Walthill Halts Devils Hopes

After winning their first two games of the WSC Holiday Tournament, the Wayne Blue Devils' hopes of winning the championship after a 21 year drought, came to an abrupt end as the Devils were outgun by a strong Walthill team and lost 76-62, Saturday night.

The Blue Devils, who have never won the WSC Tourney since it opened in 1957, made a strong attempt, defeating Genoa 78-62 in the first round and Norfolk Catholic 71-69 in the second round to reach the finals. With 6-4 Perry Nelson out with pneumonia and Jeff Zeiss hampered by a pinched nerve, Wayne was not up to full strength and shot a disappointing 32 percent from the field.

Zeiss, a starting junior guard, missed the first two games of the tournament, suffering with a pinched nerve in his back. He saw action against Walthill but suffered back problems throughout the game. Wayne coach Bill Sharpe said that he estimates the pinched nerve will probably bother Zeiss for a week or so but early next week how long the injury will affect him.

Nelson, the only sophomore starter, is presently recovering from patches of pneumonia. After four or five days of recovery, Sharpe hopes he will be back in action.

The Blue Devils applied early pressure, taking a 6-2 lead on baskets by Brad Emry and Tom Ginn.

Walthill came back in its usual run-and-gun offense. The invaders, now 8-0 for the season, used the fast break to their advantage led by Ed Stansberry and John Miller, to score 15 unanswered points for a 17-6 lead.

"It seemed like we were stuck on six forever," Coach Bill Sharpe said. "We got three quick buckets and then nothing." I was a little disappointed finishing second. I felt we had a good shot at the title but we don't have the championship experience Walthill has."

After falling behind 17-6, Ginn hit a basket to break the dry spell. The Devils cut Walthill's lead to 17-11 but could get no closer. Walthill held on for a 23-13 first quarter lead advantage. Wayne played its opponents a near-even game for the remaining three quarters but couldn't overcome Walthill.

Led by tournament Most Valuable Player Brad Emry, the Blue Devils cut the Walthill lead to six points at 49-43 in the third quarter but Walthill scored the next six points for a 60-45 lead. Emry earned Most Valuable Player honors by scoring 63 points for the tourney with fine hustle. Teammate Tom Ginn was named to the All-Tournament team by the coaches for his fine play in the tourney also.

With good fourth quarter performances by Jeff Dion and Randy Dunklau, Wayne didn't give up. The Blue Devils gave their best effort but fell short to a well-balanced Walthill team 76-62.

"Walthill is an awfully good ball club," Sharpe stated. "They played Dunklau, Wayne's star, very tight during the game. Every time we play them (Feb. 9) we'll play them differently. We took bad shots and let them dictate too much. If we were at full strength, it would have been an extremely close game."

Wayne, with a field goal average of 32 percent and a free throw average of 71 percent was led in scoring by Emry with 22, Ginn with 15 and Dion with 10 points. Of the 53 team rebounds, Ginn grabbed the most with 17. Walthill held a 67 percent from the field, 67 percent from the charity stripe and pulled down 54 rebounds. The team was led by four players in double figures. All-tourney player Ed Stansberry scored 19 points. Perry Miller hit 16, Russ Stansberry scored 18 and John Miller added 14.

Genoa Becomes First Round Wayne Victim

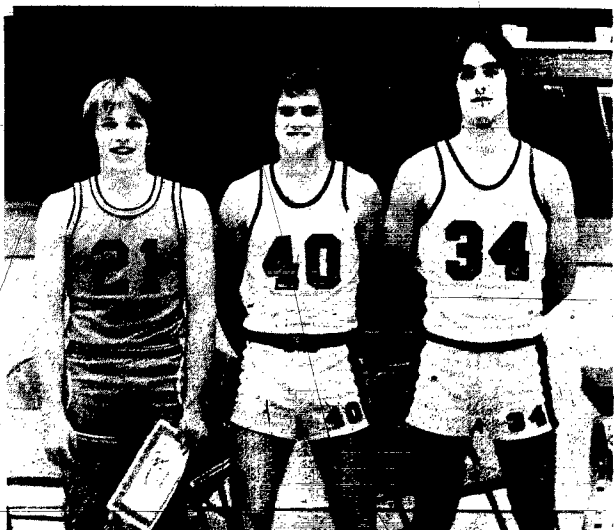

The Wayne Blue Devils used an effective fast-break to roll past Genoa 78-62 in the first round of the WSC Holiday Tourney Thursday.

"We've been working on our fast-break a lot," Coach Bill Sharpe said. "We felt quickness was one of our strong points and we executed the fast-break well against Genoa."

The Blue Devils had little trouble with their weak first round opponent, jumping out in front 22-6 at the end of the first quarter. Starter Perry Nelson missed this game and the next two because of pneumonia.

Four Wayne players scored in double figures because of other balanced attack. Tom Ginn led the team with 22 points, Emry hit 16, Randy Dunklau scored 12 and Jeff Zeiss followed with 11. The Blue Devils hit 50 percent from the field with 36 field goals in 72 attempts. Genoa shot only 28 percent. Wayne dominated the boards outbounding their opponents 57-27.

Wayne, which led by 24 points at one time, held on for a 48-22 halftime lead, a 56-40 third quarter advantage and a final 78-62 victory. The win advanced the Devils into second round action. Friday against Norfolk Catholic, Wayne was led by Tom Ginn with 22 points and Bob Anderson with 9.

Late Dunklau Bucket Sends Devils To Finals

Randy Dunklau stole a pass with six seconds left in the game and scored the winning basket on a layup at the buzzer as the Wayne Blue Devils pulled an amazing comeback to nip Norfolk Catholic 73-69 in the semifinals of the WSC Holiday Tourney Friday night. The win put Wayne in the finals against undefeated Walthill Saturday.

