

For Wayne-Carroll School District

Proposed Budget 'Holds the Line'

With the economy caught in the throat of spiraling inflation, a proposed budget for the Wayne-Carroll Community School district is more-or-less "holding the line."
District Superintendent Francis Haun Monday presented to the district board of education a budget which, exclusive of federally funded programs, representing only a .0844 percent increase over the 1977-78 school year expenditures.

The proposed budget, excluding federal programs, amounts to $1,517,608, representing a $97,207 increase over that which was budgeted for the 77-78 school year.
Federal programs are expected to total $107,846.
Supt. Haun said the budget has increased an average of 5.6

percent during a three year period with the biggest increase of nine percent coming three years ago.
Regular instruction expenses account for the biggest bulge in the budget. The total budgeted for the coming school year is $882,172. The amount budgeted for the 1977-78 school year was $831,727.
The instruction expenses include salaries which represent an average of 6.13 percent increase plus social security (which also is going to take a jump), health insurance, disability insurance, driver education insurance, teaching supplies, vocal and band music, science lab supplies, textbooks, furniture and equipment.

Other areas in the budget include special education services which have been contracted for in the coming year. The reimbursement by the federal government is supposed to be 90 percent, according to Haun, but historically it has been more like 80 percent.

Driver education is included in the budget as a vocational education and trades and industries and business office, pupil services (guidance, health and other support items).
One item in pupil support which is being given consideration is a continual funding for new band uniforms. Some $2,000 has been budgeted for next year. The band boosters are also conducting fund-raising activities to supplement the program. The present uniforms were purchased in 1968-69.
Haun also pointed out $7,500 have been budgeted for athletics. He said the district's athletic programs will cost an estimated $13,229 with some $6,000 expected in gate receipts.
Upon recommendation of board member Dorothy Ley, the board voted $750 in staff training and curriculum development to be used for a program to improve student and teacher morale. This program would be instituted at the discretion of the board.
Proposed budgeting for library and audio-visual services amounts to $55,961. Supt. Haun said he tried to hold the line in the area of library books to be included in the library and we can't possibly budget for them."
In the board of education proposed budget, the per-name charge of the school census has been changed from 18 cents per name to 22 cents per name.
A nebulous area in the budget is operation of the school plants. Fuel consumption and electricity are variables, Haun said, depending upon the weather. He pointed out the school is attempting to conserve energy, citing using only half of the hallway lights during the school year.
The board examined a property insurance section of the budget and were told the school has received a recommendation to install or connect with a central alarm system. Supt. Haun said he has investigated the possibility of lying into the alarm system owned by the Wayne police department.
In pupil transportation, the budget calls for the purchase of an additional bus. Supt. Haun said what he is trying to replace is the student van. He said the van would be considerably cheaper than a small bus, mainly because of the safety devices required on the buses. "It depends on what safety officials decide as to the number of students that can be transported in a van."

Keep Your Eye on the Cards!

GREGG ELLIOTT, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Elliott, keeps the kids guessing as he demonstrates his magical ability with the cards. The performance was a part of a magic show which was held in conjunction with a backyard carnival Monday afternoon. The carnival and the magic show produced $48.70 in proceeds which will go to the Muscular Dystrophy fund.

For Rural Wayne Customers

Mother Bell Conducting Survey to Update Service

If a "sales program" by Bell Telephone company is successful, rural Wayne telephone customers should have better service by late 1979.
Glen Daugherty, customer service supervisor from the Grand Island district office, said a survey is now underway asking the 423 rural customers in the Wayne area if they want a one or two-party service.

Daugherty said if they can get all or at least a majority of the 433 customers, they will go ahead with the $557,000 project.

The project at the present stage is still a proposal," Daugherty explained. "When we get the necessary customers to sign up for the improved service we will begin work on the project during the summer of 1979 with a switch-over set for late 1979."
Daugherty said information they have gathered from farmers and farm organizations indicate farmers want the improved service. "However, we have to wait until we have a commitment before we can give the project the go-ahead."
He said most of the rural customers in the Wayne area are on an eight-party system.
Daugherty said rural Wayne will be included among some ten other towns in the area if the project receives the necessary positive response. "Wayne is a part of a five-year program undertaken by Northwestern Bell which will end in 1980," Daugherty explained. "By 1980, all of rural Nebraska will have the improved service."

Will Take Look At Complaints

City Engineer Bruce Gilmore told the city council Tuesday night that he and representatives of the construction company for the downtown improvement district will talk to each of the property owners who lodged complaints, Tuesday afternoon.
Gilmore will be in a dual capacity as his firm was engineer for the project. Representatives of the Gill Construction Company, Jackson, will also be on hand.

The downtown walk Thursday is in response to letters from property owners who outlined deficiencies in workmanship or materials.
One property owner, Bud Froehlich, objected to paying seven percent interest on his assessment when he does not have a finished product. City Attorney Ken Swartz said he

Small, But Still Less Than Last Year

Tentative City Budget Shows Drop

A tentative city budget for fiscal 1979 placed before the city council Tuesday night reflected a small decrease in a time of rising costs.
The budget, which is approximately $5 million, is down approximately $60,000 from last year's budget, according to City

Administrator Fred Brink.
Brink said the budget is based on 14.22 mills which represents about two-thirds of one percent increase because of inflation and the cost of living.
Brink said the city is trying to hold the line on costs for the coming fiscal year.

The budget was not made available because of changes received Tuesday from the state auditor's office which will require amendments to the prepared budget which has been weeks in the making.

Brink explained there will be some $13,725.33 to be added to the city coffers and that has to be prorated to the various agencies before the budget can reflect the true picture.

Meal Plan For Center

Several senior citizens and administrators were told Tuesday night plans are being made for low-priced family style meals in the Wayne area.
R. E. Horton appeared before the council to voice his opinion regarding the meals. He cited several communities where the meals are served and said the program is working satisfactorily.
Horton and other interested persons were told the city has received tentative approval for a grant from the Northeast Nebraska Commission on Aging and that a meal plan plus continuing "meals on wheels" is in the offering.

According to Councilwoman Carolyn Fitter, persons 60 years of age or older will be eligible for meals which will be catered but served at the Senior Citizen Center. The meals will be delivered to those who cannot come to the center.
The cost of the meals has been estimated at 75 cents but persons will be charged as to their ability to pay. If they cannot afford the 75 cent charge, Fitter said, "They can have the meal free of charge."
Plans are being made to extend a ramp for access to the building. An elevator is available for those who cannot use the steps.
Horton told the council there are certain older persons who will not come to the center because of a difference of opinion.
Councilwoman Fitter told him the city was making an effort to accommodate the older persons in the community. "They will have to settle their differences about the center themselves," she

Airport Lowers Budget Asking

Bob Reeg, chairman of the Wayne Airport Authority, presented the fiscal 1978-79 budget pointing out the authority asking one mill less this year than last year.
He pointed out that the two mills last year plus revenues has produced enough money to operate the airport on one mill for the coming fiscal year.
Reeg said, however, the authority might be asking for rein statement of the two-mill levy if a proposed expansion program is carried out in two years.
Mayor Freeman Decker complimented the authority and Airport Manager Allen Robinson for the way in which the airport was being operated. Reeg said most of the credit must go to Robinson.
"Not Likely Hoppers Here"
With grasshoppers devastating Colorado and Nebraska farmers in the worst infestation since the 1930's, one would wonder if it could happen here.
"It's not likely," says Extension Agent Don Spitz. "We have an entirely different situation than out there," he said. "Grasshoppers breed in the big pastures and out there, and we don't have those here."
Spitz said that state officials have talked about the problem, but aren't planning any anti-grasshopper programs.

Transfer Station Open In Two to Three Weeks

The long-awaited compactor transfer station in Wayne is expected to be operational in about two to three weeks, following action taken Tuesday night by the Wayne city council.
Even so, it's going to open under duress.
Vernon Russell, councilman first ward and a commercial hauler of refuse in Wayne, asked to be excused from the council to read prepared remarks regarding the station.

Russell said he has been against the station from the beginning, not only because it will possibly affect his business, but that it will lose money.
He read comparison figures of compactor stations in other communities and, according to his information, they have lost money.

Frank Brink, city administrator, reminded Russell that the present landfill is and has been costing the city money.
Russell summed up by stating if the prices set for use of the transfer station are too high, "the people will not use it and they will throw their refuse in the ditches. If commercial haulers are charged too much, they will go out of business and the city will have problems."
Russell stated, "Let your consciences be your guide," he concluded.

Wayne-Carroll System Maintains AA Rating

The Wayne Carroll school system is to be continued on the list of Class AA Accredited Schools for the ensuing year.
The Wayne school is one of 33 in the state to receive the AA rating and is the smallest school in the state to earn the rating.
The announcement was made by Hugh A. Harlan, administrator, section of school management services, who said the state board of education unanimously accepted the recommendation of the State Accreditation committee.
"Maintaining your school system as an AA accredited system is indeed a compliment to your board of education, the administrative team, the staff and the school community which supports your school program," according to Harlan.
He added: "The fact that the quality necessary for recognition as an AA accredited system is maintained on a voluntary basis reflects the commitment of your school community to quality education."
Harlan said "other school systems in the state recognize this quality and look to your system for educational leadership."

Vocal Music Teacher Named For Promise

A Wayne State College graduate has been hired as vocal music instructor in the Wayne-Carroll school system, according to action taken Monday night by the district board of education.
Jana Marie Rutledge, Wayne, has been hired to replace Rick Penning in the position.
Mrs. Rutledge attended the University of Nebraska Omaha; the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and Wayne State College.
She holds endorsements in vocal and instrumental music, K through 12.
She was voted outstanding

Letter Asks For Promise

A group of Wayne County farmers and cattle producers have sent a strongly worded letter to President Jimmy Carter in opposition to his decision to open beef imports.
They accused him of "once again throwing the cattle industry into turmoil and uncertainty."
The letter points out the ever present threat of Presidential action such as the one regarding beef imports "fills the future of our industry with confusion and distrust."
They call for the president's "unqualified promise and assurance."

