Guard Needs Your Help

The Nebraska National Guard is on the rebound but is far from being up to strength, according to Dennis Spangler, NCO in charge of the Wayne armory. Spangler said plans are being made to re-introduce the Guard to area residents and to those who might want to become a part of the Guard. The weekend activities are being co-sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Complete details of the activities will be announced as soon as they are confirmed. Spangler said interest in the Guard has picked up because of the unrest in the Mideast and the possibility of a draft. He also said the National Guard has had good publicity through its efforts in helping out in the aftermath of the explosion in Hastings, the work during the flood last spring and the efforts in the peninsula this winter. "All of this has helped to show that the Guard is here," Spangler explained. "We are here if needed, but we need the personnel if we are going to be effective." Spangler said the Guard is offering two federal enlistment incentives for either man or woman who have not had any prior military service. See GUARD, page 10

City May Drop Out of COG

The community of Wayne may drop out of the Mid Elkhorn Council of Governments, according to Darrell Brewington city administrator. Increased appropriations necessary to continue membership in the council, would be the main reason behind the action. The Council of Governments (COG) is an office consisting of one man and a secretary who review applications for federal funds and approve or deny the requests. Currently, Wayne pays $1,056.85 by proposed appropriations to remain in COG are $2,351.60. The Mid Elkhorn Council of Governments covers a five county region including Wayne, Madison, Pierce, Stanton and Antelope Counties. Currently, 19 communities are members of the COG is having financial difficulties and wants to raise membership dues in order to exist. The membership proposals are more than double the existing ones. In addition to membership fees, the COG relies on state funds of $5,000 to function. Most of the communities in the COG, don't make use of it, Brewington said. It is not mandatory to belong to the COG. Brewington pointed out and he said that the state of Nebraska actually supplies the same services at no cost. "Whatever is presently being done by the Council of Governments can be done by the state with no costs." Brewington stated, "It would have no effect on the city if we drop out. The Council has put in some effort in the past, but is it worth the money?" Brewington said that with larger staffs, Councils of Governments are great at planning and upgrading, but said that Wayne should put itself in the position of weighing the benefits with the costs. Input received by the administrator, from other communities in the Council, indicate that several other locales probably won't go along with the increased fees. This situation could easily force the Council to die. "Some of the smaller cities have no particular reason to use the Council and won't pay the increase. The Council of Governments is in competition with the State Office of Planning. It'll have a hard time keeping its head above water," Brewington predicted. "Meanwhile, we'll keep a 'wait-and-see' attitude. We have to look at the alternatives and be careful with the taxpayers' money." Communities currently included in the Mid Elkhorn Council are: Norfolk, Wayne, Battle Creek, Meadow Grove, Tilden, Newman Grove, Madison, Omond, Clearwater, Elgin, Brunswick, Stanton, Pilger, Winslow, Hoskins, Carroll, Neligh, Oakdale and Orchard.

LOOKING OVER a new brochure updating the Community of Wayne and its medical facilities are Pat Gross, chairman of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce Medical Affairs committee and Marlee Thomas, administrator of Providence Medical Center. The new brochure was made available by the Nebraska Public Power District.

Services Held For Young Mike

Funeral services for six-year-old Michael Braden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Braden of Wayne, were postponed to 10:30 a.m. Monday at the United Methodist Church in Wayne. Michael died Wednesday in an Omaha hospital, where he had been hospitalized several weeks with a rare blood disease. The Rev. Kenneth Edmondson and the Rev. William Anderson officiated at services. ### Five Area Communities Receive NPPD Checks

Five area communities received nearly $11,000 as a result of agreements leasing their electrical distribution systems to the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), according to Jules W. Burbach, Harrington, a member of the NPPD board of directors.

Chance to Give Precious Gift

Area residents are reminded that this week is National Eye Bank Week in Wayne and has been proclaimed as such by Mayor Wayne Marsh. "Lions' Sight Committee Chairman Rick Urwiler said persons who wish to pledge their eyes after death for use as transplants should contact him at 375-4784 or the Nebraska Lions Eye Bank, University Hospital, 42nd and Dewey Ave., Omaha. He said that almost ten percent of all people who are blind today can be given restored sight by the transplantation of cornea from the eye of a recently deceased person. Urwiler reminded persons: "Who will his eyes never really dies."

Two Seminars Set by Chamber

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce announced two seminars to be held this month. The first will be held March 13 and will cover the in's and out's of product merchandising. It will be conducted free beginning at 7 p.m. at the Windmill restaurant.

