No date has been set for the hearing by the high court. William Hill, Rosville, Kans., began serving the sentence handed down Nov. 22 by District Judge Eugene McFadden, Norfolk, following court proceedings which lasted nearly one and one-half years. According to court records, Hill was found guilty of sexual assault on a Dixon county teen-ager near Winslow on June 29, 1977. WSC Student Selected Year's 'Citizen Advocate'

Bob Troyer, a 22 year-old community service counsel and sociology double major at Wayne State College, has been selected "Citizen Advocate of the Year" by the 206 Logan office of Region IV in Wayne. Troyer was to be honored Saturday evening at a special Christmas party for advocates and proteges. Citizen advocacy is a one-to-one relationship between a capable volunteer "advocate" and a mentally retarded "protege."

Within this close human relationship, the advocate defends the rights and interests of the protege and gives him practical and emotional reinforcement. Troyer is one of 12 advocates who work with proteges from Region IV. As an advocate, he spends some of his spare time with his protege, Mike Tobin, going to movies, playing basketball and working out in the gym. It is also his job to see that Mike's rights as an individual are not infringed upon. Troyer has been working under the advocacy program for two years. He graduated from Wayne State Saturday and Lyle Blevins, a WSC student, will be replacing him as advocate. The successful advocacy program is coordinated through Region IV by Jean Haskell of Laurel, Ms. Haskell, also a WSC student, has spoken about the program to the Kiwanis Club, Wayne Jaycees, Wayne Women's Club and the Ministerial Association.

At Wayne State College, Dr. Platner coordinates training for students in community counseling services and instructs classes in exceptional child psychology.

$3 Million-Plus

Way is Paved for Vote On Willow Creek Grant

The way has been paved for a vote by the Nebraska Natural Resources commission on a proposed $3 million plus grant to help build Willow Creek park near Pierce.

An advisory board composed of state government officials meeting in Lincoln Tuesday recommended that the commission approve the grant. The commission was informed of the board's decision at its meeting Thursday but the commission cannot take action on a monthly, according to Ray Hartung, administrative coordinator for the Nebraska Resources Development fund, which would supply the money. Hartung said the advisory board members decided the proposed flood control and recreation project meets the four standards by which the commission measures projects: environmental acceptability and technical, economical and financial feasibility.

The board had been undecided about the project's financial aspects, but that changed with a vote recently by the Nebraska Game and Park commission, Hartung said. The game commission agreed to operate and maintain the park to be located two miles west of Pierce, thus relieving the park's sponsor, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources district, of which Wayne county is a part, of financial burden. Pierce is located approximately 25 miles from Wayne and the recreation area would be readily accessible for Wayneland residents.

Hartung said no project opponents attended the meeting in Lincoln, but the park's sponsor was represented by Steve Ottmans, manager of the Lower Elkhorn NRD.

The vote to recommend the $3,016,125 grant was unanimous among the advisory board, whose eight members include representatives from the state department of economic development, planning and programming, water resources, agriculture, environmental control and the game commission, resources commission and the University of See GRANT, Page 12

"Key to Continued Growth"

Airport Manager Looks at Transportation on Manned Flight Anniversary

BY CHUCK BARNES

Nell Armstrong may have taken a "Giant step for mankind" when she set foot on the moon, but Orville and Wilbur Wright must be credited with giving him the means with which to "walk." The 75th anniversary of the Wright Brothers' historic flight at Kitty Hawk was observed in Wayneland area Sunday with a somber flight over Wayne with Al Robinson, Wayne municipal airport operator, as the pilot and representatives of news media as passengers. At exactly 10:35 a.m., Robinson rocked the wings of the airplane in a quiet tribute to the Wright Brothers, who saw the real beginning of the air age. In reflecting back through the past 75 years of manned-air flight, Robinson said he considers the safety devices which are now part of private aircraft as being the most significant step since the first flight at Kitty Hawk.

