'79 Street Plans Total $295,000

The proposed one and six year street plan for Wayne was presented to the new city council Tuesday night at its regular meeting in the Fredric Brink council chambers in city hall. The plan calls for a healthy chunk of improvements for the coming year with five proposed projects totaling $295,000. The pace slows down in 1980 with an estimated $8,000 to be expended on improvements but lumps into the six digit mark in 1981 with an estimated $400,000 expected to be spent.

City Clerk Bruce Mordhorst pointed out to the council the proposed plan was just that, proposed. He asked council members to look over the proposed plan and solicited their input. Included in the 1979 proposed projects and estimated costs are: — Some 540 feet of concrete paving on Fairgrounds Avenue from South Nebraska Street to South Windom Street, $34,000. — Some 1,880 feet of storm sewer on East 7th Street from National Guard Army to State

Maintenance Yard, close open ditch, $175,000. — Enlarge to storm sewer transfer station north to East 3rd Street and from Nebraska Street to Logan Street, $32,000. — Some 1,000 feet of concrete paving, curb and gutter on West 3rd Street, Oak Drive to Fairgrounds, $30,000. Proposed projects for 1980 include: — Some 750 feet of concrete paving, curb and gutter, South Windom Street from Fairgrounds Avenue to Husker Ready Mix Plant, $37,000. — Some 440 feet of concrete paving, curb and gutter on Walnut Street from 12th Street to 14th Street, $26,000. — Some 150 feet of concrete paving, curb and gutter on East 13th Street from Walnut Avenue to Schreiner Drive, $5,000.

Major projects are being considered for 1981. They include: — Seventh Street reconstruction, $300,000. — Widen Pearl Street from 5th Street to 7th Street, $35,000. — Pearl Street intersection improvement, $10,000. — Widen Logan Street from 4th Street to 7th Street.

The proposed plan calls for maintenance only for the years 1982 to 1984.

City Grants Bond Option

The city council Tuesday night voted to grant First Mid-America option to put together a package for the sale of city bonds for financing the downtown improvement district.

Mid-America representative Phil Lorenzen brought the council up to date on the city's financial status and reported that "it is well."

He reviewed those city projects completed or soon-to-be completed and said the overall financial picture of the city is good. He advised, however, taking advantage of a lower interest rate for issuance of bonds for the downtown district as there is an "uneasy tone" to the market and interest rates are expected to continue to climb.

Lorenzen said his firm would work with an interest rate of 5.999 percent and felt "reasonably certain" that Wayne banks would participate in the purchase of the bonds.

He pointed out that by spilling the bond issue on the several projects it would tend to minimize the impact on property owners.

Set Schedule On Storm Sewer

City Engineer Bruce Gilmore appeared before the city council Tuesday night to ask some direction from the council as to the assessments for Storm Sewer District No. 7-1 (Roosevelt Park storm sewer).

The council decided to assess those property owners in the district on a square footage basis using a five percent figure with the remaining 95 percent to be picked up through general obligation bonds.

The council also sat as a board of equalization for Street Improvement Districts 78-2 and 78-3 and with no written or verbal objections, passed resolutions setting forth the assessment schedules.

Street Improvement District 78-2 (Grainland Road) is being assessed on a three-way split, with one-third being paid by the property owners, one-third by the city and one-third by the county.

Street Improvement District 78-3 is being assessed over a period of ten years at 7 percent with a 9 percent figure on delinquencies.

The council approved a preliminary plat for Subdivision Addition to be located north of the Amber Inn and the Army. It is being developed by B. and J. Enterprises.

Farm Ladies Host Coffee

The Wayne County Farm Merchants are hosting a Merchant Appreciation coffee for Wayne merchants and Chamber of Commerce members Friday from 10 to 11 a.m. in the new Farm Bureau Insurance offices at 100 Pearl Street.

The coffee is an effort by the organization to salute Wayne merchants and show appreciation for the many services the merchants render to the Wayne area.

The Farm Bureau ladies will have home baked cookies, rolls and Christmas cookies at the coffee.

Gary Van Meter, Chamber executive, urged all Chamber members to attend the coffee.

Okay Agreement

The city council Tuesday night approved a maintenance agreement with State Department of Roads for upkeep of highways running through Wayne. The agreement totals $389.75 for a year.

"A CADILLAC, a thousand dollars. . . ." Scott Mattes, age 4 1/2, tells Santa Claus what he wants for Christmas. Although Scott's tastes weren't quite as extravagant as a Cadillac or a thousand dollars, he did ask Santa for some new toys for himself and his friends. Santa visited youngsters Saturday at his headquarters in the People's Natural Gas Company office of Wayne.

Open House Saturday

Carroll Chicken Population Grows to 54,000

By MRS. ED FOK Carroll Correspondent The chicken population at Carroll has grown to the tune of about 54,000 since September when a bird laying house went into operation southwest of Carroll. Although the chickens arrived in September, Joe Claybaugh of TWJ Farms, owner and operator, said the plant just recently began operating at full potential. The house is located one mile south and a half mile west of Carroll. Claybaugh said area persons are welcome to see the new facility during an open house scheduled for this Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Raising of the building, which measures 48 x 48 feet, was started this past summer. Besides the Claybaugh family, which includes Joe's wife, daughter Julie and son Bill, the only other employees are Kevin Davis and Mrs. Keith Clark. The structure houses five rows of chicken cages in four tiers and features the reverse cage. Cages which measure 12 x 14 inches house three birds, while six or seven birds can be kept in cages measuring 24 x 14 inches. In the reverse cage, birds have access to both feed and water at one time, and Claybaugh says this has proven to lessen the mortality rate of the fowl. "South of feed for the birds is two bulk bins, each weighing 13 tons. The bins are set on a cement platform and feature an electronic scale with a digital read out. Feed is weighed on a daily basis. Claybaugh said that the birds consume six tons of feed daily. The building, Claybaugh explained, is insulated with six-inch fiber glass on the ceiling and side walls to retain the body heat of the birds, who supply two million BTU of body heat per hour. No other heat is provided, he added. Sixteen 48-inch exhaust fans ventilate the steel lined building both inside and out. Each fan, rated at 20,000 CFM, is thermostatically controlled and operates only as the temperature in the building rises. Low volume ventilation is obtained by a 10 minute timer located on one fan in each of the four fan banks, and supplies ventilation as low as one quarter CFM per bird, or as high as six CFM per bird when temperatures rise over 85 degrees. "An intake located at the eaves of both sides of the building control the amount of outside air that enters the building as well as the direction and velocity. "Part of the incoming air," explained Claybaugh, "is directed along the ceiling and part of it down the side wall at speeds of 1,000 feet per minute. He added that this provides complete ventilation and uniform temperature air quality for the bird's comfort. The amount of opening of the air intake is controlled by a static differential switch which activates the motorized winch to open or close air intake doors. "This is a very sensitive unit," said Claybaugh, "and will be activated at small changes of static pressure." Claybaugh explained that his reason for erecting the laying house was for utilization of the grain he raises. He stated that about four million pounds of mature year per year will be spread on the cropland and will consist of about 50,000 pounds of nitrogen, 30,000 pounds of phosphorus, and 150,000 pounds of calcium. The bird laying house features 34,500 feet of egg belt, approximately seven miles long. In addition, there are three and a half miles of feeder chain. Egg belts that run at the front of each row of cages convey the eggs to the end of the building where they are de-escalated down a cross belt conveyor to See CHICKEN, page 11.

Decker — 'Pleasant, Exciting Experience' Wayne Marsh Assumes Mayoral Duties Tuesday

Wayne Marsh officially became mayor of the City of Wayne at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the city council.

