Red meal, one of nature's best sources of protein, will be the highlight during a three day pro-motion in Wayne today (Thurs, day). Friday and Saturday. "-The Northeast Nebraska Lue-stock Feeders Association and its Auxiliary are sponsoring the event along with the Wayne "Chamber" of Commerce. The promotion is planned to focus attention on the entire meat industry, including mutton, beef and pork. Dr. Fred Caporaso, assistant professor of food schene and technology at the University of Nebraska-Luncoln, says that while Nebraskans generally see pork as a desirable meat, many have misconceptions about its fat content and proper preparation techniques. Caporaso, along with UN-L graduate student Terri Janssen, have completed a research study on Nebraska consumer attitudes towards pork. The pro-ject involved telephone inter-views with 400 Nebraskans, mostly homemakers, stateWide. Part of the concern underlying the project is the fact that in the last. Si years, per capita con-sumers all of the consumers surveyed said they felt pork was a readity available and desir-able food, he said. Ninety-six percent said they liked the fla-orek. 87 percent liked the aroma during cooking and 91 percent said they liked the fla-orek. degrees was really never needed for protection against trichino-sis, but rather to 'melt away' yesterday's heavy fat.'' he added. AN UPDATE: Further research into motel rates for students has resulted in a retraction by Wayne State athletic direc-tor Jahn Merriman. Merriman. during a Second Guessers meeting several weeks ago. pointed out that Wayne was con-sidered by many CSIS basketball coaches to be the most expensive stop among the league schools. financially it is better off and the coaches have more time from the end of fall season to the following summer to select the better players. "They (head coaches) have the luxu-ries of three and a half months to turn in , a squad list and during that time watch films and visit with other coaches, perhaps doing a little specializing on offenses," Nannen added. On the other hand, "we have a lot of work to be done and most of it has to be done before the end of the season..." ague schools. and not necessarily the best," Nannen answered. The coach later pointed out that North-east Nebraska is well represented with three-players from the area on the squad. --In-fact, this is the best year for NEN players since the start of the annual ali-star game in 1969 when six were selected, he added.

WHAT ABOUT the Association doubling the number of teams to give other talented players a chance to show how good they are? The answer to that was an emphatic no. Reason: By doubling the number of players, the cost would also double from the estimated $10,000.

Fertilizing should be done right after germination and again when the seedlings are three to five weeks old. Before transplanting the plants in the garden, Steinegger suggests 'hardening' them. This prepares them for the shock of being planted outdoors. To hardert plants, he says to water them less frequently and gradually place them in the sun. The plants should be left out-doors in a protected area during varm days and brought in at night for one to two weeks to complete the hardening process.

Supreme Court staps me unicamera's hands." Exon said no governor can in good consicience be lable to adhere to a legislative directive which requires him to violate his oeth to uphold the Construction as he honestly views it and with the advice of his official legal coursel, the elected athorney general. "By so requiring the governor, at the unicameral is setting the saye at some the unicameral is setting the stage at some point in the future for the worst executive-legislative confrontation this state has ever experienced." the governor to the said.

The polar encear, the governor said. The bill that was vetoer mandated the governor to see to it that bills passed into law were implemented unless the Supteme Court had held an act unconstitutional, or a court had enjoined a state agency from carrying out a law, or an action testing the constitutionality of a law was pending in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Increase Water Appropriation The lawmakers have adopted an amendment to a budget bill to increase from $100,000 to $150,000 an appropria-tion for the preparation of an updated state water plan. The amendment was adopted on a 31-0 vote just about the time water from some of the worst flooding in 40 years along the Platte and Elkhorn rivers in eastern. Nebraska was starting to recede. Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, chair-man of the Public Works Committye which handles most major water legisla-tion, said the state is confronted with serious issues that cannot be addressed realistically unless the water plan is undated.

an octine and a step of step proceeding for development of the plan. Among issues that must be delived into, Kremer said, are those dealing with minimum stream flow, conjunctive use of underground and surface water, and clarification of water statutes Neoraska will also have to be prepared to prove, it has an interest and right to water flowing into it from neighboring states. Krem said. Sen. Loren Scmit of Belwood said if the state would have acted some years ago on a number of projects some of the recent flood damage could have been prevented.

recent flood damage could have been prevented. Preliminary estimates of the damages pegged them at nearly $250 million. Even before completion of the esti-mates, Gov. J.J. Exon had declared the flooded region a state disaster area and had advised President Carter he soon would be asking him to declare the flooded vicinities a federal disaster area.