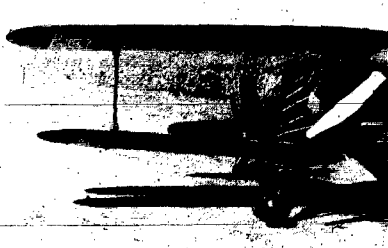

Robinson said the devices are a spin-off of the space program. He said the instrumentation now available for small aircraft because of the light weight transistors and other mechanics from the space program, means safer flights and more use of the aircraft itself. The Wayne manager said private aircraft traffic is growing 16 to 18 percent each year. And because of this growth, airports such as the one at Wayne, are getting more traffic and are giving more service. He explained the Wayne airport presently offers fuel for transient aircraft, maintenance service, flight instruction, air taxi and is capable of making emergency flights when time becomes a major factor in moving a medical patient to a larger medical facility. Even with these services, he considers the Wayne facility to be playing "catch-up" in competition with other areas in the Midwest. "It's no secret that those communities which have a large trade territory, also have adequate or better-than-adequate transportation systems," Robinson explained. He said Wayne is mainly dependent on car-truck-bus or air for its transportation. He also pointed out Wayne does not have a major federal highway running through it although there are two state highways. And it has lost its railroad, he said. Robinson said he isn't downgrading Wayne; only pointing out those things which might distract from the growth of Wayne. "I like Wayne, I believe in Wayne. That is why I am suggesting civic and other city leaders to take a long, hard look at the transportation picture of Wayne now and how it might 10 to 20 years down the road.

The airport manager said airports play a major role in the decision for industry to locate in a community. "Time means money and most industrialists want to make as much money as possible as efficiently as possible."

Robinson used St. Joseph, Mo., as an example of a city which had a major opportunity to be a leading transportation center for the west as it was being settled. He cited the Oregon Trail, which began at St. Joe, and the Pony Express which had St. Joe as its starting place. He also said the Union Pacific railroad was planning to use St. Joe as its major railroad, following the Oregon Trail. "But because certain people with power in St. Joe wanted it to remain a city unto its own, transportation centers shifted from there to Kansas City and to Omaha," Robinson explained. He also took a stab at what might be in the future for Wayne as the country continues to grow. "While it may seem a pipe-dream now, there is a possibility the U.S. Highway 81 may swing through or close to Wayne in the future." Robinson based his theory on the premise people will continue to want to get where they are going as fast as possible and as economically as possible. "Highway 81 will continue to pass through Columbus and most likely, Norfolk. But if it wants to link up with a major highway of interstate, it will have to swing to the east and if the situation is right, it might be re-located near Wayne." Returning to the present, Robinson said plans are in the mill to upgrade the Wayne airport which is directed at making Wayne more attractive to industry. He said plans are to lengthen the present 2,800-foot paved runway to 3,400 feet and add a second paved 4,200-foot runway. The Wayne airport is constantly being up-graded through the efforts of Robinson and the Airport Authority. A new honing device has been installed at the airport to allow private aircraft to make instrument landings. An intensive flight and air taxi See LOOKS, Page 12

OBSERVATIONS

A bouquet of roses...but

The changing of the guard in city government Tuesday night provided an opportunity to reflect just how important city government is to those it represents.

Probably nowhere in our over-all government structure is the opportunity for the taxpayer to be recognized and heard as there is on the city level. The decisions made by the city councils are just as important as those made in Congress.

We have reported many council meetings and for the most part, our personal feelings about council members were less than positive. We have seen those who are council members for the sole purpose of storing up their personal egos. The title was more important than the job.

We have also seen and heard those council members who may have a personal axe to grind and they sharpened it at the taxpayers' expense.

But after a year watching and reporting the happenings of the Wayne city council, our confidence in city government is returning. It is not overwhelming, but the spark has been ignited.

We believe the city council has acted in good faith as they went about city business. If there was a conflict of interest, they stepped down from their elected positions so as not to cloud the issue.

The Wayne city government has a positive attitude toward the community. There is a definite aura of individualism as they attack the problems. There have been many differences of opinion, but after they had examined all of the facts, the members of the council make their decisions...based on the facts.

We believe the Wayne city government has credibility because of the leadership provided by the late Fredric Brink, who placed the good of the community foremost as he went about his task as city administrator. We didn't always agree with him, we usually admired him for his stand.

Former Mayor Freeman Decker provided positive guidance for the council as it confronted the many problems facing a progressive community such as Wayne. He lent an expertise to the position which helped to build a sound foundation for a strong city government.

We feel the citizens of Wayne have made a good choice in electing Wayne Marsh as mayor. Marsh is knowledgeable of the problems of the city, both from the standpoint of a taxpayer and a city council member. We feel that when he gets his feet on the ground he will continue the same positive guidance needed for the progressive and orderly growth of Wayne.

