

Annual Aerospace Workshop Scheduled June 18 to July 7

The annual Wayne State College Aerospace-Education Workshop designed to help high school and elementary education teachers combine aerospace topics with regular classroom study will be held June 18 through July 7 at WSC.

The workshop, worth four graduate or undergraduate college credits, will again include a variety of aerospace activities, ranging from aircraft construction theory and rocket launching to air photo interpretation and basic flight training (including two hours of actual flight time).

Other activities will include sessions with NASA personnel, field trips to the Offut Air Force Base, Underground Command Post and the National Weather Service station in Omaha and a tour of a flight service station and the Epply Field control tower in Omaha.

This year's class will be flown free, by the U.S. Air Force, to Huntsville, Ala., where participants will tour NASA's aerospace museum. Space is limited on the flight and participants will be selected by the order of enrollment in the course.

Instructors for the class are regular WSC faculty. Special instruction will be given by several flight instructors and by representatives from NASA, the Civil Air Patrol, the Nebraska Department of Aeronautics and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). An Air Force Lt. Colonel will also assist regular instructors throughout the three-week workshop.

Regular class sessions will be held daily from 1 to 4 p.m., with several field trips requiring participants to stay overnight. Tuition for the course is $48 for Nebraska residents and $120 for non-residents (food and lodging not included). For further information phone 375-2200.

Plan Bicycle Safety School

A Bicycle Safety school for Wayneland bikers will be held June 19-20-21 in the Wayne City Auditorium.

The three-day school is for bike riders six years old to 12 years old. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. each day.

The school is being planned, organized and carried out by David Wiener in conjunction with the Wayne Police Department. The project is a part of his Eagle Scout requirements.

Officer Melvin (Lefty) Lamb, who has been in charge of the school in past years, will be present at all times to help out with this school.

Tuesday, June 19 will be registration day. Bikers are asked not to bring their bikes this day. A film on the "Do's and Don'ts of Bicycle Riding" will be presented.

Safety inspection of bikes will be held

Wednesday, June 20. Persons attending the school are asked to bring their bicycles. A bike ride will be held in residential Wayne.

Thursday, June 21, the school will be held at the Rice Auditorium parking lot on the Wayne State campus. Youngsters should bring their bikes as there will be riding ability tests and other testing. Certificates will be awarded to those bikers who complete the safety school.

Refreshments will be served on the final day. The police department requests that parents urge their children to attend the bicycle safety school, as the fundamentals of bike riding will be stressed.

There is no charge for attending the school. However, all bicycles should be registered with the police department. The registration charge is 50 cents and is good for one full year.

Congregate Meals Plan Begins

A congregate meal program designed to provide Wayne area senior citizens with balanced daily meals, began today (Monday) at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Jocell Bull, director of the local Senior Citizens center, said the program has a twofold purpose. In addition to providing nutritious meals, the new program also gives elderly persons an opportunity to socialize in an informal atmosphere when they meet each day for the noon meals.

The program is funded by a nutrition grant from the Nebraska Commission on Aging through the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging.

Meals are served daily (except on holidays) from noon to 1 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Center, located in the basement of the Wayne City Hall. Meals are prepared by the staff at Providence Medical Center and transported to the Senior Citizens Center in the Center's new mini bus.

Mrs. Bull said that all area residents 60 years of age or older are eligible to participate. In a case where one spouse is 60 or older and the other is younger than 60, Mrs. Bull said both are still entitled to take part in the meal program.

Mrs. Bull added that meals will not be delivered to homes unless persons requesting the service have a form signed by their doctor stating that they are unable to travel to the Senior Citizens center to eat.

Water Warriors

THE RAIN Saturday didn't break up the water fights scheduled Saturday afternoon during the two-day Old Settlers Ration held Saturday and Sunday. Rain Saturday morning caused some of the activities to be scheduled later in the day. But the water fights were on regardless of the weather as Dennis Delp (left) and Bill Anderson, members of the Winslow volunteer fire department, get ready for the event. Departments scheduled to take part in the event were Wayne, Carroll, Hoskins and Winslow.

