RUPTURED Oil drums attest to the intensity of a fire at the Stenwall Conoco Station Thursday night in Winside. The gas pump in the middle apparently exploded, causing the fire.

Stenwall Conoco Station Quick Work by Winside Firemen Averts Potentially Volatile Fire

A potentially volatile fire was averted Thursday thanks to the quick work of the Winside volunteer fire department. Kenneth Stenwall of Stenwall's Conoco Service, Winside, credited the Winside firemen with controlling a gasoline fire and preventing excessive damage in a fire early Thursday night. There was no property loss figure available at presstime.

nor was the cause of the fire determined. Stenwall said representatives of his insurance company and the state fire marshal's office were expected Saturday or today (Monday). The fire started when a premium gasoline pump on the east side of the station exploded, according to Stenwall's son, Kenneth, who was at the station at the time.

"I thought someone had run into my truck (bulk truck)," the younger Stenwall explained. "I looked out of the door and there was a ball of fire around the pump." Stenwall quickly moved the bulk truck which was parked near the pump. It was loaded with gasoline. He said he called the Winside fire department. "They got here in a hurry and had things pretty much under control in a short time." The elder Stenwall, who has been in business at the location for 19 years, said the fire was spread by exploding oil drums which were empty and had just been moved outside the station that day. "The fire spread from the drums to fires which were stacked near the side of the station," Stenwall explained. "It spread from the fires to the shop area of the station."

The News in Brief

Lane Here April 9

The Wayne State College (WSC) presentation of attorney and author Mark Lane has been rescheduled for 8 p.m., Monday, April 9, in Ramsey theatre of the Fine Arts building.

The Lane appearance was originally scheduled for March 5, but was cancelled due to inclement weather. Lane, a former aide to the late John F. Kennedy, recently served as the attorney for the Rev. Jim Jones and the Peoples Temple in Guyana. He currently represents James Earl Ray in an attempt for an acquittal in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Lane is known for his bestseller book, "Rush to Judgment," which criticizes the first investigation of the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

High Honor For WSC Grad

Former Wayne State College (WSC) student Dr. Donald P. Lauda, now Dean of the School of Technology at Eastern Illinois University, was recently selected Industrial Arts Teacher Educator of the Year by the American Council of Industrial Arts Teacher Education.

The award is the highest citation which can be bestowed by the American Council of Industrial Arts Teacher Education. Dr. Lauda is the 24th recipient of the annual award. Recipients are nominated by popular vote of the Council membership.

Dr. Lauda received his B.A.E. and M.S. degrees from Wayne State College, while attending between 1955 and 1964. He received a Ph.D. from Iowa State University and has completed one year of post-doctoral study at West Virginia University. He has served as the Dean of the School of Technology at Eastern Illinois and has worked at the University of Hawaii, St. Cloud State College and Indiana State University.

Dr. Lauda has published two books, chapters in five books and another 20 periodical articles.

'Annie' Arrives in Town

A WELCOME addition to the health care training facilities in the Wayne area is "Annie," a device used for teaching cardiac pulmonary resuscitation to various organizations in the area. The device, which is invaluable in training, was presented by Larry Test (left) representing the Wayne Eagles club whose members took part in the presentation to Milton Jenness, certified CPR instructor. Jenness said with the additional training device, an added number of persons can be trained in the all-important CPR technique.

Start Work on Power Line Expected to Cross County

Construction has started on a controversial 345,000 volt power line to be constructed across Wayne county. The Seaward Construction Company, Kittery, Maine, is working in the Homer area, according to officials in the company's office, located in Wakefield. Billy Bowen is project manager for the company. The line, which is 65 miles in length, spans Wayne county, beginning at Hoskins. Farmers whose land the line will cross have joined forces to fight the line and have hired an attorney in Lincoln. While there has been strong opposition to the line, many farmers in the county have signed easements allowing the line to be constructed across their land.

Richard Greene, Nebraska Public Power District construction manager, said he doesn't feel there has been "overreaction" to the proposed line. "We've had cooperation with many landowners."

Greene said the line through Wayne county will follow section lines whenever possible. Late last year, he reported to the Wayne city council that his organization (NPPD) spent considerable time locating section markers. The details of the survey will be made available to the county.

Greene said the route of the line, which runs from Hoskins to the Raun substation on the Missouri river, was selected after examination of six possible routes. He said the factors under consideration by NPPD were the agricultural potential and present restrictions imposed by the terrain.

Greene said the present route will affect the fewest number of people with farmsteads, building and agricultural operations.

"As far as NPPD is concerned, we don't know of any adverse environmental effects of a transmission line of this size and nature," Greene explained. The line will consist of 257 steel lattice towers.

He went on to add "I think the most adverse environmental impact will occur during the construction phase. We will be working with our contractor (Seaward) and property owners to restore property to original conditions."

Greene pointed out that in making the initial easement agreements, "we always try and make an equitable settlement." He actually reviewed on site the total impact of the line with the property owners.

According to Greene, NPPD still is anticipating being able to negotiate with all the landowners, noting that it's not possible to "see eye-to-eye with all of them."