Mrs. Marvin Draghu gave two readings, entitled "Recipe for Marriage" and "Love," and Brenda Nettleton played piano. Tables were decorated in the bride's chosen colors, apricot and green. Mothers of the bride and bridegroom poured coffee and served punch. Mrs. Lynn Matthes and Theresa Nettleton assisted with gifts.

Winside Methodist Church Site Of Holtgrew-McNamara Rites

Apricot and white gladioli and white pompons decorated the altar of the United Methodist Church in Winside July 1 for the wedding of Vickie Holtgrew and Joseph McNamara. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Holtgrew of Winside, graduated from Winside High School in 1974 and from St. Luke's School of Nursing in 1977. She is employed at St. Luke's Medical Center in Sioux City.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McNamara of Sioux City. He graduated from North High School in 1977 and works at State Street in Sioux City. The Rev. Kenneth Edmonds of Wayne officiated at the 2 o'clock double ring ceremony. Steph Kruse of Sioux Falls, Ia., and Lynn Patrick of Mapleton, Ia., sang, accompanied by Virginia Holtgrew of Winside. Wedding music included a duet, "The Wedding Song," Kruse singing "Candle on the Water" and Patrick singing "Turn Around."

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white satin with an attached train, fastened with a horseshoe neckline and rose lace on the bodice. The sheer sleeves featured rose applique and lace cuffs, and matching lace streamers from the empire waistline to the hem of the gown. Lace encrusted the two-tiered fingertip veil with matching lace and carried Robin Abo long stemmed roses with miniature carnations, baby's breath and streamers. The bride's honor attendant was Linda Holtgrew of Lincoln. Bridesmaids were Mary Selby of Sioux City and Theresa Goshen of Irton, Ia. They wore apricot gowns of double knit and chiffon in floor length. Empire fashions featured a sheer overlay on the skirt and a ruffled flounce hemline which picked up and attached to the center back. They wore apricot baby's breath in their hair and carried apricot and white mums with baby's breath. Randy Bradley was best man, and Rick Echols and Dennis James were groomsmen. All are of Sioux City. The men in the wedding party wore rust tweed jackets with ruffled apricot shirts. Lisa Pendergast of Plainview was flower girl and Bobby Holtgrew of Winside was ring bearer. Candles were lighted by Ed McNamara of Sioux City and Ron Holtgrew of Winside. Guests were ushered into the church by Don Eastman of Sioux City, Don Holtgrew of Norfolk, and Pete Holtgrew and Jennifer Holtgrew, both of Merrill, Ia. Mrs. Holtgrew wore a mint green double knit in floor length for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. McNamara selected a baby blue double knit, also in floor length. Both were a Japette orchid. A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Guests were registered by Sue Holtgrew of Merrill.

Policy on Weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

With DARRYL FUELBERTH

Why use a real estate agent to sell your house? Why pay a commission for something you can do yourself? People sell through agents because they realize that an agent can do a better job than they can do themselves. That shouldn't surprise anyone. The agent is a professional. He knows how to qualify buyers so that he doesn't spend too much time on "lookers" who can't buy or are not ready to buy yet.

The real estate agent has the time to plan the sale and take care of details whereas the owner seldom does. The agent knows how to match the house with a buyer's needs, then "merchandise" the property. He can find ways to solve legal or financing problems. That is why surveys show that sellers actually net more after paying the commission, when they sell through an agent.

Let us show you how we can get you the top dollar for your property. It will pay you to list with us so come in and "Talk It Over."

Laurel Comeback Stops Winside

The Laurel Juniors won a see-saw battle over Winside 12-8 Monday night, in a game of many errors.

Winside took the early lead holding Laurel scoreless in the first inning and scoring two runs of their own. Tom Anderson was hit by a pitch to reach first base and Rick Anderson followed a base on balls.

Rick Anderson was thrown out at second in a fielder's choice when Mitch Pfeiffer hit a ground ball to the shortstop. Pfeiffer stole second base and a wild pitch and passed ball allowed Anderson and Pfeiffer to steal home.

Laurel failed to score again in the second inning and Winside opened its lead to three when Todd Hoemann scored. Laurel broke its scoring drought in the third with four runs, taking advantage of three errors, a wild pitch, a walk and hits by Ron Gadeken and Mike Martin.

Don Dalton, Shannon Hopkins, Russ Gade and Steve Anderson scored Laurel's runs. Rick Anderson led off the bottom of the third with a double and Pfeiffer drove him in with a double to tie the game 4-4.

Doug Lute and Dwight Anderson came back to score runs for Laurel in the fourth with a key hit by Hopkins to take the lead for good. Winside's Bruce Smith added another run in the bottom of the fifth when he singled, stole second and scored on two Laurel errors.

Two insurance runs by Gade and Steve Anderson gave Laurel an 11-7 lead after six innings and Don Dalton scored the final run for Laurel in the seventh. Winside didn't die in the seventh and Pfeiffer scored when he walked and Bill Thomas hit a long drive to the center field fence.

Thomas rounded third base on the hit and tried for home but was thrown out by Dalton's relay throw from the shortstop position. Smith singled but a strikeout and groundout ended the game 12-8.

The Laurel Midgets beat Winside 8-3 in the first game of the twin-bill.

Town Team Turns Tables

When the Wayne Town Team hosted Winside Sunday night both teams had nearly the same lineup they had earlier in the season when Wayne nipped Winside 5-4 in extra innings, but this time Wayne overpowered the visitors 15-1, behind a superb batting performance by Steve Anson.

Pitcher Earle Overin paved the way for the winners, holding Winside scoreless until the seventh inning. He gave up six hits and struck out 10 batters.

Anson connected for a solo home run in the first inning to begin the Wayne scoring attack. Then Mike Green doubled and Mike Meyer brought Green home with a double for an early 2-0 lead.

Fritz Weible walked in the second inning and scored on hits by Frevert and Anson for the third run of the ball game. Meyer added a run in the third, getting a base on balls and later scoring from third on a sacrifice fly to center field by Weible.

Green drove in two runs with a hit in the fourth after Anson singled and Bill Schwartz reached base on an error, also scored to bring the tally to 7-0 after four innings.

A big five run fifth inning put the game far out of reach at 12-0. Overin led off with a double, Weible and Marty Hansen singled and Frevert doubled in Weible and Hansen with no outs.

With Frevert on first base, third and Pfeiffer with Zeiss, Carroll and Anson on base with no outs, and in the fifth inning with the same three players in a bases loaded situation and hot outs. Both times their hopes ended with no runs.

Randy Pease scored for Winside in the third and Garrard Brockemeyer scored in the fourth for their fifth and sixth runs of the game.

Zeiss, Carroll and Pfeiffer all saw action on the mound for Wayne in the game while Les Held pitched a three-hitter for Winside.

Blaine Nelson, Larry Soderberg and Barry Jones led Wakefield with two hits apiece including a triple by Nelson in the clutch triumph over Emerson. Mark Starz was the winning pitcher.

Winside cracked his second home run of the night clearing the bases with a 12 run lead. Winside outdrew three of the next four batters to end the inning.

The Town Team extended its scoring streak to six innings with three total runs, stretching the lead to 15. Bob Nelson walked, Frevert singled and Anson walked to load the bases up in the bottom of the sixth. Schwartz lined a double to score two runs, and Green drove in Schwartz with a hit.

Anson broke the shutout when he scored in the seventh but with the 10 run rule in effect, the game ended 15-1.

Overin: Midgets Tired, Better Than They Look

After watching his Midgets lose a tough ball game in Winside Monday night, Coach Hank Overin said that he knows his team is better than they've shown in their last two or three games, but because many of them are working during the day, they're tired.

"Most of these guys are working seven or eight hours a day then they're playing baseball until 11 o'clock at night. They're burning themselves out and aren't playing as well as they're capable. If they can come out of it, they'll have a good chance in districts," Coach Overin explained.

Jeff Zeiss led off for Wayne with a double, advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Dennis Carroll, and scored the first run of the game when Tim Pfeiffer sacrificed him in with a bunt. Winsie re-related with four runs in the bottom of the inning on three walks, an error and a single.

Trailing 4-1, the Midgets couldn't get any runs, although they had the opportunities. Their two big chances came in the

Juniors Still At The Top After 6-3 Win On The Road

The Wayne Juniors strengthened their chances of first place in the Ralph Bishop League by whipping Winside 6-3 Monday night. Doug Carroll pitched a five-hitter to gain the victory.

After a scoreless first inning, Doug Carroll led off in the second and reached base on an error. He went to second base on a wild pitch and scored when Al Nissen slapped a double.

Dean Carroll singled and stole second to get set up at scoring position in the third inning, with two outs, and Tom Gunn drove him in with a hit. Gunn was put out at second base to end the top half of the inning.

Winsie got one run back in the bottom of the inning when Randy Pease scored.

Doug Carroll started a scoring attack in the fourth with a hit and Kevin Murray followed with another hit. Sharpe cracked a single and both runners scored to give Wayne a 4-1 lead.

Although leading the bases with three walks in the fifth inning, the Midgets didn't score and went into the sixth inning. With two outs, Jerry singled, to give Wayne a more comfortable 5-1 lead.

Gunn led off the seventh with a hit and Murray brought him in when he doubled to pad the score. Winsie scored two runs with two outs in the bottom of the seventh but that was all they could manage and the game ended 6-3.

