County Crops Still Looking 'Good'

Crops in Wayne county continue to look good according to George Reems, district extension agronomist, but he said that situation could change in a hurry.

Reems, who works out of Northeast Station near Concord, said the crops are a little behind normal growth for this time of the year but said this is because of the delayed planting because of wet weather during the planting season.

"The crops caught up a little last week but they still have a ways to go before they are where they should be," Reems, explained.

Other reasons for the slow growth, according to Reems, are cutworms, cool temperatures and too much volunteer corn in some places.

Cutworms are not as bad as in past years, Reems stated, with the worst infestation in corn that was planted in fields following a stubble crop. He added, however, that this year the worms are working much later because of cooler weather. "They usually don't cause crop damage much later than late May to early June," he said.

Six corn fields in Dixon, Wayne and Cedar counties had stand losses ranging up to 100 percent and averaging 30 to 40 percent, according to ASCS statistics.

Most cutworm damage was to early corn, but the dry, windy weather conditions dried out the soil surface in most areas and chemical controls have not been as effective as previous weeks.

A herbicide has also been found to cause damage to corn. The damage is believed to be related to the weather and the corn usually grows out of it. It often occurs in sandy soils but has done some damage in Northeast Nebraska this year. For more information, farmers may contact their nearest ASCS office.

Crop conditions in Dixon county are about the same as Wayne county except for the hail damage which took a heavy toll on the oats crop and hurt the corn, Reems reported. "Quite an extensive area was hit by hail," Reems said. The crop damage ranged from moderate to completely destroyed and the recent rain eliminates any chance of replanting corn except for silage," he said.

Approximately 300 farmers in Dixon county suffered crop damage from the hail and strong winds according to ASCS statistics. The storm cut a southeasterly path through the county, with Martinsburg and Allen the most severely hit by hail. Dale Kruse, ASCS executive director in Dixon county, said "most of the oats were two-thirds headed out and now it looks as if they were cut with a corn knife."

He added that "about all that is left of some plants in cultivated fields is a stub two to four inches high."

'Hen Party' Set Thursday

Mrs. Jan Liska, co-chairman for this year's Farm Ladies Appreciation luncheon, said Friday that about 500 tickets are being sent to area farm wives and women who have expressed interest in attending the event this Thursday.

The luncheon, sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Union. Theme is "Town and Country Hen Party."

The luncheon, which is free, is held in appreciation of farm women in the area's economy.

Deadline for nominations for the Outstanding Farm Woman of the Year award to be presented at the luncheon has been extended until Tuesday, June 27.

Project Okayed

After a five month delay, the board of directors of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources district (LENRD) voted their approval of the controversial Willow Creek Project.

At the board's Thursday night meeting, three resolutions were approved and considered concerning the project. The resolutions were:

— To go ahead to authorize a staff, and to proceed with development and execution.

— To request $1,200,000 in financial assistance from the Game and Parks commission for land acquisition.

— To request $4,000,000 from the Nebraska Resources Development fund (NRD). This would account for 75 percent of the project's funds.

May precipitation Also on Low Side

Moisture Below Normal

Midweek and weekend rains last week helped the moisture situation in the Wayneland area but the game is still "catch-up" as far as bringing the moisture level to normal for this time of the year.

Precipitation during the month of May was below normal in Northeast Nebraska and the situation was compounded with little or no moisture during the first 15 days of June.

The moisture deficiency in the Wayne County area ranged from a half inch in the eastern part of the county to more than three-quarters of an inch in the western sector.

Normal precipitation for May in the area is just over three inches.

The below normal pattern in Northeast Nebraska was the exception, according to the Conservation and Survey Division of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Precipitation during May fell intermittently throughout the state. Several stations in the western part of the state reported snow during the first six or seven days of May. Accumulations were light and the snow melted as it fell or as temperatures warmed, the report stated.

Other areas of the state reported near normal precipitation during the month of May. Cumulative precipitation for April and May is above normal in all divisions, the report pointed out, but the June lag in Northeastern Nebraska has driven the level to below normal status.