"Leadership and Modern Management Techniques" is the topic for the March 22 meeting to be held beginning at 8 a.m. and will last until 4 p.m. at Bentback Hall on the Wayne State College campus. Dr. Fred Luthams of the University of Nebraska will conduct the day-long seminar. He is well-known in the field of human resources management.

Session Set For Thursday

Farmers who have not yet received their certificates for purchasing restricted pesticides should plan to attend training at the Wayne City Auditorium on Thursday, March 8 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Requirements are that farmers attend the entire session in order to be certified, said Don C. Spitzer, Wayne County Extension Agent.

New Brochure to Help Recruit Medical Doctors to Wayneland

An updated "tool" to help upgrade health care in the Wayneland area was presented to the Medical Affairs committee of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Mort Hough, community developer for Nebraska Public Power District, Tuesday handed over 100 copies of "Medical Facts" brochures about the Wayne area. The brochures were compiled from information supplied by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and presented to the committee as a public service by the NPPD. Hough said the purpose of the brochure is to help acquaint those persons who might be interested in practicing medicine in Wayne, with the community and its medical facilities. He pointed out the brochures have been made up for other communities and have worked well with doctor recruitment. "It helps to open the door in introducing a prospective health care person to a community." Hough said NPPD is interested in the development of the communities within its district and is willing to provide a helping hand in that development whenever possible. Members of the committee, which is chaired by Pat Gross, expressed their thanks to Hough and to NPPD for the interest and initiative in providing the brochure. The competition for professional medical persons willing to practice in a rural area is very keen and those communities that demonstrate willingness to take "the extra step" in making rural practice in their communities as attractive as possible, usually rate higher on the lists of the prospects, according to the NPPD representative. A practicing medical doctor and a member of the university board of regents, last week said rural health care in Nebraska is "a damn near catastrophe" and he sees the University of Nebraska as a part of the problem. Dr. Robert Prokop told Nebraska Rural Health Manpower commission members that rural applicants to the University of Nebraska Medical Center are discriminated against. Referring to a shortage of primary care physicians in the state's sparsely populated counties, Prokop said pumping more money into the medical center has not resulted in more doctors for Nebraska's rural population. He said tax support to the medical center increased fourfold from 1971 to 1977, but the number of graduates turning to rural practices fell from 22 in 1961 to 1965 to just 7 in the years, 1971 to 1975. He also pointed out students from counties of more than 50,000 population tend to leave the state when they graduate but students from counties of less than 10,000 population tend to return to their home towns. The new information coupled with existing information has made it difficult to persuade medical students to practice in rural areas. But extensive efforts by the Wayne search group, in cooperation with local medical doctors, have turned up one doctor who is coming to Wayne to practice and inquiries from at least one other. "It's something we have to continually work at," Gross explained, "and this new brochure is going to make our job easier."

A Bit of Americana Japanese Learn To 'Do-Si-Do'

By RANDY HASCALL
Perhaps a degree of international goodwill and friendship was projected as some Japanese agriculture students and some Wayne State students square danced in Rice Auditorium Thursday night. The 57 Japanese students, enthusiastic and cooperative during their stay, were admitted to the United States a year and half ago through a work-study program in agricultural training. The students arrived at Wayne Thursday morning, visited farms and the Northeast Station, and were provided entertainment in the evening. Through the cooperation of Wayne State Student Senate President Dave Ryan, Mike McKinis, Lynette Schulz and Bob Schleicher say and played guitar for the students at the Student Union. They, following a routine by Wayne State contortionist Bryce Kanago, the Japanese students put on a program of singing a cultural dance and a karate demonstration for the Wayne State people. The Japanese American relationship was exemplified when everyone joined in to sing John Denver's "Country Road." The students also learned various square dances from WSC instructor Susan Kovar and watched a planetarium show presented by Carl Rump. Though the Japanese were well entertained at Wayne State, the basis for their trip was to study the American culture and to learn agricultural techniques that can be used when they return to Japan. The group was divided and individuals lived and worked on farms or ranches in Nebraska, Idaho, Montana, California, Iowa and other states for about 12 months. On the farms, they participated in the day to day activities by performing assigned duties or work schedules. This "on-the-job training" is probably the most valuable learning experience a trainee has during his stay. All of the trainees are carefully selected from all prefectures of Japan through written examinations and personal interviews. Ranging in age from 18 to 30 years, all have completed high school and expect to engage in some phase of production agriculture when he returns to Japan. Earnings of the trainees during their stay, cover the costs of travel and training. The work-study program is sponsored in the United States through the Big Bend Community College Foundation of Washington in cooperation with the Japanese Agricultural Training Council, the Embassy of Japan, and the United States Department of State, Labor and Agriculture. Through interpreter Hitoshi Nishikawa, "The Wayne Herald" interviewed student Tosaki Hireta of Tokushima, Japan about his visit to the U.S. "The people of Nebraska are very kind and treated us well," he said. "Nebraskans are very conservative compared to Californians but friendly. We have a very good attitude toward the United States." When Hireta returns to Japan, he will work on his father's dairy farm, with 25 to 30 milk cows. He said that the family See JAPANESE, page 10

Specialist: Parenting Styles Often Ineffective

The following is the first in a series to be run in the Wayne Herald in observance of the International Year of the Child, 1979.

