

Group Voices Disapproval

Editor's Note: The following is a statement by the Wayne County LID committee, Russ Tiedtke, chairman, in response to the Wayne-Carroll District School Board of Education's stand against a law limiting spending by governmental and taxing agencies.

NSSBA, NSEA, Gerald Koch and co. put LB33 through Nebraska legislature and tried their best to seal it so the people could not be allowed to vote on the question of taxation for school purposes. Rather the people had to petition their right to vote.

We have Land Zoning Laws passed by our Nebraska legislature that also we find are written so the commissioners cannot allow the people to vote.

Rather the people need to petition their right to vote.

Most recently the Nebraska legislature passed legislation that will not allow cities and municipalities to vote on their city sales tax.

Now they are trying to tell us that legislature should pass a LID bill. Don't be fooled by such promises. State legislature, less than two months ago, had a bill before them as proposed by Governor Exon to limit spending. The legislature was very vehement and rude in refusing to even give that bill a fair debate; but killed it after but 30-45 minutes.

Now again, the people are petitioning their right to vote on a five percent LID on spending by local governmental units, NSSBA, NSEA, and their associates are trying every means available to tell us to let legislature do this, and are using all the strategy at hand to convince the public they should NOT vote. If these people are sincere, then they can pass a bill limiting the increase in state government followed by limits set on federal government.

It is clear, if the people do not take a hold and regain their rights to vote; and control government, we will be ever increasingly overtaxed.

Even at a five percent increase limitation, we will be taxed 50 percent more by 1986 or 1987. Compare this to what if would be by 1986 or 1987 at our present 10-14 percent yearly increase. We all know this cannot continue.

The recent action by the Wayne school board is certainly not in the best interest of the patrons in Wayne school district. District 17 already is on the short end of receiving as much revenue back from state government as we send in now.

A National Institute of Education study shows Nebraska school costs have risen 85.9 percent since 1971, while enrollment has declined 6.3 percent. The Nebraska spread is among the widest in the nation.

Ted Davidson, an official of the Iowa Association of School Boards has been quoted as saying costs there have been stable over the past five years. A five percent spending limit was imposed in 1971.

Well over 50 percent of the states in the United States are now working on such LID bills. The people have to do it in all cases.

And in every case, the NEA is up front trying every possible tactic to confuse the people.

The county commissioners have told us, they are voluntarily going to set budgets withing a five percent increase. Hats off to them. Now, why will our local school board not at least be willing to try to do the same.

The same goes for our city government. It is past time for our city council and mayor to show some responsibility and concern for those who pay the bills. The time has come for the citizens to take hold of city government. A five percent annual increase is substantial for any one.

Farm Income Slips for Second Year

Wayne county farmers are scratching their heads wondering when it's all going to end as they found their income declining for the second consecutive year.

An upsurge in the final quarter of 1977 kept the year from being a complete wipeout.

according to the June issue of "Business in Nebraska". Nebraska's farm income for 1977 was estimated to be $789 million. This represents a 3.5 percent decline from the 1976 level and a whopping 4.5 percent from the level of 1975.

The 1977 farm income level represents the lowest level of farm income since 1971, according to the report.

During the 1970's, farm income was characterized as being extremely volatile, the report stated. There were considerable year-to-year fluctuations. Farm income increased in four years and then went into a slide for three years.

Some 20 to 30 percent of the farmers in the Wayne land community with the exception of Dixon County had incomes below $4,302 in 1974 and nearly 50 percent had incomes of less than $8,191, according to a study by the Center of Rural Affairs.

The Center research showed that farm poverty in Nebraska in 1974 was sharpest among livestock farmers due primarily to low cattle prices. Cash grain farmers did much better, the survey indicated, due to unusually higher grain prices in 1974.

The unusual cattle and grain prices in 1974 also produced a peculiar pattern to the distribution of farm poverty within the state, according to the report.

Northeast Nebraska and the Sandhills region, both heavily livestock areas, showed the highest concentrations of poverty.

In a footnote to the survey, it was pointed out farm income figures are one measure of economic "wellbeing," but they are not the only one. Farms are business enterprises with assets, especially land, and as many economists have pointed out recently, while farm income may vary greatly from year to year, there has been a general tendency for the value of farm assets to increase steadily, and in some cases, dramatically.

Wayne Post Office Opens Job Register

Wayne Postmaster Wilbur Giese has announced that Clerk Carrier exams will be given Saturday, July 22 at 2 p.m. and urged that all those interested apply to take the job-related tests that can lead to Postal Service employment.

Salaries, not including fringe benefits, for clerks and letter carriers begin at $6.90 an hour and increase to $8.19 an hour over an eight year period.

"We have not opened our register since September of 1974, and an examination of it has led us to believe that it is out of date, many of the names on the register are people who have moved or are no longer available to take postal jobs," Postmaster Wilbur Giese said.

Postmaster Giese anticipates approximately two vacancies will occur in the next two or three years that will be filled by hiring people from the updated register. "We need qualified people who will be willing to accept the type of employment we have. This will be part time and irregular working hours. We want to offer people in the local community the chance to compete for these openings by signing up for and taking the exams."

On October 8, 1978 those who have been on the job register for more than two years will lose their eligibility. They will have to reapply to compete for a standing on the new register, Giese explained.

Interested persons may obtain an application card by calling at the post office window from 8 a.m. June 5 through 4:30 p.m. June 16.

Final Draft Of Co. Plan

The Wayne County Joint Planning Commission Tuesday night voted to authorize the printing and submission of the final draft of the land development regulations.

The regulations are expected to be in the hands of the commissioners and for public inspection the middle of July.

Norris Weible, county clerk, said the commissioners will meet Aug. 1 to discuss the regulations. They must hold a public hearing concerning the regulations before they can vote approval or disapproval, Weible said.

The final draft came after some discussion by the commission concerning distances, numbers and feedlots. The distances from structures will remain the same, but the planning commission voted to change the number of animal units (an animal unit is equivalent to one head of cattle, sheep, chickens, dogs, ducks, geese, turkeys).

