Third Quarter, 1978

County One of Leaders In State Net Taxable Sales

Wayne County was one of the leaders in third quarter, 1978, net taxable sales in Nebraska. Wayne County showed a 30.9 percent increase in net taxable sales for the third quarter in 1978 as compared with third quarter sales in 1977.

The average for the state was 14.2 percent and the average for Region 11 of which Wayne County is a part was 17.7 percent. Third quarter retail sales, adjusted for price increases, were 5.3 percent above the level for the third quarter, 1977. Commodity price increases were 8.4 percent over this one year interval and population increased an estimated one-half of one percent over year-earlier levels. The dollar volume and real increase in retail sales represents another substantial quarterly gain. Third quarter 1978 results were a continuation of a trend started in the second quarter of 1978, representing the first substantial gains since 1976. The increase in retail sales during the third quarter 1978 over year-earlier levels were the largest since the second quarter 1976.

The relatively strong retail sales during the third quarter is underscored by the fact that 17 of the state's 26 planning and development regions had dollar volume increases in retail sales in excess of the state's average of 14.2 percent.

Next taxable retail sales in Region 11 include Antelope, 22.7 percent; Madison, 14.6 percent; Pierce, 15.4 percent; Stanton, 24.4 percent.

On a year to date comparison for the first three quarters of 1978, retail sales for the state were up an average of 9.2 percent.

Wayne County shows a 20.2 percent increase in the 1978 year to date, as compared with 1977 year to date. The average for the region was 7.4 percent.

Antelope County shows a 7.4 percent decline of 9 of a percent; Pierce a 7.5 percent increase; Stanton a decline of 1.7 percent and Stanton a 17.2 percent increase.

Personal Property

Assessor's Office Busy As March Deadline Nears

The County Assessor's office is a busy place with the March 1 deadline fast approaching. County Assessor Doris Stipp reminded area residents that personal property owners must assess their property or be in violation of the law. Nebraska law requires the listing and assessing of personal property before March 1, with penalties applied for omitted property or late filing. Mrs. Stipp said schedules have been sent to most of the property owners who must file. She said persons who have property to declare and have not received a schedule can pick up forms at her office. The following personal property must be listed: Leasehold improvements, leased or consigned personal property in your custody, portable buildings, improvements on leased land, motorized boats, motors, airplanes, unlicensed motor vehicles, furniture, tools and equipment. All equipment and fixtures shall be listed with acquisition date and cost. Also household property in furnished rental units must be listed. Report new improvements and additions including irrigation as well as the removal of improvements to the county assessor not later than March 1. An improvement statement See ASSESSORS, page 10

Five Area Seniors Picked For Trustees Scholarships

Five area high school seniors were awarded Nebraska Board of Trustees scholarships to Wayne State College by the Nebraska State College's Board of Trustees. One area senior was chosen as an alternate for the scholarship.

Those awarded scholarships include Lorraine Garvin, Dixon; Marian Rhoads, Emerson; Mary Konz, Hartington; Anita Sandahl, Wakefield and Kristi Duerling, Winslow.

Selected as an alternate was Carolyn Burns, Laurel. The scholarships provide full college tuition at WSC and renewable up to four years, providing the student maintains an acceptable academic standing.

Recipients are chosen by the Wayne State Financial Aids committee and must be in the upper 25 percent of their graduating high school class. Approximately 120 high school seniors apply for the 20 WSC scholarships annually.

The Board of Trustee Scholarship program began in 1971 and has been awarded to more than 500 students throughout Nebraska, including 88 scholarships awarded this year.

Board of Trustee Chairman Robert Walker said the scholarship winners throughout the state college system have proven to be outstanding college students. See SENIORS, page 10

Fremont Firm Designated Grain Inspection Agency

Fremont Grain Inspection Department, Fremont, has been designated as an official inspection agency in the area, including Wayne county.

Leland E. Bartlett, administrator of the department's Federal Grain Inspection Service (FGIS), said Wayne county is included within boundaries for the inspection of grain in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa.

He also said no public comments were received in response to a Federal Register notice proposing transfer of grain inspection authority in the area to the Fremont firm.

The Fremont Grain Inspection Department will be operated by Eldon L. Davis, former chief inspector for Fremont Grain Exchange, Inc., whose designation was cancelled. Interested persons may obtain maps of the proposed area from the FGIS Compliance Division. Persons wishing to comment on the proposed boundaries have until March 29 to send them to Compliance Division, FGIS, Room 24-5 Aud. Bldg., USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250. FGIS was established in 1976 to assure integrity in the inspection, weighing and handling of grain and to promote the orderly marketing of U.S. grain, both at inland and export locations. Other counties in the area include Dixon, South of U.S. 20; Thurston, Stanton, Cumby and Burr.

Bad Mike, But Good Talent, Material

Frustrated Frye Wins Electronic Battle

By CHUCK BARNES
A frustrated David Frye fought an hour-long electronic battle before an appreciative crowd in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State campus Friday night, and won.