Nip-and-Tuck Situation

Most Crops Are in the Ground

It has been nip-and-tuck for the past couple of weeks, but the corn and beans are just about all in the ground in the Wayne land area.

Farmers have had to delay their planting because of cool, wet weather and they have had to "scramble" for diesel fuel for their tractors.

County Extension Agent Don Spitze said all things considered, the crops are looking good even with the late planting.

He pointed out that while the soil moisture is adequate, farmers got a bonus with soaking rains over the weekend.

The first week in June has produced good planting and growing weather with just a few of the farmers not having their crops in the ground, Spitze said.

Ninety degree plus temperatures backed up by gusty winds have produced ideal growing weather for crops, he explained. The only thing lacking was top soil moisture and that came Friday night, continued through Friday and into Saturday.

Spitze used readings from the weather station on Northeast Station near Concord to determine crop water use from June 1 to June 6.

He said corn which was planted May 28 was using an average of .07 of an inch of moisture per day. He said last Wednesday with temperatures in the late 90's and gusty winds produced the largest consumption with .10 of an inch recorded.

Spitze noted that the first cutting of alfalfa has been completed for the most part. Prior to the cutting, he said the crop water use by the crop during the period from June 1 to June 6 was an average of a quarter of an inch per day which was fairly high, he said.

The fuel shortage situation was felt during the planting season but nearly all of the farmers were able to find enough diesel to get their crops in the ground. One distributor reported three of his See CROPS, Page 10

THE IMPACT of the crash, which injured three persons Thursday afternoon east of Wayne, is evidenced by the damage to this car which belongs to Cynthia Albrecht, the driver. Four children were in the car with Miss Albrecht when it went out of control. A passing motorist, one of the first on the scene, talks to those in the car (background in the weeds) as they wait for the ambulance from Wayne.

Thursday Afternoon

Three Injured as Car Hits Embankment

Five persons, four of them children, escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding Thursday afternoon went out of control and slammed into a ditch embankment.

Nebraska Trooper Dave Headley, Wayne, said the accident happened about 2:30 p.m. three miles west of Wayne.

All five persons were taken to Providence Medical Center by ambulance after they received emergency treatment at the scene.

Admitted overnight were Cynthia Albrecht, 19, Wayne, driver of the car who suffered a head injury and Lynell Billheimer, 12, who received a head injury and a broken arm.

Lynell's sisters, Kami, 5 and Andrea, 8, were examined by a physician at Providence Medical Center and released. The Billheimers are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Billheimer, Laurel.

The fourth passenger of the 1976 vehicle, which was totaled in the mishap, was Chari Milligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Milligan, Wayne, who was treated for a head injury and released.

Both Miss Albrecht and Lynell Billheimer were released from the hospital Friday.

Trooper Headley said the Albrecht car was westbound on Highway 35 and attempted to make a left turn onto a county road. The car apparently went out of control, hit a reflector pole marking a drainage pipe and nosed into the embankment.

The first persons at the scene were able to get the people out of the vehicle. Another person who helped at the scene summoned the ambulance.

'78 Retail Sales Increase In County

Wayne County was the leader in Region 11 in net taxable retail sales for 1976, according to a report prepared by the Bureau of Business Research, College of Business Administration, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The report using motor vehicles sales as an indicator, pointing out that motor vehicle sales are recorded as in counties in which the vehicles were first registered, regardless of point of sale.

The county also showed an increase more than that of the average state-wide.

Region 11, which is made up of Wayne, Antelope, Madison, Pierce and Stanton Counties, indicated a plus 11 percent increase which was slightly lower than the 11.1 percent increase recorded state-wide.

However, Wayne County showed a 21.1 percent increase for the year in figures unadjusted for price changes. The increase was still more than the state-wide average with a 13.1 percent difference with figures adjusted for prices.

The adjustment for prices represented the current dollar sales deflated for price changes using commodity prices component of the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

The net taxable retail sales for the county for 1977 was $0,901. The figures jumped to $2,407 during 1976 representing the increase of 21.1 percent.

Region 11 as a whole tabulated $270,554 for 1977 and then passed the $300,000 mark with See SALES, Page 10

Pumping Efficiency Testing Scheduled

An irrigation pumping efficiency test will be held Thursday, June 14, at the Glen Loberg farm, according to Don Spitze, county extension agent.

