Valuation Up Despite Rollback County Mill Levy Down For 1978-79

Even with a 30 percent property tax valuation drop the proposed county budget for fiscal 1979 shows a lower mill levy than the '77 fiscal year. A public hearing on the proposed budget is set for Tuesday, Aug. 29 at 10 a.m. in the Wayne County courthouse.

Norris Weible, county clerk, said the county valuation in 1977 was $380,190 over the 1977-78 valuation figure, after the rollback mandated by the State Board of Equalization.

The mill levy for the county for 1978-79 is 11.85 mills which represents a decrease of 1.81 mills when compared with last year's budgetary mill levy.

The total valuation for the county, following the refiguring by the county assessor, is $47,839,290. The valuation for the county last year was $47,459,100.

The total requirements for running the county during 1978-79 is $2,189,830 with a necessary cash reserve of $240,000. The requirement last year was $1,412,679.66.

Cash on hand is $973,823 with estimated miscellaneous revenue of $900,249 leaving a current property tax requirement of $55,758.

Total of $152,202 will be received from the federal government in the form of miscellaneous revenue.

County levies include the general fund which shows requirements of $449,244 for fiscal 1979 with a necessary cash reserve of $45,000. The actual expense for the past fiscal year was $429,046.40.

Cash on hand for the general fund is $107,242 with miscellaneous revenue of $253,029 with $183,993 being charged against property tax for a mill levy of 1.88. The general fund levy last year was 4.42.

The Road and Bridge fund amounts to $731,510 with necessary cash reserve of $175,000. Miscellaneous revenue will amount to $253,029 with a current property tax requirement of $281,161 for a mill levy of 5.93. The fund last year had a mill requirement of 7.47.

The County Relief fund has been set at $62,429 with a cash reserve of $10,000. Cash on hand amounts to $16,714. Some $3,488 is expected to be added to the fund through miscellaneous revenue leaving a total of $52,227 to be carried by property tax. The mill levy is 1.09 as compared with .82 mills last year.

Institutions are asking for $12,500 with a cash reserve of $5,000. Cash on hand is $4,802 with $6,698 coming through miscellaneous revenue. The property tax requirement is $12,042 with the mill levy set at .26. The levy last year was .14 mills.

Noxious Weed Control funding has been set at $24,474 with a cash reserve of $5,000. Cash on hand is $8,295. Miscellaneous revenue is expected to amount to $5,824 with $15,355 to be picked up by a .32 mill levy. The mill levy last year was .38 mills. See MILL LEVY, Page 9.

Farmers Want Collective Bargaining

Proposed Power Line Draws Fire

Battle lines are tightening concerning the construction of a Nebraska Public Power District transmission line across Wayne County and other Northeast Nebraska farmlands.

Principal opponents are NPPD and a group called "Farmers Against Power Line Easements" (FATLE), which was formed shortly after NPPD sponsored public hearings.

Asa Christensen, Lincoln attorney, has been retained to represent FATLE.

FATLE committee members are Val Damme, Wayne; Ervin Lamplot, Thurston; Dale Langenberg, Hoskins; Eldon McGuire, Larry Krusemark and Clark Kai, all of Pender.

Each of the groups (NPPD and FATLE) claim their lines are holding steady and both sides are citing "victories."

The problem concerns easements for the construction of a 345,000-volt power line which was announced by NPPD late last year. The 60 miles of transmission line would stretch from an NPPD sub station near Hoskins to Raun, Ia. where it would connect with an Iowa Public Service Company coal fired generating plant.

The line's path would cross farmland in Stanton, Wayne, Thurston and Dakota Counties. It will cost between $8.5 million and $9 million. Completion date has been scheduled for March 1, 1980.

Christensen said the purpose of FATLE is to "if possible, prevent the taking of easements across their (members) land and, if it is not possible to prevent it legally, and I think this is probably the situation, to secure proper compensation for the value of easements or the depreciation of the value of underlying property."

The Lincoln attorney said members have not adopted a strategy to deal with NPPD offers for payments to obtain easements. The group, he said, is waiting for NPPD to start negotiations.