While a less-than-adequate sound system prevented a premier performance by the well-known mimic, he still won over what he called a "demanding crowd." Relaxing backstage with a glass of cold water to help repair a raspy voice, Frye said he felt he finally "got to the audience" with his varied program of impressions.

"I was coming up cold in places where I usually get laughs," Frye commented. "The bad mike was trouble enough, but to think I wasn't coming across with my material was an even more distressing thought. But when they responded to my voice, I knew they were with me."

Mimicry was just one of some 20 voices conjured up by the talent of Frye, whose repertoire includes some six presidents but he hasn't met one in his career. "I've met Ted Kennedy and that just might be my first president," Frye observed. This contemporary look at the political scene was one of the reasons why he was able to defeat a bad sound system with talent and material which he writes himself.

Frye is best-known for his impression of former President Richard Nixon (Do you want justice? "Not necessarily"). He is able to capture the character of Nixon both in voice and looks. He also has a great Lyndon Johnson but he only let him out of his bag for a short while Friday night.

No one was sacred to Frye. He made reference to Anthony Quinn's portrayal of a Pope and that Polish actor isn't going such a bad job now.

Nebraska's Henry Ford was also mentioned. Frye was able to shed a new light onto the venerable name. It was a fast-paced performance, ranging from great par travais of great parts by great artists to the satirical political scene.

Walter Cronkite, one of the nation's most respected news personalities, came to life to introduce other notables such as Henry Kissinger, who said of himself: "I am Henry Kissinger, former Secretary of State, and master of the world." Begin, Sedat, William F. Buckley, Billy Carter and even Nelson Rockefeller were brought to life by Frye. He told us that Rockefeller was one of his favorite voices before he died: "I wanted to keep him in the act somehow, so I wrote a sequence about him being in Heaven where, among other things he purchased the pearly gates."

The pearly gates didn't get a big laugh for Frye Friday night but his monolog using President Jimmy Carter and his campaign to introduce anti-air throughout the major countries of the world so they know how we feel brought the crowd to its feet. George Wallace was the time as he commented through Frye's wit on the state of the confederacy.

Frye took a short intermission which was supplemented with an edited film of President Nixon doing Frye's version of "I Did It My Way." "It cost me a lot of money to work up the film," Frye stated, "but it'll be good for years to come."

All in all, it was a pleasant performance and if nothing more, it demonstrated the versatility of a talented man.

And speaking of talent, Frye's piano was some 45 minutes late in being set up at Omaha which made him late for the performance. But contortionist Bruce Kanago tied himself in knots for the sake of entertainment. Pat Chambers and Mike McInnis teamed up with guitars with Chambers taking the solo work or Mr. Bo Jangles, which received a well-deserved hand as a warm-up to sub-zero temperatures.

BIRTHDAYS ON Feb. 17 paid off for these two homemakers who received a gift from Home Economist Mary Youngbeck who conducted the "Our Best to You" free cooking school held Friday in the city auditorium. The school was sponsored by The Wayne Herald.

More Than 800 Attend Free Cooking School Friday Proves Popular despite Cold

More than 800 homemakers from throughout the Wayne and area Friday braved sub-zero temperatures to attend "Our Best to You" free cooking school, sponsored by The Wayne Herald. The school, conducted by Mary Youngbeck, a home economist for Rural Gravure, featured cooking demonstrations, free door prizes, free gift packs and a fashion show. The school was held in the Wayne city auditorium and began at 1:30 p.m. with Gary Van Meter serving as master of ceremonies. Those who attended the school had an opportunity to register for more than 55 door prizes. They also received free gift packs, including a cook book from which the recipes for the cooking demonstrations were taken.

Area appliance dealers provided stoves and micro wave ovens for use in the cooking demonstrations. Members of the Herald staff helped with the demonstrations.

Homemakers also had an opportunity to purchase the first release of The Wayne Herald cook book which contains recipes from area homemakers. The recipes have appeared in the Herald and have been compiled into a cook book. The book is on sale at the Herald office.

Those who won door prizes included Mrs. Robert Hansen, groceries; Mrs. Doris Mathes, groceries; Pat Dolate, groceries; Elizabeth Schuttler, Uncandle; Shirley Wagner, asparagus strainer; Sandra Oster, camp, two tickets to the Gay theatre; Mrs. Fred Vahlkamp, Antique kit; Mrs. Pat Halley, mini deepfat fryer; Joyce Jensen, steamer; Tom Ginn, lingerie; Kay Giffert, gift certificate; Mrs. Willard Blecke, gift certificate; Sharon Gustafson, girls romper.