Greene called the $3,438,745 transmission line an "extremely important line." "Many people realize the need for adequate power, the sole reason NPPD exists."

Greene said NPPD made a mistake concerning the contract made with the Bureau of Indian Affairs before contacting the Winnebago tribal council on the matter of obtaining easements from reservation residents.

Tribal Chairman Reuben Snake said the Bureau acted in "collusion" with NPPD by making a list of 31 property owners who are presently holding out, available to the power company.

According to Snake, the property owners were contacted by NPPD before NPPD had contacted the tribal council concerning the sale of the land.

The line is expected to take See work, Page 10

Registrations for 'Stress' Seminar are Due Wednesday

Registrations for the seminar "Managing Stress" are due by Wednesday, March 14. The seminar, sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska American Institute of Banking, will be held March 21 at Wayne.

The fee is $10 per person and covers materials and a prime rib dinner. The event will take place at The Black Knight on March 21 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

For more information contact The State National Bank and Trust Co. or the First National Bank in Wayne.

The seminar is open to the public and will be especially valuable for managers, supervisors and administrators who work under stress, men and women managers with meeting schedules and deadlines, always pressed for time and extra energy, frequently confronted by problems and crises demanding instant decisions.

The objectives of the seminar are to help managers understand stress — both good and bad stress, to put stress to work as a positive force, and to learn to cope with stress through improved physical and mental conditioning, sensible eating and drinking, and effective relaxation and recreation.

South Sioux Man Named For Job Service Office

Gary Wrede, a 1976 Wayne State graduate with a B.S. in industrial management, has accepted the job as director of the Nebraska Job Service in Wayne. Wrede, 24 and a native of David City, spent the past two years as director of the Job Service in South Sioux City. The Wayne office is funded to stay open for one year and Wrede said that he hopes to utilize the office to its potential. His job as director will involve placement of applicants in jobs with employers in and around the community served by Wayne. Bob Simpson, employ-

Wayne Gas Stations Have Allocations

Some of the gas stations in Wayne are operating with reduced allotments from their suppliers but the reductions are minimal.

A survey conducted during the past week, found that about half of the Wayne service stations are receiving between 80 and 90 percent of the gas they received at this time last year. The other half reported that they are having no problems getting the amount of gasoline they need but most of the station managers seemed uncertain about what the situation may be in the future.

Because of predicted oil shortages caused by the change of governments in Iran and the severe winter, several large oil companies have announced plans to close or stop supplying some stations. None of the Wayne stations expect to lose their company sponsorship, however.

Business owners said that although allotments may be reduced in the future, they don't expect any major problems.

Wakefield Senior Is Selected

Wayne State College (WSC) students Scott Allen Swigart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Swigart of Wakefield, was recently selected for admission to the College of Pharmacy at the See SELECTED, Page 10

GARY WREDE ment supervisor from the Norfolk office said that Wayne is fortunate to have Wrede because he has experience in the field.

Orientation

Annual 9th grade orientation will be held on March 27, 7 p.m., at Wayne High School. Students entering grade 9 next year along with parents are invited to attend. See ORIENTATION, Page 10

"The office has potential and I'd like to utilize it to work with college students, primarily those with non-teaching degrees," Wrede said. "It's another angle for the graduate to try. We have all the state employment listings." Wrede is filling the post vacated by John Kampert.

Tim Boyle is Named Healthcare Preceptor

Timothy J. Boyle, administrator of the Wayne Care Centre, was recently appointed a preceptor by the State of Nebraska Board of Examiners.

As a preceptor, Boyle is designated to train new administrators in the Nine Point Core of Knowledge in Healthcare Administration. He is one of 46 nursing home administrators qualified to train new administrators in the state of Nebraska.

The preceptor program is a formalized program, designed to train administrators and improve the quality of long-term care by providing improved educational backgrounds for administrators. To become a preceptor, an administrator must meet certain qualifications of the state and must be currently active as an administrator in a large area.

The Wayne Care Centre is fully licensed by the state of Nebraska and is certified for Medicaid. Boyle will train any acceptable candidate in Wayne's facility. The program will extend through a six-month period. After training in Boyle's program, an administrative candidate must take a test from the Board of Examiners.

Boyle is presently busy training Delores Stollenberg. If she completes the program and passes the required exam, she will then be qualified to run a nursing home.

Electric lights in Neligh

The 20th century brought many changes to Nebraska, notably the automobile, the beginnings of aviation, and the introduction of the domestic use of electricity. Across the state, pioneering individuals undertook the task of setting up generating plants, stringing lines, and wiring homes and businesses for electric lights.

Local pride dictated that no town remain in darkness after neighboring communities had electricity. The December 8, 1899, Alliance Times, on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society, complained bitterly: "It is a crying shame that a city that has progressed in other respects as has Alliance should be compelled to exist without electricity and be derided by visitors from far and near for her one discrepancy." Newspaper editorials continued to urge the installation of an electric lighting system in the town to "command the respect of up-to-date people and enjoy the comforts and satisfaction of a needed luxury" (Alliance Times, December 22, 1899).

