Underwrite Expenses Seek Help in Doctor Search

The Wayne Hospital Foundation and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce recently joined forces to recruit medical doctors to practice in Wayne. They are now asking area residents to join in the search for doctors by underwriting expenses involved in the recruitment program. Kenneth M. Olds, Wayne attorney and member of the Wayne Hospital Foundation and Gary Van Meter, Executive Vice President of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, said there has been interest by four doctors in the past five months and they expect more in the future. "We now find we need funds to carry out the program," they said. They pointed out the group they represent are responsible for paying for the lodging, meals, mileage and incidental expenses of doctors who visit Wayne as a place to set up a practice. Olds said those wishing to contribute to the funding of the recruitment drive may leave contributions with Joan Lage, First National Bank, treasurer of the Wayne Hospital Foundation. Olds said the contributions are tax deductible. Van Meter said three of the four doctors who have visited Wayne in the past five months have indicated they will return this summer to spend a weekend working in a Wayne doctor's office to explore more fully the possibilities of practicing in Wayne. Van Meter and Olds both expressed encouragement concerning the second visit of the three doctors. "It is a major breakthrough to get a doctor to take a look at Wayne. It is even more encouraging when they want to take a second look." The Chamber executive said the newly formed Chamber Doctor Recruitment committee

For Downtown Improvement

Council Adopts Schedule

The Wayne City Council Tuesday night adopted another payment schedule for the downtown improvement district which reduces additional costs from $17.40 per front foot to $7.04 per front foot. The new schedule substantially lowers the special assessment in the majority of cases while others are increased because of additional work caused by stairs, windows and basements. Project Engineer Bruce Gilmore explained to the council the front footage costs on Main Street, 1st, 2nd, 3rd and Logan Streets and Pearl Streets remain the same ($20.46, $17.35 and $9.92) but the prorated additional costs are now figured at $11,162.03 instead of $68,121.54 as outlined in the first schedule adopted by the council. He said properties which required additional work because of stairs, windows and base-

Waste Water Plan Told

The Wayne City Council is studying a report concerning the city's waste water treatment following a public hearing Tuesday night.

Dennis Hirschbrunner of Gilmore and Associates, Columbus, told the council the present system cannot meet Environmental Protection Agency standards and made recommendations about upgrading the system.

He recommended adding two more "cells" to the east of the existing lagoons and set up a spray-irrigation system. The project would total $658,000 with $375,375 being furnished through federal funding, $22,563 through state aid and $220,062 to the city.

He said the two cells would cover about 20 acres with an additional 50 acres to be used for irrigation. He suggested some arrangement be made with farmers south of the system to use the waste water to irrigate their land. Hirschbrunner pointed out the project would provide additional storage capacity and should upgrade the system so that it should serve the city's needs for the next 40 years.

Refer Request

A request by John Dorcsey, 420 Pearl Street, for conditional use of a property located at that location, was referred by the Wayne City Council Tuesday night to the Wayne Planning Commission.

The City Council Tuesday night approved a land use and housing survey to be conducted by Richard M. Wozniak, city planning consultant. The survey, which will cost $3,000 plus printing, is necessary before the city is eligible to receive HUD funds for updating the city's comprehensive plan. The Wayne Planning Commission April 17 made a recommendation to the council to conduct the survey to receive funding to update the plan. The total cost of the updating using Wozniak, who prepared the last updating in 1972, is $16,500. With federal funding, the project would cost the city $6,500.

Homemade Cleansers

Ease Spring Routine

Kathy Prochaska, Extension family economics and management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said homemakers need not arm themselves with a different cleanser for every household job for a thorough spring cleaning.
"Some homemade general cleansers can do the job just as well for much less money," she adds.
"A common solution of vinegar or lemon juice and water can be made at home and will do a fine job of cleaning windows, mirrors and chrome, as well as removing brown stains and hard water spots around sinks and faucets," she says.
"For more stubborn stains in porcelain sinks and tubs, she cautions to avoid using abrasive cleansers, which can damage the surfaces. Instead, fill the sink with hot water and add an oxygen or chlorine-type bleach (mixed no stronger than package instructions). Let stand for a few minutes and rinse well."
"Many kitchen surfaces are finished with material other than porcelain, but these surfaces are even more easily scratched," she adds. Use a mild soap or detergent solution to clean the surfaces of appliances. Polishing occasionally with a cream-type wax cleaner

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Someone once said, "God stopped making land a long time ago but he's still making babies." In essence, this is the reason that real estate values tend to increase continuously. This increase goes on in good times and bad although at a slower rate in good times.
Whenever there is a limited supply and a constantly increasing demand, prices must go up. It is estimated that this country will be short 50 million acres of land by the year 2000 in California, available land has been urbanized for city dwellers at the rate of 300 acres per day for over 25 years.
If you've been waiting for real estate prices to come down, maybe you'd better reconsider. We've got properties that will meet your needs at reasonable prices that will appeal to you. Drop in or phone but "Let's talk it over," soon.

