Blizzard Buries Area Under Blanket of Snow

The sting of a hard-hitting weekend blizzard, which isolated Wayne for a time, was lessened somewhat Tuesday by near 40 degree temperatures allowing some melting.

The area was buried under eight inches of wet snow in a storm which was called the worst in four years by Wayne Highway Department Supervisor Harold Murray.

The storm was preceded Friday by warm temperatures which combined with moist air to produce thunderstorms and rains that gave way to the snow as the temperatures dropped.

The main arteries into Wayne were quickly plugged by the wind-driven snow. There were numerous reports of cars being abandoned in drifts with motorists making their way to nearby farmhouses.

There were no reports of storm-related injuries in the immediate area. Providence Medical Center reported no emergencies as a result of the storm.

Roads into Wayne were opened Monday but only one-way in many places. Equipment from other areas was brought in to help unclog the highways.

However, a snow blower from Neligh opened Highway 15 north out of Wayne to two-way traffic Wednesday. Highway 35 was still one-way in places Wednesday.

County crews worked around the clock in shifts to get county roads open. District 3 roads were open at least one-way Wednesday and crews expected to reach some six farmsteads in District 2 which were still isolated by Wednesday afternoon. District 1 roads were reported to be fairly well opened, although they were still working to get to three farmsteads Wednesday.

Schools in the area were closed Monday because of the storm. However, the Wayne community schools were open Tuesday with about 85 percent attendance.

Dr. Francis Haun, superintendent, credited the county crews for making it possible for the high attendance Tuesday. "They worked hard to get the roads open and we appreciate their efforts," he said, "not only in this storm but in others as well."

Dr. Haun said he anticipates some trouble with roads when the snow begins to melt and the mud takes over.

Murray said state crews are to be credited for their efforts. He said extra equipment was brought in but no extra personnel.

He said the storm was so bad that it took a blower, a V-plow and two trucks 11 hours to "punch a hole" through to Wakefield from Wayne, a distance of about ten miles.

Murray said the crews went on to Allen and Highway 20 and got back to Wayne about 3 a.m. Sunday. "They laid down on the pavement in the shop for a couple of hours of sleep and then were back on the job."

Highways and roads closed in the Wayne area included Highway 35 west of Wayne and east See BLIZZARD, page 10

About 101 members of the Wayne State faculty were in Norfolk last Friday for an overnight workshop designed to help with WSC's planning for the 1980s.

By Sunday afternoon, however, the group was still having difficulty planning their way back to Wayne.

The eight inches of snow that fell on top of the freezing rain Friday evening stranded the faculty group at the Villa Inn in Norfolk.

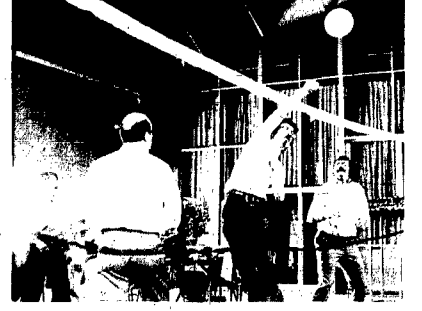

Trends examined by the WSC Group included the areas of science and technology, population, government, the economy, work, women and participation.

Statements were drafted by the WSC faculty outlining the probable impact of those trends on Wayne State. The impact state- See STRANDED, page 10

NOTHING TO do but wait . . . for WSC faculty members over the weekend. About 101 WSC faculty members were stranded until late Sunday afternoon in Norfolk. The group left Friday for a "Planning for the 80's" workshop and had originally planned to return Saturday.

Though they had planned to return at 2 p.m., Saturday, road conditions around Norfolk and Wayne prevented the group from leaving until late Sunday afternoon.

A NUMBER OF volleyball games helped the waiting for many WSC faculty. The volleyball equipment was brought in on snowmobile by personnel from Northeast Tech in Norfolk.

Citizen Advocacy Meeting In Wayne Tuesday, March 13

Betty Younkin, Program Coordinator from the Capital Association for Retarded Citizens in Lincoln, will present information on citizen advocacy to key members of the Wayne community on March 13.

The Tuesday meeting is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Black Knight Restaurant.

According to Gary Van Meter, Executive Vice President of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, "Citizen Advocacy is an effort to involve people like you and me in socializing the mentally handicapped. Many children, adolescents and adults who are mentally retarded have little contact with our world — the one you and I enjoy and take for granted."

Van Meter says that a friend or advocate is great help in assisting mentally retarded citizens to attain self-sufficiency in the community.

The informative session will focus on roles and responsibilities of Volunteer advocates, the advocacy coordinator, and the citizen advocacy advisory committee. According to Ms. Younkin, the benefits of citizen advocacy to the protégé, advocate and society will be explained at the Wayne meeting.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Allen Girl Is Winner Of State Speech Contest

A 16-year-old junior at Allen High School is well on her way to becoming the regional winner of the 1979 American Legion National High School Oratorical Contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kraemer of Allen, was first place winner of the state contest held Saturday at Rushville, Nebr., where she competed with 13 district winners.

As the state winner, she received a $500 scholarship to the college of her choice and a 28-inch high traveling trophy. She also received a smaller trophy to keep.

Miss Kraemer will now compete with state winners from this region, which includes Nebraska, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

The regional contest is slated for April 23 in Lincoln. The winner there will advance to the sectional contest at Pocatello, Idaho, and from there to the national contest in Oklahoma.

The Allen High School junior first entered the speech contest sponsored locally by the Allen American Legion, where she received a $25 savings bond. She then advanced to the district contest at Allen in February, where she topped contestants from seven counties and received a $50 savings bond.