Brad Emry and Tom Ginn combined for 51 points as the Blue Devils dumped the number one seed. Norfolk Catholic entered the game with a 5-1 record and a first round bye while Wayne held a 4-2 record with 78-62 trouncing of Genoa in the opening round.

Without regular starter Jeff Zeiss and Perry Nelson in the lineup, Wayne fell behind early. Zeiss missed the game with a pinched nerve in his back while Nelson was in bed suffering with patches of pneumonia. Al Nissen played much of the game with the Devils trailing on their bench.

Wayne trailed all during the game, including a 16 point deficit late in the game. Making its winning surge, although Emry and Ginn dominated the scoring, Coach Bill Sharpe fell everyone on the team contributed to the win.

"I thought this was the best effort the team has given," Sharpe said. "The players could have laid down and played dead when they were behind, but they hung in there and did a good job. Everyone made key plays at times."

"We got off to a real poor start but came on strong," Sharpe stated. "We outlasted them, they (Norfolk Catholic) didn't put their hearts into defense at times. They're a good team though."

The Blue Devils gradually cut the lead from 11 after the first quarter to eight at half-time and seven at the end of the first period. Then, in the final quarter Wayne overcame the lead to earn its fifth victory of the season.

Trailing by a score of 69-65 with less than a minute left in the game, Emry hit an excellent shot to close the gap to two points. He stole a pass on the following series and fed Ginn for a basket, tying the game at 69.

The Knights brought the ball down court, hoping to hit the final basket when Dunklau stole the ball and broke down court for the winning score.

The Blue Devils held command of the boards, outbounding Norfolk Catholic 54-28. Wayne shot 44 percent from the field and the same percentage from the free throw line while the Norfolkans hit 41 percent from the floor and 68 percent at the line.

Catholic was led in scoring by five players in double figures. Kevin Schutt scored 16 points, Tim Belitz hit 13, Greg Dostal scored 12, Todd Sook tallied 12 and Tim Brungardt added 11.

Devils Edge Burwell '5'

Although not playing up to their potential, the Wayne Blue Devils girls pulled a late rally to top Burwell 42-40 in Wayne's opening game of the WSC Holiday Tourney, Friday night.

The Devils fell behind 13-6 at the end of the first quarter when their shots wouldn't fall through the hoop.

Both teams were cold in the second quarter scoring only four points apiece for a 17-10 stand at half. Trailing by 10 points early in the third period, Wayne cut the Burwell lead down with patience.

Peg Pinkelman, Jolene Bennett and Lesa Barclay sparked Wayne in the second half with several baskets and suddenly the game was tied at 28 when Bennett hit a basket with 6:45 remaining in the game.

The lead jumped back and forth until Susie Proett and Barclay teamed up for a steal and fed Bennett under the basket. She hit the bucket making the score 36-34. Proett scored another basket to put Wayne on top 38-34.

Burwell cut the Wayne lead to two points but Julia Dorcay scored for a 40-36 count. With 12 seconds left in the game, Pinkelman stole a pass and passed off to Bennett who was fouled. She made two free throws to put the game on ice. A last second Burwell score made the final score 42-40.

Kittens 4th At Chadron

The Wayne State Wildkittens used their best play up to the season to capture fourth place in the Chadron Holiday Tournament, this past week. The Chadron Tourney, which drew eight college women's teams, is said to be the largest basketball tournament in the country, with 48 teams total involved in the high school and college competition.

The Kittens opened first round action against Okanago State College and fell to the powerful team 83-68. Despite the loss, WSC coach Helen Carroll said that her team played "an excellent ball game." All-tourney player Lori Erwin led the Wildkittens with 23 points, followed by Ann Hamlin with 14 points.

In the consolation bracket, Wayne State met Dakota State in the first round. The Wildkittens were once again led by Lori Erwin as they jumped out in front and never trailed. WSC held 10 to 15 point lead during much of the game and held on to win 62-59 to advance to the consolation finals.

Coach Carroll credited her club with good team play especially in the first half of the game. She then emphasized the tough competition in the tournament. Erwin led the attack with 20 points and Lynne Larson followed with 10 points.

In the consolation finals, Wayne State came out strong with a good fast break to get an early lead over Dickinson State. The Kittens held a commanding lead throughout the game and went into the locker room at half-time with a 38-20 advantage. Every Wayne player in the game scored as the Wildkittens claimed fourth place with an 81-56 win.

Erwin again led WSC with 21 points, followed closely by Barb Bethin with 20 points and Lynne Larson with 10.

After the tournament, Lori Erwin was selected All-Tourney for her outstanding performance. Coach Carroll described Erwin as "an outstanding sophomore ball player." She then went on to say that the team play was coming together and her team's confidence would pick up as conference play begins.

"I was really pleased with our performance," Carroll said. "The team went in with the kind of record you try to forget and they played real well. Our performance should help us in the future games."

Wayne High Girls Claim WSC Title

After rallying to defeat Burwell in the first round action of the WSC Holiday Tourney, the Wayne girls basketball team put on a strong performance to defeat Randolph 53-34 and grab the championship title Saturday night.

Unlike the previous night, the Blue Devils jumped out on top early and never trailed. Wayne took a 12-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The girls established a 21-8 lead with 3:15 left in the first half and held Randolph scoreless during the second period for a 25-8 lead at the halfway mark. Trailing by 17 points, Randolph used the entire half-time to practice shooting.

With good passing, Peg Pinkelman and Lesa Barclay gunned outside shots to put the game out of range. Julia Dorcay added some spark to the offense outside and Jolene Bennett dominated underneath.

