Winter Proves Costliest in Years

The bone-chill winter season seems to be about over as temperatures stayed pretty much in the 30's during the first part of the week.

An abating winter is good news to Wayne County commissioners who have been struggling to meet the elements. While they have succeeded for the most part, the winter of 1979 is going to go down as not only one of the most severe but as one of the most expensive.

Merlin Belermann, district 1 commissioner and chairman of the county board, said the winter will probably cost taxpayers in excess of $100,000 more than other winters in recent years.

The winter has been especially hard on county snow removal equipment. Repairs have already totaled nearly $35,000 and the complete extent of the wear and tear will not be known for some time.

Some of the repairs have included a new motor for a payload loader and a clutch. The motor is expected to cost between $6,000 and $7,000. The payload loader will also have a clutch replaced which will cost an estimated $1,500.

A maintainer has required the replacement of a differential to the tune of about $6,000. Other repairs were made while the wheels were off to make the necessary major repair.

Kenneth Eddie, commissioner district 2, said he has had two crawler cats contracted to remove snow in his district after a patrol broke down. This is expected to cost between $12,000 and $13,000.

Jerry Pospishil, district 3 commissioner, said he has been experiencing the same mechanical breakdowns in his district. He also said fuel costs to clear the snow are running about $10,000 more this winter than they have in past winters. Belermann said there already is something like $30,000 in labor which can be assessed to snow removal. "We have been working 24 hours a day at times, seven days a week," Belermann explained. "This is beginning to tell on the operators because they can take only so much," he pointed out.

The chairman said the main thrust of the snow removal has been to clear the mail and bus routes. "We have left many of the dirt roads closed because they weren't being used that much and they would blow shut just about as fast as we could get them open."

Belermann said the board has received very few complaints about roads not being open.

Pospishil said there was one instance where a family took advantage of a situation by reporting they were out of fuel. "Our crews worked for about five hours clearing a road into their place only to find they did have fuel."

While the cold temperatures and heavy snows may be on their way out, the board said things are still far from over.

The said when the thaw does come, they expect many of the dirt roads to be ripped up and gravel lost as well as bridges having to be repaired or replaced.

The county has 22 pieces of snow removal equipment.

AN EMOTIONAL group of Winside fans cheered their wrestlers on toward a state team championship in Lincoln's Bob Devaney Sports Center Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This group of excited fans watches with confidence, as they encourage and inspire the Winside wrestler below during Class D finals, Saturday afternoon. Winside won the state team crown with 100½ points to 84 points for Arnold. Story and more photos on the inside.

'Human Dignity'

Taxpayers, Not Tax Burdens

Two women who made their presence known in the legislature last year, are making their mark on this year's legislature.

Their efforts are directed at making the world as comfortable for as many as possible, especially the young.

Sharon Corbit and Kay Cattle, joined by Be Magdanz, Laurel, are making known their opposition to two bills now in committee which affect the training of handicapped children.

Mrs. Corbit appeared before the Education committee to express her opposition to LB 226 which raises the age of when a child is eligible for aid to three years of age.

Mrs. Corbit discussed the economic ramifications of waiting until the age of three to begin an educational program for a handicapped child. She pointed out the most severely handicapped children should be under a program as early as possible and that the earlier they begin the less it would cost the state later on.

However, she told the committee there is a more important reason why she opposes LB 226.

Mrs. Corbit told the members about Kall Jo, the youngest of her three children. Kall Jo, who has many friends in the Wayneland area, is five and one-half years old. She is mentally retarded.

Kall Jo has Down's Syndrome. However, because of the leadership of the state of Nebraska, Kall Jo was not placed in a full institution and crossed off as incapable of learning. She entered school when she was two years old.

Mrs. Corbit told the members that this young member of society who previously was pushed into a corner, rides the school bus every morning with the two other Corbit children, Tim and Kecla.

Kall Jo feeds and dresses herself. She has a vocabulary of more than 700 words. Mrs. Corbit said Kall Jo makes herself understood and she makes certain others understand such as saying grace when the family sits down to eat.

Mrs. Corbit told the members she firmly believes Kall will never be on the welfare rolls of the state because she can communicate with society. She credits this ability to communicate to early intervention.

She asked the committee to give the handicapped preschoolers of Nebraska, below the age of three, the same opportunity as Kall was given. She expressed her opinion that through early intervention, many handicapped children will become tax payers instead of tax burdens.

"At that point in time, they will have their place in the sun and two words: 'human dignity' will become a reality."

Mrs. Cattle, chairman of the Project Predict and Prevent, expressed her opposition to LB 46 which would give school districts an option as to whether or not they would offer learning programs for handicapped children.

This bill is also in committee.

Perry Jarvis

Other Times and Other Winters

Winters come and winters go, but the 1978-79 winter will be one that will be remembered along with others.

The Herald Feb. 8 carried a story on the current winter as well as referring back to other winters which have been record-setters.

The story brought a response from Perry Jarvis whose address is now Laurel but who was in trucking business in Carroll during the winter of 1936.

The article mentioned the hardships in transporting the body of Elmer Fredrickson to the undertaker. Jarvis was one of those who had a major role in getting the body to Winside.

Jarvis said the roads in and out of Carroll were completely blocked with snow packed so hard that "you could walk over the top of the drifts."

He said the only equipment they had to open the roads was a little old Allis Chalmers main-tainer with "V" plow mounted on the front of it. "It was operated by Herb Jenkins. Herb did the best that he or anyone else could do with what he had to work with, but it was no match for the job that had to be done."

Jarvis went on to state that a group of about 40 persons got together and made plans to try to get a road opened to Winside. "Each man brought a scoop shovel. They got into my truck which he had purchased from Biggs Motor Co. (Wayne) and we started out, followed by Herb and his maintainer."

Jarvis said at that time, the road used road to Winside was a road past the Catholic church, which was a level road running about one mile east of Carroll. "We made it through that mile the first day, which placed us seven and one-half miles directly north of Winside. We knew that a group from Winside was starting north from there to meet us."

Jarvis continued: "The next morning, we loaded Elmer's body into my truck and started out again, expecting to meet the group from Winside. He said progress was slow and by noon they had made a little over a mile and a half. "We finally met (with the Winside group) at the end of the second day."

Jarvis explained that Fredrickson was to be buried in a country cemetery southwest of Carroll. "The next day, we started to open the road to the cemetery and on the second day, we made it. "We all felt that we were lucky that the roads did not drift shut again before the funeral could be held and burial the next day." Jarvis said it was bitter cold during all this time. "I can't give the exact temperature, but I do recall that it was constantly below zero. A few of the fellows suffered frost bite on hands, feet and face."

Jarvis said the winter of 1949-50 probably produced the most snow of any recent winters, "although by this time, we had far better equipment to handle the snow with." Jarvis explained the 5th Army sent a group of men and equipment to the Wayneland area to open up the snow-blocked roads.

