Bandy^sa According to Randy Hascal

WHEN SOMEONE travels all the way from Lumberton, North Carolina to Wayne, Nebraška to watch a basketball game, they don't want to be disappointed. Mr and Mrs. Paul Lorick, parents of Wayne State basketball: player Arthur Lorick, certainify weren't disappointed with the game they watched Saturday moht night Son Zake scored 27 points for the Wildcats while his brother Arthur scored 24 In addition to seeing their sons perform well, the Loricks withessed an exciting overtime game, with Wayne winning

IN THE OVERTIME, Saturday night, /SC's Dean Onken got the hot hand. He fored eight of his 12 points in the over-me period to win the game. I was happy see Onken perform so well, since he is good keined of mice. We herd lived in WSC's good friend of mine. We both lived in e same dormitory at Wayne State last year Onk'' hasn't been a big scorer this season, because he is a team player. He grabs the rebounds, plays good defense and makes assists but doesn't shoot much When he does shoot, he hits consistently

IN MY PREVIOUS column, I mention-ed that I enjoyed a halfitime presentation at Laurel High, where some elementary students played a game of basketball. I ran into a similar halfitime show at ran into a similar halftime show at Wakefield Tuesday night. During the break of the Wakefield-Allen game, an exhibition game was presented. This time, the kids were really young and the audience was well entertained. Basketball programs for children this age are the builders of tomorrow's teams.

WITH TOP 20 ±EAMS constantly knocking each other off, the national baskelball rankings have literally be-come a mess. There is so much balance in college baskelball that any team can in on any given day

With some powerful teams across the country, there is considerable talk about which conference is the strongest. The Big Ten has received considerable men-tion this year and is indeed strong with powers like Ohio State, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan State.

But I still believe that the Atlantic Coast Conference is as strong as any conference, just as always. Number three rated Duke and number four North Carolina are currently leading the ACC race but it is totally balanced.

Tace Dui II is totally balanced. Maryland, North Carolina State, Clem-son, Wake Forest and Virginia make up the rest of the ACC and these teams are probably as good as any in the country. Naturally, their records can't remain unblemisted when they play each other, as well as other powers

When the NCAA and NIT post-season tourneys roll around. I look for a member of the ACC to be in the semifinals if not

finals of each tourney. I RAN ACROSS SOME Interesting quotes from former great wrestiers in the Winside Wrestling booklet given to each wrestler earlier this year. The first quote I read was by the greatest wrestler of all-time. Dan Gable-the said, "You can't ever work too much because there is no such thing as being in too good of condition. You can't ever get too strong. You can't ever wistle too much because you can't ever ranked towa University. The other quote is by Levan Tediash-with gold medai winner in the 1972 and 76 Oympics. In the '72 Oympics, be pinned his seven fors in a total time of 18:08. "You don't ever remember how many wins, but we never forget the losses." This information is compiled in a book-let by Winside coach Doug Reves. He gave me a copy of the booklet and I hought this would be a good time to share these quotes with you.

LATE NOTICE: The Wayne eighth and ninth grade basketball teams will see action today (Thursday) at Norfolk Catholic. But the order of play has been changed. The ninth grade girls will play Norfolk Catholic at 4 p.m. with eighth grade boys playing at 5:30 and ninth grade boys playing at 6:45.

Signs disaster declaration

CAPITOL NEWS By Merkin Paul Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — Gov. Charles Thore has signed a classier declaration making 11 stormstruck Panifandie and Sandhills counties eligible for state assistance. The governor blamed the emergency on a combination of heavy snows, freezing rains and, high winds that left large stretches of northwestern and north central Nebrakas virtually isolated. Thone, when making his disaster central Newtaka virtually isolated. Thone, when making his disaster declaration, said spokesmen for two county boards said the consequence of the mixture of unfavorable conditions was more serious than the blizzard of 1949, which the governor characterized as "a rip-snorter." The disaster designation made emer-gency aid available to Dawes, Box Butte, Morrill. Garden, Sheridan, Cherry Grant, Booker, Thomas, Blaine and Arthur counties. Thone made six helicopters available

Counties. Thone made six helicopters available for emergency medical services and-ordered the state Roads Department to divert snow removal equipment to the snowbound areas. The Governor's Emergency Fund is out of money, but Thone said he will ask the Legislature for a deficit appropriation of about $200,000. Thone's action came less than a day after a delegation of state officials, including state Sens. Sam Cullan of Hemingford and Howard Lamb of Ansel-mo, flew over the afflicted areas. During the 1,000-mile trip, the officials seemed especially concerned about stran-dranches. In many areas, cattle were unable to get to feed, and vehicles had great difficulty getting from county and secon-dary roads to main highways. Initial reports on livestock losses were sketchy. But Lamb said 60 cows owned by a rancher northwest of Mullen had died. The Thomas County sheriff's office at Theotord also noted most ranchers in the area were isolated an damary county roads were impassable because of writting and blowing snow. Lamb said one rancher in his district had received mail only once since November when the state recorded its Split Over Bargaining It wasn't a surprise that union representatives and administrative spokesman divided over the merits of a bill that would require systemwide bargaining units in the state's postsecon-dary educational institutions. The bill, sponsored by the Legislature's Business and Labor Committee, would apply to the University of Nebraska, the state colleges and the technical commu-ity colleges.