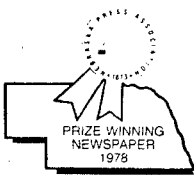

After all preparations were finally completed, the first turning on of a town's electric lights became cause for celebration and rejoicing. Several years prior to the arrival of electricity in Alliance, Stephen F. Gilman in 1898 purchased the flour mill in Neligh and installed electric lights in it, using the mill's water power to generate electricity. Excited over the prospect, several local citizens and persuaded him to extend electric power into the town. After months of preparation and delay, town service was inaugurated on August 12, 1900. Although limited only to evening lighting, the age of electrical power had arrived in Neligh. The following article from the Neligh Leader (August 24, 1900) details the celebration and excitement of the momentous occasion:

"The test of the electric lighting plant occurred Monday evening and was thoroughly satisfactory. The occasion was one of general celebration and the utmost good feeling and enthusiasm prevailed. Until almost the time of turning on the current only a few people had assembled, but almost instantly, as it seemed, the streets and sidewalks were crowded. Large delegations were present from the country, while many were here from neighboring towns and took a decided interest in this latest indication of the growth and enterprise of our model city."

"At 8:30 the fire bell was tapped by Mayor Huffman as a signal and almost instantaneously the business houses and the main streets were flooded with brilliant light. The Neligh Campaign band seated in the new and elegant band wagon, was driven under the arc at the corner of Coltonwood and Putney streets, and commenced what proved an interesting and popular program. The band wagon attracted general attention on account of its artistic design and finish. "A complimentary banquet had been arranged at the opera house as a testimonial of the esteem in which Mr. S.F. Gilman is held by the citizens of our city. To his business enterprise and capital Neligh is indebted for its latest step in advancement, and one that has been secured with practically no addition to the burden of taxation. Slightly previous to 10 o'clock the opera house was well filled with gentlemen representing the business interests of the city. One hundred plates had been prepared, and the supper was furnished by the Ladies Guild, who retained the high reputation they have established in this line. Preceded by selections by the band and prayer by Elder Gorst D.D., the courses were followed with cigars. "After the guests had comfortably settled themselves in the chairs Mayor Huffman spoke a few words of welcome, and then called upon Hon. N.D. Jackson. He briefly recounted the early settlement and the organization of the city by Hon. John D. Neligh of West Point, the burning of the brick and the building of the mill, its use in the hearing of a most exciting county seat trial and for religious worship by Rev. Griffiths, and finally its purchase in the fall of 1898 by Mr. Gilman, its improvement by that gentleman, and finally the installation of the electric light plant, closing with a polished language bouquet to the honored guest of the evening. He was succeeded by other speakers, all of whom added to the zest of the evening and the spirit of good fellowship that was everywhere noticeable. "Mr. Gilman, owing to extreme modesty, was very much embarrassed," and to repeated calls, begged to be excused under the plea that he was only a poor but honest miller. "All speeches were short and there were none without points worthy of commendation. Perhaps the vocal solos by G.A. Sellery were the most thoroughly appreciated of any portion of the program. They were given soon after the opening address, and at once placed the guests in utmost good humor, ready to receive and appreciate the many rich things which followed. "The opera house was brilliantly lighted with an arc lamp, of itself an inspiration. This notice would be incomplete without mentioning the tireless energy of Wm. Wolfe and the services of the band, both of which contributed to the success of the event."

What income is taxable?

(Last of a series of articles from the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants on preparation of 1978 Federal Income Tax returns.)

In 1978, Internal Revenue Service was restrained by Congress from imposing stiff new rules that would have taxed most of the fringe benefits people receive from their employers.

But, while we can safely assume we won't be taxed on our free parking privileges in a company lot, at least not for 1978, there seems to be questions in the minds of many regarding the tax treatment of other non-salary remuneration.

When declaring taxable income, should you include gifts received, prize winnings, insurance proceeds, or tax refunds from earlier years?

How about employer-paid health and life insurance, pension benefits, the summer job earnings of your children? Those are just a few of the types of income that worry some taxpayers at filing time.

Let's take up employees' fringe benefits first. The existing law, together with IRS policies, provide that the following "perks" go unfaxed:

- Company paid health insurance
 - Company paid group-term life insurance up to $50,000
 - Company provided meals and lodging if on company's premises and for company's convenience. (For lodging to go unfaxed it must be a condition of employment, as in the case of firemen who sleep in so they will be available if needed.)
 - Medical exams by company doctor.
 - Discounts in buying the company's products or services.
- The employer-provided benefits that were and still are taxable include:
- Premiums attributable to group-term life insurance coverage over $50,000.
 - Personal use of company car, air-plane or vacation facilities.
 - Personal financial counseling.

Fringe-benefit rules may soon be changed drastically, but these still apply to tax returns being prepared now.

What about non-perks — cash or non-cash benefits received from sources other than an employer? Following are some that are not taxable:

- Benefits from Social Security and Railroad Retirement and pension plans funded by the employee's own contributions. (Employer funded pension benefits are taxable.)
- Most "windfalls," or gifts and awards that come to the recipient without his having performed some service or having paid some consideration. This can include legacies, merit awards, scholarships or prizes, but not gambling winnings or the proceeds of a lottery or raffle.