Johnson Leads Laurel To Win

Matt Johnson drove in the tying run with a single in the fourth inning and scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly by Phil Martin in the fifth inning to lift the Laurel Midgets to a 3-1 win over Pender in Ralph Bishop League action.

Martin was the winning pitcher, giving up only four hits and adding six strikeouts. He was backed by Mark McCorkindale and Scott Norvell who had six hits apiece.

The Pender Juniors trimmed Laurel on the three-hit pitching of Tim Wegner. Don Dalton got two of the Laurel hits and Ron Gadeken added the other one. Pender scored two runs in the second, fourth and sixth innings and four runs in the fifth to rack up the 10-0 shutout.

Zeiss, Carroll and Pfeiffer all saw action on the mound for Wayne in the game while Les Held pitched a three-hitter for Winside.

Wakefield Teams Continue To Win, Both Remain Undefeated In League

The Wakefield Midgets and Juniors continued to play winning ball, beating Emerson 13-1 and 5-3 respectively, Monday night, and stopping O'Neill 6-5 and 9-1, Tuesday night.

Blaine Nelson, Larry Soderberg and Barry Jones led Wakefield with two hits apiece including a triple by Nelson in the clutch triumph over Emerson. Mark Starz was the winning pitcher.

In the nightcap, Blaine Nelson made a diving catch with Emerson runners in scoring position in the seventh inning to end the game with the Juniors on top 5-3.

Brad Jones played a fine defensive game, making six assists and Todd Swigart picked up the win for Wakefield, with relief help from Rick Guy in the sixth and seventh innings.

Blaine Nelson also played well in the Midget game against O'Neill Tuesday, getting two hits. Dale Phipps, Tom Preston and Wayne Guy combined

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

THEY DID IT AGAIN. Those powerful National League stars beat the American League in the All-Star game again this year. That makes seven straight wins. It's getting older than re-runs of "Star Trek." It's disgusting for us American League fans.

Steve Garvey supplied the punch and was selected Most Valuable Player for his performance. With three runs in the eighth inning the NL broke the 3-3 tie when Garvey scored the go-ahead run after he tripped.

I wasn't too happy with the coaching done by Billy Martin, coach of the AL. After the usually sharp pitcher, Jim Palmer ran into problems with his control, Martin left him in to walk in one run and give up two more on a hit. If that wasn't bad enough, he let Gossage pitch too long in the eighth inning and watched his slim hopes for an upset disappear.

Next year the National League will go into the All-Star game with a 30-18-1 record and 15 victories in the last 16 games. While there is talk about changing the selection process for the game, I'll make a suggestion. Next year why not take a NL reserve team, overlooking the top players, to give the AL a chance to win. Maybe then they'd have a chance.

TEE-OFFS for the Wayne Open Golf Tournament are approaching. Sunday, about 200 golfers will compete in the annual affair at the Wayne Golf Course.

Bob Reeg won last year's championship and will be seeking another title this year. Besides the coveted championship flight title, many golfers will attempt to win or place in their respective flights.

OBITUARIES

Frank I. Thomas Sr.

Funeral services for Frank I. Thomas Sr., age 92, of Sloux City and formerly of the Dixon and Laurel areas, were held Saturday morning at the First Assembly of God Church in Sloux City.

The Rev. James Zellers, a grandson from Dodge Center, Minn., officiated. Burial was in the Memorial Park Cemetery. He died July 5 at the Casa De Paz Nursing Home.

Born Aug. 17, 1885, at Newcastle, he was married to Emma Stading in Sloux City on Nov. 6, 1907. He farmed in the Dixon and Laurel areas.

Upon his retirement from farming he moved to Sloux City in 1948 where he was employed at the Jackson and Warrior Hotels until 1970.

Survivors include his widow; four sons, Frank Jr. of LeMars, Ia., Robert of Lakeland, Minn., Paul of Dixon and Howard of Olivia, Minn.; two daughters, Fern Zellers and Lula Koch of Sloux City; 17 grandchildren; 27 great grandchildren and eight great great grandchildren.

Louise Schulz

Mrs. Gus Schulz, age 90, of Wakefield died Monday. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the Bressler Funeral Home in Wakefield.

Born on Sept. 19, 1887, she was married on Nov. 4, 1908. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Virgil (Doris) Ekberg and Mrs. Irene Blattner; eight grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Goldie Allvin

Goldie Allvin, age 77, of Wayne died Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Henry A. Arp of rural Carroll. Funeral services will be Friday morning at 10:30 a.m. at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne with the Rev. Doniver Peterson officiating.

Pallbearers are Melvin Longe, David Slevers, LeRoy Spahr, Waldron Bull, Claude Harder and LeRoy Echtenkamp. Burial will be in the Greenwood Cemetery.

The body was to lie in state at the Wiltse Mortuary from Wednesday evening until time of services.

The daughter of Alfred and Cora Taylor Ireland, she was born June 27, 1901, in Burt County. She attended Wayne State College and had taught one year in Burt County and several years in Wayne County.

Married to Ernfrid Allvin on June 6, 1922, at the home of her parents in Wayne, the couple farmed northwest of Wayne where she has resided since.

She is preceded in death by her husband; one son, Dean, and five grandchildren. Survivors include two sons, Carl and Jerry, both of Wayne; four daughters, Mrs. Elmer (Ruth) Wacker of Wayne, Mrs. Henry A. (Violet) Arp of Carroll, Mrs. Carl B. (Donna) Nelson of Plainview, and Mrs. Herbert (Dorothy) Brader of Oakland; 34 grandchildren; 13 great grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Clara Spahr of Wayne.

Clara Riedesel

Funeral services for Mrs. Maurice Riedesel, age 63, of Bridgewater, S.D., were held Tuesday at the Peace United Church of Christ at Hoskins with the Rev. Lehr officiating.

She died Friday at Bridgewater. Burial was in the Spring Branch Cemetery.

Clara Riedesel, daughter of Edward and Matilda Ulrich, was born Nov. 8, 1914, northeast of Hoskins. She was baptized on Nov. 19, 1914, and confirmed on July 22, 1928 at the Immanuel Reformed Church northeast of Hoskins. She was married to the Rev. Maurice Riedesel on June 18, 1939, also at the Immanuel Reformed Church.

Attending school at Wayne High and Wayne State College, she taught rural school near Hoskins for several years. She also attended Eden Seminary at St. Louis, Mo.

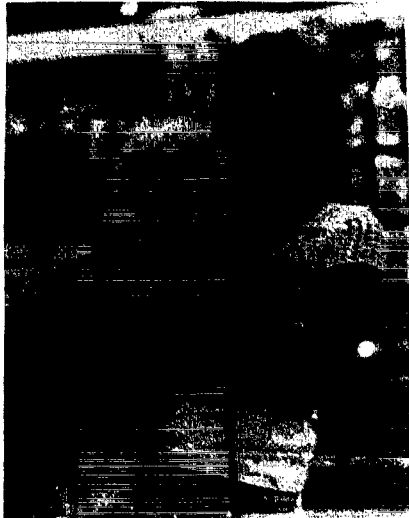

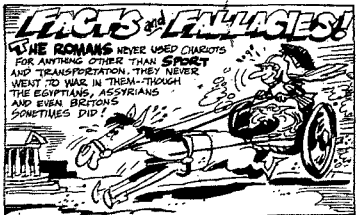

The couple served as missionaries in Central America from 1941 to 1951. They lived southwest of Hoskins several years after where he served as pastor of the Peace Church.

Survivors include her widower; two sons, Clement in Japan and Charles in California; two daughters, Marjorie of Wichita, Kan., and Caroline of Bridgewater, S.D.; two brothers, Harold Ulrich of Heber Springs, Ark., and Samuel Ulrich of Boise, Idaho, and one sister, Mrs. Everett Wetzel of Norfolk.

Marion E. Nichols

Services are pending at the Wiltse Mortuary in Wayne for Marion E. Nichols of Denver, Colo., a former Wayne resident. He died Monday at Denver.

Survivors include a brother, Charles Nichols of Wayne.

Towing Demonstration Planned

A heavily loaded wagon hitched behind a tractor begins to push on the tractor on a down hill slope. The operator applies the brakes on the tractor wheels (the trailing wagon has no brakes). The wagon threatens to jackknife and despite the farmer's best efforts, the tractor wheels lock as a result of the braking action and begin to slide. The tractor and the overrunning wagon end up in the ditch.

This is an increasingly more common occurrence on Nebraska roadways, especially in northeast Nebraska which is quite hilly, according to Rollin Schnieder, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension safety specialist.

Schnieder said a demonstration will be run at the UNL Department of Agricultural Engineering Tractor Power and Safety Day July 27 at the Field Laboratory near Mead, showing the difference between a tractor towing a wagon without brakes and one using the tractor's hydraulic system for braking the wagon.

Farm wagons have come a long way from the simple carts, high-wheeled rack and box conveyances and "lumber wagons" of 50 years ago, Schnieder noted. Today's high horsepower tractors move huge loads much faster than horses or earlier tractors, he explained. This raises braking problems and tests the wagon's ability to endure stresses of a fast pace while bulging with grain, silage or fertilizer. Trucks pull wagons at even higher speeds. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist said.

Schnieder said a large tractor typically can pull one or two fully-loaded wagons, each with a 400 and more bushel capacity, at transport speeds. But the operator must stop the rig within safe limits. If the wagon has no brakes, problems can develop not only on downgrades or slippery surfaces — even for large tractors — but also on upgrades with the potential for rollback or being hit from behind.