"A first class feedlot may contain 5,000 or more animal units and must be located one mile from the nearest structure. A second class feedlot may contain 1,000 to 4,999 animal units. (Previously, was 500 to 4,999) and must be located at least three-See FINAL, page 10

Mrs. Dahl will be at Jeff's Cafe in Wayne today (Thursday) 1:30 to 4 p.m. to accept new applications for persons who would like government assistance in paying for the meals they receive.

Persons who have questions regarding Meals on Wheels or Congregate Meals are invited to talk with Mrs. Dahl during that time. Mrs. Dahl said persons who are unable to come to the cafe should call for an appointment.

The ownership of real estate provides many advantages. Not the least of these is that it represents a "forced" savings program. Most people would like to add to a savings account with regular deposits. They realize that such savings can be important to their future. But... it's so easy to put off starting or to miss a deposit or two that few resolutions to save ever come to fruition.

When you borrow money to buy real estate, you are required to make regular payments on the loan. A portion of each payment is applied to the reduction of the loan balance. It builds equity, much as a savings account would.

Should YOU own real estate? We'll help you put some figures together that can help you make a sound decision. No obligation. Call us for any real estate information.

Wayne Early Bird Open

Sasse Stuns Challengers With Blistering 106

Rennie Sasse of Lincoln took advantage of the warm weather and good course conditions to fire a two-under par 106 and win the Wayne Early Bird Open by five strokes Sunday. Defending champion Larry Sock did not compete this year because he is playing for UNL at nationals. Sasse sizzled through the first 18 holes with an unofficial course record of 65 — seven strokes under par. He held a five stroke lead at this point and shot a modest 41 on the final nine holes to win by the same margin. John Tomaszewicz of Omaha was Sasse's closest challenger with a 111. Third place finisher and top contender from Wayne was Wayne State golfer Mark Schram with a 112. Jerry Chestnut of Omaha finished fourth also with a 112. Of the 42 golfers in the championship round, 24 made the cut after 18 holes and played in the Calcutta Round. Sasse recorded five threes on the first nine holes and earned an eagle two on the 223 yard 10th hole. He drove the green and one putted for his duce on the par four hole. Tomaszewicz also recorded an eagle when he hit his approach shot into the cup on the seventh hole. The closest competition of the day was in the seventh flight where three Wayne golfers tied with 85. Pat Gross, Al Cramer, and Wayne Marsh were tied after competition ended and cut cards. Reeg and Ralph Etter were tied after nine holes at 39. Then on the back nine, Reeg's troubles began on the 11th hole where he shot a 9 and ended up with a 46 total. Etter scored an eight on the same hole and shot a 49. 176 golfers competed in this year's tournament. Championship Flight Rennie Sasse, Lincoln 33-32-41-106 John Tomaszewicz, Omaha 36-34-41-111 Mark Schram, Wayne 39-36-37-112

Pheiffer Burns Bancroft With No-hit Shutout

The Bancroft Midgets didn't have a single runner beyond second base and Wayne pitcher Tim Pfeiffer perplexed the batters as he threw a rare no-hit shutout in a 6-0 victory Monday night.

Besides allowing no hits, Pfeiffer struck out 16 batters of a possible 21 in the seven inning game. Bancroft had eight base runners throughout the game on two walks, two fielder's choices, three errors and one batter hit by a pitch.

Pfeiffer's teammates backed up his fine pitching with six runs on nine hits. The first run came in the second inning as Stu Nissen singled and advanced to second on a Tim Thomas sacrifice bunt. Jeff Zeiss drove in the run when he rapped a triple.

Wayne picked up a pair of runs in the third when Dan Mitchell walked, Rick Mettler singled, and Nissen hit a triple. Pfeiffer's pitching then became unhittable as he earned 10 consecutive strikeouts in four innings.

Three more runs were scored in the fifth as Mettler, Nissen, and Thomas singled and Pfeiffer

Two WSC Players Honorable Mention

Wayne State outfielder Steve Kleinsmith and pitcher Brad Black were among six to receive honorable mentions recently to the Central States Intercollegiate Conference "All Star Team" by a panel of conference coaches.

Kleinsmith and Black helped lead an inexperienced Wayne State team this year. The Wildcats had a disappointing 9-11 season under coach Ron Jones.

Kleinsmith, a WSC junior, had 10 RBI and averaged .328 for the season with a fielding average of .917, making only one error in 20 games. He is a 1974 graduate of Woodbine, Iowa, High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kleinsmith of Woodbine, Iowa. Kleinsmith was named to the NAIA District 11 team earlier this spring.

Black, a recent WSC graduate, had the lowest earned run average in the CSC at 1.62 and a pitching record of 3-3. He pitched 33 and one-third innings, giving up only 13 hits and six earned runs. He walked 18 and struck out 38. He also completed a no-hitter against Westmar for the Wildcats in April. He is a 1974 graduate of Westwood High School.

Those named to the 15-member CSC "All Star" first team include six players from Emporia State, four from Missouri Western, three from Kearney State and two from Fort Hays State.

Kearney was declared the conference champion with a 4-2 record.

SWIMMERS FINALLY got to take advantage of the warmer weather by taking a dip in the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool. The temperatures weren't quite warm enough for Mike James, who wrapped himself up in towels to stop his shivering.

Newcastle's Fast Scoring Spurt Too Much For Wayne Town Team

Newcastle exploded for 11 runs in four innings to break open a close game and give the Wayne Town Team a 12-2 loss in the first week of competition in the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League, Sunday.

The game was scoreless until the third inning when Newcastle got on the scoreboard with one run. A walk was issued to Furnholz, then Joe Brandl doubled and Scott Miller and Gunther walked to bring in the one score.

Newcastle held Wayne scoreless and began their barrage of runs in the fifth inning. Singles by Furnholz, White, Scott Miller, and Monte Miller along with one Wayne error gave Newcastle a quick four run lead.

They added another four runs in the sixth when all nine players batted and Wendie, each scored to make the score 8-0.