While this has been a bouquet of roses, we remind city elected and appointed officials that roses have thorns. We will continue to report the actions of the council in a factual manner. But while taking issues with any decision which we deem to be wrong or not in the best interests of the community. We still intend to be a strong link in the chain of checks and balances. Our advice...stop and smell the roses, but don't linger. — Chuck Barnes.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

With Chuck Barnes

On the front page of today's Herald is a feature story about manned flight which celebrated its 75th year anniversary Sunday in observance of the Wright Brothers' historic flight at Kitty Hawk.

Many activities are planned to chronicle the first flight. The major airlines are going to ask their passengers who are in flight to bow their heads in a moment of silent prayer at exactly 10:35 a.m., the time the flihsy Wright Brother's craft lifted off the ground.

Locally, the anniversary will be observed with a special flight by Wayne Municipal Airport Manager Al Robinson and representatives of the Wayne news media.

That rascal, Randy Hascell, will represent The Wayne Herald on the local flight. At the appointed time, the two passengers and Al will also bow their heads in a moment of silent prayer.

We're certain that Randy will take advantage of the solemn moment, not only to remember the anniversary but to ask that he be safely delivered to the ground. It will mark his first ride in an airplane.

We have long been an avid advocate of flying. All of our airtime in the left seat has been in aircraft with propellers. We have ridden in commercial and military jets, but we haven't had the nerve to try to fly one of the overgrown blow torches. Somehow, not having a propeller turning in front of us while flying is a little unsettling. But you can't buck progress.

Piloting a plane is a wonderful experience. You somehow are able to put things in their proper perspective while soaring through the air during one of those ideal days for flying when you can trim out the craft, sit back and enjoy the many wonders of the world.

We vividly remember soloing. It is akin to having the exhilarating experience of seeing one of your children born. You have to have been there to appreciate what we're talking about.

Several weeks ago, we watched a batch of hand-gliders who pushed off from the bluffs near Turin, Ia. While we watched, they maneuvered their seemingly fragile gliders to any area they wanted, taking advantage of the terrain and the wind. They landed with the ease of a bird.

We suspect they are even closer to those things that make flying what it is. We do not want to attempt hand-gliding, but we can certainly appreciate those who do.

And that, he said as he warbled "Up in the air, junior birdmen; up in the air upside down... is that!

Voters affirm new conservatism

President Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON — Quite often, as I travel and speak around the country, people ask about the growing conservative mood and how long it will last.

My answer has been that we are witnessing a permanent shift from the idea born in the 1930's and still with us that the federal government in Washington can solve all of our problems with tax dollars. In my mind, this shift will be a dominant political factor for as long as Americans live with frustration and anguish over (1) high rates of inflation and (2) high rates of taxation. And that promises to continue for some time.

Neither of these problems has ever been so difficult or prolonged for us in peacetime, and now in the 1970's, they seem to have come together with devastating effects for millions of Americans. People want change.

While making no claims for political clairvoyance, especially since even the professional pollsters are making them, I am pleased to note that results of the recent midterm elections offer the strongest evidence yet of the public trend toward restraint in government through support of political candidates pledged to reduce government spending, taxes and deficits.

Through the number of seats won or lost by the two major parties may not convey it, the gain in conservative candidates of both parties elected to office is very impressive and widely recognized.

In the U.S. Senate races, perhaps the best barometer of the public mood because candidates tend to run more on the issues and receive greater publicity, five incumbent liberals were defeated by Republicans, and in three instances will be replaced by current House members with established voting records in Congress for taking a conservative and oftentimes business viewpoint on legislation.

From a group of 20 new Senate members, a conservative gain of four seems assured. In a body that will be split 59-41, by party, one or two votes can be crucial, as occurred this year in the successful filibuster of a notorious anti-business bill supported by the labor unions. The AFL-CIO's political action organization, COPE, incidentally, concedes "disappointing results" in the Senate races, claiming only 12 victories out of 30 endorsed candidates.

In the House, where political philosophy may not come as forcefully into play, as say, incumbency (only 5 percent of all House members seeking re-election lost), the shift is harder to measure. The large new freshman class of 77 is noteworthy in itself. Our legislative specialists foresee a conservative gain of 16 seats.

But the lineup of new members does not tell the full story. Many of the successful 358 House incumbents and 15 Senate incumbents, duly impressed with the voters' moods, will return to their Washington desks with campaign rhetoric still ringing in their ears.

If the predictions bear up, we should see a somewhat more conservative Congress inclined to help President Carter in his efforts to combat inflation by cutbacks in spending and onerous regulations.

