

Record-Breaking Crop

Good Start on Area Corn Harvest

Area farmers are getting a good start in the current corn harvest and from all indications, it is going to surpass last year's near-record crop.

Russell Moomaw, staff member at Northeast Station near Concord, said it is much too early to be able to accurately project production and yields, but he did state early reports seem to substantiate predictions for a record-breaking corn crop this year. "One thing is fairly certain at this time," Moomaw stated, "and that is the yield in Northeast Nebraska is going to differ from county to county because of the patchy rain patterns during the growing season."

He pointed out that Wayne county is in better shape than is Dixon county because of the rains which came at the right times during the growing season.

"I felt the production and yields would be down from last year because of the stress on crop at critical times, but it seems that most of it has come through in good shape," Moomaw said.

Don Spitzke, Wayne county extension agent, recently plotted the weather pattern in Wayne county during the growing season and it detailed stress periods broken by good rains and moderate temperatures.

Predictions are for a 630 million bushel crop in Nebraska which will break the old record by two million bushels.

Moomaw also pointed out that the weather, at least for the present, is ideal for harvesting

"And there is no indication of a shortage of storage in the area," Moomaw pointed out.

He said area farmers have been building on-the-farm grain storage for the past two years and there seems to be adequate storage for the bumper crop.

The recent strike by railroad clerks, which stopped rail traffic, caused some soybeans in the See HARVEST, page 14

Planning Meeting Here

Great American Smokeout Is Scheduled for Nov. 16

Officers for the American Cancer Society in three counties attended a workshop education chairman. Mrs. Neil Sandahl, rural chairman, and Mrs. Werner Janke, Reach to Recovery volunteer.

Mrs. Hansen said plans were formulated for local involvement in the nationwide Great American Smokeout to be held Nov. 16.

"On that day," said Mrs. Hansen, "50,000 smokers across Nebraska will be hoping for a short 24 hours as they pledge not to smoke for that period of time."

State chairman for the Smokeout is Paula Porter, an editorial assistant with company publications at Mutual of Omaha. Last year Porter coordinated that company's campaign with 90 employees participating.

The Smokeout is designed to show smokers they can quit by taking one day at a time, Porter said, adding "all they have to do is sign a pledge card, a personal promise not to smoke on Nov. 16."

In Wayne County, Mrs. Lester Hansen will serve as Smokeout chairman, and county officers are planning events to promote the day, including a poster contest.

Mrs. Hansen said volunteers are needed and can contact her at 375-1838. Pledge cards also are available from Mrs. Hansen.

Proposed Lid Amendment To Be Topic of Meeting

A program on what many feel is the most important item on the Nov. 7 ballot will be held at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 24, in Ramsey Theatre at Wayne State College.

The program, entitled "The Lid Petition: The Voter's Decision," is sponsored by the Wayne State Public Affairs Institute, and will present the opinions of six Nebraska State Senators.

Nebraska state senators expected to participate are John DeCamp (Neligh), Loran Schmitt (Bellwood), John R. Murphy (South Sioux), Frank Lewis (Bellevue), Gerald Koch (Ralston) and Barry Reuzel (Freemont).

The Lid Petition, better known as the "Lid Bill," if approved by Nebraska voters in November, would place a five percent budget increase limit on local government spending. The proposal allows exceptions only if approved by local voters.

Proponents of the lid bill claim it would help taxpayers in the fight against inflation. Opponents of the measure, however, claim it would give the state control over local government's ability to meet local needs and curtail the use of federal funds for local purposes.

The WSC discussion is open free to the public. The WSC Public Affairs Institute sponsors a number of programs annually that are designed to help citizens learn about public policy issues of national and regional concern.

Civil Defense Warning Planned For Wednesday

Wayne County will participate in a statewide test of the civil defense warning system Wednesday, Oct. 25, according to an announcement made by Pat Halley, Wayne County emergency services director.

The outdoor sirens will be sounded in an actual attack, a three to five minute wailing tone means people should go immediately to the nearest public fallout shelter or take cover in the best protected location in their homes or place of work.

People would also be encouraged to turn on their radios and listen for essential emergency information. During this exercise, however, the public is not expected to take any action.

The exercise will begin with a message from the civil defense national warning center located at the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) headquarters near Colorado Springs, Colo. In Wayne County the message will be announced at 10:35 a.m. in Wayne which is the warning point for this area.

The warning message, which will also go to nine other western states, will inform the recipients that a "Checkerboard" exercise is in progress. "Checkerboard" means that the exercise is for a simulated attack on the United States.

Radio and television stations of the area, in an effort to help broadcast emergency information, have formed an Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). The primary EBS station could also receive notification of a See WARNING, page 14

Lesson to Be Given

Helping to save money and energy by turning down the thermostat this winter may quickly lose its appeal if it is still cold.

One way to resist the temptation to turn the thermostat back up is to dress warmly. Learning to do this will be the topic of the lesson to be studied by Northeast Nebraska Home Extension Club members next week.