Wayne had an opportunity to score in the bottom of the sixth with the bases loaded and only one out, but two consecutive strikeouts ended their hopes.

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

USC (3-0), Arizona State (2-1), North Carolina (2-1), and Miami (2-1).

Look for USC to eliminate North Carolina and Arizona State to do the same to Miami. When the perennial powerhouse, USC and ASU meet for the championship, USC will come out on top and take another CWS championship back to California with them.

The College World Series is one of the main attractions in Nebraska sports — ranking behind Big Red football. When the best college baseball teams in the country can play a championship series to see who's the best, it's great to see it being played in Nebraska.

Looking over the pro baseball draft picks announced Tuesday night, my calculations show that Arizona State and USC both had five draft picks in four rounds. The Sun Devils also had the number one pick. Bob Horne, and number three pick, Hubert Brooks. The talent is there and the two teams have shown it with their great play.

One thing that puts Western athletics above that of the Midwest, is the weather. The teams in California and Arizona can play baseball all year long and that makes a difference.

Of the eight CWS finalists, Michigan was the only Northern team.

THE COLLEGE WORLD SERIES

competition is down to four teams as of Wednesday morning. Southern Cal beat Arizona State 5-2 Tuesday to give the Sun Devils their first loss in the tournament. The remaining teams and records are

Wayne Edged By Norfolk

The Wayne Midgets and Juniors lost a pair of games to tough Norfolk teams 6-7, 4-7 respectively Tuesday night. The games were not league games but were set up for practice and experience for the players.

In the Midget game, Wayne took an early lead on runs by Dan Mitchell and Tim Thomas in the second inning. Norfolk took away the lead with four runs in the third. Neither team scored again until the sixth inning when Jeff Dion and Rick Mettler added tallies for Wayne.

With the score tied 4-4, going into the seventh, Dennis Carroll and Jerre Morris scored to gain a 6-4 lead. Norfolk rallied however, when the chips were down, with three runs in the eighth.

In the Legion game, Norfolk scored seven runs on 12 hits to defeat the Wayne Juniors 7-4. Norfolk got the first three runs before Vic Sharpe scored for Wayne in the second inning.

Norfolk came back with three more runs in the third and fourth to run the score to 6-1. Tom Ginn who had a ground-rule double and Al Nissen who

Commission Stocking Lakes and Streams

Lakes and streams throughout northeast Nebraska recently received shipments of northern pike fingerlings, says Lee Rupp, northeast area fisheries supervisor.

According to Rupp, targeted areas for stocking include Clear Creek in Polk County, Barnum Creek in Platte County, Loup Headgates ponds in Nance County, Lost Creek in Colfax County, Beaver Creek in Boone County, Maskentine Reservoir in Stanton County, Simpco Lake in Dakota County, Fremont Lakes in Dodge County, and Willow Creek near Pierce.

Some of the tiny creeks the Commission has stocked would hardly seem adequate for a voracious predator like a northern, Rupp admitted. Those little creeks serve as nursery areas, though, he said.

Fingerling fish, stocked in water already supporting a fisher, cannot compete with the established population. Since the creeks are small, they don't support competing adult fish. On the other hand, there is an abundance of minnows available for forage.

The creeks stocked run through, or into, good-sized sand pit lakes. That makes it possible for the fish to grow a few inches in the creek and then move into the lake where they will be better able to compete.

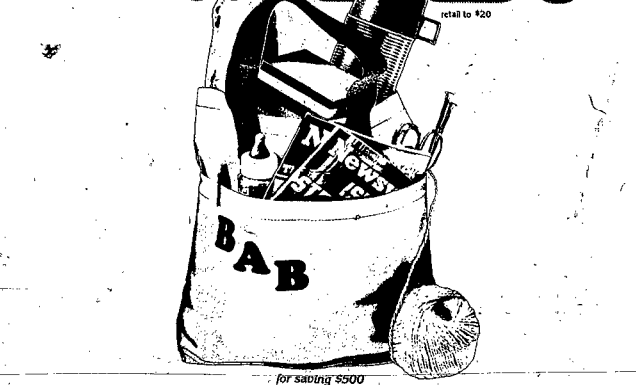

"The reason we don't just raise them to larger size in the hatchery," Rupp explained, "is that we can't, in the crowded conditions of the hatchery, the small northerns begin feeding on each other."

Rupp cautioned anglers against expecting Minnesota-type northern fishing in a few years. What fisherman can expect is an occasional trophy northern, the unexpected surprise that makes fishing so exciting.

The basic fishery, in northeast Nebraska, he said, is a balance of bluegill, bass and channel catfish. Whenever the Commission has surplus northerns, though, they are scattered throughout the district to provide that extra little bit of excitement.

Other fish will be stocked throughout northeast Nebraska this summer to maintain the best possible fishery in the area's limited waters.

Council Tables Two Ordinances

Casey's convenience stores had picked the site as a location for a store. But oral and written objections from property owners were sufficient to cause the commission to deny the rezoning.

It was pointed out Casey's is looking at alternate sites.

The council also tabled a proposal to grant a cost-of-living increase to city employees.

The council made an over-the-board $25 monthly increase earlier and decided to wait until the end of the fiscal year in August to examine the wage schedule.

Gentlemen Prefer Bonds.

So do ladies. And there's good reason. You see, United States Savings Bonds are one of the best ways to save. They're easy. And safe.
They're easy when you buy them automatically at work, through the Payroll Savings Plan.
And they're safe because they're guaranteed to pay off every time.
So whether you wear a white collar, blue collar, lace collar or no collar at all, buy Bonds.
They're a great way to save. And that, Ladies and Gentlemen, is something you'll find quite preferable.

Series E Bonds pay 8% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Thought for Today

By Rowan Wiltse

"Procrastination is the thief of time..."
— Owen D. Young

Most everybody has a tendency to "put off until tomorrow" what could be done today. Before we know it the tomorrows slip by... until one day we reach the autumn of life and suddenly realize we haven't yet begun to live.