Sparked by Proposition 13, the California smash hit with taxpayers, the national taxpayers revolt proved itself no dud. Voters in many states approved ballot measures to reduce taxes or government spending or both.

Liberals are not very happy over the election results. They are complaining about fat defense budgets, single-issue voters and likely cuts in the next federal budget. They blame chiefly the middle-class taxpayers, who after years of generosity are accused of turning their backs on the poor. The charge, of course, is untrue.

The fastest-growing programs in the federal budget in recent years have been those providing direct payments to individuals from the U.S. Treasury — income transfer payments such as Social Security benefits, Medicare, welfare and food stamps.

Taxpayers have been most generous. It is unfair and totally wrong to accuse them of turning against social programs simply because they now express a strong desire for reasonable controls on spending in a period of grossly inflated costs.

We are entering a new era, not turning the clock back.

Last Second Ginn Bucket Lifts Wayne Over Wisner

By Gene Ray

Tom Ginn's basket at the final buzzer lifted the Wayne High boys basketball team to a 66-64 victory over the taller Wisner-Pilger Gators Friday night in a game that saw the Blue Devils go down in the field in the final quarter and hold on for their third victory.

Ginn's game-winner was set up when the six-foot senior-poised under the basket against the Gators' two 6-5 frontcourters, Phil McGuire and Craig Brand.

The final bucket was only Wayne's fifth of the quarter. The Devils were taking long-range tries at the basket, unable to break inside the rangy Wisner-Pilger defense in the final eight minutes until Ginn put in his 20th and 21st points of the night. Ginn's offensive production was the highest for both squads.

"Tom is the best penetrator that we have," said Wayne High coach Bill Sharpe. "If he were a couple of inches taller we would play him inside all of the time. But we want to keep him moving around."

Wayne was able to take a 64-63 lead with 45 seconds remaining when Jeff Zeiss stole a pass and burst the length of the court for an easy lay-up.

The Blue Devils suffered a cold spell in the fourth quarter, hitting only three field goals in the first four and one-half minutes.

"We wanted to get the ball down court in a hurry and get up the shot before they could get their defense set up," Sharpe said. "We have been playing pretty conservative. We told the boys to keep putting up shots faster, but that philosophy nearly backfired in the fourth quarter."

Wayne controlled the game in the early going, holding leads up to eight points in the opening period. But the Gators used their big men to open a 35-33 halftime advantage.

The Blue Devils retaliated in the third period with their own big man. — 6-4 sophomore Perry Nelson. The lanky post man scored a pair of buckets underneath to help Wayne take a 55-49 lead going into the last period.

"Perry is doing a lot of things very already as a sophomore," Sharpe said. "He is going to be a good one in the future."

Four players cracked double figures for Wayne. Behind Ginn's 21 were Brad Emry with 11 and Zeiss and Al Nissen with 10 each. Coach Sharpe was pleased with Nissen's output, saying it added more dimension to his center's total game play.

"Al has been doing a good job on the boards for us all year. I was glad to see him get 10 points, Sharpe said.

The win improves the Blue Devils season record to 3-2. They play in the Wayne State high school tournament next Wednesday.

The Blue Devil reserve squad pulled off a 51-35 win with Steve Sorenson leading scoring with 12 points.

Other scorers: Jere Morris, 10; Scott Wessel, 6; Paul Sumfender, 1; Tony Rezek, 6; Todd Skokan, 2; Kevin Nissen, 4; Tim Pfeiffer 8.

Wayne Girls Tip Laurel 55-44 Jensen Compares Them With Allen

By Gene Ray

Laurel girls basketball coach Everett Jensen favors a comparison of the High girls squad to defending Class D district champions Allen after the Blue Devils stopped Laurel, 55-44 at Wayne Thursday night.

"I think Wayne is every bit as good as Allen," Jensen said. "We thought that Wayne would have a good team before we played them. Now I'm convinced."

The Blue Devils took control in the second half, despite losing three starters. Jensen lead out, Peg Pinkelman and LaVonne Sharpe drew their fifth personal fouls within three minutes of each other. Then Jolene Bennett committed her fifth foul with 5:20 remaining in the game.

But Wayne coach Curt Frye called on his reserves to preserve the victory and improve the Blue Devils' record to 2-1.

Wayne held a 45-35 lead when reserves Stacy Jacobmeier, Lynn Surber and Shelly Davis were called to keep the 10-point advantage.

"I think we showed that we have some quality people on the reserves that we can use to fill in with," Coach Frye said. "We have to see three starters' foul totals, but Laurel's quickness accounted for some of that."