The proceeds of lawsuits in certain circumstances.

Welfare payments. Your children's earnings are not taxable income to you. If their income was high enough they should file tax returns of their own, but you can still take the youngsters as dependents if they qualify. And if you claim the children as an exemption on your return, care must be exercised on their return to get the correct standard deduction. Refunds of federal taxes paid in previous years are not taxed, but any interest they earned is State and local tax returns are taxable if previously taken as deductions on federal returns.

If you collect money owed after having taken a bad debt deduction for it in previous years, there is no need to amend the earlier returns; treat money as income in the year received.

Alimony is taxable to the recipient if it is required by the divorce settlement and is paid regularly over an extended period.

Will your family inherit the farm, business or house after you're gone?

Don't bet a lifetime on it.

Without a clear-cut estate settlement plan your family could lose your lifetime of hard work.

Even if you specified in your Will that a family member get your farm or business, it may never happen. Estate taxes can run into five or six figures and force your heirs to sell your farm or business to raise the needed cash.

How can you prevent such a loss? Come to our free seminar on estate planning and learn how. We'll show you "Estate Planning For All Ages"—a colorful slide presentation produced by Neil E. Harl, nationally-known expert on estate planning.

His program is an informative, easy-to-understand explanation of estate planning for both farm and non-farm persons, with emphasis on the major methods used to reduce death taxes. You'll learn about:

- The three most-used strategies for minimizing federal estate tax.
 - Types of property and how it passes to the heirs.
 - Five different taxes that may erode away an estate.
 - How the marital deduction and charitable deductions cut taxes.
 - Federal gift tax rules and much, much more.
- We invite both you and your spouse to attend. Just send the coupon to reserve your seats. See you there!

'Beauty and the Beast' Next Production at WSC

Production is now underway for the Wayne State Theatre Department's annual children's show, "Beauty and the Beast" by Nora MacAlvay. Dates for the show are April 14.

Greunke-Dupslaff

Making plans for a May 26 wedding at Winside are Melesia Greunke and Fred Dupslaff, both of DeWitt, Ark. The engagement and approaching marriage have been announced by the bride elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Greunke of Winside. Miss Greunke was graduated from Winside High School in 1975 and Northeast Technical Community College at Norfolk in 1976. She is employed at "DeWitt Ford Sales" Inc.

Her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dupslaff of DeWitt, Ark., was graduated from DeWitt High School in 1974 and is employed at Industrial Iron Works, DeWitt.

"Beauty and the Beast," directed by Dr. Helen Russell and designed by Art Dirks, is a delightful and magical story that can be enjoyed by adults as well as youngsters.

The story deals mainly with Beauty, played by Pamela Mentzer, and Prince Armand, played by Robin Edwards. The Prince, who is about to become king, must choose a queen. He wants to choose Beauty as his queen, but complications arise when he is changed into a terrifying beast by the evil magician, Renard, and his daughter, Antoinette, played by Rick Fairbanks and Pat Meis.

Other members of the cast include Pam Swartz as the Queen, Claudia O'Neill as the Fairy Godmother, Chris Hennig and Karen Achon as Beauty's sisters, Aurelle and Alphonsine, and Michael Nemeck as Beauty's father, Beauvais. Also appearing as court entertainers, pages or townspeople are Denise Lee, Carl Wilson, Dale Cuffel, Laura Leach, Curt Carstens, Pam Meier, Mark Shufelt and Dee Zimmerman.

'Effective Detective' Lesson to be Given

A leader training lesson, entitled "The Effective Detective Finding Energy Savings at Home," is being conducted this month to help persons inventory their homes for energy wasters.

Val Schellpeper of the Cedar County Extension Office in Hartington, says participants will arm themselves with flashlights, tape, measuring candles, pads and pencils and learn how to be effective detectives in their own homes.

Special attention will be paid to caulking and weatherstripping, storm windows and doors and attic insulation. Participants will have a chance to give their homes an energy rating.

Thirty Guests At Shower For Miss Anderson

Thirty guests from Winside, Hoskins, Norfolk and Wayne attended a miscellaneous bridal shower Tuesday evening honoring Rhonda Anderson of Norfolk.

The event was held in the Werner Mann home, Winside. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Dean Mann, Mrs. Don Nelson, Mrs. Leonard Andersen, Mrs. Karl Frederick, Mrs. Marvin Fuoss and Mrs. Art Grone, all of Winside.

Decorations were in the bride's chosen color, blue. Games served for entertainment.

Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Anderson, and Arlin Kittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kittle of Winside, will be married March 24 at the Trinity Lutheran Church at Hoskins.

Wiltse Family Tradition Continues

BY LAVON BECKMAN

While movies and television tend to depict the mortician as a somber man in black garb, a pretty, petite, twenty-one-year-old is helping change that stereotype.

