Operation CARE

All-Out Effort by Troopers

Nebraska Troopers Bill Watson and Dave Headley, stationed in Wayne, are joining troopers throughout the state and the Midwest in an effort to bring about a change. They want to help cut down the needless slaughter on the nation's highways, especially holiday weekends such as the Memorial Day weekend. Last year, more than 425 persons died in traffic accidents during the Memorial Day holiday.

The projection is even higher this Memorial Day holiday. According to information from the Nebraska Highway Safety program, some 30 percent of the deaths last year could have been prevented through the use of seat belts. However, the most devastating factors are speed and alcohol. Troopers Watson and Headley will join the all-out effort to cut down traffic deaths through a program called CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort). Operation CARE will focus mainly in vigorously enforcing the 55 mph speed limit. Trooper Watson said all of the state patrol cars are equipped with VASCAR, visual average speed computer and recorder as well as the Kustom mobil radar. "With VASCAR, we can detect speeders coming toward us, behind us, meeting us or we following them," Trooper Watson explained. "It is accurate up-to-date equipment designed to detect and discourage speeders."

However, troopers will also be alert to all driving violations of state laws and safety precautions. Their goal, according to the highway safety program, is not to harass or entrap motorists, but to see that motorists are as safe as possible on the nation's highways during especially dangerous conditions holiday weekends present.

It was pointed out that the success of the campaign will not be measured in the number of traffic tickets written, but in a reduction of traffic fatalities.

The whole idea of CARE, which covers some 45 states, started when Michigan Trooper Sgt. Gert Ernst and Indiana Trooper First Sgt. Marion Nett met for a cup of coffee near their state borders.

They started talking about the need for uniform law enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit across the nation. On July 4, 1977, their two state patrols joined together on CARE. Illinois and Ohio joined with them during the Labor Day, 1977, weekend. Now, 45 states are joining together in a combined effort during the three summer See ALL-OUT, page 10

Final Sign-Up Day May 31

The final day for area farmers to visit their ASCS office and sign up in the feed grain set aside program is May 31.

Alden Johnson, chairman of the Wayne County ASC Committee reported there are now 691 farms signed up in Wayne County out of a total 1,257 farms.

Participation in the program requires a minimum set aside of 10 percent of the planted feed grains (corn, grain sorghum, barley) and 20 percent of the farms wheat acreage. There is no payment for the minimum participation but it does qualify the farm for grain loans, disaster and deficiency payments.

Johnson explained payments could be earned by signing in-plantations and setting aside an additional 10 percent of the 1978 feed grain plantings. Farms participating in the additional 10 percent would be restricted to planting no more of the feed grain crop than they planted in 1977.

A recently changed provision of the program should result in more producers signing up, Johnson stated. "We recently learned that participants could destroy corn to use as set aside. This means a farmer could be overplanted now and sign up for the program by May 31. If a hail storm or drought came along later, he could destroy corn, use the acreage as set aside and be eligible for disaster payments."

If there are too many producers signing up the last few days the office assistants may have the trouble to be participants sign a register. They could then come back when there is more time to explain the program and answer questions, Johnson said.

WAYNE TROOPER Bill Watson checks out a mobile radar before taking to the road for the long Memorial Day weekend. Troopers are banding together in a campaign to cut down traffic deaths during the summer's first long weekend holiday.

For Fourth Quarter

County Shows Dip in Sales

Wayne County lagged behind the state in taxable sales increase for fourth quarter of 1977, but it did show a gain, according to the Bureau of Business Research, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Wayne County was up nearly one percent for the period while the state average increase for the year was 4.1 percent. Region 11, which includes Wayne, Pierce, Antelope, Madison, Colfax and Stanton counties, was 1 of 15 regions in the state which did not measure up to the state average.

Region 25, which includes Dixon County, did pass the state mark.

Net taxable retail sales for the fourth quarter in Wayne County amounted to $8,317. This compares with $7,923 for the same period in 1976.

Antelope County showed a whopping increase with $7,098 reported in 1977 as compared with $3,446 the previous year. Madison and Pierce Counties showed slight declines with Stanton County edging ahead just a mile.

Dixon County reported $3,286 in taxable sales for 1977 as compared with $3,286 for 1976. See COUNTY, page 10

Wiring Course For Irrigators

An electrical wiring course on irrigation system installations will be presented Wednesday, May 31, at the Villa Inn, Norfolk, by the Nebraska Irrigation Safety Committee.

