

Up Two Percent

Wayne State College on-campus enrollment for winter semester, as of Feb. 27, is up about two percent over the same date last year, from 2004 students in 1978 to the current 2046.

The spring figures indicate 1707 students are enrolled full-time, with 339 enrolled part-time, or for fewer than 12 undergraduate semester credit hours or 9 graduate hours. Another 219 have enrolled thus far in Extended Campus courses for the 1979 spring semester, compared to 244 for the entire 1978 spring semester. Extended Campus enrollment continues through April.

Final 1978 fall semester figures (Dec. 31) show 2287 students enrolled at WSC, compared to 2170 enrolled on that date in 1977, an increase of about five percent. Another 302 students enrolled in WSC Extended Campus programs last fall, pushing the overall enrollment total to 2589.

Dr. Irvin Brandt, WSC vice president for planning and development, said the increase in fall and spring enrollments is very significant for WSC.

"Wayne State had the largest increase

(71) in first-time, full-time freshmen students last fall than any other Nebraska college or university," Dr. Brandt said. "That is including UNL."

Dr. Brandt added that WSC has enjoyed an increase of over 44 percent in first-time, full-time enrollment during the past five years, from 410 in 1974; 449 in 1975; 495 in 1976; 522 in 1977 to the recent high of 592 last fall.

"These are the trends which increase our confidence as we look at all the factors contributing to declining enrollment," he said. "We realize the potential of the high school graduating classes is not as great as it once was, but we feel the positive aspects at WSC will offset the effect of the potential decline."

"Our second semester enrollment approximates 92 percent of our fall enrollment," he said. "This has been the trend in recent years."

He added that winter weather usually causes a slight decline in the number of part time students enrolling for winter semester, thus contributing to an overall decline between fall and winter semesters.

Solar Eclipse Is Captured

WAYNE STATE College Math-Science Instructor Dean Metz points out a sun spot during the solar eclipse Monday morning. Metz and science students had telescopes set up on top of the Cahart Science building on the Wayne State campus to observe the eclipse which was about 88 percent maximum in the Wayne area. By using the projection, the sun spots were clearly visible as the eclipse made its way through the cycle beginning about 9:26. The maximum image (right) came at 10:44 a.m. and represented about 88 percent of total. During the eclipse, the light was dimmed somewhat and the temperatures cooled during the eclipse.

Site Selection Council Votes to Delay Proposed Sports Complex

The Wayne city council Tuesday voted to delay an application for a 75 percent federal grant for monies to help finance a sports complex in Wayne.

The council acted upon the recommendation of City Administrator Darrell Brewington who noted there is not enough information at hand to insure getting the grant.

He said the complex, which was intended to be built on 14th Street, had to be moved to another location because land in the 14th Street location was no longer available.

"We went to the school to see if we could find enough land to accommodate the proposed four ballparks plus tennis courts and other recreational areas," Brewington said. "However, our engineer said it would be prohibitive because of the lay of the ground and the drainage."

Brewington said he and the council are aware of the need for a sports complex but he recommended delaying the action for a year so that "a proper site can be selected in an area that will accommodate the greatest number of people."

The administrator commented on the existing ballpark, stating the city is willing to go ahead with recommendations for two softball fields plus other improvement so long as the work is done on an "in kind" basis.

The improvement is expensive and we are going to need all the volunteer labor we can get if we are going to get the project accomplished," Brewington pointed out.

Parks Proposal Still Bogged Down

An ordinance providing for the establishment of parks within new subdivisions in the City of Wayne will have to wait until it can be voted upon by the Wayne city council.

A motion to suspend the rules and the mandatory three readings of the ordinance failed to pass for the second time and the ordinance will be a part of the agenda during the first meeting of the council this month.

A similar motion was defeated two weeks ago when the ordinance was first brought before the council for a reading. Councilmen Sam Hepburn and Darrel Fuelberth shot down the motion. Hepburn said he was not satisfied with the provisions of the ordinance. Fuelberth said he wanted to give developers more time to respond to the ordinance.

They did respond Tuesday night with John Vakoc of Vakoc Construction Company, which is in the process of opening a subdivision but is being held back because of the proposed park ordinance, stating it is "inconsistent and unfair to burden property owners with the expense of a park."

The ordinance provides the subdividers provide a neighborhood type park of not less than 7 percent of the total land in the subdivision or make a monetary fee payment.

Vakoc said his proposed "Sunview Addition" is designed to provide moderately priced housing for Wayne. "It is tough for young persons today to purchase their own homes. They are taking a 'no-frills' attitude when they consider purchasing a house. A park could very well be considered a frill and be the difference between buying and not buying a home."

Vakoc also said that if homeowners in a new subdivision see the need for a neighborhood park, "they will build their own." He added there is no legitimate desire by homeowners for larger recreational areas.