After the game, Laurel's coach Jensen reflected on the comparisons between Wayne and Allen, a team that returns all five starters from a 1978 state tournament team.

"Both teams are well balanced, and I think our girls have learned a lot by playing this good of competition this early in the season," Jensen said. His squad is now 2-2 on the season. Laurel dropped a 48-28 decision to Allen on Dec. 5.

"I think Peg Pinkelman may be the best player we've seen this season," Jensen added.

Pinkelman scored 13 points for Wayne before fouling out with 2:49 left in the third period. Lesa Barclay led the Blue Devil offense with 17 points—tops on both teams. Teammate Jolene Bennett chipped in with 10 points.

Laurel, a quick scrappy unit, owned the lead through the first quarter and penetrated Wayne's defense for times for scores under the basket. The Blue Devils took their first lead with six minutes left in a pair of free throws. The score read 18-17, Wayne.

Wayne pulled away at that point and commanded a 45-33 halftime score. The Blue Devils' largest lead was 49-35 midway in the last quarter when Jacobmeier scored on a breakaway bucket after a nifty outlet pass from Barclay.

Laurel lost its chance to come back in the fourth quarter when scoring and defensive leader Paula Chace fouled out with two minutes remaining. The junior guard led the Bears with 13 points. Lisa Galvin contributed 10 points for Laurel.

The Bears host Bloomfield tonight (Monday). Wayne plays at Stanton tomorrow night (Tuesday).

Eagles Win Number Three

The Allen Eagles won their third straight boys basketball game Friday night since losing the season opener to Winside and when Coach Bart Knief's ball club plays, fans don't leave the gym early.

The Eagles lost by six points to Winside and have since won two games by three points and now this one by two.

Bart Gotch was the Allen hero Friday as he hit a 25 foot jump shot at the final buzzer for a 36-34 win over Homer. The game was the nightcap of a boys girls doubleheader.

Coach Knief said after the

Trojans Keep Pace With Hartington, Friday

The Wakefield Trojans played with Hartington for one quarter but then fell apart and got rolled 19-17 by the home team Friday night.

The Wildcats held a slim 18-17 lead after the first quarter but the second period proved disastrous for the Trojans. Hartington outscored them 24-10 in the quarter for a 42-27 half-time lead.

Allen Girls Win Easily

The Allen girls basketball team continued to play like a state contender Friday night as the Eagles had little trouble dumping Homer 48-18 in the first half of a girls-boy double-header.

Stacey Koester with 14 points, Lisa Erwin with 13 and Pam Brownell with 10 points sparked the Allen offense which averaged 12 points a quarter.

"Overshadowing the offensive output was a defensive display which shut down Homer and held the Knights scoreless in the first quarter. Homer scored its first basket with four minutes left in the first half to break the ice."

"We were the experienced team and took control of the game," Coach Steve McManigal said. "We played total team ball. Susie (Erwin) provided the leadership and everyone contributed."

The Eagles outrebounded the inexperienced Knights 24 to 21 as Allen was led by Lisa Wood with nine rebounds. Pam Brownell with eight and Lisa Erwin with seven.

Wynot Drops Wildcats

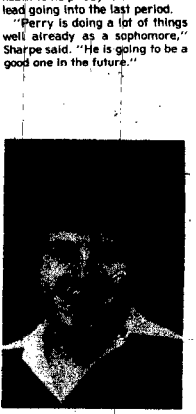

After falling behind by 11 points in the first quarter, the Winside Wildcats tried to make a comeback but couldn't put enough momentum and fell victim to Wynot 42-49 Friday night.

The loss drops Winside's record to 2-3 for the season. Despite losing the game, three Wildcats finished in double figures. Paul Roberts led the team in scoring with 16 points, followed by Bob Hawkins with 14 and Chuck Peler with 12.

According to Coach Dennis Gonnebaum, Wynot was simply hot from the field and built up a big lead early in the game. The Blue Devils opened up with a 20-9 lead after the first quarter and stretched that to 36-20 at half time.

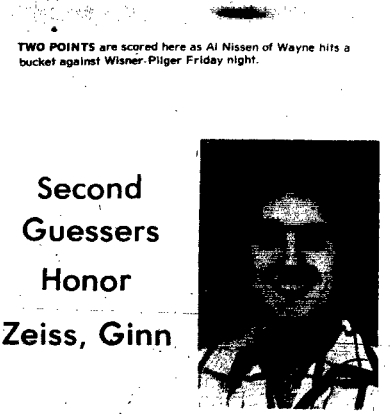

The Wildcats cut the margin to eight at the end of the third period but suffered the loss when Wynot

Randy's RECAP

According to Randy Hascall

A NEW FACE will be on the basketball court and near the wrestling mat for the Wayne Herald at the season progresses.