FATLE representative, Ervin Lamplot, who is representing his sister who has land that the power line would cross, said "when they (NPPD) come out to bargain, we'll listen and then turn it over to our lawyer. We'll bargain for us as a group."

NPPD officials said the district will not negotiate with FATLE collectively. Merle Nier, land management supervisor for the utility, said it is policy to deal with landowners individually. What the power district needs is a landowner to see POWER LINE, Page 9.

Packed Program For Field Day

A first hand look at what is happening at Northeast Station near Concord is being offered to area farmers, businessmen and homemakers Aug. 29.

Three tours will be run concurrently during the Northeast Station Field Day, starting at 10 a.m. Tours will continue throughout the day so that visitors may see all research areas of interest.

Some of the topics to be discussed include nitrogen rates for corn production, choice of herbicides and their costs, control of European corn borer, irrigation scheduling and weather stations, research on center pivot erosion management and energy management.

Points of interest in swine research will include fat fitting, new antibiotic testing and housing comparisons.

Other stops will include research in agronomy, insects, beef nutrition, forestry, and proper care of windbreaks.

A portion of the homemakers' program will feature fun with plants, hints on drying foods and a computerized home budget program.

Lunch will be available at Northeast Station.

The station has been undergoing a "shakedown" for the past couple of weeks with commercial refuse haulers using it. The bugs have just about been worked out and ready for public use, Schultz said.

Escape Serious Injury

Two construction workmen from Norfolk escaped serious injury when a ditch in which they were working, caved in and buried both of them.

Officials at the scene said one man was completely buried. However, fellow workmen quickly uncovered dirt from around his head which allowed him to breathe.

The two men reportedly are from Norfolk.

The accident happened about 6:40 p.m. Thursday just as the crew, which is a part of Midwest Bridge and Construction company, Norfolk, was quitting work on a sanitary sewer project. The accident happened in a

There are 11 members on the personnel standards task force with the same range of qualified persons.

Mrs. Corbit also is a member of the Governmental Affairs for Retarded Citizens, having served one year.

Cave-In Pins Two Workmen

Two construction workmen recently dug ditch which runs just back of Villa Wayne in the south part of Wayne.

The Wayne volunteer fire department responded to the alarm which was turned in by one of the workers at the site.

The Wayne firemen were able to get one of the men out of the ditch in about 15 minutes. They had to work about 45 minutes to get the other man, who was buried up to his armpits, out of the gumbo type mud in which the line is being laid.

The man walked out of the ditch under his own power after being uncovered.

The two were taken to Pro. See CAVE-IN, Page 9.

Sheep Producers Should Note Referendum

Wayne and sheep producers should take note of the National Sheep referendum which started Monday and will last until Sept. 21.

This is the advice of Dr. Ted Doane, extension sheep specialist, UNL, who judged the sheep division during the Wayne County fair.

He said Nebraska is one of the few states which has seen an increase in sheep numbers from 1977-78 of more than 20 percent. Noting average prices, much higher than a year ago at the recent top of the Florio purebred show and sale in Lincoln, Doane said "there is more demand to buy sheep than at any time in the 20 odd years I've been on the University staff."

The vote by sheep producers and lamb finishers will decide on whether or not the industry continues the lamb and wool promotion programs of the Denver-based American Sheep Producers council (ASPC).

Money for the ASPC's programs are derived by deduction from incentive payments producers received in wool sales. Sheep growers received $25 million in federal incentive payments on their 1977 marketings of shorn wool.

If producers approve by a two-thirds majority a new agreement with the USDA's Agricultural Marketing service and the American Sheep Producers council, the deductions will be made from ASCS incentive payments for the years 1978 through 1981.

Doane pointed out that the combined deductions equal less than .05 percent of the industry's gross income. Six referendums have been held in the past, and producers have strongly approved the promotional programs each time. In 1974, 85.5 percent of the producers owning 87.8 percent of the sheep represented in the vote said "yes."