Rod Tompkins, president of Heritage Homes of Nebraska, Inc., Wayne, a builder of modular homes, also appeared before the council in opposition to the ordinance.

He contended the added cost of the proposed parks to the potential homeowners would affect the market in such a way, the homeowner would look to other housing such as trailer homes or houses in the country as an investment rather than being tied down with an additional $600 to $800.

"I am not a developer; I am a home builder. I believe the young people of today should be given an opportunity for home ownership at a price within their incomes," Tompkins pointed out. He added this ownership incentive leads to a growth of a community.

Tompkins suggested lowering the cost of homes 10 percent, allowing more people to own homes thereby putting more homes on the tax rolls so parks could be financed through general taxation rather than through an assessment when purchasing a home.

Hepburn said he did not think the 7 percent set-aside was not enough to provide the type of parks needed. "I am thinking more in the 15 to 20 percent range."

In summation, Vakoc pointed out to the council that if it is determined that the feasibility of a lot is enhanced by a neighborhood park, "you can rest assured we will include a park in our proposed subdivision."

WSC Director of Bands Dr. Ray Kelton said the level of competition was excellent. "There were some very fine bands and some very good playing," Kelton said. "I think the competition is getting better every year."

Plan Projects For City Parks

Specified city parks will get the benefit of planning by Wayne State College students who are incorporating aesthetic environment and child use involvement.

Pearl Hansen of WSC appeared before the council with two models of what the students intend to do to enhance the parks.

She said the students will provide the labor and the See PARKS, page 12

'Managing Stress' Is Seminar Theme

A seminar on "Managing Stress," sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska American Institute of Banking, will be held March 21 in Wayne.

Managers, supervisors and administrators who work under stress, men and women managers with meeting schedules and deadlines, always pressed for time and extra energy, and frequently confronted by problems and crises demanding instant decisions are invited to attend the seminar.

It will be especially valuable for managers who must guide subordinates to achieve high output with peak performance without sacrificing quality standards.

The objectives of the seminar are: to help managers understand stress — both good and bad stress; to put stress to work as a positive force; and to learn to cope with stress through improved physical and mental conditioning, sensible eating and drinking, effective relaxation and recreation.

Registration fee is $10 per person, which covers materials and a prime rib dinner. The event will take place at the Black Knight Restaurant in Wayne from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

For more information contact The State National Bank and Trust Co. or the First National Bank in Wayne. Registration deadline is March 14.

Two Injured As Car Rolls

Two Wayne high school students were injured Wednesday morning when the car in which they were riding went out of control on an icy highway about two miles west of Wayne.

The driver, Larry G. Hank, 17, Carroll, told state troopers he was eastbound on Highway 35 when he lost control and the car went into the south ditch and rolled.

Trooper Dave Headley said Hank was thrown clear of the vehicle but sustained a shoulder injury.

Scott Hurlbert, 17, also of Carroll, a passenger in the car received back injuries.

Both were taken to Providence Medical Center. Hurlbert was admitted; Hank was released to contact his own doctor in Norfolk.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Lori Schulte-David Hoelsing

St. Mary's Catholic Church in St. Helena was the scene of the Feb. 24 wedding of Lori Schulte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schulte of St. Helena, and David Hoelsing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Hoelsing.

The bride is a senior public service major at Wayne State College. The bridegroom was graduated from Creighton University with a degree in finance and attended Creighton University School of Law for two years. He is employed with Hoelsing Farms, Inc.

The newlyweds are making their home in Hartington.

The Rev. Donald Shane officiated at the couple's 1 o'clock double ring ceremony. Ring bearer was Chad Allison of Omaha, and flower girl was Courtney Helmes of Hartington. Gift carriers for the wedding were Lana and Leah Schulte.

Lois Schulte of Yankton served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lesa Schulte and Lila Schulte of St. Helena, sisters of the bride, and Bernice Hoelsing of Tekamah, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's brother, Alan Hoelsing of Hartington, was best man. Groomsmen were William Burney and Dan Hoelsing, both of Hartington, and Lyle Schulte of St. Helena.

Guests were ushered into the church by Jeff Hoelsing of Hartington and Larry Schulte of St. Helena. Vocalists were the bridegroom's sisters, Joan, Ann and Rose Hoelsing and Carlene Ones. Organist was Theresa Hoelsing.

The bride appeared at her father's side in a gown of polyester interlock with venice lace. It featured a natural neckline encircled by satin venice lace, and a keyhole illusion netted bodice accented with matching satin lace. Venice applique trim encircled the empire waistline, long trumpet sleeves and flow skirt. Her fingertip mantilla-style veil was attached to a Camelot cap, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, tinted green carnations, baby's breath and dark green ribbons.