Anna Marie Kreifels, area home extension agent, will be conducting the leader training session for the lesson "Be Aware of What You Wear."

Sessions are scheduled as follows:

Oct. 24—9:30 a.m., Northeast Station near Concord; 1:30 p.m., city auditorium, Hartington.

Oct. 25—9:30 a.m., court-house meeting room, Dakota City; 1:30 p.m., Extension Office meeting room, Waterloo.

Oct. 26—9:30 a.m., fire hall, Winsted.

The lesson includes information on variables which affect thermal comfort and how to select clothing for the warmth it will provide. To be considered are the importance of fiber content, fabric construction, color, design, fit and cleanliness.

These training sessions are planned for home extension club leaders, however, leaders from other organizations also are welcome.

Groups wishing to send a representative should contact Anna Marie Kreifels, Northeast Station, Concord, 68778, so lesson materials can be prepared.

TD In Final Seconds Lifts Cats To Win

BY SUE MICHALSKI
WCS Sports Information Director
 Wayne State running back Bob Barry played for a one-yard touchdown with only 23 seconds remaining in the game Saturday to give the Wayne State College Wildcats a 36-24 victory over Central States Conference opponent Missouri Western.

WCS, now 2-1 on the season and 1-1 in CSIC play, controlled the entire first half of the "Parents Day" game, but fell apart in the third quarter, falling behind at the one time by 12 points. Barry's TD run capped a final drive that included a successful WCS outside kick and four completed passes by quarterback Rick Lade of Tekamah with only seconds remaining.

WSC led at the half, 16-6. The Griffons exploded on the opening play of the second half as running back Tim Hoskins raced 86 yards with the WCS kick-off for a TD. The pass conversion failed and WCS still led, 16-12.

Wildcat Marty Hansen followed by scoring his second touchdown on an eight-yard run ending an 81-yard drive by the WCS offense. The Emanuel PAT was blocked, making it WCS 22, Western 12, with 8:14 remaining in the third quarter.

The Griffons then began to dominate the game's play, scoring three straight touchdowns, a run conversion and two PAT kicks, putting them ahead, 34-22, with 4:07 remaining in the game.

The Wildcats took possession on their own 28 with 3:58 remaining, and began moving the ball on the pass combination of quarterback Lade to split end Jeff Ingram taking the ball to the Missouri eleven. Lade then hit Hansen on a short pass for a TD putting WCS back in the game. A Lade conversion pass to Ingram was good, making it Wayne 30, Missouri 34 with 1:31 remaining.

WCS made a successful outside kick to take a final possession from the Missouri Western 47 in for the score on Barry's plunge to win, 36-34.

The Wildcats will travel to Pittsburg, Kan., Saturday for the Wildcat's third CSIC game at 2 p.m.

Hansen, Pelland, Erhart This Week's Top Players

BY SUE MICHALSKI
 Wayne State coach Del Stollenberg named three WCS "Players of the Week" for their performances Saturday. The PAT by Bart Emanuel of North Bend was good, bringing the score to WCS 7, Western 0, at the end of the third quarter.

Emanuel booted a 38-yard field goal early in the second quarter to give WCS a 10-0 lead. Eight minutes later, Wildcats quarterback Rick Lade kept the player all year," Stollenberg said. "We didn't name a player for the honors last week but Dale probably was deserving. He continued to perform this week and we think he did the job for us."

Erhart, a 5-10 defensive back added two interceptions and four key tackles for Wayne State, bringing his total to 22 tackles on the year.

"Mark is a fine defensive player," Stollenberg said. "I know that the role he played as far as the total defense against Missouri Western is concerned was a vital factor in the game for us."

Wayne State, now 1-1 in the Central States Conference and 2-3 overall, will travel to Pittsburg, Kan., Saturday for a game against the Pittsburg Gorillas, total to 24 receptions for 264 yards in six games this fall.

Lade Named District II "Player Of The Week"

Wayne State sophomore quarterback Rick Lade, for the second time in six games this fall, has been named the NAIA District II "Offensive Player of the Week."

Lade, a 6-1, 190 pound south paw from Tekamah, shares the honors this week with Kearney State College quarterback Dean Carsten. Lade earned the repeat honors for his performance Saturday, Oct. 14, in Wayne State's 36-34 win over Missouri Southern Griffons. He hit 23 of 41 passes for 298 yards against the Griffons, while rushing for another 71 yards.

"I think it is a fine tribute to his abilities," commented WCS coach Del Stollenberg. "He made those passes Saturday with a sore arm because he took a pretty hard hit in the second quarter. It's also a fine tribute to the fine protection he received from the linemen."

Pinkelman And Sharpe Lead Blue Devils To West Husker Crown

It was not an easy route to follow, but the Wayne Blue Devil spikers upended Hartington CC, Emerson-Hubbard and Columbus-Lakeview to win the West Husker Volleyball Tournament played Monday and Tuesday nights at Hartington CC.

"I'm so thrilled about winning," Coach Mavis Dalton exclaimed following the final victory. "The girls are really deserving, they've worked hard and played well to reach this accomplishment."

