WHS to Bestow Diplomas Sunday

Graduation from Wayne High School next Sunday will climax one educational era for about 106 seniors. Commencement is scheduled at 2 p.m. in the Wayne State Willow Bowl.

Speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Owen A. Knutzen, superintendent of Omaha schools since 1967. His topic, "Origins of Strength," reflects the 1978 WHS class motto, Dr. Knutzen said.

The superintendent is active in many Omaha educational, civic and youth organizations. In 1977 he received a Midlander of the Year citation by the Omaha World-Herald, the outstanding school administrator award from the Nebraska Council of School Administrators, and the distinguished service award from the Nebraska Personnel and Guidance Association.

Valedictorian and salutatorian awards will be presented at commencement along with scholarship honors.

Project Success To Get Review — Reunion, Too

The Community Council will meet at the high school library Monday night at 8.

Members are also invited to attend the Kindergarten Motor Perception Program which is scheduled from 7:30 to 8 in the high school gym.

The program at 8 will center around the evaluation of Project Success, since its beginning seven years ago.

All members of the community who acted as volunteer aids any time during those seven years are invited to attend as special guests.

Florence Schimeler, evaluator for the project for three years and curriculum consultant this past year, will present her recommendations for the future

Health Board Newly Formed

Mayor Freeman Decker, Tuesday night, named five persons, including himself, to form a Wayne City Board of Health. The mayor said that in the past Wayne has operated under the Wayne County Board of Health but has never had a board of health within the city only.

The board will be used in case of emergencies, epidemics, or similar situations. The mayor doesn't anticipate much use, but the board will be set up for health and safety measures.

Appointed and approved by the city council to the board are Dr. Bob Bentback, Police Chief Vern Fairchild, Dean Metz, Council President Darrel Fuelberth and Mayor Decker.

Concert Forecast: Stage Band 'Exciting!'

It's concert time for the Wayne High Stage Band, and director Ron Dalton declares, "I'm getting excited about this one. The kids really are doing a good job."

So Dalton reasons that the concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the WHS Lecture Hall may be "the best in eight years."

For visual interest the concert will feature a light show backdrop, designed by students with direction from Ted Blenderman, art instructor.

Among the 14 numbers, two will highlight soloists: vocalist Gwen Preston in the theme from "A Star Is Born," and trombonist Jay Hummel in "Somewhere" from "West Side Story."

All the musicians will take short solos. Other selections from leading jazz composers and arrangers include Stan Kenyon's version of "Send in the Clowns," two Maynard Ferguson numbers and a Stevie Wonder medley.

Tickets, available at the door only, will be $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for students.

The band recently won the Wayne State Jazz Festival and placed second in the University of South Dakota contest.

GETTING IN SOME HOT LICKS, Wayne High's Stage Band rehearses for concert Tuesday night. Drummer Charles McClain is lively in foreground.

Plowing Tough, Slow — But Nearing End

"Hardest plowing I ever have known!" declared Gerald Meyer after wheeling his tractor over a to a fence where he spotted a Wayne Herald photographer Wednesday afternoon.

Better if he would wait a day or two for plowing in drier soil, Meyer said. But he decided not to gamble on another rain — what with the frequency of late — so he chugged through the stubborn dirt four miles north of Wayne on Highway 15.

His comment that "It is the wettest spring in several years" had echoes from other farmers on the reporting line, among them another Meyer with the same first name but spelled differently, Gerald, who farms south of Wayne.

He noted that some low areas are so wet they probably can't be planted this year — "and that hasn't happened in years," Meyer said he began planting corn Thursday, along with fertilizer and herbicide application, even though he has not finished cultivating. He plans to combine plowing and planting for remaining acres.

A drive of several miles indicated that cultivating is pretty well advanced. While many farmers mentioned "It's getting late," they agreed not too late — unless rain keeps interrupting in the next week or so.

County Agent Don Spitzke reported that "all the bats that's going to be planted already is in the ground."

Spitzke said moisture conditions appear to be generally good over the Wayne area, even at subsoil depths.

All added up, the consensus had to be optimism for good early season growing — and don't fret about delays and sticky plowing.

Cancer Crusade Begins Downtown

Businesses in Wayne will be contacted this week for the 1978 Cancer Crusade, according to Wayne Marsh, local business chairman for the American Cancer Society.