Wayne Golfers Sweep Matches

The Wayne High golf team improved its record this week with a dual win over Wakefield Monday and a triangular victory over Hartington and Hartington CC Tuesday.

Consistency was the key to victory Monday. Wayne rolled over Wakefield by a score of 165-208. Jay Stoltenberg led the Blue Devils with a 40. Following him were Bob Bornhoff and freshman Chip Carr with 41s, Doug Pierson at 43, and John Keating was a 46. Tim Patterson of Wakefield earned medalist honors with a 39.

Coach Maciejewski said he was pleased with the scores considering the stiff wind and cold which made golfing conditions unfavorable.

Scores were not as low Tuesday, as Wayne squeaked past Hartington CC by one stroke.

Wayne golfers had a total score of 177 to 178 for CC and 194 for Hartington. The triangular was played on the back nine holes.

Low scores were Bornhoff and Stoltenberg at 42, Pierson with a 46, and Carr and Keating with 47s. Only the low four scores were counted in the competition. John Kluge fired a 43 for the Wayne B team and teammate Doug Rose shot a 46 but they couldn't stay with the Hartington CC reserve team which had a total of 179 — only one stroke higher than their varsity team.

Rounding out the field for the Wayne B team were Tom Fredrickson, 48; Duane Smith, 49; and John Meleis, 54. The 186 total was good enough to defeat Hartington High which ended up with 225 strokes.

The Wayne varsity golfers will travel to Albion tomorrow for district competition. The top three teams and five low individuals will qualify for the state tournament.

Drop a Pair to Fort Hays

Cats End Baseball Season on Losing Note

The Wayne State College baseball team finished their season with a pair of losses to Fort Hays 4-3 and 2-0 Saturday at Wayne.

A controversial call in the sixth inning of the opener proved costly to the Wildcats. Fort Hays had scored two runs in the second and one in the third. Base runner Dan Kann-gnesser was in a rundown between third and home in the sixth as another runner was advancing. WSC shortstop Curt Lewis was called for interfering with the advancing runner allowing Kann-gnesser to score the winning run. WSC scored two in the fourth on a wild pitch and fielder's choice. The Wildcats scored a final run in the fifth when Oakeson drove in shortstop Curt Lewis with a single.

Dewey Edgar took the loss for WSC, allowing six hits and walking four in seven innings.

Fort Hays scored two un-earned runs in the nightcap on an error in the sixth and another in the ninth. Brad Black took the loss for Wayne, allowing only three hits. Koerner was the winning pitcher for Fort Hays, striking out nine and allowing four hits.

Wayne finished 9-11 on the season under coach Ron Jones.

KEITH SIEBRANDT, WSC student from Wakefield, bunts for a single in the opening game of a doubleheader Saturday at Wayne. Wayne State was defeated 4-3 and 2-0.

Three WSC Baseball Players Named to NAIA District Team

Three Wayne State College (WSC) players were named to the NAIA District II Baseball Team Sunday by a committee made up of coaches from the district. Two WSC players earned honorable mentions. Junior Steve Kleinsmith, sophomore Tony Pisciola and senior Brad Black all were named to the district team with senior Lyle Smith and junior Kevin Mahlberg receiving honorable mentions. Kleinsmith, named to the district's first team outfield, had 10 RBI's and averaged .328 for the season with a fielding average of .971. He had only one error in 20 games. He is a 1974 graduate of Woodbine, Iowa, High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kleinsmith of Woodbine, Iowa.

Pisciola, named first team utility outfielder, also had 10 RBI's and average .317 with a fielding average of .921. He played all but two innings at second base for the Wildcats this season. He is a 1976 graduate of Arvada Senior High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Pisciola of Arvada, Colorado. Black, named first team pitcher, had the lowest earned run average in the CSIC Conference at 1.62 with a 3-3 record. He pitched 33 and one-third innings, giving up only 13 hits and six earned runs. He walked 18 and struck out 38. He completed a no-hitter against Westmar in April. He is a 1974 graduate of Westwood High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Black of Hornick, Iowa.

Lyle Smith, named honorable mention at catcher, had 12 RBI's batting .204 with a fielding average of .980. He is a 1974 graduate of Turkey Valley Community High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jene Smith of Fort Atkinson, Iowa.

Mahlberg, honorable mention outfielder, lead the Wildcats with 16 RBI's batting .305 and fielding at .852. He is a 1974 graduate of West Point Central Catholic High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mahlberg of West Point.

The players were part of a 9-11 team this spring, a figure that first year coach Ron Jones said is deceiving.

"We had 34 scheduled games and only played 20 which made it very difficult," he said. "The weather was bad and our pitchers just didn't get enough work to become consistent."