Amend Satery Bill The Legislature chose to ignore the advice of its Appropriations Committee on the mather of salary increases for state employees. The committee recommended a 4 per-cent increase for most slate workers on July 1 and the allocation of another 2.5 percent to degincy heads to be used as they best saw fit. But the lawmakers, responding to a request from Sen. JoAnn Maxey of Lincoin, amended legislation before them to provide for a 5 percent increase July 1 and a 1.5 percent hike on January 1. The Maxey amendment also provided funding ment also provided funding Maxey a and a 1.5 percent hike on January 1. The Maxey amendment also provided funding for merit pay. Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chair-man of the Appropriations Committee, said-he believed most agency heads would have given just about all their employees a 6.5 pet. If the committee proposal had been accepted. But Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, a member of Warner's committee, said "most employees would like to know what they are going to get and when." The tegislators turned down a request from Sen. Bernice Labedz of Omaha to provide longevity pay for State Game Commission conservation officers. Mrs. Labedz: said the officers are in frequent contact with persons who carry firearms, and many times work in the state Patrol'and sheriffs' departments. Her amendment was similar to one she sponsored unsuccessfully a year ago. The Legislature also made available about $750,000 from the general fund to insure that middle and upper manage-ment state employees could be paid salaries comparable to those received by persons holding similar positions in pri-vate industry.

Drunk Driving Penatty The Legislature has amended a crimi-nal code bill to provide that a first conviction of drunken driving would carry a penality of a maximum $500 flne, or seven days in jail, or both. Sen. Patrick Venditte of Ornaha offered the amendment, which was adopted on a 27-3 vote. Venditte's amendment was incorpor-ated into a bill that proposes a number of changes in K-ief drug K-dolle of K e massive criminal code that was passed last year but won't be implemented until next January 1.

next January 1. The bill originally carried a penalty of a maximum $500 fine, or a three month jail sentence, or both, for a first offense drunk driving conviction.

Sen. Howard Lamb of Anseimo first tried to get the state to assume all the costs for the services, arguing that if the state mandated them, it should provide 100 percent of the financing. Rejected by the legislators was another amendment from Sen. Sam Culian of Hemingford. He wanted to make the programs optional among the school districts. Culian also argued that state-mandated programs should be paid for entirely by the state. Sen. Frank Lewis of Believue said the emphasis will be on training parents who have preschoolers with severe or multi-le handlogs. He and Sen. Gerald Koch of Raiston were the chief spokesmen for the tertification.

of Raiston were the chief spokesmen for the legistation. Koch said early intervention is of utmost importance in helping the sev-ers, y handicapig⊄. Delaying specialized training for them, he said, only makes it much more difficuit to help them when they reach kindergarten age. Koch said some rural area senators were unduly concerned about what the special services would cost. If a district was too small to offer a program, it could arrange for the services through an educational service unit or through a cooperative agreement with a larger school district, he said. He also noted parents with handi-capped children frequently move to larger communities where the specialized services they need are more readily available.

Building good citizens

The nearest we have come to Boys' State is to write about it and to view it from the sidelines. But from what we have been able to determine, it is a program built on merit of past perfor-mance. This week, Boys' State delegates and alternates from Wayne County were announced. And, as is usually the case, the high school Junior students chosen entry the createntials which make them likely candidates for Boys' State is to The basic premise of Boys' State is to delineate good citizenship on local, selfneate good citizenship on local, county and state levels. It is, pure and imple. a plan for the functional aspects of good government.