The program is being presented in cooperation with the Wayne County Public Power district, the Cedar-Knox Public Power district, the North Central Public Power district and the Niobrara Electric Membership cooperation.

The study course will consist of oral and slide presentation on three phase systems, sizing protective devices, wiring methods, conductors and terminations, grounding and fault conditions and field tests.

State electrical examination for the special electrician license (limited to irrigation systems) will be available at the conclusion of the course.

The course will get underway at 8 a.m. and will conclude at 5:30 p.m.

The Irrigation committee is sponsored by the Nebraska Rural Electric Association and the State Electrical Board.

Examination fee is $10. Applicants are required to furnish their own copy of the National Electrical Code. A slide rule or calculator may also be used in taking the examination.

Future wiring courses are scheduled for Ainsworth June 1.

Council to Meet Tuesday Evening

The Wayne City Council Tuesday night will reconvene as a board of equalization to meet petitions requesting special assessments for the 1978-79 fiscal year. See COUNCIL, page 10

New Building for County

WITH THE WEATHER cooperating, county workmen put up a quonset building on the county yard grounds in south Wayne. The building, 51' by 90' will be used as extra storage for county equipment and will eventually be equipped with a wash rack. The building, which cost the county only $3,100 because it was a "second class" building and was going to be scrapped. Working under the direction of Del Holdorf (left) are Mark Beiermann, Jerry Pospisil, Blackie Larson, Rod Nicholson and Rod Haglund.

County Farmers Included In Pesticide Health Study

Wayne County is included in a seven-county study area to determine the degree of pesticide poisoning in farm workers.

The study is being conducted by the Nebraska Medical Center and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Approximately 160 farmers and commercial pesticide applicators have been chosen by extension agents in the seven counties for testing by Medical Center health professionals for contamination from organophosphate and carbamate pesticides.

According to Dr. Dick Gourley, chairman of the UNMC College of Pharmacy's Division of Clinical Education and Services and a project coordinator, organophosphates were developed for chemical warfare during World War II but have been used extensively in pesticides since then.

Although organophosphate and carbamate pesticides present less of an ecological danger than other types of chemicals used for spraying crops, they are a greater health risk to man and can result in blurred vision, gastro-intestinal and respiratory disorders, coma and eventually death.

"There are over 38,000 Nebraska farmers who use these pesticides," said Dr. Gourley. "A considerable amount of money has been spent by the Extension Service to teach them how to safely use the chemicals. One of the purposes of our project will be to see how well this education is paying off."

The state-funded study, which is also being coordinated by Dr. Terry Holsclaw, Robert Splegel, Margaret Faith and Charles Ryan at UNMC, began in April when questionnaires on previous pesticide use and personal safety precautions were filled out by participants. Blood samples were also drawn at that time.

Another blood sample will be taken and questionnaire distributed after the planting and spraying season to determine the participants' degree of pesticide use and associated toxicity this year.

Dr. Gourley said that the severity of contamination in each participant will be measured by comparing the levels of an enzyme — acetylcholinesterase — in each of the blood samples. Acetylcholinesterase, he explained, is necessary for the proper function of the nervous system, but overexposure to the pesticides can reduce the enzyme to dangerously low levels, which would be apparent in the second blood sample.

"If we find any participants with a serum cholinesterase level below 70 percent of the normal amount, it means they're getting too much of the pesticide and further utilization could be dangerous," said Dr. Gourley.

Depending on its outcome, Dr. Gourley noted that the study could be used as a prototype for future pesticide poisoning screening programs in the state and nation.

The other six counties are Buffalo, Hall, Hamilton, Madison, Saline and Stanton.

The News in Brief

College Trustees Meet

Evaluation of projects for the improvement of instruction program, a revised personnel policy and energy conservation were key items for consideration at a meeting Friday of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges in Lincoln. Henry Ley, Wayne, is a member of the board.

Tennis Program Signup

The Wayne Recreational Tennis program registration will be held Friday, June 2, according to Tom Roberts, director. Roberts said juniors will register from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon and adults will register from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The instruction lessons will last six and eight weeks.

Limit Budget Increase

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution requesting that all government sub-divisions and governmental agencies limit their fiscal 1978-79 budget to increases not to exceed five percent of the 1977-78 budget.