During each level of competition, Miss Kraemer must present a memorized 8 to 10 minute prepared speech and a 3 to 5 minute extemporaneous speech on one of the articles or amendments of the constitution.

Joni, a member of the Allen High School drama department, has won several speaking honors. She competed in the Lewis and Clark Conference Speech Contest last week in Wausa, where she received a superior medal for her extemporaneous speech. She also won the district FFA speech contest last month at Howells and will go on to compete with other district winners in the state.

A June 16 wedding is planned at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Coleridge.

Women Unite in Prayer

"Love, the Greatest of All" was the message presented by the Rev. S.K. deFreese of the Redeemer Lutheran Church during World Day of Prayer services in Wayne last Friday afternoon.

Nearly 65 local and area women attended the program at Redeemer Lutheran. There was "Spiritual Growth."

A candlelighting ceremony was conducted in memory of Goldie Leonard, and Mrs. Herb Niemann, president of Wayne's Church Women United, gave a prayer in her honor.

Special music was sung by Mrs. Terry Lutt. Pianist was Mrs. Doniver Peterson and ushers were Mrs. Fred Denlinger and Mrs. Les Lutt.

Mrs. Alvin Meyer was chairman of the kitchen committee. Other members of Redeemer Lutheran Churchwomen assisted in the kitchen. Mary DeFreese and Mrs. Darrel Rahn poured coffee.

World Day of Prayer services are sponsored each year in Wayne by Church Women United. Current officers are Mrs. Herb Niemann, First United Methodist, president; Mrs. Darrel Rahn, Redeemer Lutheran, vice president; Mrs. Carl Lentz, United Presbyterian, secretary; and Mrs. Robert McLean, St. Mary's Catholic, treasurer. Mrs. Steve Dinsmore of the First Baptist Church is first board member, and Mrs. Walter Jager of St. Paul's Lutheran Church is second board member.

Next event sponsored by Church Women United will be the May Fellowship Breakfast at 9:30 a.m. May 4 at the Presbyterian Church.

Workshop Planned for Dixon County 4-H'ers

Now that the prospect of Spring seems more realistic, a county-wide gardening workshop is being started for all Dixon County 4-H'ers carrying horticulture projects or who are curious about them.

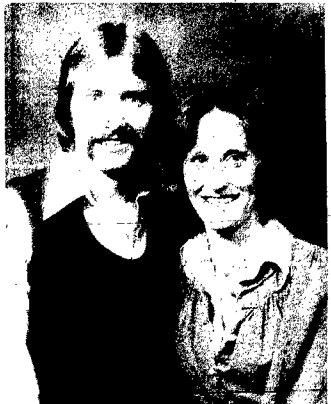

Vegetable and flower gardening, forestry, and house plants will be discussed in a series of four meetings. There also will be short studies on terrariums, soil science basics, landscaping, and possibly, flower arrangements.

Stan Starling, Dixon County Extension Agent, said the main emphasis will be on vegetable and flower gardening to help develop 4-H horticulture projects.

Four 4-H'ers of all ages, leaders, adults, and anyone else interested is welcome to attend the first meeting on Friday evening March 16, at 7 o'clock at the Northeast Station, near Concord.

Starling said persons attending are asked to bring vegetable and flower seed packets of any kind, and seed and garden catalogs.

Joni Kraemer is the workshop coordinator.

Grandson Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kerrigan of Denver announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Lucille, to Barry Kudara, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kudara of Greeley, Colo., formerly of Hoskins.

Miss Kerrigan is a 1975 graduate of Arapahoe High School, Littleton, Colo., and will be graduating this month from the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley with a degree in rehabilitation and related services. Her fiancé, a 1972 graduate of Greeley Central High, is employed with Kodak Colorado Division and is a student at Alms Community College, Greeley.

A June 16 wedding is planned.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

With DARREL FUELBERTH

Some home buyers today may not realize that our amortizing or self-liquidating type mortgage loans have not always been available. This type was developed to make it easier for people with average incomes to acquire property.

Back in the 1920's, straight term or "balloon" type mortgages were common. With these, the buyer merely paid the interest on his loan for a stated period, usually three to five years, then he had to float a new loan or come up with the principle in full during the depression, few people could raise what they owed and unemployment made them bad credit risks so they lost their homes.

Lots of things have changed in real estate but our friendly, helpful service isn't gone from them. We're always here to answer your questions on any real estate matter. How could our experience benefit YOU?

Disastrous Fourth Quarter Sinks Blue Devils In District Tournament

Assist Record Broken

A NEW record for most assists in a single season was set by Jeff Zeiss (right), with 140 assists this year. The old Blue Devil record of 136 was set by Marry Hansen (left) in 1974-75, during his senior year. Zeiss, a junior guard, broke the old record midway through the first quarter against Schuyler, Monday night. He finished with seven assists against the Warriors.

For more than 24 minutes, the Wayne Blue Devils control the tempo of their game with Schuyler, Monday night in Norfolk. Then, in the final eight minutes, the game took a turn like the Poseidon and the Devils saw their season come to a close 73-47 in first round B-4 district action.

Brad Emry hit 14 of his 16 points in the first half to keep Wayne in the lead and Tom Ginn took over in the second half, scoring 14 of his 19 points. The Devils led 32-27 after the first quarter, 41-36 at half and 59-50 after three periods. That's when Wayne's game capsize.

Led by Mike McClintic with 26 points, the Warriors began a comeback, outscoring Wayne 15-4 in a six-minute stretch to gain the lead. Schuyler held on for the final 1:30 to win its sixth game in 15 decisions.