According to Dr. Ron Daly, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension family life specialist, many parents are either a commander general, a psychologist, a judge, a preacher or a cynic when it comes to communicating with their children.

The commander general parent, for example, allows no alternatives, keeps things well under control and doesn't permit children to express negative feelings. His tools usually are threats, orders and commands.

"This kind of parenting style usually causes resentment, rejection and hostility in children," says Daly. "In essence, the parent is saying that he or she has all the rights and the child has none."

Other parents act like psychologists and try to analyze a child's behavior.

They ask questions, diagnose, interpret and evaluate.

"The parent psychologist wants to hear all the details in order to be in a better position to set the child straight," he said. "But this kind of superior position doesn't allow the child to communicate feelings openly."

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist says the judge parent pronounces a child's guilt before the verdict is in. The only thing this parent is interested in is "I'm right and you're wrong."

Parents also use the preacher or teacher style to communicate with their children, according to Daly. Lectures, complete with moralization, also allow for only one-way communication, he says.

Finally, the cynic parenting style uses sarcasm to make fun of or belittle a child. For example, a parent might say, "When you get your own home you can give the orders," says Daly.

Daly says ordering, directing, warning or moralizing don't meet the developmental needs of children. They do nothing to help a child develop trust, initiative, industry and the ability to solve problems. Instead, a child may end up feeling inadequate and insecure.

A more effective parenting style could be called "responsive parenting," says the specialist. This kind of communication is based on mutual respect, allowing both parent and child to express feelings and ideas honestly, without fear of rejection.

"First, tell the child you understand how he or she feels," he suggests. "Then tell them that you also understand why. This shows you're interested in the child's feelings."

Daly says parents can become responsive communicators if they do the following:

- Restrict talking to friendly conversation and use a respectful tone of voice. To influence your child, use less criticism and a more positive tone.

- Be both firm and kind. Decide on a course of action and don't waver, but be non-judgmental and matter-of-fact when applying the consequences.
- Keep your control. Children often try to gain control by demanding special attention.
- Encourage children. Recognize their efforts and contributions as well as accomplishments, and show you understand how a child feels when things aren't going well.
- Show mutual respect. A parent should show faith and confidence in a child and respect for him as a human being with feelings, ideas and worth.

Problems that interlock

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk
Director of Information

General file debate in the Nebraska Legislature on LB 26 and previous testimony on the bill at its public hearing provides insight into why it is difficult to pass meaningful legislation to head off future water crises in the state before they develop.

LB 26 is considered one of the most consequential of the packet of water bills introduced in this session by the Public Works Committee headed by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora. The bill seeks to strengthen the Nebraska Ground Water Management Act, particularly those sections of the law relating to establishment of water control areas. Among other things it leaves it up to the Natural Resources District whether to require meters on irrigation wells.

Most of the debate centered on the financing of Natural Resources Districts. Present law permits a Natural Resources District to levy up to one mill on the property within the district and an additional 1/4 mill to cover added costs if a control area is set up. A water control area is established when a Natural Resources District advises the director of the Water Resources Department shortages are developing and regulation of water use is needed.

LB 26 would increase that extra authorization from 1/4 mill up to one full mill. Sen. Kremer, who has been conducting interim water studies as chairman or member of legislative study committees since the early 1960's, pointed out both the needs and costs of Natural Resources Districts. He cited the fact that the Upper Republican area has experienced a 15 ft. drop in its water table in just 3 years. If one of three water control areas established to date by others are the Upper, Big Blue and the Little Blue areas. There are other areas of the state which are developing water shortage and water quality problems.

Sen. Kremer said the alternative to control areas and adequate funding of Natural Resources Districts to handle regulatory measures is to allow unlimited water use to continue until the "Law of the Jungle" takes over when the water supplies run out.

Sen. Sam Cullan of Hemingford, a dryland farmer, made the point that it is unfair to tax all the people of a control area to pay the administrative costs which are necessary for the irrigators who cause the problem. He has suggested a water use tax but has drawn little support. Sen. Kremer and other senators said the public hearings have shown irrigators drastically oppose metering their wells and paying a "user tax."

Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City proposed an amendment which in effect would leave the present one-fourth mill provision just as it is. His amendment failed as did a proposal by Sen. Nelson Herz of Falls City to make the figure one-half mill extra. Sen. Murphy and several other senators' said some of the NRSD districts have been receiving funds for such things as bicycle paths, tennis courts and things other than conservation.

Sen. John DeCamp of North noted that Natural Resources Districts are, multi-county and thus experience the problem of unequal property valuations between the counties. He said that until property valuations are equalized — and that's a major issue of this session — then a designated levy raises inequitable amounts from the taxpayers in different counties in a taxing district. He said that if counties reappraise and raise their valuations accordingly, an extra one mill levy could represent what he called a 400 percent increase in the property taxes for NRD purposes.

These are all valid considerations that the senators will have to sort out. They do illustrate the complexity of water legislation, and why a complete rewrite of the state's water laws in one session or a special session has been suggested, is a virtual impossibility. If such an attempt is ever made, it should be during the midst of a hot dry summer when wells are going dry and streams and reservoirs nearly empty.

ral's opinion is expected in the next several days.

Another senator attempted to add an amendment that would mandate metering of all wells in the three established water-control areas that we now have in Nebraska. Opponents to this provision said that this should be left up to the local control area and that they would require it if necessary. After all the other amendments were defeated, the introducer explained the bill section by section.

This bill would also include a provision to allow a control area to cross resource district boundaries.

After many hours of debate the bill was advanced to select file by a 27-2 vote. Opponents promised more amendments would be added to the bill at this debating stage.

It is my opinion that water will be one of the major issues this session and I urge you to contact me expressing your thoughts and concerns on this vital issue.

The Legislative Council publishes the "Unicameral Update" on a weekly basis during the session. This publication describes the issues before the Legislature. If you would care to be on the mailing list, please write me at the State Capitol.

Unicameral Review

SENATOR ELROY M. HEFNER
District No. 19
Box 34
Coleridge, Nebraska 68727

The first of 36 water bills introduced this session was debated on the floor for several hours each day during the past week.

LB 26 would refine the Ground Water Management Act of 1978 by allowing Natural Resources Districts to levy an additional mill for the creation and operation of control areas. Many senators believe that this may well be the most important of all the water bills that have been introduced.

Much of the discussion was over the additional one mill. This was finally amended to three-fourths of a mill after many attempts at other amounts. Opponents claimed that a lower mill levy for control areas would be sufficient once property is revalued.

Natural Resources Districts are absorbing costs of groundwater management in water-controlled areas by curtailing other programs at the present time. This new funding ability will allow payment for groundwater regulation for the proper fund base.

Some senators expressed concern that this would violate LB 1 (the lid bill) that we passed last year. An Attorney General's

Diesel mystery cleared

With some diesel engines now on the car market and others coming down the road, motorists have become curious about how they compare with gasoline engines. The Automotive Information Council offers the following:

The biggest difference is that diesels do not have spark plugs or a carburetor. Instead of using a spark to ignite the fuel-air mixture provided by the carburetor, diesels inject fuel into the engine and cause the fuel to explode by compressing it under great pressure. Diesel engines have a compression ratio of about 22 to 1, versus an average of 8 to 1 for a gasoline engine.

These rapid-fire explosions are what cause the diesel to have its unique "clicking" sound. The car companies use sound-insulating materials to muffle the clicks.

The high compression ratio requires a stronger and heavier engine block. A typical U.S. car diesel weighs 500 pounds more than its gasoline counterpart and costs perhaps $750 more. Costs are expected to come down when volume increases.

A major advantage to a diesel is fuel economy, but 20 to 25 percent better than with a gasoline engine. However, they also have 10 to 20 percent less power than a gasoline engine of the same size, so a driver has to adjust to the slower acceleration.

A diesel won't start until it's warmed up, which formerly took a full minute or even more. The newer engines are equipped with a glow plug which warms the unit in a few seconds. A start light informs the driver when the car is ready to go.

The Environmental Protection Agency recently proposed strict new emission standards for diesel engines in 1983, which the auto makers say they cannot meet.

The new rule calls for particulate exhaust emissions of 0.2 grams per mile in 1983, compared with 0.6 grams in 1981. One company said the difference between the 0.6 and the 0.2 would be about three miles less dust from a mile long carpool bumper-to-bumper diesel cars.

Car makers are seeking a change in

The April 5 meeting will be at 2 p.m. with hostess Mrs. Gilbert Rauss.