The business drive is held separately from the residential drive, which was conducted earlier this year. Employees are not solicited at their places of employment.

According to recent reports issued by the American Cancer Society, one of every four Americans will develop cancer, with estimated new cases in Nebraska in 1978 about 5,300 individuals.

Marsh emphasized that money See CANCER, page 8

Extension Library: A Big Giveaway

Public libraries are not the only source of free printed material in Wayne County. The Wayne County Extension Office also has a large number of booklets available.

"In reality we are a little different from public libraries in that we don't loan, we give the booklets away," says Don C. Spitzke, Wayne County extension agent.

The University of Nebraska Extension Service at Lincoln has approximately 541 different titles of bulletins and leaflets for general adult distribution and 648 different 4-H bulletins. All but a few specialized ones are free to Nebraska residents.

Approximately 368 different titles for adults and all 4-H titles are kept in the Wayne County Extension Office so that a patron can pick one up without having to order from the University.

Demand for most bulletins is seasonal. Soon after the first of the year garden bulletins become popular. Later, farmers ask for information on crop varieties.

In May and June main demand is for information on control of insects, weeds and crop diseases. Sometimes when an especially destructive insect or disease is active in the area the Extension Office may be "stripped clean" of all information on that particular pest.

In late summer and early fall the demand from homemakers is for information on canning, freezing and drying. Farmers are interested in grain drying and fall treatment of weeds. As winter approaches, the farmers ask for bulletins on feeding live stock, livestock disease and live stock buildings and homemakers have a special interest in new tags.

The 4-H program has its own cycle with demand for material starting in October and peaking out in March and April. One of the highest, though brief, demand periods is just prior to, and right after, County Fair when 4-Hers ask for record books so they may be completed in time for judging in late August.

Because of the extremely large number of different 4-H bulletins and record books available, the local Extension Office has developed a system of note books with each notebook containing all the printed material available for a given 4-H project area.

Leaders may browse through the project notebook they are interested in and order what they need. They may even check these notebooks out and show to their club members at meeting.

"Nebraska Farm Custom Rates — Parts I and II" doesn't sound like a very exciting title, but it's the most popular bulletin the Wayne County Extension Office distributes," Spitzke said.

Other titles that are on the "best sellers" list include 1973 Guide for Herbicides Use in Nebraska, Lawn Care, Estate Planning and Sewing Women's Slacks and Shorts."

One of the newest methods of disseminating Extension information is the Nab Guides individual leaflets that may be inserted in a three-ring notebook, complete with index. Nab Guides are available in either See LIBRARY, page 8

What If Dams Had Not Been Built?

Few if any of Nebraska's reclamation projects would be in use if today's attitudes and cost standards had prevailed during the major building period of 20 to 40 years ago... and Nebraskans would be the poorer if they did not exist.

None of this state's reclamation projects was built without opposition. Some of the bitterest arguments surrounded the planning and authorization for the building of Keystone Dam to create Lake McConaughy. One of the most divisive arguments related to possible diversion of water from the Platte Valley watershed.

Optimists will recall some of the many points used against the building of that project. They were not called "environmental concerns" in those days, but some have a very familiar sound in retrospect. They included:

- There is not enough water to go around, with the Platte dry through much of the summer. The dam will never be filled. It is just a giant boondoggle.
- Thousands of acres of the best farm and ranch land along the river will be covered by the reservoir and lost forever.
- The cost is too great, these are depression times. There is already too much production and farm prices are too low.

—The engineering is faulty and the whole thing won't work. Suppose somebody decided to blow it up, the valley would be devastated.

After lengthy legal and political battles, the dam was built and began filling in 1941. Thousands of acres of Tri-County project land were put under irrigation and have been blooming ever since. The water table in the irrigated areas has risen steadily, making possible later extensive pump irrigation development from underground sources that are constantly recharged.

Lake McConaughy has developed into the state's most spectacular recreation and fishing area. If an "endangered species" of plant and animal life was lost, most of us have not been inconvenienced or are even aware of it. There is always cause for concern about the stability and maintenance of any dam, and this factor can never be minimized.