Simple, a plas for the functional support and simple, a plas for the functional support of good government. The purpose of Boys' State is to teach the youth of today constructive attifudes toward the American form of govern-ment. Boys' State attempts to show that our form of government has not outgrown its usefulness; that all a democracy needs is an intelligent citizenty and a clean, honest and impartial administra-tion responsive to the will of the people. Boys' State originated in Illinois in organization of the American Legion. It now operates in all So states and this year will enroll 20.000 boys. Boys' State purports to "educate our youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship." It serves as training in the functional aspects of government. In a way, it should be considered a mythical Stat state with a constitution, statutes and govern themselves.

Citizens of Boys' State not only are required to review knowledge already acquired concerning the political machi-nery of a commonwealth, but they find themselves performing exactly the same functions as real office holders in accor-dance with regulation election proce-dures. They learn the duties of the various city, county and state offices. They infroduce and argue their own bills in legislature. Justice is administered by their own law enforcement agencies and courts.

Boys State. They do it by becoming i representatives in and for our govern-ment. The key words are interest and involvement. — Chuck Barnes.

Wage-Price controls

ichard L. Lesher, Preside Chamber of Commerce of the United States

A state of continence of the United States WASHINGTON — This city is full of speculation about new wage-price con-trols, we are getting worried inquiries from our members, and the latest Cham-ber-Gallup business confidence survey-shows a substantial increase from last fail in the number of managers who expect to see mandatory controls in the next two years — from 37 percent to 44 percent. President Carter, to his credit, has not been able to half inflation by other survey-shows a substantial increase from the state of the concept. But he has not been able to half inflation by other means, either. And controls are inevit-ably the last resort for rulers lacking the will or the ability to reduce inflation by other inter-neating the source to numer in the state of the hard, unpopular policies that are ineeded to do the job. Inflation of the money supply is a tittle like watering the sour to more hours in our shift represents the same amount of nourish-ment as before. With soup, you get the jillusion of more nourisment. which results in resources being shifted away from the production of this less desired and into the production of widdesired and into the production of widgets. First, the existing supply of, widgets gets more expensive. This bidding up of the price helps to limit the available supply to those consumers who value them most highly for who need them most quickly). Next, the increase in widget prices tells producers that they have a chance to increase profits by expanding production. It also tells them they can afford to speed more for the labor and materials re-quired to produce a widget. Their willing-neess (and ability) to bear higher produc-tion costs signals that widgets have established a slightly higher claim to creatin resources than other, competing needs.

The prospect of prosperity (and pro-fits) in the widget industry signals people with money to invest to help pay for an expansion of production facilities. And finally, the prospect of higher wages causes more workers to enter widget production. Ultimately, widget production expands until every consumer who wants one (or more) can get it at the lowest economical

WHERE THE PUBLIC STANDS ON "REFORM" OF LABOR LAWS The Senate soon may be voting on the Chamber of Commerce of the United States Ine Sehate soon may be voting on the labor bill. It should heed what the public ois saying. First, that the public opposes making it easier for unions to organize non-union workers, and secondly, that taxpayers are fed up with ever-growing hureaucrack. Except for the wailing and weeping of a few high-powered professional consum-erists, the sudden demise of a bill to establish a federal consumer agency in Washington has evoked little public sor-

Reform of labor laws

Washington has evoked little public sor-row. The public clearly is fed up with the notion that people's problems can be solved simply by creating a new agency or expanding the existing bureaucracy. A noted Washington columnist, David Broder, captured this mood in a recent article. "End of the Washington Can-Do-ti Erax" in the 'Washington Post.' Citing the defeat of the consumer agency 'Bilf, the "backtash" from the sharp boost in Social Security taxes and similar public reactions, he wrote: "...and never again four decades — that the automatic answer to every problem in the country. answer to every problem in the country, is creation of a new agency in Washingaswer to every problem in the country: is creation of a new agency in Washing-ton."