If passed into law, the measure would require each of the four state colleges and each campus of the university to have a single, systemwide bargaining unit for its facuity. A committee spokesman said the bill was proposed to avoid "undue fragmenation" of bargaining units — an idea that received storag support from university and college edministration spokesmen. But representatives of the American Association of University Professors, a recognize dargaining unit on the university camputes, were very much against the legislation. Employee benefits, once known as "fringes," now are a multibiliton-dollar supense for U.S. employers. These expenditures more than tripled from 1947 1977, according to a new survey by the biamber of Commerce of the United

Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The Chamber has been making the biennial statistical study of benefits since 1947 The 18th in the biennial series has just been published. Based on data from 748 companies and other information, the Chamber esti-mates that employee benefits cost-employers $310 billion in 1977, or 36.7 percent of payroll and an average of $4.692 per employee per year. Total costs in 1967 were $100 billion.

51,67 per employée per year. Total costs in 1967 were s100 billion. The largest outlay continues to be for payments to workers for time not worked, such as vacetions, holidays and sick leave but not paid rest or lunch periods. These payments account for 9.5 But the next largest chunk is one that is causing some concern and double-tink these days — expenditures for employee benefits that are required under federal laws, such as Social Security faxes. These account for nine percent of payroll expenditures and include: Old age and survivors and disability insurance — 32.6 billion.

A time to cut the cord

Chamber of Commerce of the United States WASHINGTON — Congress has recon-vened, and for once the public can look forward to the new session with a feeling of hope rather than despair. Thanks to growing pressure from initation-weary taxpayers. Congress seems to have inally gotin the message. It's time to help the millions of people who are trying to hold down production jobs and pay the government's bills. Obviously this conversion is long overdue, but it's still very good news. And if Congress can translate its more responsible attitude into substantive legislation inithing government spending, ending needless, costly regulations and providing genuine across the board tax reduction, then our economy can be restored to sound health. But it wan't be aay, because we have ubjected the private entryize system to such abuse ter so long. It will take more than one year of penancs tarChearse that kind of agglect. In effect, the Members of the 9th Congress will have their work cut out of presponability redictive by the libered spending attitude which has grown almost every year for the past 50 years. During the past five decades, the federal budget has been in balance only nine times, and only once since 1960. And because of this unchecked growth of government, the rate of individual taxation has climbed to confiscatory levels. There was a time when Ameri-cans saved for their old age; now it is all they can do to save for April 15th. This is a problem Congress must fackle immed-lately.

a problem Congress must tackle immediately. Because taxpayers have been the target of so many false promises, they tend to discount political rhetoric. Yet, if Congress is to succeed as I hope it will, and exercise the leadership the country needs, then it must regain the support of the public by setting an example and allowing its actions to speak louder than its words. Let me be more specific. Americans are being asked to sacrifice, to tighten theirs, to cut out waste, to conserve propared to do the same? Congress now spend; directly and indicative and recreation collars and indicative and recreations activities. Its words a genes now spend in the same? Congress now spend; directly and indicate a more being and a cere within this budget where Congress can tighten its bet? 'For starters, consider the tax-support.

ed Congressional perks. Do the legisla-tors really-need them all: from free unrestricted parking to free postage, virtually unlimited long distance tele-phone service, occasional office kitchen-ettes, not to mention picture frames, scenic photographs of the national perks, reproductions of painting and prints from the National Gallery, stylized haircuts at less than half the going rate, fine food at reasonable orcies, the finest in medical reasonable prices, the finest in medical area, in all purpose fravel service, workout rooms, steam rooms, padyle bail courts, swimming pools and soothing massages?

cere. In all purpose travel service, workout rooms, steam rooms, padyle ball courts, swimming pools and soothing massages? We are told that the Senate needs a new office building, a third one. That is quite possible. But must it cost $135 million and feature plush wood-paneled offices with 16-foot celling, a gymnasium with a tennis court, and to top it all off, a rooftop restarrant? Some members $39 they receive nothing a high-level executive would not be entitled to in the private sector. But that comparison is neither fair nor scuarate. Very few companies cen afford to provide benefits on a par with those available in Congress. The few that do must pay for them out of profits, not general fax revenues. Second, what about the question of fairness in terms of equity before the correct physical deficiencies such as contact lenses, hearing aids or braces: travel costs in going for treatment: medically required trips or alterations to your home or car. Your job might also bring deductions, such as the cost of work clothes, tools, union dues, trade publications and entertainment of customers. If you run your business out of your home, part of your household maintenance and depre-clation costs could be deductible. If you were lucky, your investments will have increased your tax obligations for the year, but hey may also produce deductions. These would include the cost of investment advisory services, sub-scriptions to financial publications, travel to skee your broker, a safe deposit box, used to store securities, and in special circumstances even the costs of travel to skee your broker, a safe deposit box. By now you will have a pretty good idea of whether your deductions exceed ide aro theatet amounts listed above. If you have about average expenses, there is little doubly you will ind it advanta-geous to itemize. And in case you do inde of the publication, throw away the list of deductions you have just compiled. If will be a big step ahead in the preparation of your tax return.