NOW is the time to set the wheels rolling; NOW is the time to put your ideas and dreams into motion. Don't make the mistake of waiting until later... only to find "the blossoms are no longer there for picking."

If we had to put it all in a single phrase, "friendly helpfulness" would be our keynote. We serve all faiths, all creeds, in dignity and good taste.

Special legislative session

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
LINCOLN — SPECIAL LEGISLATIVE SESSION.

Nebraska lawmakers are going to be back in Lincoln this summer to fix up a mistake the State Supreme Court said they made several months ago.

The Legislature, when agreeing to extend the starting date of the new criminal code from July 1 to January 1, failed to also extend the repeal date of current criminal laws.

That meant that without corrective legislation the state would have been left without criminal statutes for a six-month period.

After the Supreme Court said the legislators had erred, Gov. J. James Exon said he had "no option" except to call the legislators back to Lincoln.

At this writing, it was not known precisely when the special session would begin, but Speaker Roland Luedtke of Lincoln was urging the governor to have the meeting quickly.

Luedtke also urged Exon to limit the session call to the necessary criminal code amendments. The governor said he had not made up his mind on the matter. It would be comparatively simple for the senators, once in Lincoln, to vote on hang around awhile and consider other issues.

"Who knows what the legislators will do when they get together," Exon said.

There had been considerable debate among state officials and some state senators about the need for a special session. Luedtke, even after the Supreme Court said the Legislators erred, wasn't fully convinced.

But he said he certainly was willing to have a session to dispel doubts anyone had.

Attorney General Paul Douglas had been among those worried that the state might be left without criminal laws, unless the legislature acted.

He asked the Supreme Court to accept original jurisdiction in the matter, but the court said it had no authority to do so.

Douglas then recommended to Exon that a special session be called, and the governor agreed that was the thing to do.

Lid Petition Signed
With G.H. Brauer, Jr., of Lincoln looking on, Gov. J. James Exon recently signed a petition calling for a vote in the general election on placing a constitutional lid on spending by local government units.

The signing was done at the start of a press conference during which Exon said he would have preferred having the proposed budgetary restriction in the statutes, rather than locked into the constitution.

But he noted the 1978 Legislature "after only about 45 minutes of debate" defeated his bill that proposed no more than a 7 percent increase in the year-to-year budgets of local governmental subdivisions.

The petitions being circulated are designed to hold subdivision spending to increases of no more than 5 percent annually.

Brauer said the campaign to gather the 46,000 signatures required to place the issue on the fall ballot is "behind where it should be." But Brauer, one of the campaign leaders, said he expects the drive to pick up and that his organization is still hoping to collect 100,000 names.

The governor said he will not be involved in circulating the petitions. But he added he believes it is a good idea to allow the people a vote on whether they want to amend the constitution to provide a brake on "ever-escalating property taxes."

He said even with the 5 percent increase limit, property taxes "could double in 14 or 15 years" beyond what they are now.

Exon disagreed with those who have labeled the lid amendment "unworkable." If that is so, the people better realize where they are headed on property taxes, he said.

According to the governor, there are "adequate safeguards" in the amendment to cover situations when budgets would have to be enlarged beyond 5 percent to meet emergency situations.

Either the people in the subdivision affected could approve a higher budget, or 40 members of the Legislature could authorize going over the limit, he said.

Exon also said spending lids are not a new idea, noting there are mill levy ceilings for counties and in some city charters.

People are rightfully concerned about inflation and imposition of the spending restriction would be one way of attacking the problem, he said.

The governor took note of talk that approval of the amendment could lead to the laying off of public employees. Such talk is "a scare tactic," he said.

When it comes to spending additional tax dollars, state lawmakers and members of local governing bodies "are probably affected too much by special interests," Exon said. But he would not name any organizations he had in mind. "You can draw your own conclusions," he told reporters.

Solar Energy Advocated

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, chairman of the Governor's Energy Advisory Committee, is advocating use of solar energy for producing domestic hot water at the proposed Public Safety Academy at Grand Island.

This year's Legislature authorized $3.6 million for construction of the safety training facility but did not appropriate the money.

Whelan said preliminary plans call for a dormitory housing 100 persons, adding the volume of hot water that will be required will be tremendous.

Solar technology has reached the point where the state should not hesitate to make the installation he is suggesting, Whelan said.

"The overriding value to the state is that we are providing a public laboratory that will benefit all Nebraskans in the future," he said. "Tremendous amounts of energy could be saved if all new construction included solar energy for domestic hot water."

He pledged the cooperation of the State Energy Office and the new State Solar Office in obtaining a federal grant for the planning and construction of solar collectors.

OBSERVATIONS

Action against OSHA

We didn't think it was still possible. Those who ramble about the Bagdad on the Polomac in robes as representatives of the people, took a step backward to look at what was going on. Enough threw up to make a change in a bureaucracy that was just a shade short of being a "Gestapo" type organization.

We're pointing our finger at the inspection practice of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) whose agents burst into a place of business, consulted a raft of rules designed to make ourselves safe from ourselves, jotted down memos, took polaroid pictures and made "tush-tush" noises during their tour.

It was a bit unsettling to say the least. We went through two inspections and we saw red each time as the man with the badge demanded we cease and desist from what we were doing and to take him on an inspection tour of the plant. We commented that if we had known he was coming we would have baked a cake. He popped back that unannounced visits is the name of the game. There went his cake.

But the body of men who make up the Supreme Court of the United States upheld a lower panel's decision that warrantless inspection by OSHA personnel of the nation's working places was unconstitutional. The action was long overdue.

In essence, the Supreme Court has told OSHA that when access is denied, a search warrant must be obtained before the inspection may proceed. The agency may try to obtain a warrant without the owner's knowledge if an element of surprise is desired. The element of surprise was its (OSHA's) whole ballgame.

We cannot quarrel with the good sense involved in providing safe and healthful working conditions. Such practice is to everyone's benefit and, as such, it is not at issue.

What is at issue is the OSHA nitpicking and harassment that was overbearing and bothersome, especially to small businesses.