It got warm during May, with the highest daytime temperature recorded 92 degrees at Norfolk and 88 at Wakefield, both on May 24. The nighttime See MOISTURE, Page 8

The News in Brief

GOP Convention Saturday

Delegates and alternates from Wayne county Saturday attended the State Republican convention held in Lincoln. The delegates were Faye Mann, Fredrick Mann and Bonnadell Koch. Alternates were Val Peterson, Chris Tietgen and Kent Hall. The convention was held at the Lincoln Elks Club after being moved from the Husker hotel. The all-day affair included speeches by candidates, resolutions and an evening fund-raising dinner featuring John Connally, former governor of Texas.

Full Agenda for Council

A full agenda is slated for the regular meeting of the Wayne city council Tuesday evening. Among those things to be considered by the council is a hearing for proposed use of revenue sharing funds. These funds are distributed throughout city government functions and help to cut the tax load of residents. See NEWS BRIEFS, Page 8

Add to Wakefield Health Center

A new addition to the Wakefield Health Care Center, which has been in planning for over a year, is finally underway, according to Center Administrator Russell Swigart.

The new wing will be an extension of the nursing home section of the center, adding 20 beds, 2 lounge areas, physical therapy, nurses stations and storage to the facility.

— There is a considerable waiting list of people waiting to get into the Nursing Home; 18 men and 26 women.

— There is need for an intermediate level of nursing care. Swigart explained that elderly patients, once partially recovered, don't have a place to go where they can recover completely. The center has either had to keep them in the more expensive hospital section. See WAKEFIELD, page 8

New Area Weather Service 'On Air' Soon

BY CHUCK BARNES

An on-slaught of severe storms in and out of the Wayneland area have broken the June "drought" and at the same time caused apprehension.

A storm last Saturday caused property and crop damage in the Dixon, Concord and Allen areas. The Wayne area was treated to about .40 of an inch of welcome moisture.

A line of storms moved to the south of the Wayneland area Monday night with tornadoes being sighted at various sections of the area. There was no report of property damage although there was at least one reported "touchdown."

The weather pattern is not unusual for this time of the year but the storms seem to be more forceful than usual.

Certain steps have been taken or soon will be taken to protect residents from severe weather. The Northeast Nebraska Citizen's Band Radio club has once again established a weather watch program in the event of severe weather. The CB club is working in cooperation with local and county law enforcement officials.

In the event of a severe weather alert club members are notified and they immediately so to assigned watch areas throughout the county. A base station is manned at the Wayne police department with Ray Butts and Ron Wriedt serving as dispatchers. City police officers are stationed at vantage points throughout the city with officials of the county sheriff's office making a sweep of the county. State troopers in the area also make up a part of the weather watch alert program.

The U.S. Weather Service in Norfolk announced a new weather watch program to be operational sometime in September.

Paul Woodard, officer in charge of the Norfolk station, said plans are now being made for the installation of a weather watch radio system set up by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The transmitter, antennae and other equipment are being put into place at the present time. The antennae will be located on the Education Television antennae near Carroll.

When operational, the service will provide continuous, around-the-clock broadcasts of the latest weather information directly from the Norfolk office. Taped weather messages will be repeated every four to six minutes and routinely will be received every two to three hours or more frequently if needed, officials said.

Officials explained the broadcasts are tailored to weather information needs of people within the Wayneland area and other areas served by the Norfolk office.

During severe weather, forecasters at the Norfolk office can interrupt the routine weather broadcasts and substitute special warning messages. The area forecasters also can activate specially designed warning receivers which either sound an alarm indicating an emergency exists or, when operated in

Peoples Announces Commercial Plan

Peoples Natural Gas announced plans this week for connection of new commercial customers during 1978.

Keith Mosley, district manager in Wayne, said Peoples plans are to begin at once to permit connection of commercial customers where total gas requirements are less than 25,000 cubic feet per day.

He said these customers would be permitted to receive firm gas service for approved uses such as heating, water heating, cooking and clothes drying. Earlier this year, Peoples announced plans to connect residential customers in all communities including extension of gas mains. The extension of gas mains will also supply to commercial customers, he explained.

Mosley said Peoples will provide gas service to as many of the high priority customers as available gas supply will permit. "We previously announced the availability of natural gas to residential customers. Now we can also make it available to the small commercial customers."

The Wayne manager said persons in businesses wanting gas service will need to make a written application to the Wayne Peoples office. He said permits will be issued for approved application. Applicants with pending applications do not need to reapply. Mosley said they will be contacted in the very near future.

OBSERVATIONS

Planning a party?

