

Reject Spot Zoning

'Casey' Strikes Out In Bid for Rezoning

Spot zoning was put to a test Monday night and failed to get support of property owners or the Wayne Planning Commission.

The commission Monday night voted to recommend denial of a request to rezone two lots in Wayne from multiple dwelling to highway business.

The unanimous decision by the commission followed a public hearing in which a petition objecting to the request was presented and property owners in attendance stated their objections.

The lots are 9 and 10 in block 2, East Addition to Wayne (corner of 7th and Window Streets).

Before putting the request to a vote, the commission also heard Allen Townsend of Townsend Real Estate Inc., Yankton, S.D., representing Casey's General Stores, explain the reason for the request and what type of business would be located there.

After announcing the decision of the commission, Dan Sherry chairman, explained the central reasons why the commission rejected the request. He said it was obvious that more than 20 percent of the property owners in the area of the proposed rezoning objected to it and that the commission itself did not wholly support spot zoning.

In presenting his case, Townsend explained Casey's General

Stores were primarily convenience stores, carrying some 4,000 items including staple goods, bread and pastries, milk and related items, non-prescription drugs, soft drinks, candy, etc. and gasoline. The stores, he said, do not sell liquor or beer or magazines of questionable taste as many grade and high school students are patrons.

The majority of the stores (141) are located in Iowa and they are just now branching out into Nebraska, South Dakota and Colorado. Townsend said he is investigating possible locations in Fremont, Columbus, Wisner and West Point, as well as Wayne.

Townsend said the stores are open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily seven days a week. He explained their acceptance by the buying public stems from convenience in that customers can park directly in front of the store and can purchase their items in a relatively short time. He said the average purchase is three items.

He pointed out the stores are managed and manned by people in the communities which they serve. He stated the average weekly payroll from the stores is $2,000.

He rebutted the contention that spot zoning is poor zoning by pointing out spot zoning some-

Downtown Improvement Another Plan For Payment

The Wayne City Council is going to take a hard look at another payment plan for improvements in the downtown business district.

The council, meeting in a special work session Tuesday night, directed Engineer Bruce Gilmore, Columbus, to draw another assessment schedule, the eighth one to be surfaced since completion of the $302,331.71 project.

This plan would place the major burden of the special assessment on those property owners in the district whose properties incurred "additional costs."

These additional costs, which amounted to $68,121.54 according to an assessment schedule adopted by the council in a March 28 meeting, are recorded as total costs of walks, tree removal, planters, fill, etc.

According to instructions by the council to the engineer, all but the cost of the planters will be directed back to those properties on which the additional work was done.

According to the present assessment schedule, these additional costs (including the planters) were spread throughout the district, lacking on an additional $17.40 per running foot on top of the cost of sidewalk removal and replacement plus overheads.

Using the special assessment for Main Street in the district, the cost is $20.46 per running foot. The council is considering doing away with the blanket cost factor of $17.40 and replacing it with the cost of the planters only which would be spread throughout the district.

Using the cost of the planters ($9,368.50), the running foot cost to Main Street property owners would be approximately $22.87 per running foot. The remaining $58,752.04 additional costs would be assessed against those properties. See ANOTHER, page 10

Devils Bounce Back to Down Ponca, 6-1

The Wayne Blue Devils bounced back from a disappointing two game loss Friday to record a 6-1 victory at Ponca Monday.

They are now 8-2 for the season. Dennis Carroll won his fourth game of the year with a three hitter. He was seldom in trouble as he allowed three walks while striking out four.

Ponca's lone run came in the 4th inning as Koeppe walked and eventually scored on a Wayne error.

The Devils opened scoring in the 2nd inning as Al Nissen singled and scored on Mark Gansbom's double. Wayne increased its lead to 5-0 in the 3rd as the Devils scored four runs on three hits and three walks. Jeff Zeiss scored the first run in the inning after he was walked and advanced on Dennis Carroll's bunt single. Dan Mitchell was safe on a fielder's choice, then Tom Ginn walked, sending home the first run. Nissen's sacrifice fly to center field brought home Carroll. Gansbom popped out a single, scoring both Mitchell and Ginn. Wayne closed its scoring in the top of the 5th inning when Jerry Goeden opened the inning reaching first base on an error. Kevin Murray walked and both he and Goeden advanced on Dean Carroll's perfect bunt. Zeiss's sacrifice scored Goeden.

Ponca was guilty of six mistakes for the afternoon while the Devils made only two mistakes. Coach Mike Mallett said the Devils looked especially sharp on defense.

The Devils take on Wakefield at Wakefield Wednesday. The Trojans are undefeated this season, beating both Lincoln High and Lincoln East, the two teams that handed the Devils losses last Friday.