The purpose of the test is to cut irrigation fuel costs which are soaring, according to Spitze. A recent survey, of Nebraska irrigators, he said, found that many irrigation pumps were running at 75 percent or less of potential efficiency.

The efficiency test will be conducted at the Loberg irrigated field three miles north, one mile east and one-quarter of a mile north of Carroll.

The demonstration will include methods of testing irrigation pumps and motors to determine how efficient they are running. There will also be a demonstration on irrigation scheduling and use of moisture blocks.

Swimming Programs For Area Swimmers

Swimming programs at the Wayne municipal pool have been outlined for the summer.

The family hour for children accompanied by a parent or an adult 19 years of age or older will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. daily beginning tonight (Monday).

Basic junior life rescue and advanced senior life-saving will be offered during the second swimming session beginning at 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. July 9.

Registration for the second session will begin July 2 for the July 9-20 session. The pool usage fee is $7.50 per individual or the cost will be included in an individual or family ticket.

Infant and adult swimming lessons are being arranged. Persons interested are asked to call Gordon-Ermy, pool manager.

Sales, income tax rates to remain same

CAPITOL NEWS

BY MELVIN PAUL
STATEHOUSE CORRESPONDENT
THE NEBRASKA PRESS ASSOCIATION
LINCOLN — To the surprise of hardly anyone, the state Board of Equalization and Assessment has decided to keep the 3 percent sales tax rate and the 18 percent state income tax rate for the rest of this year.

The action by the five-man, all-Republican board was taken after state Democratic Party Chairman Dick White of Lincoln had urged the board to lower the income tax rate to 17 percent of an individual's federal liability.

During his presentation, White noted the state Revenue Department had indicated there would be a surplus of money in the state treasury to meet the state's obligations.

But Gov. Charles Thone cited the prospect of a recession and the threatened cutback by Congress of revenue-sharing funds as two important reasons to retain the present rates.

Those rates will be reviewed by the board again in November.

Also appearing before the board was state Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh. He said an income tax reduction would have been possible if the board last year had ordered property to be assessed at 100 percent of actual value.

DeCamp said he was not blaming the governor and the new state tax commissioner for what was done last year. But he also asked if the board intended to get involved in the "murderous task" of correcting offenses of which others had been guilty.

Thone repeated his offer made pledge to achieve statewide equalization and to remedy the state's property tax "mess." Some months ago, DeCamp challenged the board's action last November, but the state Supreme Court refused to hear the case because it said the Neligh lawmaker had not filed his protest properly.

In addition to Thone and state Tax Commissioner Fred Herringford, the Equalization board is made up of Secretary of State Allen Beermann, state Auditor Ray A.C. Johnson, and state Treasurer Frank Marsh.

While urging his colleagues on the board to retain the present tax rates, Beermann cited a report by Chase

Econometric Associates, Inc., a New York consulting firm, which said a recession is here.

The report said the country can look for more unemployment during the next few months.

The state's own economic report also indicated an increase in the state unemployment rate during the 1979-1980 fiscal year. And Thone reiterated the state can expect to lose $15 million in federal revenue-sharing money.

For all those reasons, Thone said, the state would be well advised to keep its 18 percent income tax rate.

Another reason for not lowering the rate, according to Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner, is that the general fund balance figure the Revenue Department presented was inflated. Warner is chairman of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee.

PLAN LAWSUIT
 State Sen. Ernie Chambers and the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union are hooking up in a lawsuit aimed at preventing the Legislature from paying its chaplain.

The chaplain the past 14 years had been the Rev. Robert Palmer, a Presbyterian minister who is paid $300 a month. Chambers and Herbert Friedman of the NCLU said recently they would file their lawsuit as soon as it can be prepared. It was not immediately known in which court the action would be filed.

Chambers, at the beginning of the past legislative session, suggested payment of the chaplain's salary violates the spirit of the U.S. Constitution.

Chambers and Friedman have both said the No. 1 issue in the suit would be the alleged failure by the Legislature to separate church and state.