Count off the other projects which were built in spite of many of the same arguments — Box Butte Dam on the Niobrara; the Republican Valley dams that guard against disastrous floods like that of 1935 and also provide water for thousands more irrigated acres; Merritt Dam on the Snake River; Sherman County Dam near Loup City; the Salt Valley lakes which have halted what were once recurrent flood damage losses to cities, villages and farmlands.

Few people would say these projects have not proved out.

Hindsight is simple, but foresight is much more difficult. Not every proposed project should be built, but reclamation projects in our state have a very good batting average. This is an age when worry over the habitat of a tiny "small darter" fish can halt a $180 million flood control and power project that is virtually completed.

The point is that if today's public attitudes had prevailed at the turn of the century, there would have been no Bureau of Reclamation projects. The Platte, the Colorado, the Columbia, the Missouri, the Snake and all the other great western rivers could have continued to flood and rampage each spring. The valleys could have gone unwatered and the great hydro-electric systems never built.

Who among us would be better off if these things had never happened?

Enjoyed Museum

Dear Editor:

The Eighth Graders of Mrs. Mitchell's Social Studies class at the Wayne Middle School would like to publicly thank the Wayne County Historical Society for making our tour of the museum possible. We would also like to thank Mrs. Clifford Johnson for giving us such an informative tour. It was interesting and well worth while. We feel very fortunate to have the display in Wayne. — Mrs. Mitchell's Social Studies Class.

WS Business Grad Given State Honor

Former Wayne State College accounting student Raymond Moreland has been named one of two Nebraska winners of the SBA's Small Business Institute Team of the Year award.

Moreland, formerly of Norfolk, graduated from WSC in December, 1976. He is currently employed by Caldwell Manufacturing Co. of Kearney. Moreland was part of the Wayne State SBI program assisting businesses in Northeast Nebraska.

Dr. William Fagan was the WSC business advisor to Moreland.

Dr. Neil Swanson, SBI coordinator and head of the WSC division, also received an award for his role in the program.

The Small Business Institute is a program whereby college students serve as business counselors under a faculty coordinator's guidance. Business firms are provided by the Small Business Administration, and students are assigned to specific cases.

Both Moreland and Dr. Swanson received their awards May 9 from William Randall, Nebraska SBI director.

"The case selected representing Wayne State College team member, is an excellent example of student teamwork," said Rick Budd, Nebraska District Director, "and of a close working relationship with the owners of the business, as evidenced by positive results, a better managed and more profitable business."

Winside Library Gets State Aid Grant of $445

Winside Public Library has received a state aid grant of $445 to be used for improvements at the library, according to librarian Mrs. Harry Suehl Sr.

As part of a state program begun in 1975 for financial aid to public libraries, Winside is one of over 150 public libraries in Nebraska to receive monies this year.

This is the fourth year Winside has participated in the program. State funds totaling $200,000 to be administered by the Nebraska Library Commission have been earmarked for grants to public libraries. These state monies are intended to help libraries achieve the Standards for Public Libraries in Nebraska.

The Standards list minimum requirements for library services to a community, including recommendations for number and kinds of books and materials in a collection, hours open to the public and means of financial support. Libraries must meet seven of eight listed standards by June 30, 1978, to receive a state grant.

Two Receive WS Grants

Two area girls have accepted scholarships to attend Wayne State College in the fall.

Laura Hagemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hagemann, Jr., of Wayne, will be a spring 1978 graduate of Wayne High, where she has been active in drama, German Club, student council, FHA and choir. She plans to major in political science at WSC.

Alene George, daughter of Mrs. Robert A. George of Winside, will be a spring 1978 graduate of Winside High School. She has been active in music, cheerleading, annual staff, drama and speech, National Honor Society, volleyball and basketball. She plans to major in business administration.

The Nebraska State College Board of Trustees Scholarships provide full college tuition at WSC and are renewable for up to four years. Recipients are chosen by the Wayne State financial aids committee and must be in the upper 25 percent of their graduating high school classes.

Other issues include proposed new regulations regarding participation in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper; proposals on financing and carrying out the church's worldwide mission, and several other issues involving the ministry and mission of the church.

Equal numbers of lay and clergy members of the church from throughout the nation will take part in the Assembly.

Ruby Pedersen To Represent Presbyterians

Mrs. Ruby Pedersen of Wayne is among four persons who will represent eastern Nebraska as commissioners (volting delegates) to the 1978 General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church May 14-24 in San Diego, Cal.