The bride's attendants wore forest green knit gowns designed with high rise bodices and A-line skirts. The inset cowl neckline was a contrasting seaspay. Over the gowns they wore long forest green hooded coats with fitted sleeves. Each carried muffs of seaspay malibu feathers to match the trimming on the hoods of the coats. They wore white carnations decorated with seaspay malibu feathers in their hair.

The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo and his attendants wore forest green tuxedos with white ruffled shirts and forest green bow ties.

Both mothers of the couple chose long light green dresses. Their corsages were made of white carnations and white roses with gold gilded butterfly green ribbon.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Youngsters Highlighted At Wayne Woman's Club

Youngsters presented special music and were the program topic during a meeting of the Wayne Federated Woman's Club Friday afternoon, in recognition of this "International Year of the Child."

Fifth graders Louise Marshall, Ronda Elisabeth, David Zahner, Dale Hansen, Julie Metteer, Nora Froeschte, Kurt Runestad and Andy Hiller performed several numbers on string instruments.

The youngsters were introduced and directed by Mrs. Bonita Day. Mothers of the young musicians were guests of the club.

Mrs. Donnell Cattle, director of Project Predict and Prevent, showed a film and discussed the nature of her work.

Project Predict and Prevent deals with children from birth to the age of five who need help in developing their full potential. Such needs may be evident in imperfect physical coordination, in hearing or visual impairment, in language or speech disability, or in hyperactivity.

Mrs. Cattle and her co-workers visit 31 northeast Nebraska counties on a regular basis to meet and consult with children and parents, provide materials and advice for home instruction, and check each child's progress.

World Day of Prayer

Women of the area are invited to participate in World Day of Prayer services this Friday afternoon at the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The service is sponsored by Church Women United of Wayne, representing the United Presbyterian, St. Mary's Catholic, St. Paul's Lutheran, First Baptist, United Methodist and Redeemer Lutheran Churches.

The program, which begins at 2 p.m., will focus on the theme "Spiritual Growth." The Rev. S.K. deFreese, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran, will conduct the meditation.

Mrs. Darrel Rahn, a board member of Church Women United, said babysitting services will be provided. Coffee and cookies will be served by the LCW following the service.

World Day of Prayer began in 1987. Women in 140 countries and 33 islands will unite in prayer this year.

This year's service was written by students in the Pan-African Leadership Course for Women at Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation in Ketwe, Zambia.

Cultural Art Exhibits Are Touring Nebraska Libraries

Five different cultural arts exhibits, being assembled by the Northern Nebraska Library Network, will be traveling to about 60 libraries during the remainder of 1979 and into 1980.

Exhibits will remain in each library for one month.

The exhibits relate closely to five topics, including work, religion, love and play, pioneers, and family. Each exhibit consists of a collection of books and literary pieces, sculptures, art prints and cassette tapes.

During March exhibits will be on display at libraries in Albion, work exhibit, O'Neill, religion; Coleridge, family; Brunswick, pioneers; and Newman Grove, love and play.

Home Extension clubs, art classes in local schools, and the general public are invited to visit the exhibits.

The cultural arts exhibits are intended to promote interest in the arts and to promote local library services.

The project is co-sponsored by the Northern Library Network and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Cooperative Extension

There's No Golf Like Snow Golf

To play golf in the snow during February in Nebraska, a person has to either be crazy, or a diehard golfer.

So, 40 persons fitting into one of the two descriptions above, played in the first Sno Sho Golf Tourney, Sunday at the Wayne Country Club.

Tournament chairman Jackie Ditman said the two ball foursome for couples was "super successful and a lot of fun." Although it seems that many golf balls would have been lost in the snow, Mrs. Ditman said that the entrants painted their golf balls and not many were lost.

"There was a lot of enthusiasm from the golfers," Mrs. Ditman said. "It was hard walking with the soft snow crusted over but losing balls wasn't really a problem. Things went smoothly just like a summer tourney."

Trophies were won by Jim Evans and Judy Sorensen for best round, while Dick Sorensen and Cheri Paige received an award for high score. Al Cramer and Jackie Ditman teamed up for the low score on hole number four with a five.

Anita Bornhoff won the inside games and other winners were Jane March, Dick Ditman, Grant Ellingson, Dick Pflanz and Freddie Gildersleeve.

RESEARCH SAYS that four main factors are involved in predicting success. The factors are: Major achievement in what most high schools call extracurricular activity, 2. High grades in high school, 3. High grades in college, 4. High scored on the ACT.

Three of the four factors were found to have no predictive value. The only factor which could be used to predict success in later life was achievement in "extracurricular" activities.

This information was compiled by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and indicates that a student's participation in co-curricular activities is one of the most important facets of a secondary school education.

Because textbook knowledge is useful only to the student who possesses the drive to apply that knowledge, we must provide diverse opportunities for youth to learn how to handle meaningful responsibility. Student activities in a school can be the most important vehicle to carry out this duty.

