliances, window screens, and for general building repairs.

The board also approved an increase in room and board rates at all four state colleges. Meal increases for WSC dormitory residents will be about 9.5 percent with room rates increasing about six percent.

"These increases are consistent with escalated costs we see WSC, page 5

Begin Search For Doctors

A search for new doctors to practice in the Wayne area community was kicked off Thursday night.

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce sponsored a meeting Thursday night, bringing together interested citizens, area doctors and a representative of the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

M.D. (Mort) Hough, area development specialist for NPPD, told those attending the meeting that NPPD will make available assistance in bringing new doctors to Wayne.

He said one of the major roles played by NPPD in the search for doctors, is to provide a community "calling card" in the form of a brochure. Hough explained the basic purpose of the NPPD sponsored brochure is to show off the hospital and community to doctors who are looking for a place to practice.

The specialist said NPPD has worked with ten other communities in aiding them to find doctors. He said there are five or six besides Wayne which are looking to NPPD for assistance.

Hough explained there is no cost to the community in producing the brochure. He said a local committee or group will See SEARCH, page 5

Three other students were named recipients of the "Presidential Scholarships."

OBSERVATIONS

The search is on!

A community has to first take small steps before making meaningful strides in its campaign to improve itself.

The Wayne County area is presently being served by three MD's: Doctors Willis Wiseman, Walter Benhack and Robert Benhack. They gave credence to the fact that the community should have more doctors. Because these three doctors serve the area, the problem of lack of doctors becomes an area problem in which everyone in the area is invited to participate.

Dr. Wiseman told the group that doctors are interested in a community and its people rather than having a clinic built for them or other monetary incentives. He laid it on the line as he pointed out that any young doctor getting into practice is "going to be well paid."

They are looking at the community as a community in which they would like to live and work. Dr. Wiseman explained. He said the more they can find out about people, places and things, the better they are to judge whether or not they want to begin a practice in the community.

Dr. Wiseman said a group such as the one meeting Thursday night, could greatly enhance a search for new doctors. What he was saying, in effect, is to point out the good things and don't dwell upon them and to make mention of the bad things.

With this advice, the group gave its approval of making the first step. — Chuck Barnes.

Some 20 Chamber of Commerce members and their spouses, nurses, might obligated themselves to make a concerted search for professional medical doctors who would consider Wayne a community in which they would like to practice.

The group gave its approval to begin work to design, write and layout a brochure aimed directly to those young doctors who might be interested in making Wayne their home base.

Sample brochures were examined. They were introduced by M.D. (Mort) Hough, area development specialist with the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD). He said NPPD would print 150 of the brochures at no charge to the Chamber or the community.

Hough, who was the featured speaker at the Thursday meeting, described how other communities have waged successful campaigns to bring medical professionals into their communities. He said in every instance, the campaign was a concerted effort in which all areas of the community were involved.

It was pointed out that everyone has something to offer in a campaign to bring medical people into the community. The group was told the best way it could help was to lend mind and muscle and "to be themselves."

WASHINGTON — Years ago, a president of General Motors said in response to a question, "What's good for the country is good for General Motors, and vice versa." What he meant, of course, is that everybody benefits from a healthy economy — a perfectly logical and proper statement.

But that's not how the press of the day chose to view it. The poor man was widely misquoted as having said, "What's good for General Motors is good for the country," and the misquote was used to ridicule him.

The risk of unfair treatment by the news media is just one of the reasons corporate executives are often reluctant to speak out on public issues, even those affecting their own industries. Here are some others:

— Corporate image. The primary responsibility of a high-level manager is to the owners, employees and customers of the business. Suppose he uses corporate resources — or even the platform provided by his prestigious position — to take a stand on public issues unrelated to the company's business? He may then be criticized or even sued by stockholders who disagree with his stand and feel he is misusing their money. Such activity can also cause tax problems.

Pending legislation. Often, big companies make the front pages when the government accuses them of antitrust law violations, or when one of their products is involved in a damage suit. People hear the plaintiff's side of the story and expect to hear the other side from the head of the company. But the company's lawyers are usually advising the company's officers to say nothing, because a public statement might interfere with a negotiated settlement. Thus, the company remains silent, and people tend to conclude either that its officers are chicken, or that it is guilty as charged.