Summer is officially here. Nothing particularly newsworthy about this bit of trivia except summer also heralds beer parties in the country as one means of cooling off during the warm summer evenings.

This is not a recommended means of keeping cool. In fact, a kegger party could quite suddenly become unseasonably hot: so much so the party goers and others could get "burned."

A Nebraska Liquor Commission agent recently pointed out keg parties don't break just one law, but several. And a number of people, including liquor store owners, landowners, organizers and party participants can get into trouble.

The first law to be broken comes when party planners purchase the beer with everyone sharing in the cost. It is illegal for a retail liquor license holder to sell beer or liquor, which is going to be resold.

Secondly, if there is a charge for attending the party, another law is broken because it's illegal to sell liquor without a license.

Even if the party is free, organizers and landowners are still in trouble for letting just anybody in, according to the commission agent. It is illegal to allow alcohol to be consumed on property open to the general public.

If minors are involved, there is a re-sounding "crack" to several laws being broken.

The landowner may be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor or allowing minors to consume alcohol on property other than the minors' living quarters.

Another possible charge is procuring liquor for a minor. And for the minors, it's illegal to be in possession of alcohol.

And if this isn't enough to discourage kegger parties, potential party-givers might keep in mind the fact that law enforcement officers do not need a search warrant to raid a party in an open field.

We aren't against having fun, so long as the fun doesn't break any laws or hurt anyone. It may seem smart and it may seem like fun to consume booze, legally or illegally. In the long run, it's just plain dumb. Why use a crutch to have fun? If a person can't have fun at a party without booze, then that person has a problem and it can become serious if it isn't controlled.

And why take the chance of being busted and the resulting consequences? Having a police record is not something to boast about. In fact, a police record will haunt you the rest of your life, no matter what you do to make amends. That's the way life is and that's the way you're going to have to live it. Don't mess up your life by becoming involved in activities that may be "the thing to do" but which are against the law or injurious to your health. Stay cool, but use your head. — Chuck Barnes.

We didn't take a reading on the moonlight Tuesday night in Wayne, but "madness" ran rampant. And there were good buys as well, during the "Moonlight Madness" retail promotion.

The customers were catchy and there was wide participation. We thought it somewhat odd that most of the men dressed as women. Sometimes a change is welcome but in this instance it was overwhelming.

A wish of the brush to the local Izaak Walton League chapter which sponsored the second annual fishing contest at the Ike's lake northwest of Wayne. Not only is it a lot of fun for everyone taking part, but it is a sincere gesture on the part of the Ike's for everyone to participate and appreciate what nature has to offer.

A major hotel chain sent us its item suggesting Americans visit Canada this summer; citing new cordiality on the part of the Canadians because of several economic factors and new government legislation. Balderdash! If you're looking for a satisfying vacation where you're certain to get your money's worth, try a trip to various historical and recreational points in the Great State of Nebraska.

Drop a line to the Department of Economic Development, Tourism, and Travel Division, John Rosewood, Director, 301 Centennial Mall, Lincoln, Neb., 68502. He'll be more than happy to fix you up with a family vacation right here in the Cornhusker State.

You've a right to be tired.

And if you happen to be in Winona Lake, Ind., you should be aware it is illegal to eat ice cream at a counter on Sunday.

And that, right or wrong, is that!

Say no more to government involvement

According to a recent survey of public opinion, the vast majority of Nebraskans are well pleased with both the quality and accessibility of the hospital services available to them, but at the same time are concerned about the increasing cost of such services.

The survey, commissioned by the Nebraska Hospital Association and carried out in late April by Selection Research Incorporated, a Lincoln opinion polling firm, involved a randomly selected population sample of 975 persons, structured to be representative according to age, sex, income and geographic area. In addition to the above characteristics, the results of the study are broken down for each of the areas served by Nebraska's three Health Systems Agencies.

Jack Stiles, executive director of Lincoln's St. Elizabeth Community Health center and president of the Nebraska Hospital Association, said at a press conference that the Nebraska Hospital Association undertook the study as one means of assessing the performance of Nebraska hospitals and as a guide for the development of future NHA services and activities.

Stiles said that the Association also believes that the survey will be of value to the State's health planning program, as well as other decision makers in the development of health policy. Copies of the study will, according to Stiles, be furnished to the State Health Planning and Development Agency, the three area Health Systems agencies, the Nebraska Congressional Delegation, and the members of the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare committee.