This study also found that the best predictor of creativity in mature life was a person's performance during youth, in independent self-sustained ventures. Those youngsters who had many hobbies, interests and jobs, or were active in extracurricular activities, were most likely to be successful in later life.

THE WAYNE STATE Wildcats won "The Game" Tuesday night in Chadron with a 10 point victory over Chadron State. The sweet win advances the Wildcats into playoff action against Hastings on the road Saturday.

Coach Bill Ivey said last week that the Chadron game was "The Game" and his team prepared only for that game, although Pittsburg State and Missouri Southern were in town over the weekend. It looks like the preparation paid off for the Cats.

Now, they'll have a couple days to get ready for the Broncos.

LOOKING OVER: the NAIA District 11 stats, I noted that Bob Reason of Wayne State is leading the charts in field goal percentage by hitting 622 from the floor. Wattle Rhoda is fourth with a .548 mark.

WSC's Willie Summers is fourth in free throw percentage with an .843 mark and Reason is fourth in rebounding with an average of 8.9 per game. District 11 includes Bellevue College, Chadron State, Concordia, Dana, Doane, Hastings, Kearney State, Midland Lutheran, Peru State and Wayne State.

THE WAYNE BLUE DEVILS are preparing for district basketball action which opens Monday, March 5 in Norfolk. The Blue Devils are looking for revenge over the Schuyler Warriors, who topped them earlier in the year. That game starts at 6:30 in Norfolk High School's gym.

CLASS D ALLEN AND CLASS C LAUREL are both eliminated from district basketball tourneys Monday by Walthill and Hartington respectively.

SPEAKING OF DISTRICTS, people who had not seen Lyons previously, got the chance this past week at Wayne High School. Unless of course, someone tried to get in the game after 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Wayne High's gym was completely packed and even ran out of standing room.

Traffic was backed up to the intersection of Seventh and Main as basketball fans hoped to watch Lyons and West Point Central Catholic. Both schools drew huge followings and other people attended the game because it promised to be one of the better district finals matchups in the state.

Now that Lyons has claimed the district title, the Lions will meet Hartington in regional play. The site was unannounced at press time.

Two-thirds cup Shortening
1 cup firmly packed Brown Sugar
4 tablespoons Salt
7 cups Whole Wheat Flour
2 cups Cracked Wheat Flour
8-10 cups All Purpose Flour

Soften yeast in very warm water. Combine milk, shortening, sugar and salt in a large bowl. Stir to blend; cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and the wheat flours. Beat well. Gradually add the all purpose flour, beating after each addition to form a dough. Knead on floured surface until smooth and satiny, about 10 minutes. Let rise about 2 hours. Punch down and divide into 6 parts. Shape into loaves, cover, let rise about 1 hour. Bake at 357 degrees about 40 minutes.

Mrs. Richard Pearson

★ Cornmeal Batter Rolls

1½ cups Flour
¾ cup Yellow Cornmeal
1 package Dry Yeast
1 teaspoon Baking Powder
¾ cup Milk

1 teaspoon Salt
1 Egg

In a large mixing bowl, combine ¾ cup of the flour, cornmeal, yeast and baking powder. Beat on high speed for 3 minutes. On low, beat in remaining flour for 2 minutes.

Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight. About 1¼ hours before serving, remove from refrigerator and stir down. Let rest 10 minutes. Drop batter into greased muffin cups, filling ½ full. Cover and let rise 1 hour or until double. Bake in a 325 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Hint: To mix and bake the same day, let batter rise 1 hour; drop into muffin pans and let rise 45 minutes.

Consider tech school changes

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN — Two bills dealing with technical community colleges have had a long hearing before the Legislature's Education Committee, and it was obvious one of the measures was much preferred by spokesmen for the tech schools.

Most of them urged the committee to give favorable consideration to a bill, introduced by the committee, that would make a number of significant changes in the technical community college law.

It would create the Nebraska Technical Community College Council consisting of 12 members, two from each of the six area college boards. The legislation would also establish the position of council executive director but would provide for retaining local control of the colleges.

The committee was also urged to approve an amendment that would establish a 7 percent limit on the annual operational budgets financed by the property tax and state aid.

Another feature that received strong backing was a provision for retention of the authority of the colleges to impose a one-half mill property tax for capital construction and retirement of general obligation bonds.

Another part of the bill would establish a funding formula for distribution of state aid. Under the formula, 15 percent of such aid would be given in equal amounts to each of the six tech college areas. The other 85 percent would be distributed after taking into account the full time equivalent students and the kinds of programs offered.

Sens. Sam Cullen of Hemingford and Richard Marvel of Hastings sponsored the other bill. It proposes creation of a seven-member coordinating council but none of the members could be on the tech school area boards.