Wayne dominated the first game of the final match setting the ball up well and spiking effectively against Lakeview. The Blue Devils won the first game 15-4 and went into the second game fired up.

The second game was a more even contest but Wayne played patiently on offense and set the ball up with good teamwork.

After opening up a good lead, the Blue Devils held on and Peg Pinkelman and LaVonna Sharpe were named to the all-tournament team.

In the opening round, the Blue Devils defeated once-beaten Hartington CC 8-15, 15-10, 15-9 to advance into the semi-finals. Wayne came back with a 6-15, 15-11, 15-12 win over second-seeded Emerson-Hubbard to move into the finals Tuesday night. Both teams had defeated Wayne earlier in the season.

Immediately following the game, Wayne was presented the first place trophy and Peg Pinkelman and LaVonna Sharpe were named to the all-tournament team.

In the opening round, the Blue Devils defeated once-beaten Hartington CC 8-15, 15-10, 15-9 to advance into the semi-finals. Wayne came back with a 6-15, 15-11, 15-12 win over second-seeded Emerson-Hubbard to move into the finals Tuesday night. Both teams had defeated Wayne earlier in the season.

Wayne's final opponent, Lakeview, reached the finals by downing Wisner Pilger 15-10, 15-8 and undefeated Madison 16-14, 15-4. Entering the tournament, Wisner owned a 10-1 record, Madison was 12-0, Emerson was 11-1 and Hartington CC held a 7-1 record.

Wayne's record now moves to 13-5 for the year while Lakeview falls to 6-7. The records are deceiving since both teams have faced tough competition in their schedules.

The leading scorers for Wayne in the tournament were LaVonna Sharpe and Sandy Jacobmeier with 21 points each. Peg Pinkelman led the net play with 28 spikes including 18 Aces. Lesa Barclay recorded 24 spikes with five aces.

The Blue Devils will host South Sioux Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. in their final game before districts. Tuesday night will be Parents Night and parents of all volleyball players will be honored.

West Husker Champs

LOOKING OVER the championship trophy, Wayne volleyballers crowd around, excited to win the West Husker Tournament title. The unseeded Blue Devils defeated Hartington CC, Emerson-Hubbard and Columbus Lakeview to claim the championship.

All-Tourney

NAMED to the all-tournament team after winning the West Husker Tournament, were Peg Pinkelman and LaVonna Sharpe.

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

Wakefield won hosted volleyball tournaments this season and both were quite successful.

The Winside Tourney was held Sept. 11 and 12 and included Wakefield, Emerson-Hubbard won the championship. Wakefield opened its own tournament Saturday and it included four teams. Allen claimed the title for the year, they hope to expand to eight teams.

I'd like to compliment these two schools, now, for the fine organization and success of their tournaments. I was able to attend both tournaments and enjoyed them considerably. The caliber of volleyball demonstrated in these matches was sharp and it gave area fans an opportunity to watch many teams in action while attending only one tournament.

Trout Limits Suspended

A surplus of fish at the Game and Parks Commission Two Rivers put-and-take trout lake near Venice has prompted Commission officials to temporarily suspend two regulations concerning bag limits, according to Jim Johnson, fish management supervisor from Lincoln.

Effective immediately, anglers are entitled to take five trout instead of the four normally permitted with the purchase of a $2 trout tag. In addition, anglers may purchase an additional tag and take five more fish, for a total of ten trout daily.

NEAL GREENWALD

RR Wayne

Last week five entries tied for the top spot at 17 correct picks. This week the highest scores recorded had only 14 correct picks, however, 10 of the Nations top 20 teams were upset so we'll forgive our predictors this week.

Our Winner this week is Neal Greenwald. Neal won with his tie-breaker selection, picking Wayne State over Missouri Western 24 to 21 (actual score 36-34). Six other entries gave Neal plenty of competition, their names and tie-breaker scores are Jeff Bussey (28-14), DeVon Coble (27-7) of Wakefield, Mrs. Rodney Deck (21-7) of Winside, Russ Herman (16-12) of West Point, Doug Keteelson (14-10) Wayne State student, Daniel Jager (9-36) of Winside. (NOTE: The Winside-Wakefield 14-14 tie was counted wrong on all entries except Barb Soukup of Newman Grove — Barb predicted a tie and had 13 correct picks.)

This week's contest should be another exciting one featuring area games such as Laurel at Wausa, Wayne High at Emerson-Hubbard, Nebraska at Colorado and Wayne State at Pittsburg State.

Neal Greenwald was awarded a $25 Gift Certificate redeemable at any of the following sponsoring Wayne merchant's locations:

Mrs. Arthene Clements of Beaverfield, Calif., was a guest at the Monday evening meeting of World War I Auxiliary. Thirteen members attended.

Mrs. Cordelia Chambers, legislative chairman, read "Energy Bill Passes at Dawn," which told about Congress approval of a national energy plan. An article also was read by American chairman Linda Grubb.