"In assessing the result of the survey," Stiles said, "we were very gratified to find that 84 percent of those surveyed rate hospital services in their communities as excellent or good. This widespread support by Nebraskans for their hospitals is especially encouraging in the face of the continuing barrage of vituperative and unfounded criticism of our industry by the current National Administration."

At the same time, Stiles noted, 44 percent of the respondents said when asked, that there is a "crisis" in health care, and 45 percent of that group identified the crisis as one of increasing costs.

"We share the public's concern about costs," Stiles said, "but we are also pleased that they tend to see hospitals in this regard as the victims of inflation, rather than the perpetrators."

According to the survey, respondents rank only the cost of new homes ahead of hospital services when asked to rate the costs of various goods and services. At the same time, Stiles noted, 42 percent of the sample pointed to inflation as the major factor behind cost increases, while the second most often cited reason... identified by 13 percent of the respondents... was increased salaries and wages. Stiles said that this perception by the public squares well with the facts in a labor-intensive industry, "where some 60 percent of our costs are for personnel."

The Lincoln hospital administrator also expressed satisfaction that only 27 percent of those surveyed believe that further government intervention would control hospital costs, and that 55 percent of the respondents believe that health care would deteriorate under government control. In light of those findings, Stiles said that it did not surprise him that fully 61 percent of those surveyed are opposed to a program of National Health Insurance.

Also present at the press conference was Dick Easley of Ogallala, president-elect of the Nebraska Hospital Association. According to Easley, the survey shows strong support for the private system of health care delivery. He pointed to results showing that 74 percent of the respondents stated that they would be unwilling to give up the right to choose their own physician and hospital, even if costs could be reduced.

Easley, Administrator of the Ogallala Community Hospital, said he believes the study also shows strong support for the continued operation of local hospitals in Nebraska's smaller communities. He noted that 65 percent of those surveyed said that they would be unwilling to drive an additional 50 miles to access needed hospital care if the costs of such care could be reduced, while a plurality of respondents... 49 percent... were of the opinion that large urban hospitals provide no higher quality of care than smaller rural institutions.

The results of the survey do not seem to auger well for the future establishment of group health care programs, such as health maintenance organizations. In Nebraska, Lincoln asked if they would be willing to give up choosing their own hospital and physician if health care costs could be reduced, only 22 percent of the respondents answered affirmatively, while 74 percent said they would not give up choosing their own health care provider.

Among other findings, the survey shows that 92 percent of the respondents have some type of insurance coverage for hospital services. Of that number, 75 percent indicated theirs is a group policy, while 25 percent stated they had individual coverage, and 1 percent were not sure. A somewhat smaller number of respondents... 77 percent... stated they have insurance coverage for physician services, and again, 75 percent of that number indicated that their coverage is in the form of a group policy.

Nebraska hospitals get high marks for accessibility, according to the survey, with 97 percent terming hospital services either easily accessible or accessible. Only 3 percent stated that hospitals are not very accessible.

In Stiles' opinion, the survey results also give hospital employees a deserved pat on the back, "with 85 percent of the respondents answering affirmatively when asked if hospital employees care about patients as people. In addition, 62 percent of the sample group believe that hospital employees explain treatments clearly, though 31 percent would like more explanation of the care given to them.

"In summing up the study, Stiles said, "It shows what some things to work on, but on balance indicates that Nebraska's hospitals are doing a pretty super job of serving their communities."

SPORTS

Young Wayne Girls Win, 18 And Under Bombed

13 and Under
Wayne 12, Wakefield 2 — Terry Johnson hit a home run, Tami Murray had two hits and three RBI's, and Pam Nissen hit two singles and batted in one run, for Wayne. Carolyn Luschen and Jacobsen also led Wayne in scoring.

15 and Under
Wayne 4, Wakefield 1 — Wayne had five base runners during the game and all of them were on base in the fourth inning. Four of them scored — Teresa Ginn, Kim Biecke, Tammie Thomas and Kathy Wieseler all reached home and Jill Zeiss batted in a run for the winners.

18 and Under
Wakefield 15, Wayne 5 — Wakefield proved too big and powerful for the Wayne girls. Kim Biecke lined a home run in her only trip to the plate for Wayne and Nancy Nuss had two runs. Wakefield was led by Paul with three hits and Kober with a triple and two runs batted in.