The effect on stopping distance is influenced by the weight of the tractor, and whether the wagon has brakes on two or all four wheels. Tests have been run involving two tractors of identical weights and pulling identical loads, one wagon with brakes and one without. On a 20 percent downgrade — not uncommon on country roads — the tractor pulling the wagon without brakes required 170 feet to stop on the downgrade, the tractor pulling a wagon with brakes on two wheels stopped within 65 feet. A 10,000 pound tractor towing a loaded 12-ton wagon equipped with four wheel brakes could stop as quickly as the tractor alone.

Schnieder said some wagons, especially older ones, have a pivoting front axle that makes them unstable when turning if heavily loaded. Other dangers to avoid in pulling wagons on roadways include decoupling because inadequate drawings shear or jump out, wagons that track poorly or sway, overloading or underpowering, and not having the proper slow moving vehicle identification or lighting.

The majority of wagon accidents occur during the summer and fall, Schnieder said, and while falls from or in wagons are responsible for most wagon-related injuries, roadway mishaps when they do occur are often very serious.

Following recommendations in instruction manuals, keeping wagons in top condition, checking tires for proper inflation and soundness, distributing the load evenly, prohibiting extra riders on the tractor or wagon, driving at a speed safe for conditions, and staying away from ditches, steep banks, low branches and other obstacles are other precautions for tractor and wagon travel on roadways.

Additional tips for tractor drivers by Schnieder are to use a gear that will avoid a mid-hill stall and assure a non-stop trip to the top, exercise of good road manners: stay in your lane, do not swing into another lane when turning, signal your turns and pull over to the side if traffic is backing up behind you. "Don't do anything that takes other drivers by surprise," Schnieder concluded.

Card of Thanks

I WOULD LIKE to express my deepest gratitude to friends, neighbors and relatives for their prayers, memorials, flowers, cards and other expressions of sympathy shown during the loss of my beloved brother Ray. A big thank you to Drs. Walter and Bob Bentback and to the nurses for their wonderful care and to Rev. Haas for his comforting words and to Larry Johnson for the beautiful hymns, the pallbearers and Hiscox Schumacher Funeral Home and to the United Presbyterian Women for the lovely meal. Also a big thank you to the Masonic Lodge for their comforting message at the mortuary. Anna K. Meier [113]

IN MEMORY OF Ina Heeren we wish to thank the Wakefield Care Center for the Loving and tender care and Dr. Coe who looked in on her. The many friends who visited her helping to pass the hours. Thanks for all the memorials, cards, flowers and calls. We thank Hiscox Schumacher Funeral Home for their gracious helpfulness. Thanks to John Beth minister and Marie Volk, Howard Black and Fred Whaley for the music. The service was very nice. Thank you to the pallbearers, Donald Westerhaus, Merlin Brugger, Art Grono, Brian Nelson, Earl Jensen and Arthur May. A thank you to ladies of the Carroll Senior Citizens who made the coffee hour possible and most relaxing, it was very nice. We are thankful my Aunt was spared to us so many years. She was aunt, sister and mother, filling all those spots in our life. Her kindness and love will live in our hearts forever. All kind deeds and words of sympathy have been greatly appreciated. Arlo Wynne and Glenn Wingett. [113]

MANY THANKS TO ALL of those who came to visit our children while they were here on vacation, many thanks to those who brought in food and a special thanks to our wonderful daughters-in-law who helped prepare the meals and keep things in order. This full week was one that we will always remember as one of the highlights in our lifetime and we know it was for our children. We prayed so hard to God to give us a beautiful week and as usual God was there. He cooperated weatherwise, no storms, calm winds and brought them all safely home and returned to their homes again. Life can be beautiful. Doc and Eleanor Ellis. [113]

Use Your Eyes... Not Your Feet.

9 out of 10 Nebraska weekly newspaper readers do.

If your feet could talk, they would suggest advertising. Why? Simply because it's the easiest way to save you time and money. Saves you time because your feet take fewer steps. Saves you money because it's easy to see that newspaper advertising is your best value.

In fact, over 65% of readers of weekly newspapers make a buying decision from advertising they read in the paper. Advertising provides vital shopping information. Letting readers know where local businesses are... how much products cost... and where to shop.

Advertising in weekly newspapers keeps everyone informed about the business of the community. So why not take the advice of both your community and your tired feet. Get informed... with local advertising.

Plans were made for the annual quest day meeting on Sept. 7.

Birthday, anniversary and cheer cards were sent.

Mrs. Fred Brummetts was program leader. The Rev. Galen Hahn led in the discussion of the Bible study on Second Timothy, and the meeting closed with the singing of several hymns.

Next meeting will be Aug. 3 with hostess Mrs. Vernon Behmer. Mrs. Walter Fenske is in charge of the program.

97th Anniversary
Peace United Church of Christ observed the 97th anniversary July 2 of the first Reformed service of worship held in North-east Nebraska.

Only July 3, 1881, the Rev. Huelhorst of Yutan came to the Springbranch area and held a Reformed service of worship for the German immigrant settlers. Pastor Huelhorst's service marked the beginning of the Peace Reformed Church, which is now called the Peace United Church of Christ.

The activities July 2 included a family worship service and

The resolution passed with First Ward Councilman Sam Heppburn, casting the only dissenting vote.

Prior to the vote, it was explained the facility will be given a "shake-down run" before it is opened to the public so any problems that may arise can be taken care of before it is open to the general public.

The two commercial haulers will be given use of the facility at no charge for two weeks. It will not be open to the general public during this time.

When the facility is open, the charges to the public will be: Automobiles and station wagons without trailers, $1 per vehicle.

Pickup trucks without side boards, $2 per vehicle. Pickup trucks with side boards, $3 per vehicle.

Licensed Class A Collectors trucks, $1 per cubic yard. Two-Wheeled Trailers (4 per cubic yard maximum), $4 per trailer.

Four Wheeled Trailer (6 cubic yard maximum), $16 per trailer.

said, "It's your center. It will be what you want it to be," she pointed out.

Mayor Freeman Decker said a steering committee has been appointed to administer the meal program. The committee will work in conjunction with the administrators.

A warning was again issued that if trouble continues at the center, it will be closed.

Approve Bid
The city council Tuesday night approved the low bid of $119,457.29 for three Street Improvement Districts.

The bid was submitted by Gill Construction Company, Jackson, but was contingent on availability of cement. City Engineer Bruce Gilmore said he talked to the Jackson company and they now state they can get the cement.

They also moved their starting date up to this fall. It was originally set for May, 1979. There will be 30 working days in the projects.

Ask for Bids
The Wayne-Carroll school board of education Monday night examined architects plans for a storage building to be located by the running track.

The board instructed Supt. Francis Hahn to call for bids for both cement block and steel construction.

Bids will be let at the Aug. 7 meeting of the board.

'Serious constitutional questions'

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statewide Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN—Nebraska lawmakers approved a seven percent spending limit on local governments shortly before adjourning their special session, which lasted nine days.

Also approved was a local option lid law and a proposed constitutional amendment which would require tax equalization by governments whose boundaries cross county lines.

The bill that Gov. J. James Exon urged the senators to enact was LBI. It received 35-10 final approval but couldn't muster enough support for passage with the emergency clause.

That means the legislation, which puts a seven percent ceiling on increases on those portions of the budget financed by property taxes, won't go into effect for 90 days.

That seemingly guarantees the spending limit provision will not affect fiscal 1978-79 budgets of political subdivisions, most of which begin their fiscal years on July 1 or Sept. 1.

Shortly before the bill was passed and sent to the governor, Sen. John DeCamp of Meigh said it might contain a loophole because the measure permits local governments to increase their budgets seven percent or the average of the increases for the previous three years, whichever is greater.

DeCamp said he believes more than half the local governments will have averages higher than seven percent.

The local option legislation, sponsored by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, permits voters in taxing districts to petition for an election on the imposition of a spending limit in their districts.

Warner, basing his comment on information received from Attorney General Paul Douglas, said the highest limit the voters could approve under local option would be seven percent.

The legislators refused to pass a bill that would have placed a five percent spending limit on the state government.

The attorney general's office said the measure was probably unconstitutional because the 1978 Legislature could not bind future legislatures to a spending limitation by statute.

The attorney general's staff was kept busy answering questions about the constitutionality of the various pieces of legislation before the lawmakers.

Three opinions from the state Justice Department said LBI would probably withstand a court test. A fourth opinion questioned the constitutionality of the legislative resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to force property tax equalization in taxing districts with overlapping county lines.

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said he will comply with the Legislature's mandate to place the proposed amendment on the November ballot.

Exon and Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan had predicted Beermann would refuse because the attorney general had raised "serious constitutional questions" about whether the lawmakers were empowered to consider the issue during the special session.

Exon and Whelan predicted considerable litigation if the proposal is placed on the ballot.

"If it's put on the ballot, the attorney general can take action to stop that with a lawsuit," the governor said.

Beermann said he would begin preparations to put the amendment before the voters because the legislative resolution directed him to do so and because a legislative act is presumed valid until it is declared otherwise.

He also noted the attorney general had not told him not to place the matter on the ballot.

Urges Signing of Petitions
Right after the Legislature adjourned, Exon urged Nebraskans to sign the lid petition on local governments.

The governor said his request was prompted by the fact that the two lid bills sent to him by the lawmakers did not provide for the measures to become effective immediately.

Without the emergency clause, the bills would be meaningless, Exon said.

He said the only good thing to come out of the special session was passage of a correction in the criminal code, which was the reason the lawmakers were called back to Lincoln.

"Other than that their actions had no meaning whatsoever," Exon said.

He predicted the 44,000 signatures required in a petition effort to place a five percent spending limit on local governmental units will be successful. He added the further prediction that in November "the people will give a loud and clear vote in its favor."