Since its creation by Congress in 1970, OSHA has been a focal point of controversy. Initially, its parent Labor Department lawyers went into high gear grinding out rules and regulations at a pace that must have impressed even the most callous congressmen.

Adding to the complexities brought about by the voluminous raft of rules were areas of disagreement within the structure of OSHA. One set of regulations, for example, requires audible warning signals when working conditions are hazardous; another set requires workers to wear earplugs to shut out damaging sounds.

As written, the law creating OSHA authorizes the agency's inspectors to make spot checks of industry and business places without providing to a judge or magistrate that such search is warranted.

If took an Idaho plumbing and electrical contractor to blow the whistle on OSHA. The contractor went to court to shield his 35-employee establishment from inspection without a warrant.

His common sense reasoning was why it is necessary for law enforcement officials to obtain a search warrant before examining the books or other properties of known criminals, yet unnecessary to obtain warrants before making worker safety and health inspections of any business of the land.

A three-judge federal panel agreed with his reasoning and ruled the OSHA law provision unconstitutional. In an uncharacteristic display of concern for the victim, the Supreme Court upheld the ruling.

OSHA may yet be handed more lumps before being whittled into a practical agency to do the job it is destined to do in a more palatable manner to the majority of Americans. — Chuck Barnes.

Tax problem worries

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

By M.A. Van Kirk
Director of Information

Nebraskans who own farm and ranch land have been worrying more than usual this year about the uncertainties posed for them in the state's tax problems.

Taxes affect everybody of course, but land owners have more directly at stake in the decisions which are or are not made. The value of farmland in Nebraska, according to the USDA's Economic Research Service figures, has increased an average of 25 percent from 1970 to February of this year. At the same time, the local property taxes on an average acre of farm and ranchland in our state increased 160 percent between 1970 and 1976 (latest figure available) and probably by now the increase is in the vicinity of 180 percent.

It is natural for land owners to fear the effects of reappraisals and the application of actual valuation at today's inflated figures. This is true even though the tax burden is determined by the size of the dollar budgets of the taxing agencies. There is a suspicion that higher valuation totals do not necessarily mean proportionate reductions in mill levy totals.

The current hassle over equalization of property valuations between counties and the ultimate outcome involves a point of real injustice where multi-county tax levies are involved. Taxpayers in a county using outdated appraisal figures definitely have an unfair advantage over their counterparts in adjoining counties where more recent reappraisals have brought property valuations closer to what the property is actually worth. An example would be the application of a 1-mill levy in a Technical Community College District encompassing 5 or 6 counties.

The 1978 Nebraska Legislature failed to pass a bill aimed at a statewide system to equalize valuations among all 93 counties and keep them updated. Great uncertainty prevails as to how present laws will be enforced and about what future Legislatures may decide and how courts may rule in legal challenges.

Voters this fall will go to the polls to decide whether LB 33, the state aid to education bill passed by the 1977 Legislature, is to be retained or rejected. It would add $20 million per year to the present $55 million in state aid for a period of three years to a maximum total of state aid to the public schools of $120 million. The money would come from state income and sales tax sources and that inevitably means an increase in those rates.

Opponents of LB 33 who conducted the successful petition drive to put the issue to the voters, generally argue that the distribution formula is at fault, a factor that has always been the principal bone of contention in state aid legislation.

Voters this fall, if another petition campaign is successful, may also ballot on another approach... this one in the form of a constitutional amendment to limit annual budgets of local taxing agencies such as school districts, city and county governments, etc., to no more than a 5 percent increase over the previous year unless an amount in excess of that is authorized by the voters.

Opponents of such a "lid on spending" proposal say it is unrealistic and dangerous to "lock in" such an arbitrary requirement into the State Constitution. They point to the national inflation rate which has been running between 4 and 9 percent in recent years and showing no signs of abating. Few farm and ranch operators could guarantee, for example, that they could hold their production costs each and every year to no more than 5 percent increase.

There is no "quick fix" answer to tax problems. Farm and ranch people in the end will support or reject remedial proposals on the basis of how they think they will affect them personally. Most recognize that the tax burden will not decline and in the final analysis the decisions boil down to how individual taxpayers prefer to provide the money... in higher property taxes or in increased sales and income taxes levied by the State and returned to the local agencies.

In any event, there's "no free lunch" where taxes are concerned because everybody pays somehow, some time.

ETHNIC FESTIVALS

Nebraska is a prosperous state, rich in heritage and pride. Nebraskans from distant lands have not forgotten their roots in the past. Today, they share with visitors the customs and traditions of their homelands of old. These festivals offer a unique and fun change of pace and are events one doesn't want to miss.

McCook started it off as it observed its German ancestry with German Heritage Days in May. Here leibstehens stein are the order of the day. From McCook, it's off to Minden for the annual Danish Days. A giant parade, smorgasbord and dancing are among the activities taking place. Nebraska's Swedes celebrate their ancestry at Stromburg, June 18-17. The annual festival is a midway full of fun things to do.

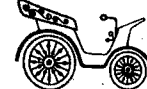

The rolling Czech Festival in Wilber is claimed to be the ethnic event of the year. This festival will be held August 6 and 7, and the town will literally go all out for your fun and entertainment. If you like Kolaches, Polka and beer, then this one is for you. There's dancing in the streets as well as a carnival to add to the good times.

The Nebraskans who came from around the world did not leave their past behind when they immigrated to the new land. Their customs and traditions have helped make Nebraska what it is today, and when they take off time each year to remember, they do it with a bang.

Need for New State Leaders

Roland Luedtke, Republican candidate for Lt. Gov., Tuesday night told Wayne County Republicans that now is the time of leadership and the only way to get positive leadership is to put Republicans in the statehouse.

Luedtke was the featured speaker at the GOP County convention Tuesday night.

He also commented on the proposal to limit governmental agencies to five percent increases. He held a question and answer session following the convention.