Other provisions are for an executive director and elimination of the authority to levy a property tax, forcing a heavier reliance on the state sales and income tax revenues for the support of the schools.

Cullen told the committee his bill would lead to better coordination and to the elimination of unnecessary duplication of services.

He and some other senators believe the technical colleges should be fully funded by the state, just as are all other postsecondary educational institutions.

ABORTION BILL ADVANCES

An abortion bill on which both pro-life and pro-choice organizations worked had little difficulty gaining first round approval in the Legislature.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, chief sponsor of the measure, said in its amended form it represented a compromise but one that should answer at least some of the questions raised by U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom of Lincoln about the constitutionality of the current Nebraska law.

DeCamp said the bill is an attempt to make Nebraska's law as strict as possible while conforming with guidelines of a 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision that prohibited states from outlawing abortions.

Most of the arguing during opening debate on the bill dealt with the time in a pregnancy when an abortion would not be permitted. Omaha Sens. Ernest Chambers, Vard Johnson and Peter Hoagland said the Legislature should adopt language the U.S. Supreme Court used in addressing that question in a recent Pennsylvania case.

But the anti-abortion senators prefer-ed wording that the nation's high court used in a 1973 decision, and the majority of state senators agreed to that language.

The lawmakers rejected an attempt by Chambers to kill the bill, and also turned down a proposal by Sen. Gerald Kosh of Ralston that the measure be referred back to the Judiciary Committee.

Chambers and Koch both said the bill in its present form won't pass a constitutional test.

DeCamp has said he is determined to do everything he can this session to enact a measure that will be constitutional. There probably will be more amendments offered on the legislation when it comes up for second round consideration.

FLOOD BILL INTRODUCED

Last spring, Nebraska's lawmakers spent more than a week studying central and eastern Nebraska flooding.

As this spring approaches, five of the legislators are working on legislation designed to combat future flood problems.

The group, led by Sen. Neil Simon of Omaha, has received permission to introduce a bill that would establish specific procedures for handling flood situations. It would also "systemize the method of blasting," Simon said.

He was referring to the controversy last spring about the wisdom of dynamiting ice-jammed rivers.

Sen. Lorin Schmit of Belwood, who was among the five who signed the Simon bill, was very vocal last year in questioning whether the delay in use of dynamite on the ice-clogged streams was a wise decision.

Simon said the bill would require the state Civil Defense agency to identify rivers "particularly vulnerable or susceptible" to flooding because of ice jams.

If the potential for jamming existed, the agency would have to take measurements and make observations so appropriate action could be taken.

The bill would prohibit use of explosives to alleviate flooding unless authorization was given by the adjutant general. If he failed to act on a request within four hours, explosives could be utilized.

REUTZEL CRITICIZES BILL

Sen. Barry Reutzel of Fremont is more than a little unhappy with a bill that would permanently protect the state's judges from the effects of inflation.

Reutzel is upset about a legislative proposal that calls for boosting judicial salaries in differing increments until a base salary for each of the courts is reached in 1983.

After that, the judges' salaries would automatically increase annually by a percentage equal to the average annual increase in base salaries, and merit raises for state employees the prior year.

Reutzel says that could result in all judges in Nebraska making at least $100,000 in fewer than 20 years. He said Supreme Court judges, now paid $43,000, would hit the $100,000 figure in 13 years.

It would take district judges 15 years to be paid that much. Juvenile court judges would climb to that figure in 16 years and county, municipal and workman's compensation court judges would have to wait 18 years.

Reutzel prefers passing in law another bill that would set up a commission to make an annual review of the salaries of all top state officials, including judges and state senators. The commission would recommend salary levels to the Legislature, which would have to approve turn down or change the figures but not increase them. That bill is in the hands of the Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee of which Reutzel is chairman.

Real meaning of compassion

RICHARD L. LESH, PRESIDENT
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
OF THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON — As a taxpayer, do you know what ballet, street theater, poetry, information about gay people, basketball, advocacy of communism and nude body sculpting workshops all have in common? Probably not, but you should. For each one, and many others like them, have been legitimate tax-supported activities within the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, or CETA — the federal government's largest employment program.

Congress became so incensed with these activities and other abuses that it insisted CETA begin to devote a greater share of its budget to the training of hard-core unemployed for real jobs in the private sector. Unfortunately, the President is now under pressure to keep the CETA budget for so-called public service jobs at a very high level. I believe that would be a mistake. To understand, let me explain why CETA has failed so badly.

Rather than provide the poor with temporary work and the training needed for eventual productive jobs, many local governments have used CETA money to pay for old jobs previously funded by local taxes. One city is so "hooked" that up to 30 percent of its employees are on the CETA payroll. By some estimates, CETA subsidizes four existing jobs for each new job it creates. So it is usually the education with political influence, rather than the truly needy, who are getting most of the jobs.