Jones said the Wildcats faced a rebuilding season this year, but will be a stronger team in 1979.

"We only lose four players next year," he said. "So we will have a pretty good nucleus back

Then the two athletes teamed up with their brothers, Billy Chase and Scott Carr, to place 2nd in a photo finish for the 880 yard relay.

Gregg Carr placed 1st in the long jump with a leap of 19.3, and 2nd in the 220 yard run.

The team, hindered by bad weather throughout the season, was lead by Mark Schram in Friday's match. Schram shot a 152 in the two day event. The winning medalist, Greg Harry of Pittsburg, shot a 146.

The WSC golfers, coached by Del Stollenberg, shot 649 for the day with the winning score of 598 by Kearney. Other participating schools and scores were: Missouri Southern, 604; Pittsburg, 607; Washburn, 611; Emporia, 61; Fort Hays, 630; Missouri Western, 648.

Bradix Leads Kitten Netters To Second in AIAW Match

WSC women's tennis team finished second in the Nebraska State AIAW Tennis Championship Sunday and Monday and qualified for regional college tennis competition May 18-20 in Winona, Minn.

Kearney State won the week-end match, held on the indoor courts at Nebraska Wesleyan. The event was originally scheduled to be held at Wayne but was moved due to bad weather.

Both Kearney and Wayne, as the top finishers, will compete in regional competition against college teams from Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, North and South Dakota and Missouri.

Shari Bradix of Bellevue led Wayne as she defeated number one seed Lynette Cattau of Doane, 6-2, 6-1 in the finals. Bradix teamed with Mary Curcyns of Denison in the top doubles competition to defeat the Kearney team of Fen and Breen, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Vicki Carsey of Fremont was the other top finisher for Wayne. She defeated Barbara Hutchins of Hastings College, 7-5, 6-2. WSC coach Wes Fritz said his team has performed very well throughout the year and that several players are capable of qualifying for the nationals June 7-10 in Westmont, Calif.

"Shari Bradix has a good chance," he said. "If she plays as well as she has, she stands an excellent chance of reaching the Nationals. I think the whole team has done very well this year."

Wayne State is 14-3 in dual competition

Breakfast Is Last Meeting Until Fall

Minerva Club members met for an 8:30 breakfast Monday to mark the final meeting of the season. Hostess was Mrs. Stan Morris.

Miss Howard Witt presented a program on the Euphrates River, which begins in Eastern Turkey and empties into the Persian Gulf. Reminders of the Old Testament line the banks of the river. Many of the cities along the river are now in ruins. Fertile fields helped by dams are found near the Gulf.

Minerva Club will resume its meetings in the fall.

Permit Restricted Use of Heptachlor

Farmers have renewed hope in their fight against black, dingy or dark-sided cutworms in corn.

Wayne Staff Selects Books

The Wayne-Carroll Elementary School staff voted to order books from the Holt, Rinehart and Winston Company for the 1978-79 school year. The reading committee initially selected six reading companies, then chose Houghton Mifflin and Holt, Rinehart and Winston as the two companies to be screened. After listening to presentations from both companies, the staff voted 22-1 in favor of the latter company. The total program will cost about $5,375 to adopt, which is within the amount usually allotted for texts and workbooks.

The State Department of Agriculture is issuing the permits for restricted uses of heptachlor. Bob Roselle, Extension entomologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has set up stringent regulations governing the use of the toxic pesticide. "Any farmer who applies heptachlor must be an EPA-certified private applicator or he must hire an EPA-certified commercial applicator to do the job," the University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist said. He added that before heptachlor may be purchased, the buyer must prove that he or she is an EPA-certified applicator, then agree to several conditions. "The buyer must sign an agreement saying that he or she will read the label in full before using the material and use it only according to the label," he said. In addition, the fields on which heptachlor will be used must be identified and located, then recorded in the pesticide dealers' records. The amount purchased also must be noted. Roselle said legumes including alfalfa and soybeans may not be planted on the heptachlor-treated field for two years after the material is applied. Silage cannot be cut this year or next, he added. No dairy or meat animals or other livestock will be permitted to graze on the field for two years following treatment, Roselle said. He noted that a certain percentage of mice feed massive doses of heptachlor-treated feed in laboratory experiments developed tumors. The field restrictions on heptachlor are using two pounds actual ingredient per acre, pre-plant broadcast and then disked into the soil three to six inches deep, the entomologist said.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"The love of a Mother is never exhausted, it never changes, it never tires..."
Washington Irving

Mothers are unbelievable wonderful. There is no love like a mother's love... unreserved, unquestioning, unlimited. Children are seldom aware of just how remarkable their mothers are. After all, Mom is the one who makes them do their homework, eat their vegetables, get their rest. Much of this is not fully appreciated at the time.

When we are grown, we realize the part our mothers have played in our development. Without our mothers, few of us would ever have amounted to much.