Nebraska has one of 24 "Blueprint" for Expansion programs operating. ASPC is coordinating the industry's "Blueprint" program which seeks to increase lamb and wool production nationally. Backers of the referendum point out that ASPC's funds have eroded over the years because of decreasing production and loss of buying power through inflation.

The Increase in deductions, if approved, would be the second increase since 1954.

OBSERVATIONS

A possible solution

It bothers us when employees of community service and protection agencies go on strike. We do not dispute their right to strike, but we are concerned that communities suffer when they do go on strike. And because of this contingency, most newspapers favor the strikers.

We are talking about police, fire, garbage collectors. And we're about to add to the list letter carriers who are again considering a strike.

Intimidation can carry clout and we don't particularly like to have this club held over our heads without recourse.

We have been mulling a possible solution but we can't decide whether the solution could carry the tag of "police state" which we feel is in contradiction of the intentions of our constitution.

Our solution involves the use of the National Guard, the weekend warriors of the nation. The National Guard program is presently caught up in a typically military "SNAFU."

The Guard program is inefficient and ineffective. Our nation would be dangerously "embarrassed" if the Guard were to be called up to represent the U.S. in a "real-life" military problem, internal or external.

This is not a new problem to the Guard. At the outset of World War II, many Guard units were put into combat and they weren't able to meet the challenge. Many ended up in military prisoner of war camps or were killed because they weren't adequately trained.

So we advocate taking the military out of the National Guard and instead, train its personnel in law enforcement, fire fighting, collection of garbage and now, perhaps, carrying mail.

We would hope they would never have to perform these functions because we would be dangerously close to a "police state" which we are totally against. But if the Guardsmen were trained in the service and protective areas mentioned, perhaps it would be something that could be used during negotiations.

As we said, intimidation can carry clout. — Chuck Barnes.

We love our cars

"We do not just use automobiles for transportation. We love them."

Those are the words of Dr. Michael T. Marsden, associate professor of popular culture at Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

"At times we become irritated with them, as we might with loved ones, but the most part we are pleased with our symbols of technology that miraculously take us to and from our real and symbolic destinations day after day," Dr. Marsden told the Automotive Information Council. "The automobile continues to be a major symbol in the American life that is as much a part of our national character as the flag."

Dr. Marsden, who is planning a course entitled The Automobile in American Culture, said the automobile is able to resolve one of the essential tensions in our lives—that between our realized need for community and social groupings and our need, on the other hand, for individualistic expressions.

"Automobiles are socially acceptable means of self-expression," he said. "We can choose the model that best suits our needs, we can add the options of our choice, we can customize our cars to our heart's content, and we can, in general, decorate them as extensions of ourselves. The automobile can also provide the environment for socializing."

"People develop very sensual relationships with their cars. They wash them, scrub them, polish them, paint them, speak softly to them, name them, and in general decorate them. The dashboard has become a mobile mantel on which are displayed objects of affection."

"A significant number of Americans work on their own cars not so much to save money as to reestablish an essential relationship with their machine and the sometimes bewildering world of technology. They want to be part of American technology, not in awe of it, or even victimized by it. The floor stick shift is in vogue because people want to feel their machine taming the wilderness (road) once again."

"We wrap ourselves in automobiles; they surround us and thus become extensions of ourselves. The front seat of today's automobile is much like a living room with its comfort control, picture-window and stereo sound system. Marshall McLuhan is quite right when he suggests that we will have a difficult time getting people to use mass transportation as long as the whole American economic system offers as its reward the privilege of driving to and from work in comfort and privacy. Those drives may be the only times a person is alone and in relatively complete control of his/her immediate environment. We are able to create ecologically pleasing environments with our automobiles. They are hardly mere transportation; they are manifestations of deep-felt needs, wishes and desires which perceptive designers have been able to translate into mechanical form that, while they provide transportation, also fulfill many of those needs, wishes and desires.

"The automobile is a metaphor for what American is all about. Symbolically, it is everything that American has promised."

Railroad passenger travel — 1902

Except in remote areas of Western and Northern Nebraska, most horse-drawn public transportation between towns had given way to the railway passenger train of 1900.