A picture in the Herald while the 5th Army was in the area showed a drift opened by 5th Army equipment one and one-half miles east of Carroll. "This cut measured 37 feet from the top to the bottom of the road. See WINTERS, page 5

Official Records —

Statistics Leave No Doubt January Spawns Records

The record cold weather as reported in the Feb. 8 issue of the Herald was not just confined to the Wayneland area.

A preliminary climatic summary for Nebraska clearly shows that January 1979 was the coldest January in Nebraska in record. Moreover, its average temperature of 6.6 degrees tied February 1936 as the coldest of any month ever recorded in Nebraska.

The average temperature for the Wayneland area for the month was even less than the average, ranging down to approximately 5.5 degrees.

According to records of the National Weather Service, the average number of January days when maximum temperatures in Nebraska are 32 degrees or lower, ranges from 9 to 17 days.

Valentine's Day in the Wayneland area proved to be the breaking point as temperatures climbed to near the 40 degree mark for the first time since Dec. 22, 1978.

The low temperatures for the month in the Wayneland area came on Jan. 8 and 15 when the mercury dropped to a minus 18 degrees.

The lowest temperature reported in the state was 35 degrees below zero on Jan. 1 at Northwest Agricultural laboratory in Box Butte county. On the same day, Hay Springs recorded 34 degree below zero and Harrisburg had 31 degrees below.

Precipitation during January was above normal, although the cumulative measurement for Northeast Nebraska was 15 percent below normal.

The immediate area received approximately 1.25 inches of precipitation. The Wayneland area is blanketed in approximately 14 inches of snow but other areas in the division reported only 7 to 8 inches.

Table Rock in Pawnee county recorded 23 inches with Auburn reporting 18 inches with Sterling, Falls City and Nebraska City are recording 21 inches.

Snow fell intermittently during the month. High winds blew snow into drifts and roads were frequently closed. The high winds and low temperatures resulted in chill factors of 50 to 60 degrees below zero on numerous days.

On Jan. 18, precipitation in the form of freezing rain formed a glaze of ice on exposed surfaces over most of the state.

Other sources for the weather data were the department of commerce and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric administration.

WORKERS TAKE advantage of a break in the weather Monday to scoop a harsh winter's accumulation of snow off the roof of the Big Red Motel in Laurel. Cold weather and continuing snow storms have kept many persons from taking the weight off their roofs. While there is some snow predicted for later in the week, temperatures are supposed to stay in the teens or lower 20's, giving some relief to a constant vigil against the winter.

Homeowners sometimes employ a friend or relative to conduct extensive remodeling work on their homes, with the owner acting as owner-builder. On the surface, this seems to be an easy way of saving money and helping a friend at the same time.

However, in such cases the owner will be held responsible for conformance with all building codes and ordinances. He is also liable for anyone injured on the job during the alterations, which could involve large sums. Often, the remodeling contractor more than earns his fee when he assumes full responsibility for the job.

We're available to give you our opinions on any matter relating to real estate, including the feasibility of remodeling. Our goal is to serve you in any way we can. Come in and "TALK IT OVER" with us.

Jarvis said he has been caught in several bad storms, "but the worst one that I was caught in was on March 17, 1922." He said he had a substitute mail carrier on a rural route of Carroll, Dow Love, the regular carrier, was laid up with a bad cold, according to Jarvis. "He had a little old enclosed buggy he used when roads were impassable for cars. On this particular morning, I hitched up the team to the buggy and we started out."

Jarvis said it was a beautiful morning. "But all at once the wind came up and in a few minutes it started to snow. By noon, I could not even see the town. How that team ever faced that storm will always be a mystery to me."

Jarvis recounted that the team came to a driveway leading into the home of Edward Fork, Sr. "They turned in there and with the help of Fork and one of his sons, we got the team unhitched and into the barn. That storm lasted some 20 hours. The temperature got down to 14 degrees below zero."

Jarvis concluded by stating he could remember his father and some of the old timers talking about the blizzard of Jan. 12, 1888. "That was 12 years before my time so I am unable to give a personal account of it... but it must have been a bad one."

Children's Answers Reveal Actions Louder Than Words

"It does us all a little good once in a while to see how life looks from someone else's point of view," says Jocelyn Moody, area home extension agent.

Following is a list of answers children gave when they were asked "What's wrong with grown-ups?"

One little girl said, "Grown-ups make promises, then they forget them, or else they say it wasn't really a promise, just a maybe. My mommy is doing this all the time. She always promises me something and then forgets it."

Another girl had this to say: "Grown-ups talk so much about money and bills and things like that that it scares me. They say money isn't very important, but the way they talk about it, it sounds like the most important thing in the world."

Another child stated, "Grown-ups don't do things they are always telling children to do, like pick up things, or be neat, or be on time for supper, or always tell the truth. My daddy never picks up his clothes and all mom ever does is get angry and yell at us kids and then pick up daddy's clothes."

"Grown-ups never understand how much children want a certain thing, color, shape or size. If it's something they don't like, even if the children have spent their own money for it, they always say, 'I can't imagine what you want with that thing." "Grown-ups make kids wear all kinds of winter clothes, yet they go outside or stand in the open door without even a sweater on days when the temperature is near zero."

A boy observed, "Grown-ups are always talking about being healthy and taking care of yourself, yet so many of them smoke cigarettes."

And finally, "Grown-ups are always talking about what they did and what they knew when they were my age. But grown-ups never try to think what it's like to be six years old right now!"

'Footsteps' Program Designed for Parents

Most people undertake the most important job of their lives — parenting — with little or no training.

"Footsteps," a 20-part series, is currently being shown on all Nebraska ETV channels on Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. with repeats on Sundays at 3 p.m.

The series attempts to help parents understand and cope with the challenges of raising children. "Footsteps" offers alternatives and options to parents. It does not "preach" or give cut-and-dried solutions.

Anna Marie Kreflets, area home extension agent, said each 30-minute program deals with situations that all parents, sooner or later, experience with their children. Some topics in the series are: Discipling a child, establishing good habits, listening to children, developing social skills, dealing with childhood fears, and developing creativity.

Parents may also request the free 44-page viewer's guide by writing directly to "Footsteps," Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

With No Individual Champs

Winside Grabs Class D Wrestling Crown

Sports experts have said for years that it takes team balance to win a state championship of any type, and Winside wrestling coach Doug Reeves couldn't agree more.

Although none of the 10 Winside state qualifiers won an individual championship, the depth of the team earned Winside a greater honor — the 1978-79 Class D State Team Championship.

Championship.