Labor negotiations. Union officers routinely make wild charges against corporate management to show their members (who elect them) how tough they are. But the corporation wants the union members to accept with good grace whatever settlement is finally negotiated with their representatives, so it will refrain from issuing inflammatory statements, even in its own defense.

These are but a few of the complex influences that discourage corporate leaders from speaking out on public issues. Many of these executives are making a greater effort to take public stands now, in spite of it all. But some of the restrictions will remain very difficult to avoid.

Who, then, can speak for business? That's one of the most important functions of trade associations, the nonprofit organizations that represent the common interests of an entire industry or profession.

A trade association executive is much freer than his corporate brethren to take strong public stands on pending legislation, national economic policy, union activity, or whatever — indeed, the members insist that he do so. And the broader and more diverse the membership base of the association, the greater the freedom.

The National Chamber is the largest and most diverse of all business groups, which is why we feel obligated to speak out on so many public issues. Practically everything affects the economy, and the economy affects us all.

Sometimes people — even business people — think our positions are a little too strong, or that we are too aggressive, or too negative. But it is our job to be an advocate, just as it is the responsibility of a trial lawyer. We carry our biases on a signboard in front of us. They are not hidden under a false cloak of impartiality. And as for the negativism — well, defending freedom has often been a "negative" task: Witness all the complaints in the Declaration of Independence.

Even negativism has its positive side. My friend the old farmer explained it this way: "I'm agin the boll weevil 'cause I'm for cotton."

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

Spring is officially here today. But somebody may have forgotten to tell Old Man Weather.

Old-timers were nodding their heads in amazement last week when a March "snow-shower" produced some of the biggest snowflakes they had ever seen. They estimated that some of the flakes measure two inches across before they were sepped up by the warming ground.

After growing up in Kansas and spending a good share of our married life in Iowa before migrating to Nebraskaland, we know Mother Nature is a fickle creature. We remember one dust storm in Kansas which laid a light film of Oklahoma clay on top of our Grandpa's balding pate. We were able to thumb our name atop the noggin.

BarneStorming

With Chuck Barnes

We used to mention this with some sort of misplaced pride because we thought it was a part of America growing up. But we have backed off since we were 15 years old at the time and had just learned to spell our name.

Mayor Freeman Decker had mixed feelings last Tuesday night during a discussion about how much of a fine for a city parking violation should be set aside for administration costs. If no designation is made, the fine automatically goes to the school district under Constitutional Amendment.

"A few years ago when I was in the school business (former State Superintendent of the Schools), I felt all of the fine should go to the school district. Now I'm leaning the other way," he explained.

There's just no curbing inflation. Some idea of how bad the inflation spiral has gotten comes from seeing your young son get his first job at a salary you dreamed of at the culmination of your career.

A leader of the "Grand Generation" in Wisner died recently at the age of 101. Her long tenure reminds us of an interview with a salty centenarian who said: "If I'd known I was going to live this long, I'd have taken better care of myself."

Show us a home with young children and we'll show you a home where decks of cards count out between 37 and 51.

And that is that!

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He sold very good hot dogs. He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and cried: "Buy a hot dog, Mister?" And people bought. He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him out. But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression. The foreign situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight. "You're right, son" the father said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Wayne

Dear Editor:

There seems to be currently some dispute over how the cost of the new sidewalks in downtown Wayne is to be paid — specifically, the apportionment of the cost between downtown businessmen and the residents of Wayne.

The dispute is pointless; that it could even arise shows the dreadful ignorance many people have of political economy.

Businessmen — and corporations too, for that matter — pay no business or corporation taxes. They are just "transmission belts" for business and corporation taxes actually paid by customers, in higher prices, and/or employees, in lower wages, and/or stockholders, in reduced dividends.

Consequently, no matter what the ostensible apportionment may be, the residents of Wayne as a group will pay the cost of the new sidewalks.