Winside Junior to Spend Summer Visiting Sweden

By CHUCK BARNES
A Winside high school junior this summer is going to be a guest in Sweden and while there she's going to try to track down her ancestry.

Seventeen-year-old Carla Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berg who farm southeast of Winside, will leave June 19 to spend nearly three months in Sweden as a part of the Youth for Understanding program, Washington, D.C. Her trip is being partially sponsored by the First National Bank of Wayne.

Carla is the only student in Nebraska going to Sweden under the program. A Grand Island student will spend the summer in Denmark under the program.

Carla is looking forward to the trip with typical anticipation. "I know I will learn a lot from the Swedish people and I hope they will learn more about midwest Americans from me," she explained.

She also said she thinks the trip will help her to "mature." Because Sweden does not accept many students from the United States because of its anti-Vietnam policy, Carla said she feels she is lucky to be accepted and she has been preparing to try to explain the U.S.'s policy, not only in Vietnam but in other areas as well.

"I have been reading newspapers and news magazines to help me better understand the Carter administration, the reasons behind the Panama treaty and other international and national affairs," she said. "It has made me more aware of my own country."

Carla doesn't know yet who her host family will be or in what part of Sweden she will be staying. "They (Youth of Understanding) said they would let me know about two weeks before I go the name of the family and the location," she explained.

She has worked hard to earn the chance for the trip. She made application last September after becoming a member of the program through her Student Council work in school. She has served as secretary-treasurer of the District Student Council. See WINSIDE, page 10

CARLA BERG stands in front of a herd of feeder cattle on her father's farm southeast of Winside. She doesn't know whether or not she will be going into a farming community but expects to be asked about American agriculture.

OBSERVATIONS

Choosing the right man

The City of Wayne is going to update its comprehensive plan... the plan on which the present is based and by which the future is projected.

Good, sound planning is needed to make the city function properly and to provide orderly growth. The City Planning Commission serves at the direction of the mayor, the members giving of their time and talents. And the pay isn't all that good.

Basically, they are dedicated to a sincere effort to fulfill the needs of the commission. They must make decisions which are not only right for now but also will be right for the future. These decisions are not made on the spur of the moment and the members rely on first-hand information from so-called experts or fall back to the comprehensive plan.

While these men and women make only recommendations to the council, the council in turn relies on the commission to do the necessary groundwork to make responsible recommendations. In order to do the proper groundwork, the commission must be given the necessary resources, one of which is the comprehensive plan.

The council, no doubt, will make the proper judgment to update the plan since it has been nearly nine years since it was last brought up to date. To get the job done, it will take some of the taxpayers' money.

But it will be money well spent. We hope, however, the council will give some thought and time to choosing who will update the plan. Richard M. Wozniak, city planning consultant, has been on the ground floor in formulating the comprehensive plan. He last updated the plan. He can do the job of updating it again at the least cost because he has many of the facts and figures already available.

Perhaps in the long run, it might not be the least cost. We do not demean Wozniak but we think the council should consider a consultant who isn't all that familiar with the City of Wayne, a consultant who might be able to see things in a different light because it would be the first time he would have had a chance to look at them.

In order to progress. In order to grow, there must be new ideas and concepts. There is no status quo. The City of Wayne must move forward with the future so that it can cope with the future. And to get that job done, careful planning must be done now.

We believe in Wayne. We believe in Wayne's future. We want to see that it has every possible chance to grow and to provide the necessary goods and services through sound planning made up of sound, progressive ideas such as those which might come from another planning consultant. — Chuck Barnes.

With Chuck Barnes

The Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool is scheduled to open today (Monday) after extra effort by city employees to get the pool in shape for the coming season.

The pool holds 216,000 gallons of pure Wayne water. We had some trouble in finding the exact gallonage figure. We suggested to city officials they could get it by measuring it a little bit at a time. If they had gone for this, we were going to ask for a recount.

The city employees really deserve a pat-on-the-back for their above-the-call response to make the city's parks and recreational facilities the best possible. They joined forces this winter to put together the "Walton Truck" climb over and kick the tires replica of the vehicles used in the teevee series, "The Walton's." They did it at a considerable savings to the city and it is a better product than is being put on the market. They did the same thing for a couple of other new gadgets in the parks.