RPAR Appears On Horizon

Highly technical terms have a way of leaping into our vocabulary. Stan Starling, Dixon county extension agent, suggests that RPAR is such a term, and passes on the following information from Robert Roselle and David Keith, Extension Entomologists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"RPAR: An acronym that is becoming an everyday word among economic entomologists across the country. They even have nightmares about it. It is RPAR! These letters stand for Rebuttable Presumption Against Registration.

It means that if any pesticide exhibits the least possibility of being harmful to man or the environment, as determined by the EPA, it is subject to intensive review and also public comment regarding whether to authorize continued use.

The determination to place a material in the RPAR process may be made based on tests made anywhere in the world; if these indicate a material has caused suspected tumors, reduced reproduction, mutants, grotesque physical characteristics or several other things when forced to test animals in immense amounts.

If the substance is thought hazardous to nontarget organisms, it may also be placed in the RPAR process.

RPAR does not automatically mean a product will be banned, but a thorough study of the benefits vs risks must be made by EPA and USDA. The ground work is required from the states in which compounds are used. Usually Extension personnel perform this work. Uses may be restricted, banned or continued.

The insecticides against which an RPAR has been issued are: BHC, chlorobenzilate, dimethoate (Cygon, Dofend, Dimex, Rebetate), Endrin, kepone, lindane, toxaphene, aramite. Those in the pre-RPAR reviews are: Sevin, DDVP, EPN, merphos, perthane, peperonyl butoxide, rotenone, trichlorfon (Dylox, Dipterex, Neguvon), dimilin, zectran. Others will follow.

Services Rendered

The LaPorte Cemetery was spick and span for Memorial Day thanks to the Teen Supremes 4-H Club whose members cleaned it up for services Monday.

Chris Bargholz and Adolph Korn made certain each of the graves of war veterans were decorated with a flag and that the cemetery flag was raised. They have been responsible for putting out the flags for many years.

Name Delegates

To Convention

Allen O'Donnell was reelected chairman of the Wayne County Democratic party at a convention held Tuesday at the Wayne county courthouse.

Other officers are Bob Jordan, treasurer; Sylvia Eynon, vice-chairman and Charlene Rasmussen, secretary.

Delegates elected to the state convention to be held in Omaha July 7 to 9 are O'Donnell and Eynon. Elected as alternates were Phyllis Kelly and Bill Hagerman.

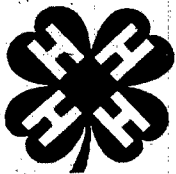

During the county convention, a discussion was held concerning the November general election. Henry Ley reported that Gov. Jim Egan will be in Wayne June 24. O'Donnell read a letter from Lt. Gov. Gerald Blighan concerning his campaign and forthcoming visits to Wayne county.

Ley also reported that he will be co-chairman of the Hess Dyas for Congress committee.

District Dairy Show Slated For Norfolk on August 7th

Dates and locations of nine summer district dairy shows in Nebraska have been announced by Phillip Cole, Extension dairyman at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

All 4-H and Future Farmers of America club members are eligible for the district shows, Cole said. The shows serve as qualifying rounds for 4-Hers participating at the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Exposition in Omaha this fall.

However, he said, showing at the district events is not a requirement for participation at the Nebraska State Fair.

Cole said a new show at Weeping Water July 28 has been added for exhibitors from Cass, Lancaster, Otoe and Sarpy Counties. Other sites will remain the same as a year ago, he said.

Also for the first time, he said, health papers will be required for all animals at each show. The papers, entitled a Certificate of Examination (Form A-237), must be "completely and accurately filled out" and signed by a licensed veterinarian, he said.

"Outbreaks of tuberculosis and brucellosis still are problems in some areas of the state," Cole said, explaining the change. "An increasing number of herds now have certified disease-free breeds, and it is important to them to do all that they can to maintain this status."

"Many of the breed shows and a number of county fairs will be requiring official health papers this year," he continued. "Health papers were required for the district dairy shows for a number of years and then were discontinued. It seems desirable to return to the use of health papers this year since cattle move around more quickly and are from a much wider area than ever before. In recent years we have had animals from Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, Kansas and Wyoming shown at the district shows."

Again this year, Cole said, dairy calves and cows will be divided into 20 classes — 10 for registered animals and 10 for grade animals for all breeds. Two new classes were created by dividing the senior calf class into separate senior and intermediate calf classes, and by showing 3- and 4-year-old cows separately.

"The new breakdown of classes tends to even up the size of the classes," Cole said. "Previously, we had some extremely large classes, especially in the senior calf class, and the primary purpose of the new classes is to even up class size and improve competition, which I think it did last year."

Also approved is the use of an owner's affidavit to allow 4-H dairy club members who normally do not have access to a dairy animal to borrow a registered calf from a purebred breeder to show, he said.

"This way a 4-H member may show a registered animal without having the animal's registration papers transferred to his or her name," Cole noted.

He said special rosettes will be presented at the district shows to cows in the milking classes that meet production standards set by the state Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

"Exhibitors competing for this award must have actual proof of production (DHIA Record) to qualify for the award," Cole said.

In addition to placing and awarding ribbons to dairy calves and herds, he said, a dairy queen will be named at each district show. District winners will go on to compete for the title of Ak-Sar-Ben Dairy Queen and will reign over the exposition's dairy show and rodeo that night.

The schedule of district shows is: July 13 — Hemingford (Fairgrounds); July 14 — North Platte (Fairgrounds); July 17 — South Sioux City (Atokak Park); July 28 — Weeping Water (Fairgrounds); July 29 — Beatrice (Fairgrounds); Aug. 1 — west of Fremont (Christensen Field); Aug. 2 — Beaver City (Fairgrounds); Aug. 4 — Grand Island (Fonner Park); and Aug. 7 — Norfolk (Sale Barn).

Area 4-H'ers In Washington

Four-H members from Dakota and Thurston Counties also are among 44 Northeast Nebraska 4-H'ers who left Monday for Washington, D.C. to take part in the 1978 Citizenship Short Course.