Several days after the governor expressed confidence the petition drive would be successful, the leader of the movement expressed some worry.

S.H. Brauer Jr. of Lincoln said, "Unless there is a substantial last minute flurry of activity, this could become a photo finish. It's now too close for comfort."

He made his statement after filling another 12,000 signatures, bringing the total to more than 43,000.

The reason Brauer was concerned was that he figures he will have to collect about 55,000 signatures because past experience indicates 10 to 13 percent of the names will be invalidated for a variety of reasons.

The petition drive deadline was Friday, July 7.

Brauer blamed the special legislative session for damaging the momentum of the petition effort. But he said the governor's appeal to citizens to sign petitions helped offset that disadvantage.

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said he should know by the first week in August when the petition campaign was successful.

Agree to Debate
Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan, the Democratic candidate for governor, has agreed to an invitation to debate his Republican opponent in the fall election, Congressman Charles Thone.

The invitation was extended to Whelan in a letter from Art Knox, co-chairman of Thone's campaign.

The lieutenant governor said he will suggest that the debate schedule be expanded, noting that the invitation proposed face-to-face meetings of the candidates in July, August and September in addition to a joint appearance before an editors' meeting in Columbus, also in September.

Whelan also wants the debates to be wide open and not restricted to certain topics, as Thone has suggested for two of the encounters.

The invitation also proposed that the lieutenant governor candidates participate in the debates because the governor and lieutenant governor candidates run as a team in the election.

Whelan said he believes it would be appropriate for the Republican and Democratic running mates to have their own debate "on the role of the lieutenant governor's office and how they would view their relationship with the governor."

The Knox invitation was a "feeble attempt" by Thone to live up to his promise to debate his Democratic opponent, Whelan said.

Knox said because Thone will have numerous congressional duties to attend to and plans to do considerable person-to-person campaigning it would be difficult for Thone to agree to a long series of debates.

Treasury Has Balance
The state closed the fiscal year June 30 with a general tax fund balance of nearly $30 million.

The amount was $7 million more than anticipated by the state. Board of Equalization and Assessment last May when the current tax rates were set.

The balance excludes bills outstanding that had yet to be processed or funds for various projects that were re-appropriated into the current fiscal year.

In a separate report, state Tax Commissioner Bill Peters said the state's April sales tax receipts of $16.8 million were $800,000 more than for the same month in 1977.

OBSERVATIONS

Checks and balances

Apparently Wayneland area and other Nebraska voters will have an opportunity to decide whether or not they want a constitutional amendment calling for a percentage spending restriction on local government and taxing agencies.

Proponents of a five percent spending lid Friday presented to Secretary of State Allen Beermann petitions containing 72,911 signatures of voters. Some 47,000 valid signatures are needed to put the proposition on the November ballot. The signatures on the petitions have to be verified by county election officials before an official affirmation can be made.

We are in favor of checks and balances concerning spending taxpayers' dollars. Despite the public furor precipitated by California's so-called "Proposition 13," these checks and balances have been with us since the writing of the constitution. They fall under citizens' right to protest or applaud proposed government spending.

"Proposition 13" has been the spark to ignite interest in what, why and where tax dollars are being spent. For this reason alone, we think "Proposition 13" should be made a part of history as a turning point in fiscal spending.

Citizens have always (since the constitution) had opportunity to have a hand in deciding the way the tax dollars are being spent. Those agencies and governmental bodies whose funding comes from tax dollars must, by law, hold public hearings to present budgets outlining proposals as to how much tax money is to be spent.

But because of public apathy, budget hearings rarely attract interested citizens. Because of this apparent lack of interest the public hearings have mostly been a matter of going through the motions to adhere to requirements by law.

These public hearings are upcoming and if area citizens really want to have an input as to how their tax money is spent, they should attend and be heard. Objections will be taken into consideration before the budget is finally passed.

This is an especially crucial year for Nebraskans to attend the budget hearings. Properly valuations have been raised and the budgets are based on the new figures. There could be a tendency for agencies and governmental bodies to take advantage of this "windfall" and pass their budgets. And they may get away with it if there aren't any taxpayers at the hearings to voice objections.

The spending lid proposals are a direct result of public disinterest. There would be no need for spending restrictions if citizens would accept their responsibilities and take an active interest in how their tax money is being spent.

Wayne County Commissioners have asked local government and other taxing agencies to hold increases to five percent. This is in the form of a request. Whether or not the bodies and agencies stay within the limits outlined by the commissioners, depends to a large extent upon how you, the taxpayers, react to the invitations to attend the budget hearings.

If you wait and read about it in the Herald, it will be too late. Attend the hearings and be heard if you don't like the way in which your tax money is being spent. Time spent attending the hearings might result in money being wisely spent.

— Chuck Barnes.

Dear Editor:

Now that we have all settled down from the festivities of the 4th of July and reminisced the struggles of our forefathers to proclaim this country independent and free let us take a good look at where we are and where we are going.

The United States Bill of Rights guarantees the fundamental liberties of its people including the right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." The government may not deprive a person of these rights. We live in a democracy which has endured over 200 years and is the last strong hold of freedom on Earth. We take pride in the fact that we are a self-governing government. But are we really self-governing or are we at an increasing rate handing our rights and freedoms over to an oppressive type of government.

The Supreme Court decision which legalized abortion in 1973 has become what is now being called the "American Holocaust." Over one million babies are mercilessly killed each year because in one way or another they are unwanted by their mothers and society. Over one million — think of it! And all of this from the Supreme Court, a body of judges who are to interpret laws, not make them. This is what the majority of American people wanted? Did they have a voice in this decision? And only the government funding programs that are dividing and destroying our country? Did you know that over $90 million in tax monies was planned to Planned Parenthood and family planning agencies this last year. And don't believe the white wash they are trying to give the American people. They are parasites and only interested in their own humanistic values.

What about the county rezoning that is occurring across this nation? Any reasonable person who studies this issue will realize that this is the first major step in government control of the land. At the land rezoning hearing held at the court house a few months ago testimony after testimony told that the people were against the rezoning. Only one person stood in favor yet one news media

Lawyers' opportunity

President, Chamber of Commerce
Of the United States

WASHINGTON The Illinois Brick Bill has very little to do with Illinois or bricks, but a great deal to do with the successful enforcement of our antitrust laws.

The purpose of the bill, which is known as H.R. 11942 in the House and S. 1874 in the Senate, is to overturn a Supreme Court decision.

In the Illinois Brick case (hence the name of the bill), the Court said that only the immediate purchaser can sue a seller for price-fixing. Thus, if a wholesaler is overcharged by a manufacturer, the wholesaler alone could collect the triple damages that the law provides as a penalty in such cases.

The Brick Bill would permit suits on behalf of everyone directly affected by the overcharges. In the hypothetical case above, not only the wholesaler but also the retailers and the ultimate consumers could all sue.

Proponents of the bill argue that a wholesaler, for example, might simply pass along the overcharge to the retailer. So why should the wholesaler alone be in a position to collect damages for an "injury" he may not have suffered?

It's a good argument on principle. But when you get down to practical matters, it turns into a vision of chaos. Picture a case involving several big manufacturers, 10 regional distributors, 50 wholesalers, 1,500 retailers and 2,000,000 consumers. How could a court ever sort out who passed on what to whom, or insure that each of the ultimate consumers actually receives whatever it is finally decided that he or she is entitled to?

Nor would the right to collect do the consumer much good. Suppose you could provide you were overcharged 5¢ on a 10¢ candy bar. You would be entitled to an award of 15¢. Postage alone would wipe out that. (Of course, on big-ticket items like automobiles, the amounts involved might not be trivial, but in most cases they would.)

Worse yet, there's no guarantee the ultimate consumer would get anything at all even if the Brick Bill passes. To get around the impossible problem of taking testimony from 2,000,000 consumers (or whatever), the bill (House version) permits "experts" to estimate what the aggregate damages are. This estimate, then, becomes the amount to be extracted from the guilty party. If the case is won, the money might go into a pool for distribution to those deemed worthy.

There is, of course, no way to assure that every consumer concerned will be found and compensated. But one thing is certain: The lawyers who appoint themselves to "represent" all those consumers will get theirs off the top — possibly one-third. Consequently, the Brick Bill is best understood as a clever attempt to industrialize ambulance chasing.

Besides enriching ambitious lawyers, are there other disadvantages to permitting suits by everyone in the distribution chain? Yes.

First, the courts would become clogged with complicated cases, making enforcement less likely rather than more.

And second, the incentive to sue would be reduced for the immediate purchaser. The wholesaler, for example, might not care to risk a suit if he feared that it would be difficult to prove how much he was entitled to recover, because of the pass-along question.

Since the immediate purchaser is usually in the best position to sue, the threat of such action is a powerful deterrent to price-fixing. To reduce that threat would reduce the deterrent.

In short, the Illinois Brick Bill is like a rotten onion: On the outside, it looks fine. Only after peeling away a few of the outer layers do you learn the extent of the trouble.

Circles Meet

Circle 1 of the Salem Lutheran Church met at the Up Town Cafe Thursday with Mrs. Dave Chambers as hostess.

Mrs. Erwin Brown gave the lesson.

The next meeting will not be held until Sept. 7 at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Lloyd Hugleman as hostess.

Mrs. Charles Pierson hosted Circle 2 Thursday morning. Eleven members were present and Mrs. Robert Johnson was a guest.

Giving the lesson was Mrs. Johnson.

They will have a program at the Wakefield Health Care Center on Aug. 3 at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Rudy Lundberg will host the Sept. 7 meeting at 2 p.m.

Ten members of Circle 3 met with Mrs. William Driskill on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mervyn Holm gave the lesson.

Instead of meeting in August each member will make a friendship call on someone.