Sandra Wriedt, Pyrex ovenware; Donna Liska, Teakwood bowls; Joyce Sievers, recipe album; Erna Greenwald, groceries; Mrs. Art Dranselka, groceries; Mrs. Jim Gustafson, groceries; Verdina Johns, groceries; Mrs. Harry Wert, groceries; Adele Daniels, groceries; Francis Nichols, groceries; Carol Nixon, groceries; Diane Mathis, groceries; Marcy Roeder, Uncandle.

Esther Carlson, Uncandle; Darlene Russell, Uncandle; Mrs. Larry Baker, hot dog cooker; Rose Heithold, micro wave cooking set; Diane Zach, groceries; Joan Thompson, groceries; Lillian Sahr, groceries; Nelda Hamner, groceries; Dorothy Dangberg, groceries; Shirley Meyer, groceries.

Mrs. William Koeber, groceries; Mrs. Eugene Paul, groceries; Mrs. Elvin Olson, groceries; Janet Fuoss, groceries; Lillian Miller, stereo headphones; Margaret Korn, two tickets to the Gay Theatre; Mrs. Bob Vakoc, purse; Mrs. C.A. Preston, paint.

Leona Bahda, two dinner tickets; Esther Beneshoff, gourmet set; Corliss Kruse, mark, picture frame; Katherine Dahda, smoke detector; Mrs. Walt Pearson, Corning Ware gift; Sherri Nielson, personal See SCHOOL, page 10

Sessions at Planetarium Proper Ways to View Eclipse

Informal sessions to acquaint observers with what to look for and how to view a new total solar eclipse Monday, Feb. 26, has been set at the WSC Dale Planetarium.

Carl Rump of the Wayne State College Math and Sciences Division said the eclipse will not be total in the Northeast Nebraska area, but nearly 90 percent of the sun will be covered by the disk of the moon, providing an interesting spectacle.

He said the eclipse would be visible in the Northeast Nebraska region at about 9:24 a.m. maximum coverage at 10:38, with the eclipse completed by noon.

An informational session on what happens during an eclipse will be held at the WSC Dale Planetarium in the Carhart Science building for those interested.

The informal sessions are designed to acquaint observers with what to look for and how to view the eclipse. The 20 minute programs will be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 18 and 7 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 21. A free showing of "The Universe Game" planetarium show will follow both eclipse programs.

The next scheduled planetarium show, "Tales of the Zodiac," will begin at the WSC Dale Planetarium at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, March 4 and continue Sundays, through April 8. The program will examine the who, what and where questions about the Zodiac. The program is set to an outstanding musical score, adding to the overall entertainment.

The WSC Dale Planetarium shows and information sessions are open free to the public. For group showings or further information phone 375-2200.

Gastax may be increased

CAPITUL PAUL STATEHOUSE CORRESPONDENT THE NEBRASKA PRESS ASSOCIATION LINCOLN — The 9.5 cent per gallon tax on gasoline may be increased, but it may not rise two cents as proposed in a bill on which a public hearing was held recently by the Legislature's Revenue Committee.

The bill was prepared by the Legislature's 1978 Transportation Advisory Committee. This year's committee agreed to introduce the bill but its vice chairman, Sen. Elroy Heiner, Colorado, said the current members favor only a penny a gallon increase.

Each cent of the tax produces about $10 million annually.

Heiner said boosting the tax from 9.5 to 11.5 cents would amount to a 21 percent increase over the 1976 tax. The inflation-control guidelines of President Carter's State Engineer Dave Coillide testified as a neutral witness. He left no doubt he could well use whatever extra money that could be made available to the state Roads Department. He cited "the constant demand" for road maintenance and construction projects that come to his office from all parts of the state.

Coillide and several other witnesses emphasized that inflation, higher wages and spiraling material costs make it impossible to keep the state's road program on schedule.

Another witness — Lancaster County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger — said the highway tax would generate revenue that would put counties in position to participate in a new federal program designed to help pay for replacement of obsolete bridges on county roads.

Nuernberger, a former state engineer, said the federal government is making available $900 million this year and $1 billion during each of the next two years for a federal matching program under which Uncle Sam will pay for 80 percent of bridge replacement costs. In addition, Nuernberger said, the state has promised to give counties 10 percent of the costs, less counties with a comparatively small amount to pay.

Robert Crosby, speaking for highway related industries, said the reason so many road projects have had to be postponed is that 9.5 cents today has the purchasing power of 3.8 cents 12 years ago.

The Nebraska Association of County Officials and the League of Nebraska

Municipalities were among organizations supporting the two-cent per gallon tax hike.

The Nebraska Motor Carriers association opposed the bill. That organization's executive director, Jim Preston, said he was sure 1.4 million of the state's 3.5 million residents would agree with his stand.

He said buses and trucks pay nearly 53 percent of highway user fees "and our industry doesn't want to be the money tree everyone wants to be."

Preston maintained funding for road maintenance and construction has kept pace in recent years with inflation and other costs.