Wayne's big lead was cut by Frye brought in his reserve players to let them gain some experience. Shelly Davis, Lynn Surber, Jenny DeTurk and Susie Proett took over where the first team left off, demonstrating their abilities.

"We had more confidence in our shooting against Randolph. We received nice scoring from our guards," Coach Frye said. "I wish we could have shot outside against Burwell like we did against Randolph."

Frye had this to say about his second team players, "We've got the kind of person where our younger people will get the job done. I don't have any qualms about substituting. Although our young players aren't big, they look good."

Wayne, now 5-1, was led by Pinkelman and Barclay with 12

Three WHS Girls All-Tourney

The Wayne Blue Devils, champions of the girls division in the WSC Holiday Tourney, placed three team members to the All-Tourney team announced Saturday.

Selected to the team were 5-7 senior Peg Pinkelman, 5-7 senior Lesa Barclay and 5-10 junior Jolene Bennett. The Wayne players were joined by Shelly Jurgensen of Burwell and Theresa Nannan of Randolph.

The three Blue Devils led their team to the championship title with a 42-40 win over Burwell and a 53-34 win over Randolph in the round robin competition.

SELECTED TO THE All-Tourney team in the WSC Tourney are Wayne players Lesa Barclay, Jolene Bennett and Peg Pinkelman. Tourney coordinator Del Stoltenberg presented the awards.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

ACCOMPANYING THE NEW YEAR in its new look in my column. I was getting tired of looking at the same old column head so I made a change. During the past I wrote my column inconspicuously, figuring if no one saw my picture, no one would recognize me and therefore no one would complain to me.

However, it was suggested that I put my picture on my column head so here it is, in 1979.

THE SECOND GUESSERS helped during the Wayne State College Holiday this past week. WSC coach Del Stoltenberg did a fine job as journey coordinator, and I'm sure he appreciated the assistance he received from the Second Guessers.

I can name several of the Second Guessers who helped with the tourney but because I can't name them all, it's not fair to name any of them. They deserve special recognition for donating their valuable time to make the WSC Tourney a success.

IN THE AFTERLIGHT of the Orange Bowl, Nebraska fans are disappointed that the Huskers couldn't beat the Sooners again. But, at least the players and coaches are making no excuses. The Huskers were just outplayed by one of the better teams in the country.

In the previous meeting between the two teams last season, Nebraska played the better game. The Big Red defense was stingy and hard-hitting in the Orange Bowl, the NU defense had a long night. But regardless of the outcome, Nebraska fans should be proud of the comeback attempt.

Some of the Oklahoma players still can't admit, that they were outplayed in the first meeting between the two schools. After gaining revenge, Billy Sims stated, "I think we're the greatest team in the country. We only beat ourselves this year. Nobody beat us." Even the Heisman Trophy winner didn't have enough courage to admit that they were beaten outright on the field by Nebraska the first time.

Sooner coach Barry Switzer said that the Sooners led to Nebraska because of their own fumbles, not Cornhusker superiorly. He added that the difference in the Orange Bowl was that Oklahoma didn't fumble. Sorry, Barry, but the difference was that Nebraska didn't FORCE fumbles this time, and the Oklahoma game plan prevailed.

WAY BACK in early September, I forecast my Top 20 college football predictions. Now that the season is over, I guess it's time to compare my post-season ratings with the pre-season picks I made.

Before the season began, I picked Oklahoma to finish as national champions. After the Orange Bowl game, I feel they still deserve the number one ranking. In September, I ranked Arkansas number two and Alabama number three. This time I give the nods to Southern Cal and Alabama respectively.

Southern Cal moves up immensely from the number 16 pre-season slot to number two. I give them possession of second because they had a very successful season and because they defeated Alabama.

Some of my more accurate predictions were Michigan, Nebraska and UCLA. Some of my least accurate picks were Kentucky, Ohio State, Michigan State, Clemson and Colorado.

Anyway, it was fun to see how my first ratings compare with my last. Of course, my final ratings are unlike those of AP, UPI or any other ranking system in the country. Comparing my ratings with the national ratings of AP or UPI might draw a few chuckles, but then, without a playoff system, who's to say who is really number one? Or in any position for that matter?

IN THE LAST ISSUE of the Wayne Herald, (way back when) I had an error in my column. I reviewed some of the top stories of 1978, and printed one mistake.

I said that Wayne wrestler Kirk Echtenkamp qualified for state in February 1978. Unfortunately there was a mistake in the article where I found my information.

Rick Lutt was the wrestler who qualified for the state tournament. Rick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Lutt. He is currently on the road to state qualifications again, as he sports a perfect record at this time.

Laurel Girls Up & Down Finish 3rd In Tourney

The Laurel girls basketball team opened tournament action with one of its worst games this season losing to Norfolk Catholic 44-35 and then rebounded with one of its best games to defeat Pender 58-43. The win gave Laurel, 3-4, third place in the Hartington Tourney.

In the consolation game, the Bears gradually built a slim lead into a big edge and rolled on to a 58-43 victory.

Deanna Manz hit a three-point play in the second quarter and Lisa Galvin added some baskets as Laurel moved from an 11-8 lead after one quarter to a 26-16 halftime advantage.

Pender, using poor shot selection, missed numerous outside shots but bothered Laurel with its press forcing 42 turnovers by the Bears.

Roxie Kraemer played an aggressive game, hustling down court on every play and breaking open for downcourt passes. The Pendragons cut the Laurel lead to seven points at 46-39 with 3:37 remaining, but the Bears pulled away for good.

Paula Chase scored four straight points to lead the Laurel charge for a 56-41 lead with a minute left in the game. The two teams exchanged last minute baskets and the final score was 58-43.