Following the meeting, the auxiliary joined six members of the barracks for lunch and cards. Hostess was Mrs. Charles Steckmann.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 20 at the Vets' Club.

Tour Attracts 250

National BPW Week

The week of Oct. 15-22 has been designated National Business and Professional Women's Club Week. In observance of the occasion, the Wayne BPW Club has asked Mrs. Margaret Hasebroock to speak at its monthly meeting Monday evening at The Stratton House in Wayne. The public is invited to attend the program at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Hasebroock is the wife of State Senator William H. Hasebroock of West Point.

Mrs. Janice Fredoni, Wayne BPW president, said there are about 162,300 BPW members in the nation, and over 1,450 in Nebraska. In 1979, the National BPW organization will celebrate its 60th birthday. Objectives of Business and Professional Women's Clubs are to promote the interests of business and professional women; to bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women in the United States; and to extend opportunities to business and professional women through education in industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

The Parable of The Chewing Gum Man*
It was common knowledge among his colleagues that William Wrigley, Jr. attributed the success of his chewing gum empire to constant and forceful advertising. Once he was traveling to California on the famous but now extinct Super Chief with a young accountant from his firm. As they were reviewing the figures for a quarterly statement, the young man said, "Sir, Wrigley's gum is known and sold all over the world. We have a larger share of the market than all of our competitors combined. Why don't you now save the millions you are spending on advertising and shift those dollars into the profit column for the next quarter?"

Wrigley thought for a moment and then asked "Young man, how fast is this train going?" "About sixty miles an hour," replied the young accountant. And Wrigley asked, "Then why doesn't the railroad remove the engine and let the train travel on its own momentum?"

EXTENSION NOTES

Harvest Brings Threat Of Crippling Accidents

The fall harvest season is here and with it comes accidents related to harvest. Ralfin Schnieder, Extension Safety Specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, noted that the crushing type of accidents are very common.

Schnieder pointed out that at least one person a year is killed in Nebraska when the victim reaches across the bed of a truck and the truck box falls on the individual.

The key to preventing these types of accidents is to use jacks or shoring of some type while working on equipment, Schnieder stressed.

Cites Emphasis On Services

State senator Doug Bereuter, Republican candidate in the First Congressional district, Tuesday said he would continue the emphasis on constituent services that has characterized his four years in the Nebraska legislature.

Bereuter speaking in Bloomfield on the Republican Campaign caravan proposed two districts offices in addition to one in Lincoln. One small office would be permanently located in northern Nebraska and the other would be a mobile office — unique to Nebraska but successfully implemented in other states.

"A northern Nebraska office is a must," Bereuter said, "because of the distance of that part of the district from Lincoln where congressmen have traditionally located their offices."

The mobile office Bereuter said would be a key factor in providing constituent services. The state senator from Ulica said it would be used when he returns to the district for local work sessions and other appearances.

"The mobile office has been very effective in other states" Bereuter said, "in extending the office of the congressman to all constituents."

Bereuter said the mobile office would be scheduled into every county seat in the district several times a year and would be manned by a professional staff member when Bereuter is in Washington.

Funds for the district office, Bereuter noted, would come from the normal appropriations for his office and would not represent added government expenses.

alcohol. Vitamins and minerals do not supply energy, but they do help the body use energy from other sources.

In addition energy in foods is measured in calories, and any calorie — from any source — has the same value. It's ridiculous to talk about high-energy or low energy calories.

Recently, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) proposed that an advertisement can't say a food contains energy unless it also states that the energy is supplied by calories. Also, the ad would be required to state the number of calories in a serving.

So the next time you hear or see the word "energy" in a food advertisement, remember it really only means the food had calories. And a calorie is just a measure of food energy — and not necessarily good or bad.

"FOOD ENERGY" ADS MAY BE MISLEADING
Advertisements often make enticing claims about foods that give "quick energy," and "energy lift" or "extra energy." Usually, consumers think of these as good points, but the mere fact that a food is a good source of energy doesn't necessarily mean it's nutritious.

Almost all foods provide energy. Food energy comes from protein, carbohydrates, fat and alcohol.

An avocado will ripen faster if you wrap it in newspaper for a few days.

Bottle bill triggers debate

CAPITOL NEWS
by Helvia Post

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — As expected, the bottle bill proposal will be on the November ballot in a fringing some lively debate.

During a recent news conference, Sen. Donald Dewarok of Columbus said opponents of the proposal to mandate a five-cent deposit on beer and pop bottles will spend $350,000 to defeat the legislation.

Dewarok, chairman of Nebraskans for Returnable Containers, Inc., said opponents had already generated close to $140,000 for their campaign and that about $114,000 came from sources outside the state.

The Columbus lawmaker, who was among legislators fighting hard for a bottle bill in this year's Unimaceral session, said those organized to fight the proposition plan to utilize $140,000 of their funds for media relations and another $55,000 for public relations activities.