Mrs. Pedersen is an elder of the Wayne United Presbyterian Church and an English professor at Wayne State College.

The Rev. Robert Haas of Wayne, stated clerk of Home-Field Presbytery, said commissioners to the highest policy-making body of the 2.6 million member denomination will participate in several key decisions affecting work of the church.

Among major issues: whether self-acknowledged practicing homosexual persons should be eligible for ordination to the ministry and other ordained offices of the church and whether the Assembly should adopt a far-reaching policy in support of small-acreage farmers.

Other issues include proposed new regulations regarding participation in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper; proposals on financing and carrying out the church's worldwide mission, and several other issues involving the ministry and mission of the church.

Equal numbers of lay and clergy members of the church from throughout the nation will take part in the Assembly.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Dates Set to Test Gauges

Homemakers should be checking their supplies and equipment for home food processing, advises area home economist Anna Marie Krefels.

She says now is the time to inventory supplies for the quantity and sizes of jars and lids needed when garden products are ready for canning. Gauges on pressure canners should be checked at least once a year so that food will be processed at proper temperature and pressure.

Two testing clinics have been scheduled during May for homemakers who would like to have a gauge tested. On May 16 gauges will be tested at the Northeast Station near Concord. On May 18 testing will be done at the Wayne County Extension Office in Wayne.

Miss Krefels said homemakers need to bring only the canner lid or the pressure weight to have gauges checked. Lists brought for testing should have the owner's name, address and phone number attached. Gauges may be brought to the clinic sites prior to the testing date and left for testing.

Testing will be done between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on days of the clinics. For further information contact Anna Marie Krefels, Area Extension Agent, Concord, Nebr.

"Good canning equipment properly cared for is essential for successful food processing for maximum safety and minimum spoilage," said Miss Krefels.

Patio Garden Practical Answer For Lawn-less

There is an alternative for garden enthusiasts with the desire and not the space to grow a garden.

Dan Janssen, Extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says more people are turning to container or patio gardening as a substitute for the acreage out back.

"With container gardening," says Janssen, "the balcony, a doorstep or even the patio can be turned into a garden." Just about any container can be adapted for this purpose, he says, adding that plants should do just as well as they would in the garden.

Commonly used containers range from small flower pots on kitchen window sills to a large wooden box on the patio. Other possibilities include large clay pots, an old metal or plastic pail or flower boxes, he adds. The size and number of containers will vary with the amount of space and the number of plants. All containers used for gardening, however, should have holes in the bottom or sides, says the specialist. "For large containers like plastic buckets or pails, drainage holes should be punched in the bottom and sides so the water can drain out," he says.

The specialist advises choosing a container that is only as large as needed to hold the plant when fully grown. Radishes, onions and a variety of miniature tomatoes, such as Tiny Twins, will "do well in a 10-inch pot."

For the average patio, a five-gallon plastic container would be adequate for easy handling and still provide enough space for a large vegetable plant, he adds.

Triplets Blow Out Candles Together

BY LAVON BECKMAN

It was a rare occurrence that took place in the John N. Johnson home near Wakefield in 1920 when Mrs. Johnson gave birth to triplets.

Another rare occurrence took place Thursday night in Carroll when the Johnson threesome got together in the Bob Johnson home to celebrate their 58th birthdays.

Al Johnson and his wife, Ardith, live in Oregon; and Ruth Steube and husband Albert drove up from Lincoln to celebrate their 58th birthdays with brother Bob Johnson of Carroll. It was the first time the triplets had celebrated their birthdays together in about 25 years.

Al, who claims to be the oldest, Bob and Ruth were born on May 11, 1920 to the John N. Johnsons on a farm two and a half miles south of Wakefield. Their parents are no longer living, however, eight other brothers and sisters, all older than the triplets, make their homes in California, Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska.

Emma Fredrikson, at 77, is the oldest sister and resides in Wakefield. Other brothers and sisters include Ed of Modesto, Calif., Perry of Carroll, Ivan of rural Wakefield, Clarence of Sioux City, Walter of South Sioux City, Lawrence of Madison, S.D., and Ethel Packer of Wakefield.