Wayne returns home Friday to host Decatur in the last regularly scheduled game of the season. District play will get underway the following week.

Wayne State Finishes 3rd

The Wayne State Wildkittens were eliminated from the Nebraska State Women's Softball Tournament Sunday, losing to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, 3-0 at Omaha. Wayne State finished third in the tourney, which UNO eventually won.

Nebraska scored single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to pin Wayne pitcher Pat Lenihan (4-8) to the loss.

The Wildkittens lost their first game of the tourney to UNO, 3-1 as the Omahans scored two runs in the fifth to break a 1-1 tie.

Lenihan was the loser for Wayne. The Wildkittens dropped to the losers bracket and shutout Kearney, 4-0 on a nifty gem by Lenihan, who pitched three games in two days because an injury to hurler Lynne Larson left the Wayne pitching corps depleted.

Wayne scored three runs in the fourth to decide the contest.

Karen Heeney powered a grand slam homer in the sixth inning as Wayne pounded Peru State, 11-3 later on Saturday to stay alive in the tournament. Larson was the winning pitcher for the Wildkittens.

Wayne State, 12-12 for the season, will compete in the Central States Conference Softball Tournament Friday and Saturday at Pittsburg, Kan.

Dues ($10) must be paid before the first match. There are 78 members in the club.

Doane, Kearney Nab Net Titles

Doane and Kearney State swept to the top of the team standings in the NAIA District 11 Men's Tennis Tournament at Wayne State Friday and Saturday.

UNL 4-H Appointee

JEFF CREAMER, (back row, left), has been appointed outreachers chairman for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln 4-H Club. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Creamer, Concord, and a sophomore in general agriculture. The announcement was made at the annual 4-H Spring Recognition Tea held recently at the Nebraska East Union. UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources photo.

Tomato Most Popular Vegetable in Garden

The tomato is the most popular vegetable grown in Nebraska home gardens. They require little space when staked and tied or caged and are capable of producing pounds of usable fruit per plant.

There are hundreds of varieties for home gardeners to choose from, but all will not produce well under Nebraska growing conditions. Varieties recommended for Nebraska include: Springset, Better Boy, Roma, Burpee, Floramerica and Superstonic.

In planting tomatoes in the home garden, a site should be selected that will receive full sunlight all day, if possible. If not possible, plant where they will receive at least six to seven hours of sunlight per day. Tomatoes grown in too shady a location produce weak plants with few, if any, fruit.

Tomato plants prefer a fertile, well-drained soil that has high organic matter content. Soils of low to medium fertility with 8-10 pounds of complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8, per 100 feet of row. Add organic matter, such as compost, to the soil prior to planting and plant on high rows (8 to 10 inches) to improve soil drainage.

Tomatoes should be transplanted in the garden after the danger of frost has passed. If tomato plants are set out and a frost is likely, the plants should be covered with wet caps, paper sacks, boxes or other materials to help prevent damage.

The plants should be spaced 18-24 inches apart on rows three to four feet apart. When placing tomato plants in the garden, set them deeper than they were growing in the containers. The less the roots are disturbed when transplanting, the less setback the plants will experience.

Black plastic mulch can be very beneficial in tomato production. The plastic warms the soil resulting in earlier yields. It also helps control weeds, prevents soil compaction and conserves soil moisture and fertilizer. Black plastic also may help to reduce fruit rot by preventing the fruit from touching the soil or soil from splashing on the fruit.

Stake tomato plants after the first flower cluster is formed by placing the stake on the opposite side of the stem from the cluster. This will keep the fruit from being jammed against the stake, since almost all the flower clusters will be formed on the same side of the stem.

Casey

Spokesman for the objectors and for himself was Dave Ewing a Wayne realtor. He said he is opposed to spot zoning in general, calling it a hazard, possibly illegal and detrimental. He said the proposed rezoning represented a potential hazard as St. Mary's school was in the area.

He said he felt there are other sites suitable for a store such as Casey's which are already zoned commercial.

Townsend said he had alternate sites in mind and possible they will be explored as to feasibility.

In making its ruling, the commission pointed out it did not mean to discourage new business or growth of Wayne. It said it encourages growth but a growth in accordance with a comprehensive plan.

The city's comprehensive plan, which was last updated in 1973, is in the process of being brought up to date. It said new zoning to fit the needs of the community will be incorporated into the plan.

Following the public hearing, the commission discussed with Planning Consultant Richard M. Wozniak, Johnston, proposed updating of the comprehensive plan.

In other action, the commission recommended a change in zoning, from R-1, single family dwelling, to R-2, multiple dwelling, all of block 7 in Crawford and Brown's Addition to Wayne. Sherry said the recommendation was made because there were several multi-dwelling units in the block and they were making them legal. He also pointed out the need for multi-dwelling units.