We applaud the efforts of the Wayne police department maintaining law and order in the city. Sometimes, however, they are a little over-zealous. Jo Ann Rose of the Wayne English department told about one of her students who was participating in a mini-course who had to do some explaining to the men in blue as to why he was taking a picture of a house. He finally convinced them of no superior motive. —CHB— We have been told people can be divided into three groups: those who make things happen, those who watch things happen and those who wonder what happened. That last group fits us like a glove. —CHB— Things are in a state of turmoil throughout the world, including the good old U.S. of A. The situation statewide has become so tense and nervous, it's been a while since we've seen anyone asleep in church... and that is a bad situation. —CHB— Peter Marshall once said, "Lord, when we are wrong, make us willing to change. And when we are right, make us easy to live with." —CHB— And that, for the time being, is that!

Praise for Prizes

Dear Editor: You and the staff of The Wayne Herald must be mighty proud of your top honors in the 1978 Nebraska Press Association's annual better newspaper contest. As you have stimulated local interests, you have been a major instrument in the growth and development of Wayne. Congratulations and best wishes for continued good news. — Charles Thone, U.S. Congressman.

'Many thanks'

Dear Editor: Although the results of the primary election were not what I had hoped for, I must thank Wayne County for its show of support for my candidacy. And I want to thank especially Mr. Henry Ley for all his fine support, and that of Mr. Ken Olds, Mr. David Ley, Mrs. Sylvia Eynon — and so many more. I can't personally thank the hundreds that did provide me with encouragement and support — but I do hope that all realize how much I do appreciate their help. All my opponents were men of integrity. No matter who wins in November the district will be represented well in Washington, D.C. Again, thanks to all. — Allen O'Donnell.

Out of Old Nebraska to Denver

Francis Wilhee came with his family to Nemaha county, Nebraska Territory in the summer of 1859. In 1862, when he was not yet 18, Wilhee hired on as a "bullwhacker" for a freighting grip to Denver and subsequently made two other such trips for Nebraska City freighting outfits during the mid-1860's. His recollections of those years appeared in Lewis Edwards' History of Richardson County, Nebraska (1917) copies of which are on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

"October 1, 1862, in company with my brother, George, Artemus Armstrong, and Joe and Jim Coker, I went from Nemaha to Nebraska City to 'whack bulls' to Denver. We remained at Nebraska City for ten or twelve days, waiting for freight to arrive on a steamboat. Thomas Fitzwater, from southwest of Brownville, near Bracken, was the wagon boss. "Wag-wages for the men were twenty dollars per month for the round trip, or thirty-five dollars per month if discharged at Denver. Myself and brother and three of our friends took the thirty-five dollars per month proposition. We paid eight dollars each to ride in the Ferris wagons from Denver to Nebraska City, clubbing together and boarding ourselves — slept at ranches, occasionally in a stable, and a few times were out on the prairie at night. At that time beyond Kearney all prairie was called 'sand hills'."

"On this trip the train consisted of thirteen wagons, with six yoke of oxen to each wagon. The freight carried was powder, fuse, whiskey, drugs, quartz, mill repairs and cast-iron pipes. Forty-seven days were required to make the trip from Nebraska City to Denver and sixteen days for the return. "The freight wagons were ponderous, weighing two thousand one hundred pounds, and were on the 'wide track.' They were four inches wider than the ordinary farm wagons of today and were longer at the top than at the bottom by two feet. The bottom length was twelve feet. "On this first trip two bosses killed a buffalo at fifty mile post, a none which indicated that that point was that distance from Kearney. This was the same place where a pack train to all freighters, we took with us as much of the buffalo meat as we could pack on a mule — perhaps two hind quarters. At another time on this trip Fitzwater, the wagon boss, traded a side of bacon for a buffalo ham. The younger generation sometimes believes the freighter feasted on all kinds of fresh meat and wild game as they crossed the plains; but this is erroneous. Cured meat was carried with the other provisions of the freighters and the two incidents cited above are the only times I recall of having fresh meat when freighting. "The ranch business in those days usually was a place that dealt a good deal in the supply of hay and whisky. Some kept clothing, canned goods and other supplies. The ranchers got hold of cattle with lame feet from the freighters, and did a 'swapping' business with these cattle, when the animals had recuperated. Our trained ranch cattle that were disabled, taking a receipt from the rancher, who either later had to turn the cattle over to the owner or to make good to him their losses. "On my first freighting trip I was paid at Denver, in gold dust, at sixteen dollars per ounce. I disposed of the dust in Denver to speculator Jews at a value of fifteen dollars in greenbacks for an ounce of gold dust. I remember that on one of the trips a man brought some meat and had ten cents due him, and the ten cents was paid him in gold dust of that value, actual weight of it being made. Later, the man traded the gold dust for a pipe valued at twenty-five cents. Again the gold dust was a weight, and the weight this time may have a value of fifty cents, different scales at the different times being used. "I freighted to Julesburg, Colorado, in the fall of 1864. T.S. Sloan, of Nebraska City, was the wagon boss, and there were thirty-four wagons. The start was made with eleven five-yoke teams and twenty-three six-yoke teams, which means there were three hundred and sixty-six head of cattle to transport this train. This was a hard trip. Snow fell for twenty-four hours on October 23 and 24, when the train was just east of Wahoo creek. In Saunders county, on the old government trail, a pack train in December, myself and fellow freighter were caught in a blizzard between Salt creek