WANTS SAME TAX BREAK
If businesses are excused from paying a sales tax on utilities, the same break should be given to residential customers, Sen. Bernice Labetz of Omaha believes.

She is one of the sponsors of the bill that would remove all sales taxes on natural gas, electricity and other energy sources.

The bill received considerable support during a public hearing, but several Revenue committee members said they were concerned about approving a measure that might trigger an increase in state tax rates.

But Mrs. Labetz said, "We are not charging business and I think that's a gross injustice to the homeowner." She added her bill would cost the state $13.8 million next fiscal year in lost taxes.

Mrs. Labetz said the state might be forced to raise the state income tax 1 percent, which would produce about $15 million. But she said the state could probably make up the lost revenue in other ways.

Sen. Neil Simon of Omaha, who co-sponsored the bill, said the tax on utilities "is the most unfair we have in Nebraska today. No one can dispute the fact that it's completely unfair to tax a necessity."

Sen. Carol Pirsch of Omaha, who also helped sponsor the bill, said, "This tax hits hardest at those least able to pay." Legislative approval of the measure "would be a sign to the people of Nebraska that the Legislature is trying to help them," Mrs. Pirsch said.

UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS TESTIFY
University of Nebraska officials have told the Legislature's Appropriations Committee they had asked for justification, for more than $9.4 million in capital construction money.

"We could easily have justified many more dollars," Dr. Robert Koeloff of Grand Island, chairman of the Board of Regents, told the committee.

Last July, the regents approved the University's proposed fiscal 1978-80 capital construction budget, which listed 24 projects. For fiscal 1978-79, the regents asked for $9.9 million in building money but were given only $1.5 million.

University President Ronald Roskens said the construction request was mainly for renovation, utilities and improvement of existing facilities.

He said the "No. 1 priority" is a $1.1 million request for a chiller on the East Campus. Roskens noted the Appropriations Committee has already introduced a separate bill for the project.

Robert Paderka, university construction coordinator, said the institution would spend $16 million on deferred maintenance and would like to receive $4.5 million of the $6 million fund to the university.

MORNING HEARINGS END
Morning hearings on legislative bills were scheduled this week, and Speaker Richard Marvel of Hastings says he expects to have the Unicameral in all-day sessions March 19.

He made the announcement during a meeting with the chairmen of the various standing committees. They said they expect to wrap up all hearings by March 16.

Marvel has been in session for about one hour each morning. The remainder of the days have been devoted to hearings with as many as 100 bills getting public hearings each week.

Marvel said committee hearings during the afternoon hours will have to continue into the night by March 17.

THINKING ABOUT MOVING PRISON
The Thorne Administration is thinking about moving the proposed Omaha state prison to Mead and is considering placing a work release center on land already acquired in east Omaha.

Gov. Robert Anderson said the prison may also be changed from a medium-minimum security reformatory into a minimum security facility. But he said the final policy decision would be made until after Gov. Charles Thorne selects a new corrections director.

Gov. Anderson said the legislature would also have to approve any change in corrections construction plans.

Paper battle with paper tigers

RICHARD L. LESH, PRESIDENT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES

President Carter's much publicized war on paperwork seems to have gotten bogged down in — I'll bet you can't guess — more paper. First it was the Cabinet Secretaries rebelling against his order to read all those regulations emanating from their departments. Then he tried to get the new regulations must be written — regulations which only lead to more paperwork and bureaucratic growth. That's why the average family must now spend $675 a year just for air and water pollution controls. This figure could go as high as $1,400 by 1985. Some estimates calculate the total cost for all regulations at $2,000 per family.

Second, the President cannot control independent bodies such as the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Consumer Products Safety Commission and the Federal Trade Commission. And now, even his influence over agencies within the Executive Department, like OSHA, has been undermined by a court suit brought on by the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union. Certain members of the White House felt that an absolute adherence by industry to OSHA's cotton dust standards was both unachievable and inflationary. This attitude angered the union which believes OSHA has authority to promulgate health and safety standards.

Obviously, people who have spent entire careers luxuriating in the power of these bureaucratic empires are not about to give it all up without a fight. If we really want to return the government to the people, then strong measures are needed.

First, rule-making excesses of agencies and commissions must be curbed. Congress must be given veto power when it concludes a rule or regulation is contrary to the public interest.

Second, the staffs of regulatory agencies should be severely limited, and each agency should be abolished after a pre-determined period if it cannot justify its continued existence.

Third, agencies should be required to prove that "benefits" of proposed regulations merit the costs. Consumers must currently pay approximately $600 for mandated regulations each time they purchase a new car. Do they have a choice? Is government really protecting consumers when it pushes environmental standards adding to the weight of automobiles, thereby increasing their fuel consumption, while simultaneously moving to raise taxes on automobiles that weigh too much and consume too much fuel? Either way the government wins: either you, the motorist, lose.