The big difference in the game was the offensive rebounding chart. The Warriors held a 21-9 advantage on the offensive boards, while outbounding the Devils 43-36 overall. Schuyler also held an advantage on turnovers, committing 10 to Wayne's 21 but Coach Bill Sharpe said the offensive rebounds were the deciding factor.

"We outshot them percentage-wise but they shot 20 more shots than we did," Sharpe said. Wayne hit 55 percent from the field in the first half but slipped to 25 percent in the second half for a game average of 42 percent. Schuyler shot 36 percent for the game.

"The team played well except the last three to four minutes of the game, when we weren't breaking as much. All in all, most of the kids played well," Sharpe stated. "Schuyler is a good team in a good conference and we couldn't handle McClintic. We did everything but hit him with a baseball bat and couldn't stop him. He's possibly the best ballplayer we've faced this year."

In addition to guard McClintic's 26 points, substitute Alan Chromy scored 17 points and Terry Novak and John Lagmeyer added 10 each.

Looking back on his team's 11-9 season, Coach Sharpe said that the last part of the season was disappointing but predicted that next year his team will be tough. "We couldn't quite get over the hump this year but it's tough to jump out and win a bunch after a couple of down years. We're going to lose some good ball players who we'll miss but we should be real tough next year."

In other B-4 games, Wisner-Pilger nipped Albion 57-54 and Scotus edged Lakeview 60-56. Wisner-Pilger was scheduled to play Cedar Catholic Wednesday while Schuyler and Scotus paired off.

Tractor Pull Team Places

The Winside tractor pulling team of Norris and Randy Janke and Keith Gamble kept its streak of high tournament finishes in tact, by placing in two weight classes in the American Royal Arena, Feb. 27 and 28.

The team placed sixth in the 8,000 pound class and eighth in the 12,000 pound class in the Kansas City, Kansas tourney.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

MEMBERS OF THE Wayne Herald basketball team have been busy this week, preparing for a benefit game with the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department. Wives of the (married) players are letting out the seams to fit the players, as the big date approaches.

The game is being played to raise money for the Tammy Heinemann fund and the Michael Braden Memorial Fund. We feel that the money to be raised is for a tremendously worthwhile cause and we hope for a very good turnout.

The game is scheduled for Sunday, March 25 in the Wayne City Auditorium at 2 p.m. However, preceding the basketball game, the Wayne Herald ladies will challenge the Wayne Firemen's ladies in a game of volleyball. The volleyball action is set to begin at 1 p.m.

Donations will be accepted at the door and tickets will be sold in advance.

AREA BASKETBALL seasons are officially over now with the defeat of Wayne High in district play at Norfolk and with the loss of Wayne State in District 11 playoffs against Norfolk.

So, between the winter sports season and the spring season, time will be devoted to selecting All-Area teams in the winter sports. Teams will be announced sometime in the near future and selections will be published in The Wayne Herald.

Each individual selected to an All-Area team will be presented a certificate of achievement at the end of the 1978-79 school year. These individuals deserve special recognition for their achievements in high school athletics.

FOR A CHANGE of pace from the usual sports routine, the Siouxland Boat, Sports and Camping Show will add a little variety.

The 32nd annual event is scheduled from today (Thursday) through Sunday at the Sioux City Auditorium. The list of events includes country music singer Jacky Ward, an acrobatic and animal illusionist act by Ron and Joy Holiday, an acrobatic teeterboard act by Hortobagyi Troupe and a comedy presentation by the Zerbini Boys. A special attraction will involve fishing for live trout.

Don Shermans will be the sports show emcee. More details are included elsewhere on this page.

The following letter was submitted to The Wayne Herald in reference to the approved expansion of Memorial Stadium in Lincoln. Most of the signatures are from area NU students, who make up a small fraction of the expansion opposition.

Dear Editor:
The University of Nebraska Board of Regents approved a 9,000 seat addition to the east stands of Memorial Stadium in Lincoln at their January meeting. We, the members of the Residence Hall Association (RHA), as concerned students, are opposed to this action for three reasons:

(1) The Regents, by and large, devote too much attention to football and the football program. The football program at Nebraska provides excellent publicity for the University and the State, but education should be the University's primary concern; too often it seems that educational interests take a back seat to the interest in football.

(2) The proposed method of funding for construction will be based on sell-out crowds (including the new seats) for over seven seasons of home games. The Nebraska football program has been successful in recent seasons but there can be no guarantee of success in the future. Decreased attendance due to one or more bad seasons would make the present revenue predictions invalid.

(3) Approval for the expansion was given at the January meeting of the Board of Regents, at a time when classes were not in session. This allowed for inadequate student input into a decision which closely affects students.

For these reasons, RHA considers the following provisions regarding the addition important to the interests of students and the citizens of Nebraska:

The proposed ticket surcharge to help pay for construction should not be placed on student tickets. In addition to high tuition and other college expenses, students should not be asked to pay for an expansion which they generally oppose. Further, students should not be required to buy tickets in the new section unless they wish to. Student participation is important during home games; its effect would be diminished by a major change in the traditional seating arrangement.

As concerned students, we feel that the student voice should have more influence in future decisions concerning students and the University. We would also urge the Regents to devote more of their efforts toward continual improvement of educational quality at the University of Nebraska. If such efforts are not made, this stadium addition will stand as a monument to the neglect of basic educational needs.

We suggest that all Nebraskans express their opinions on this issue to the regent of their district: Kermit Wagner, 1303 Colfax St., Schuyler, Nebr., 68661.