Pleasant Valley Club Elects New Officers

Mrs. Dale Thompson has been elected new president of the Pleasant Valley Club for the coming club year. Other newly elected officers are Mrs. Erwin Fleier, vice president, and Mrs. Alta Baier, secretary-treasurer. The club met May 17 in the home of Mrs. Thompson. Co-hostess was Mrs. Donald Pedersen. Seventeen members answered roll call by telling the "prettiest sight they have ever seen." The afternoon was spent playing cards. Prizes went to Mrs. Albert Danne, Mrs. Harvey Beck and Mrs. Walter Bater. Mrs. Alta Baier received the hostess prize. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Merlin Preston on June 22.

Hoskins Church 100 Years Old

Next month will mark the 100th anniversary of the Hoskins United Methodist Church. The congregation was organized on June 5, 1878. The centennial celebration will be held on Sunday, June 4, at the church. Dr. John Wichell of Lincoln, a former district superintendent, will be guest speaker for a 10:30 a.m. worship service. His message will be "A Joyful Gathering." Also taking part in the morning service will be district superintendent Fred Loder of Norfolk and senior parish pastor Harold Mitchell, also of Norfolk.

The first church building was erected during the pastorate of the Rev. A. Haas, from 1882-84. Cost of the building was $1,300. The congregation's second church was constructed in 1922 at a cost of $10,000. Dedication ceremonies were held on Aug. 23, 1922. Presiding at the dedication were the Rev. J. Scherbacher and the Rev. C. Jannen. It was during this time that Ann Scheurich, a member of the congregation, entered Deaconess Hospital in Chicago for nurses' training. In 1927, another member, Esliher Ulrich, entered the Deaconess Hospital in Freeport, Ill. for nurses' training. Several church improvements during the 1920's. Trees were planted, sidewalks were put in, and work was done in the church basement.

The 75th anniversary of the church was observed in 1955. From 1952 until 1955 several improvements took place, including painting and installing a new oil furnace in the parsonage and remodeling the church basement. Extensive remodeling of the Brotherhood Building took place in 1962. The Rev. John E. Saxton came to serve the yoke field on the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Hoskins and the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church (United Church of Christ) of Norfolk on Aug. 1, 1965. During his pastorate, the United Youth Fellowship was organized. The yoke parish was dissolved in 1972. Members of the Hoskins Church voted to be served by ministers of the First United Methodist Church of Norfolk, including the Rev. Harold Mitchell, senior pastor, the Rev. Glenn Kennicott and the Rev. Glenn Walt.

The 60th anniversary of the church was observed on Sept. 4, 1938, during the pastorate of the Rev. E. H. Sahl arrived to serve as pastor in 1944. During this time an addition was made to the parsonage garage. The congregation purchased and re-modeled the Brotherhood Building, which was dedicated on June 8, 1947. Current pastors of the two churches are the Rev. Harold Mitchell, the Rev. Keith Johnson and the Rev. Roy Brown. Pastors of the Hoskins United Methodist Church since its organization are as follows: F. Backemeyer, 1878; H. Althaus, 1880; A. Haas, 1882-84; M. Inhelder, 1885-86; F. W. Schuelzky, 1886-89; W. F. Officers Installed at BPW

Janice Predohl will continue to assume duties as president of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club when the group meets next month. Mrs. Predohl was re-elected president during a dinner meeting held Tuesday evening at Les' Steakhouse in Wayne. Other officers who were re-elected are Mrs. Jocell Bull, secretary, and Mrs. Marjorie Matson, treasurer. Newly elected vice president is Mrs. Roberta Welte. The 1978-79 officers were installed by state president Eleanor Barkley of Falls City, who also told about the history of the Business and Professional Women's organization. Also speaking at Tuesday night's meeting were district director Olive Sorenson of Fremont, who talked about the work of the Business and Professional Women's organization.