There is no such thing as a free lunch; there is also no such thing as a free sidewalk. — T.H. Stevenson.

This All-Area Five Packs Scoring Punch, Tough Defense

By BOB BARTLETT
Put the top five area basketball players together on one high school basketball team, and chances are you would have one of the taller, faster and more potent scoring quint in Northeast Nebraska. Unfortunately, most high school coaches can't forge such a quint with the gifted talents bestowed on this year's Wayne Herald All-Area basketball team. The only repeater on this year's "Creme of the Crop," is 6-5 senior Val Johnson of Wakefield. His experience both from the floor and on the boards has made him a premier player on coach Joe Coble's Trojan quint. But, as most will agree, Johnson is in fine company when it comes to playing with four other top stars from the area.

At 6-6, Laurel senior Bob Dahlquist would add an intimidating stature to any coaches front court. Add to that front line a senior Tod Ellis of Allen and backcourt stalwarts, Juniors Tom Ginn of Wayne and Paul Roberts of Winside, and most head men would be willing to sink their teeth into coaching such a well-disciplined, high-scoring and tough defense-minded personnel anytime.

What made these players the prime choices by their respective coaches for the sixth annual All-Area honors? In their words, here are the reasons why:

Val Johnson, Wakefield: I'm happy this year with his performance because for the first time he became a total ball player, said Coble. "Last year he felt that his number one priority was to score," Coble went on, "but this year he has become more of a well-rounded player by leading on assists and rebounding."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Johnson of Wakefield had his share of scoring problems throughout the Trojans' 8-11 campaign when opponents would double team the big man to often hold him below his final season scoring average of 15 points an outing.

On the boards, however, Johnson for the most part maintained his leadership, pulling down about 11 caroms a contest.

Bob Dahlquist, Laurel: Coach Joel Parks didn't hesitate when asked who he things should represent the Bears among the best in the Herald's coverage area. Dahlquist was his top pick because, in the coach's words, "He's a very quick big man with good ability to score inside and outside."

Dahlquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marilyn Dahlquist of Laurel, finished his senior year scoring just over 15 points a game and clearing over nine caroms.

Tod Ellis, Allen: Tod's "naturally good jump shot," made him the scoring leader for coach Cliff Jorgensen's Eagles this season.

The 6-1 forward ripped the cords for over 14 points a game, and on defense average about seven rebounds.

The three-year letterman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Ellis of Allen.

Tom Ginn, Wayne: Coaches in the six-team West Husker Conference made this outstanding Blue-Devil player one of two Wayne cagers deserving of Top Ten honors during post-season All-Conference selections.

Even his teammates had good reason to pick Ginn for all-conference honors. At the end of Wayne's 6-13 year, the Junior was voted the team's most valuable player and selected as honorary team captain.

WS Netters Drop Debut To Wesleyan

Wayne State's men's tennis team opened its 1978 season on a sour note Wednesday, losing to Nebraska Wesleyan, 6-3, in Lincoln.

Mike Lidie and Craig Buford, the top two seeds on Wayne's team, accounted for all three winning efforts. Each won his singles match before joining forces to post a victory in doubles competition.

"I thought we'd do a lot better," said coach Wes Fritz. "But injuries and sickness have taken their toll."

Wayne was hurt by the loss of Ron Thompson, its No. three netter who is recuperating from a bout with the measles. Thompson did team up with Pat Denney in a doubles match which the Wayne pair lost.

Fritz said he also felt that the lack of actual tennis court play hurt his team.