Dakota County 4-H'ers who are taking part are Susan Holm of Wakefield and Kathy Tighe of South Sioux City.

Four-H'ers going from Thurston County were Jill Burmester, Dianne Gill, Mary Hudc, Don Kuntze and Sonja Moeller, all of Walthill. Mike Hofeldt of Bancroft, Jana Lamplot of Thurston and Kim Reppert of Pender. The above 4-H'ers were inadvertently left out of a story which appeared in The Wayne Herald on May 14.

CONTROLLING HOUSE MILLERS

Complaints about "millers" in homes are common this time of year. These insects are not harmful, but can be a real nuisance. Most of the millers will be variegated or army cutworm adults. Insecticides are not recommended for control in the home because they are not effective. But here are a few things that may reduce the problem: Caulk all visible openings around windows, doors, conduits, and cracks in walls; reduce light intensity or use low-wattage yellow bulbs, turn off outside lights, suspend a light bulb 4 or 5 inches over a pan of soapy water and turn other lights in the home off until moths are trapped in the water. None of these will prevent more from arriving. The flights usually subside after 10-14 days, but a few moths may persist for a longer time.

CLEANING SPRAYERS

Equipment that has been used to spray herbicides like 2,4-D, Bonvel and 2,4,5-T can be cleaned for use with insecticides and fungicides. For persons using orchard sprayers and other types of power spray equipment for spraying herbicides, the first clean-up measure is to thoroughly flush the equipment with plenty of fresh water. Then fill the tank with water and add two pounds of washing soda per 100 gallons of water. Wash the inside of the tank thoroughly with this solution, running some through the pump, nozzles and hose, making sure that the solution goes throughout the system. All lines must be thoroughly washed out. Leave this mixture in the tank for 8 to 12 hours. Then wash out the tank, pump, hose and nozzles. Then again rinse out thoroughly and completely with additional fresh water.

Another clean-up method calls for the use of activated charcoal. This is available commercially. It is faster, but more expensive. Herbicides usually can be removed by rinsing the sprayer for about two minutes with a one percent solution of activated charcoal. Always follow this with clean water.

CLEANING GARDEN SPRAYERS

For hand spray equipment like a 3 gallon garden sprayer, where the cost factor isn't so important, household ammonia is a good choice. Thoroughly rinse the equipment out with fresh water after spraying

Beef Consumers Advised 'Don't Hit Panic Button'

The Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation has this advice for beef consumers — don't panic, what happens in the short run may not necessarily mean anything for the long run.

"It is very misleading to take Consumer Price Index figures for a couple of months and project an annual rate of increase," Steve Dittmer, Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation (NBIF) Executive Director said Friday. "Just because the rate of increase for beef prices has been rather sharp for the last few months, it doesn't mean that rate is going to continue."

Whatever the peak beef price turns out to be in the coming weeks, Dittmer said he doesn't expect the long run price to level out at that peak figure.

"We figure that when this market settles down, prices will level out at a fairly reasonable figure," he said.

"Even a key government economist with the Commerce Department, William Cox, agrees with us that taking a single month's Consumer Price index rise and propelling them off into the future is misleading," Dittmer said. "It's also important for consumers to realize that beef prices are not being set anywhere by any group of people, he said. Prices are determined by the supply of beef available from over 1.8 million individual farmers and ranchers interacting with the desire of consumers to buy beef with their rising spendable incomes. He pointed out that there are a lot of variables in that equation.

He also pointed out that even though sheer volume of beef sold makes it a significant factor in the food market, fresh vegetables for example were up three percent higher than beef prices.

"Each time the CPI comes out, government economists point out one or two culprits on which they blame that month's increases," Dittmer said. "It just so happens that they picked on us the last couple of months. See BEEF, page 5

Weed Tour Set June 20

The three-day 1978 Nebraska weed tour has steps scheduled at the Lincoln, Concord, North Platte, Scottsbluff and Sidney weed control research plots, according to two Extension agronomists.

John D. Furrer and Alex Martin, specialists UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agronomists, said the tour also will include visits to must hille research areas in central Nebraska.

The tour is to begin in Lincoln on Tuesday, June 20 at 8:30 a.m. with a stop at agronomy plots at 84th and Havlock Avenues. Later that day the tour will visit the UNL Northeast Station near Concord, the agronomists said.

Stops are scheduled Wednesday near Scottia to view thistle aerial application plots and near Arcadia to see research on biological control of most thistle.

A visit to the North Platte and Scottsbluff stations are next on the itinerary and the tour ends Thursday at the High Plains Ag Lab near Sidney. There, four participants will see wheat and tillage research plots, Furrer and Martin said.

Interested persons are invited to join the tour or any portion of it that their schedules permit, they emphasized.

Ram, Ewe Show July 27

The 20th annual ram and ewe show and sale sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska Sheep Breeders Association is scheduled in Norfolk July 27 at the Norfolk Livestock Sale Co.

The event will open at 2 p.m. with a judging contest for 4-H and Future Farmers of America members. The show, which will be judged by Ted Kassack of Lincoln, will get underway at 3 p.m. The sale will follow at 7:30 p.m. Currently 30 rams and 45 ewes are entered in the registered stock sale, representing Suffolk, Hampshire, Polled Dorset and Columbian breeds. The deadline for entering sheep in the sale is June 27.

Cattle Price Not Likely To Hold Through Summer

Those relatively high prices paid for fed cattle in May are not likely to remain through the summer and during the last half of 1978, although fed cattle prices should remain substantially above those paid last year.

"Some decline in price from current levels is likely," according to Dr. Allen Wellman, Extension economist in the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, but a sharp break in prices isn't expected.

Choice steer prices in mid-May at Omaha ranging from $57 to $59 per hundredweight — with one load posting a record high since 1973 — compared to a range of about $42 to $43 a year earlier. A price decline to the lower $50's seems possible by summer, Wellman said, with prices during the last six months of the year ranging in the high $40's to low $50's.