He described their advertising as "unclear" and said they were using Madison Avenue approach designed to confuse the public. A check of advertisements filed with the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Commission showed brewers, bottlers, can and glass firms could have generated substantial amounts to beat down the bottle bill.

Dewarok said his organization has prepared a budget of only $19,000, of which $5,000 had been raised.

Pat Jerrison of Lincoln, coordinator of the groups organized to promote passage of the legislation, said Nebraskans' votes would be the deciding factor.

Dewarok said the bottle bill is "clear and simple" and has been proved workable in several other states. He also noted a recent Omaha World-Herald poll indicated strong support for the anti-bottle bill.

For Public Protection
A South Dakota power official recently advised Gov. J.J. Egan of trying to tell Wyoming how to run its water.

He responded the governor. He said he and Attorney General Paul Douglas tried to reach agreement with officials of the Missouri Basin Power Project so that the state's water development and conservation interests along the Platte River would be protected.

At issue in a continuing controversy between Wyoming and Nebraska is construction of a huge power plant near Wheatland, Wyo., that Nebraska officials believe could seriously affect Platte River flows in the Cornhusker State.

U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom of Lincoln several weeks ago ordered construction halted on the Wyoming dam. The judge said the basin organization had failed to assure protection of the environment, including a place where whooping cranes stop on their migrations from Canada to Mexico.

Egon said the issue of habitat for the cranes is a "peripheral" matter, adding: "If we succeed in protecting Nebraska's water interests, the cranes would automatically be taken care of."

According to the governor, Nebraska officials tried to work out a compromise that would have protected "Nebraska's lifeline" — the Platte — as far as water development and conservation is concerned.

But he said the basin representatives were "most uncooperative."

Egon said a satisfactory settlement of the dispute could have been arranged "were it not for the fact that the basin organization is in league with the Corn Creek Irrigation District just below the proposed reservoir."

The proposed combination of power and irrigation uses of water near Wheatland would seriously affect stream flows in the Platte, the governor said.

Wyoming Congressman Tom Roncallo said he was preparing legislation that would permit construction of the dam to proceed.

Frudent Stickers Found
The recent appearance of fraudulent safety inspection stickers in the Omaha area was an indication of improved motor vehicle safety inspections, according to an official of the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

Keith Kennedy, motor vehicles inspection administrator, said one of his predecessors was "looking forward to the day when we would have this kind of thing."

He said he has noted considerable improvement in the quality of the program since the inspections became mandatory 10 years ago.

Kennedy said he believes the fraudulent stickers began making their appearance because those authorized to make the inspections are doing a much better job than formerly.

It appeared the Omaha area was the only one where the fraudulent stickers were found. There had been some isolated instances in the past but "this is the first time we've had anything of this magnitude," Kennedy said.

Under the statewide program, the Department of Motor Vehicles has 11 field offices that monitor inspection stations. Each field officer calls on 175 to 200 stations about once a month to check on equipment and service, Kennedy said.

State Building Contracts Approved
The Omaha City Council has approved more than $8.4 million in contracts for the downtown University of Nebraska

Education Center-State Office Building.

It has been estimated that when all costs have been figured, the facility will require expenditures of about $14 million. The state will pay $9 million and private Omaha interests will supply $5 million.

Another Simants Appeal
Erwin Charles Simants, convicted of murdering six members of a Sutherland family three years ago, recently filed another appeal with the state Supreme Court in his attempt to get a new trial.

Attorneys from the Lincoln County Public Defender's office at North Platte, who represent Simants, said 15 errors were made when the Lincoln County District Court denied Simants' petition for a writ of error.

Much of the brief filed with the Supreme Court was devoted to arguing that contact the sheriff and judge had with jurors while they were sequestered during the trial were prejudicial to Simants.

Simants has had his execution in the electric chair postponed several times to allow time for various appeals of his case.

Runaway regulation

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk
Director of Information

Runaway government regulatory agencies are costing Americans billions of dollars in hidden, unseen expense, contributing to the continuing loss of jobs, stifling the economy and slowly strangling this nation's once-vaunted productivity.

Among those who are paying the highest costs for his horrendous situation are the nation's farmers and ranchers, because so much of their $85 billion per year production costs are in the form of (chemicals, farm machinery and equipment, transportation, animal health products, etc.) which are most directly burdened by the costs of government regulation.

In 1887, the Interstate Commerce Commission was created by the U.S. Congress. At first regulatory laws were designed to tell business and industry what it could not do. For example, a business could not "monopolize" or "play" with other businesses to the detriment of the consumer. Most of the regulatory agencies started with worthwhile objectives to control and correct obvious abuses. It's hard to argue with the need to control monopolies, to eliminate child labor abuses, to conserve and protect our natural resources. But by the early 1960s the federal government's regulations began to undergo a radical change. Concerns mounted over the environment, resources, job safety, consumer products, employment discrimination and reflect an obsession that every American must somehow be "protected" by an omnipotent federal government.

Now there are more than 80 federal regulatory agencies and related commissions employing well over 100,000 workers, each interpreting and implementing regulatory laws passed by Congress.