Next meeting of the local BPW club will be a dinner meeting at Les' Steakhouse on June 27.

Correction

Mrs. Beth Ann Sharer, who presented a piano recital May 21 at Wymore, is a teacher in the Wymore Southern Consolidated School. A story which appeared in the Wayne Herald last Thursday incorrectly stated that Mrs. Sharer taught in the Blue Springs School system at Wymore. Mrs. Sharer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bergt of Wayne. She is married to Tim Sharer, also of Wayne.

Daughter Graduates

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fuoss of Wayne hosted a reception Sunday afternoon following the graduation of their daughter, Carol, from Wayne High School. About 60 friends and relatives attended from Woden and Des Moines, Ia.; Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel, Omaha, Pilger, Norfolk and Wilmot.

Luncheon Marks Final JE Meet

Six members of the JE Club and guests Martha Steckman and Ann Lage met for a 12:30 luncheon Tuesday at the Black Knight in Wayne, marking the club's final meeting of the season. Following lunch, the club met in the home of Camille Ludtke. Card winners were Martha Steckman, Rose Schulz and Ida Myers. Next meeting will be held Sept. 12 with Mildred West.

SPECIAL SERVICES marking the 100th anniversary of the Hoskins United Methodist Church will be held on Sunday, June 4. The church was organized on June 5, 1978.

Trojans Run Into Pitching Ace Finish As State Runner-up

The Wakefield Trojans ran into a formid by the name of Jeff Cherek, and saw their bid for a Class B baseball championship go up in smoke, Wednesday.

The 4-2 junior limited the Trojans to three hits and racked up 14 strikeouts — an average of two an inning. Cherek's Omaha Paul VI teammates added five runs, all in the fifth inning, to win the state championship.

Ricky Incontro smashed a three run homer and Dan Kwasniewski followed him with a solo homer to end Wakefield's hopes.

Paul VI keyed on leading batter Doug Starz, who came into the game hitting .578 and held him hitless. "He was a fast pitcher and the batters were swinging behind the pitches," commented Merlin "Lefty" Olson, sports writer and photographer from Wakefield.

The three lone Wakefield hits came from Rick Guy, Larry Soderberg, and Berry Jones. Guy was the losing pitcher.

Coach Joe Coble said that his team played very well and will be back next year with all but four players returning. Wakefield ends its season with an 11-3 record and the Class B state runner-up trophy.

THE TOWN TEAM will play Wisner Wednesday, at 8 p.m. on their home diamond. Admission will be one dollar for adults and 25 cents for children, 12 and under. Wayne will open N.E. Nebraska League action in Wayne on Sunday, June 4 against Newcastle. Coach Hank Overlin termed Newcastle "one of the strongest teams in the league. Game time is 8 p.m.

A TRIPLE PLAY was recorded by the 4th Jug in Wednesday's softball action against Sherman Construction. George Loofe caught a foul fly ball for the first out and threw the ball to pitcher Mike Loofe.

In the process, a runner on first base advanced to second, but second was already occupied. Mike Loofe ran to second base, and tagged the runner trying to retreat to first. In the confusion, the other runner took off, for third and was thrown out to complete the triple play. Another highlight of the softball league was when Al Pippitt pitched a one-hitter for T.J.'s in a 10-0 victory over Midwest Land.

IN GOLF the Wayne Memorial Day Tournament is approaching. Tee-off time for the four man best ball tournament is set for 8-9 a.m.

Entries for the June 4 tournament, also named Wayne Memorial Day Tournament for some strange reason, are almost filled. Nearly 200 golfers have entered already, with about 30 from Omaha.

Rudy Froeschle, golf pro and country club manager, said the greens have improved tremendously and he is looking for a good tournament.

THE INDY 500 is scheduled to begin Sunday. Drivers will reach speeds of over 200 miles per hour as 300,000 people watch the 200 lap race.