Antelope Herds Hit Hardest In Sandhills

Now that winter conditions are starting to ease up in western Nebraska, game officials have been assessing the damage to antelope herds. And the news, while not bright, is not all bad either according to Karl Menzel, big game specialist for the Game and Parks Commission.

"The antelope in the sandhills were the hardest hit," says Menzel. "We are estimating a loss of at least 50 percent in the sandhills, although losses are probably greater than that in localized areas. Fortunately, the primary range of the antelope came through in fairly good shape."

Three units were not affected at all, according to Menzel. These included the Banner, Cheyenne and Dundy units. The North Sioux unit and the west half of the Box Butte unit had snow, however the animals were not adversely affected, he continued. In the Garden unit there was a rather substantial movement of antelope into the North Platte valley. These animals should move back into the hills with the moderating weather.

"The main problem areas included the eastern half of the Box Butte and Garden units, eastward throughout the sandhills region," says Menzel. "To date we have found over 300 dead antelope in the affected area, and expect to find more as conditions continue to improve."

Menzel expects some cutbacks in open areas and permit numbers when the commission meets on March 30 to set the deer and antelope seasons.

Will your family inherit the farm, business or house after you're gone?

Don't bet a lifetime on it.

Without a clear-cut estate settlement plan your family could lose your lifetime of hard work. Even if you specified in your Will that a family member get your farm or business, it may never happen. Estate taxes can run into five or six figures and force your heirs to sell your farm or business to raise the needed cash.

How can you prevent such a loss? Come to our free seminar on estate planning and learn how. We'll show you "Estate Planning For All Ages" - a colorful slide presentation produced by Neil E. Hart, nationally-known expert on estate planning.

His program is an informative, easy-to-understand explanation of estate planning for both farm and non-farm persons, with emphasis on the major methods used to reduce death taxes. You'll learn about:

- The three most-used strategies for minimizing federal estate tax.
- Types of property and how it passes to the heirs.
- Five different taxes that may erode away an estate.
- How the marital deduction and charitable deductions cut taxes.
- Federal gift tax rules and much, much more!

We invite both you and your spouse to attend. Just send the coupon to reserve your seats. See you there!

Hastings Advances

Broncos Stop Cats Again

Wayne State coach Bill Ivey's game plan was pretty successful against Hastings but the Broncos unleashed a secret weapon to drop the Wildcats 87-85, Monday night in Hastings.

Ivey's game plan was to stop Tim Shanahan, who scored 52 points against the Wildcats in two previous meetings this season. Wayne State's defense shut Shanahan off, holding him to only five points for the entire game.

Unfortunately for the Cats, Evan Schnegelberger took over Shanahan's scoring duties and bombarded Wayne with a career-high 32 points, including 14 of 17 field goals. Teammates Denis Lessor and Doug Sweeney scored 21 and 19 points respectively to complement his shooting. The Broncos shot 62 percent as a team.

The Wildcat offense was well-balanced with all five starters scoring in double figures, led by Willie Summers with 20 points, followed by Bob Reeson with 16 points. Willie Rhoda added 15, while Zake Lorick hit 12 and Dean Onken added 10 points.

Jay Bellar hit eight points for the Cats, including a 20-foot jumper at the final buzzer to pull WSC to the final margin.

The Broncos took a 45-40 lead to the locker at the half and came out the second half hitting 66 percent of their shots from the field to take as much as a 13-point lead. Denis Lessor poured in 15 of his 21 points in the second half to power the Broncos.

The Wildcats never gave up, making a valiant comeback in the last five minutes of the contest.

"I was very proud of the way we came back," Wildcat coach Bill Ivey said. "We had opportunities to win the game, but we just couldn't get over the hump."

Zake Lorick hit a long jumper to pull the Cats within 10 at 85-75. 6-6 senior Bob Reeson added a couple of tough baskets inside and Jay Bellar hit a baseline jumper with 3:02 left to close the gap to four points at 85-81.

Both teams settled back into tough defensive play for the next couple of minutes. The Broncos, when on offense, used the four corner stall game to force the Cats to foul. The fouls were not costly, point-wise, to WSC, as Randy Presler and Tim Shanahan each missed the first end of one-and-one situations, but with 1:59 remaining, Willie Summers went to the bench with five personal fouls.

Jay Bellar hit a bank shot with 50 seconds on the clock to tighten the game even more at 85-83.

The Broncos again went into their stall game and Schnegelberger was fouled as he drove the baseline. He hit both free throws to spread the gap back to four points at 87-83 with only seconds to play.

The Wildcats came up the court quickly and Bellar hit a jumper at the buzzer for the final spread of 87-85.

Wayne State finishes the season with a 12-17 record, with nine of those victories coming in games where four or more Wildcats scored in double figures.

"I am proud of the play of the team this season and I am glad to have been able to work with such a group of fine athletes and gentlemen," Ivey said.

Hastings advanced to District 11 championships against Kearney State Wednesday night in Hastings. The winner advances to the NAIA Tourney in Kansas City next week.

Get Boat Registrations

Apparently some confusion exists about the new boat registration procedure which went into effect Jan. 1, according to reports from the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

The new procedure requires Nebraska residents to obtain their boat registrations from their county treasurer, rather than with the Game and Parks Commission as in the past. Nonresidents who register their boat in Nebraska instead of their home state may register at any Nebraska county treasurer.

Another Change makes the registration good for a three year period rather than one year, so boats registered in 1979 will not expire until the end of 1981. As in the past, only boats to be used with a motor need to be registered.

Registration forms are available at all county treasurers, county clerks, hunting and fishing permit vendors, most boat dealers, and Game and Parks Commission district offices.

Boat owners may mail or take complete application forms and registration fees to their local county treasurer.