Winside Boys Lose to Pender

Pee Wees
Pender 15, Winside 10 — Baseball is still somewhat weak in Winside but, improving. Mase Kant had a grand slam home run in the losing game.

Little League
Pender 11, Winside 10 — Winside led 7-3 until the fourth inning. Dan Mundt pitched a good game for Winside but the team had too many errors to win.

Pony League
Pender 14, Winside 4 — Doug Jaeger allowed only four hits but once again errors hurt the team.

Coach's Comment
Coach Dick Munter said that his teams need practice but are working hard and have improved considerably in the pitching and hitting departments. He credited Robby Jacobsen for helping the teams practice as a step for improvement.

East-West All-Stars Selected

With the Ralph Bishop Midget and Legion season nearing the half-way mark, the East-West all-star game will be played on Wednesday, June 28 at Laurel. The Midget game will begin at 6 p.m. and the Legion game will follow at about 8:15 p.m.

The area coaches have selected the West all-stars to play against stars from Wisner, Pender, Bancroft and Emerson.

Players selected from Wayne are: Midgets Jeff Zeiss, Dan Mitchell, Dennis Carroll, and Tim Pfeiffer; Juniors Tom Ginn, Kevin Murray, Doug Carroll, Vic Sharpe, and Al Nissen.

Representing Wakefield will be Midgets Rick Guy, Tom Preston, Barry Jones, Scott Hallstrom, and Juniors Jono Kline, Doug Starzl, Todd Swigart, Brad Jones and Dean Sharpe. Barry Soderberg was picked to play on the Midget team but will be gone.

Laurel all-stars include: Midgets Lon Swanson, Brad Saunders, Shannon Hopkins and Mark McCorkindale and Juniors Don Dalton, Ron Gadeken, Mike Martin, Steve Anderson and Rusty Gade.

Representatives from Winside are Brian Foote, Rick Bowers and Scott Farrens, all on the Midget team.

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

A MAKEUP GAME between Wayne and Wakefield Midgets and Juniors is scheduled for July 12 at Wakefield. The games were postponed because of rain Wednesday and a cloudy, humid day Friday which didn't give the field a chance to dry up.

All Ralph Bishop League games were postponed and so were the men's softball games Wednesday. The town team games in the NNBL were also postponed from Thursday.

I'VE BEEN STICKING my neck out lately on men's softball predictions and things are getting tougher all the time. Last week most of the teams split their double-headers — which makes it pretty tough to pick a winner. The game to keep an eye on this week matches the top two teams in the league, TJ's and 4th Jug.

Both teams have one loss and this is an important matchup to see who is really the tougher team. Take your pick — your guess is as good as mine.

LEON SPINKS must not realize that there is more to being a champion than just knocking someone down. Since gaining the title of world champion heavyweight boxer, Spinks has been ticketed five times for traffic violations and was arrested in April on charges of possession of a small amount of cocaine and possession of marijuana.

He has made the news more for breaking the law than he has for boxing. Being issued a speeding ticket is no big deal but when the champion has been ticketed three times for driving without a license and twice for speeding within four months, that is a big deal, not to mention the drug charges which were dismissed.

I'VE GOT A HUNCH that Spinks will lose his crown back to Ali in September and Ali will finally retire after regaining the title a second time. Then Spinks can get a job doing toothpaste commercials?

SPORTS QUIZ: Who were the three local high school baseball players selected last week to the Nebraska Baseball Coaches-Association all-state team?

ANSWER: Jeff Zeiss of Wayne, Doug Starzl of Wakefield, and Doug Plambeck of Bancroft.

SERVING THE ball to his opponents is Dick Wintermutes of Holdrege in action from the men's 35 doubles competition, as his partner Nell Schlickle of Fremont awaits the return at the net. Mike Senior of Columbus and Russ Swigert of Wakefield return the serve and ready themselves for the volley.

Midgets, Legion

Laurel Victorious

The Laurel Midgets and Juniors continued to play winning ball by downing Hartington 14-4 in the Midget game and 7-0 in the Legion game. Brad Saunders was backed by a nine run first inning to pick up the win on the mound for the Midgets.