Hosting the Sept. 7 meeting at 2 p.m. will be Mrs. Walter Grosc.

The Thursday morning meeting of Circle 4 was hosted by Helen Gustafson.

Twelve members were present and Mrs. Gerald Muller gave the lesson.

Hilda Bengtson will host the Sept. 7 meeting at 9:30 a.m.

Picnic Supper
A cooperative picnic supper was held at the William Young home Sunday evening with the newlyweds, the Patrick Youngs as honored guests.

Attending the event were the Willard Malchows and Lynn of Laurel, the Arthur Barker family of Wakefield, the Walter Hales and Merrill of Allen, Mrs. Janice Brockman, Dona Brockman, Charles Brockman Jr., the Dennis Ottos and sons, the Merlin Ottos, the William Lubberstedts, Carol Creighton and Roger Niemann, all of Wayne.

Ladies Aid
Meeting Friday afternoon were 36 members of the St. John's Lutheran Church Ladies Aid.

The Christian Growth chairman, Mrs. Delbert Jensen, gave the opening devotions. "Let These Bells Ring."

Pastor Helling gave the lesson on "Fears of Medical Technology."

A report was given on the convention held at Camp Luther on June 13 by Mrs. A.D. Brown.

Mrs. Brown also announced a gift as she is the outgoing LWML District President.

Guest day is to be held Sept. 1 at 2 p.m.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Delbert Jensen and Mrs. Eugene Johnson.

The next meeting will be Aug. 4 at 2 p.m.

Ration, Environment Effects Explained

Effects of ration and environment on both growth and destructive behavior of growing pigs has been reported by animal scientists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Results of experimentation involving environmentally controlled and modified open-fronted houses at the Northeast Station at Concord, Nebr., were reported by R.D. Fritschen, district Extension swine specialist, during the joint American Dairy Science Association and American Society of Animal Science meeting here July 9-13.

Effects of both environment — as represented by the two types of houses — barometric pressure and ration, using tallow and magnesium and combinations of both, were measured as to effects on average daily gain (ADG) and the efficiency of feed conversion. Tail biting, common in high density swine housing, also was observed.

Fritschen summarized the results of the work in which researchers E.R. Poo, B.D. Moser, P.J. Cunningham and T. Grenshaw collaborated.

The addition of tallow to basal rations improved both average daily gain and feed to weight conversion. Magnesium tended to decrease ADG, lowered feed conversion and increased the incidence of tail biting. Tallow did not affect tail biting.

Pigs made better feed conversions in environmentally controlled housing but had the same ADG in both systems. Tail biting was much more prevalent in the modified open-front building — than in the environmentally-controlled structure where it was 26 percent.

Fritschen believes that tail biting is associated with higher light intensity in the open-fronted building and lower feed conversion was a result of the destructive behavior.

Tail biting also was found to be associated with changes in barometric pressures measured at regular intervals and during observations of tail biting.

4-H HORSE CLUB

Wayne County has a county wide 4-H Horse club called the Wayne County Hombres with twenty-six members. The Hombres went all out at the District 4-H Horse Show at Stanton on July 1 and entered sixteen members. Fifteen of those members received either a purple or blue ribbon in at least one event which entitles them to participate in the State 4-H Horse Show at Fanner Park in Grand Island July 17-20. This is quite an accomplishment since the judge was mighty stingy with blue and purple ribbons that day.

The Wayne County Hombres also received a trophy for Horsemanship Team consisting of Shelly Davis, Debbie Brummond and Sherri Triggs. Roger Lengenberg, Gordon Davis and Mark Flier are the leaders of this club.

FAIR TIME????

The other day someone was in the Extension office when it was jammed with people, the phone was ringing off the hook and they asked if we were going to have a fair this year?

Of course there will be a County Fair. Kris Anderson, work study student; Mindy Lutz, part time secretary and Dorothy Grene, regular secretary have been busy preparing forms, answering questions, and sending out letters, etc., almost all of which pertain to the 4-H section of the County Fair July 27-30.

DEMONSTRATIONS

We recently had our 4-H Agricultural and Engineering demonstration contest at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Six very interesting demonstrations were given and I'd like to tell you something about each of them.

Beautiful Bossy, Kristy Bull had her dairy calf at the Fairgrounds and showed us how she groomed her calf in preparation for County Fair. I doubt that any beauty parlor would have suggested better beauty treatment — except Kristy's advice was for a calf. Kristy received a purple ribbon and will take her demonstration to the State Fair.

Show Box Magic: Debby Bull gave her first contest demonstration. And you can't believe all the "Magic" Debby had in her Show Box — all used to be beautifully her dairy calf for County Fair. Debby received a purple ribbon.

Milk. What is it? Another dairy member, Sandy Utecht told us about all of the value there is in a glass of milk. No wonder they say milk is good for you! Sandy received a blue ribbon.

Your Cows Nutrition: Jennifer Utecht gave an illustrated talk on why minerals, protein, vitamins, etc. are needed for healthy dairy animals. If every dairyman would follow Jennifer's advice I'm sure they would have much healthier dairy animals. Jennifer received a blue ribbon.

Who Are You? If you have a hundred dairy animals how can you tell them apart? Julie Anderson demonstrated several different methods a dairy animal can be identified such as by use of ear tags, tattoos, neck chains, etc. Julie received a blue ribbon.

Up It Goes: "Five, Four, Three, Two, One, Up It Goes." This is how Blaine Johs started his demonstration on how to launch a rocket. Blaine received a purple ribbon and will give his demonstration at the State Fair.

New Planting Equipment On Display July 27th

More sophisticated planting equipment is on the agricultural forefront, according to Dr. Howard D. Whitmuss, associate professor of agricultural engineering in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Some of the new equipment will be on display Thursday, July 27 at Tractor Power and Safety day, an annual event held at the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory near Mead.

John Deere has developed a planter with a monitor system which will be on display. Whitmuss said. The rate of planting is controlled from the tractor seat and is hydraulically actuated. "The farmer can plant thicker in good soil conditions and thinner in poor soil," he said. If the planter is not planting, the monitor automatically indicates there is a problem.

Orthman has developed an Adjust-A-Rate on a bed planter. This system continuously compensates for variables, maintaining a constant seeding rate. It is an electronically controlled system, driven by a hydraulic motor with oil furnished by the tractor system.

The seed drop on the Orthman unit always remains proportional to the ground speed, assuring a consistent planting rate. The operator dials a population change from the tractor seat from maximum to minimum rate of 30,000 to 10,000, the agricultural engineer said. The response time on such a change is only 15 feet of ground travel, he added. Any cycle planter or max emerge planter can be retrofitted with the Adjust-A-Rate control.

"Orthman has a new cultivator guidance system which will be displayed at Tractor Power and Safety Day," he said. The system is new and will not be on the market until next year. It guides down the row without operator assistance, he said.

Fleischer Manufacturing Company will display their new short coupled no-till planter. The planter is a new design for no-till planting, he explained.

The Kaem Manufacturing Company will display the vibraspring field cultivator with self cleaning Danish s-tines. The Danish s-tines penetrate the hardest ground and work well in mulch and shallow tillage conditions. The vibra spring cultivator prepares an excellent seed bed, Whitmuss said.

The Brothill Company will show a sprayer with a monitor. "Total cab control of the sprayer is achieved with a remote boom solenoid control unit," he explained. "The rate of liquid fertilizer application is shown along with the accumulation in gallons." The monitors can be used to determine plugged or worn tips, loss of pump prime and pressure and an empty tank.

"Two experimental planters for use with e-collow tillage systems will be shown and demonstrated. One is a drill made for planting grain under mulch conditions. The other is a max emerge planter adapted to row crop planting in western Nebraska," the specialist said.

Report on Use Of 'Monensin'

New information about "monensin," an antibiotic formerly used as a poultry coccidiostat, now used widely to spare energy sources such as corn in beef cattle rations, has been reported by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln animal scientists.

Dr. Terry J. Klopfenstein and his co-workers in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources reported to the joint meeting of the American Society of Animal Science and American Dairy Science Association here July 9-13.

Though the sparing action of monensin on carbohydrate sources of energy is well established, its possible effects on protein utilization have received little attention. Klopfenstein, working with Mary Poo and T.L. Hanson, experimented with steers that had been surgically intubated to provide access to their fourth stomachs — abomasum — for sampling. Protein sources in the ration were brewer's dried grains and urea, with and without monensin.

The breakdown of proteins into amino acids was measured both in the abomasum and in the blood of the steers. Monensin treatment with both protein sources resulted in a greater quantity of amino acids being passed into the small intestine. However, blood samples between the treatments did not differ in amino acid content.

Klopfenstein and his co-workers have concluded that less protein was degraded by the rumen bacteria and thus more should be potentially available to the animals in the small intestine.

Value of Feeds To Be Updated

The nutritional value of several livestock and poultry feeds — information that in the past has been sometimes hard to find — is to be updated and computerized by a Utah State University animal nutritionist under an agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Paul G. Guyer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension livestock specialist, said the compilation will be useful. "It'll be good, but it won't change our ration formulation a great deal," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said. "There are some feeds we are short of information on but those are generally exotic feeds," he said. "It would help people win other areas more than use because they use more 'exotic' feeds than we do."

Livestock raisers in California would have more use for the information since they have less corn and milo available and have access to more "exotic" feeds, he explained.

"We did some of this (nutritional analysis) a few years ago," said Guyer, who is also an animal science professor. He explained that their research had been necessary to obtain some feed nutrition values for UNL computer ration formulation programs.

Blood analysis did not show higher levels of amino acids for the monensin-treated animals. Therefore, some mechanisms as yet not understood may be influencing this relationship.