WSC Wrestlers Gain Experience, Although Dropped In Nationals

By BRAD WIELAND

Valuable experience was gained by seven Wayne State wrestlers while ending their wrestling campaign in Wheeling, W.Va., last weekend which saw Central Oklahoma reigning as the 1978-79 national champion.

Don Schernikau of Beaver Crossing, wrestling in the 126 pound division, was dethroned in the first round by Ruben Martinez of E. Washington University, 8-9. Schernikau ended the season with a 22-8 record, and was selected by teammates Tuesday as the Most Valuable Wrestler of the season.

In the 134 pound weight class, Ron Anderson of Lincoln was pinned by Todd Kriewald of St. Cloud State.

The only Wildcat to gain a victory at Nationals was Russell Reisch of Avoca, Iowa, wrestling in the 142 pound division. Reisch pinned Mike Barkec of California State, to advance into second round which he lost to Jim Powells of Central Oklahoma. Powells, carrying the number one seed at the tournament, dethroned Reisch a deceiving 25-3. The highlight of the match was when Reisch put Powells on his back for a possible pin, but Powells came out of it and eventually reigned as national champion.

Reisch had one more chance to wrestle in the wrestling-backs, but was dethroned by Mike Keane of Chicago State University, 8-9.

Dan Heeren of Hawarden, Iowa, met stiff competition in the 150 pound class when he faced Terry Griffith of Mesa College. Griffith dethroned Heeren 5-2 to end Heeren's season record at 22-6.

Dave Ulrich of Beaver Crossing also met outstanding competition in the form of Monte Griffith of Mesa College, the national fourth seed. Griffith dethroned Ulrich 12-2 to end the season for Ulrich.

In the 190 pound division, Duane Ulrich was pinned by Mark Elliot of Franklin College. Ulrich got one more chance to wrestle, but was dethroned by Terry Grafton of Southern Oregon State.

In the heavyweight division, Ron Berrie of Davenport, Iowa, met Gregg Vanderlugt of Northern State. The two met at regionals twice with each coming away with a 1-1 record against each other. The rubber match went to Vanderlugt who pinned Berrie in the final period.

Wayne State ended its dual season with a 12-8 record.

Sandhill Cranes Marked At Watering Grounds

Lesser and Canadian sandhill cranes are being marked on their wintering grounds near Lubbock, Texas, and will be marked at their stop-over point along the Platte River near North Platte, Nebraska, by scientists working for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Neck collars are being placed on each marked bird. Juvenile birds have green collars and adults have white collars. Each collar has a combination of letters and numbers that identifies each bird. A white leg band on the left leg also helps to identify the marked birds.

The purpose in marking the birds is to learn at what age the birds mate and have young. Scientists also want to learn more about the sandhill crane's behavior, where they nest, and what routes they take from Texas to Canada.

The information from this study will provide the Fish and Wildlife Service with a more accurate picture of the status of the crane's population. This information will be used by the Fish and Wildlife Service to manage the species and provide State wildlife guidelines to set their hunting regulations.

Limited eminent domain

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN—Neither in advance to the full Legislature a bill that would give pipe-lines limited eminent domain authority so lines could be placed under railroad tracks where necessary was the question before the Public Works Committee recently.

The committee heard more than four hours of testimony on the controversial proposal but did not act immediately on it.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, who sponsored the bill, said it would provide the state with the power to establish safeguards and protections its citizens want.

He and spokesmen for Energy Transportation Systems, Inc., which wants to build a coal slurry pipeline, said it will be constructed with or without the DeCamp legislation.

Stuart Wheeler, representative of Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., which owns 20 percent of ETSI, said without the legislation 19 miles of the pipeline will have to be rerouted at a cost of about $26 million. DeCamp told the committee there was a firm commitment by the railroads recently to permit ETSI to pass under rail lines wherever they need to in Kansas.

But that claim was strongly denied by Harry Lustgarten of Omaha, chairman of Nebraska Railroad Association and the general solicitor for the Union Pacific Railroad.

He said, "There has been no agreement of the railroads in Kansas and Nebraska to permit ETSI to go under tracks, except where they have the legal right to do so." He added, "We dispute their right in many places in Nebraska and Kansas."

Lustgarten said railroads can meet present and future coal-hauling demands and that pipelines would amount to a needless duplication of service.

Each side presented testimony from underground-water-experts—but they didn't agree on the possible adverse effects the pipeline project could have on Nebraska's underground water.

ETSI has a well field in Wyoming and the wells there go far into the ground to tap water. Use of that water in the project would have no effect at all on Nebraska's groundwater, according to some engineer-geologist specialists. But there are others who believe it might.

The proposed pipeline would carry a liquid mixture of water and coal from a point near Gillette, Wyo., to huge power plants in Arkansas and Louisiana.

ETSI spokesmen told the committee they could move 25 million tons of coal annually through the slurry line, which would have a life expectancy of some 50 years.

Chambers Feels Confident
Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers says he is somewhat more confident this year that he can get his bill to abolish capital punishment enacted into law.

Chambers, who has persistently sought to repeal the capital punishment statute, notes there are many new faces in the Legislature this year and that some veterans who opposed his bill in the past have indicated they might switch their votes to his side this time around. The Judiciary Committee didn't act on the bill immediately, but there was speculation the measure had a good chance of getting reported to the full Legislature. Chambers said his bill would require a minimum 30-year sentence for anyone convicted of first-degree murder. The proposal is designed to apply to all cases in which judgment has not become final upon the bill's effective date.