Chambers, an atheist, said he decided to pursue his objection to payment of the chaplain's salary in the courts because he had tried without success to abolish the salary through legislative channels.

The Legislature's Executive Board last January rejected Chambers' suggestion that the chaplain not be salaried. Later on the floor of the Legislature, the Omaha lawmaker said, "Never should this Legislature be the forum for a preacher of one given religion. All we are supposed to be concerned about here is wise legislation, not salvation."

ANOTHER COMMITTEE FORMED
 A special committee of seven state senators has been organized to make an independent study of the use of behavior management techniques at the Lincoln Regional Center.

The committee study probably will follow another investigation that is being made by a three-member group appointed by Gov. Charles Thone.

Members of the legislative committee are Sens. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Frank Lewis of Bellevue, Steve Fowler of Lincoln, Don Wesley of Lincoln, Myron Rumery of North Platte, Jerome Warner of Waverly and Ernest Chambers of Omaha.

The Thone committee recently received conflicting statements about allegations of abusive treatment of residents at the center's comprehensive care unit, which accommodates 28 mentally retarded adults with special emotional or behavioral problems.

The gubernatorial committee, which has met behind closed doors to take testimony from former and current employees in the care unit, will eventually submit a report to the governor.

The investigation by the committee of state senators was authorized through a resolution that was tacked onto another resolution during the final days of the Unicameral session.

The resolution noted the comprehensive care unit was recently denied accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. The commission said the denial of accreditation stemmed from use of behavior management techniques "which not only grossly violate the intent of the (commission's) standards, but also may violate the civil rights of the clients."

Fowler told a reporter the legislation unit probably would not make its study until after the governor's committee has completed its investigation.

In Fowler's opinion, the governor should be given time to resolve administratively whatever problems there are before the senatorial committee starts its probe. Also, Fowler said, the committee probably should review the governor's recommendations before it begins its study of conditions at the care unit.

Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost. — Thomas Jefferson, Letter, 1786.

Summary of the 1979 session

Of the 597 bills introduced by the Legislature this year, a large percentage of the 307 passed into law did so with a minimum of debate and controversy. Some were so-called "housekeeping" bills, which make minor revisions in laws passed in previous years. Others are of concern only to the special interest group or governmental subdivision which requested it, and do not conflict with the rights or wishes of others.

One example of a non-controversial bill is LB301, introduced by Sen. J.R. Murphy of South Sioux City. It removes restraints on the free flow of information between law enforcement officers, insurance agencies and others who have information on suspicious fires. The bill passed 40-0 on final reading.

Legislation dealing with the state budget and issues such as the local government spending did account for a tremendous amount of time. The Legislature spends on research, debate and compromise, but generally are of interest only to the various levels of government affected by the legislation.

The majority of the remaining bills, the ones that stir heated debate, are what the public hears the most about. Often, they involve the rights or wishes of one group vs. the rights or wishes of another group. The conflict may be consumer rights vs. business rights, as it was with a group of consumer-oriented bills dealing with utility rates. Or it may be that the concerns of urban senators conflict with those of rural senators, as in the Omaha sales tax controversy and continuing disputes over water rights.

Sometimes professional groups or other special interest organizations fight among themselves over the merit of a certain piece of legislation, such as the optometrists vs. the ophthalmologists (physicians) in a dispute over whether optometrists ought to be permitted to administer eyedrops for diagnostic purposes.

When the question deals with conflicting rights of individuals, the debate intensifies even more. Abortion laws, which attempt to define the rights of the fetus vs. the rights of the mother, is a prime example. Rewriting the state's abortion law has become a perennial event at the Legislature, as a group of senators attempt to make the law as restrictive as possible without violating the U.S. Constitution. Before a 1978 abortion law was to take effect in January of this year, a U.S. District Court judge ruled that sections of the law probably were unconstitutional. Before he had a chance to make a final ruling on the law, the Legislature passed a substitute abortion law, which also was subsequently enjoined by the judge because of probable constitutional problems. The state may not enforce the law until the court makes a final determination on its constitutionality.

Other hotly debated bills dealing with individual rights include measures to raise the drinking age to 21, to legalize the sale and distribution of Laetrile for cancer patients, to segregate smokers and non-smokers in public places and a bill allowing adopted children access to records pertaining to their adoption.