Marsh was sworn in by City Clerk Bruce Mordhorst. Mordhorst also presented the oath of office to council members Darrel Heier, first ward; Carolyn Fitter, second ward; Leo Hansen, third ward and Larry Johnson, fourth ward.

The first order of business for Mayor Marsh was conducting the election of a president of the city council. Darrel Fuetberth, second ward councilman, was re-elected to the position.

Marsh, who won the mayoral seat by a write-in in the general election last November, replaces Freeman Decker who served the city as mayor for four and one-half years. Before adjourning the meeting Decker said his four and one-half years had been a "pleasant and exciting experience."

He told the soon-to-be mayor Marsh that he was turning over a real live, viable city to him (Marsh) and that he will be working with a good group of city employees. Decker did say, in conclusion, that it was somewhat of a relief to step down.

Mayor Marsh appointed Mordhorst acting city administrator along with his duties as city clerk. The city council search committee for a new administrator has narrowed down the field to a few select applicants who are being asked to meet with the committee and the council for personal interviews.

The new mayor also reappointed all of the department heads.

'What a Week'

PRE-SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS from the Winside community joined junior and senior home economic students at Winside High School last week for a lesson in child development. Youngsters attended classes for two hours each afternoon, where they helped make Christmas decorations and cookies, played games, sang songs, participated in simple science projects, and colored pictures. Sally Spieker, teacher, said the class was designed to help the high school student understand the social and emotional development of children. Winside Stops Wynot Center, Wins Second Straight Game 32-27

At North Bend

Wildcats Are Champions Again

After getting hurt by Wynot's big girl in the first quarter, Winside changed its defensive strategy, shut off the high scoring center and went on to defeat Wynot 32-27 Tuesday night in girls basketball action.

The Wynot offense opened up the game working the ball inside to Janet Becker, a 5-11 sophomore with a soft shooting touch. Becker hit 12 points in the first quarter as she was unstoppable one-on-one and the Blue Devils jumped to a 14-11 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter, Winside defended Becker with a double team and shut her off cold. She only scored two points in the final three quarters.

The second quarter was low scoring for both teams but Kris Duering hit a basket to put Winside on top 18-17 at half-time. The third period was even less offensive as both teams scored four points and the Wildcats held onto their one point lead, 22-21.

Relying on their guards as Duering and Laurie Gallop double-teamed the center, Wynot pulled back into the lead for one last time.

Marci Thomas hit two free throws to put Winside back on top to stay and added a 10 foot jumper with 45 seconds remaining to take a 28-25 lead.

Thomas pulled down a defensive rebound and a backcourt foul sent her to the line. She made two free throws and put the icing on the cake at 30-25 with only 28 seconds. Wynot added a basket in the final seconds and with two seconds left, Kathy Thies converted two free shots for the final 32-27 tally.

"It was about the biggest win I've ever had," Coach Kathy O'Connor said after the game. "We cut off number 45 (Becker) after the first quarter and that changed the game around," she added.

O'Connor credited each one of her players for a good effort and said that they really gave it everything they had. Defensively, Kathy Thies played an outstanding game O'Connor said, and Gallop and Duering shut down the scoring of Becker.

She also credited Andrea Mann with four assists and Marci Thomas as the offensive leader. Kathy Thomas also played a good game she said.

The three leading rebounders for Winside were Marci Thomas, 11; Laurie Gallop, 10; and Kris Duering, 9. Winside outrebounded their opponents 51-33.

The reserves from Winside won the opening game 35-25. Winside now moves to 2-0 and will meet Ommond Tuesday.

Led by five individual championships, the Winside wrestling team won its second consecutive tournament, finishing ahead of seven Class B and C schools at the North Bend Tourney Saturday.

Winside won the tournament by almost 30 points over runner-up

Elkhorn. At one point in the tournament, Elkhorn crept within two points of the Wildcats at 145½ to 143½. But Winside used a strong finish to pull away and win 193 to 143½.

Eleven of 12 Winside wrestlers earned medals including five gold. Mark Koch at 98, Brian Foote at 112, Rick Bowers at 119, Tom Anderson at 126, and Mitch Pfeiffer at 185 all won their respective weight classes to lead the team.

In addition to the champions, Doug Jaeger at 105, Eric Vahikamp at 155 and Kent Glasmeyster at heavy weight, placed fourth.

Barry Bowers at 132, Tom Koll at 145 and Brent Miller at 167 all finished fifth. Scott Mann finished sixth in the 138 pound class. Medals were given to the top five wrestlers in each weight class.

Elkhorn's coach termed Winside "the best team I've seen this year" among all Class B and C opponents. Winside is Class D this year. The head man from Elkhorn added, "I hope we don't meet you again."

Winside coach Doug Reeves said he was pleased with his team's performance in the tourney but not sure what other people would say. "I think we'll hear that the North Bend Tourney wasn't that tough after our performance against Pender (referring to an earlier loss in a dual with the Pendragons). But it's a good thing for Pender that they weren't there Saturday," Reeves said.

Last year, Winside won no tournaments, yet finished third in state. This year the team has won both tournaments that it participated in. "Our goal at the beginning of the season was to win five of six tournaments. We're almost half of the way there. If we win six this time, Reeves stated.

"The Wildcats" hosted Wynot Tuesday night and will compete at the Logan View Tourney Saturday.

"I'm proud of the way they came back with pride, wrestled aggressively, set their opponents up and came through like champions," Reeves said. "They wrestled like they were in a state championship. The five champions definitely wrestled some state qualifiers in Class B and C Saturday," he added.

Final standings were: Winside 193, Elkhorn 143½, Wisner Pilger 122½, Bennington 98, North Bend, 97, Weeping Water 83, Milford, 69, Wilbur 41.

Blue Devils Top Laurel Tuesday

It was a typical Laurel Wayne game when the two teams met in an area shootout Tuesday night in Laurel according to Wayne coach Bill Sharpe. His team came out the victor in a 54-50 contest.

"We didn't play good, they didn't play good. Both teams come in here keyed up for the big game and didn't play smoothly. It's typical," Sharpe said.

The Blue Devils took a first quarter lead of 12-10 and increased the margin to 28-21 at half-time. Tom Ginn ignited the Wayne offense as he led all scorers with 18 points. Steve Anderson led Laurel with 17 followed closely by Ron Gadenken with 16.

The Blue Devil lead remained the same in the third stanza as both teams put 12 points on the board to push the score to 40-33.

The Bears came back in a last ditch effort under Coach Joel Parks in the final quarter but fell short as the buzzer sounded with Wayne on top 54-50.

Rebounding was a factor as Wayne outboarded the Bears 39-31. Ginn led Wayne in rebounds with nine. The Blue Devils hit 23 of 51 shots from the field for 45 percent and Laurel connected on 22 of 56 shots for 39 percent.

Wayne evened its record at 2-2 for the season while Laurel falls to 0-3. The Blue Devils play at Wisner-Pilger Friday while the Bears will be looking for their first win at Emerson-Hubberd Friday.

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

blizzard was like but if one hit the two teams would be playing each other all year long since they'd be snowed in.

It was announced at a Second Guessers meeting that the WSC training room has been remodeled. The room is supposed to be in excellent working order, although I haven't seen it yet. Reggie Swanson and Rowan Wittse were the main two men responsible for the work done.

AN AWARDS BANQUET was given in honor of the Wayne State athletes Sunday sponsored by the Second Guessers. Awards were presented in three sports.

Named as outstanding players for the WSC volleyball team were Karen Heenev, Deb Bishop, Marilyn Sfrate, Sheri Ballentine and Cheryl Abis. In tennis, Sue Naylorberger received the award as most improved player while Shari Bradix was named Most Valuable Player.