Summer Program Is Shaping Up

The summer sports season is just about here and a schedule has been set up for practice times. To make one of the teams, Hank Overin said the players must work hard. If someone doesn't make one of the teams, he will be able to plant inter city ball. This way everyone plays somewhere. The summer program lasts eight weeks.

Teams are:
 Pee Wee — 10 and under
 Little League — 12 and under Pony League — 14 and under Midget League — 16 and under Legion League — 18 and under

Aerospace Workshop

An Aerospace Education workshop designed to help high school and elementary education teachers combine aerospace topics with regular classroom study will be held at Wayne State College (WSC) June 19 through July 7.

The workshop, worth four graduate or undergraduate college credits, will include a variety of aerospace activities, ranging from aircraft construction theory and rocket launching to air photo interpretation and basic flight training (including 2 hours of actual flight time).

Other activities will include sessions with NASA personnel, field trips to the Offut Air Force Base Underground Command Post and the National Weather Service station in Omaha and a tour of a flight service station and control tower.

Instructors for the class are regular WSC faculty. Special instruction will be given by several flight instructors and by representatives from Cessna Aircraft, NASA, the Civil Air Patrol, the Nebraska Department of Aeronautics and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). An Air Force Lt. Colonel will also assist regular instructors throughout the three-week workshop.

OBITUARIES

John C. Voss

Funeral services for John C. Voss, age 81, of the Cononial Manor at Randolph were held Wednesday morning at the Johnson Funeral Chapel in Randolph with the Rev. Ivan Amman officiating. He died Monday at the Osmond Hospital. John C. Voss was born Sept. 14, 1896, at Hoskins. He lived at Hoskins and Sholes until moving to Randolph in Nov., 1968. Survivors include two sons, Leonard of Omaha and Kenneth of Elkhorn; one daughter, Mrs. Luetha Johnson of Overland Park, Kan.; 11 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Lillian Kenny

Lillian Kenny, age 78, of Carroll died Sunday at Osmond. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne with the Rev. Thomas McDermott officiating.

Palbearers were Gary Hansen, John Watson, Jerry Felt, Tim Riamers, Dennis Zawada, and Douglas Bob and Joe Kenny. Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery at Wayne.

Lillian Josephine Kenny, the daughter of Charles and Agnes Denesia, was born September 29, 1899, at Creston. When she was two years old her mother passed away. She then lived for six years with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Malloy. In 1907 she moved to the Carroll area with her father and family.

She was united in marriage to Ed Kenny Nov. 25, 1924, at Carroll. They farmed in the Sholes and Carroll areas until 1952 when they retired from farming and moved into Carroll.

Until 1963 she worked as a telephone operator in the Carroll Telephone Exchange. She was a member of the St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne and the American Legion Auxiliary in Carroll.

Preceding her in death are her husband, two brothers and one sister. Her survivors include two sons, Merlin Kenny of Carroll and Bill Kenny of Norfolk; two daughters, Mrs. Ralph (Mildred) Watson of Omaha and Mrs. Betty Reimers of Sheridan, Wyo.; 16 grandchildren; two great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Mabel Tangeman of Cheyenne, Wyo.

When a person feels faint, have him lie down to avoid a fall which can injure him. Sitting down and lowering the head between the knees will increase blood supply to the brain. If fainting occurs, do not apply ammonia inhalants. If the patient does not "come around" naturally, get medical aid.

Being Slighted Over Little Help for Single Parents

Despite the fact that the single-parent family is the fastest growing family form in America today, comparatively little is being done to help single parents in spite of verbal concern expressed by national and community leaders.

This concern was expressed by Dr. Blaine Porter, Dean of the College of Family Life, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, in an address given here Friday (May 5). Dr. Porter outlined the national situation on "Single-Parent Families" on the concluding day of the National Symposium on Building Family Strengths, sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Human Development and the Family and Division of Continuing Studies.

In backgrounding the need for providing support systems for single-parent families, Dr. Porter ticked off a number of statistics documenting the current trend, reminding the audience of family life professionals that the statistics "reveal... the incidence (of single parent families) but do not reveal the trauma and hardship that many single parents and their children face daily."

Heads of households who were single and female (widowed, divorced, unwed mothers) increased nearly 24 percent between 1970 and 1975.

More than 10 million U.S. children under the age of 18 now live with only one parent. And approximately 95 percent of these children are in female-headed families.