Mothers demand little of us... not even appreciation... but it would mean so much. If it is not too late to do so, let your mother know how you feel.

MOTHERS DAY “SUPER BUY”

Denies 'cover up' charge

CAPITOL NEWS

By Marvin Paul

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — A special legislative committee report that said the State Patrol covered up an inadequate investigation of the death of an elderly McCook woman in 1973 triggered strong objections from Col. C.J. Karthaus, patrol superintendent.

"The taboos of the charge 'totally ridiculous and completely irresponsible,'" But a former investigator for the patrol, William Tumblin, who called the committee's attention to the incident, said he was pleased with the panel's report on the 80-year-old woman's death.

The report said former McCook Police Chief William Green's investigation of the case was inadequate and that a later investigation by the patrol covered up the inadequacy.

Karthaus said his agency does not cover up anything "and I don't care who hears me say that."

After a coroner's jury divided 3-3 on whether the death of Ida Fitzgibbons was murder or suicide, Green ruled the death a suicide.

A former FBI agent, Green said he believed his assessment of the situation was sound and that many leaders in the community agreed with him.

Miss Fitzgibbons' body was found in her burning home. She had suffered a stab wound in her chest, a fractured leg and a plastic clothesline was wrapped three times around her neck.

The legislative committee's report said the original investigation "conducted" by Green "appears to be totally inadequate, lacking in professionalism, and the entire conduct of Chief Green suggests that there may have been intentional efforts by Green, for whatever reasons, to justify a suicide theory during the coroner's inquest at the expense of the facts."

Karthaus said he would rely on the expertise of seasoned patrol officers who investigate Green's work, rather than the opinions of Tumblin.

The patrol chief said Tumblin had worked as a patrol investigator for only one year at the time of the Fitzgibbons death.

Court Stops Suspensions

The State Supreme Court has ruled that high school rules forbidding student alcohol from using tobacco, drugs or alcohol "clearly serve" a legitimate interest.

In a ruling last week, the court said it cannot be argued that expelling violating athletes from teams was "an arbitrary and unreasonable means to attain the legitimate end of deterrence of the use of alcoholic liquor by student athletes."

The court unanimously agreed in finding Washington County District Court made a mistake when it granted an injunction against Arlington High School which forced the reinstatement of five basketball players who had been dismissed from teams for drinking.

School officials appealed the district court decision which involved three male students and two female students.

The five were suspended in January, 1977, after they admitted drinking beer at a party held in the home of one of the youths. All five have since been graduated and their attorneys had asked the Supreme Court not to consider the case because the persons involved were no longer in school.

But the counsel for the school said the case involved matters of public interest that affect all schools with the interest-scholastic athletics.

Judge Hale McCown, who wrote the court's opinion, said disagreement also exists about whether participation in high school athletics is a constitutional right.

The court agreed that engaging in athletic activities is important to the student but said such participation "ordinarily has significantly less important constitutional dimensions than does participation in traditional academic education."

The court also noted that the students and their parents had requested a hearing before the board of education but did not follow through and attend a hearing.

If student athletes neglect or refuse to utilize proper school board appeal procedures, "such neglect or refusal ordinarily constitutes a waiver of any right to subsequent injunctive relief," the Supreme Court said.

Tax Increase Unlikely

By the time this appears in print, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment will have made its decision on Nebraska's tax rates. It didn't appear adjustments would be made in the 3 percent sales tax or the 16 percent income tax.

Several days before the board met, Gov. J. James Exon said the State Revenue Department's projections on what receipts would be were "right on target."

Through April 30, receipts totaled $475,134,926, as opposed to $475,238,000 that had been predicted.

Exon had steadfastly maintained that anticipated receipts through June 30 of this year would be accurate. Several legislators believe the projections were inaccurate.

The governor said April receipts, as had been forecast, recovered the $8 million shortfall the state had through March.

The state's general fund balance at the end of April was $34.7 million, compared to only $3.3 million a year earlier.

State Tax Commissioner William Peters, who is one of the five members of the State Board of Equalization, said he could see no need for adjusting tax rates for the current fiscal year.

Looking ahead, Peters said there was little reason to believe taxes will have to be increased when the board meets in November to determine what the rates should be for 1979.

Solar Office Created

As part of Nebraska's participation in Sun Day, held across the nation to promote the use of the sun as an alternative energy source, a State Solar Office was created.

The objective of the new office will be to speed the commercialization of solar energy, according to an announcement by Lt. Gov. Gerald Wlehan.

He said similar offices were set up in 12 Midwest states in connection with the Mid-American Solar Energy Complex in Eagan, MN.

Wlehan, who is chairman of the Governor's Energy Advisory Committee, also announced the establishment of the Energy Extension Service.

Wlehan said the various states received federal funding to monitor and implement 10 major energy extension projects, being developed across the country.