Four girls led the Bears by scoring in double figures. Paula Chase led with 14 points, followed by Kay Anderson at 13, Roxie Kraemer with 12 and Deanna Manz with 10.

Except for turnovers, this was probably our best game all year and last night's was our worst," Coach Ev Jensen said, comparing his team's performance against Pender and Norfolk Catholic on consecutive nights.

In the opening round against Norfolk Catholic, Laurel was cold from the floor all night, hitting only 20 percent.

"It was just one of those evenings," Coach Jensen said. "We didn't know we could play that poorly." Besides shooting poorly from the field, the Bears turned the ball over 30 times, missed layups and played lackadaisically according to Jensen.

Ginn, Emry, All-Tourney

Although finishing second to Walthill in the WSC Holiday Tourney, the Wayne Blue Devils dominated the All-Tourney team selected by coaches, and announced following trophy presentations, Saturday.

Bred Emry, a six foot senior, scored 63 points in the tournament and showed aggressiveness throughout the competition. He was named Most Valuable Player for his fine performance.

Tom Ginn, also a six foot senior, also scored 63 points and led the team in rebounds during the tourney. He was selected to the All-Tourney team along with Emry and three other players. Coaches selected to the team were 6-4 junior Jeff Hoppes of Burwell, 5-11 junior Gary Giffich of Valley and 5-6 senior Ed Stansberry of Walthill. Players were chosen by opposing coaches.

"I'm happy for both of them, (Ginn and Emry)," Wayne coach Bill Sharpe said. "I'm tickled to death that they made the team. Coaches can't vote for their own players so I'm happy they were recognized. Ginn is a good player inside and Emry is tough from outside. I expect both players to average in the 20 point range for the rest of the year," Sharpe added.

Hawkins, Roberts Lead Winside Into Finals

The Winside Wildcats, led by Bob Hawkins and Paul Roberts with 22 points each, stormed by Coleridge 64-46 Tuesday night in the first round of the Coleridge Holiday Tourney.

Winside outscored the host team 18-3 in the first quarter to establish a lead that could not be broken. Chuck Peter added 14 points to the team's performance and grabbed eight rebounds.

The Wildcats will meet the Wynot Osmond winner Friday at 8 p.m. in Coleridge. In quest for the championship, Winside, now 4-1, lost to Wynot earlier in the season while defeating Osmond.

The winners shot 51 percent from the field compared to Coleridge's 25 percent. George Herner and Larry Huss led them with 12 points and 10 points respectively.

C.C. Ski Trails Open At Three State Parks

Cross-country ski trails in three Nebraska State Parks are open now, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. Skiers have taken to the trails at Chadron, Fort Robinson, and Ponca state parks while Indian Cave State Park and the Schramm Nature Trail are waiting for adequate snow cover.

The Commission opened the trails last winter, using summertime hiking and horse trails, unpaved roads and other terrain suitable to cross-country skiing. Trails are marked with the national ski touring symbols, and trail maps are available at the park offices or from Game and Parks Commission district offices.

Cross-country ski equipment is relatively inexpensive, compared to the downhill variety. First-timers may want to rent the gear before purchasing it. Lincoln and Omaha are well stocked with rental shops, while in greater Nebraska, rental shops have opened in Chadron and at Falls City near Indian Cave State Park.

Cross-country, or ski touring, is an energetic activity, and participants should remember not to overdress for an outing. Light clothing that draws perspiration away from the body and is loose to allow freedom of movement is recommended. Wearing three layers is best, the outer layer to protect against matting snow and wind.

For current snow conditions call the park office. A weekly report is also available from the Commission's Lincoln office, (402) 464-0641.

Laurel Second In Own Tourney

After edging Pierce in overtime Thursday night, the Laurel Bears ran into a good, quick team from Hartington. High in the finals of the Laurel Holiday Tourney Friday and fell to the Wildcats 53-35. The loss gave the host team second place.

Laurel stayed with Hartington early in the game but ran into a cold spell with the score tied 6-6. Then, the visitors scored six straight points for a 12-8 advantage. Led by the ball handling and passing of Don Dalton, Laurel moved within two points at the quarter mark, 14-12.

The game remained close until with two minutes left in the first half, the Bears lost their composure and fell behind 28-20 at the half. Steve Anderson kept Laurel within striking range with 18 points but the defense sagged and mistakes were costly as the Wildcats moved out of range.

A basket by Paul Guern at the third quarter buzzer kept Laurel within 12 points at 39-27. The bears couldn't get within 10 points during the final stanza as Hartington hit nearly 81 percent from the free throw line.

The loss drops Laurel's record to 2-5.

Chief Justice sworn in

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
LINCOLN — Before a packed house in the East Senate Chamber, Norman Krivosha of Lincoln was sworn in as Nebraska's 19th chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Administering the oath was Gov. J. James Egan, who selected Krivosha from a list submitted by a judicial nominating commission.

The new chief justice succeeded Paul White, who resigned unexpectedly last September.

After taking his oath on his family's Bible, with his wife, Helene, and daughter, Rhonda, at his side, Krivosha urged that those in the judiciary not be afraid to take innovative approaches aimed at better delivery of the judicial system's services.

Egan, who said he gave more time and consideration to appointments to the bench than any duty he had during eight years as governor, said he was "sure Norman Krivosha will be another distinguished chief justice."

Spokesman for the Supreme Court during the ceremony was Associate Justice Harry A. Spencer of Lincoln. He has been pro tem head of the court since White's resignation and himself will soon retire from the high court.

Spencer also said the backlog of cases that has built up "will require innovative procedures" if the court wants to get and stay current.