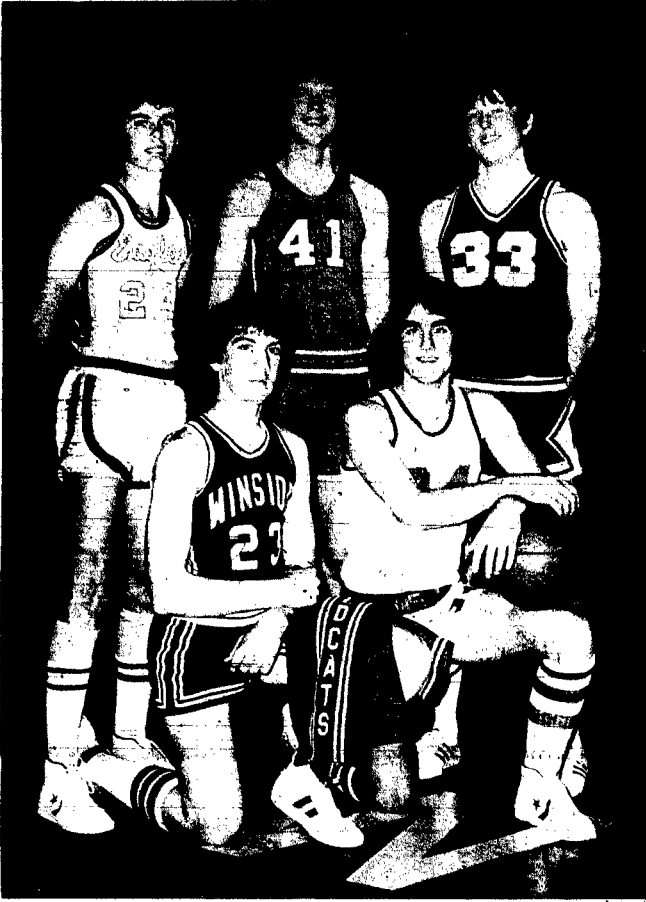

Men's schedule:

March — 31 at Yankton.
April — 4 at Midland, 6 Dana, 7 at UNO, 10 Concordia, 11 Westminster, 13 at Washburn, 14-15 at Emporia St. Tournament, 17 at Briar Cliff, 18 Yankton, 20 Buena Vista, 21 at Kearney St., 23 Doane, 24 Briar Cliff, 26 at South Dakota University, 28-29 NAAIA District 11 Tourney at Wayne.

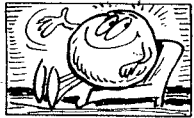

May — 5-6 CSIC Tourney at Ft. Hays St.

Women's schedule:

April — 7 at UNO, 17 at Briar Cliff, 19 South Dakota University, 23 Doane College, 24 Briar Cliff, 26 at South Dakota University.

Kovar's All Smiles When It Comes to Girls Track

It's not hard to understand why Ernie Kovar has a big smile on his face as he prepares his Wakefield High girls for the 1978 track season.

Out of a talent-laden roster of 21 hopefuls, the head coach had 13 letter winners—all promising pointmakers in dual and invitational track meets.

Kovar admits this could be a good year for his girls—and maybe produce some state contenders in the Class C ranks—if his girls go into each meet with the idea that they have to improve each time.

"Last year we showed a lot of potential," Kovar pointed out. "Now we have to keep building to reach that potential by improving our times and dis-

Field Narrows To Three Teams For B Playoffs

The field of teams still alive in men's city recreation B league post-season playoffs have been narrowed to three.

Team 5 rolled over Team 4, 72-59. Tuesday night to remain the only one of three teams undefeated in the double-elimination tournament.

Mark Fieer pumped in 27 points to spark Team 5 over Team 4 in the first game last week and in the second game, Bill Schwarz and Lynn Lessman hit 18 and 17 points respectively to lead Team 3 to a 61-54 decision over Team 2.

Results:
Team 3 — Bill Schwartz 18, Lynn Lessman 17, Larry Creighton 10, Fritz Weible 10, Al Avery 4, Bill Carlson 2; Team 2 — Dave Kincaid 21, Gary Leach 16, Dave Olson 7, Jerry Geiger 6, Lyle Grode 4.

Team 5 — Mark Fieer 27, Roger Langenberg 17, Mic Daehnke 16, Tom Hagmann 5, Mike Loofe 4, Lyle Grode 3.
Team 4 — Don Larson 20, Les Echtenkamp 16, Ron Fink 17, Don Nelson 10, Darrell Daniel 5.

ances," he added.

Wakefield's toes will have to take a long and hard look to find very many weak spots in the Trojanettes lineup. Kovar has winning talent in the sprints, middle distances and relay teams, along with some leaders in the field events.