Another

The proposal is just that... a proposal. The council wants to examine it before making any decision.

The council considered charging the assessments the same as a paving district but decided that it would not be fair and equitable.

Using Main Street as an example, paving costs would be assessed to property owners fronting on Main Street and to owners of property a half block either side of Main Street.

A formula would be worked out to include property owners whose property would be included in the half block area. In the case where there would be three property owners in the half block, a 100 percent formula could assess the first property owner 50 percent of the Main Street running foot cost, the second property owner would be required to pay 30 percent and the third property owner would be required to pay the remaining 20 percent.

However, the council rejected this concept because of its inequities and it is attempting to formulate an assessment schedule which will be as fair and equitable as possible.

The council will reconvene as a board of equalization at its May 20th meeting at which time a determination will be attempted to be made.

The council, seated as a board of equalization, voted to reconvene at the May 30 date after major objections to assessments were voiced at a meeting April 25.

Officer of Honorary

STEVEN GRAMLICH, (back row, left), Carroll, student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been elected treasurer of Alpha Zeta, undergraduate agricultural honorary. The 1978-79 officers were named at the organization's annual awards banquet held in Lincoln April 25. Students eligible for Alpha Zeta must be in the upper 40 percent of their respective classes in the College of Agriculture. UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources photo.

Lawn, Garden Safety Advised

Before setting to work on the lawn or garden Rollin Schnieder, Extension safety specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, warns that some basic safety practices should be observed.

"Most yard and garden accidents can be prevented by taking a few simple precautions," he says. "First of all, most gardeners should recognize that they do have limitations."

He points out, for example, that 100 pounds is too much for most persons to lift. "Some persons can lift no more than 50 pounds, and most gardeners can safely manage about 20 pounds, or the weight of a gallon pail filled with water."

A cart wheelbarrow or even a child's wagon can ease those heavy loads, as well as prevent sore backs and strained muscles, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist says. If a wheelbarrow is used, position most of the load over the wheels.

Even wearing the wrong clothing to work in can be dangerous. Gardening calls for comfortable, well-fitting clothes with no tatters or dangling ends that could catch in machinery or underfoot.

"Protect your head and neck from too much sun or garden chemicals by wearing a wide-brimmed hat, long sleeves and long pants," he says. Garden gloves and sturdy shoes will shield your hands and feet from nails, glass, tools and junk. Thongs, sandals or going barefoot are poor choices, especially around power lawnmowers, he warns.

"About 50,000 Americans will receive hospital emergency room treatment this year for accidents connected with power lawnmowers," Schnieder says.

The specialist offers these guidelines for safe use of power lawnmowers:

- Keep your lawn clean and clear of debris. The whirling mower blades can throw small toys, sticks, rocks and wire at speeds of up to 170 miles per hour - enough force to kill.
- Never fill the gas tank when the engine is running or hot.

How Taxes Are Spent

Wayne County spent $270,979 more in funds collected from property taxes for governmental subdivisions in 1977 than it did the previous year.

According to Doris Stipp, County Assessor, the total expenditure package for 1977 was $3,721,528. In 1976, it was $3,450,549.

Gem and Mineral Show At Neihardt Center

The John G. Neihardt Center in Bancroft, a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society, will sponsor a gem and mineral show Sunday, May 7, through Sunday, May 28.

Special exhibits will be displayed by members of the Lincoln Gem and Mineral Club and local collectors.

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Young of Lincoln will be hosts for the first day of the show, Sunday afternoon, May 7. Dr. Neihardt, the late Paul Laureate of Nebraska, resided with the Youngs from January 1968 to November 1973, when he died at the home of his daughter, Hilda, in Columbia, Mo.

While living in Lincoln, Neihardt became an honorary life member of the Lincoln Gem and Mineral Club.

A highlight of the gem and mineral exhibit at the Neihardt Center will be a display of Neihardt's lapidary equipment. This equipment is unique because it was assembled by Dr. Neihardt. Even his drills were original designs, as he fashioned them out of nails. The poet created some beautiful jewelry from the primitive equipment.

The public is invited to attend the gem and mineral show. There is no charge. The Neihardt Center is open Monday through Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Area Students At Orientation

High school students and parents from throughout Nebraska and Iowa attended the Saturday, April 29 freshman orientation sessions at Wayne State College.

Freshman orientation, held five times during the spring and summer months, is designed to acquaint newly accepted students and parents with the facilities at WSC and to help the student register for fall classes.