Chambers has said he would like to prevent the executions of eight men in the Nebraska penitentiary who have been sentenced to death in the electric chair. Supporters of the bill said capital punishment is not an effective deterrent, is arbitrarily imposed and is not uniformly applied.

Don Lienemann of Papillion, who opposed the measure, said those who argue on religious grounds that it is wrong to execute a murderer are misinterpreting the "Good Book."

"I never cite a word about the cruel and unusual punishment the victims had to go through before they died," said Lienemann.

Want Water Funds
The Legislature's Appropriations Committee has been asked to provide more money for water development. And a good method of doing that is to set aside three cents of every 13 cents paid on a package of cigarettes for the Resources Development Fund, according to Sen. Maurice Kramer of Aurora.

A bill he sponsored would allocate one cent of the tax to the Water Conservation Fund and two cents to the Resources Development Fund. But during testimony before the committee, Kramer said he now favors giving all the money to the Resources Development Fund.

The earmarking would generate about $5 million annually, which proponents of the bill said isn't enough to divide between the two funds.

The Resources Development Fund furnishes money for medium-sized water development projects, and the Water Conservation Fund deals with smaller projects.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, Appropriations Committee chairman, noted cigarette tax monies are deposited in the state's General Fund. That means earmarking of the tax reduces the General Fund, he said.

Kramer said Nebraska should have $10 million to $15 million in order to do what has to be done in water development.

The Nebraska Democratic party is faced with a problem.

The Democratic National Committee's compliance review commission has given Nebraska until June 1 to comply with delegate selection requirements for the 1980 national convention.

Nebraska has statutory provisions for the election of delegates but those provisions are in conflict with Democratic national mandates.

The party will require each state's delegation to be divided equally between men and women and that each presidential candidate's share of the popular vote in the primary election be proportionately reflected in the state's national convention delegation.

Nebraska law provides that Democratic voters directly elect delegates in the primary — in a vote separate from presidential preference balloting and with no regard for distribution of delegates by sex.

State Democratic Chairman Dick White of Lincoln says it is going to be difficult to devise a valid plan and still elect delegates by ballot. The obvious alternative, he said, would be to select delegates during the party's state convention.

Law potentially harmful

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
BY M.M. VAN KIRK
DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION

Passage of a law to restrict corporations from farming, ranching and land ownership is not going to save the "family farm" in Nebraska or anywhere else in these United States and it is potentially harmful for farmers and ranchers to put their faith and hopes in such approaches.

Mainly, it falsely encourages them to take their attention off solving problems that are far more crucial to their survival. Inflation and the rising cost of farm production is the No. 1 reason that farmers and ranchers are having to borrow more money every year to keep afloat. Those costs of production every year for the last 10 years have increased at an inexorable percentage rate, eating up any advances which have been made in the fluctuating prices of farm commodities.

Restricting corporate farming will not decrease the price that a farmer must pay for his farm equipment, the diesel fuel for his tractors, the power for his irrigation pump, the materials for the new hog confinement building, the taxes and interest burden he carries, or any other item required by his farming and ranching operation.

The average Nebraska farmer or rancher looking around his neighborhood probably won't recognize anything that remotely resembles a "conglomerate-owned" farm corporation nor distinguish between those that are owned and operated by individual families and those that operate under a "family-type corporate structure." In most cases he will note that farms and ranches when sold are, in the big majority of cases, going to neighboring farmers who are adding to present landholdings and corporate structure is not a factor.

The University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources did an analysis of two years of returns under the Nebraska Corporation Reporting Law and found no evidence of any widespread corporate invasion into Nebraska agriculture. Of 2,400 corporations controlling farm and ranch land, the majority were found to be either family-type or locally controlled.

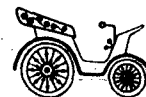

There are both advantages and disadvantages to operating a business or farm and ranch as a corporation and the choice should be made by the individual in consultation with his lawyer according to his individual situation. The question is, should farmers and ranchers be denied making that choice and forming a corporation, family-type or otherwise, if they wish?

Passage of corporate laws as proposed in this session would affect, and possibly force the dissolution of, a number of farm and ranch holdings in Nebraska that have been owned by the same family for 50 years and more. Corporate structures in many cases are chosen because they lend themselves to helping sons and daughters to acquire an interest in the operations and take over when the parents or grandparents who are the principal owners die. Many farm trusts and wills would be adversely affected by passage of anti-corporation legislation.

LB 191 in this session proposes a constitutional amendment question posed to the voters this way: "Constitutional amendment to require the Legislature to restrict the ownership of agricultural land by corporations.—For—Against."

The average voter who has never participated in even a small corporation, could well imagine he is "saving the family farm" by voting affirmatively. A great many non-farmers would be making a decision which could do irreparable harm to the very people that they want to help.

Promoting corporate farm bills is a bit like hunting cottontail rabbits with a 12-gauge shotgun... the aim is broad and what's left may not be worth having.

'Mood of the anti-regulators'

RICHARD L. LESHER, PRESIDENT
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
OF THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON—Using a speech to the University of Michigan as his forum, Senator Edmund Muskie, (D-Maine), recently gave vent to a burst of irritability and attacked what he called "the mood of the anti-regulators." These are the people, according to the Senator, who are threatening our environment because they claim it is too costly to protect Americans from the hazards of pollution.

Well phooey! Muskie defends his charge with a flood of angry rhetoric, but only drops of reason. And anger often impedes reason. George Jean Nathan once described it as: "The seducer of thought. No man can think clearly when his fists are clenched." So it is with the Senator's arguments. Indeed, the more Muskie carps, the more he flounders.