Al, Bob and Ruth graduated from Wakefield High School in 1938. Al joined the Air Force shortly after school, Bob went to work for his brother Perry, who owned the Mobile Station in Carroll, and Ruth worked in Omaha for about a year and a half.

Al married Ardith Boreman of Wakefield on Aug. 26, 1943. The couple farmed south of Wakefield for 10 years and then moved to Pilot Rock, Ore. Five years later they moved to their present home at Rossburg, Ore. Al owned and operated a service station in Oregon for 12 years and has been with the Douglas County (Ore.) Parks Department since that time. He and his wife have four children: Paul, Peggy, Craig and Faythe, who are all married. They also have five grandchildren.

After working at his brother's filling station for two years, Bob served in the Army for four years. He was seriously wounded during World War II at the Battle of St. Lo in France and was awarded a Purple Heart.

Bob and Patricia Tucker of Carroll were married Jan. 28, 1945 and have lived at Carroll since that time, where Bob has served as rural mail carrier for about 30 years. Their son, Mark, works in Blismark, N.D., and a daughter, Marsha, is married to Mike Creighton of Wayne. Creightons and their two-week-old daughter, Sarah Joy, live in North Platte.

Ruth married Albert Steube on Aug. 26, 1942 and farmed east of Winfield for four years. They moved to a farm northwest of Wakefield for seven years, and from there farmed northeast of Wayne about four years. There were brief years spent at Ida Grove, Ia., Allen and Plainview before they moved to their present home, at Lincoln, where Albert recently retired as area salesman for Land O' Lakes.

Steubes have three children, Loyal of Lincoln, LaRayne Donahoe of Layton, Utah, and Milan of Houston, Tex. There are four grandchildren.

Mrs. Joyce Niemann of Wayne baked a birthday cake honoring the birthdays of Al, Bob and Ruth. It was served Thursday night to friends and relatives who visited the three in the Johnson home in Carroll.

TOM GINN slides into home plate for a score as the Ponca catcher awaits a late relay throw. Wayne went on to win

Wayne High scored 10 runs on 11 hits to roll past Ponca in semifinal action of the district baseball tournament, Thursday.

Ponca scored first as Kenny Jensen walked and came home on Sheldon Koepple's single and a Wayne error. Wayne gained the lead with two early runs in the first inning. Jeff Zeiss walked, Dean Carroll singled and Tom Ginn drove them in with a triple.

The Blue Devils padded their lead in the third as Tom Ginn doubled off the wall and Kevin Murray singled to bring him home.

In the fourth, Vic Sharpe walked, Zeiss singled him in, stole second base, and Carroll singled to add two more runs.

Wayne's final four runs came in the sixth as Mark Gansbaum, Ginn and Murray capitalized on hits, walks and Ponca errors.

In looking ahead to the final game against Wakefield, Coach Mike Mallette said that Wakefield has a good infield and a good outfield so the Blue Devils can't afford to make many errors.

Mallette also termed his own team as "pretty dangerous". He said they play good gutsy baseball and are capable of beating anyone. The Wayne-Wakefield matchup is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., Tuesday at the Wayne baseball diamond. Wayne's record is now 11-2.

Young Wayne High Golfers End Season On Sour Note At Albion

Wayne High golfers had a disappointing day, finishing sixth in the district tournament at Albion with a 372 total. Albion captured the championship with a four man total of 331.

O'Neill was in second place but was disqualified for an incorrect score by one golfer. Scores for Wayne were Bob Bornhof, 48-40-38; Doug Pearson 46-44-90; Jay Stoltenberg 49-47-96; Chip Carr 47-51-98.

Coach Mac Maciejewski said that of the four golfers only Person is graduating and they could have a good competitive team next year.

"Some of the freshmen have been shooting well. If they work on their games this summer and work out their problems they could have a good team," he said.

Back to back home runs by John Tietz and Duane Sorenson in the third inning gave Bancroft an insurmountable lead against Laurel in the opening round of district action baseball in Wayne Wednesday. Bancroft went on to win 12-2.

Tietz hit his homer with two men on base to give his team a four run lead. Then Sorenson belted a solo home run to stretch the lead. Steve Plambeck added three hits and three runs in the game.

Surge Stops Scrappy Bancroft in 9th

Tom Preston singled with bases loaded and a full count to bring in what proved to be the winning run. For Wakefield in the ninth inning against Bancroft, Thursday.