A gal most teams will find hard to beat is senior Robin Mills who holds three school records and is gunning to knock those off. The sprinter is first in the 220 with a time of '26.6" and is tied for first with Susje Kober in the 100 at '11.4. Her talents aren't limited to running, however. She also is the top long jumper with a school record of 17.1 set last year.

Mills isn't alone in holding school records. There's senior letterman Joy Myers who figures to be a top-notch middle distance competitor, also.

Myers already owns the best time in the 400 set last year in 1:04.7. It's likely she and Mills will gang together with two other Trojanettes to field a batch of winning relay teams.

Other track veterans include senior Lisa Paul, sprinter and long jumper; Kathy Schwartz, shot and discus; Karen Johnson, shot and discus; Gloria Hansen, distance; junior Jody Slama, high jumper; sophomore Annette Newton, sprinter; Gwen Victor, middle distance; Donna Kieckhafer, hurdler and sprinter; Kelly Murphy, sprinter and long jumper; Kathy Gustafson, high jumper, and Jackie Lueth, middle distance and relays.

The coach figures that his strongest relay team will be the mile quartet which has all but one runner returning after last year's record setting performance. See KOVAR, page 5.

College Lands Pair on CSIC Conference Clubs

The Wayne State Wildcats and Wildkittens each landed one player on the all-Central States Conference basketball teams released last week.

Mark Olsen, a senior from Hampton, was named to the men's all-conference list. Olsen averaged 15.5 points a game during the past season and was also one of the club's leading rebounders and free throw shooters on Wayne's 17-13 team. Wayne finished fourth in the CSIC at 7-7.

Others making the elite list included, Russ Bland and Roland Martin, Missouri Southern; Mark Holmes, Missouri Western; Dave Hull, Washburn; Mike Watts and Alonzo Canady, Emporia State; Mark Wilson, Fort Hays and Tom Ritzdorf and Tim Mohanna, Kearney State.

Two other Wayne State seniors, Lennie Adams of West Point and Dale Meyer of Sioux City, were honorable mention selections.

Wayne State's Julie Brinkman, a senior from Rolfe, Ia., heads the women's all-league team. Brinkman was the fifth leading scorer in the conference, averaging 15.5 points a game in leading the Wildkittens to a second place showing the CSIC with a 10-4 record and a 20-11 mark overall.

Brinkman also led the conference in free throw shooting, hitting nearly 77 percent of her shots from the line and was the second leading playmaker in the league. She tied her own record for most assists in a game, dishing out 13 against Missouri Southern on Feb. 17.

Joining Brinkman on the first team are Pam Bulson, Emporia State; Leah Hill, Kearney State; Terri Hosney and Sunny York, Pittsburg State; Patti Killian, Missouri Southern; Terri Lasswell, Washburn; Connie Wilkins, Fort Hays State, and Debra Kay Maslin and Chris Sliker, Missouri Western.

Seniors Connie Kunzmann and Lori Langel were named to the second team and freshman Lori Erwin was tabbed as an honorable mention selection.

Kunzmann was bothered by a knee injury during the second half of the season and missed nine games, but still figured in the conference scoring leaders' with a 15 point average. She also led the team in rebounding.

Johnson explained that the three-year grain reserve program is a lot different than previous "reserve" programs.

Therefore, producers should be fully aware of all of the provisions of the program. There are several provisions a producer must consider thoroughly before entering into the program.

Those interested in farm programs are invited to attend any of the informational meetings. All agri-business related organizations will find the meetings helpful in working with their farmer customers, Johnson said.

More heat may soon be available to help keep more Americans healthy, thanks to our oil companies which are looking for alternative fuel sources such as geothermal and solar heat. Since those companies have the engineering know-how and development capital to do a good job developing these sources, it could mean more jobs for Americans, too.

CONSERVATION (Reduced) TILLAGE COST-SHARE FROM ACP

Reduced tillage or conservation tillage has been added to the ACP docket for 1978 as a special practice.