 Whither this message has sunk in with such groups as the AFLCIO, which consistently seeks federal laws to help teather its nest, seems 60bitful.
 Both the White House and the big labor rederation currently are backing legisla-tion which, among other things, will expand the bureaucracy and cost the tayapares twice as much as the con-sumer agency.
 The problem to be solved in this instance is organized labor's declining for only about 20 percent of the U.S. work force. The AFL-CIO alone lost some 500,000 members in the last two years.
 The chief purpose of the Labor Law Reform Act, as misnamed to entice support, is to make mejor changes in our federal labor laws, such as speeding up union representation directions, in order to manufer penalities are provided for employers who dare challenge union organizing attempts to aggressively.
 To handle what on scholar calls the "Illigation explosion" likely to result from the legislation. If it becomes law, the Nafional Labor Relations Board and its staff must be expanded. Compared to havors how much in (future years), the labor bill would require an outlay of $30 million in additional funds the first year (and who knows how much in future years) to expand the NLRB and its staff. More than 900 new employees, many of the professionals, would be added to the paroull.

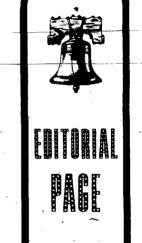

them professionals, would be added to the payroll. Some $2 million of this money would go to expand the size of the Board from five to seven members, a costly endeavor, since each members of the board has 20 lawyers as assistants. As pointed out by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the study made by the NLRB discredits claims of. organized labor that the goposed legisla, ton is simply procedureal and that its chief purpose is to streamline and expe-dite NLRB cases. More litigation, not less, is certain to result.

organizational ettoris in units wincumery (unions) have been previously unsuccess-ful." A nationwide poll conducted by Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.J., re-cently revealed that a majority of the public does not believe in Laws-meking H-easier for unions to organize non-union workers. These findings subsequently were confirmed in an independent poll taken by U.S. News and World Report. a Skeptics and critics could hardly wait. Where, they demanded, are the layoffs, higher prices and other dire conse-quences which were predicted by critics if Congress voted a sharp increase in the federal minimum wage. A new law, raising the minimum from $2.30 to $2.55, had hardly gone into effect with the stroke of 12:01 am. Jan. 1, when sopkesmen for the AFL-CIO and other supporters of the wage boost began their chant. Exaggerating the warnings, the skep-tics were eager to discredit arguments made against the increase. Despite the new law, they proclaimed, the nation had not been suddenly plunged into economic chaos. Of course, no one had made such predictions.

Hanway and Duane Foole. executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain improve-ment Association, said elevator operators are reporting grain deliveries by Nebraska farmers that show damage. Corn and sorghum in poor condition is severely discounted in price, and wheat that has deteriorated severely in quality cannot be used for human food, they warned. This loss in value will result in significant.econo-mic losses for aiready hard-pressed grain larmers, Foote and Hanway said. Prevailing government pro-grams and market conditions have stimulated construction of a tremendous capacity of on-farm storage in the state. As of January 31, 1978. Nebraska farmers had more than 25 million bushels of wheat under loss forghum and more than a million bushels of soybeans.

A rural Wayng waman whose Diffiday is Nov. 11, 1919, missed winning the $750 grand prize in the weekly Birthday Bucks pro-motion by only one week. If Helen Sieften would have been born on Nov. 18 of that same year she would have become the first grand prize winner for 1978. However. Mrs. Sieften doesn't go away empty handed. She re-ceives a $25 consolstion award for having the birth date closest to the winning date. Mrs. Steften was shopping at Ben Franktin Store in Wayne Tast Thursday night when Mel Elotson of Coast to Coast drew the winning date. Anyone can be a winner in the weekly contest sponsored by participating Wayne merchants. No entry forms ar purchaes are nessary, however a shopper must be present in a participa-ting store when the date is announced tonight (Thursday) at 15

Agriculture is number two on his four point program. He said as governor he would organize a coalition of Midwestern states to develop their own export mar-kers.

develop their own export mar-kets. Rogers pointed out that the United States is 5th in the world in agriculture. He said food should become an economic weapon such as oil is now. Her explained, he would stem the flow of agricultural products destined for export to countries which claim need and no money. "Why should the United States give food to those countries who are using their financial re-sources to purchase military arms?" Rogers asked. He point-ed out he would be more than willing to provide free food to developing countries and to those countries whose people are sarving.