Finally, it is time to start dealing with the whole problem with greater consistency. That means the President must stop denouncing regulations in one breath, while advocating increasing the budget for regulatory agencies by 11.7 percent, backing a new Department of Education, a Department of Natural Resources, a so-called Consumer Protection Agency and expanded powers for the Department of Energy in another.

And it means the leaders of the business community must do more than defend the principle of free competition; they must also live up to them. Granted, that is more difficult, but unless each of us learns that government can never give without first taking away, then we may all wind up with nothing. The great historian Gibbon described how this happened in ancient Greece:

"In the end more than they wanted freedom, they wanted security; they wanted a comfortable life and they lost it all — security, comfort and freedom. When the Athenians finally wanted not to give to society, but for society to give to them, then Athens ceased to be free."

Surely, America deserves better.

rather staggering list of 799 recommendations, including a plan to create a big new cabinet-level bureau of states. The Department of Administration — which would ideally coordinate all government information gathering.

Why is this problem so intractable? Two reasons. When the public demands more government spending and more programs, as it consistently has done for decades, then new regulations must be written — regulations which only lead to more paperwork and bureaucratic growth. That's why the average family must now spend $675 a year just for air and water pollution controls. This figure could go as high as $1,400 by 1985. Some estimates calculate the total cost for all regulations at $2,000 per family.

Too early to tell

SENATOR EDWARD ZORINSKY (D. NEB.)

It is still too early to say whether the trip back east has produced any tangible benefits, Nebraska farmers camping at the foot of Capitol Hill in Washington tell me.

Most are settling in for a long stay.

The tension, meanwhile, that built up between police and farmers after scattered incidents of violence early last week, has gone.

"We're just getting started," Tom Schlichemeier of Murray, told me late Thursday. "The doors are so much more open this year and more people are willing to see us," he added. But neither he nor his friends had been able yet to visit many members of Congress.

Charles Henning of Peru, spoke of "showing up in force" at agriculture committee hearings this week. "We'll spend as much time on this thing as it takes," he said.

Others talked of lobbying Congressmen from urban districts who voted against farm price support legislation last year.

Most AAM farmers are angered by Agricultural Movement is its support for legislation Congressman Richard Nolan (D. — Minn.) and I introduced that would boost price supports for major crops to no less than 90 percent of parity.

Loan rates for wheat, feed grains and soybeans are now in the 45 to 54 percent of parity range. They were last at 90 percent of parity in the early 1950's.

But not all farmers in Washington seem to support that measure. Nebraska Farm Bureau members packed their lobby's downtown headquarters last week and complained that they were not being properly represented.

Most AAM farmers are angered by television network reports that some farmers outside Washington are not on their side. Gary Schemmel of Nebraska City told me about the 1700 gallons of diesel fuel the Champagne, Illinois Farm Bureau gave the Nebraskans on their way here.

"People on the way were glad that finally somebody was going to D.C. to fight for this country," Charles Henning said.

The National Park Service lists 540 tractors and 200 campers on the Mall where the farmers are living. More than 300 Nebraskans were here at the end of last week.

While those who came have already used the facilities, many are leaving, more are flying in to take their places.

No one has forgotten last year when a flexible parity bill the AAM wanted cleared the Senate, but, after protracted negotiations with the Administration, failed to pass the House.

"We need people here for an extended period of time," Ed Rowen, Jr. of Nebraska City said. He predicted it may be as long as two months before the farmers can go home.

Harold Rice of Murray spoke of bringing back some urban Nebraskans, too. "We're fighting for the basic family way of life," he said. "For every eleven families that leave their farms, you lose one business in town."

The AAM tractorcade created major problems for Washington commuters when it arrived early on February 5. The farmers packed their machinery on nine square blocks of grassy area at the bottom of Capitol Hill, but when they returned that afternoon, they found their tractors, trucks and campers blocked on all sides by a line of buses, dump trucks and police cars.

The mood turned very ugly the next day. Several Nebraskans asked for my help obtaining court order to stop their tractors and end police harassment. But my lawyer, when dealing with the police department's attorney, found that everything could be accomplished through talk and friendly negotiation.

By week's end, police and farmers, on "jovial" terms, were throwing snowballs at one another, while Washington commuters struggled with the first major snowfall of the winter season.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

The year 1978 was a busy year for construction according to figures compiled by Pierce County Zoning Administrator Greg Hoffmann, who also acts as city zoning administrator. According to his records 36 building permits were issued during the year for construction amounting to $1,028,900. This includes permits issued for the area within one mile of the corporate limits of Pierce which is under the jurisdiction of city zoning laws.

Another winter 'landmark'

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION BY JACK WATKINS DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION

The worst winter in Nebraska since 1949 is creating another of those "landmarks" in our state's weather history that tests the mettle of man and beast.

Those who experienced firsthand the Blizzard of 1949 in northwestern, north-central and northeast Nebraska, know that the declaration of a blizzard area for 11 counties in the Sandhills region, to them is no exaggeration. The promptness which the Nebraska National Guard was called in and the role it has played in coping with emergency situations is commendable.