Greg Welch and Dale Poland were named top linemen for the offense and defense respectively in the backfield. Steve Altman was named most valuable defensive back while Bob Barry won the award for best offensive back. Most improved award went to Bill Milks.

Four players shared the award for top newcomer. Ron Berrie, Bill Schwartz, Pat Maxwell and Steve Zelinsky all tied for the honor. And last but not least, Dave Carlson and Tracy Norris were selected honorary captains.

Awards were not presented for cross country at the banquet.

IN AN EFFORT TO GIVE as complete and efficient coverage as possible, The Wayne Herald is covering as many events as possible with on the spot reporters.

However, Tuesday night several reporters had prior commitments and only one game could be covered. Looking at the long range schedule, I decided to cover the Winside girls basketball game. In addition, according to my schedule, the game was supposed to be followed by a wrestling meet.

The wrestling meet had been cancelled because Wynot failed to field a team, but I did cover a good game. Winside plays only one home game before Christmas so it was my only chance to see them in action until the new year. They performed well.

The other area game involved Wayne and Laurel boys teams in an area shootout. I had hoped to have a reporter at this game but things didn't work out. Although Laurel has not yet received first hand coverage, I will be in Emerson Friday night to watch the Bears in action against Emerson-Hubbard.

The Wakefield girls also have not been covered by a reporter at their games but that will change within this next week. Although it may seem like one team is receiving more coverage than another, coverage will be well divided by the end of the year.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: WSC wrestling coach, Nick Pederson, describing an individual wrestling match, replied, "It was as exciting as watching paint dry."

PULLING DOWN a rebound is Randy Dunklau as he clears the boards for Wayne High. The Blue Devils defeated Lakeview Saturday night 55-45 and then topped Laurel Tuesday for a 22 season record.

Lakeview First Victim Devils Not Picturesque But Win

The Wayne Blue Devils who lacked the luster this weekend that they displayed against Blair, came away with a spill of their Friday and Saturday night games. After losing to South Sioux City on the road, Friday, the Devils opened their home season with an ice-breaking 55-47 win over Columbus Lakeview, Saturday.

With the score tied at 47 all, Stuart Nissen hit an important basket for the Blue Devils with 2:12 minutes left in the game. A missed Lakeview shot gave Wayne the ball back and the locals began to eat up the clock.

Brad Emry broke free for a layup and a 49-45 lead with less than a minute remaining and Jeff Zeiss stole a Lakeview pass to project the game lead. He then put the Devils on top 51-45 with two free throws.

The Vikings cut the lead to four with one minute left but Tom Ginn pulled down an important rebound and cleared to Zeiss for a layup, giving Wayne an unbeatable six point lead. With four seconds left Emry put two free throws through the net for the final 55-47 margin.

The game started in a high scoring opening period. Then, they fell apart and began making mistakes that turned the game around.

They bobbled the ball, missed passes, fouled and missed shots. Starter Perry Nelson ran into the early foul trouble picking up three personals in the first period and sitting out all of the second quarter.

Although the Wayne offense lacked spark, the defense held Lakeview to 11 points at the same time. With the help of a Zeiss jumper at the buzzer, the Blue Devils held on to a 30-24 lead at half time.

Lakeview whittled away at the Wayne lead and pulled ahead in the third quarter, holding on for a 39-38 margin with one quarter remaining.

Zeiss led the game at 43 as the Blue Devils began their final drive. Lakeview regained the lead as 43 and Ginn tied it back up at 45 all, before Stu Nissen hit a short basket to put Wayne ahead for good.

Coach Bill Sharpe said he wasn't happy with the quality of play his team exhibited but said that he was glad to win his first game this season.

The leading scorer for the Blue Devils was Ginn with 15 points.

He also led the team in rebounding with 10. Zeiss scored 14 points to follow Ginn. Emry was third with 8. Randy Went scored 14 points for Lakeview.

Emry and Al Nissen pulled down 9 and 8 rebounds respectively of the team's total of 41. The Blue Devils shot 44 percent from the field.

Reserves win 55-41

The Wayne reserves also won their game 55-41. Kevin Nissen hit 12 points and Stu Nissen and Tony Rezac scored 10 points each to lead the team.

Other scorers: Tim Pfeiffer, 7; Steve Kohl, 4; Paul Sutherland, 4; Tod Heier, 2; Scott Wessell, 2; Steve Sorenson, 2; Jerre Morris, 2. Leading rebounders: Rezac, 9; K. Nissen, 7.

By RANDY HASCALL

Snowmobiling has become one of the fastest growing leisure sports in the relatively few years since the first mass-production one and two passenger machines were manufactured in 1959.

In 1970, there were virtually no snowmobile trail construction programs in the United States. Today, Minnesota has almost 10,000 miles of trails. Wisconsin plans to complete an interconnected system of 12,000 miles of snowmobile trails by 1980.

While snowmobiling is reaching new heights in the northern states, the sport is also sweeping southward and is making an impact in the Midwest.

Two of the most avid snowmobilers in the area are probably Bud and Rita Munson, custodians at Wayne State College. They got introduced to snowmobiling on weekend trips to Minnesota where they visited Bud's nephews and snowmobiled with them.

Bud purchased his first snowmobile in 1972 when he bought a 22-horsepower wheelhorse. In 1976, the Munsons went to Minnesota and bought a 440 Mercury for Rita. Then, Bud decided he needed a new one.

"Rita's Merc was a very fast and powerful machine and I couldn't see her having all that power and not me. So I went back and bought one just like it," Bud said.

Now the two have a matched pair of snowmobiles and take them on snowmobiling trips throughout the winter. They said that they enjoy riding groomed trails in Minnesota's state parks the most, during their annual four-day vacation trip.

"The trails at the state parks are the best trails. They're just beautiful," said Rita. "A groomer smooths the snow off and redistributes it. The trails lead deep into the woods and have stop signs and curve signs just like highways."

The Munsons said that an eight-mile long lake forms a race track for the snowmobilers and added that "it's everyone for himself." "The ice is three feet thick and you can see lines of light for miles as the snowmobiles are raced. They even have gas pumps for them," Rita added.

During free weekends, the Munsons travel to Ponca State Park where they ride on the roads. Licenses are required in state parks but the Munsons added that they've always had licenses. "We like Ponca because there are designated areas and no fences," they stated.

Bud said that he has offered to use his snowmobile for emergency purposes anytime it's needed. His machine is registered with the police station, in case of emergencies.

"We used to take our whole family along to Ponca and we would hook sleds behind the snowmobiles to give rides," Bud said. "Every time we would look back, the sled would be empty and someone would be dumped in the snow."

"For a winter sport, snowmobiling is the nicest thing there is because it shortens the winter," Bud explained. "If you're snowmobiling, you're not sitting in your home, doing nothing. It's nice for the whole family. We go for picnics, packing hot dogs, chili, coffee and hot chocolate for our trips," the Munsons added.

As long as Nebraska continues to receive cold snow-filled winters, the Munsons plan to keep snowmobiling. And knowing Nebraska winters, that could be forever.

GETTING READY for a long winter, Bud and Rita Munson pulled their snowmobiles out of the shed after the first snowstorm and warmed them up by taking some short rides.

At Meeting Tuesday

Trustees Okay Requests
Totaling $64,000 at WSC

A series of requests allowing over $64,000 for building renovation and furniture purchases at Wayne State College were approved by the Nebraska State College Board of Trustees Tuesday at their December meeting held at WSC.

The funds, provided through contingency maintenance funds and the LB309 task force, which deals with the maintenance and renovation of all state-owned buildings, will be used for four separate projects at WSC.