A glance at the railroad map of Nebraska shows the eastern counties of the state faced with the tracks of eight major lines — Burlington, Milwaukee, Union Pacific, Rock Island, Wabash, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, and North Western. Lincoln and Omaha were the major terminals in the state. The Omaha World Herald in 1902 (files in the Nebraska State Historical Society) carries time tables of 64 passenger trains serving that city.

Most trains leaving Omaha, of course, were on long-distance runs carrying "through" passengers to the East and West or to major cities of the Midwest. However, they dropped off fares at major and minor junction points such as Norfolk, Fairbury, Grand Island, Hastings, Sidney, Crawford, Oxford, and many others. Branch lines carried passengers farther into the back country, where they were often met by buggy or buckboard for the last lap home.

Several of the lines, which entered Nebraska from the east and terminated in Omaha, primarily served Iowa, Missouri, and cities farther east. They deposited trainloads of passengers in Omaha, many of whom then took other trains to Nebraska destinations. Three Omaha depots served as terminals: The Union Station at 10th and Marcy Streets; the Burlington Station at 10th and Mason streets; and the Webster Street Station.

Few of the early trains were given the distinctive names that characterized passenger schedules a generation later when competition with auto, bus, and even planes brought about better trains and creative advertising. Two names that carried over into the "modern" era were the Union Pacific's Overland Limited and the Wabash's Cannonball, both familiar names in railroading. Such unimaginative names as Local, Express, Special, and Mail Flyer described most major trains. Many carried only a few of the major stops on the line to identify them. Occasionally the name "Mixed" appeared — a mixed passenger and freight train, which might carry a passenger coach or coach-baggage car combination at the rear of a string of box cars.

The Burlington (Burlington and Missouri); Chicago Burlington and Quincy; Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs) originated the most passenger schedules on the various lines were:

On the Burlington: Denver and California, Alliance Express; Montana and Puget Sound; Lincoln, Beatrice, and Wyoming; Bellevue, Plattsmouth and Pacific Junction; Chicago Vestibled Express; Kansas City Night Express; St. Louis Flyer.

On the Union Pacific: California Express; Lincoln, Beatrice, and St. Joseph; Grand Island Local.

On the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific: Lincoln, Denver and the West; Colorado-Texas Flyer; Chicago Express.

On the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul: Chicago-Omaha Limited.

On the North Western (Chicago and North Western): Fremont, Elkhorn and

Our daughter has spent the summer as an aide in a care center for the elderly. She told us about one resident who continually strapped herself in her wheelchair and "laid rubber" for parts unknown.

CHB

She never made it past the front door. And when asked where she was going, she always had a spot in mind such as son's place in Chicago, or she was going to visit a grandchild in Denver.

CHB

Mighty undertakings to say the least.

CHB

Just recently, she had her wheelchair in high gear and was heading for the front door when our daughter pulled her over to the "curb" and asked: "Where are you going this time, Mom?"

CHB

No one was prepared for this answer: "To hell," she yelled. "That's the only place you'll let me go!"

The Lower Elkhorn NRD Thursday night accepted a proposition by a Norfolk landlord who promised to fix up a building for the headquarters of the NRD. They had previously turned down bids to build a new building because of the price.

CHB

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce stepped into the picture and invited the board to move its headquarters to Wayne where the rent and/or construction costs are cheaper than those in Norfolk.

CHB

They may have decided against moving, but we feel Wayne had a part in bringing down the rental price because of the invitation to move to our fair community. And since the organization is funded by tax dollars, we are going to fair better than we have previously because of the rent.

CHB

And that, he said as he made out his check for increased rent, is that!

It was a relic. The oldest car in town. Mom prayed for a new one. But my father said, "No. This one runs like a clock."

Actually it ran like a clock that had to be constantly repaired.

A new muffler every year. Unending trouble with the transmission. The brake linings. The carburetor. Even the upholstery was shot. My sister Ginny called it "Clarke's Clunker."