Spencer, who taught Krivosha in law school, told him "From the way you have taken hold, by every criteria, you meet the test of a great chief justice."

The swearing-in ceremony attracted a large delegation of representatives of the federal and state court systems, as well as a number of legislative and Exon administration leaders.

The Krivoshas' other daughter, Terri, could not attend. She is a student in Israel and sent a letter which her sister read as part of the ceremony.

Works and Appropriations committees have a chance to go over its details, Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora said recently.

He made the comment following a four-hour hearing during which representatives of Nebraska's varied water interests gave their views on the plan.

Many of the comments dealt with proposals for a citizens advisory committee and an inter-agency water planning council.

Kremer said he would probably support a statutory inter-agency council that would answer directly to the Natural Resources Commission. The Aurora lawmaker added he would also like a citizens advisory committee functioning under present statutory authorities.

Those testifying expressed mixed reactions to the blueprint. One said irrigators were allowed to give their ideas on what should be in the plan but wildlife and environmental interests were not.

Keith Harmon of Firth, a spokesman for the Wildlife Management Institute, advocated a strong public advisory committee representing the views of all water interests.

Most spokesmen for the natural resources districts said they were against a statutory inter-agency water planning council and suggested the lawmakers retain control of the planning with the Natural Resources Commission.

George Kleen of Franklin, past president of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, questioned how staff agencies, "each jealous of its own staffs and programs," could agree.

But Jack Ogdard, the executive director of the Nebraska Water Resources Association, said the inter-agency council would be a good idea. He argued it would enable the different agencies to coordinate their activities and cut unnecessary duplication.

Recommending a prohibition on further surface water withdrawals and tighter restrictions on putting down new wells in critical areas until the studies are completed and policies are set was Robert Warrick of Meadow Grove. He's the chairman of the Nebraska Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Thone said he expects to recommend a 6.5 percent salary increase for state employees in his first budget proposal.

He declined to go into details of the plan until it had been run through a computer. Thone did say the proposal is being drawn so that some savings could be realized through adjustments in policies dealing with travel expenses and personnel replacement.

The plan apparently would meet the 7 percent wage increase guidelines of the Carter administration.

As 1978 was drawing to a close, Thone still had not made a number of key appointments for his administration.

The positions still to be filled included those of the state tax commissioner, insurance director and labor commissioner.

Some questions were raised almost immediately after Thone said his choice for state personnel director was Janet Pieper. Some persons wondered whether Mrs. Pieper, administrative assistant to the dean of arts and sciences at the University of Nebraska, satisfied the statutory requirements for personnel director.

Thone said the matter was checked very carefully and the conclusion was that Mrs. Pieper's experience was in "substantial compliance" with what the law requires.

Thone said that appointment and others would probably be submitted to the attorney general just to make sure everything was in order.

Partisan Legislature Talk

Just before the Legislature convened for the 1979 session, many of the legislators were asked how they felt about changing the non-partisan Unicameral into a partisan body.

Most of those polled were against the idea, arguing they can represent their districts better by being free to act without political party interference or influence.

There were others, though, who said the concept has merit and should at least be put before the people for a vote.

Sen. Loren Schmit of Bellwood, who likes the present system, said if the people really wanted the change "we would have had it long ago."

Heavy thumb of inflation

President
Chamber of Commerce
of the United States

WASHINGTON — Thanks to American ingenuity, we are now able to make different temperatures and wind velocities and tell us when it is raining on the planet 135 million miles away.

While Pioneer Venus I circled Venus, a fleet of four space probes recently descended through the cloud covered, superheated atmosphere of the planet, sending back data that will shed light on centuries old scientific mysteries and help us to better understand Earth's environment.

"This experiment," said one scientist, "is as precise as seeing the minute hand on a watch that is 3,000 miles away."

The stream of valuable scientific information will continue for a year as the orbiter circles the planet every 24 hours.

Truly a great human achievement, and another notable American "first" in space.

But, here on earth, we are still toddlers when it comes to being able to tell where we are getting our money's worth in benefits from the estimated $100 billion a year spent on government regulation of the economy.

The state of the art — our ability to assess the costs and benefits of regulation, weighing one against the other — is in its "infancy," according to a high-level government report.

Wayne L. Granquist, an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), passed along that startling information to a group of Senators not long ago.

In his testimony, he also indicated that the only reliable data available was on costs (not benefits) of environmental regulations and federal paperwork.

"In some cases, we are certain that large costs are imposed with little benefit," Granquist said.

A report cited by him, concluding we are still in our infancy in cost-benefit analysis, was made by the Department of Commerce, which reviewed some 40 different studies.

This news from top government sources comes as something of a shock to many of us who have been advocating that the government develop and use these analytical techniques, particularly on environmental rules that add billions to operating costs of industry.

Private economic studies have shown for months that government regulatory requirements are a significant cause of inflation. When he appeared before the same Senate group, Robert S. Strauss, the Senator's inflation adviser, agreed Strauss and Granquist, of course, hold highly responsible jobs, working with other government officials to implement President Carter's mandate to start cleaning up the regulatory mess. I cannot endorse those efforts too strongly.

The public is becoming increasingly dismayed over excessive and unreasonable regulatory expense and burdens, not with reasonable safeguards against pollution, unhealthy working conditions, unsafe products and fraud and deceit in the marketplace. Government's responsibility is to keep costs of regulation in balance with benefits that accrue to the public.

But while the government is getting its act together, consumers and business alike should give thought to the role of Congress. Regulators make the rules and implement the laws — but Congress enacts the laws.

Giving Congress the right to review and veto agency regulations would give the public a check on regulatory activity it now does not have. This is a good idea and one that already has gained strong support in the House of Representatives.