The largest WSC request of $23,562 was approved for the purchase of furniture for the Morey Hall residence hall at Wayne State.

The second largest request of $18,736 was approved for the installation of insulation in various WSC buildings. Another $6,300 was approved for repairs to the Hahn Administration Building and $15,600 was approved for concrete and drainage repairs around several campus buildings, which will be completed by Ote Construction Company of Wayne.

Dr. Ed Elliott, WSC vice president of academic affairs, said the purchases and building improvements are part of an overall facilities improvement plan at Wayne State.

"The improvements are part of an effort to continue improving resident halls for our students as well as improving our overall campus facilities," Elliott said.

In other action, three informational items on Wayne State's planning for the 1980s were presented to the board. Sayre Anderson, associate professor of English, presented information on a new "Pre College Institute" program scheduled to begin in June, 1979. Anderson said the program will help high school juniors and seniors prepare for college through college-level summer courses. The students will receive credit for the classes, but the credits will be "banked" until the participants enroll as freshmen at Wayne State or another college.

Dr. Russell Rasmussen, professor of chemistry, presented information on a cultural pluralism ruling which will affect Nebraska's post secondary schools in the 1980s. Wayne State will host a conference Dec. 14, 15 and 16 to examine a ruling by the Nebraska Council on Teacher Education, the accrediting agency for all Nebraska teachers. The ruling says that all Nebraska post secondary institutions that train teachers must, within 5 years, have curricula and patterns of staffing and recruiting that reflect the culturally diverse society in which we live. Rasmussen said WSC has initiated action to examine the changes necessary to meet that ruling in the 80s.

designed to help inform and prepare WSC faculty for the future.

Dr. Elliott said a number of changes have been projected for the 80s and the information presented to the board are only three aspects of WSC's planning for the future.

"We are moving progressively and have identified several key areas where planning will be necessary," Dr. Elliott said. "We cannot, however, identify at this time all the potential pressures or recognize all the coming changes, but we are in the process of meeting the needs of changes that are recognizable at this time as well as investigating other potential changes."

In other action the board approved the tenure of eight WSC faculty members, including business instructor Gerald Conway, communications instructor Arthur Dirks, education head Dr. C. Don Keck, industrial arts instructor Dennis Linstler, business instructor Doug Livermore, art instructor Mariene Mueller Schultze and media services instructor Rick Urwiler.

The next Board of Trustees meeting will be held Feb. 1, 1979 in Lincoln.

Other county officials at the meeting were Norris Weible, county clerk, Wayne Denkau, veterans service officer, Don Weible, county sheriff.

Dr. Bob Ridings, assistant professor of English, presented information on a WSC faculty planning workshop scheduled for two days in Spring, 1979, which is

Thought for Today
By Brian McBride

"We are not at our best perched at the summit; we are climbers, at our best when the way is steep..."
John W. Gardner

Most of us spend all our lives chasing the elusive phantom we call "success," whatever form it takes. We try to amass more wealth, power, prestige or whatever goal we set. We dream about the day we will achieve the goal.

It may be fortunate that few of us actually reach our goals. Those who do succeed in a spectacular way are seldom happy people. Their biographies tell us that their satisfaction came in the struggle, not in the actual achievement. Gardner's observation should comfort those of us who try so hard yet never reach the summit.

Families of any faith may call on us with confidence. We can provide a comforting memorial service within the means of any family.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5100, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, 60646.

GENERIC PRODUCTS
For years grocery store customers could choose from national brands and house brands. Now a third category is entering the market - "generic" or "no frill" food products.
Generic food products differ from house and national brands in that the product is packaged in plain paper, with no brand name printed on the label. Federal law does require the label list ingredients, net weight and name and address of the food packer.
These generic products might be another tool in combating high grocery bills. They are usually cheaper and the food items are usually nutritionally equivalent to national and house brands.
Consumers should realize that some "no frill" products may not be the same quality or grade as branded items. Paper products may be lighter in weight and not performed. Soaps and fabric softeners are not as strong as leading brands. And "no brand" vegetables and fruits are standard rather than fancy grades. This means vegetable or fruit pieces are uneven in size and shape, or the color and texture may vary.

Lower prices of unbranded items are not just a result of the plan packaging. The initial cost of such products is usually less and there are virtually no advertising costs.
Some typical no-brand items marketed now are bleach, fabric softeners, liquid and powdered detergent, apple juice, tomato juice, raspberry and strawberry jam, coffee, tea, garbage bags and bathroom tissue.

Studies show that consumers' response to unbranded items has far exceeded the expectations of the marketing industry. Serious thought is being given to offering consumers a wider variety of "no frill" products.

When a person is unable to enjoy or exercise his rights, it is the obligation of society to intervene in order to safeguard these basic privileges.
In June, 1978, the Human and Legal Rights committee was formed to ensure that individual rights are protected within Region IV programs. Committee membership consists of persons receiving services, Region IV staff and interested community representatives who meet quarterly, or more often as needed.
Attorney Gary Anderberg with the Legal Aid Society, Wayne, has recently joined the committee. Anderberg received his undergraduate degree from the University of California at Berkeley before completing law school at the University of San Francisco. He resides in Wisner, with his wife, Sheila.
Howard Ernst, Columbus, has been a valuable committee member since its beginning. In addition to his work as Quality Control Engineer at Becton-Dickinson, a medical supply firm, Ernst is a member of Knights of Columbus and Saint Isidore Church Parish council. He is President of the Platte County Association for Retarded Citizens and the Saint Isidore School board.

Board Takes Step To Replace Windows

The Wayne-Carroll school board of education Monday night took the first major official step in saving energy in Middle School.
They hired the architectural engineering firm of Davis, Fenton, Stange and Darling, Lincoln, to proceed with plans for replacing most, if not all, 220 windows in the Middle School.

Supt. Dr. Frances Haun explained the professional services by the firm is based on 2.5 times the Direct Personnel Expense (DPE) for persons engaged on the project with a stipulation that the total professional fee not exceed $2,500 unless the scope for the work on the project is expanded beyond that which was discussed with the district concerning the project.

Sup't Haun told board members the window replacement program will go a long ways toward cutting fuel consumption in the Middle School.
He also said there is a government program which will pay half the cost of the project if it can be shown the project significantly cut down the use of fuel.
The Lincoln firm will draw up and plans and specifications, supervise the bid opening, oversee the work and certify that the work has been done properly. A total cost figure will not be available until the bidding.

Groups Serves As Safeguard

When a person is unable to enjoy or exercise his rights, it is the obligation of society to intervene in order to safeguard these basic privileges.

In addition to his work as Quality Control Engineer at Becton-Dickinson, a medical supply firm, Ernst is a member of Knights of Columbus and Saint Isidore Church Parish council. He is President of the Platte County Association for Retarded Citizens and the Saint Isidore School board.

According to Ernst, "The Committee has reviewed some complicated matters since I have been a member, and I think we have acted wisely in our decisions. I believe the Committee to be necessary to insure that individual's rights are not violated." Questions concerning client grievances or behavior programs involving the use of drugs or restraints are resolved through the Human and Legal Rights committee. Region IV policies are reviewed to insure consistency with basic rights, and recommendations are made to the executive director.

the egg room. In the egg room, the eggs are received by an egg packer machine and are packed six abreast in six rows. An operator places a filler flat on top of each group of 30 eggs and stacks them on a cart. The carts are then wheeled into a cooler room where proper humidity and a 55 degree temperature are maintained.

Eggs are picked up every other day at the site by the Milton G. Waldbaum Co. of Wakefield.