Three Winside grapplers, Brian Foote at 112 pounds, Tom Koll at 145 and Mitch Pfeiffer at 185 headed the finals of their weight classes only to settle for second place. The combined record of their finals' opponents is now 69-2. All three champions had over 20 wins and Pfeiffer's opponent at 185 had not lost. The three finalists had won three straight matches in their respective weight classes before losing in the finals. Mark Koch at 98 pounds, was the lone Wildcat to place third when he won a 4-1 decision over Neal Hubbard of Elm Creek. In the consolation finals, Rick Bowers finished fourth in the 119-pound class—rack up some more team points for Winside. Tom Anderson, at 126, was the other individual to place, when he captured fifth. Four other wrestlers, Doug Jaeger at 105, Barry Bowers at 132, Eric VanKamp at 155 and Kent Glassmeyer at 184, were outscored the Cadets 17-10 in the tournament, but helped supply the team balance. "Bringing that many wrestlers through did it," Coach Reeves said. "Team balance led us to the championship. That's what won for us all year — depth and balance." Winside scored 100% points to outdistance second place Arnold by 16% points. The Wildcats lost the state championship in Class C in 1974-75. "It was a little disappointing without a state champion. We had three good shots but undoubtedly wrestled some excellent kids," Reeves stated. "We did place six guys in the top five places for a great effort. Three will be coming back next year." "I was pleased with Mark Koch. He kept his poise and wrestled real strong opposition. I was happy with Foote. He was awfully disappointed losing, but had tough competition," said Reeves. "Rick Bowers did a good job against strong opposition. Koll used his head and made use of smart moves. And Pfeiffer came out strong against Blaha (in the finals). The score went back and forth. It could have gone either way." "I'm sorry to see the seniors go. They provided depth for us and will have to fill in with junior varsity wrestlers and we will continue throughout the year." Reeves said that he is now looking forward to track season and the weight program that will continue throughout the year.

Blue Devils Finish Off West Point 71-54 After Friday Night's Loss To Pierce

The Wayne Blue Devils completed their regular season by splitting their final two games. Wayne lost to Pierce 52-47 Friday but rebounded to defeat West Point 71-54 Tuesday.

Pierce led during most of the first three quarters Friday night but the Devils closed the difference in the fourth period, getting within one or two points several times.

"It was a two-point game in the fourth quarter and it looked like we would get them," Wayne coach Bill Sharpe said. "But we couldn't score when we needed to."

Sharpe stated that his team played poorly but added that the Blue Devils gained the momenturn in the fourth quarter — they just couldn't take advantage of it.

Tom Ginn led Wayne with 17 points and Brad Emry added 10 against a team that Sharpe described as a quick, patient and impressive ball club. Higgins led Pierce with 17 points.

In the rebounding department, Ginn grabbed 12 and Tony Rezek 7 for Wayne, which was outrebounded 41-34, including 14-9 on the offensive boards.

Zeiss Pops 22 Points

Jeff Zeiss was the powerplug for Wayne in the 71-54 win over West Point Thursday night. The 5-6 junior hit 10 field goals and totaled 22 points as Wayne's record moved to 11-8.

Brad Emry, with 10 points, was the only other Wayne player in double figures. Tom Rezek, Perry Nelson and Brad Emry pulled down 12, 9 and 8 rebounds respectively, as Wayne totaled 52 to West Point's 32. The Blue Devils shot 43% percent from the field, for the night and committed 19 turnovers to 30 for the visitors. Tom Ortmeier led West Point with 13 points.

According to Coach Sharpe, the Devils played in spurts, looking good at times and poor at other times. He added that Wayne's pressure defense did a good job against a West Point team that's not too bad.

The second half made the difference for Wayne, which led 12-11 after the first quarter and 30-27 at half. The Blue Devils outscored the Cadets 17-10 and 24-17 in the final two periods.

Wayne's junior varsity won both of its contests, downing Pierce 57-49 and dropping West Point 64-56. Scorers vs. Pierce: Tod Heier, 12; Stu Nissen, 10; Jeff Sperry, 2; Scott Wassel, 2; Jere Morris, 13; Steve Sorenson, 4; Kevin Nissen, 11; Tim Pfeiffer, 3.

Scorers vs. West Point: Jere Morris, 11; Jeff Sperry, 2; Stu Nissen, 4; Tod Heier, 1; Scott Wassel, 5; Steve Sorenson, 2; Todd Skokan, 3; Paul Sutherland, 2; Kevin Nissen, 17; Tim Pfeiffer, 6; Steve Koll, 3; Doug Proett, 2.

The varsity is scheduled to begin district action Monday, March 5 at 6:30 p.m. against Schuyler in the Norfolk High School gym. Sharpe said that he is confident his team can beat Schuyler in this rematch. The Blue Devils lost at home earlier in the season.

Second Quarter Slip Costly For Wakefield

The Wakefield Trojans had one bad lapse against the Ponca Indians Monday night and that score cost the Trojans in a 70-63 loss at Ponca, in a game postponed from Friday night.

Scott Hallstrom had a keen eye, pumping in 26 points for Wakefield while Barry Jones added 10 to the cause. Both teams played well but the difference was in the second quarter, according to Wakefield Coach Joe Coble.

"It was a very well-played game for both teams. We didn't lose, we got beat," Coble said. "The difference in the game was late in the second quarter when they got 10 unanswered points for an 11-point lead."

Coble's club rallied to get within two points but could get no closer. The Trojans were forced to foul late in the game, as they attempted to gain the lead, but Ponca had a successful night at the free throw line.

The only real problem for the Trojans, according to Coble, was the second quarter stretch where some of Wakefield's players were either tired or loafing. That's when Ponca's fast break took its toll.

Wakefield shot 46 percent from the field and collected 29 rebounds. Jones led the team with eight rebounds while Tom Preston had a strong night with 10 assists. Sheldon Koeppe and Rick Curry scored 20 and 19 points respectively for Ponca.

In the reserve game, Ponca tripped the Wakefield JV's 51-37. Jeff Hallstrom led the junior Trojans with 12 points as they finished with an 8-6 record.

The Wakefield varsity, now 9-8 is scheduled to play Homer in the first round of districts tomorrow (Friday) at 8:15 p.m. in the Wayne High School gym.

Coble said that he is confident his team can beat them and stated that he would love the opportunity to play Lyons in the second round of districts. He then emphasized that his team must get past Homer first.

Strong Season Marred By Albion

A sweet basketball season came to a bitter end Tuesday night when the Wayne High girls basketball team was bombarded by the state ranked Albion Cardinals 65-41. The loss — Wayne's first to a Class B school — was delivered in B-4 district action at Platte College, Columbus.

The Blue Devils reached the semifinals by dumping Schuyler 52-43 Monday night.

Against Albion, Wayne simply played a poor game and turned the ball over too many times. Albion took advantage of the Wayne turnovers to post the win. "It's tough to finish a good season with a poor game," Wayne coach Curt Frye said following the loss.

The big difference in the game was the lack of offensive punch for Wayne compared to Ann Tishammer of Albion with 38 points.

Peg Pinkelman led the Blue Devils with 13 points followed by Julia Dorcey and Lesa Barclay with six points each. It was the final game for seniors Pinkelman, Barclay, Susie Proett and LaVonna Sharpe. The 13-4 record makes the seniors' season 38-19 for the last four years.

District Loss To Bancroft

Allen Girls Bow Out

The Allen girls basketball team felt its hopes for a berth in the state Class D basketball tourney come to a halt, last Wednesday night when a strong, underrated Bancroft team pulled a 34-32 overtime upset.