In 1949, the State was a little slow to grasp the magnitude of the problem. It was the first of February and a real disaster was in the making before "Operation Snowbound" conducted by General Lewis Pick and his U.S. Army Engineers moved in with dozers, weezels, trucks, snowplows and planes to open up highways, roads, ranch lanes, and trails to haystacks and for movement of cattle.

Proclamation

CITY OF WAYNE OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

WHEREAS, hundreds of successful human corneal transplants have been performed in Nebraska, restoring the priceless gift of sight; and have been performed in Nebraska, restoring the priceless gift of sight;

WHEREAS, this great work was made possible in great part by the Nebraska Lions Eye Bank and the greatest gifts of many persons who directed that their eyes be used for restoring sight to others after their death; and

WHEREAS, the great strides of medical science today, in saving the sight of many more visually impaired persons are creating the need for many more eyes and the attendant need for a means of obtaining them; and

WHEREAS, this Eye Bank depends entirely upon transplants by persons who wish to leave behind them the gift of sight;

WHEREAS, it is fitting that we should recognize this great undertaking and the need for providing a means of enabling it to help others;

close enough to ranchsteads to make them practical and then hoping they could get up enough speed to get them back in the air again. For emergency supplies of lighter items such as groceries they depended on "air drops" rather than landings.

Emergency fuel supplies were delivered by Army and National Guard light, all-track "weezels" where other vehicles, couldn't reach. Even in 1949 many farmer's and ranchers had converted their homes to propane and fuel oil. Those fortunate enough to have kept an old kitchen range or heating stove in the basement or stored in an outbuilding, set them up and in some cases fueled them by chopping up old fence posts and old buildings.

Telephone and electrical power services (for those who had them) generally stayed operational. In 1949 there was no television to relieve the monotony. News papers and mail could not be delivered in rural areas for several months.

On the plus side, more ranchers probably have a new break trail to move cattle and get to stocks. They were scarce then; in 1949, and old timers probably haven't forgotten some of those lessons. There are more 4-wheel drive vehicles in the ranch country now and many ranchers have snowmobiles, an item which wasn't even invented until the 1950's.

Today, the National Guard's helicopters handle with ease those emergency flights for medical and accident cases that were such a problem in 1949. They have replaced those old equipped high planes flown by heroic local pilots who risked their lives daily on rescue missions hoping for widespread funding from merical radio provided a touch with the outside world and was used for the relay of emergency information. Today's "CB's" would have been very helpful then and are an asset in today's struggle.

The winter of 1949 extended into the spring with heavy wet snows in March and April. When the snow did melt, rural roads became muddy quagmires, often impassible.

But the bright note... spring did come as it surely does, cattle and calf losses were less than had been feared, and pastures flourished from the abundant winter moisture. The winter wheat which had been protected under the deep snows produced an exceptional crop the following summer.

Yes, spring will be more appreciated than ever and sons and grandsons of those who battled through 1949's winter will be saying in a few years, "I remember the winter of 1979, we... And most of those tales will be true."

Winside Closing in For State Mat Title

By RANDY HASCALL
Wayne Herald Sports Editor
LINCOLN — The Winside wrestling team took a strong lead in its quest for a Class D Nebraska State championship by placing three wrestlers in the finals, two in the consolation finals and one in fifth place at Lincoln Friday.

A strong showing in wrestle-backs and semi-finals put Winside in first place with 94 1/2 points, 21 1/2 points ahead of second place Elm Creek.

Brian Foote, 112 pound, pinned Bill Rowland of Friend and dethroned Chris Schnacker of Sumner and Rick Leonard of Madrid to reach Saturday's finals.

Tom Koll, in the 145 pound class pinned Doug Clein of Harvard, dethroned Tim Gabriel of Republican City and pinned Neal Wickersham of Harrison to reach the finals.

In the 125 pound class, Mitch Pfeiffer, dethroned Jeff Schuber of Elm Creek. Gilbert

Medina of Geshler and Terry Helthoff of Elgin, to gain the finals. His win over Helthoff avenges an earlier loss in the Winside Invitational.

With these three wrestlers in the finals, Winside hopes for at least one state champion for the tenth consecutive year.

In addition, the Wildcats placed two wrestlers in consolation finals; Mark Koch at 98 pounds and 119 pounder Rick Bowers, both advanced to consolation finals Saturday morning. Tom Anderson was the lone Winside wrestler to place fifth in his 126 pound class.

Winside's four other state qualifiers: Doug Jaeger at 103 Barry Bowers at 132, Eric Vahlkamp at 155 and Kent Glassmeyer were all eliminated from contention for the top six medals.

Other teams within range of Winside are Arnold Hyannis, Mullen, Harrison.