Conservation tillage can mean fewer tillage operations or changing the type of tillage. The object is to leave the residue from last years crop on the surface, instead of turning it under. This is a very effective method of controlling runoff, with or without other conservation practices. The residue on the surface protects the soil from the direct impact of rain drops, which can suspend soil particles and carry it off. It also blocks movement of water over the soil surface.

The suggested guidelines call for specified percentages of cost-sharing for specified amounts of crop residue left on the soil surface after planting. However, individual county ASCS Committees had the options of adopting the practice to fit their needs or rejecting it entirely. The following counties in the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District have adapted some form of the reduced tillage practice: Dixon, Cuming, Wayne, Pierce, Colfax, Stanton, Platte and Cedar. Thurston, Antelope, Madison, Burt, Dodge and Knox Counties did not adopt a conservation tillage practice.

Most counties who have the practice, simplified it so there are one or two classes of residue amounts by weight which pay different percentages. Several forms of tillage are allowed, the important point being the amount of residue left on the surface. To get details on your counties program and to sign up, contact your local SCS Office.

L.B. 217 — Which deals with control of runoff from fields irrigated by groundwater became law February 14, 1978. The bill states that runoff from fields is not a beneficial use of groundwater and is illegal. NRD's have the authority to issue cease and desist orders in such cases. NRD's may also impose different types of controls in different portions of the same control area, if required by geologic or hydrologic conditions.

LEGISLATIVE PRIORITIES OF LOWER ELKHORN NRD:

- L.B. 109 1c of existing cigarette taxes (July 1, 1980) would go to Nebraska Game & Parks Commission as a Nebraska Outdoor Recreation Division Cash Fund for the development and maintaining of state parks.
- L.B. 247 Licensing of well drillers.
- L.B. 411 Elimination of groundwater conservation districts.
- L.B. 415 Authority to NRD's to promulgate rules and regulations on NRD recreation sites.
- L.B. 666 Authority to NRD's to require water meters on irrigation wells.
- L.B. 721 Raise per diem of Directors of Irrigation Districts.
- L.B. 783 Requires NRD's to prepare Master Plans by August 1, 1979.
- L.B. 785 Modifies Groundwater Management Act regarding criteria for Control Area.
- L.B. 879 Raises mill levy of NRD's for control areas from 1/4 mill to one mill and allows up to 20c per acre foot, user fee on irrigation wells. LENRD supports the increased mill levy but not the user fee.
- L.B. 909 Requires notification of changes of ownership in surface and groundwater to Department of Water Resources.
- L.B. 917 Amends uniform Property Acquisition Act.

Lower Elkhorn NRD opposes L.B. 883 which would raise the fees charged by the Department of Water Resources for water rights applications and would base costs of examining plans for dams on the estimated cost of the dam.

BUILDING NEAR A STREAM?

Most construction in the flood plain of streams requires a permit from the State Department of Water Resources, unless the stream has been exempted by the County Board and the Department of Water Resources.

Types of construction that do not require these permits are:

- 1) Dams and permanent pumping facilities which are subject to other permit requirements. Exception: Structures which alter or retard the flow of water between the shore and an island or between two islands, requires a permit.
- 2) Fences with posts set only in earth. If posts are in concrete, such as chain link or cyclone fences a permit is required. Other structures, which amount to at least 50 percent of its replacement value, may require a permit.

If you are planning any construction in a flood plain, contact the Department of Water Resources Office in Norfolk or Lincoln, to see if a contract is required.

Being "Flat" Is Fashionable!

Most decorators won't agree on which color is best for living rooms, dining rooms or bedrooms; but most agree on the sheen of the paint. With few exceptions, a "flat" paint is everyone's favorite.

Since "flat" paints diffuse the light, they have a velvety sheen that's easy-on-the-eyes and comfortable to live with. That's why Tru-Test "Sat-N-Hue" Latex Flat is so popular for walls and ceilings where a rich, elegant, yet restful finish is desired.

And, if you're looking for a color that's just as tranquil, you should see our many neutral Sat-N-Hue colors, like "Champagne". It's a warm, beige color that adds coziness to rooms where white never could. So if it's decorating time at your house — stop in and see our "Champagne" and the other neutrals waiting to work decorating magic for you.