Without the services of senior captain Erwin for all but one minute of the game, the Eagles lacked some of the spark that had carried them to an undefeated regular season. Lisa Erwin and Des Williams teamed up for 10 points each. Pam Brownell led the rebounding with 11, followed by Erwin and Lisa Wood with 9 and 8 points each.

Although Bancroft was the underdog, Allen coach Steve McManigal didn't underestimate the abilities of the team led by 6-1 Linda Semuelson. "They have the strength of a tall girl and can play well," he said.

Allen led throughout the game but finally fell behind late in the game when Lisa Erwin had to sit on the bench in foul trouble. With 11 seconds left, Erwin hit a jump shot, tying the game and sending it into overtime. Bancroft scored one basket in the extra period while Allen was shutout.

"We had our chances. Both teams had opportunities in the overtime but Bancroft came through," McManigal stated.

Although his team ended its season on a disappointing note, McManigal had fond memories of the 13-1 season. "We really had a good year. We can't forget that. There was a lot of excitement and pleasure. Although we'll miss our two

WSC Kittens Close Out Season

Julie Petronis of Sioux City, Iowa, led all scorers with her season high of 20 points, but it wasn't enough as the Wildkittens fell to the Lady Hornets of Emporia State 90-69 Saturday at Emporia.

The balance of Emporia State

Hornet Pam Bulson who grabbed 23 rebounds. Kittens' comeback fails short as the Wildkittens were plagued by injuries and fouls as their second half comeback fell short with the Lady Blues of Washburn winning 58-45 Friday at Topeka, Kan.

The Kittens could only muster 13 points in the first half, but outscored the Lady Blues 32-30 in the second half.

Lynne Larson of Irwin, Iowa, did not play at all due to an ankle injury and Ann Hamling of Columbus spent much of the game on the bench nursing an injury.

Wildcats Drop Three Straight

Robert Smith of Washburn hit his 19th point of the game with two seconds left on the clock to give the Washburn Ichabods a 70-68 win over the Wayne State Wildcats, at Topeka, Kan., Friday.

The dramatic shot was set up after Wildcat Wattle Rhoda of Elizabethtown, N.C., tied the score 68-68 with 1:22 left in the game. The Ichabods responded with a well-executed delay game. Washburn called a time-out with 15 seconds remaining to set up the play for Smith's 20-footer.

Rhoda led the Cats with 20 points, 11 of those in second half action which saw Wayne State outscore Washburn 42-40.

Zake Lorick of Lumberton, N.C., hit 13, while Bob Reeson of

WSC Track Team Third

The WSC men's track team opened its indoor season with a third place finish at Doane College Saturday at Crete. WSC finished with 25 points, behind Doane with 44 and Midland with 62.

Placing for the Wildcats were Jeff Helmholdt, fourth, tossing the shot put 42-11; Dave McNeel, who broke his hand while vaulting 12 feet in the pole vault, good for third place; Ron West Point and Dean Onken of Carroll, Iowa, each scored 10 points for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats ran into a hot-shooting Hornet team from Emporia, State and fell 91-78 Saturday at Emporia.

The Hornets hit 57 percent of their shots from the field and 85 percent from the free throw line compared to Wayne State's 49 percent and 29 percent respectively.

Bob Reeson of West Point was the main reason the Cats hit 49 percent from the field. He dumped in 11 of his 14 shots from the field for 79 percent in the game. Reeson led all scorers with 23 points and pulled down 10 rebounds. The 6-6 senior pushed his season shooting percentage up to nearly 64 percent from the field.

WSC had defeated Emporia earlier this season at home 85-83.

The Wildcats lost an 84-73 decision Tuesday night at Doane College for their third consecutive loss. Doane led 41-37 at the half and held on to drop Wayne's record to 10-15.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Husell

AREA GIRLS SUFFERED disappointment this past week in Class C and D district basketball action.

Allen, rated number four in Class D stumbled in Class D districts, losing to Bancroft. Winslow, which had been playing well, lost to Elkhorn Valley in Class C action. Laurel and Wakefield also lost in their Class C district tourneys. The losses bring seasons to an abrupt ending for the four teams.

The other area girls' team, Wayne, lost in Class B district action this week at Platte College, Columbus.

I ATTENDED THE Nebraska State Wrestling Championships, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Lincoln at the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

A total of 768 wrestlers competed for championships in their respective weight classes on eight mats. The wrestling was high caliber and exciting most of the time.

When wrestlers get to the state tournament, their season can be thrown right out the window. The wrestlers who come out on or near the top are the ones who want the championships the most, and work the hardest for them.

Although there were no individual champions from The Wayne Herald area, there were some great efforts from the 18 wrestlers representing this area. I was disappointed that some of the top wrestlers didn't finish higher but I wasn't disappointed with their efforts. They made their best attempts but ran into some stiff competition. Congratulations to all of the state wrestlers and good luck to the ones who will return next year.

IN BETWEEN ROUNDS at the state wrestling championships, I found an opportunity to watch a gymnastics meet. The University of Nebraska, number one in the nation, and the University of Oklahoma, number two, engaged in a dual.

A record number, 4,000 fans packed into the sports center to watch the event. That breaks the old NU attendance record of approximately 1,400. Some of the best gymnasts in the country — if not the world — competed head-to-head and the fans really appreciated it.

The crowd was quiet until after an individual performed his routine. Then, whether the gymnast was from Oklahoma or Nebraska, the crowd demonstrated its approval with a nice round of applause. There are few sports remaining, where the fans express appreciation for both teams as they did with gymnastics that night.

SPECIAL CONGRATULATIONS to the medal winners at the state tourney. They are: Wayne-Rick Johnson, fifth; Dan Mitchell, fifth; Wakefield-Mark Schopke, fifth; Winslow-Tom Anderson, fifth; Mark Koch, third; Rick Bowers fourth; Brian Foote, second; Tom Koll, second; Mitch Pfeiffer, second.

APOLOGIES to Tom Koll and Eric Vahlkamp for mistaken identities in last Thursday's edition. The names of the two wrestlers were interchanged under their pictures.

Allen Loses Season Finale 61-47 To Wynot

The Allen Eagles completed their regular season on a losing note as they fell to a strong Wynot team 61-47 in Allen Friday night.

Allen held a first quarter lead of 12-11 but Wynot took control in the second quarter behind Kary Schroeder's 16 points. Three Eagles scored in double figures to lead the scoring. Steve Stewart connected for 11 points and Bart Gotch and Greg Carr followed with 10 each. Allen completes its regular season with a 5-9 record.

"We had 24 turnovers and that's too many to win," Allen Coach Bart Kniffel said. "Wynot used an awfully good press. Greg Carr came off the bench to do a real good job for us at the guard position and Steve Stewart and Bart Gotch played well." Kniffel went on to say that this is the first time in six years that Allen has won more than four games.

Swim Team Selects Best Swimmers

By Brad Wieland
WSC Sports Information Assistant

Wayne State completed its regular swimming schedule with Buena Vista College of Storm Lake, Ia., with a fourth-place tie at the Concordia Invitational last Friday and Saturday in Seward. WSC finished 5-6 in dual action this season.