Laurel added three runs in the second inning and two in the third in addition to their big first inning to give them a total of 14 runs. Hartington was shut out the first two innings and then managed to score one run in the third and three in the fourth before time ran out on them.

The ten run rule went into effect in the fifth inning and Laurel came out victorious 14-4. John Dinkie led the winners with two hits in two trips to the plate.

Two double plays by Laurel in the first three innings helped contain Hartington as pitcher Mike Martin struggled in the first four innings. Hartington scored the first run of the game in the first inning, before Laurel responded with one to tie the game in the bottom of the first.

Martin held Hartington scoreless through the next five innings and his teammates scored three runs in the fourth inning to take a 4-1 lead. Three more runs in the sixth gave Laurel a more comfortable lead at 7-1. Hartington managed two runs in the top of the seventh in a final attempt to comeback but fell short 7-3.

Project

 for the construction of a dam that would create a 615 acre reservoir on a 1,700 acre area located two miles southwest of Pierce.
 The project is part of an Army Corps of Engineers system of flood control structures included in the six-year plan of NRD.
 The dam would provide flood control by regulating surface drainage from 200 square miles, as well as creating a park with picnic and boating facilities.
 Ken Berney, assistant manager of the LENRD, said the Willow Creek project was on the agenda for the LENRD's January meeting. The vote was postponed due to controversy over environmental impact, disputes with landowners, and funding.
 Director Val Peterson, Wayne, urged the board to put a one-year freeze on local funds for the project, due to statewide efforts to put a lid on taxes. He was unsuccessful in his attempt, but voted for the project anyway. Peterson is a former Nebraska Governor, and U.S. Ambassador.

Director Robert Jordan, Wayne, who voted against the project, told the board that he does not believe the district has the financial ability to carry the project.
 The board has approved project studies and environmental impact statements, but must face a law suit by residents and landowners of the project area who have asked the Pierce County District Court to stop the project.

Weather

 muted mode, are automatically turned on so the warning message is heard.
 Weather officials said "warning alarm" receivers are especially valuable for schools, hospitals and public-safety messages.
 The NOAA weather radio broadcasts are made on one of three high-band FM frequencies, officials explained, the frequencies are 162.40, 162.475 or 162.55 megahertz (MHz). The 162.475 MHz frequency is used only in special cases where required to avoid channel interference.
 Officials pointed out the frequencies are not found on the average home radio now in use. They said a number of radio manufacturers offer special weather radios to operate these frequencies, with and without the emergency warning alarm. They also said there are now many radios on the market which offer standard AM-FM frequencies plus the so-called "weather band" as an added feature.

The NOAA weather radio broadcasts can usually be heard as far as 40 miles from the antenna site and in some cases, even further. Officials said the effective range depends upon many factors, particularly the height of the broadcasting antenna, terrain, quality of the receiver and type of receiving antennae.
 They pointed that, as a general rule, listeners close to or perhaps beyond the 40 mile range should have a good quality receiver system if they expect to receive reliable reception. Also, an outside antennae may be required in fringe areas. Officials suggested that a receiver should, when practicable, be tried at its place of intended use before making a final purchase.
 The Norfolk facility is 1 of 90 radio weather stations to be used on the NOAA network by the end of 1979. When the stations are completed and operational, approximately 90 percent of the population of the U.S. should be within listening range of a NOAA weather station broadcast.
 The NOAA weather radio has been designated the sole government-operated radio system to provide direct warnings into private homes for both natural disasters and nuclear attack. This capability is to supplement warnings by sirens and by commercial radio and television.

 or send them home. The new facility would allow these patients to recover with the care they need at a lower cost.
 The addition has economic feasibility. According to Swigart, the nursing home now has 42 beds. He said 20 more beds could be added without adding lots of additional staff and facilities.
 The wing will be a one story structure. Its dimensions will be about 148' x 72'. The estimated cost of the addition is $300,000. Swigart said $250,000 of the money comes from revenue bonds, and the remainder came from savings.
 Excavation for the new wing started about two weeks ago, and the estimated completion date is February, 1979.
 Christiansen Construction Company of Pender is the contractor for the project.