With control of CETA funding so dependent on the whims of local politicians, the program now resembles an assortment of "goodies" regularly doled out as political patronage. Abuses are commonplace, and many national publications — in particular Readers Digest in August, 1978 — have begun to expose the waste and fraud.

In Buffalo, millions of dollars were mismanaged because of sloppy auditing, payments to ineligible participants and illegal political activity. In New York, someone took a bite out of the Big Apple worth $500,000 in "expenses" mysteriously disappeared from one summer youth program. In Washington, D.C., where big government is the home team, they've really learned how to play the game. The D.C. City Council amassed one of the largest staffs in the country, actually paying 56 of its 126 employees with CETA funds. Poor people were still hoping for work in Baltimore, while CETA jobs were paid for the wife of a state supreme court judge, the daughter of a United States Court of Appeals judge, as well as the sons of a vice president of a large brewing company, a city public works superintendent, and a member of the Maryland House of Delegates. Had enough?

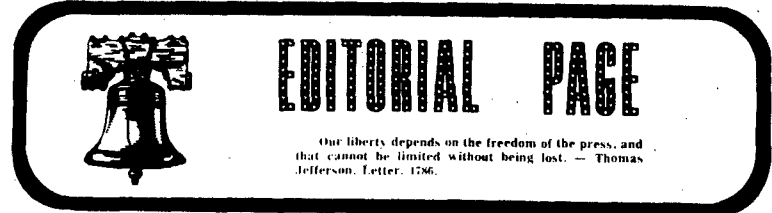

There's more, much more, but the key point is CETA has been a cruel disappointment for the poor whose dreams of acquiring training skills, productive jobs and a better life are being frustrated. For the taxpayers whose money is being squandered, and for our economy where billions of dollars are being diverted from tax producing, growth-oriented jobs, to tax consuming activities which can only lead to higher inflation.

Congress was right when it recognized CETA must begin preparing people for the world of work, instead of paying them not to work. For that to happen, proposals like the Private Sector Initiative Program, (PSIP) to increase business involvement in CETA must be sharply upgraded. This program establishes local industry councils, composed of business and labor representatives, to coordinate the training and eventual employment of the hardcore unemployed. The councils should grant top priority to on-the-job training which results in higher rates of employment retention. CETA has almost totally neglected this approach.

The PSIP effort will be even more effective if it is properly coordinated with the work of community-based organizations which are attuned to the needs of local areas. One such community group is OIC — Opportunities Industrialization Centers — which has combined the philosophy of self-help with acquired skills and positive work attitudes to fashion many successful training programs.

In the name of compassion, CETA's subsidized jobs program has demoralized individuals and labor representatives. Businessmen and women know what real compassion is all about — helping people to help themselves. That's why I want to urge them to exercise leadership, get involved in the PSIP program, and turn CETA around. Clearly, business people are the only ones who can. And if they do, look what will have been gained. People now living without hope will have an opportunity to make it, to be somebody, to have character, dignity, and to be self-supporting and free. That's a goal worth working for.

Legislature look

By SEN. JOHN MURPHY

If it weren't so awesome, it would be fun to watch the Federal Government unload all its "pilot" programs onto the states and other local subdivisions of government.

They are a veritable genius at conceiving test programs and pilot programs and experimental programs, but under the press of funding these issues, they step back and suggest that the state now take them over.

Last year we became involved, as a state, in the funding of what had once been a volunteer pilot program on providing assistance for parents of handicapped, preschool youngsters.

The basic premise was to educate the parent in order to enable them to better work with their child. This certainly is a commendable program and I concur in its intent. However, as more funding became available, volunteer provisions for the program disappeared and instead of working with the parent, we began to work directly with the child.

Then the Federal Government, through the Department of Welfare, decided to abandon this project. However, by then a core group of advocates had been established and the pressure was on for state funding. One can scarcely fault them for their endeavor.

The issue came before the Legislature and the request was for a nominal amount of seed money in order to establish the planning and programming and the program was moved into the control of the Department of Education.

One year later this nominal seed money had developed to a two and one half million dollar budget request which now, in the early blush of operation, is one million dollars short and will likely become three and one-half million dollars, and so it grows and will continue to grow.

My school district is not capable of providing this service locally to preschool children and so they must do an about face and contract with the Department of Institutions to provide this service. This most certainly is where the program should have been put initially. The real advantage of seeking to have it placed in the Department of Education meant, of course, that the advocates picked up the immense power of the educational lobby to assure passage of this program.

This year one of the first bills to hit the floor was another federal program where funding has been withdrawn and the onus is upon the state to fund it. The program emanated from two or three school systems, principally "Omaha," who have local radio stations. It consisted of reading special ads, special notices, advertisements, and stories to the blind. It is only $35,000. Anyone want to bet how much it will cost next year — and the year after that — and the year after that?