Carol Wiltse recently returned to Wayne to join her father, Rowan Wiltse, as a funeral director at Wiltse Mortuaries, Inc. Carol becomes the fourth generation member of the Wiltse family to become involved in the funeral business.

A graduate of Cottery College in Nevada, Mo., Carol attended Indiana College of Mortuary Science in Indianapolis, Ind., and received her funeral directors license Feb. 1, 1979. She will receive her BS degree from Wayne State College in August of this year.

While attending college in Indianapolis, Carol was employed by the Wilson-St. Pierre Funeral Home. She is a member of PEO, Order of Eastern Star, Phi Sigma Eta and Mu Sigma Alpha.

Carol, who was graduated from Wayne High School in 1975, becomes the second woman in the family to be a funeral director. Her great aunt, Frances Beckenhauer Volk, also was a licensed funeral director and was the daughter of the founder of Wiltse Mortuaries, William Beckenhauer.

Although she says she wasn't always decided on becoming a mortician, Carol has always been interested in science and helped her father at the mortuary while attending high school. It was during her last couple of years in high school that she decided to enter the field of mortuary science.

"There are very few women morticians in the State of Nebraska," says Carol, adding that she knows of only one in Lincoln.

Carol believes there is a slight stigma attached to women morticians, because most people

CAROL WILTSE IS THE fourth generation member of her family to join Wiltse Mortuaries, Inc. Carol received her funeral directors license in February from Cottery College in Nevada, Mo.

still expect to see a male funeral director. It's easier though in a small community such as Wayne," she says, "where people know my family."

Carol is working at Wiltse Mortuaries while serving a one year apprenticeship before receiving her embalming license. In addition to assisting with the embalming process, she also consults with families, helps during services, and prepares bodies for visitation.

What will she do after her apprenticeship is completed? Carol says she isn't sure if she will continue to work with her father, adding that she hasn't received any pressure to continue the family business in Wayne.

Wiltse Mortuary was founded in 1909 by William Beckenhauer. Beckenhauer came to Wayne in 1906 and was associated with the Gaertner and Beckenhauer Furniture and Funeral Home in

Club Exchanging

Plants or Bulbs

The March meeting of the Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club will be held this Tuesday afternoon at 2 in the home of Mrs. Harvey Beck.

Mrs. Gail Korn will have the lesson. Members are reminded to bring a plant or bulb for an exchange.

1909 he founded the Beckenhauer Funeral Home. He built the original funeral home at 401 Main St., where it has remained since.

During the 1940's, the funeral home passed from William Beckenhauer to his son-in-law Willard Wiltse, and in 1966 the funeral home was incorporated into Wiltse Mortuaries, Inc.

Willard and Rowan Wiltse now direct the mortuary. Brian McBride joined them in 1973 and resides at the Laurel Mortuary, which opened in 1956. A third family funeral home was purchased in 1959 at Winside.

Thanks to Carol, a family tradition which began in Wayne over 70 years ago still continues.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Huscoll

WAYNE HIGH WRESTLERS, wrestling coaches and parents enjoyed a post-season get together Thursday night in the Wayne High School Commons.

Opening up with a pot luck supper, the presently-overweight wrestlers added a few more pounds by sinking their teeth into a wide variety of delicious foods. The serving table looked like a military mess hall to feed the United States Army. I think the wrestlers' mothers must have spent two solid weeks preparing food for the occasion.

Following the supper, everyone gathered into the lecture hall for a special presentation. The program was witty and funny and most of all, expressed appreciation of the wrestlers, mothers and the coaches.

Don Koenig was the "man of the hour" as Jack Rubbeck emceed and a group of parents "toasted and roasted" the head wrestling coach. Heavyweight Dan Mitchell presented his coach a tooth necklace as a remembrance of pre-district practice, where the junior accidentally knocked out two of Koenig's teeth.

All of the wrestlers were presented awards and some received gag prizes. In turn, the wrestlers announced that they were presenting Koenig and Wayne High School a record board to be hung in the gym displaying the wrestling records.

Koenig said that he seriously believed this year's team was in the best condition ever and said that attitudes played a big role. A tape recording of the wrestlers' goals was played and the coaches said that almost 80 percent of them were reached with everyone working hard toward their goals.

Assistant coach Stew Cline recited his favorite saying to the group, "I don't know of anyone who ever drowned in their own sweat." That was his motto for hard practices.

The supper and presentation were tremendous and everyone was recognized for their contributions to the season. The fans followed the team to meals, home and away; the team worked hard to achieve a fine season and the coaches did a tremendous job to push their team to its success.

Everyone was appreciative of all the parties involved and I was delighted to be invited. The whole evening was enjoyable and I thank the parents for making me a part of it. Besides, it's not often that I get a great home-cooked meal.

YOUNG WRESTLERS WILL take to the mats on March 31 in the Wayne High gym, when the Wayne Jaycees sponsor a third, fourth and fifth, sixth and seventh grade tourney. Four wrestling mats will be in use.

Good wrestling programs begin in elementary schools and I'm anxious to see these grade schoolers in action. I'm sure Wayne wrestlers and tournament directors would like to see a good turnout for a growing sport.