Jury Decides

For Defendant

After over six hours of deliberation, a Wayne County District Court Thursday found for defendant Ludwig Thos, Wayne, in a suit for damages.
 Plaintiff Gerald D. Kniesche, Wayne, was attempting to sue Thos for $12,500 in damages for a hog enclosure that he felt Thos had improperly built for him.
 The roof blew off the enclosure and other structural damages occurred during a storm in April, 1976. The suit for damages was filed March 18, 1977.
 Thos's side held that the building was sound, but the building's location, and the fact that its doors had been left open contributed to the damages caused by "an act of God" and Thos could not be held responsible.
 The jury voted 10 2 in favor of Thos.

Report Fake

Meter Readers

A man and woman have been knocking on doors in Wayne to check meters, but there's one catch, they aren't city employees.
 According to City officials, there was a complaint called in to protest meter readers calling on homes after 5 p.m. The city didn't have any readers out and the Clerk's office contacted the Police station.
 So far the false meter readers have stolen nothing and caused no damage, but city officials ask that area residents be wary of readers who would come after 5 p.m.

Extensive Damage

To Wakefield Plant

A fire early Saturday morning caused extensive damage to one of the egg dryers in the Milton G. Waldbaum Company in Wakefield.
 Dan Gardner, manager, said estimated damage was $25,000. He said it would take approximately two weeks before the dryer can be made operational.
 Gardner said the fire started about 4 a.m. Saturday. It was confined to the dryer area by the fire sprinkler system in the plant.
 The manager said the cause of the fire is believed to be faulty equipment in the dryer.

Gardner credited the sprinkler system for confining the fire to the dryer area.
 The clean-up operation is being supervised by the department of agriculture, Gardner said.
 The plant will continue to be in operation, he said.

Dairy Women Promoting Product

The newly established Nebraska Dairy Women's Association begins promotion this month of "one of the nation's most nutritious and economic products," according to Doris Sellin of Norfolk, the organization's founder.

During June, National Dairy Month, the organization hopes to inform people just how good dairy products are. "With everyone doing a little work to promote milk products more dairy goods will be sold and we all will be better off," Sellin said.

Some 38 women currently are involved in the auxiliary, which had its first meeting May 10, she said. About 50 more dairy producers' wives are expected to join.

Although members originate from all parts of the state, four district organizations — Norfolk, Beatrice, North Platte and Grand Island — have been founded. The district auxiliaries are working on constitutions and bylaws and most have yet to elect officers, Sellin said.

Since the Norfolk group had the first organizational meeting, that chapter has advanced further than the other districts, said Betty Amen of Norfolk, district president. "Norfolk will be the nucleus of the state auxiliary when it is established in September," she said.

Norfolk is the only group so far to elect officers. In addition to Amen they are Alenetha Schroeder, Columbus, vice president; Elizabeth Stanton, Randolph, corresponding secretary; Sellin, recording secretary, and Marina Mosel, Clearwater, treasurer.

By September district members should be acquainted well enough and local organizations firmly established to competently elect state officers and agree upon bylaws, Amen said.

Both state and district auxiliaries will promote dairy products. "Farmers are good dairy producers, but an improvement must be made in promoting milk products," Sellin said.

All four district groups will be involved in educating the public about nutrition, distributing samples, exchanging recipes and producing news articles, Sellin said.

"Food of Your Choice" will be a nutritional education program distributed to schools throughout the state in collaboration with the Nebraska Dairy Council, Amen said. Films, speakers, demonstrations and discussions will be included to instruct children about the value and nutrition of milk.

The Norfolk division will distribute 2,500 placemats for the Nebraska Dairy Council during June in the Norfolk area Sellin said. The placemats will feature photos of dairy products and should promote the sale of milk goods, she said.

A poster contest also will be sponsored by the district organizations. School-age children will design and create posters that illustrate uses of dairy products, and winning posters will be displayed in grocery stores and supermarkets, Sellin said.

Promotion, costs and auxiliary expenses will be financed by a $5 membership fee and supportive fees contributed by dairy organizations and the Nebraska Dairy Council, according to Amen.

Although the auxiliaries are in formative stages, Sellin said, she expects the group to be as successful as other women's farm organizations in increasing farm product sales.

Summer Jobs Are Limited

There are a number of youths still seeking summer employment, but jobs are quite limited, according to the May report of the Nebraska Job Service, Norfolk Area.

The 933 persons seeking employment through the service does not include the 352 individuals seeking only part-time or summer work. Of the 933, 49 registered with the Wayne office.

New applications filed during May totaled 501. Of the 501 new applicants, 302 were youth seeking both permanent and summer employment.