Future work will investigate such mechanisms with a view toward solving the problem so that better protein utilization can be achieved in ruminants by the use of this additive.

4H CLUB

The nation's oldest continuous purebred ram sale will occur for the 42nd consecutive year here Aug. 5 at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds.

The "Top of the Flock" sheep show and sale will get under way at 9 a.m. at the fairgrounds' 4-H arena, according to Dr. Ted Doane, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Extension sheep specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The show is sponsored by the Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders Association.

Doane said 48 rams and 48 ewes have been consigned for the show, which will culminate with the selection of the sweepstakes ram about 1:30 p.m. Among the breeds that will be represented are Hampshire, Suffolk, Corriedale and Shropshire, he said.

Sheep will be divided into yearling ram, ram lamb, yearling ewe and ewe lamb classes; with a breed champion chosen for each class, Doane said. The show will be judged by Merrill Nealey of Valparaiso, while the afternoon sale will be called by Dick Kane, a veteran auctioneer from Wisner.

Any established Nebraska breeder who registers 10 sheep annually with any breed association and maintains a quality herd is eligible to sell at the show, Doane said.

Last year's sweepstakes ram, a 288-pound yearling Suffolk consigned by Alan Kjeldegaard, 28, of Tekamah, was bought for $480 by Mrs. Betty J. Wiltz of Maryville, Mo. It was the second consecutive year Mrs. Wiltz had purchased the show's sweepstakes ram.

Doane said all rams sold will be guaranteed as breeders. "For producers looking for quality rams, this would be a good sale to attend," he said.

The Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders Association will conduct its annual meeting in conjunction with the sale. The meeting will be Aug. 4 at 7 p.m. at Our Place Restaurant, 2601 North 48th St., Lincoln.

Stanley Reunion Held at Ponca Fire Hall

The Stanley reunion was held the evening of July 1 at the fire hall in Ponca.

Attending were Elvira Gabel and Monte Nieman of Longmont, Colo.; the Bill Cornelius of Coon Rapids, Minn.; the Richard Stanley family of Kansas City and Steve and Becky Stanley of Stuart.

About 35 were present including several people from the surrounding area.

Carlson. She also was present along with Ted Carlson of Omaha and other area guests.

Area guests joined Mayor and Mrs. Paul Noy of Fort Knox, Ky., and the Ralph Noes of Melba, Idaho, at the Leslie Noe home on July 4 for a cooperative dinner.

A cooperative dinner and present were held in the Don Dieckler home on the Fourth of July to celebrate the holiday and the 87th birthday of George Dieckler. Those present were the Harry Griest of Kingsley, Ia.; the Steve Diecklers of Hinton, Ia.; the Dave Diecklers and Adam, Carol Dieckler of Sioux City, Ia.; the Duane Diecklers, Kenny and Kevin, and Eunice Dieckler and Dawn.

Awarded Study Grant

The National Science Foundation has awarded a $50,400 grant for one year to two University of Nebraska-Lincoln researchers to study the carbon dioxide (CO2) intake of various types of agricultural vegetation.

Dr. Norman J. Rosenberg, professor of agricultural engineering, and Dr. Shashi B. Vorma, associate professor of agricultural meteorology, will measure CO2 fixation, or utilization, by plants and test new methods for measuring carbon dioxide intake. The two plan to begin their research on alfalfa.

Recent interest in carbon dioxide intake by plants has been sparked by a global increase in the amount of CO2 in the atmosphere, according to Rosenberg. The increase, ten percent since 1958, could cause a change in global climate as the carbon dioxide makes the atmosphere trap radiation emitted by the earth more effectively.

The extra heat trapped could not only raise the earth's overall temperature, Rosenberg said, but also could affect climate in other, more complex ways.

The CO2 balance — between industry putting out the gas and plants absorbing it for photosynthesis — is not well understood by researchers.

His research on vegetation in take of carbon dioxide is intended to aid researchers working on the carbon dioxide balance situation, Rosenberg explained.

"We're developing methods to see how fast plants fixate (use) carbon dioxide. We're interested in how the vegetation modulates this process," he said.

Rosenberg said an analysis of the significance of agricultural land on the CO2 situation will be prepared from the research information gathered.

The grant is an outgrowth of similar research he has done previously, he added.

Suggests Check Before Buying

This time of year, agriculturally oriented products are heavily advertised, salesmen are active and many new products enter the market. Coupled with the pressure of farming deadlines, the time is ripe for the marketer of a questionable or unproven agricultural product to sell his wares, observed a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension soils specialist.

Dr. Richard A. Wiese, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR) agronomist, explained that it is virtually impossible for IANR researchers to test every agricultural product as it enters the market. So farmers should try to get as much information as possible on questionable products before they buy.

Wiese mentioned a number of general characteristics that could tip off farmers about an unproven or questionable product.

1. The cost per acre usually ranges from three to eight dollars.

2. The product is said to be far superior to other comparable products.

3. Small quantities — such as one pint, one gallon, four ounces or 20 pounds per acre — are supposed to give excellent results.

4. The product often is associated with such terms as "energizing," "activating," "stimulating" or "releasing."

5. The product has information concerning "environment" or is "organic."

6. Research from the home state agricultural college is often not available, although there may be excellent benefits shown from work in other states.

7. Product benefits often are documented with testimonials of producers.

Many questionable products are called "soil conditioners." Wiese said by definition of Nebraska statutes, soil conditioners are formulas that (a) change the physical condition of the soil or (b) produce a favorable growth, yield, or quality of crop or other soil characteristics. "Unmanipulated animal or vegetable manures and fertilizer and agricultural liming material are not soil conditioners by law. Statutes further state that soil conditioners must be registered in Nebraska with the State Department of Agriculture before being distributed, Wiese pointed out.

Motivation--Key Factor

An investment specialist from Sioux City Monday told Wayne Kiwanis the "best investment they can make is "to invest a little bit of yourself."

The message came through loud and clear. Richard Crawford is blind.

But being blind hasn't hurt his style. He is a college graduate who has made it in the world of computer business.

And there is just one central theme behind his success. "I'm where I am because I wanted to do whatever it took to get here." "And it hasn't been easy," he added.

The 38 year-old business professional made the group at ease about his blindness by explaining about it and the adjustments he has had to make.

Crawford explained that he was afflicted with an eye disease that left him legally blind at the age of ten and subsequently has lost all sight.

He attended a school for the blind in Vinton, Ia. to the 9th grade. He returned to his home town of Grinnell, Ia and "begged" his way into the Grinnell school system.

"I had feared that if I wanted something badly enough, I usually could get it," Crawford explained. He said he had found interest in the business world and this interest was strong enough to motivate him to attend high school and to be graduated from high school.

He pointed out the positive motivation not only helped him scholastically, it helped him to be a "whole being." He took part in choir, drama and wrestling. He was fifth in the state in his wrestling division.

After being graduated from high school, he attended Wartburg College, Waverly, Ia, majoring in business administration and business education, hedging his talents in that if he found he couldn't make it as a business professional, he could teach business education.

He became involved in the federal government's Community Action programs. He finally ended up in Sioux City where he was director of an organization comprised of 60 persons.

Crawford became interested in extra-curricular activities, such as water skiing, hitch hiking and driving a dune buggy.

He caught the eye of an executive with Dain Kalman and Quail, investment specialists. They gave him the opportunity to make his way in a normally sighted business. He proved he could hack it.

"The reason why is because I wanted to," he explained. I attribute my success through motivation that provided a progressive realization of a realistic goal," Crawford explained.

He was the first blind stock broker in Iowa and one of four in the world.

Crawford appealed to the Wayne Kiwanis to join him in helping to provide a purpose to the young people of today. "They are stumbling around without a real purpose in their lives. We have to provide them with leadership."

Crawford has been a member of the Sioux City Kiwanis club for four years. He has been the subject of many articles and has appeared on television to tell his story to help others to help themselves.

Butter Pecan Cake

- 2 cups Pecans, chopped
- 1/4 cup Butter
- 1 cup Butter
- 2 cups Sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon Salt
- 3 cups sifted Cake Flour
- 2 teaspoons Baking Powder
- 4 Eggs
- 2 teaspoons Vanilla
- 1 cup Milk
- One and one-third cups chopped Pecans

Toast 2 cups chopped pecans in 1/4 cup butter in a 325 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Stir often until golden brown.

Cream 1 cup butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beat well. Sift flour, salt and baking powder and add alternately with milk to sugar mixture. Add vanilla and stir in one and one-third cups chopped pecans. Bake in three 8-inch floured pans in 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Frost (recipe below).

Frosting

- 1/4 cup Butter
- 1 pounds Powdered Sugar
- 1 teaspoon Vanilla
- 4 to 6 teaspoons Cream
- Two-third cup chopped Pecans

Cream together the butter, powdered sugar, vanilla and cream. Add chopped pecans. Spread on cake layers.

Mrs. Alvin Temme

Cherry Nut Cake

- 1 cup Shortening
- 1 3/4 cups Sugar
- 3 Eggs
- 3/4 cup Milk
- 3 cups Flour
- 3 teaspoons Baking Powder
- 1 cup chopped Nuts
- 1/4 teaspoon Salt
- 1 teaspoon Vanilla
- 1 small bottle Maraschino Cherries, chopped (juice from the cherries may be used instead of part of the milk if desired. A little red coloring may be added for color)

Cream shortening and sugar; add beaten egg yolks. Then add flour, baking powder and salt with milk. Add vanilla, nuts and well-beaten egg whites and the chopped cherries.

Bake at 350 degrees in a 9 x 12-inch pan for 40 to 45 minutes or until light touch of finger springs back. Cool and frost. This makes a large loaf cake.