Claybaugh's chickens are DeKalb 231 variety and are raised in northern Minnesota until they are 20 weeks of age. During their first week of production, Claybaugh said the production was 92.5 percent. Mortality rate has been about one-half of one percent.

Parks Talk

Bogs Down

The city council hashed over the question of parks in new subdivisions and then tabled a proposed ordinance after they became bogged down.

City Engineer Bruce Gilmore appeared before the council to discuss a grant for renovation of a present park and for the development of a sports complex in the Northeast section of the city.

He pointed out to the council the application for funds from the Game and Parks Commission must be submitted by the end of this month if they want to start work on the project(s) in late 1979 or 1980.

Designs have been drawn up for expanding the present baseball park to include a softball field and a baseball field or two softball fields.

The Northeast complex would have as many as three softball fields and several lighted tennis courts plus an ice pond.

JOE CLAYBAUGH of TWJ Farms, owners and operators of a new bird laying house near Carroll, demonstrates how grain and water are supplied simultaneously to the chickens. The building houses about 54,000 chickens supplying about 47,000 eggs per day.

Expect law enforcement reform

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Pearl
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — The special legislative committee studying Nebraska's law enforcement methods, particularly those of the State Patrol — hasn't been in the news much in recent months.

But it appears that will change and that the committee will suggest legislation to be offered to the 1979 Unicameral session. At a recent meeting of the committee, Oklahoma's chief medical examiner, Dr. A. Jay Chapman, described Nebraska's county coroner system as one needed after proposed creation of a medical examiner's system similar to the one he directs.

Chapman told the committee Nebraska's system for medicolegal investigations is "inadequate."

Citing the well-publicized death of an elderly McCook woman several years ago, Chapman said he was surprised such a case "can be so poorly handled" in the 20th Century.

The body of the elderly woman was found strangled, stabbed and broken in her burning home but the death was later ruled a suicide.

Chapman, after studying the records in the case, said the death was "blatantly a homicide."

A coroner's jury was divided on whether the death was a suicide or homicide.

Chapman said coroner Louis LaFollette expressed doubts about the proper jurisdiction.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, chairman of the special committee, asked if it would be unreasonable to base the need for a revamping of the coroner system primarily on the case of the elderly McCook woman.

Chapman said, "No. The system in Oklahoma was established practically as the result of one case."

One of the essential elements of a medical examiner's system, Chapman said, is that the examiner "Must be free to render an opinion free of politics."

Chapman said the coroner system is an official coroner in Nebraska.

Chapman recommended the examiner system be an independent state agency with adequate funding.

According to Chapman, a medical examiner's system should aid in the discovery and prosecution of crime, protect the innocent, protect the public health and aid in the administration of criminal justice.

He explained adequate medical examinations could show that what appeared to be a homicide was disease- or accident-related, or that a death apparently stemming from natural causes resulted from disease or an external cause, such as carbon monoxide poisoning.

Continues Low Key Approach
Gov.-elect Charles Thone, as of this writing, has not been making his seemingly low key approach to what soon will be his duties as the state's chief executive officer.

But there were assurances from several of his cohorts that he has been pondering his moves carefully and would be in position soon to reveal the names of persons who will hold prominent positions in his administration.

He did announce that he will retain David Coolidge as state highway engineer. Coolidge, a veteran of nearly a half century with the state Roads Department, was appointed to his present position by Gov. James E. Doyle 18 months ago. His most recent assignment prior to that was, as district department engineer at McCook.

Thone said he will retain Coolidge because the engineer "is a professional and a good one" in whom he has "full confidence."

The governor-elect said, however, there will be changes in the Department of Roads and the state engineer "agrees with this."

Although Coolidge was the first department head from the Exon administration who was told he would be retained, "there will be others," Thone said.

He had earlier advised Correctional Services Director Joseph Vitek, Agriculture Director Roger Sandman and Motor Vehicles Director James Pearson they would be replaced. Tax Commissioner William Pelers is another who won't be kept, Thone said.

Recommends Pay Plan
Lt. Gov.-elect Roland Luedtke of Lincoln was requested by Thone to recommend a first year employee salary budget policy for the Thone administration.

Luedtke came up with a program he said has been "tentatively" accepted by the governor-elect, who wanted, however, to give it additional study.

According to the newly elected lieutenant governor, state salaries are the key to the "whole budget." He said what he proposed would adhere to the voluntary guidelines of President Carter but would not be up to the 8.5 percent pay increase state Personnel Director Roy Garner believes would be needed to achieve salary parity for state workers.

Even so, Luedtke said, "I think it's a fair plan, fair to the state employees and fair to the taxpayers."

Luedtke said Thone's request to him on the salary matter was another example of the "activist" role he is being asked to assume in the new administration.

He added he expects to be "working in the trenches with the troops" and to do "much less sitting on the throne at the Legislature."

Some time ago, Thone said Luedtke would be the overseer for the state's affirmative action program for women and minority group members.

Luedtke said the governor-elect has also asked him to have a significant role in the development of correction policies. Luedtke, as chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, had much to do with steering the state onto a comprehensive program of correctional reform.

Newcomer's Profile
The Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln says a recent survey showed newcomers to Nebraska are likely to be young, well educated and from city backgrounds.

Based on a survey the bureau made last February, March and April, Nebraska had since 1970 reversed a 70-year trend toward a net migration loss.

During the 1970-75 period, the bureau said, Nebraska registered a 9 percent gain in newcomers to the state. That was in marked contrast to the net migration loss of 5.2 percent during the decade of the 1960's.

The survey showed that most of those who migrated to Nebraska in recent years did so for job-related reasons.

Another finding of the survey was that the least mobile residents were older Nebraskans, farmers and the least well educated. The study indicated the rural non-farm population was among the least stable and that the Omaha population was more residentially stable than any other group except the farm population.

Omaha received 30 percent of the newcomers. Lincoln 14 percent and other urban areas 46 percent. Only six percent moved into rural non-farm areas and four percent to farms.

Lt. Samuel A. Cherry murdered

In May of 1881 citizens in the Fort Niobrara, Nebr. vicinity were shocked to learn of the murder of Lieutenant Samuel A. Cherry, a popular young army officer stationed at the fort. Cherry had been shot by a soldier under his command while both were pursuing a trio of would-be bandits. Several accounts of the strange circumstances surrounding the killing have been published, including an early 1892 account in the Nebraska State Historical Society's Transactions and Reports, and another more recently in 1974 by Charles S. Reece, Jr., entitled Reece's account, published by the Cherry County Historical Society. Has examined earlier conflicting reports and attempted to determine the location of several sites involved in the events surrounding the murder.

Graduated from West Point Military Academy in 1875. Lieutenant Cherry served under George Crook, whose forces were then attempting to bring all Indians onto reservations. This goal was virtually accomplished by 1878. Cherry's assignment to Fort Niobrara soon after its establishment in 1880 to protect Nebraska homesteaders from the Sioux on the nearby Rosebud Reservation.

The event culminating in Cherry's tragic death began the first week of May, 1881, when information reached Major J. J. Upham, then in command at Fort Niobrara, of a plot to rob Colonel T.H. Stanton, paymaster, then en route from Omaha to pay his troops at the fort. The bandits had apparently intended to waylay Stanton at Plum Creek between the present towns of Wood Lake and Johnston. Accordingly, Lieutenant Cherry and other soldiers were dispatched to Long Pine, where the stage was to spend the night, and ordered to escort Colonel Stanton back to Fort Niobrara. The payroll arrived without incident and the soldiers received their money on May 9.