A new car. It seemed possible only in the far distant future. Because Dad had six kids and a house to take care of. But without saying a word about it, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan at work. And started buying United States Savings Bonds every week.

Then one morning in the fall, he got up early and left without saying where he was going. We were still around the breakfast table when he came back in the door. Smiling.

"How'd you all like to go for a ride in a brand-new car?" he said.

It was light blue. My mother thought it was the most beautiful car she'd ever seen. And it was the first one they'd ever owned brand new from the factory. She polished it every chance she had. And was forever bragging to the neighbors about all the options, even though she didn't understand half of them.

That was ten years ago and Dad is still driving it today. One of the oldest cars in town. But this one shines and drives like new. Dad has saved enough Bonds to put most of us through school and still buy another car, but Mom won't hear of it.

The way she sees it, "They just don't make 'em like that anymore."

Whether you're saving for a new car, or even a new home, U.S. Savings Bonds can make it happen. Buy Bonds. They're the dependable way to save.

The fungus of "athlete's foot" is widespread in locker rooms. But the danger of contracting the infection is almost nil if the skin of your feet is healthy and unbroken. Blisters open the door to athlete's foot, as does scraped skin. Avoid blisters and damaged skin and you usually avoid the lingering infection of athlete's foot. It is best to avoid places of likely infection until the blisters and scrapes are thoroughly healed.

COUPON BOOKS

Before consumers purchase one of the popular coupon books which provide free goods, services and discounts they should think twice and answer a few questions.

Here are some questions to help consumers determine if a coupon book is worth the money.

— How many of the coupons will I be likely to use? And will I get enough in free goods and services or discounts to offset both the cost of the gasoline and purchase price of the book?

— How far will I be required to travel to take advantage of the coupon offers.

— Will I use the book, or will it be mislabeled or forgotten?

— Will I be required to make appointments in order to use the coupons?

— Will I be expected to purchase certain goods and services which I don't customarily buy or use?

— Are expiration dates clearly shown on each coupon?

— Does the sponsor of the book provide any answers that all participating merchants will honor all the coupons?

— If I am dissatisfied with the coupon book, can I get a refund?

— To whom can I complain if I'm dissatisfied with the book?

If the consumer answers these questions honestly, his decision as to whether or not to buy the coupon book would be a wise choice.

The Better Business Bureau suggests the consumer get the name and address of the sales company on the receipt issued at the time the coupon book is purchased.

Fifteen WSC Players Drop But First Wildcat Contact Good

By JERRY SHOTTENKIRK
WSC Sports Information Director

The recent hot, humid weather may have made normal living uncomfortable for area residents, but with the stiff competition this week, the Wayne State College football practice field is about as hot as it can get.

The Wildcats opened their fall practices Monday with 113 players reporting to campus. Only 98 players remain as the workouts, not weather and competition take their toll.

"The competition was too rough for some of the players," coach Del Stoltenberg said. "Most of the players who have dropped were ones that just wanted to try out. But I think they saw some of the other players were a little better than they were."

Morning and afternoon practices have been held daily with each session lasting from one and one-half to two hours. With classes beginning Tuesday, Aug. 29, only afternoon practice sessions will be held. Stoltenberg said the workouts thus far have been thorough.

"It's been awfully warm this week," he said. "The team has been working hard even though they came into camp in pretty good shape this year. We had our first contact today (Thursday) and I think it was probably the best contact we have ever had early in the conditioning like this."

"We went three days without pads," he added. "Much of the time was devoted to installing the majority of offenses and defenses, as well as conditioning."

Stoltenberg said although the sessions have gone well overall, injuries have plagued several players. Freshman Craig Kern of Davenport, Ia., was forced to drop out of camp after a shoulder dislocation. Before the injuries, Kern was a top prospect for an offensive line position.

Stoltenberg said competition for positions will continue the next two weeks. The starting roster will not be known until the week before the first contest at 1:30 p.m., Sept. 9, against Chadron State.

touchdown for the opposing team. If top field goal kickers are not allowed to kick the 50 and 60 yard kicks, they will not meet the public eye and therefore are being hurt in the long run.