Nearly 190 students and over 200 parents attended the Saturday orientation. Sessions included a welcome by WSC president Dr. Lyte Seymour and discussions on student services, career planning, student activities, student health services, counseling and resident life. Both parents and students were given tours of the college by WSC students.

Jim Hummel, WSC director of admissions, said Saturday's session was designed to be helpful to both parents and students.

"We wanted to acquaint the parents with the facilities available to their son or daughter at Wayne State," he said. "All in all, we feel it was a very successful program and hope to see many of the parents return for visits."

Future orientation sessions will be held Friday, June 9, Monday, June 26, Thursday, July 13 and Saturday, Aug. 5. Sessions are open to all students, and their parents, who are accepted for admission to Wayne State.

Those from the area attending the Saturday, April 29 session were:

Laura Blunderman, Steve Bodenscheidt, Nancy Brudigan, Scott Carhart, Dean Carroll, Rance Dign, Kirk Echtenkamp, Jeffrey Edmonds, Jeremy Edmonds, Dennis Flier, Kelly Fervers, Laura Hagemann, Julie Mabon, Patricia Manes, Beth Ostendorf, all of Wayne.

Wayne Winner Girls Ten members of the Wayne Winner Girls 4-H Club met Tuesday at the Grace Lutheran Church.

The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge and the flag salute. Each member answered roll call with the projects she plans to take to the fair in July.

Members exchanged homemade May baskets. Paula Koplin gave a demonstration on using liquid and dry measuring utensils for baking and cooking. Members brought two 4-H peanut butter cookies, which each had made, and texture and taste were compared.

Discussions were held on fair projects, 4-H day camp and preparation for the Bicycle Rodeo.

The next meeting is planned for sometime in June for a bicycle rodeo lesson.

Livestock, Retail Meat Prices to Spiral Upward

Livestock and meat prices will continue rising during 1978, according to UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension economist Dr. Al Wellman.

Wellman said he concurs with USDA outlook information that prospects for only a slight increase in hog slaughter, smaller beef supplies and continued strong demand by consumers for meat will push prices upward.

He forecasts these probable price levels:
— Live hog prices to average $5 to $7 per 100 pounds higher than the $41 posted in 1977.
— Choice slaughter steers may average in the high $40's for the year.

The annual increase in retail beef prices may exceed 12 percent.
— Retail pork prices may average a tenth higher or more with per capita supplies up only slightly.

Although the composite retail price of pork average 13 percent above a year earlier in the first quarter of 1978, recent increases in hog prices have not been reflected fully at the supermarket, Wellman said.

On the producer side, Wellman said pork production in 1978 may be up only 2 to 3 percent—somewhat lower than earlier expectations. By quarter, production was slightly below a year ago during the first three months of 1978; a 2 to 4 percent increase in pork output is expected this spring and summer; fourth quarter hog slaughter is seen to be about the same, or slightly above that of last fall.

Some "its" cloud the picture in analyzing swine breeding intentions, Wellman explained. On March 1, the breeding herd was down 1 percent. Current profits would suggest an expansion in June-August farrowings, he said, although producers planned to farrow 2 percent fewer sows this summer.

Since sows and gilts slated to farrow this summer are bred from February through April, producers may have modified See LIVESTOCK, page 5

The next meeting will be May 17 in the Mary George home and softball will be played.

THOSE PESKY WEED SEEDS

Seeds are the only means of reproduction for annual weeds and it's the way many perennials spread to new areas. If you thought your field was clean last year you may still be in for problems this year.

Some weeds produce thousands of seeds but that's not all the problem. Additionally, weeds have built-in dormancy, and longevity mechanisms. Wild buckwheat can produce nearly 12,000 seeds from a single plant; green foxtail, 34,000; lambs-quarters, 72,000; and pigweed 117,000. Some very large pigweed plants may produce over 2 million of those shiny little black seeds.

Shattercane seed can remain alive in the soil for 12 years. Field bindweeds have been stored in the soil for 50 years and some seeds were still alive. Pigweeds has a tough seed coat, it will withstand equivalents of 1,000 pounds per square inch pressure.

2,4-D STORED OVER WINTER

Cold temperatures will not deteriorate the active ingredient in any of our commonly used herbicides including 2,4-D. Low temperatures may cause separation of the ingredients through crystallization or separation of liquids. If this has occurred, placing the container in sunlight at room temperature and rolling the container periodically will reconstitute the formulation. The herbicide will not have lost its effectiveness as a result of the low temperature storage.

DO YOU NEED POTASH?

The soil test for potassium measured what is considered to be available potassium. The "available potassium" measured by the soil is, sometimes called "exchangeable potassium."