Nonagricultural job openings received numbered 361.

The service asks that all employers check their needs for summer help and try to make a place for the unemployed young people. The numbers are 375-2945, Wayne; and 371-4384, Norfolk.

AN OPEN INVITATION

You are cordially invited to attend an Open House for our first Heritage Home finished at 116 Maple Street, here in Wayne.

This beautiful home was the first home built in our new manufacturing plant. It was delivered to the Builders foundation May 25 and the builder has now finished the site work, such as the basement mechanical work, basement finish work, and the attached garage. Completely furnished, draped, and decorated by the builder, Vaboc Construction Co., you'll want to see this home for yourself.

The home is 28' x 50' (1400 sq. ft.) and was completely finished and carpeted here at the plant. We have used superior quality materials throughout the house, and some special new energy efficient features.

Our new 45,000 sq. ft. plant is now complete and we are under way building homes. The plant will hold 7 homes which are custom built to order only. We now employ 53 people and are increasing the number each week as training permits.

We sincerely believe that we are building a first quality home — and at affordable prices.

Please come out Sunday, June 25, and tour the first Heritage Home. We're proud of our homes . . . and we're proud to be building them in Wayne.

Swedes and Pseudo-Swedes

BACKING OFF from a water fight at the recent Winside Old Settlers Reunion are Anna Lembell (left), student from Sweden who has spent the past ten months in Albion. With her is Carla Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berg of near Winside, who left last week to spend the summer in Sweden. She will be a member of the Bonnedahl family who live on the Gulf of Sweden. Carla, a junior, is one of two from Nebraska to go abroad under the Youth for Understanding program. She talked by telephone with her host family before leaving for Sweden. Anna was graduated with the Albion senior class but still has two years to go in high school when she returns to Sweden in July. Visiting the Berg farm recently were Bjorn Hedlund (near cab on tractor) and Rob Kemler of Omaha. Hedlund had spent the past ten months attending school in Omaha. He comes from a town of 8,000 in Sweden but didn't find much difficulty in adapting to the larger city. Kemler will leave for Sweden to spend a year in Stockholm which has a population of more than a million residents. He was graduated from an Omaha high school this spring.

Advancement needed in Agriculture

A span of ten years has produced vast improvements in wheat and barley production, but according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor of agronomy, there are still advancements to be made. Dr. John Schmidt was a member of the Agency of International Development (AID) Wheat and Barley Task Force which recently returned from a two-week inspection of Korea's wheat and barley program. The nine member team, at the invitation of the Korean Office of Rural Development, evaluated Korea's progress in the area of wheat and barley research and production, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said. "The task force was to evaluate the program and make suggestions on how it could be improved," Schmidt said. "The Korean wheat program has improved tremendously in the last ten years," Schmidt said. A broader, more advanced breeding program has been developed, the number of agriculturally trained people has increased, the country has broadened its contacts with other wheat and barley producing nations and plans for the construction of a quality lab are being created, Schmidt said. The Koreans currently do not have a quality lab to test milling and baking qualities, but with the influx of hard wheat to be used in baking, a lab will be needed, he said. Tremendous strides have been made in wheat production and research, and the Koreans hope to be at least a 50 percent self-sufficient wheat producing nation by 1982, he said. But there are several areas which need to be improved before the nation can become totally self-sufficient. Disease, lack of mechaniza-

Some Went Splat!

OVER THE TOP goes a experimental "vehicle" designed to protect its cargo of an egg when it hits the pavement from a four-story building. The project was a part of an aerospace-education workshop held last week at Wayne State College. Twelve raw eggs were packaged in two student-designed "vehicles" with five of them surviving the fall. The eggs were packaged in a variety of one-cubic foot containers.

ON IT'S WAY down is this student-designed vehicle containing a raw egg. The specially packaged eggs were tossed from the roof of the WSC Carhart Science building on the WSC campus. The project was intended to simulate the problems NASA engineers faced in returning manned space modules to earth without causing harm to the occupants upon impact.

A NOT-SOFT-LANDING is indicated by this splattered spot on the sidewalk around the Carhart Science building on the WSC campus. NASA representative John Donaldson helped to conduct the workshop and the experiment. He said similar student projects have helped NASA engineers to develop useful space packaging materials that are not commonly used today.