Over 200 members of the 95th Congress endorsed the veto concept.

It could be a much needed safeguard against regulatory excesses — and failures in such essential matters as cost-benefit analysis.

Law worth repealing

RICHARD L. LESHER, President
Chamber of Commerce
of the United States

WASHINGTON — If you have never heard of the Davis-Bacon Act, do not despair. Your friends will not fault you for shirking your duty as an informed citizen and taxpayer. They probably never heard of it either.

Few Americans are aware of the Act. It is a relatively obscure federal law, only three pages long, enacted almost 50 years ago to protect workers in the 1930's Depression from low wages. In the 1920's workers did not have unemployment compensation and welfare to fall back on. While the law may have served a purpose then, it is obsolete in today's economy. It should be repealed.

But it is a sacred cow to organized labor, particularly the unions of highly paid construction workers, and their friends in Congress. Davis-Bacon operates to ensure the widest possible application of union wage scales on federally funded or assisted construction projects, including highways, hospitals, and airports.

It also is an inflationary law — and unnecessarily has cost taxpayers billions of dollars over the years in excessive wages costs, as Congress will soon be reminded again, not by business but by one of its investigative agencies.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) recently completed a draft of a massive report recommending repeal of the Act. The findings, still unofficial, are being circulated among top government officials for comment and reaction. While the report may be modified by the time it is released and perhaps sharply criticized by labor, the Davis-Bacon Act does not come off well in the draft. The basic findings are already a matter of common knowledge and simply confirm what has been known for years about the law.

The basic findings are worth summarizing briefly. But first a word about how the Act requires the massive report to be established minimum wages on its projects. In the Depression this was intended to prevent itinerant contractors from coming into a community and undercutting local builders by importing cheap labor.

The minimum wage was to be being the "prevailing" wage in a community or locality. In actual practice, this has meant wages paid under union contracts, even though unions today represent only slightly more than a third of the industry's workers. Instead of the prevailing wage, the Act has tended to make the highest-paid wage to prevailing pay.

The GAO draft drew these conclusions:

- Significant changes in economic conditions and the character of the industry have changed drastically since the 1930's. The law is no longer necessary.
- Despite 50 years of experience, the Labor Department has failed to master the complex and difficult if not impractical task of issuing and maintaining current and accurate wage information.
- The Act results in unnecessary construction costs of about $200 million a year, based on the sample GAO surveys of projects, plus some $215 million in administrative costs borne by the government and employers.

Similar findings have been made over the years by such respected institutions as the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, noted economists such as Arthur F. Burns, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and the GAO itself.

Since government currently is responsible for funding 25 percent or more of all construction, wages set on its projects impact indirectly on all construction, bidding up wages.

The report itself is voluminous, running into hundreds of pages. It is one document the nation's inflation fighters, from President Carter on down, cannot ignore. It is time for both President Carter and the Congress to face up to the withering array of economic facts, but to shallow political considerations aside and rid the nation of this key source of inflation.

In any event, Remember Davis-Bacon! It's a ripoff!

Economic activity to slacken

LINCOLN — The rate of expansion of economic activity in 1979 will likely be somewhat below that recorded in 1978, according to a report published in "Business in Nebraska."

Income and employment will advance to record levels in 1979 and the country should manage to escape a recession although there will be a noticeable slowdown in the economy.

The economic forecast for 1979 was prepared by Dr. Donald E. Pursell, director of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration's Bureau of Business Research. The forecast looks for an approximate 2 percent increase in real Gross National Product in 1979. (Real Gross National makes allowance for price increases.) In constant dollars, gross national product was forecast to an annual rate of $1,423 trillion during the fourth quarter of 1979.

At a special meeting of the congressional Sunday, Rev. Erwin G. Bernthal of Sheridan, Wyo. was invited to fill the pastorate of Grace Lutheran Church. A.L. Swan was named president of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the board of directors Monday night.

The widely anticipated recession will likely not materialize in 1979. Economists define a recession as two consecutive quarters during which real output fails to grow. The economy's rate of growth is expected to slow considerably in 1979 but will probably remain positive over 1979 and technically avoid a recession if a recession should develop, it will be mild and of less intensity than the 1973-75 recession.

The Bureau's report indicates that there are several positive economic indicators which would seem to indicate that a recession is unlikely in 1979. The series of leading economic indicators, a composite of indicators which foretell changes in the direction of economic activity are still pointing upward. Retail sales and personal income gains have been substantial through the third quarter of 1978 and can be taken as an indication of further strength in 1979.

The most discouraging economic factor for 1979 centers on prices. Inflation is expected to average somewhat more than 8 percent during 1979 and could for brief periods attain double digit levels. The momentum of price increases remains rather strong and the nation's money supply has expanded at approximately 10 to 10 percent a year for the past two or three years almost insuring inflation in 1979.

The decline in the value of the dollar on international markets, according to Pursell, will add one further inflationary factor. Producers will find it easier to increase their prices since foreign competition is reduced through a decline in the value of the dollar and raw materials which Americans must import from abroad will increase in dollar terms. Unfortunately, food prices are rising once again after having modest increases in 1977.

Economic prospects for Nebraska in 1979 are slightly more optimistic than for the nation, Pursell writes. Employment is fairly evenly distributed across many industries in Nebraska and is not subject to substantial fluctuations that characterized employment in other parts of the country. Employment is forecast to increase by approximately 1 1/2 percent in 1979 with rather even distribution among manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, and services. Unemployment will remain well below the national average, once again in Nebraska.