Gene Ray, a 25-year-old Fremont native will be helping me out at some athletic events, covering games or meets and taking pictures. Ray covered his first game for the Wayne Herald Thursday night when he watched the Wayne-Laurel girls game at Wayne.

Ray is a veteran in sports reporting. After graduating from Midland College, where he was editor of the student newspaper, Gene became sports editor for the Hastings Daily Tribune for about a year. Then, he moved on to become a sports reporter at the Fremont Tribune.

Now, Ray is enrolled at Wayne State College, where he is working toward his coaching endorsement. During the football season, he assisted Steve Cline with the Wayne High football team.

Gene will complete his endorsement at WSC in mid-February, at which time he will student teach at Ralston High. Until that time, he will cover events for me when his schedule allows him that opportunity.

CARRYING ON the past tradition of honoring Wayne's high athletes at the Second Guessers meeting, WHS basketball coach Bill Sharpe brought Tom Ginn and Jeff Zeliss with him to the meeting Thursday.

Ginn is averaging 19 points and nine rebounds a game this year. His stats thus far, Zeliss, a 5-4 junior, averages 10 points and six assists per game. Sharpe termed him "a real good ball handler."

Throughout the year, various athletes will be honored by the Second Guessers. Look for their pictures and some information about each individual as the year progresses.

WAYNE WRESTLING COACH Don Koenig is sporting a new look now as his wrestlers are active on the mats. Koenig is growing a beard and says he has promised his team he will continue to grow it until they lose a dual or finish below third in a tournament.

With his grapples off to a good start, the coach's beard is now two weeks in progress. Dan Mitchell and Rick Luft are both undefeated for the Blue Devils with identical 7-0 records.

TWO LOCAL GIRLS continue to perform well for the Wayne State Wildkittens. Sisters Lori and Karl Erwin have enjoyed good individual efforts for the Kittens. The Erwins played for Allen High before enrolling at Wayne State. And as everyone knows, their two younger sisters, Susie and Lisa play for Allen, now.

REMEMBER WSC WILDKITTEN STAR? Connie Kunzmann? Well the former, Wayne center was on television Saturday when she played for the Iowa Coronets professional basketball team.

ALSO, SATURDAY NIGHT, a former Wayne High basketball star played for the University of Nebraska in a contest against the Wayne State women. Sydney Mosley is a freshman for UNL and a member of the women's squad down there

Offense Sparks Laurel In First Win Over Pirates

The Laurel Bears not only moved into the win column for the first time in the young basketball season but they did it in impressive fashion as they dumped Emerson-Hubbard 63-49

Friday night. Coach Joel Parks felt relieved to pick up the victory after three rearlier losses. "I was beginning to think we were snakebitten," Parks said. "It was good to get our first win. We lost two close games and one blowout and I think we were beginning to doubt ourselves."

"Now we should build some confidence and play more relaxed. We needed this one to give us confidence so we can play the way we're capable." Parks continued. "I saw a lot of good things happening. We had periods where we played real well and spans where we didn't look like the same team."

"We've got a lot to work on but this will boost our morale a lot," the coach said. "The things that we did wrong can be ironed out and I saw a lot of positive things. The Bears came out running in the first period and under the hot shooting of Ron Gadenek jumped out in front early. They held on to a 17-9 lead after the first quarter. Emerson-Hubbard rallied and cut the Laurel lead to 18-13 at one time. The five point lead didn't last long as the Bears continued to play calmly and unselfishly to rattle off seven straight points and a 25-13 lead.

Laurel controlled the tempo of the game throughout most of the first half, although they went in hot and cold streaks. The Pirates cut the lead to 31-14 in the final minute of the half but Laurel ran down the clock and Ron Gadenek hit a basket with three seconds left for a 33-24 score at the break.

The fans saw a different Laurel team than they had seen in the first few games of the season. The Bears had been plagued by turnovers in their previous losses but stayed away from the turnovers in the first half, taking advantage of Emerson mistakes instead.

The combination of Dale White, Gadenek, Don Dalton, Steve Anderson and Russ Gade kicked for most of the game.