The major aim of the new extension service will be to furnish information for use by energy consumers of all types, he said.

Funds Not Appropriated

A revenue shortage was the reason the Legislature did not appropriate money to help finance a state gasoline program, according to State Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood.

The State Gasohol Committee recently expressed concern about establishing a program under which up to five $500,000 grants would be given to communities to construct grain alcohol plants.

The committee, after deferring action on implementing the law because it had not received a $2.5 million appropriation, to underwrite the grants, then asked Schmit's Agriculture Committee what it was supposed to do.

The Bellwood lawmaker said his committee was "fully aware" the $2.5 million had not been included in the state budget.

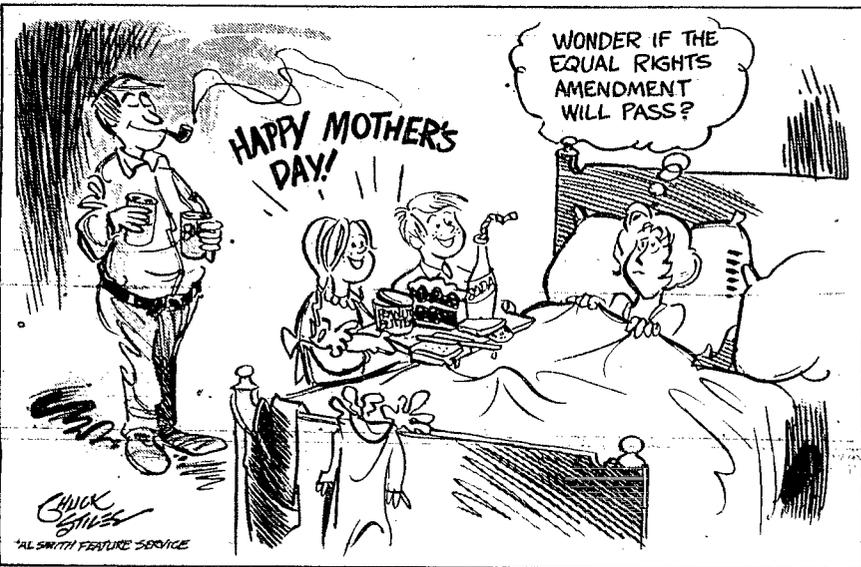

He explained: "The committee deliberately did not appropriate the money because we felt that with the serious shortage of revenue available to the state, it would be best to develop the criteria for implementing the requirements and the procedures for the construction of the gasohol plants prior to the actual appropriation of the funds."

Schmit said the gasohol bill passed into law this year gives the Gasohol Committee new directions and duties. The statute calls for the committee to establish standards and guidelines for grant applications and sets out a timetable during which applications would be processed and grants awarded.

The Gasohol unit has decided to discuss the situation with Schmit's committee and the legislative fiscal analyst in an attempt to get a better idea of how it should proceed.

Sen. Nelson Merz of Falls City suggested the Legislature next year could expedite passage of an appropriations bill to fund the gasohol law.

But that didn't satisfy Holly Hodge of Holdrege, chairman of the Gasohol Committee. He questioned the practicality of asking communities to start building plants without the firm assurance that state money would be available to help defray the costs.

OBSERVATIONS

Volunteers not enough

There is serious doubt that the United States is the leader in conventional military defense.

The Senate Armed Services committee ordered the Pentagon to look for alternatives to "beef up" our standing volunteer army. It stated the all-volunteer force is a peacetime concept that is not now providing sufficient numbers of reserve personnel and would be hard-pressed to provide additional numbers of active recruits should the national security require an expansion of current active force levels.

In other words, the United States could not meet an aggressor military force in such numbers as to insure the security of the nation.

We have felt from the outset that a volunteer armed services was impractical considering the instability of the times. The All-American concept does not provide for men to voluntarily place their lives on the line except during those times when the national security is threatened.

We feel some sort of selective service will have to be introduced in order to bring the nation's military strength to the point where we can meet force with force if the necessity arises.

We are not "hawks" per se. We sincerely hope for world peace. We have had our turn in the barrel a couple of times in being called to the defense of our country and we didn't particularly care for it. We just don't like the idea of being shot at with a distinct possibility of being killed.

But we will stand strong once again if it becomes necessary. However, we don't want to stand alone.

Because of the time element, the outcome of the primary elections are not known. We mention this only because one of the candidates for nomination has expressed strong views concerning the nation's military might and those views are not on the all-time popularity list. Nevertheless, we feel they are relevant.

Allen O'Donnell, Wayne, candidate for the Democrat nomination for First District Congressman and former career military man, expressed a strong opinion during his campaign that "we must remain militarily strong and alert."

He expanded on this view by pointing out the volunteer military strength is below those standards and numbers needed to combat overt aggression by a major power. He said there isn't enough manpower to turn back an aggressor and the manpower now making up the nation's military isn't trained to standards needed to meet modern day military might.