Exchangeable potassium is associated with the soil clays and organic matter in the soil. There is also a large amount of potassium in the soil that is not available or is "non-exchangeable." This potassium is found primarily in soil minerals that become only slowly available with weathering. It is this large mineral supply of potassium that is unavailable to plants. Actually fertilizer potassium (or often referred to as potash) applied to most Nebraska soils will probably revert to non-available forms. This is because most Nebraska soils contain large amounts of both exchangeable and non-exchangeable potassium.

We do not have any evidence that fertilizer potassium will reduce the incidence of stalk rot in corn unless the available potassium level in the soil is low. Since we have few low-potassium soils in Nebraska, it is very doubtful that such applications will be of any value.

Turf Disease Plagues Lawns

Have you been wondering what those brown patches are doing in your prized green turf? It may be melting out—otherwise known as Helminthosporium Leaf Spot.

Homeowners who fertilize heavily in early spring with fast-release nitrogen fertilizers will promote leaf spot development and run the risk of severe melting out. If the lawn was not fertilized last fall, a light application of a slow-release nitrogen fertilizer can be applied now. This will not promote the fast, lush growth which brings out the leaf spot.

Ideally, the lawn should be fertilized at the last mowing in the fall with a slow-release nitrogen carrier. Enough nitrogen will be carried over to promote growth in the spring. A second fertilization can then be made in early May, again using the slow-release type of nitrogen fertilizer. Proper fertilization is an excellent disease management tool and will reduce dependency on chemicals to keep disease damage to a minimum.

Homeowners whose lawns have a history of melting out need to initiate a preventative fungicide program immediately during the early leaf spot stage of the disease. To reduce turf spot formation and lessen the degree of melting out, the following may be applied: Actidione TGF, Actidione RZ, Actidione Thiram, Bromosan, Dacodil 2787, Dyrene, Fore, Kromad, Tersan, LSR and Scott's Lawn Disease Preventer (PCNB) applied as directed on the label beginning in April reduces leaf spot formation and lessens the degree of melting out.

Homeowners re-establishing a lawn or establishing a new bluegrass lawn can reduce future melting out problems by blending at least three resistant or moderately resistant bluegrass cultivars.

Developing Countries Can Help To Ease Hunger in the World

Developing countries have a "great potential" for dramatically increasing animal production in the future as a means of combating malnutrition and easing dietary protein shortages, according to the president of Warsaw Agricultural University in Poland.

But Dr. Henryk Jasiorowski said such increases will require aid from developed nations in the form of long-term capital investments and creation of appropriate production systems utilizing the natural and human resources of individual developing countries.

Jasiorowski, who for six years was director of the Animal Production and Veterinary Science Program at the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization's Rome office, was recently on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus. His visit was sponsored by the Mid-America State University Association's distinguished lecture program, formed by the states of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri to encourage scholar exchanges with foreign universities.

Although worldwide production of meat, milk and eggs increased during the last decade at a rate higher than the population growth, Jasiorowski said, the statistics are misleading because most of the jump was caused by an increase in the livestock population as human population numbers rose.

Average meat production increased dramatically in developed nations but remained at about the same level in developing countries because of their "very low" production per animal, he said. Developing countries have about 2.5 times more beef and buffalo than developed nations but actually produce only half as much meat, he said.

Worldwide figures indicate that per capita meat production increased from 18.5 to 26.2 kilograms from 1950-70, Jasiorowski said, with North America leading the list with an increase from 79.4 to 109 kilograms a person. However, production in Africa (12 to 11.1 kilograms), the Near East (9.5 to 11.0) and Far East (5.8 to 9.3), which already was relatively low, remained about stable or declined slightly.

"This proves that in the past 20 years, per capita production of meat and milk in most parts of the world has not increased," Jasiorowski said. "The lack of progress in production per animal is the basic weakness of animal production in the developing countries."

"The trend of increased meat production through increased livestock populations can't go on forever," he continued. "There must be a stop to it. It simply is not feasible to keep increasing livestock numbers in Europe because of the pollution problem or in Africa or other developing areas because of the potential for overgrazing."

The long-term answer to increasing animal production will be through producing more meat per head, Jasiorowski said. But he said developing countries most likely will need to find a different road to higher livestock efficiency than the capital- and mechanization-intensive methods used in the United States and other developed countries which utilized high grain rations.

Any meaningful improvement will require that developed nations provide the Third World with "large-scale, long-term aid programs and diverse production systems that capitalize on the strengths of the individual developing country, he said.

Most important will be granting preferred trading status to developing countries and supporting programs sponsored by non-political U.N. technical organizations such as the FAO, he said.

"When we want to really increase animal production in the world, we must use the different methods suited best to different parts of the world,"

Jasiorowski said. "These production systems can be changed only very slowly."