Frustrated that the first robbery attempt, the three, bandits—later identified as Tedde Reade, Dick Burr, and a Private Johnson from Fort Niobrara, and was to hold up a road ranche saloon east of the fort. Owned and managed by H. Casterline, the saloon was frequented by soldiers from Fort Niobrara, and was especially crowded just after payday on the evening of May 9. This second robbery attempt also failed. The trio fled the building after both Burr and Johnson were shot and wounded by Casterline, and retreated into the breaks along the Niobrara River under cover of darkness.

On the morning of May 10 Major Upham at Fort Niobrara was briefed on the robbery attempt and soon discovered that Private Johnson was missing, along with three government horses and other equipment. A search party commanded by Lieutenant Cherry was sent in pursuit and spent the night at the fort. The three of the missing bandits. The party spent the night at Jed Sharpe's ranch about 28 miles northwest of Fort Niobrara. Cherry dispatched a letter back to the for-requesting that additional men be sent to join him at Clark's Rancho, where Cherry and his party expected to arrive the next day.

The proposed rendezvous never took place. As Cherry and his men approached Rock Creek about 14 miles north of the present city of Valentine, Private Johnson W. Locke suddenly drew his pistol, shot both Cherry and another soldier named Conroy, and then fled. Conroy was not seriously wounded, but Cherry died almost instantly. Other members of Cherry's party and the additional men originally dispatched to Clark's Rancho returned the young lieutenant's body to Fort Niobrara, where it was buried with full military honors. The following spring Cherry's father and his fiancée had the body reburied in the LaGrange, Indiana, family burial plot.

Understandably, much confusion was created by the strange circumstances surrounding the killing. It was at first speculated that the three bandits were the three bandits the Cherry party had been pursuing, but no connection was ever proved. Locke was finally captured by several cowboys and returned to Fort Niobrara, where an ensuing trial in Deadwood, S.D., resulted in a conviction of manslaughter and sentenced to a term in the Federal Penitentiary at Detroit, Michigan. The three bandits were eventually captured near Fort Pierre, South Dakota, and later hanged at Yankton, where they were subsequently staged a jail break. Johnson was killed by a guard in the attempt; Burr did escape and all trace of him has been lost; and Reade was recaptured, tried for a previous murder, and executed.

The murder of Lieutenant Cherry had caused great excitement in the surrounding area, which was organized into a county several years later in 1883. A petition signed by many local residents was presented to the Nebraska Legislature requesting that the new county be named Cherry County in honor of Lieutenant Cherry, and in March of 1883 the county was so named.

Decides to quit

Wayne
Dear Editor:
We started to bring our fresh cut Nebraska Christmas trees to Wayne in 1971, at the request of Wayne residents and the business has increased yearly, attracting much out of town trade to Wayne. While the selling of Christmas trees is the basis of our children's continuing education, as others may maintain a savings account, etc. Youth have been employed for both production and sales, other than family members.

We do not have a full time workman and other private retailers over the years. We also were not critical of the JC's as a businessmen's service oriented, non-profit organization; civic activities. Only in their direct business competition with a private enterprise.

Economic circumstances of donated facilities, services and/or labor along with tax advantages of non-profit organizations is not the free enterprise system as we know it. We will not be ostracized.

While being very competitive in business, school activities and social issues, the Jacobmeier family has decided, under forementioned circumstances to quit the Wayne Christmas tree business, but continue with family and made pine cone and fresh wreaths, center pieces of same, individual designed macrame, etc., that are not readily available from out of state commercial supplier.

We thank the many old customers, in and out of Wayne, who served over the years and also the Wayne State students, who through mobile, have come each year. — Vern Jacobmeier.

The youth drain

President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States

WASHINGTON — Youth, although being the most energetic and privileged group, is rapidly being drained, he said. Readily remembered is the affront attributed to George Bernard Shaw, who lived to be 94 and who said: "Youth is wasted on the young."

"By now, 'young and foolish' has become a stock phrase. We hear others speak of youth's 'excesses,' or read that youth, 'like spring, is an over-praised season.'"

And no generation of young people has been more severely rebuked (nor with greater cause) than the shaggy, rebellious bands of the Sixties, with their antiwar campus revolts and street demonstrations and psychedelic culture.

But not even the shock-torn Sixties forewarned us of the tragedy of the Seventies—an armies army of 1.5 to 2 million youth unable to find jobs in a period of historic highs in U.S. employment.

Joblessness is a way of life for thousands of teenagers who settle for so much sediment to the bottom of the barrel of labor supply. From month to month unemployment in this age group (16-19) hovers in the 16 to 17 percent range, almost triple the over-all employment rate in the country. In big city ghettos, joblessness reaches 50 percent and higher, striking hard at blacks and other minorities.

Within the last year or so the economy has created 1.5 million new jobs but the number of unemployed teens declined only slightly, by about 50,000 or from 1,620,000 to 1,570,000.

Sociologists, economists and other leaders in the public and private sectors are seriously concerned, and rightly so, because idleness not only tempts youth to crime and other anti-social behavior but also robs the nation of one of its most valuable resources—the talent and energy of fresh, new arrivals into the workforce.

As one commentator recently observed, there is so much young people can contribute to society, yet we ask so little of them.

The deprivation of these young people is

Opposes zoning

Wayne
Dear Editor:
If the county commissioners base their decision in regard to Wayne County Rural Zoning on the wishes of the people expressed at the Public Hearing for that purpose, no way will they vote our county into a County Zoning plan.

Over 55 percent of the county residents who attended the hearing were opposed to Rural Zoning.

WRITE A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

While the loss can be measured in dollars or wages lost, I am reminded of how great that loss can be by a few examples of the incredible acumen and superb performance of some of our young people who maximize their ability to earn their way in life as fledgling entrepreneurs. The recently published 1978 edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students," lists dozens of such success stories. A few are illustrative:

Michael Hogle, at 17, transformed a hobby in tropical fish into a successful tropical fish and supply business in Eldora, Ia., which employs 4 to 5 part-time workers, imports birds and ships to customers throughout the country. More recently he organized a firm that operates a computer information service, publishes classified ads for subscribers in 10 states and operates a canine recovery service helping dog owners to find missing pets. Michael's only problem is that since he is not of legal age, he cannot sign contracts. But his profits will help send him to college.

Steve Ayers is one the youngest chimney sweeps in the European chimney sweeps, tall and top hat, with a T-shirt, he started his business a year ago when his family in Freeburg, Ill. could not find a sweep of their brick and his father tackled the job together and thus was born "Super Sweep," a licensed and bonded chimney cleaning service.

Cheryl Glass, a pre-med student, creates and sells doll reproductions in Seattle stores. She fashions the popular dolls with details out of the 1900's, taking a month to sew the dresses, paint the figures and do the firing. They are classics that sell for $20 to $250 apiece.

The list is probably endless. While these are standout performers not typical of the usually undereducated or unskilled youth who cannot find a simple menial job, they illustrate the kind of talent, ingenuity and skills we lose when our youth's natural resources go down the drain of unemployment.

Vitally needed are innovative new approaches to a problem that shows no signs of going away.

Planning retirement? Booklet gives hints

The transition to retirement can be traumatic and devastating if one is not financially prepared for it, according to Action for Independent Maturity (AIM), the pre-retirement division of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Yet many who would plan every detail of a two-week vacation will do little or nothing to prepare for years of retirement living.

In order to help plan for a secure retirement, AIM has developed a Guide to Financial Security, which provides useful ideas on insuring that post-retirement income will be sufficient.

"The sooner you plan for your future financial well-being, the better, but at age 50, taking stock of your resources becomes a priority matter," the Guide says. "There is no time to waste. You owe it to yourself to gain financial elbow room — a surplus of earnings over expenses — to build up your worth and future income for the years after regular paychecks cease."