This massive new "industry" has spawned over 4,400 different federal forms that the private sector must fill out. Roughly this translates into 10 billion sheets of paper that business concerns must fill out each year. Dow Chemical Company, a major supplier of agricultural chemicals, must fill out 10,000 separate forms required by 27 regulatory agencies in just one year. The estimated $147 million in extra costs that the company is of course passed on to the consumers. And that is just one company.

In 1970, the Federal Register, the bible of government regulations, was slightly more than 20,000 pages long. Last year it contained almost 64,000 pages. It is estimated that today the government spends almost $20 billion annually just to print, process and store its own forms. And business coughs up another $20 billion to comply with the rules of the regulation game.

Figures revealed by the Department of Labor reveal a dramatic slowdown in productivity among American workers. From 1948 to 1974, productivity, the output of goods and services per worker, increased annually at about 4 percent. Today's rate of productivity increase has dropped to around 1.5 percent. Is it any wonder that American jobs are being lost to Japanese, German and other workers around the world who have been increasing their productivity while ours has been declining?

Regulatory requirements imposed by federal, state and local governments add an estimated $1,500 to $2,500 to the cost of a typical new home. They add an estimated $50 to the cost of every new automobile and the latest airbag-belt system is adding the price tag will go up to around $750.

The cost of red tape, delays and bureaucratic decision are discouraging the development of new products and enterprises. For example, the U.S. was the sixth country to approve an anti-asthma drug and the third country to approve anti-dramycin, an anti-cancer drug; the 51st country to approve the anti-allergic drug cromolyn and the 16th country to approve the anti-bacterial drug ceftriaxone.

If the present philosophy of "there must be absolutely no risks taken" had prevailed during the first 200 years of the nation's history and we had had the ICC, OSHA, EPA, FDA, Fair Labor Practices Act, Endangered Species Act, of cover from the beginning, the West would never have been won, the railroads would never have been built, and the pioneers would be waiting to cross the Mississippi River. While the bureaucrats shuffled the paper work and mulled over the environmental impact statements.

Congress could get the country back on track by: (1) refusing to create any new regulatory agencies; (2) reviewing the role and functions of all of the present agencies and eliminating the ones that are not needed; and (3) turning responsibility for necessary regulation in most cases back to the states.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter 1786.

Business confidence is failing

President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

WASHINGTON — "Doubt" is the word for the results of our latest quarterly business confidence survey, a joint undertaking of the National Chamber and the Gallup Organization.

At the time of last winter's survey, 7 percent of the executives polled expected the government to do a good job of fighting inflation and unemployment, while 54 percent foresaw a poor job. In this survey (made during July and August) fewer than 0.5 percent of the 1,100 respondents said "good job," while 72 percent picked "poor jobs."

Similarly, 79 percent believe the general business climate is "becoming less favorable." The average executive sees a 39 percent chance of recession within 12 months and a 55 percent chance within 24 months.

Double-digit inflation is assigned a 49 percent chance within 12 months, and a 54 percent chance within 24 months. Perhaps for that reason, 35 percent of the executives expect wage-price controls within two years.

Over the longer term, however, American optimism shines through. During the next five years, two out of five business leaders expect predominantly good times in the economy; only one out of five expect bad. And the executives have faith in the performance of their own companies regardless of their expectations for the economy in general, a characteristic response to all four of our confidence surveys.

The survey sheds some light on the question of whether reducing federal business taxes would stimulate the economy.

Eighty-two percent of the affected business leaders said investment in new plant and equipment by their companies probably would increase if the investment tax credit were increased, something Congress is not likely to do this year. Seventy-eight percent would increase investment if corporate income tax rates were reduced. (Congress may do this, but the reduction is likely to be minor.)

Seventy-eight percent say they would increase investment if faster depreciation write-offs were provided. Seventy-one percent would increase investment if the investment tax credit were extended to structures; 59 percent if taxes were automatically adjusted to compensate for the effects of inflation, and 48 percent if the capital gains tax rate were reduced. Of the four proposals, only the second and the fourth have much chance of early enactment.

Probably in part because of widespread lack of confidence in government, business people support proposals to limit the growth of government spending and taxing to the growth of citizens' income. Sixty percent of the executives believe such limits, if applied in their state, would improve the profits of their firms; 85 percent favor a limit at the state level. At the federal level, the reaction is even stronger. Ninety-two percent of the executives favor some kind of constitutional limit on the growth of federal spending and taxing. (Probably because most business people blame the federal government for inflation. In our spring survey, 96 percent ranked the federal budget deficit as the number one inflationary factor. Other government causes listed were increases in the Social Security tax, in federal pay, in the minimum wage rate, and in farm price supports.)

A more detailed report of this survey appears in the October edition of our magazine, "Nation's Business."

Asking for help

Dixon

Dear Editor: I wonder how many people are aware of the issue coming up again at Wayne State College to legalize alcohol in the dorms.