Still other bills seek to balance protection of society with just treatment of criminals, such as a measure to replace the death penalty with a 30-year prison sentence, and a bill revising the sexual sodomy law.

This edition of the Unicameral Update summarizes a few of the most important bills passed this session. Because of space limitations, it is impossible to list all the bills passed. A booklet summarizing all new laws will be available in about a month, and may be obtained by writing to: Legislative Council, Room 2108, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509.

Study supplemental food program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will award $2,750,000 this fiscal year for studies and demonstration projects to evaluate and improve the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), according to Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman.

"A portion of the allocation is available immediately to provide grants for a variety of studies and pilot projects," Foreman said. "We are particularly interested in studies with national or regional significance. We're also interested in pilot projects to improve delivery of program benefits — especially to Indians, migrants and rural residents."

"Projects which experiment with new approaches to encourage breastfeeding are of special interest, as well as projects designed to test methods of using commodities which may be purchased by the federal government for the WIC program."

The WIC program provides nutrition education and nutritious supplemental foods to pregnant, breastfeeding or postpartum women and to infants and children up to age five, based on low income and nutritional need. Public Law 95-627, enacted last November, authorizes the secretary of agriculture to spend one-third of one percent of WIC program funds, not to exceed $3 million, each fiscal year for studies and demonstration projects designed to improve the program.

"The remaining funds available for fiscal year 1979 will be used for a large-scale evaluation of the WIC program," Foreman said. The study, to be performed under contract, will determine the impact of the program on the health and nutritional status of participating women, infants and children.

State and local health agencies, non-profit organizations, universities, or individuals may request grant application forms from the Contracting Officer, Administrative Services Division, FNS, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250. Applications will be accepted until July 23. No projects can last longer than 18 months.

Tour an auto plant

If you're planning a summer vacation trip (if you can get the gasoline) you should consider a visit to an automobile or truck assembly plant, suggests the Automotive Information Council.

AIC said a plant tour will be one of the highlights of any vacation because of seeing sheet metal, engines, transmissions; upholstery, paint, tires and other materials and components come together and rolling off the assembly line under its own power as a complete vehicle.

A new car contains an average of 15,000 parts, all of which must flow in a controlled computerized pattern to be at the right place at the right time to keep the line flowing without interruption.

One plant visitor said she couldn't get over the fact that she had seen a car "come to life" in front of her eyes.

Another said he was most impressed that the blue car got the blue wheels and not red wheels by accident.

There are almost 100 car and truck assembly plants located in 85 cities in these states — California, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

Not all of them are open for tours and others do not have them every day, so it is suggested that the plant be called in advance. Also, some will be closed to the public during model changeover time.

The most comprehensive tours are in the Detroit area. There visitors can see technical centers and even the production of steel, in addition to the assembly of cars.

When a person sees an auto plant at work, he or she will gain a better understanding of the vastness and complexity of the industry, as well as a feeling of how the motor vehicle industry affects the nation's economy, says the Automotive Information Council.

The bridegroom wore an ivory tuxedo trimmed in brown velvet and his attendants were attired in forest green tuxedos with white ruffled shirts and forest green velvet vests. They wore apricot colored rose boutonnières.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Magnuson wore a floral chiffon street length dress in rose polyester crepe with a cape. She had an orchid corsage.

A reception for 75 guests followed at Timber's Club House in Aurora. Hosts were Nina Chalmers and Joan Shafer of Denver. Guests were registered by Camille Shea of Aurora and gifts were arranged by Jean Zweibohmer of Denver.

First Herald All-Area Track Selections Announced

For the first time in history, The Wayne Herald has decided to recognize spring sports athletes by naming a spring sports All-Area team. Selection of the All-Area track team was probably the most difficult task as it involved comparisons of individuals from Class B, C and D schools.

This year's All-Area boys' track squad is made up of 10 athletes. Another 12 individuals were named to the honorable mention list. All competitors in the Nebraska State Track and Field Meet were picked to the team. Individuals were selected on a point system which gave points for state qualifications, best times and distances, tournament finishes and team contribution.