The district semifinal game was neck and neck all the way until the Trojans scored five runs in the second extra inning to win 7-2.

Wakefield coach, Joe Coble termed the game "a typical Wakefield-Bancroft game," and said, "We've had gut wrenchers six years in a row against Bancroft. They have a real fine team as they showed with their ability to hit homers. I just want to pay tribute to them."

The game was scoreless until the sixth, when Wakefield took a 1-0 lead as Dean Sharpe singled and then capitalized on Bancroft errors to score.

Bancroft retaliated in the last of the sixth when Tim Wegner led off, blasting a 3-1 pitch over the center field fence to tie the game.

Both teams were held scoreless in the seventh, so the game went into extra innings. In the eighth, Doug Starzl reached first base on a fielder's choice, stole second, and was batted in by Brad Jones to make the score 2-1.

But, Bancroft still didn't die and Steve Plambeck rapped a solo homer over the center field wall, to tie the game.

Finally, in the ninth, Wakefield put the game away. Larry Soderberg doubled, Barry Jones walked and Todd Swigart was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Preston came to the plate and singled to right field and reached second base on an error.

The scoring didn't stop there. Doug Starzl reached first base on an error and knocked in a run. Then Swigart came home on a wild pitch and Rick Guy brought in Starzl with a bunt single.

Coach Coble said he was pleased with the defense and pitching of his team, and added that the young players (five sophomores and two juniors on the starting team) are improving with experience.

Wakefield upped its record to 10-2 with both losses coming at the hands of Wayne.

Wakefield will meet Wayne in the district finals Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Wayne goes into the game with an 11-7 record, losing only to Lincoln East 10-7 and Lincoln High 7-2. Wakefield has a 10-2 record with both losses coming from Wayne. In semifinal action Wakefield played excellent defense while Wayne relied on its hitting.

It's going to be an interesting contest and the winner could be decisive at state.

Farm Ponds: Asset to Angling; Farmers Eligible for Stocking

In northeast Nebraska, farm ponds provide an important part of fishing opportunities. As Bud Stewart of Norfolk, fisheries biologist.

In fact, Stewart said the Game and Parks Commission already has applications for some 45,600 farm ponds in 1978.

The commission still accepting applications, Norfolk, but availability will depend on provided fish in public waters first species will be available include bluegill and largemouth bass.

Order to receive fish for stocking, landowner must agree to all fishing by permission. This means that the landowner controls who enters his pond, but he must allow a reasonable harvest of fish stock. The target pond must also meet quality, size and depth requirements and must be good of other fish.

There are a number of things that a landowner can do to improve the quality of a farm pond. Stewart said some fencing is required before fish are stocked. On ponds that are smaller than four acres, livestock must be excluded, although it is permissible to allow access points for stock to come and drink.

In an unfenced pond, livestock will keep the water stirred up and turbid. Since both bluegill and bass are sight feeders, they do best in fairly clear water. Channel catfish, which the commission is not producing in numbers for private stocking, do well, and can be purchased from private hatcheries.

Bluegill are stocked to provide food for bass and recreation for anglers. Sustained yields of both species depend mostly upon the ability of largemouth bass to consume enough bluegills to keep their numbers in check. Problems arise when bluegills become too numerous. A "stunted" population of many small bluegills and few large ones is the result.

In addition to annoying anglers, small bluegills disrupt the largemouth bass population by harassing spawning fish and eating their eggs. In a short time, few bass remain and quality angling is only a memory.

For information about improving farm ponds for fish and wildlife habitat — write the Game and Parks Commission, P.O. Box 30370, Lincoln, Nebraska 68503 and ask for a booklet entitled "Ponds for Nebraskans". To apply for fish to be stocked in your home farm pond, contact the commission office in Norfolk.

History Book Collection Donated to WS Foundation

A history book collection of over 600 volumes and worth over $12,000 was recently donated to the Wayne State Foundation for use at Wayne State College.

The books, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mattison of Tucson, Ariz., cover a variety of Midwest history topics, including volumes on the Civil War, railroads, travel on overland trails, range cattle, and sheep business and others.

Ray Mattison, a 1934 graduate of WSC and a historical consultant, is author of "Recollections and Observations of a Nebraska Maverick." The donation, in honor of the Mattison's son, Robert F. Mattison, represents about two thirds of his collection on midwest history.