BRIAN FOOTE, 112 pound Winside champion, makes good an escape as he worked his way to the finals of the Class D

Nebraska State Wrestling championship held Saturday in Lincoln

Johnson, Mitchell Earn Medals in State Tourney

Wayne wrestlers Rick Johnson and Dan Mitchell earned fifth place medals Friday night to pace Wayne High's wrestling team in the Class B state wrestling tournament at Lincoln.

Hwt. Dan Mitchell ran into stiff competition in the semifinals. He failed in his bid for a championship, when he was pinned by Brent Kennedy of Central City in the semi-finals.

With the loss, Mitchell joined teammate Rick Luff, Rick Johnson and Ward Wacker in the consolation bracket. He had dethroned Brad Carrick of Grand Island Northwest, and Mike Shoff of Auburn before facing the 223 Kennedy.

After the semi-final loss Mitchell lost a 5-1 decision to Carroll Allberry of Gretna. The Wayne junior then dethroned Shoff 4-3 to capture fifth-place.

Johnson immediately moved into consolation when he lost a first round decision 6-2 to Andy Snyder of Fairbury.

Schopke Rates 5th in State

Mark Schopke of Wakefield placed fifth in the 167 pound class to lead the four Trojans in Class D State wrestling.

Schopke pinned Tim Summers of Meridian and major dethroned Shawn Schipporeit of Dunning, before losing to Joe Furgusson of Arnold in the semi-finals. Schopke lost to Paul Cleveland of Hyannis 4-3 in consolation, but took fifth place with a win by default over Schipporeit.

Blaine Nelson dethroned Sam Reinke of Kearney Catholic 6-3, but lost to Dan Hoins of Deshler and Bill Huddle of Mullen, in the 138 pound class. Steve Oberg lost decisions to Tom Branting of Clarks and George Brown of Kearney Catholic at 145-pounds.

In the Hwt. class, Mark Muller was pinned by Randy Schroeder of Elm Creek.

Repertory Theater Meeting

A meeting of the Wayne Repertory Theater will be held tonight (Monday) at The Stratton House at 7 p.m.

Final decisions will be made on one-act plays to be produced at Wayne's Spring Art Festival.

Pork Problems To Be Aired

Some of the problems that confront pork producers today will be explained at a meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers to be held Tuesday at the Northeast Station near Concord.

The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. with topics to include sulfite residues in meats by Dr. William Altschweide, animal science division of the University of Nebraska; diseases of baby pigs presented by Dr. Alex Hogg, veterinary science University of Nebraska and swine housing winter time by Dr. Dave Shelton, ag engineer from Concord Station, extension service of the University of Nebraska.

The program is being sponsored by the pork producers association, the extension service from the University of Nebraska and Northeast Station. A lunch will be served.

The first recorded coffee houses, in 16th century Turkey, were known as "Mekteb-i-irfan," meaning "schools of the cultured."

The Secret Life Of The Forest

MAKING A FOREST LAST FOREVER

Nature makes certain individual trees last virtually forever by protecting them from competition. Examples: the coast redwood and the bristlecone pine.

Coast redwoods (1) grow best on the flood deposited soil of several California rivers. Periodic floods piled soil around their trunks, killing off competitors. The redwoods adapted by sending out new roots at each new ground level.

California bristlecone pines (2) are the oldest trees in the U.S. They live on extremely dry, barren mountainsides, in a climate that eliminates competition. Only a small part of the bristlecone is alive, and it grows very, very slowly. The section of rings (3) represents a hundred years.

The picture above also shows man's way of balancing harvesting and reforestation in a Northern forest through a system called "sustained yield."

Young forest, harvest in 60 years (4).

Mature trees ready for harvest (5).

Newly harvested area with seed trees (6).

Newly re-forested area, harvest again in 60 years (7).

Maturing second growth, harvest in 30 years (8).

Recently harvested area, with seed trees and seedlings (9).

Sustained yield allows man to make not just individual trees, but whole forests, last indefinitely—while still using the wood.

Methodist Women Plan Dinner

President Mrs. Merlin Kenny opened the Wednesday afternoon meeting of United Methodist Women with a Valentine reading.

Ten members attended the meeting in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Tom Bowers was a guest. Mrs. Don Harmer reported on the January meeting, and Mrs. Walt Lage read the treasurer's report.

Roll call was "What Faith Means to Me."

Mrs. Parry Johnson reported on the first in a series of three dinners, which was served Jan. 24.

It was announced that Mrs. Gordon Davis is chairman for the next dinner, which has been slated for Feb. 28. The public is invited. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Willis Lage and Mrs. Walt Lage. Mrs. Duane Creamer, Mrs. Jim Fredrickson and Mrs. Lyle Cunningham will be in charge of the Country Store.

The Carroll unit will host the annual District of Missions Convention to be held May 3. Theme will be "Living Through Loving."

Mrs. Don Harmer and Mrs.