YOU AND YOUR CAR

Since the days of the horseless carriage, artists have been intrigued with drawing, painting and photographing automobiles.

The legendary Norman Rockwell found cars and trucks favorite subjects as expressions of Americana, and cartoonists have had a field day with vehicles.

The Automotive Information Council recently came across two artists who take a different approach — one a metal sculptor and another who paints landscapes as seen from a motorist's perspective.

Canadian Paul Wellington of Cambridge, Ontario, has been creating metal artworks of birds, flowers, animals and transformers for years, but recently has noted a surge in those who want automobiles and trucks for wall hangings.

Many of them are five- and six-foot wide and are made by welding and brazing copper, brass and stainless steel. The finished products are protected with lacquer.

He has been asked to reproduce vehicles from old faded photographs and crumpled drawings by those obviously involved in nostalgia as well as new ones.

"Many want a wall hanging of their first car, or one they used on a honeymoon," Wellington said. "Popular today are old trucks featuring the company name."

Elizabeth Vignon of Berkley, Mich., calls her collection of paintings "The American Road Series." They are her impressions gathered from the seat as a passenger with her husband.

She says people in cars view landscapes differently than walkers.

"In this age of the automobile we seldom leave the car to commune directly with nature," she says. "Speed, isolation, typical driver's travel." In her opinion, and this is how she expresses it in her paintings.

The roads she features in all of her landscapes. Her target creation is a three-quarter view.

John Wainwright and Mrs. Vignon are expressing the road which plays in their minds, says the Automotive Information Council.

Dairy Industry Faces Changes

The number of dairy herds in Nebraska is decreasing, as is the total production of milk in the state, according to Al Evans, retired Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension dairy marketing specialist.

Cattle per herd and production per cow are both increasing, however, said the University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor emeritus of food science and technology.

The national trend of producers switching from manufacturing milk — that milk which is used in making dairy products but not for drinking — to production of Grade A milk — that milk which may be used for either drinking or manufacturing — is not as obvious in Nebraska, according to Evans.

While figures show a significant increase in Grade A milk production as a proportion of the total milk produced in the state, Evans says there is little conversion taking place at this time.

The figures reflect the fact that manufacturing milk producers are going out of business. Thus, a greater percentage of Grade A milk is placed on the market, Evans said.

Don Kubik, extension dairy specialist at the UNL Northeast Station near Concord, echoed Evans' conclusion. Producers in his area of the state are not switching from one type of facility to another, he said, but are dropping out of production instead.

Dairywomen keeping their herds have increased dairy cow numbers as their competitors have gone out of business, he said.

Donald Wadzinski, manager of Dodge Dairy, Dodge, said the manufacturing grade producer is vanishing.

"We (Nebraska) are down about 2,000 producers since 1970," he said, noting that the significant trend among dairy men in his area is that of the small producer getting bigger or quitting.

Statistics from the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show the increase in Grade A milk production during the 1970s. In 1970, 43 percent of milk produced on Nebraska dairy farms qualified as Grade A. Production of Grade A milk increased to 46 percent in 1971, 48 percent in 1972, 49 percent in 1973 and 51 percent in 1975, 52 percent in 1976 and 54 percent in 1977.

According to Evans, price alone probably could not justify the cost of building at this time.

The key time for making a decision about rebuilding for Grade A production is when a producer must replace worn-out facilities, Cole said.

Among the factors the producer must consider when making such a decision is the more critical and more frequent inspection he would face with Grade A facilities, Cole said.

Because some parts of Nebraska don't have both Grade A and manufacturing grade markets available, the producer should check his market before switching, the dairy specialist said.

"Try to get a contract for selling milk before making a building investment," Cole said. "If people are planning to build anyway, we usually let them to go with Grade A facilities because they can market either grade of milk."

Wadzinski said he prefers buying Grade A milk because he sells to bottlers and uses the surplus and weekend milk for manufacturing. He pays a blend price for Grade A, which is close in price to the manufacturing grade price, he said.

Pricing methods will have to change if manufacturing grade milk disappears, Evans said, adding that as more effort is made by the USDA to upgrade manufacturing grade requirements, that grade will disappear. Within 10 to 15 years, all milk produced will qualify as Grade A, he said.

NEW BULLETIN

The new Nebraska Tractor Test Data summary booklet, including tractors on the market in Nebraska as of Jan. 1, 1977, has been published and can now be obtained free from the Wayne County Extension Office.

Tests were conducted at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources facility. They measure power takeoff and drawbar performance and also sound levels of various models.

The 1979 Swine Report, a roundup of current research programs on swine nutrition, pork products, housing and management being conducted by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, is now available free of charge from the Wayne County Extension Office.