As an aside, I might also point out that Senator Muskie is Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, but has no sympathy for Americans who are concerned about inflation and are trying to somehow limit federal spending from the grass-roots. He rejects these popular initiatives and calls them "dangerous and poorly thought through." But, let us concentrate here on his regulatory utterances in Michigan.

Muskie says the actions of the anti-regulators are "often blind and negative," and, "the environment is under attack from people who only believe in numbers and figures." As proof of this "assault on figures," he cites the Regulatory Reform bill. He says "it would set aside public health standards," because it would require cost-benefit analyses to be made for all existing regulations.

The Senator is also displeased with the President's new Regulatory Council which will be charged with flagging proposed regulations which could be overly costly. He calls the Council "an obvious symbol of the new anti-regulation, anti-government attitude."

How can Muskie legitimately attack the Council before it has even made a decision? More importantly, is it not possible that the President is right, and that he is acting in the best interests of the nation? Senator Muskie is highly critical of people who supposedly believe only in numbers and figures. Well for heaven's sake, isn't it time somebody started caring about numbers and figures? Ah! The Senator seems to care about setting regulatory targets of perfection which are frightfully expensive to achieve.

The average family now spends $675 a year just for air and water pollution control. And this figure does not include an $8.00 fee. How much is enough? Is it not possible that those who want to take a second look at some of these regulations are not enemies but are distributing our environment, but are instead, sincere people trying to clean the federal government's books by closing regulatory costs and fiscal benefits? Senator Muskie insists that, aside from dollars and cents costs, pollution has costs that can only be measured in lost jobs, health, recreation and future opportunities. Agreed. But he fails to acknowledge that precisely the same is true of excessive regulations.

Last year, when the Campbell Works of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, closed its doors in economically distressed Youngstown, Ohio, 5,000 steelworkers lost their jobs. The leaders of these workers told a group of visiting Congressmen that the Environmental Protection Agency had acted like it was only in business to put their company out of business. The men described in detail the agency's punitive regulatory actions against their company, and one Congressman remarked about the severity of the men's criticism.

So there is a case where supposedly needed regulations, enforced with the best of intentions, had disastrous consequences on the lives of the intended beneficiaries. And that case is only one of many.

The chamber has supplied the President with specific suggestions on how his Administration could ease some of EPA's most excessive air and water regulations. These modifications could save American consumers tens of billions of dollars over the next decade without sacrificing needed safeguards against pollution.

As our regular readers know, we often disagree with President Carter. But in this matter, we think his approach, rather than Muskie's sweeping attacks on imaginary enemies, will guarantee us the possibility of both strengthening our economy and protecting our environment.

Meeting Scheduled

A free seminar on estate planning, sponsored by Investors Diversified Services, the nationwide financial services firm, is scheduled for Tuesday, March 13 in Wayne.

The 1:30 and 7:00 p.m. reservations-only seminar will be at Columbus Federal Bldg. Reservations can be made by calling 375-1848.

IDS representative George Phelps CFP warned that without a clearcut estate settlement plan, a family can lose a lifetime of hard work. "Even if a person specified in his or her will that a family member inherit the farm or business, it may never happen," said Phelps. "Estate taxes can run into five or six figures and force heirs to sell the farm or business to raise the needed cash."

Phelps said planning and ways to prevent such losses will be discussed at the seminar, which is based on a program developed by nationally-known estate planning expert Neil E. Harl of Iowa State University, Ames. Topics to be covered at the seminar include: How the marital and charitable deductions cut taxes; Federal gift tax rules. IDS, based in Minneapolis, has divisional sales offices throughout the country. The company operates subsidiaries in the insurance, investment certificate, investment advisory, trust estate and mortgage businesses.

Thought for Today
By Carol Witze
"What is old age? It's 15 years older than I am..."
Bernard M. Baruch

The wisdom of Baruch's observation will be most apparent to those who have achieved maturity. To the youngster in his teens, it seems that everyone is 15 years older and has arrived at that stage known as "old age."

With Earlier Weaning

Weaned Pigs Need Extra Care

With the trend toward pigs being weaned at a younger age, producers need to carry out good management practices to cut an excessively high death loss, most of which occurs within a week after pigs are taken from the sow.

This was the message of Dr. Bobby Moser, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension swine nutritionist, in a talk at the recent Nebraska Feeder Pig Expo at Columbus.

Ten years ago, pigs were typically weaned at six weeks, Moser said, while 3-4 weeks is common nowadays. In some large units, the age drops to 17-18 days. Part of the impetus to wean early, the IANR specialist said, is to push more pigs through the farrowing house because of high construction costs in expanding facilities, and to increase the number of pigs produced per sow per year.

Three adverse situations can have a severe physiological effect on pigs at weaning, Moser said, and younger pigs are especially vulnerable: Scours, either nutritional or infectious; gut edema and post-weaning shrink.

The key is minimizing stress as much as possible and taking steps to lessen the shock the pig encounters in changing from the environment with the sow to foreign surroundings of a weaning pen.

Producers probably do not stop to think about the severe changes a pig could undergo at weaning, Moser said, ticking off the following: removal from the sow, different physical surroundings, in many cases more drafts, commingling with strange pigs (not littermates), with a need to establish a new "social" or pecking order; diet changes from liquid to dry, change in the drinker and the shock of being castrated and vaccinated.

One of the inherent problems in weaning at three weeks, Moser said, is that it is at this point that the possible immunity is at the lowest point, while the acquired immunity is not fully developed.

Introduction of creep feed and supplemental iron injections are also important at three weeks, Moser said. Noting that a sow's milk supply generally peaks at about three weeks, he said the pig's digestive system at 2-3 weeks of age may not be developed sufficiently to digest grain diets substituted for milk products.