Planning June Rites

The engagement of Martha Stoakes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stoakes of Wayne, and David Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hansen of Lincoln, has been announced by the bride-elect's parents.

Miss Stoakes is employed at the University Health Center in Lincoln. The bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln and is employed at Rivers Metal Products, Inc., in Lincoln. The couple plans a June wedding at the Evangelical United Lutheran Church in Lincoln.

R. Y. Hyde Council Divides

Effective June 1, the R.Y. Hyde Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America will be divided into two clubs.

A spokesman for the council said the west club will include the towns of Ainsworth, Long Pine, Atkinson, O'Neill, Spencer, Laurel, Randolph, Wakefield, Stanton, Pilsner, Wayne, Winside, Battle Creek and Norfolk. The east club is comprised of the towns of South Sioux City, West Point, Lyons, North Bend, Howells, Schuyler, Clarkston, Columbus, Arlington and Fremont.

The organizational change was made during an executive meeting of the R.Y. Hyde Council, held Wednesday in West Point. Chapter officers in attendance were Virg Winter and George Lauritsen of Omaha. Upcoming events that were announced at the meeting included the May assembly at Sioux Falls, S.D., on May 9. Dates will be announced for Pioneer Week and Service week.

Citizen Advocacy Program Helping Mentally Retarded

Employees of the Region IV office in Wayne presented a program on citizen advocacy at the Senior Citizens Center in Wayne last Tuesday afternoon.

Taking part were Linda and Jean, public information director for Region IV. Jean Haskell, citizen advocacy coordinator, and advocate volunteer Sandi Kirsch of Wayne State College. Haskell told the group that her job includes finding volunteers (friends) for the 36 persons who are mentally retarded and living in the Wayne area.

Sixteen persons attended the program, which included a film entitled "Something Shared." Jean Haskell led a question and answer session.

Haskell will conduct a two-hour workshop to train volunteers to become friends of the mentally retarded on Tuesday, March 27, from 3 to 4 p.m., and on Tuesday, April 3, from 3 to 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend the sessions at the Senior Citizens Center.

Pamphlets, entitled "Region IV Moving Forward" and "Citizen Advocacy is Something Shared," are available free at the Senior Center.

AAUW Meeting Thursday Night

A meeting of the American Association of University Women Wayne branch, has been scheduled for Thursday, March 8, beginning with supper at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union on the Wayne State College campus.

The program, at 7:30, is entitled "Wheels of Fortune." Guest speaker will be a representative from the Center of Rural Affairs, W.L.Hill, who will talk about the economic implications of center pivot irrigation systems. All members are encouraged to attend.

Wayne State Team Prepares For Opener At K State

BY BRAD WIELAND Sports Information Assistant Steve Anson led the Kansas State baseball team to many victories in his 17 years of play at Manhattan, Kan. The first-year Wayne State College intercollegiate baseball coach will be returning to KSU March 10 for his new Wildcat team's season opener and Anson is hoping to continue his winning ways.

Anson, who is filling in this year for head coach Ron Jones who is on sabbatical leave completing a doctorate, performed well enough to make All Big Eight Honorable All Star in 1975, second team All Big Eight in 1973 and 1976 and was named for first-team honors in 1974. He led the Big Eight in hitting in 1974 with a .439 batting average.

For the past three weeks, Anson has been busy preparing the WSC Wildcats for their opening game at Manhattan, Kan. and his return. "After fall workouts and based on preseason practices, we have the potential of being very strong offensively," Anson said. "What might hurt us offensively is team speed."

Defensively the Wildcat's are expected to be very strong, especially up the middle which includes the key positions of catcher, second, shortstop and centerfielder. Anson has 12 returning letterman back with senior Steve Klinesmith of Omaha and Junior Tony Pisciola of Arvada, Col., heading the list of veterans. Klinesmith was a member of the CSIC All-Star Team and

District 11 squad last year, while batting at a .328 clip. Klinesmith is expected to resume his duties in centerfield in the upcoming season. Pisciola batted .317 last season and was selected for the District 11 team as a second baseman. Other returning veterans expected to help out are senior Kevin Mahlborg of West Point, outfielder, sophomore Mark West, outguard of Sloan, Iowa, and senior Bernie Minarik of Elkhorn

Mahlborg led WSC in runs batted in last season with 16 and carried a .305 batting average. A major change Anson has made this year is the movement of Minarik from outfield to third base. WSC's biggest offensive threat might come in the form of junior college transfer Jeff Williams of Blue Hill. Anson said he feels Williams has the capability of being an aggressive hitter with a powerful swing. Williams will be challenging for an outfield position.