WAYNE HIGH FACULTY members raised $122 toward a new pitching machine when they played K-ITCH in an exhibition basketball game last Tuesday. The pitching machine is a design that is presently being used in many high schools and colleges and should be helpful for Wayne's baseball team.

TWO WAYNE girls, Peg Pinkelman and Lisa Barclay, are WSC recruits and played in a basketball game at Rice Auditorium. The game, organized by WSC coach Helen Carroll, matched most of Wayne State's high school recruits from Nebraska and Iowa in a preview to next year's season.

WSC'S BASEBALL TEAM, coached by Steve Anson, travelled south this weekend to play some games in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The 25 players were scheduled to compete against some teams that had already played more than 20 games this season.

The trip south will probably be hard on Wayne State's record but should definitely give the team some needed experience.

WITH NAlA WRESTLING over, WSC coach Nick Pederson is recruiting to make next year's team a power. All wrestlers on this year's squad are expected to return next year and with a good recruiting year, the coach expects to build a team of which to be proud. He said he was impressed with Nebraska wrestling at the state tournament, and hopes to snag some good wrestlers.

JAY BELLAR nearly missed the Wayne State-Hastings basketball playoff last week due to the snow storm. Bellar was snowed in at his home town of Walhalla and couldn't get to Wayne in time to catch the WSC bus. The highway was finally cleared and Bellar drove to Hastings for the game, missing much of the first half, but arriving in time to play the second half.

Larson, Leach Lead Scoring

Team Four Wins B League

Team Four clinched the B League championship by dropping Team One 80-75 Tuesday night in a close, high scoring contest.

Don Larson, with 30 points and Gary Leach with 28, were too hot to handle and led their team to the title. Team One, led by Bruce Johnson's 26 points, led much of the way but fell behind in the third period.

The losers built up leads of 20-15 after the first quarter and 37-26 at half, when Team Four came alive. By outscoring Team One 27-13, the champs took a 53-50 lead after the third period, and held on to win. Pat Donahoe added 13 for Team Four and Doug Sturm and Jim Carlson scored 15 and 17 points apiece for Team One.

Team Six kept a hold on second place by edging Team Two 52-48. After trailing 30-18 at half, Team Two came back behind the shooting of Fritz Weible, Randy Jacobsen and Larry Creighton with 12 points each.

Then, Team Six settled down and held onto its lead for the final quarter for its sixth win in nine outings. Mark Fleer with 15 points and Roger Langenberg with 12 led Team Six.

In the other game of the evening, Team Five broke a 29-29 deadlock and went on to defeat Team Three 47-39.

Reggie Swanson and Dave Schulte teamed up for 16 points each and their team scored 18 in the fourth quarter to post the win. Moe Green led Team Three with 18 points, in a game that was close for three quarters.

Final Week: 5-6, 7 p.m.; 4-2, 8 p.m.; 1-3, 9-15.

Team Four: Larson, 30; Don ahoe, 13; Leach, 28; Olson, 7; Weidt, 2. Team One: Geise, 8; Johnson, 26; Sturm, 15; Strich, 7; Carlson, 17; Anderson, 2.

Team Six: Fleer, 15; Boeckelbauer, 8; Langenberg, 12; Fleer, 7; Weber, 2; Statler, 8; Team Two: Weible, 12; R. Jacobsen, 12; Drueger, 2; Creighton, 12; T. Jacobsen, 6; Waggoner, 4.

Team Five: Schulte, 16; Arneson, 6; Swanson, 16; Pederson, 3; Lessmann, 6. Team Three: Hagmann, 4; Daehneik, 2; Green, 18; Nelson, 2; Cornish, 11; Barston, 2.

RUSKY NAIL

Waterfowl Are Being Studied

Representatives of the Nebraska and Parks Commission and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service met in Kearney Wednesday to plan work regarding the spring migration of waterfowl and geese. An important part of the work relates to the probability of fowl cholera striking in South Central Nebraska again this year. The work planning was coordinated by Dr. Milton Friend, director of the National Wildlife Health Lab. in Madison Wisconsin.

Central Nebraska is a migration and staging area for an estimated 4 to 10 million waterfowl each spring. Many of these birds spend some time on the lakes and marshes in the Rainwater Basin. The area was hard hit by fowl cholera in the drought years of 1975, 1976 and 1977. In 1978, the area was spared a major cholera outbreak and the wildlife agency surmised that it was because of the abundance of good habitat provided by late snow-melt and rain.

There have also been cholera outbreaks on Sheep Creek, Turkey Creek, Swanson, Enders and MacConaughy Reservoirs and the Platte River. More recently, there has been a cholera outbreak in the vicinity of Turkey Creek near Harlan County Reservoir in January-February 1979, where about 4,000 mallards died.

This year, there are good water conditions in the east counties of the Rainwater Basin area due to snow-melt and pumping of water by the Fish and Wildlife Service. The West side of the basin area is suffering a spring drought and the majority of the habitat will be from water pumped by the agencies. The two agencies also plan to prevent most of the migrating birds from using Funk Lagoon.