Both O'Donnell and myself are speaking of conventional warfare. The United States is a leader in nuclear warfare. But if it ever comes to nuclear war, there, in all probability, will not be enough left of the world as we know it to decide a "winner." The entire world would be a "loser."

So we are assuming no major power will "push the button" to start a nuclear war. That leaves us with conventional warfare and the United States has fallen behind in both technology, equipment and manpower. The United States cannot expect to maintain its posture as a world leader without the "clout" to back it up.

O'Donnell reported today's fighting man is disillusioned, undisciplined, undertrained and is not equipped with the necessary "hardware" to meet the needs of national security.

This seems to fit the picture as voiced by U.S. military leaders who have knowledge of our nation's military needs. We feel our military strength is important not only to the security of our nation but to world peace. World peace will not come with one throwing down the spear to pick up a plow while another continues to upgrade its weaponry and manpower. It's either one or the other and none of the major power are not doing much plowing. — Chuck Barnes.

Where Do Nebraskans Turn First For Information On Where To Shop?

Television: (2.1%)

Radio: (6.3%)

Nebraska Newspapers: (78.3%)

A recent survey conducted for the Nebraska Press Association reveals that Nebraskans rely on Nebraska newspapers more than any other medium to find out the cost and availability of products. Readership of newspapers is very high, with 95.8 per cent of all Nebraskans saying they read newspapers regularly.

In fact, for every person who uses television to find out the availability of new products on the local level, more than six rely on Nebraska newspapers. For every radio listener, 15 turn to Nebraska Newspapers.

Nebraska newspapers are the primary source of information for local news and sports to over half of all Nebraskans.

Because newspapers can go into more depth on the news that affects Nebraskans is probably the reason why over 80 per cent read their own newspaper virtually cover to cover.

Many Nebraskans want to see their weekly newspaper every week. That's why 85.8 per cent of all Nebraskans get their weekly newspaper through paid subscriptions. And why 61.5 per cent of all Nebraska newspaper readers make buying decisions based on ads they've seen in their own weekly newspapers.

The fact is, Nebraskans rely on their newspapers.

Survey conducted under the direction of the faculty of the Department of Marketing, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, March 1978.

Grain Plan Expanding

The 666,490 farms signed up through April 27 for participation in the 1978 wheat and feed grain programs represent 29.7 percent of the 2,237,780 wheat and feed grain farms in the U.S., according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

This second weekly sign-up report shows 211,467 farms enrolled during the period of April 21 through 27, Fitzgerald said. Information is not available for today's report on the feed grain and cotton additional diversion provisions and the wheat grazing option, but this data will be presented in future, weekly, sign-up reports beginning May 9.

A total of 9,703,873 acres of cropland has been designated as set-aside by the signed farms, including 5,876,522 acres of wheat, and 3,827,351 acres of feed grains. The feed grain set-aside includes 442,790 acres of barley, 2,755,861 acres of corn and 627,080 acres of sorghum.

Signed-up farms intend to plant 29,382,609 acres of wheat and 38,273,413 acres of feed grains. The participating farms have 44.9 percent (120,342,050 acres) of total normal crop acreage (268,246,692 acres) in the U.S.

Participation in the set-aside program is voluntary. However, non-participants are not eligible for price support loans, disaster payments or deficiency (target price) payments.

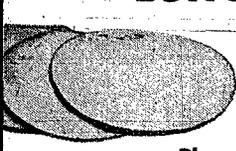

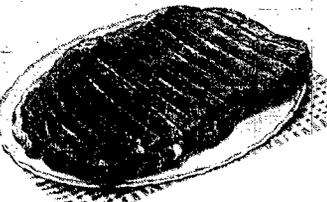

While farmers need to sign up and comply with set-aside provisions to be eligible for program benefits, they will not be held to the intentions they provide ASCS during the sign-up period. Final figures will be available after farmers have "certified" their acreage later in the year.

Sign-up began March 1 and will continue through May 15. A progress report will be issued each Tuesday until sign-up is completed.

There are 563 producers signed up in the set-aside program in Wayne County as of May 4. These farmers plan on planting 54,840 acres corn, 87 acres milo, 141 acres barley and 138 acres wheat.

All-risk Farm Insurance Proposed

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland today proposed a comprehensive, nationwide, all-risk crop insurance reform bill which he said would provide better protection for farmers than present disaster programs at no additional cost to the Government.

The proposed farm production protection act would consolidate four present Disaster Assistance Programs into one comprehensive, share-the-cost program to insure crops against natural disasters and some other uncontrollable risks. Coverage would be provided the first year for 18 major crops, which account for 89 percent of all cropland acreage, with the potential for expansion over 10 years to cover all farm products, including livestock.