Dalton ran the Laurel offense with key passes from the top of the key and played smart defense, drawing charging calls from the Pirates on several occasions.

Emerson-Hubbard closed the gap again in the third stanza and pulled within seven at 42-35. The Bears began to make some mistakes mentally and soon the Pirates were threatening with the score 52-48.

Gade stepped to the free throw line with the four point lead and hit the first one. Then, Anderson tipped in the second free throw for a three-point play and a 55-48 tally.

With less than a minute and a half left in the game, the crowd watched for about 15 minutes as Emerson players fouled in desperation. The Bears expanded their lead to put the icing on the cake.

Following some costly Pirate turnovers and fouls, Anderson hit two free throws with one second remaining to salt the victory 63-49. Laurel is now 1-1 and will meet Pender at home tomorrow (Tuesday). Parks says the Pender-gardens will not be overlooked as they have a good team.

Laurel 17 16 9 21 - 63
Emerson 9 15 11 14 - 49

FOULED WHILE going up for the rebound is Ron Gadenek of Laurel in action against Emerson Hubbard Friday night! Steve Anderson watches in the background.

THE WSC WRESTLING team visited the Second Guessers meeting Thursday noon. The previous week, the Guessers invited the basketball players from WSC and met them.

Coach Nick Pederson introduced each of his wrestlers to the members present. He warned some of the people sitting next to Dan Shernikau to watch out because he's known for sneaking food off other plates. He commented that Dave Ulich is coming down in weight and said he could fall because he's starting to wear other people's clothes.

Then getting to serious business, he forecast to the Second Guessers that the WSC grapplers have a lot of pleasant surprises ahead.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: Once again, WSC wrestling coach Nick Pederson wears the honor of quote of the week. He said something to this effect: "You can tell when you see wrestlers because they don't stare at women, they just look at their plates."

Young Trojan Girls Lack Solid Defense Get Hit Hard By Hartington 49-25

Trojan Rebound

FIGHTING FOR a rebound is Kathy Gustafson of Wakefield. Joan Miller (35), Ardie Barker (44) and Donna Kieckhefer (23) all prepare for action.

Playing without a leading starter, the young Wakefield girls basketball team ran into early foul trouble and couldn't stay with Hartington in a 49-25 loss Thursday night.

Without regular 3-10 starter, Joanne Bartels, Kathy Gustafson and Jackie Lueth both ran into foul trouble early, when the two picked up three personals in the first quarter. Hartington took advantage of the situation to grab a 13-8 lead.

Hartington's man-to-man defense shut down the Trojan offense again the second period and Gustafson soon picked up her fourth foul. Wakefield's defense was weak and the Wildcats took advantage with fast breaking baskets on downcourt passes for a 25-10 halftime lead.

In the third period, Wakefield looked better and with some quick baskets cut the score to 25-22. Then the 5-10 Gustafson fouled out with 3:55 left in the third quarter.

Freshman Rita Wilson entered the game in place of Gustafson and filled her shoes well considering her lack of experience.

The Trojans stayed within six points at 30-24 but two quick Hartington buckets ended the quarter with the Wildcats holding a 34-23 lead.

Lueth fouled out in the game to join Gustafson on the bench and Donna Kieckhefer left the game with an injury with 5:30 remaining in the game. At this point, the Trojans began to make too many mistakes. Kelly Murphy and Ardie Barker played good defense and hit a couple of long shots to keep Wakefield close but that wasn't enough.

Freshmen Rita Wilson, senior Susan Miller and sophomore Joan Miller filled the Trojan positions most of the final period as Hartington pulled away to a 49-25 win.

"Our defense was weak and we had to switch people around because of fouls," Coach Ellie Sluder said after the loss. The Trojans were led in scoring by Barker with 10 points. Julie Herbolzheimer led the Wildcats with 15 followed by Carla Walz with 12.

Wakefield will take a 1-2 record against Wausa Tuesday night at home.

Apprentices Learn Athletic Training

by Rick Pomerville
Special to the Herald

Injuries are a major concern for many high school and college athletes and coaches and the treatment applied to those injuries can be very important to the athlete's recovery rate. Student-athletic trainers in a program at Wayne State College are learning to assist athletes with their injuries.

About 15 WSC students are participating in an apprenticeship program with head WSC athletic trainer, Reggie Swanson, as they practice treating sports-related injuries and earn up to four college credit while gaining hours toward certification through the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

Upon graduation and the passing of a certification test, the students will be certified to both teach and to treat athletic injuries such as sprains, bruises, dislocations and other ailments.