The missed field goal rule should be kept in the pro ranks where it began and not haunt the college level where the fans and players don't want it.

THE ZIMMER BOYS traveled to Kansas City this weekend to compete in the Mr. Peanut Target Tennis competition there. Originally, I thought they were going to play in Minneapolis but they had their choice and picked Kansas City. Watch for a story on the Zimmers' trip when they return from Kansas City.

PLAYOFFS IN THE GOLF LEAGUE will begin this week at the Wayne Country Club. Team 20 will meet team 25, team 17 will play team 32, team 7 will face team 36 and teams 13 and 30 will clash in the playoffs.

TENNIS SEASON is also near completion and the Wayne Tennis Club doubles tournament finals are to be played Monday night.

WHILE I WATCHED the charity show at Carroll last week it was nice to see riders turn their winnings back to donate them to the cancer fund. This was a considerable action on the part of the winners and I think they should be recognized.

KEEP AN EYE OUT for the preseason previews of football and volleyball teams at Laurel, Allen, Winslow, and Wayne State. These stories will be coming up in the next two editions of the Wayne Herald.

SPORTS QUIZ: High schools are divided into different classifications during football season. Class A, Class B, Class C-1, Class C-2, Class D-1, and Class D-2. How many high schools are included in each of the divisions?

ANSWER: Class A contains the 22 largest schools in the state, Class B contains the next 64 largest schools, Class C-1 includes the next 64 largest schools, Class C-2 includes the next 64 largest schools, Class D-1 includes the next 64 largest schools, and Class D-2 includes the next 64 largest schools.

WSC Names Women's Basketball Coach

Helen Carroll of Martin, Tennessee, has been named to head the Wayne State college women's basketball team in 1978-79. She will replace coach Chuck Brewer, who resigned earlier this year.

Miss Carroll has served as an assistant basketball coach since 1976 at the University of Tennessee at Martin, where she also served as a physical education instructor for two years and as head tennis coach last year.

She holds a bachelor of science degree from Middle Tennessee State University and a master of arts degree from Appalachian State University. In addition to basketball and tennis, she has coached volleyball and softball at the college level.

Miss Carroll will take over a Wildkitten team that finished a successful 20-11 last season under coach Brewer, who has accepted a high school coaching position.

WSC athletic director, Dr. John Merriman, said Miss Carroll should be an excellent choice for the head coaching position. She will also serve as a physical education instructor for WSC.

"She had excellent references and an excellent background of experience," Merriman said. "We expect our basketball program to continue to grow under her direction. She is a very impressive professional person."

Tri-County Record 21 Strikeouts Tops Laurel

Norfolk pitcher Ted Hall struck out 21 batters to lead his team over the Laurel Town Team 12-2 in the second game of a best-of-three series at Laurel Wednesday night.

Striking out 21 batters is believed to be a Tri-County record. The two teams were scheduled to meet in the third and deciding game of the playoffs Saturday night at Norfolk.

Laurel gave up three runs in the first inning on walks and a base hit with bases loaded. Norfolk scored three more runs in the second on two key hits and then added two in the fourth on a base hit to center field. Just as the crowd began to think maybe Norfolk would win on the 10-run rule, Nick Dante and J. Schroeder each added a run in the bottom of the fourth, on a Norfolk error.

Norfolk added three more runs to pad their lead to nine runs in the fifth inning. Neither team scored again until the ninth when the Royals added the final blow, to make the score 12-2. Jeff Creamer suffered the loss for Laurel.

Rec Center To Open

The Wayne Middle Recreation Center will open Thursday, Sept. 7 for fifth through eighth grade students. Hours will run from 7:10 p.m. on Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays.

Freshmen are invited but are on an honor system and must conduct themselves properly.

Couples Volleyball Season Is Nearing

The adult recreational couples volleyball league begins Wednesday, Sept. 6 and will run through Nov. 13 completing an 11 week season. Games will be played at the city auditorium.