"After considerable research with the product in Nebraska, soil fertility specialists state that this product might possibly have some effect on yield only when anhydrous ammonia is added before planting on sandy soils where rainfall and/or irrigation is excessive. The use of N-Serve is not recommended when anhydrous ammonia is added to soils which are not sandy."

"In research conducted in Holt County this past summer, the use of N-Serve did not increase either grain or silage yields when several rates of nitrogen were applied. The nitrogen was applied at rates of 0, 40, 80, 120, 160, 200, and 240 lb. acre and top yields were in the range of 180-190 bu./acre.

"The purpose of N-Serve is to slow down the conversion of ammonium-nitrogen (NH4+-N) to nitrate-nitrogen (NO3--N). The use of N-Serve did this at the Holt County site. This delay, however, lasts for about 60 days. This delay, however, had no effect on yield at the Holt County site in 1978."

OAT VARIETIES

Which new oat variety in Northeast Nebraska yielded 26 percent more bushels than Burnett, another widely grown oat variety? The answer is Lang.

Answers to many questions you may have about yields, straw strength, maturity date, and bushel and weight of various oat varieties are in the booklet "Spring Sown Small Grains," which may be obtained free from the Wayne County Ext. Office, telephone number 375-3310.

Rodent Control A Serious Matter

For efficient rodent control, farmers must use an integrated control program, according to Dr. Robert A. Timm, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension vertebrate pest specialist.

Modification of buildings; limitation of rodents' supply of food, water and shelter; and use of traps or poisons are all necessary for a successful program, according to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln assistant professor of forestry, fisheries and wildlife.

Timm, head of an IANR program which promotes integrated control of rodents, said a rodent control program must be continued beyond the initial rodent reduction phase. Unless rodent becomes an on-going process, the rodent problem will be as serious within a few months as it was originally, he said.

Timm said farmers can take these steps to achieve rodent control:

- Build rodents out by closing openings larger than one-quarter inch in diameter,
- Use traps where a small cementing up openings around pipes and ducts and providing floor drains with tight-fitting grates. Also, keep doors closed when not in use and cover edges subject to gnawing (such as bottoms of doors) with heavy sheet metal or wire mesh.

- Use a single-dose rodenticide to reduce the population, where heavy infestations of rats or mice are present, and where it can be done safely.
- Use a multiple-dose (anticoagulant) rodenticide poison when low to moderate numbers of rodents are present, or where a greater degree of safety is needed.

- Use bait boxes which only rodents can enter to administer poison materials; they prevent children or non-target animals from having access to the bait. Construct bait stations out of solid materials that can't be crushed or knocked out of place, and the bait box should be anchored to the ground, wall or floor.
- Use traps where a small

Carrolliners Girls

The Carrolliners Girls 4-H Club will have a meeting March 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Carroll auditorium. Due to inclement weather for the meeting that "More than half the cranberries grown in the U.S. come from Massachusetts, around Cape Cod.

Production of Grade A milk on the national level has increased from approximately 71 percent to approximately 82 percent during this same period.

As more producers enter the Grade A market, the fluid milk price will drop because of supply exceeding demand, Evans said.

Phil Cole, IANR extension dairyman, says an important question for the producer to ask himself regarding the switch from one grade to another is: "Can the cost be justified by easier operation, better management and the difference in prices paid for Grade A and manufacturing grade milk?"

Many Insects Immune To Winter

The first person to say "snug as a bug in a rug" didn't say it for nothing. Many insects have a natural immunity to winter that would make winter-weary Nebraskans envious, according to an insect specialist.

Bob Roselle, extension entomologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said that some insects do the very things Nebraskans wish they could do themselves to escape the cold.

"Insects of tropical origin, such as armyworms and corn earworms, survive in the South," the University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist said. "They return in the spring to do their dirty work."

Most native Nebraska pests, unfortunately, have adapted to the extreme cold, he noted, but even the "imported" European corn borer has developed winter protection. The borer produces a natural antifreeze that can carry the insect through temperatures of 20 to 30 degrees below zero.

"Insects that develop these glycols, or antifreezes, start to reduce the water content of their bodies as the temperature drops and as hibernation time approaches," Roselle said. "By the time the snow flies they are in a state of suspended animation and the cold doesn't hurt them a bit."

Chinch bugs also survive the winter by hibernating in bunch grasses or fence rows that offer protection from extreme cold, he said. While these and other insects survive as adults, the egg stage is one of the hardest overwintering stages.

"Many people have asked whether the extreme cold will affect the grasshopper population, but no such luck," he said.

"The grasshopper eggs are safely tucked away in the soil near the bases of grasses."

A few grasshoppers can stand the winter in the nymph (young) stage, and these can be seen hopping around on a warm winter day, but these are not the most damaging ones, he said.

Insects such as cockroaches, rice weevils and stored-grain pests, although intolerant of low temperatures, simply move inside where it is warm for the winter.