"Our present system of providing disaster assistance to farmers must be improved," Secretary Bergland said. "The present programs overlap, with some producers eligible for several Federal programs but others not eligible for any."

"The program we are proposing would consolidate many of these programs, increase protection available to farmers, give them a choice of protection levels and make the protection affordable for most producers."

"The new program will cover the major costs of production at a reasonable premium. It is designed to provide dependable, year-after-year coverage, with continued eligibility for farmers."

"If the plan receives speedy consideration in the Congress, the first crop that could be covered would be 1980 winter crops planted in the fall of 1979."

Each farmer who participates in the voluntary program would pay a premium based on the level of protection he chooses and the risk involved in his farming operation. Cost of the insurance would be shared between the farmer and the Government.

Under the program, each producer could choose from three levels of insurance coverage — 50, 70 and 90 percent of his normal crop production. The farmer would pay about half the actual cost of insurance for the minimum 50 percent protection.

If he chooses 70 percent protection, he would pay for most of the cost of the additional 20 percent of protection. The farmer would pay all the cost for the final 20 percent of protection at the 90-percent level. These three levels might vary for different crops.

Secretary Bergland said that by using Federal funds mainly to share premium costs for the first level of protection, with producers paying most of the premiums for higher levels of protection, a level of protection covering cost of production would be affordable to most producers.

The consolidated program is intended to replace the limited protection now offered by Federal Crop Insurance, low-yield disaster payments for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and emergency loans from USDA's Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration.

Costs to the Government would be less than costs of the four present programs, and more protection would be available to more farmers under the proposed plan.

The program would be marketed through private insurance agents, and County ASCS Offices, and funded through USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation.

The new insurance program would not eliminate all disaster programs, Secretary Bergland said. Those which cover land and building damage, flood damage to farms and communities, and small business losses would remain.

"The 1977 Farm Bill provides protection against economic disaster through loan and target price provisions," the Secretary said. "The proposed insurance program complements that action by providing adequate protection for the farmer who has a bad crop or no crop at all."

"This administration promised, during consideration of the farm bill last year, that we would propose revisions in the disaster protection programs for farmers. And we think this plan makes the necessary revisions by offering increasing protection."

"We consider this a part of our comprehensive food and agriculture policy," Bergland said. "The 18 crops covered in the initial phase of the program are wheat, cotton, corn, barley, grain sorghum, rice, sugar cane, sunflowers, citrus, dry beans, soybeans, oats, flax, peanuts, tobacco, raisins, sugar beets and rye."

Lady Godiva made her famous bare-skinned ride through the streets to protest an oppressive tax imposed on the people by her husband, Earl Leofric.

BROWN EVERGREENS

A lot of evergreens in the county are almost completely brown. The question is, will they recover? The only way to know for sure is to wait a couple of weeks to see if they will green up or not.

Despite plentiful moisture last fall we had an unusual amount of wind combined with colder than normal temperature. This combination caused the browning or "burning" of the evergreens. We have some of this every year and except for younger evergreens must recover. This year we will have to wait and see.

IMPLANT CATTLE ON GRASS

Yearling steers and heifers going to pasture this spring and summer should have growth stimulants implanted. It can mean 20 pounds more additional gain per animal during the grazing season.

The cost is small — 25 cents to $1.00 for the implant. It is simple and can be a do-it-yourself operation for cattlemen.

The resulting gain of 20 pounds per animal can add up to $1.00 to $2.00 a pound that amounts to $10.00.

Researchers have run tests on four different growth implants and found little difference in results. Ralgro, D.E.S., Synovex-S, and Synovex-H all showed similar results — 20 pounds per head more gain on yearling steers and heifers. Ralgro and D.E.S. were used on both heifers and steers. Synovex-S is designed for steers. Synovex-H for heifers. All are simple to use. Any of them properly implanted on the back side of a beef animal's ear will boost gains.

WEEDS AROUND TREES

Simazine, sold commercially as Princep, is one of the most widely used and readily available herbicides for weed control in shelterbelts and orchards. It should be applied at rates of 2 1/2 to 5 pounds of Princep 80W per acre. Use the lower rate on sandy soils and higher rates on heavier soils. The chemical should be applied to weed-free seedbeds. A two foot band on each side of the row reduces chemical costs and risks from chemical injury. One to two ounces of Princep 80W per 1,000 square feet is equivalent to 2 1/2 to 5 pounds per acre. The label gives complete instructions on usage and lists woody plant species that are tolerant of Simazine.

While Princep does a good job in controlling weeds that haven't emerged it won't control weeds that have already emerged. Roundup is quite effective against weeds that are around trees.

One word of caution when using Roundup around trees — don't let the spray come in contact with foliage or the bark if it is green.

Vegetable Disease Control Suggestions

Leafspots, blights and wilts are a concern of the home vegetable gardener. These and other diseases cause yield losses, reduce quality and increase operational costs. Often, these problems can be avoided by using disease controls.