I would point out the extreme danger of mixing alcohol and drugs, and the drug problem already exists on campus. I hope many people read the letter to Ann Landers last week from the man who was using amphetamines, and had a few drinks at a party and freaked out and beat up his girl friend "something awful." He asked to tell readers if they must use drugs, not to mix them with booze.

The Oct. 6 issue of the Wayne Stater carried a front page story on "Alcohol Policy Issue Resurfaces." Read it thoroughly and hopefully you will voice your opposition to: Mr. Robert Walker, C-6 Board of Trustees, Box 9405, State Capitol Bldg., Lincoln, NE 68509.

Simple logic will tell you that when alcoholic beverages are readily available and legal, there will be more consumed, and more pressure put on those who now abstain. — One Who Cares.

Committee Still Claims Enough Grain Storage

The Nebraska Grain Storage, Marketing and Utilization Committee is sticking to its earlier contention there will be enough storage space to accommodate the state's 1978 feed grain and soybean harvest, but it concedes there may be problems later on.

These were the committee's conclusions at an Oct. 12 meeting on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus, after looking at Nebraska production estimates released Oct. 11 which were unchanged for sorghum and soybeans from a month ago, but showed corn yields up one bushel from Sept. 1, to 108 bushels an acre.

Bob Anderson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers Association, said it's likely there will be some milo on the ground —

"there always is" — and possibly some corn. He said elevator operators report deliveries of newly-harvested grain are erratic, as many farmers appear to be "sitting on" new corn and milo, waiting for a rise in price. Much grain is going into farm storage first, rather than to commercial elevators, he added.

Committee members were told that great volumes of feed grains from previous years were moved out of both on- and off-farm storage just prior to the harvest, much going out to Nebraska. Anderson said elevator operators reported a "lot of junk" (lowered quality) grain coming out of storage in August and September. D. G. Hanway, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension agronomist and chairman of the committee, said the deteriorated grain was reported to be 10 percent of the total. Anderson said the percentage might be even higher.

Lynn Lutgen IANR Extension economist, said efforts are being stepped up to make farmers realize that economic losses from grain coming out of storage and discounted because of loss of quality (as much as 10 to 15 cents a bushel), can be greater than losses sustained from marketing at the wrong time or in the wrong way.

It was reported that the Nebraska ASCS office had completed Monday the first round of a continuing series of inspections of on farm storage containing feed grains under loan.

Anderson painted a continued drab picture on railroad box car supplies, especially for the Burlington Northern, one of the three major grain shipping lines in Nebraska. A spinoff problem, Anderson said, is the concern that there will not be enough trucks, pressed into service in lieu of available grain cars because of contracting by the commodity credit corporation (CCC), the ASCS and commercial elevator.

Other observations by the committee:

—Goss Wilt, a disease of corn, has moved the length of the state with its discovery this summer near Scottsbluff. It can be controlled through use of resistant varieties, however.

—Wheat planted this fall is short of moisture in many areas of the state. A particular concern in the southwest is the possibility of root and crown rot developing in moisture-stressed wheat.

—Many calls for technical advice and assistance are coming from producers wanting to aerate corn in flat storage.

—Soybeans are likely to hold at the $5.90 to $6.00 bushel level through harvest.

—The buying price for corn could hit a low of $1.40 to $1.70 a bushel at country elevators, although there are many unknowns which might influence prices paid to producers — including the amount of corn purchased by the Soviet Union.

Beef Prices Leveling Off

Beef prices have dropped 4.4 percent from their June highs, but it appears retail prices are now leveling off, the Nebraska Beef Industry Foundation (NBIF) said this week.

Cattle and meat price analysts see mid-October retail prices leveling relatively stable for the rest of the year, the NBIF said.

"It looks like the increase in the supply of cattle coming to market is going to be spread out over more weeks than we had originally thought," Tommy Beall, research director of CattleFax said. "This continuity of supply means fewer 'surprises' for the homemaker at the meat case."

Beall said any further drops in beef prices probably won't come until early 1979. Projected increases in both beef and pork supplies could result in lower retail beef prices sometime in the first quarter of 1979.

The NBIF said the 4.4 percent drop in beef prices plus increased production costs have most cattle feeders very close to being in the red again for producing beef.

Beall disagreed with government economists who said their indexes predicted higher retail prices in the coming months. He said there were some important factors the government economists were not taking into account.

"There are several holidays coming up which have moderating effects on beef prices," Beall said. "Also, the largest supply of pork yet in history is hitting the market in the next few weeks."

"We have now what I call a 'sideways' market," Beall said. "Prices go up a small amount one day, down the same amount the next day. The result is a see-saw effect. Prices don't really move very much, just take small sidesteps back and forth."

Beall said when market situations are like that, analysts' might as well throw predicting fundamentals out the window.

"It is only the very small things that change market prices then," he said. "It takes much familiarity with the industry to predict prices then."

The NBIF said Nebraska beef retailers have been offering very economical feature specials in recent weeks. Those specials and seasonal fall truckload sales some retailers are planning are opportunities consumers should watch for in order to stretch food budgets.