Many new faces at Wayne will be challenging veterans for infield positions. They include freshmen Chico Mason, Pittsburg, Pa.; Bill Schwartz, Wayne; Mike Test, Norfolk and Kelly Neustrom, Moberly, Iowa. "Catcher Ron Kreber of Granville, Iowa, currently has the inside track," Anson said, "but is getting stiff competition from junior Keith Siebrandt of Wakefield and freshmen Mike Meyer of Wayne and Dean Sharp of Wakefield." The pitching staff will have three returning leftarmers on the mound from last year's squad. Sophomore Doug Carroll of Wayne; senior Dewey Edger of Omaha and junior Mark Larson of Mallard, Iowa, will all return. Of the returning pitchers, Larson carries the best earning average of 2.77. "Pitching and team depth will be the key to our season, especially in the early part," Anson said.

According to Randy Hascall

WAYNE'S BLUE DEVILS have a little extra pride riding on tonight's (Monday) district basketball game with Schuyler. Wayne lost to the Warriors 80-72 back on Jan. 27 but most people feel that Wayne is the better team. Tonight the Devils have a chance to prove that in the first round of districts at Norfolk High School. The game starts at 6:30 p.m.

In an earlier game, Wisner-Pilger plays Alton at 5 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Lakeview and Scotus square off. Hartington C.C. has a bye. Semifinals rescheduled for Wednesday at 6:30 and 8 p.m. and finals are set for Friday at 7:30. I RECEIVED WORD from Wayne High principal Don Zeiss that the was extremely pleased with the cooperation and sportsmanship of the teams recently involved in the district basketball tourney at Wayne High School. The crowds were huge during the tourney and especially during the Lyons-West Point game, but Zeiss said that those two teams, their fans and students, all deserved a special commendation. "Even with the large crowds it was a pleasure to host the tourney," he added. "I'M ONE of the many persons who would really like to see an interclass basketball game to see if a team in Class B or C could compete with a team in Class A."

Take Lyons and Lincoln East for example. Lyons is an extremely strong Class C team which has earned lots of recognition. Lincoln East has ruled the Class A realm during the season. Matchmakers would love to put these two teams head-to-head and the fans would go crazy. Pick a site, perhaps the Bob Devaney Sports Center. The game could be played in Fremont or Omaha as well. Just have an agreement because this "dream" game would draw tons of curious fans. Then, pick a charity and donate the proceeds for a worthy cause. This way, skeptical believers that Lyons is number three in the state would be satisfied one way or the other. Lyons could find out just how good it really is and Lincoln East would have a chance to prove that it's the best team in the entire state. The charity would be the biggest winner. This type of game could become an annual affair, matching an underclass team against the King of class A. It could follow state tournaments and it would be a real state championship.

Teams One, Two Share C Lead

Two one-point games highlighted the eighth week of C League Recreation basketball Wednesday. Team Four edged Team Six 55-54 and Team Three nipped Team Two 66-65. In the other game, Team One dropped Team Five 57-44.

Team Four built up an 18-9 first quarter lead but Team Six rallied to gain a 32-26 halftime advantage and a 47-39 third quarter lead. Then Team Three rallied with a strong team effort to outscore Team Six 16-7 in the final period to win by one. Don Zeiss led the winners with 13 points and Mike Carney, Bill Cleeke and Bob Enz followed closely with 12 points apiece in a good team performance. Ken Liska and Dean Caran stirred the Team Six offense with 19 and 17 points respectively. In the other one-point outcome Team Two and Team Three were nip-and-tuck all the way before Team Three came away with the narrow win, its third consecutive and third of the season. Team two holds a share of the League lead with a 6-2 record.

Leading the winners were Ron Wriedt with 15 points. Terry Kumm, Lee Remer and Pat Gross with 12 points each in a balanced attack. Dave Schulte scored 20, John Dorcay hit 19 and Luft added 10 for Team Two in a losing cause. Team One took over a share of first place in the C League by taking an early seven-point lead and holding on to win by 13, 57-44 over Team Five. Dave Schulte pumped in 17 points and Sam Schroeder added 10 for the winners while Ric Wilson led Team Five with 19 points.

Ninth Week: 5:3, 7 p.m. 6-2, 8 p.m. 4-1, 9:15 p.m. Team Four: Zeiss, 13; Carney, 12; Wessel, 3; Blecke, 12; Enz, 12; Jerry Dorcay, 3. Team Six Upsets B League Leader

Team Six tagged Team Four for its first loss. Team One racked up 100 points against Team Five and Team Three edged Team Two in an exciting eighth week of B League basketball, Tuesday. In the closest game of the night, Team Three held off a second half rally by Team Two to pull out a narrow 45-44 win. Mike Meyer scored 14 of his 16 points in the first half to put Team Three in front 28-19 at halftime, after an even first quarter. Fritz Weible accounted for 12 points in the second half as Team Two closed within one or two points but Team Three held on to win. Meyer scored 16 and Moe Green added 14 to lead the winners while Weible scored 17 and Larry Creighton added 12 to aid the losers.