There are two major methods of controls — use of fungicides and organic gardening techniques. A combination of methods is often most effective.

The organic approach includes the following cultural practices: Sanitation — clean up all plant debris after harvest in the fall or before planting in the spring. It is wise to rogue severely diseased plants during the season to minimize spread to neighboring plants. Badly diseased plants should not be composted.

Resistant varieties — using vegetable varieties which are resistant or tolerant to many of the serious diseases is one of the best ways to prevent severe losses.

Watering — watering at the base of the plant by furrow, drip or trickle irrigation will reduce foliar diseases. Maintaining a uniform soil moisture level through mulching and watering frequently prevents excessive root and crown rots as well as blossom end rot on tomatoes.

Selection of garden site — locate garden sites on a well-drained soil away from shaded areas.

Plant spacing — space plants far enough apart to allow for rapid drying of the foliage. This reduces damage from leafspots and other foliar diseases.

Rotation — an ideal rotation would be to plant the same vegetable in the same garden area only twice every five to seven years.

Soil fertility — vigorously growing plants usually are less prone to diseases. Time of planting — avoid planting a warm weather crop too early or an early spring crop too late. Stressed plants are more easily attacked by disease-causing organisms.

For the gardener who is striving for maximum production from the backyard garden, the best approach to disease control is a combination of organic methods plus use of selected fungicides. The organic approach is primarily a preventive program to keep diseases from becoming established. Once a disease has been detected and correctly identified, the use of a fungicide becomes the predominant method of control. Before using any fungicide, read and follow all label instructions.

JERUSALEM ARTICHOKE

Description
Jerusalem Artichoke is a perennial reproducing by rhizomes, tubers, and seeds. Roots fibrous, from short rootstocks which bear edible white tubers at tips. Stems erect, usually branching above, rough hair, and up to nine feet in height. Leaves simple, large, opposite on lower part and alternate on upper part of stem, upper surface very rough, lower surface hairy, varying from egg-shaped to lance-shaped, edges saw-toothed. Flower heads about two inches in diameter, with large yellow ray flowers surrounding yellow disk flowers. Seed flattened, wedge shaped, smooth, often mottled with black. Jerusalem artichokes are found in moist fields, fence rows, roadsides and woods.

Control
Use 1/2 pint, 2,4-D plus 1/2 pint Banvel in corn fields. Use drop nozzles on corn taller than eight inches. If no crop is growing, use one quart 2,4-D ester plus 1/2 pint Banvel per acre.

Special Remarks
Control is best achieved where infestations are left undisturbed and then sprayed at bud stage.

Use Mulch For Garden

Mulches conserve water, keep fruit clean, aid soil temperature control and help prevent weeds. Tomatoes, asparagus, peppers, beans, potatoes, cucumbers, melons and squash are some crops that benefit from mulch. Organic materials such as straw, hay, grass clippings, ground corn cobs, sawdust, wood chips and other materials are suitable as mulch. Paper, plastic and aluminum foil are commercially available and make excellent mulch.

Loose organic materials may be applied three to four inches deep around the plant and between the rows after the first cultivation. Apply only two inches if dense material such as sawdust is used. To avoid possible deficiency to the crop, add nitrogen fertilizer to all organic mulches except legume hay, manure and compost. Organic mulches will help improve and maintain soil physical condition when plowed down.

Paper, plastic or aluminum foil mulches should be rolled over the prepared seedbed before planting or transplanting. Anchor edges of this material by covering with soil in small furrows at each side of the roll. Make furrows before the material is rolled out. Cut small holes at proper distances for transplanting or hill dropping seed of melons, beans, corn or cucumbers.

- 1 teaspoon Vanilla
- 2 cups Sugar

Cinnamon Rolls

- 2 packages Yeast
- 1/2 cup Warm Water
- 1 cup Milk
- 2 Eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup Margarine
- 1/2 cup Sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Salt
- 3 or 4 cups Flour

Dissolve the yeast in the warm water. In a saucepan, scald the milk and set aside to cool. Or, to cool faster, set the pan in cool water.

In a large bowl, mix the beaten eggs, margarine, sugar and salt. Add the cooled, scalded milk, dissolved yeast and flour. Knead until smooth, adding more flour so it isn't sticky. Take dough out of bowl. Grease the bowl and put dough back in. Cover with a dish towel and let rise until double in bulk (about 2 hours). Punch dough down. Let rise again until double (about 2 hours).

Don't punch dough down! Roll out on a lightly floured surface. Cover with margarine. Mix 2 tablespoons cinnamon with 1/2 cup sugar. Pour over dough. Roll up lengthwise and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Put dough in a butter or margarine-lined pan. Punch down. Let rise until double in bulk (about 1 hour). Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 3 dozen rolls.

Frost rolls while hot with a mixture of 2 cups powdered sugar and a little milk.