Creep feeds introduced from one to three weeks of age should contain sugar, milk, grain and fat, with a high proportion of milk products, he said. Starter feeds fed from 3-5 weeks of age, during weaning, can contain lesser amounts of milk products. To achieve transition, starter should be introduced to pigs before weaning, Moser said.

Keys to success in getting pigs to accept creep feeds are to "keep it fresh and feed little (amounts) and often," he recommended.

He urged producers to capitalize on the pig's natural curiosity by putting feed in a shallow feeding pan, placed near the sleeping area. "Pigs like to eat together," he explained.

Moser recommended an 18 percent protein level in starter feed for pigs weaned at three weeks of age. He cited UNL experiments showing that oats added to the starter diet (20 percent or 400 pounds per ton) resulted in dramatic gains in survivability of weaning pigs. While oats had no adverse effect on average daily gain or feed conversion, death loss was only 3 percent among pigs receiving oats compared to 10 percent for those in a control group fed under the same conditions.

Other observations by Moser related to the "critical" one-week period after weaning: — Big pigs wean better than small ones; weaning is not recommended by UNL animal scientists when pigs weigh less than 12 pounds.

— Pigs like plenty of feeder space. To get them to begin eating dry feed, throw some on the floor the first 2-3 days, then switch to a self-feeder.

— Pigs need plenty of water to insure adequate feed intake. A 25 pound pig may drink up to a half gallon of water a day. A producer should take time to accustom pigs to a new drinker.

HOME LANDSCAPING
The old-fashioned landscaping idea of covering up a house with vines, bushes, and trees is no longer practical.

In the old days, many houses were large porches were high, and they needed large growing plants. But today we are building low and attractive homes so why use so many large growing shrubs?

To help you in selecting and placing plants around your home, here are some suggestions:

1. Select plants for the landscape which will not grow out of bounds. There, are many species of broadleaf, evergreen, and deciduous shrubs which are low-growing and attractive. Use them in home landscaping to reduce maintenance problems in the future.

2. Too many different plants around the home are not attractive. Many times a grouping of three, five or seven plants of the same species can create a most attractive design. Repetition of landscape elements can be attractive.

3. Locate plant groupings at the most important places around the home. Some of these are: the corners of the house, the entry area, or in other locations where strong vertical lines are created.

4. Space plants so they have room to grow to maturity. Most plants will spread a distance which is equal to two-thirds of their height or more. Even though the landscape may appear open after it has been planted, remember that plants will grow and fill into these open areas.

FIREBLIGHT
Many homeowners in Wayne County have had problems with fireblight in apples, crab apples, mountain ash, or cotoneaster.

You can do two things this spring to beat this disease which has become increasingly severe in many parts of the state. Prune diseased parts early this spring if you haven't already done so. Prune about mid-March before trees are growing actively. Apple varieties with some resistance recommended for Nebraska are: Delicious, Winesap, and Northwestern Greening.

PRUNING FOR CONTROL
When pruning, cut at least 10 inches below the edge of the infected area or canker. Sterilize the cutting tools after each cut to avoid spreading the disease by dipping the shears or knife in the disinfectant or pouring it over the cutting edge. A 70 percent denatured (rubbing) alcohol is satisfactory as a disinfectant.

Other practices which help control fireblight are spraying in the blossom stage and avoiding excessive nitrogen fertilizer combined with heavy watering which produces succulent growth. Fireblight is worse on such growth.

Great Plains Agriculture In The Year 2000 Will Involve Specialized Technology

Great Plains agriculture in the year 2000 likely will combine increased technology, decreased resources and careful management of both, according to the dean and director of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Experiment Station in Lincoln.

Dr. Howard W. Otson told those attending the "Great Plains: Perspectives and Prospects" seminar Saturday, March 3 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education that the amount of water allocated to agriculture will face increasing regulations regarding its use and its interaction with farm chemicals and fertilizers.

In areas where the water table has dropped so low that irrigation is no longer possible or profitable, new technologies will be needed as these lands revert back to a dryland economy, Otson said.

Farmers will pay more attention to agricultural marketing, which includes price making, transportation, processing, storage, financing and grading, than ever before, Otson said. He predicted that many will rely more heavily on the futures market in order to avoid market uncertainty, and they will engage more heavily in contracting the sale of their cattle with feedlots and packers.

The Great Plains also will be more important as a marketing center in the coming decades, Otson said.

Farms are expected to increase in size, although the rate of increase is likely to slow, Otson said.

As the farm size increases, the number of agricultural marketing areas will be reduced. At the same time, many of the farmers today are college graduates who will provide a new source of rural leadership.

He said he expected agriculture to continue to lose some of its political clout in the plains, although it is the largest industry and primary economic base of the northern plains.

Metropolitan areas in the plains will continue to grow as coastal cities and other urban areas become increasingly crowded.

Otson said that plains agriculture is not likely to become dominated by non-agricultural domestic corporations or foreign investors.

He said that in the past, some "external entrepreneurs" have tried to organize agricultural enterprises in the plains on a corporate basis, relying on hired labor and specialization.

"So far, these efforts have been characterized by failure," Otson said.

Otson predicted that more specialized operations, such as cattle feeding or hog feeding, will develop.

Otson concluded by warning that his predictions depend upon many assumptions.

"The future of Great Plains agriculture will depend on the actions of thousands of farm entrepreneurs and on the availability of capital," Otson said.

He noted that farmers frequently outpace the projections made about various aspects of farm production.

"The future course of development of plains agriculture will depend on the continued flow of scientifically-based knowledge and technology from the laboratory to the farm," Otson said.