Team Six posted its fifth win in eight games by upsetting Team Four 59-47 in the second game of the evening. Team Four entered the game with a perfect 7-0 record but Team Six took control in the second quarter by outscoring Team Four 16-4. Maurice Boeckenhauer led the winners with 16 points followed by Mark Flier and Mark Weber with 12 each and Jerry Geiger with 10. Team Four was paced by Pat

Reeson, Onken The Only Seniors

BY DARWIN RUBECK
Sports Information Assistant

After harassing opponents with their rebounding and shooting abilities, seniors Bob Reeson of West Point and Dean Onken of Carroll, Iowa, will part ways at season's end.

Reeson is a senior both in eligibility and academically at Wayne State College while Onken is a senior only academically but is a junior in eligibility. In two years of play for WSC, 46 Reeson has grabbed 400 rebounds and scored 495 points for an average of 7 rebounds per game and 8.5 points per game, while his counterpart, 6-5 Onken has pulled down 133 rebounds and scored 200 points in one season to average 4.8 rebounds per game and over 7 points per game.

"The most memorable game for me at Wayne State was the recent Kearney State game," Reeson said. WSC defeated Kearney 69-67 in that game. "Everybody played and contributed to the win." Reeson added. "This has been a much closer knit team than in the past."

Reeson has been a vital part of the WSC team this season and has been honored for his performance by being named to the NAIA District 11 "All-District" team and the Nebraska College shooting is 98 percent. Reeson's rebounding and field goal percentages are both near or at the top in the CSIC and NAIA District 11. His free throw streak of 26 for 26 is the longest on record at WSC.

Onken, like Reeson, has been a consistent performer, particularly as a team player.

entire year. Just being able to play basketball again was my biggest thrill at Wayne State," Onken said. "My favorite game has to be the Kearney State win," he added. "It was a team effort with everyone contributing."

Onken has provided many key performances this season, by being able to hit baskets or free throws when needed. He is the number three free throw shooter on the team, hitting 71 percent from the charity stripe and also the number three rebounder, pulling down nearly 5 per game.

At 6-5 Onken does not appear to be the dominating type of ballplayer, but in the Wayne State 85-83 overtime victory Jan. 27 over Emporia State, he was just that. Onken came out in the overtime to score eight of the Wildcat's 10 overtime points and dominated the boards to power the Cats to the win.

"The fans this year have been great and played a bigger role at home games than many people realize," Onken said. "They really provide inspiration in key situations."

"Dean is, if not the best, one of the best team players we have," coach Ivey said.

The all-round abilities are apparent with Onken also third on the team in the key area of assists, showing his unselfishness on the court. He is noted for taking good, open shots and passing if he is not open, Ivey said.

"I have been very pleased with the play of Bob and Dean, especially their contribution to the team as a whole," Ivey said.

Laurel Jr. Gals Win Hartington Tourney

The Laurel Junior High Girls basketball team beat Wynot 22-15 in the championship game to win the first place trophy in the Hartington tournament. Laurel got to the finals by beating Coleridge 24-13.

Laurel vs. Coleridge Three players each scored 6 points in the first game of the tournament against Coleridge. Kelli Johnson, Jackie Crisp, and Kim Sherry accounted for 18 of Laurel's 24 points.

Patsy Thompson, Cammie Crookshank, and Sandy McCorkindale each scored a field goal for the remainder of Laurel's points. Everyone saw action for Laurel in the second half with Laurel leading 16-4 at the end of three quarters.

Laurel vs. Wynot The Laurel team took a 2 point lead after one quarter on two field goals by Patsy Thompson.

Laurel extended its lead in the second period outscoring Wynot 8-1. Jackie Crisp and Kelli Johnson each had field goals in the second period. Thompson scored on a free throw and Crisp three more points from the free throw line.

Wynot outscored Laurel 8-4 in the third period. Kim Sherry and Johnson scored field goals for the locals. Laurel scored its final six points in the fourth quarter on a field goal by Johnson and 2 for 3 from the line from Crisp and Thompson. Laurel extended its winning string to five in a row and finished the season at 6-2.