Bebruary 3, 1947: The Wayne area this week is buried in an unending drift at sow and ice following the winter's most furlous blizzard which struck last Thurs, day and dumped countries tons of new snow over the already heavily covered winside area. Drifts up to 30 feet deep reportedly have been encountered in the Winside area. Harold E. Hein, Wayne, has been appointed chairman for the Wayne County Red Cross Chapter's 1949 campaign for funds. There's no denying in people are anxious to get "dug out." All the farmers along the road east on No. 35 to Wakefield Monday were out with their shovels and ready to help the crew of the rolary plow open the road.

25 Years Ago February 4, 1954: David J. Hamer, Sr., Monday filed for reelection as clerk of the district county. Virgil Ekberg, Wakefleid, was elected president of the Dixon County Livestock Feeders' Asso-clation at the organization's annual banquet Thursday night at the Wakefleid High School Auditorium.

20 Years Ago February 5, 1959: D. Halt, Wayne, was the guest speaker at a Wayne County Rural Teachers Association program Monday at Grace Lutheran Church. Mari Baile James, Sloux City, daughter of Howard James. Wayne, became execu-tive director of the Prairie Hills Giri Scout Council Monday.

law? If Congress believes Americans must pay higher Social Security taxes and obey the thousand odd regulations decreed by OSHA, should not its Members and their employees do the same, rather than live in a world apart as they do now? Third, if Congress really is serious about reducing government spending, int the whole area of federal pay a good place to start? It's hard for me to understand, why compensation in the federal government averages 42 percent higher than in the private sector. These are just a few questions worth pondering. I will have more in future columns.

Let me emphasize that the 96th Congress should not be held responsible for the mistakes of the past - mistakes made during an era when far too many other Americans believed there was never any need for restraint. We have since learned there are times when we must say no.

Now it is time for Congress to do the same ... to cut the cord of the liberal spending past, and to begin living with the consequences of its actions ... just like the rast of us. At least in that way, they will share both the public's fear of inflation, and its eagerness to defeat it.

Weather Raises Beef Prices Midwest and High Plains states are finding it difficult if not impossible to get their cattle to market because of the recent storms." Wardell said. "Like wise, beef packers and pro-cessors can't get the product to food stores with their usual efficiency. This has the short term effect of limiting avail-ability and bringing prices higher."

Severe winter weather across much of the beef-producing region of the U.S. will bring higher beef prices to consumers sconer than had been expected, the National Live Stock and Meat Board said today. "Near-record snowfall and sub-zero temperatures could have disrupted both the market-ings of beef and the growth rate of cattle in feedlots, explained Jay H. Wardell, manager of the Meat Board's Beef Industry Council.

WAYNE COUNTY EXTEN FARROWING HOUSES Baby pip losses can be re-duced by keeping the farrowing house warm and dry. If air Is removed rapidly to keep the farrowing house dry, the room imperature will be cooler than desired unless additional fuel is used to warm the air. If the ventilation rate is slowed to reduce fuel costs. the air can become very damp Neither cool femperatures nor damp air are good for baby pigs. which require tempera-tures of 90 to 95 degrees F for he first three to five days of he fouring this time the baby ng is unable to regulate its body temperature against outside forces PIG STRESS In a cold atmosphere, baby pigs huddle together, get next to the sow and expend considerable energy to keep warm. This stress and the use of vitally needed energy to keep warm are two reasons why baby pigs are susceptible to disease. Failure to provide a dry, warm environment can lead to an increase in scours, crushing, starvation and other problems starvation and other problems DEATH LOSS Death losss to weaning age currently are estimated at 25 to 0 percent of the pigs tarrowed. Crushing, chilling, starvation and scours are the main causes of death. To minimize the dangers of chilling, the building should be well insuitated. Supplemental teat can be utilized. The pigs environment can be monifored with a thermometer in the creep area Hovers in the creep area and

"This eliminates much of — if not all — the disadvantage to the slower winter or growing period again." Guyer noted. According to studies con ducted in Ohio. compensatory gain results from more efficient utilization of feed protein and energy by cattle and more intake of feed in relation to body weight, the UNL expert said. "Cattle feeders will pay more for feeder cattle if they have the potential for compensatory gain. Lean cattle tend to outself heavier feeders partially be-cause of this potential." Guyer said Area area Hovers in the creep area and additional bedding help keep the pigs warm, conserve body temperature by insulating the pigs sleeping area, and reduce drafts. Although there are other