John Erick of Arvada, Col., earned WSC's only first-place at the Concordia event with a pool record of 211 points in the one-meter diving competition.

The WSC 400-yard medley relay team, consisting of Duane Hugo of West Point, Roger Lebert of Omaha, Dan Gulnan of Missouri Valley, Ia. and Barry Burt of Hartley, Ia., swam for a second-place finish with a 4:06 mark.

Wayne State was hindered in competition with a small swimming squad of only six swimmers and two divers. This year's squad consisted of only one senior and seven underclassmen.

The swimmers voted last Monday on the most valuable and most improved swimmers and selected the team captains for the 1979-80 season.

Senior captain, Duane Hugo of West Point, was elected this year's most valuable swimmer. Hugo's most notable achievement was at the Wayne-Dordt dual when he finished first in the 200, 500 and 1000 yard freestyle events and in the 200 butterfly. He was also a member of the 400 freestyle relay team which finished first.

Ken Timmerman of Omaha was elected this year's most improved swimmer by team members.

Captains for the 1979-80 Wildcats will be Dan Gulnan of Missouri Valley, Ia., and Roger Lebert of Omaha.

Fire Destroys Home

Donations of clothing are being taken for the Bill Sachau family of rural Allen, who lost all of their possessions during a house fire late Saturday afternoon.
The Sachau family were in Laurel at the time of the blaze. A neighbor reportedly saw smoke in the area and notified the Allen-Waterbury Volunteer Fire Department.

According to a spokesman for the fire department, the blaze was burning out of control when firemen arrived. All of Sachau's personal belongings were destroyed along with the house.

On Tuesday the Pleasant Hour Club of Allen and the Waterbury Altar Guild sponsored a benefit for the Sachau family at the Allen fire hall.

Donations of clothing are still being taken for Bill, who wears a large size and a 36-34 pants, his wife Mikki, who wears a petite 5-6, five-year-old Chris, size 5, four-year-old Heather, who wears a size 4, and six month-old Brent, who wears a size 12 to 18 months.

EXTENSION NOTES

By Tama Krause

FOOD-DRUG INTERACTIONS CAN BE HARMFUL

Food and drugs have a lot in common. If you're taking a drug, the food you eat could make it work faster, or slower, or even prevent it from working at all.

Eating certain foods while taking certain drugs can be dangerous. And some drugs can affect the way your body uses food.

The extent of interaction between food and drugs depends on the drug dosage and the individual's age, size and medical condition. In general, the presence of food in the stomach and intestines can influence a drug's effectiveness by slowing down or speeding up the time it takes for medication to work.

Foods also contain natural and added chemicals that can react with drugs in ways that make the drug useless. It's because of these interactions that your doctor tells you to take certain medications on an empty stomach, some just before meals and some with meals. An example is the interaction between tetracycline and milk products. The calcium in milk, cheese and yogurt impairs the absorption of the popular antibiotic.

On the other hand, taking some iron supplements with citrus fruits or juices which contain ascorbic acid enhances the absorption of the iron.

In order to prevent undesirable food-drug interactions, always read the labels and package inserts on medicines, whether they are prescription drugs or not. Follow your doctor's orders about when to take drugs and what foods or beverages to avoid while on medication.

Consumers shouldn't be afraid to ask what interactions are possible when they're given a new medication. Don't be afraid to describe unusual symptoms, either. Your doctor or pharmacist should be able to supply the information you need.

Workman's comp would reach $180 weekly

CAPITOL NEWS
By Hehrin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
LINCOLN — A compromise worked out carefully in the Business and Labor committee forestalled extended floor debate before the Legislature recently voted 27-9 preliminary approval of a bill that would increase the maximum workmen's compensation total disability benefit to $180 a week, $25 more than is currently paid.

In its original form, the bill proposed raising the maximum benefit to $170, but the committee amended that to $180 after Sen. William Brennan, the bill's sponsor, said the state AFL-CIO, said in return he would not push for approval of another bill he sponsored.

For several years, Brennan has been trying to sell his colleagues on the idea that the maximum benefit should be the same as the state's average weekly wage, currently $172.

He told the committee, of which he is a member, he would no longer pursue that objective, if the committee approved the $180 figure in the other bill, which was sponsored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh.

During the legislative debate, DeCamp said the business community had agreed to the $180 figure. That was after Sen. Elroy Hefer of Coleridge tried to revise the figure to $166, which Hefer described as "a reasonable and fair compromise."

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue said approval of Hefer's amendment could prompt Brennan to try again to have his own bill enacted. The Brennan measure, since it would be the maximum benefit to whatever the average weekly wage was, would take the matter out of the hands of the Legislature where the business community wants it, DeCamp noted.

The Neligh lawmaker said the compromise showed a change in business thinking because business was ready to accept a "reasonable increase."

Sen. Will Nichol of Scottsbluff said a person would have to be earning $270 per week at the time he or she was totally disabled before the worker would qualify for the $180 benefit.

The bill would also increase the allowable gross weight of trucks from 66,000 to 88,000 pounds.

Responding to questions, Kremer said the state Roads Department raised no objections to the bill and advised him the longer and slightly heavier trucks would not damage highways and bridges.

More Trade Appointments
Gov. Charles Thone still has several key positions to fill but recently appointed three more department heads.

Acting Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington of Lincoln agreed to sign on as a permanent appointee, Herrington, 68, described by Thone as a real expert on the property tax, served as tax commissioner during the 1950s.

The governor said the commissioner's expertise will be of invaluable help in the state's effort to straighten out the property tax "mess."

Thone selected Jerry J. Bolln, assistant director of the Missouri Division of Corrections, to become Nebraska's correction director, succeeding Joseph Vitak who served during the administration of J. James Exon.

Bolln, who will be paid $33,000, will start his new job April 1.

Thone said Bolln was his choice in a field of 12 candidates from across the United States.

A former president of the Packers National Bank in Omaha, John Knight, was the governor's choice to head the Wildlife Department.

Knight's background also includes 10 years as a state senator, and a stint as a Lincoln insurance and banking executive.

Thone also named William E. Mountford of Red Cloud to the state Sunshine Commission, succeeding Mimi Waldbaum of Omaha, who has been serving as chairman but whose term expired.

The governor said the commission is almost overloaded with persons from Lincoln and Omaha and there was a need to have someone from another part of the state as a member.

Drinking Age Debated
Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island is continuing his effort to have the legal drinking age changed from 19 to 21.

This year, Kelly sponsored two bills designed to accomplish his objective. One of the bills calls for a vote on a constitutional amendment to lock the legal age for consuming alcoholic beverages into the state constitution. The other bill would have the Legislature change the age.

A public hearing has been held on the constitutional proposal. But at least several members of the Constitutional Revision Committee feel it would be a mistake to place the matter into the constitution which is quite difficult to amend. It would be preferable, they said, to leave the change, if it is to be made, with the Legislature.