Jackie Crisp had a very good tournament, leading the team in rebounds and scoring. She had 22 rebounds, 13 points and 5 for 9 from the free throw line. Crisp and Thompson lead the team in scoring against Wynot, each scoring 7 points. Johnson had 6 and Sherry 2.

Laurel made 8 for 15 free throws and outrebounded Wynot 49-40.

Spring Turkey Permits Left

Four of six spring shotgun turkey units will still have permits available during the second application period which runs from March 1 through 15, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

An earlier application period accounted for all available permits in the Verdigris and South-west units. Only residents who did not hold a spring shotgun turkey permit in 1978 were eligible to apply at that time, while the second application period is open to all Nebraska residents.

Units and numbers of permits remaining include: Round Top, 1,087; Niobrara, 294; Wildcat, 70; and Halsey, 30. Permit holders are allowed to take one tom turkey during the season, which runs from April 14 through May 6. Resident permits cost $15, and hunters must also have a 1979 habitat stamp in their possession.

Application forms are available at permit vendors across the state or may be obtained from district offices of the commission.

All applications must be in the main office of the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission at 2200 North 33rd, Lincoln, Ne., 68503, prior to 5 p.m., March 15, to be eligible for a drawing in the event any of the units are over-subscribed.

...how trading at home
makes more sense today
than ever before

Economic disarray cramps our national economy at times, and naturally affects our individual and local financial well-being.

At such times, it becomes even more worthwhile to keep our money turning over — and over — at home, where $1 can generate $4 or $5 in trade volume to help keep our stores well-stocked, our people (us) employed, and our public services efficient.

Region IV Plans

The Senior Citizens of Wayne hosted a public program on citizen advocacy recently at the Senior Citizens Center.

Linda Anderson, public information director for the Region IV office of developmental disabilities, explained Region IV services available in the community. Jean Haskell, Wayne county citizen advocacy coordinator, spoke of opportunities for citizens to become involved in the advocacy program.

Any person who is willing to donate a few minutes per week is qualified to serve as a special friend or advocate to a mentally retarded protegee or to someone else in the community who may be in need of assistance, she said.

According to Ms. Haskell, "advocacy can be a very rewarding experience as the one-to-one relationship grows between the volunteer and his protegee. Activities shared could range anything from going out to eat together to a simple telephone call."

Sandy Kirsch, an advocate for a young girl who is mentally retarded, described her experiences and encouraged involvement by other members of the community.

The Wayne Advocacy program will be broadening in the future to provide services to persons in hospitals, nursing homes and other facilities.

Requests for further information can be directed to Jean Haskell, 375-4564.

The first is a $1,500 enlistment bonus with $750 paid after completion of basic and advanced individual training with $200 to be paid at the end of the second and third year and $350 at the end of the fourth year.

The second incentive is an educational assistance bonus which will be reimbursed to the individual at a maximum rate of $500 per year not to exceed $2,000 during the enlistment.

Spangler said the two incentives are offered only with a six year enlistment.

The Wayne NCO said in addition there are state incentives of 75 percent tuition waiver at any state supported college or technical school and a $300 enlistment bonus. An individual may utilize the state incentives with either a four times two or six year enlistment option.

Spangler said either one of the federal incentives may be combined with the state 75 percent tuition waiver to make an attractive package for those wishing to further their education or learn a trade.

Personnel who have prior military service qualify for the state incentives with a three year enlistment as well as the opportunity to remain at the rank in which they were released from their last military service.

Additional benefits are a $20,000 full time life insurance policy for only $36 per year.

unit has changed over the past years. In the past, he said, three or four generations lived in the same home but now only two generations live together.

Japanese farmers are engaged in dairy operations and rice production according to Hirata. He compared weather in Northern Japan to that of Nebraska but said that southern Japan is much warmer and has no snow. Rice farms average about three or four acres in size depending on the geographical location. Many of the Japanese farmers are turning to American Technology and the work-study program educates the agricultural students in this area.

Hirata said that Japanese incomes are similar to American incomes but said that a gallon of gas sells for about $1.50 and a pound of beef costs about 10 times as much as in the U.S. The American influence in Japan showed up in the hair and dress styles of the visiting Japanese although the number of Americans in Japan is declining.

Japanese people drive small Japanese automobiles and ride on railroads, subways and buses Hiraja said. Discussing his visit to the States, he said, "My best experience was meeting people and communicating with them while learning farming techniques. It takes a while to get used to speaking and understanding English, but it's been fun."

According to translator Nishikawa, the students were not home sick and enjoyed the United States but few will probably ever move to America because of immigration laws.

Hirata chuckled and said that he like to eat hamburgers and hot dogs but stated that the greatest value of his experience was "International understanding."