The reason is not known, but Funk Lagoon has usually been the place where cholera first appears and it seems to spread to other areas from there. The agencies will use noise making devices and all-terrain vehicles to keep the birds off of Funk Lagoon during the early part of migration. A contingency plan has been prepared in case of an outbreak and will provide equipment near the areas where cholera is most likely to occur.

Wrestling
Supper

WAYNE HIGH'S wrestling team, its parents and coaches were fed, entertained and honored at a wrestling banquet Thursday night at Wayne High School. Most of the wrestlers overindulged at the pot luck supper, prior to a special parents' presentation, "Don Koenig, Man of the Hour". More important than the food and the fun, was the appreciation displayed from all parties. More details can be found in "Randy's Recap".

Team Two Just One Game Away from "C" Title

Team Two assured itself of at least a first place tie in C League basketball this week, by downing Team Six 51-34. They hold a one game edge, following a 58-43 win by Team Four over second place Team One.

Teams Two and One held identical 6-2 records entering Wednesday's action. Team Two is scheduled to play Team Four Wednesday while Team One meets Team Three, in the final week of play.

John Dorcay led the attack for Team Two, scoring 21 points while Darrell Doeschler led Team Six with 13 points.

straight game after four consecutive losses by knocking off Team One to avenge an earlier loss. Bill Blecke scored 21 points and Don Zeiss scored 18 to spark the attack. Randy Shaw and Sid Hillier led Team One with 12 and 11 points respectively.

After losing its first five basketball games, Team Three won its fourth consecutive by dropping Team Five 64-59. Stew Cline scored 18 points and Pat Gross dumped in 15 to lead four scorers in double figures.

Team Five trailed by 13 points before rallying for 24 fourth quarter points to make the game close. Ric Wilson scored 12 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter and Don Koeber hit 16 to lead the losers.

Final Week: 1-2, 7 p.m.; 4-2, 8 p.m.; 5-6, 9:15.

Team Three: Gross, 15, Casey, 12; Cline, 18; Ramer, 10; Weidert, 8. Team Five: Metteer, 10; Koeber, 16; Wilson, 20; Woehler, 4; Spangler, 9.

Low Completes Junior Year At Mount Marty

YANKTON, S.D. — The Mount Marty College Lancers recently completed their basketball season with a 12-13 record.

And Lancer Coach, Doug Martin, credits much of the season's success to Wayne native, Monte Lowe. The 6'4" junior finished the season as the Mount's fourth leading scorer with an average of 9.3. He was also the squad's third leading rebounder with a per game average of 6.6.

MONTE LOWE

"Monte doesn't get much recognition, but he was our toughest player," says Lancer Coach Doug Martin. The MMC head mentor pointed out that Lowe was usually given the task of guarding the opponents top scorer and usually held him far below his game averages. "He's a real gusly player and a real team leader as well."

Lowe hit on 49.5 percent of his field goals and 72 percent of his free throws. He was also credited with 35 assists.

A junior business major, Monte is a graduate of Wayne High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lowe of Wayne.

Men Softball Meeting Set

A men's softball league meeting is scheduled for Thursday (March 15) at the Ellis Barbers shop at 7 p.m. Last year's league coordinator, Doug Sturm, scheduled the meeting and invites interested persons to attend.

WHS Students to See Film of Northern Plains

Students at Wayne High School and Wayne Middle School will see the Northern Plains as they were nearly 150 years ago during an upcoming school program.

"Maximilian's Journey," a motion picture on the exploration of the Upper Missouri River, will be presented by Northern Natural Gas Co. and Peoples Natural Gas today (Monday).

The film will be shown at 1:15 p.m. and again at 2:15 p.m. in the high school lecture hall. The public is invited to the 2:15 showing.

"Maximilian's Journey" recreates the famous expedition of 1833-34, made by Prince Alexander Philip Maximilian and Swissborn artist Karl Bodmer up the Missouri River from St. Louis to near the present site of Great Falls, Mont.

The Prince was the first trained scientist-naturalist to follow the trail blazed by Lewis and Clark 30 years before.

Bodmer was the first artist of great skills to visit the area. His paintings of the Northern Plains are considered historical documents of great value today.

Using these detailed paintings from Northern's Maximilian-Bodmer Collection and descriptions from the Prince's diary, Northern produced an animated multi-screen movie on the famous trip.

about a year to construct. According to Bowen, it will take a crew of approximately 40 for the project with 50 percent of those to be hired from the local area.
The line will run about 7 1/2 miles south of Wayne.

The evening will begin with a general session in the lecture hall. Following the general session parents and students will follow a "mini schedule" to allow them to meet teachers and assist in selecting courses for next year.
Formal registration for all 8th graders will take place on Tuesday, April 3. Rural students may register during the week of April 2, 6, or at any time convenient to them after those dates.