The girls' team was selected on the same basis but is larger because 16 girls qualified for state this year. The athletes represent the five Wayne Herald area schools: Allen, Laurel, Wakefield, Wayne and Winside.

The 1979 All-Area baseball team is composed of members of the three area high school baseball teams: Laurel, Wakefield and Wayne. The three teams were members of the Northeast Nebraska High School Baseball Conference and 11 of the athletes are All-Conference players.

Members of the All-Area team were selected on their 1979 performances and contributions to their team. Coaches All-Conference voting had some bearing on the results.

Only Wayne and Wakefield played golf on a competitive basis this season so the All-Area golf team was selected from these two teams. The top two golfers were named to the first team and two others were named honorable mention.

Neb. Sierra Club Will Discuss Nuclear Power

On June 13, the Nebraska Chapter of the Sierra Club will sponsor a public meeting on the pros and cons of nuclear power. The title of the discussion will be, "To Nuke or Not to Nuke." It will be held at Commercial Federal Savings & Loans Meeting Room, 6th and Norfolk Ave at 8 p.m., Norfolk, Ne.

Featured speakers will be Dr. Dan Schlitt, professor of physics at UNL and Dr. Eric Sloth, director of environmental affairs of NPPD.

Dr. Schlitt is a theoretical physicist. He received his B.S. from M.I.T. and his PhD from the University of Washington. He worked in experimental nuclear physics at MIT and for a time at Washington University, before shifting his interest to the theory of elementary particles. Since 1975, he has served as a spokesperson for those in Nebraska who question the wisdom of our national commitment to nuclear power.

Dr. Sloth received his B.S. in Physical Chemistry and his Masters Degree from the University of Illinois. He received his Ph.D. from the Illinois Institute of Technology. Sloth served in the Navy from 1940 to 1946. He was a research assistant at the University of Illinois, an instructor at UCLA and an associate scientist for Argonne National Laboratory until the project was terminated and he became the Environmental Manager for NPPD in 1971.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

WHILE ENTERING Wayne State's Rice Auditorium to play a game or two of racquetball with a friend, I ran into a group of Wayne High football players working out for the upcoming season. The athletes work out on their own during evenings, lifting weights and running to condition themselves for the upcoming season. They seem to be getting a pretty good jump on the fall season so they should be in shape when August rolls around.

Working out in their spare time is an excellent idea. Conditioning is an extremely important factor and something that takes a great deal of work. It is especially difficult for one individual to carry out a proper conditioning program. For that reason, the Wayne football program should be a successful one, bringing a large group together to work at one time.

SINCE THERE IS NO Town Team in Wayne this summer, the Wayne Baseball

Association is planning to make some improvements in the Wayne baseball field. They hope to renovate the backstop fence, improve the grandstand and dugouts and purchase an electric scoreboard for baseball and Little League football in the fall.

THE RECAP will be on vacation for about a week, relaxing and taking in the sun so until I return, as the Great Barnestormer Chuck Barnes would say: "That as he walked up the aisle is that"

TAGGED OUT at home! Darin Walker of Winside tried to score in Little League action against Wayne Thursday. Catcher Shannon Dorcey makes the tag for the third out of the inning while an unidentified Winside batter watches.

Specialist Says Families Losing Battle of Inflation

Nearly half of all American families have lowered their level of living to make ends meet in the last five years, according to Kathy Prochaska-Cue, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension family economic specialist.

And, she said, those "ends" won't be drifting much closer together in the near future. Inflation, rising prices for goods and services and tax increases are making personal economic situations more difficult to live with.

"It's safe to assume that one in four American families are experiencing some financial problems," the University of Ne braska Lincoln specialist said. "In many cases, income levels lag behind price increases."

Prochaska-Cue noted that of 1,247 families participating in a General Mills national survey, 45 percent indicated that inflation is having a serious impact on their family. Fifty-six percent felt insecure about their financial future and 54 percent reported that they argue about money.

Department of Labor figures for December 1978 show that prices for consumer goods and services rose 47 percent from 1973 to 1978 and 95.5 percent over the last 10 years. Taxes have increased 75 percent in the last five years, she said.