Hank Overin asked all interested persons who haven't played in recreational volleyball to meet at the auditorium at 6:45 on Wednesday, Sept. 6. Two year players should meet at 8 p.m. while persons with more than two years experience in the league should attend from 9 to 10 p.m.

Players will meet every Wednesday night. The reason for the 9 p.m. meeting is to find out whether two or three groups are needed, Overin said. If interested players are unable to attend Sept. 6 and still want to play, they should call Hank at 375-2584. Persons outside the city limits are welcome to play also but must pay a $10 fee. The $10 will cover every member of the family and all sports in the recreation program.

Overin described the type of volleyball played as slop volleyball and said rules will be less restricting than in power volleyball. He said he hopes everyone who is interested will show up Wednesday or contact him. Players must be at least 21 years of age.

Laurel, Allen Volleyball Opens In Pender Thursday

The Laurel and Allen high school volleyball teams will open their 1978 schedules Thursday, Aug. 31 at the Pender Invitational Volleyball Tournament.

Laurel will meet Walhalla at 6 p.m. Thursday and Allen will play Bancroft at 9 p.m. In other games, Clarkson and Homer will clash at 8 p.m. and Pender and West Point C.C. will play at 7 p.m.

Winners will play on Saturday night. An all tournament team will be selected and trophies will be presented for the top three places.

Checkout Time Near For Rec Football

As football season approaches, Hank Overin is preparing for recreation football checkouts. Seventh and eighth grade players will check out equipment Thursday, Aug. 31, fifth and sixth graders will check out on Friday, Sept. 1 and the third and fourth graders will check out equipment Saturday, Sept. 2 from 10-12 noon.

Equipment will be checked out at the Wayne Middle Center above the fire house. The entrance is on the north side. If interested players are unable to check out at the scheduled times, then seventh and eighth graders may check out Monday, Sept. 4 from 10-12 noon.

On Tuesday, and third and fourth graders on Wednesday. Overin will allow a period of two weeks for sign up. Everyone should phone or contact Hank by Monday, Sept. 11 if still interested in recreation football but not signed up.

Overin said that any additions to teams after the rosters are made will throw off the balance of the league. The season will run from Aug. 31 through Nov. 18.

Country boys are welcome to play football but must pay a $10 fee. The fee will cover basketball and baseball, also, as well as acting at the Wayne Middle

Trapping Permits For Parks Areas

Applications for special permits to trap surplus furbeaters on state parks lands will be accepted by the Game and Parks Commission until Sept. 15.

Permits to trap on state parks, recreation areas, and wayside areas will be issued only when an overpopulation of furbeaters threatens their food supply, fregs, or structures. Then, the commission staff will select the best qualified trapper from its list of applicants to remove the excess animals.

Anyone interested in being considered for such a special permit should send a letter of application to the Division of State Parks, Game and Parks Commission, Box 30370, Lincoln, Nebraska 68503.

The letter should specify which areas the applicant is interested in trapping, and give some indication of the trapper's experience and qualifications. Regulations require that such applications be renewed each year.

Sunday Racing Added Columbus Attraction

Sunday racing and some new grandstand facilities will greet racing fans when the 29-day race meet opens at Columbus Agricultural Park Tuesday, August 29th.

The facilities include a 4500-seat grandstand, a 500-seat club room, as well as an auditorium with seating for 800. An air-conditioned dining room is also available for the enjoyment of fans as well as snack and beverage areas located throughout the grandstand. Closed circuit televisions are placed at convenient locations.

Sunday racing, a feature new to Columbus this year, was added to "make it possible for all racing fans to enjoy a full weekend of racing" according to general manager Warren Albert.

Fans making a weekend trip to Columbus will also be able to take advantage of the parks, swimming pools, and golf courses located in the area, Albert added.

A popular feature returning to the meet will be Ladies Day every Wednesday, when ladies are admitted to the track for 75 cents off the regular admission price.

Post time during the Columbus meet will be 4 p.m. weekdays and 2 p.m. weekends and holidays. Beginning Sept. 19 the weekday posttime will be moved to 3:30 to allow for the earlier sunsets. The final day of racing at Columbus will be Oct. 1.