The booklet provides handy charts to use in determining net worth and comparing present after-tax expenditures with probable post-retirement spending patterns.

It explains the seven basic sources of potential retirement income: Social Security, private pensions, IRA's or Keogh Plans, annuities, savings accounts, stocks and bonds, and real estate investments. Also discussed are tax breaks for retirees, life insurance and wills.

The AIM Guide to Financial Security is part of a multimedia program on retirement designed especially for presentation by community service, civic and fraternal organizations. The program package includes the 16-minute film "The Rest of Your Life."

For more information on this helpful program, write: Action for Independent Maturity, Dept. NK, 1909 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20049.

Corps Cut Red Tape

Red tape is being cut by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in an effort to improve services to the public.

Col. James W. Ray, Omaha District Engineer, has announced the issuance of a General Permit covering the placement of temporary fill material in conjunction with bridge construction in Nebraska.

Due to width variations in the streams of Nebraska, this General Permit has been broken down into three categories. The amount of fill authorized varies from 500 to 1,500 cubic yards, depending upon the stream category.

This General Permit applies to work performed under the jurisdiction of the Nebraska Department of Roads involving federal aid, state aid, city and county projects on federal aid systems, and city and county projects involving off-system federal funds.

Applicants wishing to perform work under this General Permit will be required to furnish certain specific information to the Corps before work can begin.

For additional information, contact the District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 6, Omaha, Neb. 68101, or call toll free 800-642-8258 (in Nebraska).

The Corps of Engineers has the responsibility of protecting the quality of our Nation's water resources, maintaining water quality by protecting marshes, swamps, and similar environmentally valuable wetland resources, and preventing alterations or obstructions of navigable waters of the United States.

In keeping with these responsibilities, a permit is required to locate a structure, excavate, or discharge dredged or fill materials into waters of the United States.

Due to the complex procedures involved, the permit process is time-consuming, usually requiring between 3 and 4 months to complete. For this reason, the Corps uses the General Permit concept to better serve the public.

The General Permit concept is an authorization issued for a category or categories of work in a specified region of the country, where those structures or works are similar in nature and cause only minimal adverse environmental impacts. Following the issuance of a General Permit, approval of individual projects can often be obtained in 10 to 15 days. Administrative procedures are simplified and inconvenience to the public is reduced.

Water Control Is Helpful

Although many people think of groundwater management in terms of regulating pump irrigators, good management can begin on the individual farm, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension water resources specialist.

Dean Axthelm said at least four methods of water management are available to the individual farmer, including good tillage practices and irrigation water management. Other practices include controlling contamination of groundwater and using crops that don't require much water.

He said that snow has about one inch of moisture for each 10 to 12 inches of snow depth, and good tillage practices can help conserve that water.

"Keep it on the fields by leaving stalks standing instead of plowing them under," Axthelm said. "An inch of water infiltrating the soil may be an inch not pumped next summer."

He recommended that farmers use spring tillage methods that keep the mulch on the surface.

"Clean plowed ground can cause the loss of another inch of moisture," he warned.

Reducing the amount of water applied and using scheduling are effective ways to manage irrigation water, Axthelm said.

Controlling the contamination of the groundwater supply may be achieved by both proper fertilization of crops and careful application of pesticides.

Axthelm also recommended planting seeds that are drought tolerant, such as milo, wheat and soybeans.

"It's to the benefit of all irrigators to try to be equitable in the use of water," Axthelm said.

Sulfa Residues High In Nebraska Swine

After staying below the national average for the first seven months of 1978, the percentage of violators in the level of sulfa residues detected in Nebraska swine rose above the national average in August and September, and Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension swine specialist said this week.

Dr. Bobby Moser is one of three IANR staff members teaming up to carry out an educational program with producers and the feed industry in the cooperative USDA-state-swine industry effort to eliminate sulfonamide (sulfa) residues in swine carcasses.

Moser worked with individual swine producers after they have been notified by government inspectors of violations in carcasses inspected at slaughter plants. He said 10 percent of the carcasses sampled in Nebraska in September, the last month for which figures are available, showed 1 ppm. (parts per million) or more of sulfa residues, the violative level according to U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations.

Moser listed the January through September national and Nebraska percentage of swine found to have at least 1 ppm of sulfa residues:

- January through June 1978—national average, 9.1 percent; Nebraska, 6.8 percent
- July—national average, 11.5 percent; Nebraska, 6.8 percent
- August—national average, 10.2 percent; Nebraska, 13.1 percent
- September—national average, 8.1 percent; Nebraska, 10.0 percent

Moser said 30-40 swine carcasses per month are sampled as they go through the line in slaughter plants under federal inspection, meaning that recently, 2-3 carcasses have been found to contain excessive amounts of sulfa residues.

The USDA Food Safety and Quality Service monitoring program in Nebraska and other states is based on a computerized plan for random sampling, with resulting laboratory findings projecting a statistically valid representation of all swine slaughtered nationwide.

The primary problem in Nebraska, Moser analyzed, continues to be improper withdrawal of medicated feeds from swine before they are marketed.

He who carries in his pocket a piece of wood splintered off by lightning is believed by some to have great strength.

marked from a particular operation, the producer has two options to prove that the next shipment is free of above-level sulfa residues before the meat will be approved by FSQS meat inspectors for human consumption.

Option one is to obtain an agreement with the slaughter firm to retain the hogs until samples can be tested (in about three days) and found to be at or below the legal tolerance of 1 ppm.

Some packers may be unwilling to buy hogs on this basis, and others may discount the price they will pay for hogs (by one-third to one-half the market value), because they probably will debone, freeze and store the carcasses until test results are completed.

WINTERIZING YOUR COWS

How are your milk cows making out in the cold weather we have been having?

Q: At what point does temperature begin to affect production?

A: The optimum temperature for a dairy cow is between 40 degrees and 60 degrees F.

Q: What happens when the temperature dips below 40 degrees?

A: There is a fairly consistent increase in feed consumption and a variable decrease in milk production.

Q: How does humidity influence the effect of low temperatures?

A: Cows are less tolerant of high humidity.

Q: What is the most important factor to work on in the winter?

A: A readily available source of ice free water is one of the most important things.

Q: Does it pay to warm the water?

A: Probably not. Most studies show that the extra cost of warming the water does not pay.

Q: What else needs to be done for cows in cold weather?

A: Preventing injuries to cows from slipping on ice.

Import Cattle Need Test Check For Brucellosis

Dr. Roger Sandman, Nebraska Director of Agriculture and Dr. A.W. Kruse, State Veterinarian, express concern regarding the possibility of brucellosis exposed animals being imported into Nebraska from those areas.

(southern and southeastern United States) have caused a terrific increase in the numbers of cows and feeder heifers that have been imported into Nebraska from those areas.

Dr. Sandman and Dr. Kruse fear that some of these cattle may be exposed or incubating the disease at the time of testing.

Generic Products Save Money

A new tactic being adopted by food retailers to attract and hold customers is the introduction of "generic" or "unbranded" products.

"Generic food products generally cost less than national and store brands," said Charles Handy, project leader in the food economics area of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"While they often use lower grade ingredients, the difference in quality from the consumer's point of view may not be significant."

"Generic foods save consumers money because their ingredients are less expensive and distributors generally spend less money to advertise, package and label them.

Consumers can expect to save an average of 25 percent over national brands and about 15 percent over store brands," Handy stated.

Handy recently headed a study of generic foods and their acceptance by retailers and the public.