"Only long-term projects should be considered seriously," he added. "We should be looking at substantial programs lasting over a 100-year period instead of five to 10 years."

"Many aid programs tried so far did something for one farm See HUNGER, page 5 or community. Instead of the entire country," he noted. "Providing long-term capital flow is possible through trade but not through donations."

Jasiorowski said he thinks the willingness of developed countries to contribute more to the increased animal production endeavors of developing nations will rise gradually as areas of the Third World evolve.

"It won't happen until the majority (of countries) realize that the peace and well-being of people in the world are interdependent," he said.

Providing needed capital will help developing countries eradicate diseases hampering livestock production, increase fertilizer and irrigation potential to enhance production of the land as a feed resource and allow construction of hygienic slaughterhouses that can pass international sanitation standards, Jasiorowski said.

Meat production in Africa, for example, would double if about $2 billion were invested in eradicating the tsetse fly in the central part of the continent, which is more suited to livestock production although few herds currently exist because of the insect, he said.

Substantial animal production increases also could be made in central and southern Africa, western Asia, the Mideast and South America if foot and mouth disease in cattle was eradicated, Jasiorowski said.

First, there is the matter of constitutionality, how to be discriminatory without violating property rights and hamstringing the vast majority of corporate farm interests that have honest-to-goodness "family farm" would such a law harmfully limit capital investments in the agricultural industry which has a constant need for more capital?

Farm and ranch senators generally have taken a cautious view of such type legislation, questioning the need and fearing that it would do more harm than good. Farm and ranch corporation representatives have shown up at those hearings with "manure on their boots" to refute the claims of other farm groups who have sent cheering sections to the balconies to pressure for such a law. To some segments of the farm population, "all corporations are bad and should be severely restricted or liquidated."

Widespread wet, humid weather last fall saved many moisture-starved crops but also encouraged development of fungal diseases in soybeans which has substantially lowered seed quality. What this means is that farmers who are planting soybeans this year should test their seed for germination quality. The alternative could be severely reduced seed germination and potentially high yield reductions, according to most Corn Belt pathologists and soybean specialists.

Pod and stem blight is the major problem this year, the experts say. This attacks the seed directly and produces cracked or shriveled beans which may not germinate when planted. When they do, the plants are usually weak and unproductive.

To counteract the problem, most crop specialists are recommending seed treatment with a recommended fungicide such as Captan or Captan-Moly, especially if seed germination based on a standard test falls below 80 percent. Field tests show that proper fungicide treatment can improve germination and resulting field emergence by as much as 25 percent.

Growers are advised to contact their County Extension Agent or a recommended testing lab for further information.

Senator Loran Schmit in this last session, following the public hearing, introduced LB 959 which read in part: "No corporation, which has aliens as its stockholders, nor any alien shall in any manner purchase or provide money to any person or corporation for the purpose of purchasing any agricultural land in this state."

LB 959 never got out of committee. Questions were raised about its constitutionality and the possible conflict with reciprocal treaties which the U.S. may have with other countries. These questions may be answered by the time another session comes around.

Nobody would want to see a lot of Arab money pouring into the state for land purchases and farm operations. At the same time, Americans have investments in foreign countries... in Australian cattle and sheep ranches for instance. In the late 1800's, lots of British money was invested in developing some of our large western cattle ranches... capital that was needed and welcomed at that time.

SPOTLIGHT ON WEEDS

BY DON C. SPITZ, WAYNE CO. EXTENSION AGENT

MILKWEED

Description: Common milkweed is a perennial reproducing by seed and from long spreading rootstocks. Stems stout and erect, two to four feet tall, covered with short downy hairs, with milky juice. Leaves, opposite, oblong, rounded, four to eight inches long with prominent veins. Upper surface smooth, lower surfaces covered with short white hairs. Flowers sweet-smelling, pink to white, in large, many flowered, ball-like clusters at the tips of the stems and in the axils of the upper leaves. Seed brown, flat, oval, with a tuft of silky white hairs attached to the tip.

Control: In non-cropland areas use one quart, 2-4-D plus 1/2 pint of Banvel at bud to bloom stage for seasonal control. Roundup is very effective on milkweed where it can be used in the crop production cycle. For example milkweed in small grain stubble can be treated with Roundup. Roundup can also be used on young milkweed before a delayed planting of crops like soybeans and grain sorghum.