Fabricated Foods Increasing

Fabricated food sales are increasing, and contrary to what many consumers believe, most of these foods need not be viewed with suspicion.
Carol Long, an extension food scientist with the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, explained that fabricated foods, which are made by putting ingredients together in new forms, serve useful purposes for consumers.
Fabricated foods, she said, can lower meat costs, improve nutrition, offer variety and allow use of ingredients from underutilized foods. They also are convenient and have longer shelf life.
Fabricated foods that have been widely accepted by consumers include margarine, coffee lighteners, non dairy whipped toppings and instant breakfast products.

In fact, several fabricated foods have made a major impact on traditional foods," Long said. "For instance, margarine has about 66 percent of the tablespread market and non dairy whipped topping has 50 percent of its market."
Since 1972, fabricated food sales have risen from 6.5 percent of total food sales to about 8 percent.
Long explained that the increase probably is a result of rising costs of basic foods ingredients and improved technology. She said the food industry is trying to offer consumers the nutrition, convenience and high quality they want at prices they can afford.
"To do this, processors are turning to alternate ingredients," she said.
Many of the ingredients that are processed into fabricated foods are derived from plants or animals and are chemically the same as the components which make up the traditional foods, Long said.
Animal proteins, such as casein, and vegetable proteins, especially those from soybeans, are some commonly used protein ingredients.
Various sugars derived from corn syrup or cellulose also are being used, and nutritional concerns have resulted in vegetable oils replacing animal fats.

"Hundreds of different flavors are available," she said. When the right flavors are combined in the correct amounts, they can impart flavor characteristics not only of a particular kind of meat, such as chicken or beef, but even specific cuts of beef.
Long said much of the current research is focused on looking for substitutes for basic ingredients, such as replacing cocoa powder with brewer's yeast. High fiber flours and fabricated cheese products also are being researched, and processors are working to develop better flavorings for fabricated foods.

Program OK's College Peek

High school juniors will be able to experience college life early through a new Pre-College Institute Program at Wayne State College (WSC), beginning in June, 1979.
The program, offered June 4 through June 22, will allow high school students to take college-level classes and stay on the WSC campus. The program is designed to orient and motivate high school juniors to the college environment before enrolling as full-time freshmen.
Participating students may enroll in one of three courses offered through the program and each course is worth three college credits, which may be transferred to most colleges in the United States.
Program courses include "Man in Post-Industrial Society: Problems and Prospects," "Alienation, Crisis and Expression in 20th Century American

The program is sponsored by the WSC Student Senate and is open free to the public.

Grant to Laurel Student

A spring 1979 graduate of Laurel-Concord high school has been awarded a "Presidential Scholarship" to Wayne State College for fall semester, 1979.
Carolyn Burns, daughter of Harry Knudsen, Laurel, is the recipient of the scholarship which is awarded to quality students not qualified for financial aid through WSC.
The Laurel student is active in band, choir, Pep club, Student council, Home Economics club, volleyball and basketball.
She plans to major in business at Wayne State.
Eight other soon to be graduated seniors received the scholarships.

Recital by Wakefield Senior

Wayne State College senior Martha Prochaska, Wakefield, will perform in a senior recital at 8 p.m., Tuesday, March 20, in Ramsey Theatre of the Fine Arts building at Wayne State.
Prochaska, a vocal music major, will perform numbers by J.S. Bach, Hammerschmidt, Gluck, Schumann, Brahms, Bernstein, Diack, Head and Dougherty.
Accompanying Prochaska will be her son, Tim, and WSC music instructor Michael Palumbo, both on violin. Also accompanying Prochaska will be Linda Baddorf, Wayne, and Roberta Teply, Wolbach, both on piano.
Senior recitals are part of the requirements for WSC music majors and are open free to the public.

Member of the Best

Staff Sergeant Earl G. Anderson, son of Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Wayne, is a member of the best organizational maintenance squadron in the Strategic Air Command.
Sergeant Anderson is an aircraft maintenance technician at Ellsworth AFB, S.D., with the 28th Organizational Maintenance Squadron.
The award citation cited the unit for the high level of aircraft maintenance performed by its members and for the outstanding ratings they obtained during higher headquarters inspections and competitions.
The squadron will now compete for the same honors at Air Force level.
The sergeant graduated from high school in 1963. His wife, Beverly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rieken, Wayne.

Information Sessions

Admissions and financial aids counselors from Wayne State College (WSC) will hold information sessions for prospective students and their parents Saturday and Sunday, March 17 and 18 at the Old Mill Holiday Inn in Omaha.
WSC counselors, students, alumni and friends of the college will be available to answer questions on attending college and on Wayne State. Representatives will be available from 1 to 9 p.m., Saturday, March 17 and from 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday, March 18.
The event is open free to the public and free refreshments will be served.

Nebraska, only 46 administrators are qualified as preceptor. Boyle said he was happy to be one of the 46. "It's an honor that I take real seriously," Boyle said. "An administrator is a lack of all trades and must cover different facets. When I'm training a candidate, I'll learn more. Teaching is learning."
The nine points covered in the Core of Knowledge are: patient environment health and safety, local health and safety regulations, general administration, psychology of patient care, principles of medical care, personal and social care, therapeutic and supportive care and services, department organization and management, community interrelationships.