Rhubarb Crunch Cake

- 4-6 cups Rhubarb, cut in 1/2-inch pieces
- 1 package Strawberry Gelatin
- 1 cup Butter or Oleo
- 1 1/4 cups Sugar
- 2 Eggs
- 1 cup Sour Cream
- 2 cups Flour
- 1/2 teaspoon Soda
- 1/2 teaspoon Salt
- 1 teaspoon Baking Powder

Topping

- 1/2 cup Brown Sugar
- 2 tablespoons White Sugar
- 1 teaspoon Cinnamon
- 1/2 cup chopped Nuts

Mix the rhubarb and gelatin and set aside. Combine topping ingredients and set aside.

Make cake batter of the oleo, sugar and eggs, sour cream and flour. Add soda, salt and baking powder. Spread 1/2 of batter in a 9 x 13-inch pan that has been buttered and floured. Spread rhubarb mix lightly over the batter. Sprinkle half of the topping mixture over the rhubarb. Spread remaining cake batter over all, and then remaining topping mixture.

Bake at 350 degrees at least 30 minutes or until golden brown.

Quick Praline Rolls

- 1 packet Dry Yeast
- 1/4 cup Warm Water
- 2 1/4 cups Sifted All-Purpose Flour
- 2 tablespoons Sugar
- 2 teaspoons Double Acting Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon Salt
- One-third cup Butter or Oleo
- One-third cup Scalded Milk, cooled to lukewarm
- 1 unbeaten Egg
- One-third cup Butter or Oleo
- 3/4 cup firmly packed Brown Sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped Walnuts

Soften dry yeast in warm water. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. Cut in one-third cup butter (or oleo) until particles are fine. Stir in scalded milk, which has been cooled to lukewarm, egg and softened yeast. Beat well.

Toss on a well floured surface to coat with flour. Roll out to 10 x 15-inches.

Cream the one-third cup butter (or oleo) with brown sugar until fluffy. Spread 3/4 of sugar mixture over dough. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts. Roll up, starting with the 15-inch side.

Cut in 1-inch slices. Place on greased cookie sheets. Flatten. Spread with remaining sugar mixture and sprinkle with chopped walnuts. Let rise in a warm place until light (about 45 minutes).

Bake at 425 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Warm for serving. Makes about 16 rolls.

Doobie Brothers are Energetic Crowd Pleasers

By MARK CRAMER

From Rock and Roll to Jazz-Rock, the seven Doobie Brothers showed energy, professionalism, and crowd-pleasing ability in their Friday night concert at the Sioux City auditorium.

The Doobies performed a well-paced set of their hits, as well as a generous sampling of tunes from their newest album.

The concert opened with a medley of his "Jesus Is Just Alright" and "Long Train Runnin'." The band updated these songs with a more soulful sound, giving them a more complex rhythmic pattern. The change was a welcome one, for it made these familiar tunes sound brand new.

This soulful, jazzy sound was evident throughout most of the concert, only a burning "China Grove" kept its original rock 'n' roll intensity unblemished.

The interesting rhythms were kept rock steady by the bands three percussionists: John Harman, a tom-tom pounding set drummer, was complemented by the lighter sound of Keith Knudsen's set. The band's newest edition, Bobby LaKind, added to the variety of rhythm with his congas, cowbell and selection of percussives.

Knudsen and LaKind are also excellent singers.

Keyboardist, vocalist Michael McDonald, who has recorded with Steely Dan, shone through out with amazing ability on various keyboards, acoustic and electric, as well as being a strong singer. His version of the hit "You Belong to Me," which he helped write, was to me more satisfying than the popular Carly Simon rendition.

Jeff "Skunk" Baxter, who looked very mellow, sitting down throughout most of the concert, would get up occasionally to play some speedy chromatic licks on his vintage Telecaster guitar. Baxter, another Steely Dan dropout, couldn't resist adding a mollif or two from his other band to the sound of the Doobies.

Baxter's jazz stylings were given a perfect foil by the blues-influenced guitar of Patrick Simmons who also played acoustic guitar on a crowd pleasing "Black Water." Simmons' guitar playing and voice are a mainstay of the band, and the unapologetic twin leads he played with Baxter were some of the musically satisfying moments of the concert.

The bass playing of Tiran Porter provided a steady bottom throughout, and his husky voice rounded out the background vocals. He also sang lead on his own composition "Need a Lady."

The band linked its tunes together in such a way that there was never a dull moment. Their show was slickly performed, with the stage movements as well executed as the music.

The light and sound crews also deserve commendation for their perfect timing, and their keeping the sound fairly clear in an unacoustic environment.

Warm up band, Toby Beau, did a short agreeable set of country flavored rock, which included current hit "Angel Babe." They performed well, but lacked the polish of the feature group. The Auditorium's next rock concert will feature Dave Mason and the Ozark Mountain Daredevils.

Neighboring Circle Schedules Open House Sunday Afternoon

The Neighboring Circle is holding an open house at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 16, for members, families, former members and friends.

The event is being held at the Winside Legion Hall. A program will be given at 2:30 p.m. Serving will follow.

Neighboring Circle was organized in July of 1928 when a group of neighbor women decided to form a club to contribute to the community, state and nation.

The club contributes money to several organizations and has sponsored trips to the Corn Palace at Mitchell, S.D., the Tulip Festival at Orange City, and Mrs. Muns' Antique Museum at Stanton. They have also toured the Norfolk Regional Center and visited the Valley View Nursing Home among others.

Currently, the club has 14 members and meets the second Thursday of each month.

Officers are Mrs. Wayne Deakia, president; Mrs. Ray Jacobsen, vice president; and Mrs. Robert Koll, secretary.

President Mrs. Ella Miller conducted the meeting. A sympathy card was sent to the Ray Jacobsens.

Cards provided entertainment, followed by lunch. Committee chairmen were Mrs. Otto Herrmann and Mrs. Ella Miller.

Next meeting is today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

The newly organized Winside Jaycees made $125 from their ducking tank at the Old Settlers celebration last month.

The proceeds were presented recently for the summer recreation program.

New Books
New books in the Winside Public Library include "Curious George Gets a Medal" by H. Rey; "Curious George Rides a Bike" by H. Rey; "Day Daddy Stayed Home"; by E. Kessler; "Dinosaurs and Their World" by L. Pringle; and "Funny Baby" by M. Hilbert.

Birthday Cookout
Duane Thies hosted a cookout at his home Thursday evening in honor of his birthday.

Guests were the Emil Thieses, Don Thieses, Cam and Kellie, Robert Thieses, Nancy and Kathy, Mrs. Lillie Lippold and Mrs. Fred Dangers, and Lorree. Other guests attended from Norfolk.

Library Board
The Winside Public Library board members met July 5 at the library.

The village clerk's financial report was read and Mrs. Harry Sueli Sr. gave the librarian's report.

The National Geographic Book is now in the library along with the record album "Tomorrow's Golden Memories."

Plans were made for story hour, slated Aug. 9, 12, 16 and 19 from 2 to 3 p.m. Story hour is for all pre-school youngsters through those who have just completed fourth grade. Theme will be "The Circus."

Next meeting of the library board will be Aug. 5.

23 Attend Aid
St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Aid met at the church July 5 with 23 present. Mrs. George Jaeger, Mrs. Alfred Miller and Mrs. Ernest Muehlmeier were guests.

President Mrs. Russel Hoffman conducted the meeting. Vice president Mrs. Karl Frederick was in charge of devotions. The group sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Mrs. Frederick read "What Is In Your Hand?" Devotions closed with another hymn.

Letters were read from the Bethesda Home and from the Bon Benschoffs.

Mrs. Werner Mann, Mrs. Louis Willers, Mrs. Cyril Hansen and Mrs. Edwin Vahlkamp will make a scrapbook, which will be sent to the Bethesda Home.

Snack bar reports were given by Mrs. Russel Hoffman and Mrs. Alfred Janke. July 18 snack bar workers are Mrs. Edwin Vahlkamp and Mrs. Albert Jaeger.

On a general committee for the annual bazaar are Mrs. George Voss, Mrs. Herbert Jaeger, Mrs. Byron Janke, Mrs. Fred Janke and Mrs. Ray Reeg.

The kitchen committee is Mrs. Gary Kant, Mrs. Albert Jaeger, Mrs. Al Carlson, Mrs. Louis Willers, Mrs. Cyril Hansen and Mrs. Karl Frederick.

Plans were made for guest day Aug. 2. Each member can invite a guest for the covered dish lunch.

Committees for the guest day meeting are Mrs. Byron Janke, Mrs. Arnold Janke and Mrs. Alfred Janke, entertainment; and Mrs. Gary Kant, Mrs. Chester Maroltz, Mrs. Lester Menke, Mrs. Richard Miller, Mrs. Russell Prince and Mrs. Ray Reeg, kitchen.

BE ALERT TO CREDIT ERRORS
You have to protect yourself against credit troubles. That means reading all credit contracts carefully, asking questions if there's anything you're not sure of, and finding out your rights and responsibilities.

Credit arrangements are legal contracts. They're governed by laws which state responsibilities of both the creditor and the consumer.

Most creditors are willing to take time to explain their contracts to consumers. They know it's good business to avoid misunderstandings. Mistaken bills are a common credit problem. Credit involves detailed record keeping, often done by computers. It's easy to see that errors can occur.

It's the consumer's responsibility to catch credit errors. Don't assume that a mistake will be corrected automatically. When you receive a bill that you think is in error you should write or call the company that handles the credit. Ask where the bill came from and explain why you think it's an error. Make sure they tell you what they plan to do to correct the error. Follow up a phone call with a letter since federal law requires the customer to send his complaint in writing.

Some people believe that apes can talk but don't for fear of being put to work.