When asked during his weekly news conference what he thought should do Gov. Thone said he is not advocating raising the drinking age but would sign such legislation if sent to him by the Unicameral.

Wants Educational Priorities
Sen. Loren Schmit of Bellwood, the father of 10 children, said he believes they spend too much time away from home because of extracurricular activities.

During a hearing before the Legislature's Education Committee, the suggested school boards be required to place priorities on their academic programs.

He outlined a bill that would require the boards to implement a priority expenditure program that would list and rank educational and educationally related programs.

An amended version being sent to the Legislature, the Schmit bill proposes that each program designated as a priority would have to insure that basic academic education programs are developed and maintained.

Schmit said school districts with limited budgets could more easily decide which programs to fund. There was a priority list subject to review by parents and local taxpayers.

Farmers make gains

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
BY M.M. VAN KIRK, DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION

Inflation has taken and continues to take a heavy toll on the nation's farm economy but overall the financial condition of the average American farmer is better today than it was a year ago and the statistics bear this out.

The bankers and other agricultural credit agencies know this and are proceeding accordingly or there would be a lot more hollering from the farm sector than is taking place. Of course there is, always, a segment of the farm population that is in trouble. Those who have paid too much to expand their land holdings or invested too much in machinery and equipment and are over-extended on debt and interest payments can find themselves in financial stress in both good times and bad.

Cattle producers and feeders are recouping from a long period of financial losses. Hog producers have had a number of good years, have kept hog numbers in surprising good stead and have already reaped a traditional "bust" in the hog cycle.

Wheat and feed grain producers are in less favorable position, with a huge supply from a succession of record-breaking harvests that has filled storage facilities with a real glut. But grain exports, despite gains in world supplies, remain weak and have never been as high as in an unusually favorable balance. By the original farm laws passed in the early 1930's, parity was set at $1.10 per bushel. In these terms, although both commo-ties and farm techniques and conditions are much different.

The USDA, to give a more realistic picture, has for a number of years used a comparison with 1967 in presenting its monthly farm price index statistics. The most recent index comparisons are for Jan. 15. They show the value of all farm product prices at an index of 232, which means that the same products that brought the farm producers $100 in 1967, now bring him $232. Remember that this is all farm products, not individual ones.

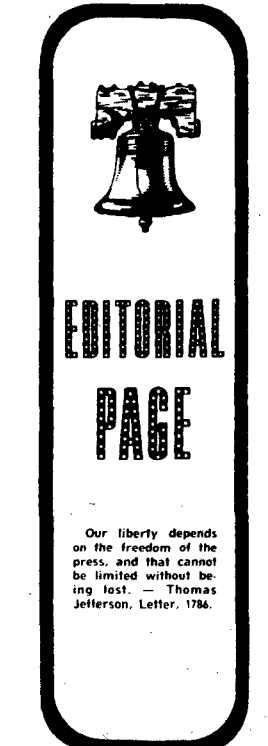

On Jan. 15, 1978, the index figure was 186. Undoubtedly, the increase reflects the big gain in livestock prices. A year ago, beef cattle averaged $40.10 per cwt., as compared to this Jan. 15 average of $59.80. Hog prices a year ago averaged $44.90 per cwt. as compared to Jan. 15 of this year at $50.60.

Grain and soybean prices are ahead of a year ago but in the same category with livestock. Wheat was figured at $3.02 on Jan. 15 of this year as compared to $2.25 on Jan. 15, 1978; corn at $2.10 compares to $1.90 a year ago; and soybeans at $6.68 per bu. compares to $5.26 a year ago.

Prices paid by farmers of course are up substantially. The index on prices paid by farmers for production items, family living, interest, taxes and wages, on Jan. 15 was 233 as compared to 209 on Jan. 15, 1978. In other words what cost farmers $100 in 1967, cost them $209 on Jan. 15, 1978 and on Jan. 15 of this year costs them $233.

The spread between production costs and production returns is made up by many farmers through good management, efficient operation and careful marketing, plus a certain element of luck which is involved in the conduct of every business but particularly farming.

Farming and ranching has never been an easy way to make a living but too often its trials and tribulations are emphasized to the exclusion of its better features.

YOU AND YOUR CAR
By the Automotive Information Council

Pamphlet lets motorist talk to mechanic

A pamphlet which advises car owners how to best deal with mechanics work is available without charge from the Automotive Information Council.

Entitled "Communicate with Your Mechanic and Save," the folder offers tips on how to describe problems to the mechanic or service writer, suggests preparation of a written list of problems, tells how to make a service facility and what to look for when doing it, how to make better use of the owner's manual and other points of advice.

Single copies are available free by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to A.I.C., P.O. Box 273, Southfield, Mich. 48037. They also can be ordered in quantity, at $4.00 per hundred copies, postage-paid. Space is provided for an organization's imprint.

The pamphlet points out that an automobile is a complex machine with an average of 15,000 parts, about 5,000 of which move, and consequently it needs a certain amount of maintenance and, eventually, repair.

"Newer cars need less maintenance than did earlier ones and, consequently, we tend to overlook some of the recommended intervals. That's usually why things go wrong," it is stated.

In urging maintenance, the pamphlet also states: "Take care of your car and it will take care of you, providing you with the world's greatest freedom of mobility."

Social Security taxes — whose burden?

The first time around, in 1953, Americans hardly felt the initial bite that Social Security taxes took out of their paychecks, amounting to only $30 a year or a little less than 40 cents a week.

Under the circumstances, the fact that Congress voted to exempt itself and public workers from the Social Security Act — and the payment of these new taxes — did not strike people as terribly out of line or inequitable.

But what about today when millions of Americans pay out more in Social Security taxes every year than they do in regular income taxes?

And outgo and income of the huge system, now covering 90 percent of the U.S. workforce, almost offset each other, so that everyone contributes for somebody else's retirement support. The question raised is:

Should Social Security now include members of Congress and be expanded to cover about a million workers in separate public retirement systems, similar to the way that Social Security and private pension systems work together?

The proposal to consolidate the systems under the Social Security Act, known as "universal coverage," is likely to become a major issue before the new 96th Congress, which is expected to meet in regular session in 1979.

These taxes rose sharply Jan. 1 and will add $19 billion to fiscal 1979's payroll taxes and $22 billion in fiscal 1980. For most workers the true impact of the increases will not come until later in the year, when the deductions, instead of stopping at $17,700, will continue to be taken out of paychecks up to a maximum of $2,900.

The issue of universal coverage almost came to a head in the last Congress when the House Ways and Means committee recommended that both private and public workers be brought under the system. The House rejected this recommendation, but Congress voted to establish an independent study group to examine the feasibility of universal coverage.

The study group, which now is conducting public hearings, must make its report to Congress by the end of 1979.

One of the leading advocates of universal coverage, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, believes the plan would have both short and long-term beneficial effects. In the short run, the Chamber believes, the infusion of new revenues would permit Congress to roll back part of the increases voted by Congress in 1977. In the long run, the business group says, the net result would be a more equitable distribution of the tax burden for all workers with benefits in keeping with lifetime earnings and contributions. Both the Social Security and public employee systems also would be far better off, in terms of future financing, particularly the public systems which are notoriously underfunded for their future needs.