The collection will be available in the WSC Conn. Library for graduate students and advanced study. The books will supplement other history volumes of the library.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, president of WSC, said the books will be very helpful to advanced study students at the college.

"This fine collection will greatly enhance the ability of our students to have important information on the history of the midwest," he said. "With the larger number of libraries interested in the collection we are happy Mr. and Mrs. Mattison remembered Wayne State in this very tangible way."

Dr. Seymour added that the new collection at WSC may encourage other book collectors to donate volumes containing the Mattison collection to the college.

"There are many people who have books that could supplement this collection and the State would be very happy to serve as the holder of these," he said.

LYLE BLEVINS

Blevins Gets Position As WS Trustee

Wayne State student Lyle Blevins of Decatur was recently named as a student representative to the Nebraska State College Board of Trustees.

Blevins, 22, has been active as WSC student senate president for spring semester, 1978. He is a 1973 graduate of Decatur Public High School and a Junior at Wayne State majoring in physical education. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Blevins of Decatur.

As the WSC student representative, he will represent the college student body on all matters discussed at the monthly Board of Trustees meetings.

The board is made up of 11 members appointed by the governor. Four of those members are non-voting student representatives from the four state colleges. One student represents each college. They are nominated by their respective student senates and final selection, based on those nominations, is made by the governor.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, WSC president, said Blevins should be an asset to the board.

"Mr. Blevins as student senate president has shown his ability to deal with problems of the college," Dr. Seymour said. "We think he will continue to make a fine contribution to the board just as members have in the past."

Spring Signals Moving Season

Between Memorial Day and Labor Day this year, thousands of Nebraskans will be moving to new homes. Approximately one-fifth of the U.S. population move each year, and most do it beginning in the spring.

Whether you're moving across town or to another state, if you're not prepared, moving can be an expensive, time-consuming and aggravating experience," says Kathy Prochaska, Extension family economics and management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Get ready for a move, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist suggests first going through everything you own — clothes, furniture and books — and get rid of everything unneeded or unused.

"The more you can get rid of before the move, the more money you'll save if professional movers do the work and the more time and energy you'll save if you do it yourself," she says.

Whether you decide to move yourself or hire a mover to do the job for you, depends on distance, budget, and personal energy, notes Prochaska. Some families hire movers to do the whole job from packing to unpacking.

If the distance is relatively short and you have help, however, you can save money by doing it yourself, she says.

"And, if you arrange it ahead of time, you can rent a van or trailer and other moving helps, like packing pads, boxes and dollies.

"Remember, however, your property may not be insured against damages during the move," she says. "You'll also need help loading and unloading the truck, so have help lined up ahead of time at both places."

When hiring a moving company, the specialist says to make sure you check out the firm thoroughly beforehand. In nearly one out of six interstate moves, for example, damage claims amount to $50 or more, while in nearly as many cases, families end up paying a bill 10 percent higher than originally estimated.

For local moves, Prochaska suggests hiring a mover licensed by the state and for moves across state lines, she says to look for a carrier licensed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Get cost estimates from at least two companies and then check with the Better Business Bureau to see if there have been any complaints about the companies in the past," she says.

Cost estimates should be made in your home and never over the phone, she adds. "Set up an appointment with a moving company representative in your home so they can see exactly what has to be moved." Also, remember to arrange to have cash or a money order ready since you must pay the movers before your belongings can be unloaded.

If you're planning to move during the busy moving months this spring and summer, the specialist suggests getting your reservations now. May, early June and August are times to avoid moving if possible, since these are mover's busiest times of the year.

"It also may help to schedule a move during the middle of the month when mover's are less busy, rather than the beginning or end of the month," she advises.

Even if you hire a mover, it's a good idea to move small items of value yourself, according to Prochaska. "In fact, most moving companies won't accept liability for valuables like jewelry and important documents. Of course, perishables like plants must usually be moved by the owner, too."

Books are another item you may want to make special arrangements for, she says. It may be less costly to mail them at "book rate" than to include them in the moving van since much of the cost of moving is the weight of household goods.