"Studies by private industry show prices of generic foods averaged 39 percent below national brands in the Midwest and 30 percent below in the East," said Handy.

"The price average was 20 percent below the store brand in the Midwest and 19 percent below in the East."

While generic foods have spread rapidly, they still aren't available to many shoppers.

Some retailers are competing with generics by lowering prices on store brands.

Others are consolidating their second and third line store brands into a new store label similar in quality and price to generics.

In any case, the 4-H'er can work together on the project.

All leaders, parents and 4-H'ers interested in the 4-H Pans of 3 Market Beef Program should plan to attend.

Grandma's Remedy Still Good for Colds

Colds and other upper respiratory tract illnesses probably cause more discomfort and time lost from work or school than any other American health problem.

A cold is caused by one or more of many viruses, the American Medical Association reminds. Actually, grandma's remedy is still good. If you get a cold, stay home in bed. Keep warm. Gargle with warm salt water to ease a sore throat. Take a mild pain reliever for the discomfort.

None of this will cure the cold, but it will make you feel somewhat more comfortable while your body's natural defense mechanisms are building up enough steam to overcome the virus.

In some circles in recent years, massive doses of Vitamin C have been advanced as therapy or preventive for the cold. Physicians everywhere hoped it would work, but scientific studies thus far have failed to prove the usefulness of Vitamin C for colds.

Most of us have a cold or two during the course of the winter. Usually we try to keep going to the office, but sometimes we feel too bad to work, and spend a day or two at home.

There are medications now available — antihistamines, pain relievers, cough suppressants, and fever reducers — that can make the symptoms of a cold much less severe. These have their limitations and their problems. Antihistamines can cause drowsiness, which can be highly dangerous when driving an auto. If you get a cold, ask your doctor about the medications that reduce runny nose and sneezing and coughing.

As youngsters heard the old folks say: Treat a cold and cure it in two weeks; let it alone and it will go away in a fortnight. The time element isn't that exact, but the theory is the same.

Soybean Markets Will Grow

The next five years will see a sharp and steady growth of soybean markets in the Middle East, according to Ed Quinones, regional director of middle east programs for the American Soybean Association.

Quinones, who heads a market development staff of three head-quartered in Madrid, Spain, was the lead speaker in a two-day conference on Agricultural Trading Opportunities in the Middle East, held in St. Louis in conjunction with the dedication of the new ASA World Headquarters in St. Louis Dec. 5.

"We've already seen tremendous growth in this market which last year used over $100 million worth of U.S. soybeans and soybean products," Quinones told an audience of over 150 soybean producers, processors and representatives of the livestock and feed industries.

"In the past two years, we've seen an 81 percent increase in Mid-East imports of U.S. soybeans and soybean products," says Quinones pointing out that U.S. soybean exports to the area went from $55.4 million in 1976 to over $100.4 million in 1977. For the first 9 months of 1978, U.S. soy meal exports are three and one-half times greater than the same period last year.

The reasons for this kind of market growth, explains Quinones, are primarily a large and growing population and rapidly rising incomes. Bolstered by increased petroleum revenues, these countries are moving rapidly to upgrade the standard of living.

To date, Iran has been the best Middle East customer for U.S. soy oil and meal says Quinones, noting that their imports for 1977 totaled $44 million. "That's almost four times the amount Iran spent on U.S. soybeans and products just 10 years ago."

Iran's economic development is one of the most successful in the world as measured by its high economic growth which is predicted to continue at about 11 percent annually for the foreseeable future.

Egypt, which currently is the second largest importer of U.S. soybeans and products in the Middle East, is another area where Quinones sees a bright future for U.S. exports.

Morocco, the third largest importer of American soybeans and soy oil, will also be expanding soybean imports.

"With the reopening this year of a government-owned extracting plant and the planned construction of new port facilities, Moroccan imports of U.S. soybeans will increase substantially in the near future," says Quinones.

Last year, Libya imported $5 million worth of soybeans and products and according to Quinones, the Libyans, who are major exporters of light low-sulfur crude oil, are expected to buy steadily this year and in the future.

Other Middle East countries Quinones expects to be major customers for U.S. soybeans and soy products include Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Algeria, and Tunisia.

Adding to the increased demand for soybean oil and products in the Middle East, has been a stabilization and even decline in production of traditional vegetable oils such as olive oil, cottonseed oil and sesame oil.

Developing markets in the Middle East is not without problems, admits Quinones. While port facilities are expanding rapidly in the area and vessel unloading has been speeded up, these problems areas are still a barrier to U.S. traders. Communications is a problem for everyone in the Middle East too.

"The prospects for future growth in the 1980's is spectacular," he says. "As port facilities develop to handle bulk shipment of grain and soybean meal, we can expect large increases in the amount of American soybeans exported to all the Middle East nations."

The first recorded dental drill was described in 1728 by a Parisian dental surgeon named Pierre Fauchard in his book on dentistry.

Surveys Sent To Farmers

In an effort to improve data on grain drying, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources research economists have sent survey forms to 3,100 Nebraska farmers.

Dr. Glen Vollmar, head of the agricultural economics department at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said "development of current farm policy depends on accurate estimates of farm production costs. Drying grains is an important part of the cost of producing grain and improved data is important."

The two-page questionnaire seeks such information as acreages of various types of grain produced, amount mechanically dried and stored, percentage of moisture removed, operating capacity of the dried used and the type of fuel used.

Vollmar noted that operators receiving the survey form were selected at random and constitute a representative sample of Nebraska farmers. Similar surveys also are being conducted in Kansas and North Dakota. All responses will be kept confidential.

He said the survey is being conducted in cooperation with the Commodity Economics Division, the Economics, Statistics and Cooperative Services; the U.S. Department of Agriculture; and the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Carroll Churches Schedule Christmas Programs

A Little Too Friendly

THIS SEMI-TRAILER truck was the victim of an icy alleyway as it nudged the side of the McDonald Building when its driver attempted to go up the alley.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Carroll Methodist Church have scheduled their Christmas programs.

"Kneel at the Manger" will be the theme of the Christmas program at the Methodist Church this Sunday evening, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday school youngsters and the AFY are in charge of the program.

Sunday school students and the Wither League of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will give their Christmas program on Saturday evening, Dec. 23 at 7:30 p.m. Theme is "God's Christmas Gifts."

New Teachers

Sunday school teachers of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met recently and welcomed new teachers to the staff.

Mrs. Arthur Cook, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Murray Leicy reported on the last meeting. A report was given by superintendent Arnold Hansen.

Teachers are Mrs. Murray Leicy and Mrs. Arlyn Hurtbart, nursery; Carl Peterson and Mrs. Monty Granfield, primary; Mrs. Dorothy Isom and Mrs. Lumir Buresh, pre-teen, and Mrs. Arthur Cook and Mrs. Dennis Rhode, junior high.

The group thanked Mrs. Robert Peterson, who resigned her position as Sunday school teacher for several years. Mrs. Peterson recently moved to Norfolk.

Youth Meet

The AFY youth group met Dec. 6 at the Methodist Church with 18 members. Jim Herscheid of Stanton was a guest.

Plans were made for Advent and the Christmas season. Reading parts for Sundays in Advent were assigned. The group plans to present special music at the Christmas program Dec. 17 at the Methodist church.

Plans were made for a Christmas party Dec. 20 with a $2 grab bag gift exchange. The party will follow caroling, which begins at 7 p.m.

The Rev. B.C. Poncelew, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Norfolk, will attend the Jan. 14 meeting to speak on "Death and Dying." Election of officers also will be held at that meeting.

Practice Saturday

Program practice for the Christmas program at St. Paul's Lutheran Church will be this Saturday morning at 9:30.