"We see no reason why any working American should be exempt from supporting and participating in Social Security which is, in reality, an income transfer system in which today's workers are taxed in order to supplement the incomes of disabled," a spokesman for the Chamber, Richard W. Hutson, said in recent testimony before the study group. Hutson, a partner in an Illinois employee benefit consultant firm with 500 consultants who work with 2,000 employers, added:

"It should not be a question of whether (but) rather it is one of how it might be promptly extended to everyone, especially members of Congress and federal employees, for whom coordinated coverage under Social Security and existing staff-retirement systems would assure that total benefits are reasonably related to a worker's lifetime earnings and contributions."

Two questions of paramount significance face members of Congress as the vital issue of universal coverage heads toward a Congressional decision:

Can members of Congress — who are exempt by virtue of a decision made when Social Security taxes were a pittance — close their eyes to the fact that in today's economy Social Security taxes will cost many American workers as much as $1,403 for 1979 alone — the maximum tax paid from a worker earning $22,900 or more. Members of Congress, who earn $57,500 a year, would fall into that class.

Further, since members of Congress over the years have not had to share the burden of rapidly increasing Social Security taxes — they will rise by almost $200 billion in the next decade — can they vote the true desires and best interests of their constituents?

We shall see.

Out of Old Nebraska

The state and the stadium

It is a common experience of Nebraska and other Westerners periodically to be placed under the cultural microscope of the Eastern social commentator. Although the foreigner (or should he merely be called an "outsider"? may not always adjust the lens to the proper turn, his report is often interesting. Who can resist the temptation to read his own countryman's report? Nebraskaans are anxious to look over the shoulder of the New York journalist who published a description of the systematic raising of voices in the Cornhusker stadium's peepers of praise, "There is no place like Nebraska," every autumn Saturday.

"The pride of Nebraska," the writer continues, "is her gaudy university on the state of Lincoln and the chief business of the university is the manufacture of championship football teams." Disdaining its eastern foes, Pitt, Army, or Syracuse, "out in the real America, the Cornhuskers are kings," and gone are the weekends on which they do not proclaim "their royalty" over the peepers of praise of "Plains university."

"To the outsider beyond the Missouri or west of Scottsbluff, it may seem impious to emphasize the university stadium at the expense of a George Norris or a Willa Cather." But, the writer suggests, "only thus can Opalita and Watson and Broken Bow be made comparable, for the city of Lincoln and its university are practically the only forces that hold this hedge-podge state together."

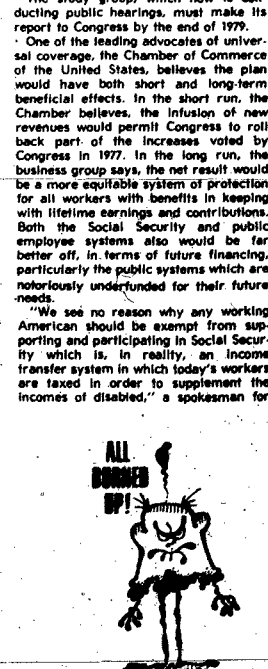

Our journalist sees the stadium as even more vital to the state than its ten million dollar, golden-domed capitol "because it takes the ranch-land from Cherry County, the sugar-beet laborer from the western penitentiary, and the pecking-house boy from South Omaha, and for three months each fall makes them a crusading host for the defense of Nebraska honor."

Opalita's off-season coaching staff offers seminars to local Rotaries and Chambers of Commerce on "the gospel of higher football . . . and every Nebraskan is pledged, by the head of the emperor, to assist in swelling the enrollment of the ball has given this school a hold over its entire constituency such as no other state university approaches, with the possible exception of Wisconsin."

A peculiar Cornhusker system of logic enables the gridiron addict to equate his university with Harvard, Oxford, the Sorbonne and Cambridge and Stanford added for good measure." Tellingly, the resume continues that the Nebraska's "pride, however, does not touch his pride, however, does not touch his pride, however, does not touch his pride. He continues to complain like a stuck pig at the burden of the university appropriation, and to applaud the legislature for heroically keeping the salary scale of teachers "below that of almost any other recognized university in the country."

Surely we can fault the interloper on many of his details and discourage what appears to be a sneer in some of his phrases. Even in the cold light of Sunday morning, as the objective (but football-loving) observer sits amid the sports page, the journalist's damnable article was established in Roundup: A Nebraska Reader (editor, Virginia Feutkner, 1957) found in the library of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Sources Identified In Animal Poisonings

Five sources of accidental animal poisonings have been identified by Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources veterinarians through diagnosis of the deaths of both small and large animals.

Dr. Alex Hogg, IANR extension veterinarian, said the public, especially farmers and ranchers, needs to be aware of these potential sources of poison to animals: rotoform insecticides, nitrates, lead, antifreeze (ethylene glycol), the ornamental plant, Japanese yew.

Two recent cases involving the rotoform insecticide resulted from putting the leftover insecticide in a mineral sack and later inadvertently feeding the material as mineral to feedlot cattle, and disposing a sack of insecticide in an open trash dump in a pasture.

"It takes only from one-fifth to one-half a teaspoon of the active ingredient used in some of the commonly-used organophosphate insecticide compounds to kill a 1,100-pound cow," Dr. Hogg notes.

Hay containing kochia or pigweed, can be a source of nitrate, in concentrations which can be lethal, he said. Cattlemen should obtain nitrate tests on this kind of emergency forage before feeding it, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln animal health specialist warned.

Lead poisoning of animals may be traced to old batteries and used motor oil, he continued. "Most people know about the potential hazard of batteries, but many don't realize that much of the used motor oil contains substantial amounts of lead from leaded gasoline," he said. Grease also contains a lot of lead.

Dogs and cats are animals most often poisoned on ethylene glycol antifreeze from radiator overflow or pans of antifreeze left in the garage, Dr. Hogg stated.

"Don't forget that anti-freeze is used in the floor heating pipes in farrowing houses," Dr. Hogg cautioned, pointing out one case where sows died from drinking antifreeze from that source.

The Japanese yew is a dangerous, toxic ornamental plant, Dr. Hogg said. Homeowners should dispose of yew clippings by burning them, or sending them to a landfill to be sure they aren't available to the neighbor's horses or grazing cattle.

This and That... from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

HEATING COW'S WATER

It costs less to heat a cow's winter drinking water with artificial heat than it does with grain or hay.

Either way, you do it, that water eventually has to be raised to body temperature. It costs about 30 percent more to heat water with feed than it does with fuel. That means a tank heater during particularly cold spells can be a good investment.

Another consideration in watering cattle, is the location of the watering point. If the water is where animals are not reluctant to drink or to brave the cold weather getting to and from it, they will have less digestive upsets during the winter months. And avoiding those upsets may avoid weight losses.

Adequate water is as important as feed.