- Special Remarks:
- 1. Roundup may be used as a spot treatment for milkweed in barley, corn, oats, sorghum and wheat.
  - 2. It is a "spot" treatment only. Roundup will kill the crop in the treated area also. Take care to avoid drift outside target area.
  - 3. Treatment must be made prior to headings of small grains and sorghum. Infill pod set on soybeans, and silking of corn. Do not apply when the crop has set seed.
  - 4. For control of perennials, the weeds should be treated in the optimum stage of growth. The best time to treat milkweed is late June or when plants are in early bud stage. Weeds should be growing actively, but prior to drought stress.
  - 5. Roundup should be applied at the rate of 1 gallon per 100 gallons of spray solution. According to the label only hand held and gun equipment can be used.
  - 6. A copy of the label must be in the possession of the user at the time of Roundup application for spot treatment.

their March 1 intentions during the breeding season, the economist added.

With the composite retail price of Choice beef rising sharply during the first quarter — averaging more than 10 percent above a year ago — beef consumption for the year may fall from 125-plus pounds per person to around 120 pounds, Wellman warned.

"Slaughter steer prices may rise by a greater percentage than retail prices, with some tightening of marketing spreads likely," he said.

Beef production for the year may be 3 to 5 percent less than in 1977. "Combined with the slight increase in pork output and the expected expansion in poultry, total red meat and poultry supplies for 1978 are expected to be about unchanged from last year," Wellman stated.

Cattle feeders continue to draw on the 9 percent smaller January 1 supply of feeder cattle. Responding to a favorable steer-corn price ratio, cattle feeders have bid feeder cattle prices sharply higher. Feeder placements during the winter may have been about 10 percent larger than a year earlier. Marketings may have been around 5 percent larger as cattle continued to be marketed with minimum finish.

Other forecasted trends in beef cattle supply outlook:

- Fed marketings this spring may be up 4 to 8 percent from a year ago.
- Total steer and heifer slaughter for the first six months of 1978 may be largely unchanged from a year earlier.
- Slaughter of grass-fed steers and heifers could be reduced a third.
- Beef production for the first half may be down about 2 percent.
- With the fourth year of declining inventory of cows, total numbers of cattle and calves will drop again this year — perhaps by about three million head.

There will be continued heavy movement of heifers into feedlots. Cow slaughter, although it may be down about a fifth from last year, still will be relatively large in relation to the number of cows on farms.

Quality of Grain Is Key to Success

If a farmer wants to be successful in the grain business, high quality grain is the key, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agricultural economist.

Dr. Lynn Lutgen said when a local elevator quotes a price for grain, that price applies to a rather specific quality. The official U.S. grade standards for grain describe grain quality and provide the foundation for pricing. For example, corn is priced on the basis of No. 2 grade. This suggests a test weight of 56 pounds for a measured bushel with maximum limits of:

- Moisture, 15.5 percent; Broken corn and Foreign material, 3.0 percent; Damaged kernels — the total cannot be more than 5 percent and out of that, there cannot be more than 2 percent heat damage.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist said a bid price of $2.20 per bushel for corn means a buyer stands ready to purchase corn of No. 2 quality at that price. A seller who delivers corn which has 7 percent damage will not receive that bid price. A settlement price will be calculated by deducting market-determined discounts from the bid (No. 2) price.

Discounts for damage which exceeds the No. 2 grade may vary over time, he said. When grain damage is particularly high, discounts likely will increase. During years of moderate to low damage, the discounts will be lower.

"It is a common practice for the grain industry to mix or blend grain having excess damage with a second lot of grain which has low damage. In the process, the grain merchandiser produces bushels of grain which have the maximum tolerances for damage as described by the

No. 2 grade," Lutgen said. If the qualities of damaged grain are excessive, blending opportunities will diminish and discounts for damage will increase.

Grain damage often occurs during storage. It may result from insect infestation, over-drying or molds which grow rapidly in grain too wet for safe storage. Good management can generally prevent damage in stored grain, he stressed.

There are two reasons why cash grain producers may choose to store rather than sell grain at harvest time:

1. They may feel prices will be higher following harvest (including participation in the government farm program) or;
2. They may wish to have the income from the crop in the next tax year.

However, final success depends on having high quality grain to sell. The producer who elects to store the grain must consider the cost of protecting his grain against damage versus the price discount he would suffer in selling damaged grain, Lutgen explained.

The amount of money lost due to selling damaged grain depends on the extent of the damage, he said. The following rate schedule reflects discounts used by some terminal grain companies. The producer should be aware that these discounts will be passed directly back to him, Lutgen warned. The producer may also find that a difference may exist between the terminal market discounts and those of the local elevator. Discount rates are subject to change based on the overall conditions of grain being shipped, Lutgen added.

The producer needs to note that discounts are based on percentages such as 5 percent, 6 percent, 7 percent and not a range of 5-10 percent. Therefore, the sooner a producer can detect damage, the less money lost, the ag-economist stressed. For instance, if a producer has 10,000

Rains Test Waste Controls

Recent rains have provided Nebraska's livestock waste management systems built to keep runoff out of local streams with one of their biggest tests to date, according to E.A. Olson, Extension agricultural engineer at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"In some instances, because of the extended period of rainfall, systems may have had the most severe test since they were built," he said. "Systems that have been well-managed should have performed well."