TRACTOR PULLING drew a big crowd at the fair Wednesday afternoon when many area pullers entered.

"STOP CLOWNING around, join 4-H", was the theme used by the Concordettes in their 4-H booth.

NO MATTER how much was going on at the Dixon County fair, people had to take time out to eat. And eat they did as this Senior Citizen has his plate loaded down at the free barbeque.

his property with a power line is a private matter between the district and the landowner, said.

Christensen said he has not received comments from any of the members of the group who represents have been contacted.

Norris estimated 15 percent of the landowners have signed agreement and that most of these belong to F.A.T.E.

Clark Kal, F.A.T.E. representative from Pender, said he was aware of only two landowners signing easements.

Kal said the line would come within one-quarter mile of his property and would "cut off" another 100 acres of rented property from another 60 acres.

NPPD's Norris explained "we have three buyers out in the field. The report I had pointed out that once utility representatives have been able to explain easements, the power line route and construction payments, the landowners seem to be very cooperative."

He cited cooperation earlier this year when the power district did surveys to determine section and quarter section lines on farms.

The route, which crosses all of Wayne County, was explained to the Wayne city council by NPPD representatives at a recent council meeting.

F.A.T.E.'s Christensen called easements a "parasite" — the right of one person to have a right to your property in perpetuity.

Christensen maintained power lines cause inconvenience for the farmer who must work around the towers, may interfere with irrigation equipment, disrupt television and radio reception and interfere with aerial spraying operations.

Some farmers, he said, claim high voltage passing through the cables has an impact on their health, "although this has not been proved scientifically."

Wayne County Improvement shows an asking of $513,230 with $502,719 in cash on hand. Miscellaneous revenue is expected to add another $1,511 with $9,000 to be collected through property tax on a mill levy of .20.

Weible said he has not been able to set levies of educational districts in the county because the last of the budgets were received just in the past couple of days.

In other areas, the proposed budget shows a Federal Grant Projects fund of $34,368 as compared to $21,994 last year. Cash on hand is $341 with miscellaneous revenue accounting for $34,027.

The inheritance tax fund has been computed at $69,996 compared to $67,008.19. Cash on hand is $34,796 with $35,000 expected in miscellaneous revenue.

A major item is revenue sharing which shows a requirement of $240,680 for fiscal 1979. Cash on hand is $91,575 with $149,105 expected in miscellaneous revenue. The fund last year was $179,825.90.

Soldiers and Sailors Relief fund is $1,399 as compared to $2,000 last year. Cash on hand is $1,399.

Medical Center where they were examined. No serious injuries were reported. Don Kellogg, owner of Midwest Bridge and Construction, said late Friday that he had the two men re-examined Friday and they appeared to both be in good shape.

Kellogg said the men working in the ditch are normally protected by a "cage" made out of protective pipe. He said the crew had prepared to quit for the night and had pulled the cage out of the ditch.

"The two went back into the ditch for some reason and in that split second, the banks caved in on them," Kellogg explained. "I'm just thankful they weren't injured."

For Wood too Beautiful to Hide!

TRU-TEST
PAINTS
SOLD EXCLUSIVELY BY
True Value
HARDWARE STORES

If you have rough cut, ruggedly sawn exterior siding on your home... even wood shingles, shakes or natural wood paneling in a recreation room, the last thing you'll want to do is hide the wood texture. Instead, let Tru-Test Woodsman Solid Color Latex Stain preserve the rough surface with a solid coat of color.

You'll find so many colors to choose from... like earthy clays, sand tones, tree bark browns and forest greens. We'll help you pick the right colors, too.

For example... Woodsman "Mesquite Gold" for siding and "Rustic Brown" for trim is perfect for homes with a rocky landscape. Or, for a woody hide-a-way use "Cascade Green" on siding with pure "White" for trim.

In the family room, Woodsman "Canyon White" stained paneling is a good alternative to the usual brown... especially next to a stone fireplace. Come in and see the unique colors we have for the woods you live in!