Personal income is expected to expand in Nebraska more or less in line with the rate of inflation. Personal income crossed the $12 billion level during the fourth quarter of 1978, approximately 10 percent above year earlier levels. The 1978 increase in personal income was largely an inflationary gain with only one or two percent being attributable to real income gain.

Personal income for Nebraska's will continue to expand in 1979 and the rate will approximate the 10 percent recorded in 1978. It was forecast to exceed $23 billion by the fourth quarter of 1979. While Nebraskans can expect to see higher incomes, gains will be offset by increasing prices and higher taxes, particularly social security taxes. Real income will change very little in Nebraska in 1979.

Certain segments of the state's agriculture base are in a relatively promising position. In particular, cattle prices appear to be headed higher in 1979 although this increase may not develop until the last half of the year. Grain prices remain relatively depressed and offer little scope for income improvement.

For most Nebraskans, 1979 will be about as prosperous as 1978, a reasonably good year not a boom or a bust, writes Pursell.

"Cocoons" May Be New Style Silage Storage Method

A new concept in silage storage may prove an attractive alternative for farmers and ranchers looking for a compromise between permanent, vertical silos and their larger cousins, the bunker silos.

Looking like long, shiny white cocoons from another world, the new silage storage system using "silo press bags" is making its appearance across the nation and may become a familiar sight in Nebraska.

Dr. Terry Klopfenstein, professor of animal science in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is using the silo press bags in his research of various types of silage mixtures.

Klopfenstein described the storage system as a 100-foot long plastic tube or bag, 8-feet in diameter. It can hold from 75 to 80 tons of silage.

The system, which was developed in West Germany and brought to the United States three or four years ago, has several advantages over conventional silage systems.

Klopfenstein said the flexible bags are "Beautiful for silage research." Because of the bag's low cost, approximately $2 per hour, he said he can afford to fill a large number of the bags with various silage mixtures for his research programs.

"It would be economically impossible to build the number of permanent vertical silos we need for our research," he said. "For stockmen the silage bag's greatest advantage is its flexibility. Klopfenstein said, 'Stockmen can put the bag anywhere they have a fairly level piece of ground.'"

The bags would preclude the need of hauling the silage cuttings to a permanent silo, and later reloading and hauling the finished silage to the cattle. Klopfenstein said that with the press bags, farmers or ranchers can make their silage in the field and even let cattle feed directly from the silage pile.

Of equal advantage is the high quality of the silage the bag system produces and its excellent storage capabilities.

Klopfenstein said the plastic bag, relative to bunker storage, decreases the amount of silage fermentation, which results in a more nutritious feed. Because the bags are airtight, the silage is better protected from spoilage due to molds and bacteria, he said.

Although the silage system has its advantages, Klopfenstein said there are some drawbacks.

He said one of the system's disadvantages is the time and labor needed to fill the bags.

A special machine connected to a tractor compacts the silage into the bags. As the bag fills, the compacting machine and tractor are pushed slowly ahead. Klopfenstein said one or two hours are needed to fill one of the 100-foot long bags.

Removal of the silage also can be a problem, Klopfenstein said. The occurrence of mud in the winter months, when silage is most generally used, can cause difficulties.

The bags are not on a cement platform, waste results from the unavoidable scooping up of mud with the silage. Klopfenstein said that although cement platforms underneath the bags overcome the mud problem, they defeat the flexibility of the bag system and greatly increase the system's cost.

The cost of the plastic bags, which are a petroleum based product, will continue to rise with the increasing cost of oil. Klopfenstein said. He added that the bags are not reusable and tend to shred and blow with the wind — which the neighbors do not appreciate.

Klopfenstein noted proposals to lengthen and to increase the diameter of the silage bags, which would help lower the ratio of bag cost to amount of silage stored.

The animal scientist said that because of the compacting machine's limited use per year it probably would be to the stockman's advantage to buy a machine cooperatively, or to contract the work done.

Because the larger bunker type silos are more economical for large cattle operations, Klopfenstein said "it seems to me that the silo system would not fit the needs of a large operator. I think it would fit the small operator or occasional user the best."

He said every potential user would have to weigh the system's advantages and disadvantages before deciding if it would work in his particular operation.

Population Down, More On Large Farms

While total farm population is declining, more people are living on the larger farms which produce the bulk of the nation's food and fiber, according to a study released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Although the total farm population declined during the 1970-75 study, the number of people living on farms with annual sales greater than $40,000 increased by 76 percent, said demographer Vera J. Banks of the department's Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service (ESCS).

A substantial but undetermined part of this increase was associated with inflation of farm product prices during the period. The farms with over $40,000 in sales account for about 80 percent of total U.S. farm receipts but only 24 percent of the U.S. farm population.

Banks said that in 1975, farms with under $2,500 in annual sales contained a third of the U.S. farm population, or about 2.8 million. This compares with 3.6 million in 1970. Operators of these farms usually earn most of their money income from off-farm sources.

In 1975, two-thirds of the total U.S. farm population lived on livestock and cash-grain farms. Single free copies of the report, "Farm Population Trends and Farm Characteristics" (RRR-3), are available from ESCS Publications, 0054-S, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250. Pig Show In Columbus

A feeder pig show will be held Feb. 15 in conjunction with the Nebraska Feeder Pig Exposition at Platte County Agricultural Park, in Columbus. Show time is 1:30 p.m.

Each producer, farm or firm is limited to two pens of five feeder pigs that must average at least 35 pounds but not more than 60 pounds. All pigs must be farrowed on the farm or firm of exhibitor. While pigs should be clean for the live show, no credit will be given for special fitting.

After pigs are weighed on the show date, the entries will be divided into three weight divisions. All animals exhibited will be sold to and fed by a cooperating pork producer with growth and carcass data collected.