"More and more high schools are demanding qualified trainers on their staffs," Swanson said. "This makes our certified graduates very employable."

Swanson said the WSC program began only last year and is one of only two in Nebraska, the other program is at UNL. He said such programs must be certified by the NATA, which requires a probationary period. He added that WSC is entering that probationary period.

Participants in the WSC program assist Swanson as student-trainers for all college sports. The students also help with the rehabilitation of injured athletes by following programs which have been approved by a physician.

"The minor injuries, we treat without a doctor's examination," Swanson said, "but if a serious injury occurs, we never diagnose the injury. We may suspect what it is, but if it looks serious, we refer the athlete to a physician."

Swanson said that after the injury is diagnosed and treated by a physician, the student trainers help the athlete restore the injury through the use of the WSC training room. Included in those facilities are whirlpool baths, a taping center, ultrasound deep heating machines, hydrocoular (hot pack) machines, infra-red lamps, hot wax machines and a variety of weights and other equipment.

"No matter how serious the injury, that athlete is referred back to the training room to work out," Swanson said. "They do not leave the rehabilitation area before they are ready because such a void just re-injure themselves."

"The trainers work directly with a doctor or team physician," Swanson added. "Many of the methods they learn have been learned from physicians."

Includes Urban Workers. Revise Consumer Price Business Index for Area

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) has been revised to include a larger number of consumers and to reflect changes in consumer purchases of goods and services.

The new consumer price index, the all urban index, has been broadened to cover most urban workers. The old CPI was based on a sample that included only urban households headed by wage earners and clerical workers. This group was believed to include only about 35 to 40 percent of the total population.

The new revision, according to Dr. L. Wayne Dobson, University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration, should cover a wider group of the population than the old index.

This revision should also improve the adequacy of information concerning price changes of purchases by typical urban households.

Professor Dobson, writing in the December issue of "Business in Nebraska" notes that it is necessary to frequently revise the CPI because consumer purchasing patterns change over time. New products are introduced and old habits are slowly changed necessitating a revision in the index. The current index revision required eight years and cost the Bureau of Labor statistics more than $50 million.

The new index shifts the weights of the various components. Using the old wage earners and clerical index, food and beverages constituted approximately 35 percent of all consumer expenditures in 1935-39. This declined to 25 percent in 1963 and 20 percent in 1977. Using the new revised all urban consumers CPI, food and beverages constitute 19 percent of total consumer spending in 1977.

Housing represents another area where there has been a marked shift in the consumer spending pattern over the last few decades. When the first survey was undertaken during the 1930s, housing constituted 34 percent of total consumer spending (old index). Housing constituted 40 percent of consumer spending in the old index in 1977. It absorbed an even larger proportion in the new all urban index budget, 43 percent.

Other consumer expenditure shifts of importance include less funds being spent in the 1970s than the 1930s of apparel; more being spent on transportation, 20 percent in the 1970s versus eight percent in the 1930s; a clear indication of American preference for automobiles, and somewhat more being spent on entertainment in the 1970s than in the 1930s. Medical care and other goods and services absorbed roughly the same proportion of consumer expenditures in the 1970s as in the 1930s.

Prof. Dobson notes that the consumer price index is frequently referred to as the cost of living index. Because of this wide acceptance, ready availability and frequency of publication, CPI is widely used in changing wage and salary payments.

In measuring business in the Wayne area for the period ending in August, the review and outlook shows the area below the average sales gain in the state.

Statewide, the real output increased in August following a sizable decline in July with the physical volume index for the state registering a gain of 0.8 during the month.

The August increase in state economic activity was broadly based, with four of the five sectors registering gains for the month. Those sectors and their July to August increases were: agriculture, 2.9 percent; manufacturing, 2.0 percent; government, 2.0 percent and distributive, 1.5 percent. The index for the construction sector fell 5.4 percent.

Reductions in the agriculture and construction indexes, according to the UNL Bureau of Business Research, were primarily responsible for the rather lackluster performance of the state economy during the first eight months of 1978. These two sectors have experienced respective program is being carried on throughout the year. Although he hasn't kept accurate records for the past two years, Robinson said there were only 31 days in 1976 that they didn't fly. He said more than one-half of those days was because they didn't have any business and the other half was because of the weather.

"We are busy around here and we are working hard to give Wayne a first-class air facility," Robinson said. "And with the continued cooperation of the city and its citizens, we'll get the job done." Robinson summed up