On the day of the actual move, the homeowner should be there to answer questions. "If possible, witness the actual weighing of your shipment, since charges for moving long distance are based on the total actual weight," she says. "For local moves, the charge is usually calculated by an hourly rate and some movers require a minimum number of hours." Also, check for special charges, if any, for services like packing and unpacking, recommends Prochaska.

"Look over the inventory list of your goods carefully before signing it," she adds. "The company won't be liable for damages if they are listed as being present before loading."

When the van finally arrives at your new home, a careful check is once again in order before signing the inventory list. As an added precaution, she says to add the phrase "subject to further inspection for concealed loss or damage," if losses or damages do occur, file a claim as soon as possible with the local agent.

WHAT IS DIABETES?

Diabetes screening clinics not only alert possible diabetics and urge them to see their physician, but these clinics also bring up many questions and misconceptions related to this disease.

To improve and prolong health it is essential that the diabetic learn all he can about diabetes. This knowledge can give the diabetic freedom and the confidence needed to live with this disease. It is just as important that the non-diabetic understand diabetes so that he can recognize the adjustments required by the diabetic.

Diabetes mellitus (sugar diabetes) is a condition resulting from too little effective insulin. Insulin is a hormone made in the body by the pancreas and it gets into the blood so it can reach all parts of the body. Insulin acts as a key in that it allows blood sugar (glucose) to enter the body cells and be used for energy. It is a protein similar to that in foods, therefore, it can not be taken by mouth as it would be digested, and destroyed.

With diabetes, the body is unable to use foods properly because of a shortage of insulin. This is accompanied by increased sugar in the blood and spillage of sugar into the urine. Some people have enough insulin and still are diabetic which tells us that there are disturbances of "insulin mechanisms".

Basically, diabetics can be classified as one of two types, maturity onset diabetes is usually found in persons over 40 years of age. It appears grad-

Trading at Home is like Doing Business with Yourself

The dollar we spend here at home can — and often does — get back around to us several times before it has to go off after something that isn't produced here, or for some service that isn't available locally, such as squanderous government.

Every dollar we spend at home enriches our community so that it is easier for us to make another dollar — and to save us time and traveling expense when our regular and emergency needs arise.

Building A-Booming in Wayne

CONSTRUCTION flourishes in Wayne these days, with the appearance of new buildings and renovation of others. Some went up during winter months (with interruptions during the more frigid times). Others emerged in the spring as suddenly as grass turned green. An example of the latter: Wittig's new grocery building on Main Street, pictured at right when, on Wednesday, its steel structure made geometric shapes against the sky. Just one day later the shapes vanished as workmen enclosed the whole building with siding.

THE NEW FACE of the State National Bank and Trust Co. rapidly appears, below, as workmen install new stone slabs at second-floor level, matching the stone below.

ALL-PURPOSE describes the new Vakoc Construction Co. building, right below. The interior view shows progress on partitions that will enclose offices, maintenance shops and storage. The 70 by 175 foot steel structure is located on Logan Street behind Allied Lumber and Supply buildings.

HERITAGE HOMES, Wayne's newest major industry, is operating now in a building which manager Rod Tompkins describes as "a football field and a half in size." The company produces houses complete with everything but furniture, ready to be set on foundations and hooked to basement heating, plumbing, wiring. Pictured above, the framework of two houses (rear, left and right) is well advanced. In foreground, workmen are finishing the floor (old structure of another. Units can be up to 14 by 56 feet — the maximum for highway travel — and two or more make a house. Finished units come out the big door of the building, shown at left. It is located one mile east of Wayne.

A NEW STORM SEWER through Wayne's Roosevelt Park area went under construction Thursday. Midwest Bridge and Construction Co., Norfolk, first dug a 24-foot-deep pit just a few yards from Logan Creek, where the seven-foot sewer tube will deliver storm water. Three workmen Thursday hand-scooped dirt below creek level and some of the soil saturated — to prepare for the sewer's concrete base. City Administrator Fred Brink said the line will connect to the present storm sewer exit about 1,200 feet north, near the new transfer station. Route of the sewer will follow an open ditch which for decades has carried storm water. Feeder tubes will make the line about 2,000 feet. Cost: $178,621. Brink estimated that the sewer will carry about 80 percent of Wayne's water runoff.

CONCRETE DRIVES, with curving lines, are the recent visible progress at the new office of Columbus Federal Savings and Loan Association. Other construction continues inside and out.