Livestock owners should examine their feedlots' waste systems now for needed maintenance and possible repair, Olson advised.

"Holding ponds are no doubt near brim-full and should be pumped so they will be able to hold runoff from rains that are expected in the next few weeks," he said. "If a holding pond is not pumped it eventually will over-top and the cost of repair could be extensive."

Olson said debris basins that collect solid wastes also need attention. Solids that have "settled out" should be removed to provide storage space for additional solids, he said, although wet debris basins are "difficult and near impossible to clean."

"Ideally, it would be best to wait to clean these basins until the solids are dry," Olson said. "However, if solids have been allowed to accumulate to more than four to six inches, it will take a long time for the solids to dry."

The problem can be averted by regularly cleaning debris basins once or twice annually, Olson said. "Delay in cleaning is sure to create difficult problems if wet solids have to be removed," he noted.

"Management is the key to success with a waste management system," he said. "To help prevent problems, the management and maintenance of a waste system should be made as regular a part of the livestock man's management program as feeding or vaccinating."

Livestock feeders facing problems with their waste management systems should contact their local Soil Conservation Service district office for assistance, Olson said.

Keep America Strong

★ Strong Economy
Business and industry must be strong for a strong economy. Loran is a businessman who will work hard to keep business and industry strong.

★ Strong National Defense
Schmit is tired of seeing the prestige of America decline. He's tired of seeing the U.S. pushed around. He will not settle for anything less than a national defense system second to none.

★ Strong Energy Policy
Schmit is the father of the gasohol program. He wants to see America no longer dependent on foreign oil. He will push hard for alternate sources of energy so we can be self-sufficient in energy.

★ Strong Trade Policy
The decline of the American dollar in world money markets, and the tremendous foreign trade deficit, hang like a millstone around the country's neck. Schmit wants a turn-around in our foreign trade policy so we sell more than we buy, and we get the dollar back where it belongs in world-money markets.

★ Strong Agriculture
As a fourth-generation farmer-feeder, Schmit knows the real needs of agriculture better than any candidate. He farms and feeds on 1,200 acres near Bellwood, Nebraska, and is as affected by farm prices as any Nebraska farmer. He wants a fair deal for agriculture, and knows how to get it in Congress.

★ Strong Congress
The hesitation and lack of leadership by the administration has hurt America. Schmit knows that leadership is needed now to restore strength to America. He knows that leadership has to come from Congress. He wants to help forge that new leadership.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Anna Marie Kreifels

CONFERENCE REVIEW

What was it that caused the April 18 Helen Becker, Rural Health Conference to be such a success? Was it the rain which forced people out of fields and gardens so they could attend the conference?

Or was it the conference theme, "Stress and Its Relationship to Our Health?"

We'd like to think it was the conference theme which sparked the interest of over 600 people from many walks of life and brought them to the Villa Inn in Norfolk for this conference.

Comments heard throughout the days' events endorsed the fact that many people were relating what they heard to their personal and family adventures in daily living in this somewhat stressful society. This may indicate that people are looking for ways to cope with situations in an attempt to live a more meaningful and happier life.

A conference such as this, although it creates much awareness and provides helpful information, cannot be repeated frequently. Coping with stress and daily living patterns, however, is a relatively constant situation for many people. How then can a one-day conference continue to be educational and helpful to those concerned and in need?

Region IV Nebraska Association for Mental Health is one means by which education, prevention, intervention, and services related to mental health and stress are conducted as a constant concern. The Mental Health Association works closely with the Northern Nebraska Comprehensive Mental Health Center, Norfolk.

Those who found the Health Conference of value might wish to acquaint themselves with Mental Health Association Activities. For information about the Mental Health Association and how to become involved contact Anna Marie Kreifels, Area Extension Agent, Concord, Neb. (584-2261).

Another way to extend the information presented during the Rural Health Conference is to use the cassette tape recording of the conference sessions. Recordings will be transcribed and duplicated with copies available to conference registrants by about August 1. Extra copies of the printed proceedings may be purchased for $3 per copy.

Anyone having questions about cassette tapes or wishing a printed copy of conference proceedings may place an order with Anna Marie Kreifels, Northeast Station, Concord, Neb. The conference proceedings or tapes would provide a variety of programs for organized clubs interested in stress, physical or mental health.

Through conference tapes and printed proceedings, and through Mental Health Association activities, education in stress and its relationship to health can continue to help people in need. A good time to do this is now.

May is Mental Health month!