Wellman said both demand for beef and cattle prices have been stronger than expected so far this year. Prices on choice steers have averaged 20 percent higher during the first quarter of 1978 than a year ago, although beef production was down only three percent. The price increase is larger than would be expected from a moderate drop in supply, he commented.

The sharp response in prices at the marketplace reflects the current strong demand for beef, he continued. "A stronger demand than can be readily explained." Gains in employment and disposable income compared with a year earlier are factors apparently responsible at least in part.

Whether the strong demand for beef will continue is one of the uncertainties in the price outlook, Wellman said. While retail beef prices have increased, liveweight price advances still have not been fully reflected at the retail level, the IANR economist said.

As usual, the supply and price of other meats and poultry also will influence beef demand and prices, he said.

His predictions on other meat products: — Pork supplies for the year will fall below earlier forecasts, but volume during the last half of 1978 still may be about 5 percent larger than in 1977.

— Broiler supplies during the late spring and summer are likely to be at least 5 to 6 percent above a year earlier.

— The combined supply of red meat and poultry this year appears to be down only 2 percent from record 1976 and 1977 volumes.

A stable drop in slaughter of cows and other non-fed cattle is expected to result in a decline of 4 to 5 percent in beef production from 1977. However, fed cattle marketings should be larger than last year.

Wellman said the USDA's May cattle on feed report estimated 7.9 million cattle on feed May 1 in the seven major cattle feeding states — 9 percent more than a year ago. Feedlot placements during April dropped from a year ago, with net placements 8 percent smaller than in April, 1977.

Marketings from feedlots during April were 9 percent above 1977 and marketings during the last half of this year likely will remain moderately larger than in 1977 but below the first and second quarter volume.

— The demand picture for dairy products appears bright. The expected favorable consumer income and price conditions point to strong cheese sales, small increases in fluid sales, and a possible stabilizing in butter use this year.

Paced by very brisk cheese sales, commercial use of milk and dairy products was almost four percent higher than a year ago during the first quarter. The jump of an eighth in January March cheese sales likely was due to improved consumer income, higher retail meat prices, and slower rises in retail cheese prices than in prices of most other items.

Milk feed price relationships probably will stay favorable during the rest of 1978, which will tend to boost output per cow once the effect of the unfavorable weather of early 1978 diminishes.

In Newman Grove, the base price of milk was $9.40 last week up eight percent from a year earlier.

Third, almost all beef imported into the U.S. is beef used in processed meat products and some hamburger. The effect on the overall beef market for all cuts would not be significant at this time.

"We suggest that consumers make more extensive use of the more inexpensive cuts of beef for awhile," Dittmer said. "If some of these cuts are a little bit unfamiliar to consumers, we will be more than glad to provide them with proper cooking directions and recipes. The big mistake people usually make when trying new cuts, is not being careful to use cooking methods different from those used for steaks and hamburgers. They use the wrong cooking method on an unfamiliar cut and then blame the meat. That mistake is understandable, and we'll be glad to help them out."

Cooking information can be requested free of charge from the Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation, P.O. Box 520, Gibbon, NE 68840.

Beef —

But beef prices have been way down for several years.

"We're asking that consumers bear with us for a few weeks and retain some perspective on these beef prices," Dittmer said.

"On the CPI overall, while beef is up 84 percent since 1967, all items on the CPI are up 91 percent, all food is up 106 percent, fruits and vegetables are up 109 percent, fish is up 167 percent, medical care is up 116 percent, and gas and electric is up 127 percent. That means that an awful lot of important items are going up much faster than beef."

The NBF said there are several things to consider when evaluating the government's proposal to lift import quotas.

First, lifting import quotas is not going to have any significant effect on retail prices to the consumer at this time, Dittmer said. World beef supplies are down and not much beef is available for import.

Second, much imported beef is not produced and processed under the same sanitation or drug control conditions as the U.S. beef consumers are used to trusting. Many foreign beef producers are permitted to use drugs which U.S. producers are not allowed to use. Slaughtering and processing sanitation conditions are not nearly as strict as those in U.S. markets.

Milk Prices Boost Receipts

USDA economists reported that higher milk prices boosted January-April cash receipts by farmers 7 per cent from last year, considerably more than the increase in the index of prices paid for production items.

During the rest of the year, higher milk prices may be about offset by rising production costs. For the year, producer net incomes may match or slightly exceed the favorable levels of the preceding two years.

Cattle, Hogs Transfer Weeds

Cattle and hogs which have been grazing fields containing weeds which have gone to seed or eating hay or silage containing weed seeds can introduce these into clean fields.

According to Stan Stirling, Dixon county extension agent, a simple but effective control technique is keeping the animals in a small lot until seeds have been passed. This will take at least four days and some suggest longer than a week.

In Nebraska tests, 50 percent of the shattercane seed eaten by yearling Angus heifers would still germinate after passing through the animals. A giant foxtail plant may produce 20,000 seeds. One pigweed plant can produce as many as 120,000 seeds, so weed problems can be greatly increased.

Weeds are generally weakened most when cut just before the plant blooms. Much of the plant's food reserve has been expended in producing seeds. Some weeds will produce viable seed even after cutting if mowed too late in the weed's development cycle.

Mixing animal species some times aids in control. Stirling suggests, for example, horses will eat the buds and flowers of some plants not eaten by cattle. However, mowing is most effective.

Some Controls For Cutworms

Three compounds are registered for post-planting cutworm control. These are Sevin, Sylax, and Toxapent. Toxapent will probably be cancelled by EPA soon. These sprays should be banded over the row when damage is first seen. When more than five percent of the plants have been damaged, cutworms are usually over one inch long and cannot be effectively controlled.

Stan Stirling, Dixon county extension agent, reports that relatively expensive control can be obtained with Sevin five percent bait. This bait gives best control when cutworms are small and soil is moist. Sevin bait can be broadcast by aircraft or end-gate seeders, or banded over rows.

Watch for cutworms in wet, grassy areas of the field, and on areas with large amounts of plant residues. Scouting should be done early when the first symptom (leaf feeding) is seen so that treatment can be applied before cutworms get too large to control.