In 1976, one child in six under 18 years of age was living in a one-parent family, compared to one child in eight in 1974.

Dr. Porter blasted the stereotype that single-parent families are poor, on welfare, non-white or headed by an unwed mother. "This is not so," government figures show that 67 percent of families headed by women are white," he stated.

The Utah educator noted that Joseph Califano, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, termed the problems of single-parent families "one of the most significant elements" of the Carter Administration's commitment to the family, yet there is little or no evidence of tangible steps being taken to implement this commitment.

While millions of dollars are being spent on research and treatment in other areas of human concern, such as cancer, accident prevention, and cardiovascular diseases, "essentially nothing is being done in the way of research and/or the development of programs to help (one-parent families)," Dr. Porter maintained.

And while much attention is being given to "crises" in society — Watergate, Koozgate, the Panama Canal, energy — what little is being done to help single-parent families is being accomplished by single parents themselves, he added.

One of the difficulties in assessing the single-parent family situation and addressing problems associated with it is the high turnover in the composition of single-headed families. New female-headed families are constantly being formed through death, divorce, separation or illegitimacy, while many female-headed families cease to be as a result of marriage or remarriage, Dr. Porter observed.

Divorce and separation is the most important factor in the growth of female-headed families, he said, with the number tripling from 694,000 in 1960 to 2.36 million in 1970. The percent of female-headed families as a result of being widowed dropped from 52 in 1960 to 32 in 1976, while the percent divorced increased from 15.4 to 32.8 during the same period. During the same 16 years, the number of unmarried female-headed families increased from 8.4 percent to 13 percent.

In regard to the unwed single-parent family, Dr. Porter said U.S. adolescent childbearing rates are among the world's highest. One out of every ten 17-year-old girls in the U.S. is a mother, and 16 percent of these girls have two children.

With one-fifth of all adolescent births out-of-wedlock, therein lies a major problem, he continued: "effective parenting requires a level of maturity seldom reached by the mother of high school age."

Dr. Porter stressed that single parents "have feelings, ideas, dreams and hopes like everyone else. They are unique persons whose choices or misfortunes have brought them to their current circumstances." The variations of uniqueness among single parents make it difficult to generalize on their reactions to bereavement or divorce, he said, as well as on efforts to be of assistance.

How well single parents, in whatever category, cope with their personal problems determines how well parenting responsibilities will be carried out, he stated. This is where professionals must start in efforts to help, he said.

In citing implications of changing family structures and the nature of single-parent families, Dr. Porter said the latter challenge the body of family writings which assume a nuclear family of husband, wife and children and they challenge the role definitions on which much family analysis has been based. These institutional changes in marriage challenge family therapists to redefine and re-examine their work and their assumptions and to seek new and creative ways of assessing and working with single-parent families.

Family life specialists need to be sensitive to the degree that a broken marriage may compound previously existing problems, especially if broken by divorce. Feelings and attitudes such as inferiority and inadequacy may be confirmed and exaggerated by divorce.

In many respects, single-parent families may be in need of more supports from the social system than do complete families, Dr. Porter pointed out, but ironically, there are fewer supports for them.

"We need to keep in mind that our role will not be limited to counseling on parental problems," Dr. Porter said, "but will often include helping a fractured individual pick up the pieces of his or her life and find new meaning."

Sometimes, professional persons can learn much from the client, he suggested.

"We need to realize we are a source for help; we can be instrumental in promoting growth and change, but we are not the solution," Dr. Porter stressed.

On an optimistic closing note, Dr. Porter said that women who are single, single parents and in their 30's and 40's have a far brighter future now than was true even a decade ago. They have many doors open to them, encouragement opportunities to build a life for themselves such as has never been true in the past.

County —

For the year, net taxable retail sales were up 4.1 percent for the state. Commodity price increases were 6 percent in 1977, while Nebraska's population was estimated to have increased by approximately one-half of one percent in 1977.

After adjustment for price increases and population increases, the real volume of retail sales during the fourth quarter of 1977 and for the year 1977 was about three percentage points below 1976 levels.

This represents one of the few decreases in retail sales in the recent years, according to the researchers.

The department could not generalize as to the cause for the dollar volume decrease in Region 11. They said some rural counties are experiencing dollar volume decreases while others are reporting about average increases.

As a point of interest, motor vehicle sales are recorded in counties in which the vehicles were first registered regardless of point of sale.