Entry blanks are available from show chairman Grant Groeluesch, Rt. No. 1 Box 148, Columbus, Nebraska 68601. Entries are due Feb. 9 with the first 70 pens of five being accepted.

Computer Checks Imported Meat

Space-age technology is being used by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to help inspect meat that importers want to bring into the country.

"It's a highly advanced computer system, developed by the department's Food Safety and Quality Service to help its inspectors examine the imported meat products faster and more efficiently."

"The system has been in operation since October," said Jesse Oliver, of the service's Philadelphia office, who explained how the "Import Information System" worked.

"We have computer terminals at the major ports of entry. They tie in with a central computer at the service's Hyattsville, Md., office. When a meat shipment arrives from abroad," Oliver said, "an examiner at the port enters information from the importer's application into the system. The Hyattsville computer checks its memory bank to classify the product and determine the foreign establishment's compliance record."

"Based on the product's history, the computer prints out assignments for the meat inspector to follow. These tell him what inspection procedures, tests and sampling are necessary to assure that the meat or poultry product is wholesome and safe to eat."

"The system does not eliminate personal inspection," said Oliver. "The computer helps the inspector at the port by giving him a scientific sampling pattern to follow so his examination will let him truly judge the acceptability of the entire shipment. Overall, said Oliver, the system means tighter control of imported meat products. About seven percent of this country's meat supply is imported."

Oliver said when the Food Safety and Quality Service inspector completes his assignments, he enters the results into the computer system, thus updating the product history for further reference by inspectors at any of the other ports of entry in the system. In this way the system forms a nationwide network.

Oliver gave a recent example of how the system works. "One of the service's inspectors stopped a meat shipment into the Philadelphia port of entry on the basis of the computer printout. The importer demanded to know why his shipment was being delayed."

"We told him the computer had alerted us that his product came from a foreign plant with a poor record of complying to our food import regulations. This information was based on shipments that came through the port of New York on earlier occasions."

"The computer said we should take a greater number of samples than usual so the inspection took a little longer than normal. In this case, the suspect meat checked out should be okay, but you can see that the computer saved us from what could have been serious trouble."

"Previously, each port of entry kept its own records on foreign products. This meant that if the exporter was new to that port, inspectors would have to make an independent determination as to the required examination, tests and number of samples.

Development of the Import Information System was started in 1973. This year, the service installed computer terminals in Philadelphia and 11 other major ports of entry — Boston, New York, Norfolk, Charleston, Miami, San Juan, Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

Crop Improvement '79 Scheduled Jan. 15-16

Crop Improvement Days, 1979, promises an exciting program of updates, speakers and entertainment for Nebraska seedsmen and farmers who are anxious to improve their crops.

The meeting, scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 15-16 at the Holiday Inn in Columbus, kicks off with commodity committee meetings at 9 a.m., following 8 a.m. registration and coffee and doughnuts, said Dean Lancaster, secretary-manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association (NCIA).

The NCIA annual meeting will be held Monday morning — a change from past years, Lancaster said. Another change is a joint men's and women's luncheon Monday with Maurice Van Nostrand as featured speaker. He is chairman, Iowa State Commerce Commission and Iowa Energy Policy Council in Des Moines.

The first session on Monday afternoon deals with sunflowers, presented by Charles Moses of the Interstate Seed and Grain Co., Fargo, N.D.; John Schmidt, professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will give an update on small grain and triticale varieties next.

Dr. Ken Bader, chief executive officer of the American Soybean Association in St. Louis, is scheduled to present the national and worldwide picture on soybeans, then Dr. James Specht, UNL assistant professor of agronomy, will discuss management factors for obtaining quality soybean seed.

The Monday banquet will not include a speaker, which is a change from past years, but will include the Fremont Pathfinder Chorus as entertainment.

The Tuesday session will include information on fertilizer, hybrid selection, planting dates, drying and tillage by Dr. Don Sander, UNL extension agronomist; a look at crop sequences, row spacing and population in soybeans, presented by Dr. Dale Flowerday, UNL professor of agronomy; and some crop response predictions by Dr. Ralph Nild, UNL extension climatologist.

A panel on integrated pest management will be included in the Tuesday morning session. The panel will include Earle Raun, a Lincoln pest management consultant; Dave Carlson, a UNL agronomy research technician, who will talk about weed escapes — corn in soybeans, shattercane, velvetleaf and other problems; Dr. Dave Wytosong, UNL extension plant pathologist, who will discuss corn lethal necrosis, corn nematodes, Goss' Wilt and faller diseases in wheat; and Dr. Dave Keith, UNL extension entomologist, who will present an outlook on possible problem insects in 1979.

An update on the supply of seed at the Foundation Seed Division will be given by Dick Mills, manager of the UNL Foundation Seed Division.

Although the women attending Crop Improvement Days with their husbands are welcome to attend all sessions on the program, Lancaster said there is a special program for the women who wish to participate.

The Monday segment of the women's program includes a morning of conversation, then the joint luncheon. The afternoon session highlights presentations on general principles of homescaping the public and private sectors of the home and general care and maintenance of houseplants by Dr. Brent Hooley, horticulture specialist, will conduct the session.

Tuesday morning is free for visiting and relaxing and the Crop Improvement Days program concludes with a joint luncheon.

Area Milk Barn Burns

A milk barn approximately 24 x 54 feet was destroyed in a fire early Saturday morning on the William Macklin farm, located four miles north and a fourth east of Carroll.

Carroll firemen answered the call about 12:30 a.m. Belden firemen also were called to the scene.

Macklin said all of the milking equipment was destroyed in the blaze. Two calves were able to escape the flames, however a two-year-old Blue Heeler dog perished in the fire.