Production Cycle Changing Pattern

Has the historic hog production cycle changed the past few years from its old, and somewhat predictable pattern?

Some economists think so, including Dr. Al Weilman, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Extension Agricultural economist. In the regular pattern of expanding and contracting hog numbers has indeed changed, the reason why is not clear, and whether the change is permanent only time will tell, Weilman states.

The classic pattern of the hog cycle has most commonly been a period of about four years from one production peak to the next, he recalls. Production tended to decline for about two years following a peak, then to expand for about two more years before the next peak was reached.

The cycle was somewhat longer in the 1960's than earlier years—five or six years from one peak to the next. During the 1970's, the cyclical pattern has been more erratic.

The chart on hog cycles during the past few years, based on USDA data on sow farrowings: —A short, nine-month period of contraction in 1969, followed by only 15 months of expansion in 1970 and early 1971. Production then declined for almost five years—from the spring of 1971 through November, 1975. —Farrowings increased in a modest three percent increase in farrowings for September to February, 1976. Surprising in view of excellent profits on hogs since mid-1977, relatively low corn prices the past couple of years and prospects for a record corn crop this fall, Weilman commented.

In speculating as to whether the current leveling off of hog production will continue, it should be recalled that producers increased production substantially in 1970-71 and again in 1976, and stable expansion could occur over the next couple of years, he added.

It's difficult to say for sure why producers' response has been different in recent years, Weilman said, and economists are trying to pin down the factors—and their interaction—which are affecting production decisions. The UNL economist said.

Some factors identified are more erratic corn prices, a trend to more cash grain farm but less exportation about corn prices at times, disease and weather influences and changes in the basic structure of the swine industry.

The relationship between feed grain prices and swine production seems understandable in trying to pin down the long slide in pork production from 1971 to 1974 initially reflected poor returns to producers from large pork output in 1971 and 1972. Then sharply higher prices for corn and soybean meal pushed off production costs for hogs and made cash sales of corn a much more attractive alternative for many producers.

However, corn prices have receded sharply from 1973-75 levels and hog profits have been favorable for the past 3 1/2 years, but hog production expanded only moderately during this period.

"Several factors have been attributed directly to the lack of expansion in hog production the last couple of years, Weilman reports.

A trade delegation from Korea is visiting Nebraska Tuesday to Thursday (Today) according to the Nebraska Corn Board chairman, John Burkholder, Holdrege. Sponsored by the Nebraska Corn Development Board, the visit to Nebraska will be one stop on a nationwide tour for the group being coordinated by the U.S. Feed Grains Council.

Korea purchased 1.5 million tons of corn in 1977, primarily from the U.S. The visiting Korean delegation will specifically examine Nebraska's dairy production.

The dairy sector is the fastest growing segment of the Korean livestock industry. With a strong commitment to building a dairy industry, the Korean government has projected imports of dairy products of 20,000 head per year through 1982. Dairy production in Korea is a large consumer of U.S. corn.

The high level Korean delegation consisting of seven members will visit with dairy specialists from the University of Nebraska, and four the Agricultural Experiment Station at Mead.

Recent Korean policy toward improving livestock development does support a strong positive outlook for long range U.S. feed grain export to Korea.

The visit to Nebraska by the Korean delegation is made possible through the corn check-off, a farmer-funded marketing program for corn growers.

1. Not reduce property taxes.
2. Give the State control over local government budgets to meet the needs of citizens.
3. Have little or no effect on the cost of services but could curtail local services.
4. Curtail the use of federal funds for local needs.

Farm Chemical Law Changes

Congress has passed an amendment to the pesticide laws advantageous to pesticide dealers, applicators, and manufacturers.

Stan Starling, Dixon county extension agent, has received information from Emery W. Nelson, UNL Extension Pesticide Training Coordinator, summarizing these changes.

This amendment clarifies that applicators are not considered sellers of pesticides when delivering them in the approved form. In addition, an applicator is not considered a producer of a new pesticide when he dilutes a formulated pesticide for his own use, provided he follows the label.

As a result of the amendment, an applicator can use any method of application not prohibited on the label, and can mix the pesticide with fertilizer unless prohibited by the label. He also can apply the pesticide at a rate of frequency less than the label specifies, and can apply it to a pest not specified on the label provided the crop, animal or site is on the label.

Last Winter Proved It: Tempo Radials Handle The Worst Winter Can Dish Out - And You Won't Have To Change Tires Next Spring.

$38.00
Plus 1.68 F.T.
Size 155/80R13 BI.

Buy a set of snow tires and that's all you have: a set of snow tires, to be put on in winter, taken off in spring. But buy a set of Goodyear Tempo radials and you'll have a tire for the heat of summer, a tire for the rains of spring and fall; plus a proven snow tire at no extra cost.

Surprisingly, Tempos cost no more than regular steel-belted radials. But that's where the similarity ends. Because Tempo can handle all of the seasons - including winter, including snow. Tempo the tire you can drive with confidence. All winter. All year!