WEANING PIGS

1. If weaning early (three weeks) leave pigs on sows an extra week.

4. Limit feed on pigs weaning. Don't self feed as pigs eat too much.

5. Keep pigs warm after weaning.

6. Use small modular nurseries with 100 percent plastic or fiberglass slats. Use all-in, all-out management of nursery and thoroughly clean between groups.

7. Consider adding antibiotics to feed — but only as a last resort.

8. Use nipple waterers. Cleaner water is provided by nipples than drinking pans or cups.

9. Have veterinarian check pigs' blood for hemoglobin level. It should be nine grams per 100 ml of blood. If it is low, give 100 mg of iron one week before weaning.

10. Feed clean sod to pigs before and after weaning.

BATHING YOUR HOUSEPLANTS

Yes, you should give your houseplants a bath if they are dusty!

Dull, dusty leaves are not attractive, and the dust interferes with the overall health of the plant. The breathing holes in the leaves are blocked and the plant does not get the necessary oxygen.

To clean small-leaved plants, use a spray nozzle for washing your hair to give the plants a gentle shower. For larger-leaved plants, wipe each leaf with a soft damp cloth. To avoid water marks, use water low in calcium.

If extra shine is needed for the leaves, use a commercial plant polish. Carefully follow directions on the label. Do not use milk or mayonnaise on the leaves or injury will occur.

Hairy-leaved plants like African violets can be dusted with a camel's hair brush. Cold water will spot their leaves.

AFRICAN VIOLET CARE

Speaking of African violets, you should be aware that providing proper growing conditions is very important. Plants that grow spindly and maintain small leaves on long thin stems, may produce a poor bud set. Correct this condition by providing more light and humidity. It is also very important that

Soybean Meeting Feb. 26-27

Key soybean production problems and ways for soybean farmers to increase yields and profits will be the focus of the 1979 annual meeting of the Nebraska Soybean Association in Lincoln Feb. 26-27.

All soybean producers, not just members of the association, are urged to attend, according to Dr. D.G. Hanway, extension agronomist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Timing of the conference and its potential for bringing producers up-to-date information is seen as excellent in view of the supply and demand situation surrounding soybeans (approaching equilibrium), and anxious eyes cast toward Brazil (soybean-producing) weather conditions.

The first day of the conference at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education will feature Mickey Stewart, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, on soybean market development and Gilford R. Harrison, director of the Latin American Market Development Office, Mexico City. Panels of IANR experts and Nebraska and American Soybean Association executives will deal with planting and weed control practices and maximizing profits.

A marketing seminar on the second day will analyze the state, national and world soybean market. Because of its balance and no appreciable surplus, the soybean market has a tendency to react more rapidly to such factors as rainfall in Brazil and fluctuate more widely than other crops, explained Dr. Lynn Lutgen, extension agricultural economist.

"This makes the producer more vulnerable to changing market conditions, and he needs to know more about marketing under fluctuating conditions because how and when he markets soybeans can mean the difference between profit and loss," Lutgen said.

Lutgen will speak on costs of production and cash flow and marketing strategies. Other IANR ag economists and their topics are Dr. Larry Bitney, comparing Nebraska to other soybean-producing areas, Dr. Dean Linsenmeyer on transportation of soybeans and Dr. Mike Turner on the effect of outlook on soybean prices. Dr. Don Frahm, senior economist with the American Soybean Association, will speak on factors affecting the soybean market.

Eugene Duffey, Omaha exporter, will speak on the small volume exporter.

Dairy Meeting In March

New regulations on antibiotic residues in meat from dairy animals, energy considerations in dairy buildings and facilities and updates on the Grade A milk and cheese segments of the dairy industry will share attention during the annual Nebraska Dairy Fieldman's Conference in Lincoln March 21-22.

Dr. Stan Wallen of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources department of food science and technology said Mickey Stewart, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, is to open the conference with remarks. The two-day meeting will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Other presentations will cover farm regulations in the new processed milk ordinance, a panel discussion on the revised inspection sheet for manufacturing plants and considerations of cleaning and sanitizing equipment and premises.

Closing out the second morning will be the presentation of awards to outstanding dairy fieldman.

The 4-H News will be in the paper as we have received the news. The reason for this is that each individual 4-H'er is judged on news value and style.

Tree Planting Workshop Planned At NE Station

Could black walnut trees be worth more to farmers than corn and soybeans under some circumstances? For example, how many gallons of gasoline do farmers use turning the tractor in that odd corner down by the creek?

This question won't be answered, but several related ones will be covered at a Walnut and Christmas Tree Workshop to be held at the Northeast Station near Concord from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Monday, March 12. All interested in tree plantings are invited to attend.

According to Stan Starlings, Dixon County extension agent, soil types best suited for walnut growth will be covered in addition to proper planting site preparation, planting techniques to improve survival, and proper pruning, thinning and harvesting.

A new approach in the workshop is a discussion of planting evergreens between the walnut trees. These evergreens are then harvested as Christmas Trees. This allows a more rapid return on the original investment since the Christmas trees will be harvested over a three-to-ten year period while the walnut trees are becoming established.

Rick Pierce and Dick Gault, district foresters, will conduct the workshop and will also handle questions on fuelwood plantings.

Pest Task Force Is Formed To Protect Nebraska's Trees

Saving Nebraska's trees from insects and disease was one of the main topics at the first Pest Management Task Force meeting Tuesday, Feb. 14 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The meeting, held at the Nebraska East Union, brought together 38 entomologists and plant pathologists from the 10 states in the Great Plains Agricultural Council who specialize in insects and diseases that affect trees and shrubs in the plains. Dr. Glenn Peterson, professor of plant pathology in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and co-chairman of the meeting, said the task force was formed to promote greater research efficiency and to improve communications among the scientists on research efforts and in getting information to the public.

He said the researchers are working on controls for numerous diseases, such as Diplodia and Dothistroma blights of pines, stem canker of Siberian elm, stem rot of green ash, that are destroying or seriously damaging trees and shrubs in the states' shelterbelts, city parks, forests and front yards. He added that the control of insects, such as the elm leaf beetle, elm canker worms, ash borers and pine tip moths which destroy trees and shrubs, also were of prime importance at the meeting.

Peterson said that the conference was a success in bringing together virtually all research, extension, and pest management personnel working on free insect and disease problems in the Great Plains. He stressed the importance of enabling the researchers to exchange and coordinate research information, thus eliminating needless expenditures of time and funds in duplicated research programs.

He said the information gathered at the meeting will be analyzed during the coming year so that concrete recommendations for solving the most pressing tree insect and disease problems can be made at next year's task force conference.

Expert stilt walkers used to be able to travel as fast as a horse could trot. The footrests they used were often five or six feet above the ground.

This year's service was written by students in the Pan-African Leadership Course for Women at Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation in Kefwe, Zambia.

Each year, women in a different nation are asked to write the World Day of Prayer service based on themes chosen by the International Committee for World Day of Prayer.

Church Women United is the official sponsor of World Day of Prayer in the United States.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2405, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.