Don Harmeler presented the lesson, entitled "Prayers of Ad-ventures of Faith." They were assisted by Mrs. Louise Boyce, Mrs. Jay Drake, Mrs. Ron Jensen, Mrs. Perry Johnson and Mrs. Walt Lage.

Mrs. Don Harmeler was hostess for the February meeting.

Mrs. Charles Whitney and Mrs. Walt Lage will have the lesson at the next meeting, set for Feb. 28. Mrs. Duane Creamer and Mrs. J.C. Woods will serve.

The Lyle Millers of Magnet were Feb. 11 guests to honor the occasion.

Meet at Church

Thirteen members were present Wednesday when St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWAL met at the church.

Mrs. Arnold Junck was in charge of devotions and prayer. Mrs. Edward Fork accompanied for the hymn "Jesus Savior Pilot Me."

President Mrs. Murray Leicy conducted the meeting, and Mrs. Arnold Junck and Mrs. Ernest Junck gave the secretary and treasurer's reports.

Mrs. Gilmore Sals read "It's Always Somebody Else," and explained how to get material pertaining to "How to Know Your Bible." Mrs. Sals also explained the meaning of the Lord's Prayer for daily devotion.

The group signed a Valentine for Mrs. Anna Paulsen.

It was announced that a paper drive being sponsored by the society will end on Sunday, Feb. 25. Residents with papers are asked to have them at the church that day for pick-up.

The Christian Growth Spring Workshop will be held at the Trinity Lutheran Church of Altona on April 24, with registration from 9 to 9:30 a.m.

A no-host dinner with husbands as guests will be served preceding the next regular meeting on March 14 at noon.

Visit Arizona

The Cyril Hansens and Heidi went to Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 1 to visit her parents, the Jesse Kellys of Page, who are spending the winter in Arizona.

While there, Hansens attended an open house reception honoring her parents' golden wedding anniversary.

Hansens also visited with the Ray Finns, formerly of Carroll, at Phoenix, and with Hansen's brother and family, the Jim Hansens, and with LeAnn Mead, all at Gardena, Ariz. They returned home Feb. 11.

Afford Play

The Town and Country Home Extension Club went to Wayne Tuesday evening to see the play "The Miser" at Wayne State College.

Following the play, the club returned to the Merlin Kenny home. Mrs. Wayne Hankins was a guest and Mrs. Larry Wittler is a new member.

Mrs. Melvin Dowling conducted the business meeting. A report on the last meeting was given by Mrs. Lynn Roberts. Roll call was "A Favorite Play Actor."

It was announced that a "Leap on Lincoln" trip sponsored by councils in three counties is being planned for March 15.

Mrs. Dean Owens will be hostess for the March 6 meeting and Mrs. Lynn Roberts will have the lesson.

Presbyterian Women

United Presbyterian Women met Tuesday at the church following a dinner at noon. Mrs. Erwin Morris was coffee chairman.

Mrs. Enos Williams conducted the meeting. Acting secretary was Mrs. Keith Owens. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Esther Batten.

The group worked on a quilt for Missions.

Next meeting will be Feb. 21 following a noon dinner with husbands as guests.

This Community of Ours Is Not Perfect

... but we don't make it better by hauling a lot of our trading money across country to the traffic-traumatized crime jungles that smugly call themselves our "area shopping centers"

Our necessary but necessarily rapacious big cities have ghosted out a lot of once-thriving smaller communities by siphoning off their lifeblood (trading money) with the cooperation of the victims.

After a community has city-shopped itself out of good sources of daily and emergency needs, good neighbors, good schools, good jobs and property values and other nice things, it is a little late to do much about it. Let's start stopping this development here. Now.

Cooking School Draws Crowd

MRS. LARRY HANSEN is shown here preparing the golden pineapple sweet rolls to be baked. Miss Mary Youngbeck, home economist demonstrated how to make this recipe and several more during the Cooking School that was held Friday. Over 700 people braved the cold weather to attend the school. The recipes prepared during the show were given away at the end of the show as door prizes. There were two intermissions during the show. A style show was held during the first intermission. Wayne clothing stores furnished the models and the new spring styles. The door prize winners were announced during the intermissions and at the end of the show.

Art Work Displayed

Art work was displayed by members of the Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club when they met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Harvey Larsen. Ten members attended the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Joyce Niemann. Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Joe Corbit and Mrs. Larsen taught members how to knit and crochet. Mrs. Corbit also read an article on arts. Mrs. Niemann reminded members there will be a blood pressure clinic on March 22 during the annual pancake feed sponsored by the Wayne Kiwanis. It also was announced that the Helen Becker Mental Health Clinic will be held at the Villa Inn in Norfolk on April 3. Registration for the "Leap on Lincoln" tour must be in by March 2. The tour is scheduled for March 15.

A seventh of earth's land surface is dry desert.

Vida Sutherland received the hostess prize.