Partly because of these changes, Americans have made some adjustments in their spending patterns, Prochaska-Cue pointed out. Thirty-eight percent of families in the General Mills study said they had to dip into savings just to meet current bills. And while the average proportion of personal earnings going into savings was 7 percent 12 years ago, it now is about 4 percent, she said.

Americans are also spending a slightly smaller portion of their incomes on food and recreation compared to 10 years ago, she noted. However, due to rising costs, they are spending proportionately more on housing, utilities and transportation.

Unfortunately, she added, little relief is in sight. Private economists predict an inflation rate of at least 7.2 percent for 1980 and a slightly more favorable rate of 6.6 for 1981.

Nebraskans Big Cheese Nibblers

With more than 40 cheese varieties on the market, Nebraskans are annually nibbling their way through an estimated 12,500 tons (or 16 pounds per person) of the creamy milk product, according to Dr. Stanley Wallen, extension food technologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The University of Nebraska Lincoln specialist said that although people tend to munch on only one or two types of cheese, June, National Dairy Month, "is a good time to expand your cheese horizons."

Wallen made these tasty suggestions for the neophyte cheese taster:

For appetizers or snacks, almost any kind of cheese except some very hard, ripened varieties such as Romano and Sap Sago.

For salads: Cottage, Ricotta, Edam, Gouda, Blue or Cream. The last two are good in dressings.

For sandwiches: Cottage, Cream, Mozzarella, Monterey, Brie, Camembert, Brick, Muenster, Colby, Edam, Gouda, Provolone, Swiss, Cheddar and processed cheese.

In cooked dishes: Mozzarella, Provolone, Parmesan. These three also are popular in pizzas. Others include Cheddar, Ricotta and processed cheese.

Parmesan and Sap Sago are good grated for seasoning. Desserts: Cottage and Cream (for such things as cheese cake), Brie, Camembert, Limburger, Brick, Muenster, Port du Salut, Cheddar, Edam, Gouda and Blue. Slices of cheese with fresh fruit or crackers make a good dessert.

The penny wise buyer can expect to pay more for aged and sharp natural cheeses, imported and prepackaged cheeses, which have been sliced, cubed or grated, Wallen said.

The food scientist noted that pasteurized processed cheese, which is always in good supply, costs less than natural cheese.

As with other milk products, Wallen said cheese should be kept refrigerated for safe eating. Soft, unripened cheese, such as Cottage, Cream and Ricotta, will spoil if not used within a few days, while others will last several months.

"Keep cheese tightly wrapped so it won't dry out and watch for mold," Wallen said. "Small amounts of mold can be cut off and the rest of the cheese eaten."

Although freezing cheese is not recommended because it will become crumbly and meaty, Wallen said. Brick, Cheddar, Edam, Gouda, Muenster, Port du Salut, Provolone, Mozzarella and Camembert can be frozen in small pieces. Freeze the cheese in pieces one pound or less and not more than one inch thick.

He added that small quantities of Blue, Roquefort and Gorgonzola also can be frozen for salads or salad dressings where a crumbly texture is acceptable.

Cheese shouldn't be kept frozen for more than six months. At time of use, thaw the cheese slowly, preferably in the refrigerator.

New Trees, Shrubs Spruce Up Concord

The village of Concord will be sprouting a new look this summer as a result of a two-year tree removal and replacement project.

About 90 trees and shrubs were recently planted on city and private property to replace about 100 old, broken and dead trees which were removed in Concord during the summers of 1977 and '78.

Lower Elkorn Natural Resources District (NRD) provided $370.58 to the Concord Betterment Association for the tree project. Residents of the community volunteered their time, labor, and use of pickups and tractors to remove the old trees from city and private grounds.

Grand funds from the NRD were used to purchase 50 trees and shrubs for planting on city property.

The Concord Betterment Association also promoted tree planting on private grounds. Several residents took advantage of the Association's offer to order and pick up trees for resale to citizens for planting on their property. About 40 trees and shrubs have been planted by private citizens.

Dave Anderson and Gil Stuart, former NRD Foresters at the Northeast Station, Concord, made tree removal and replacement recommendations to the Concord Betterment Association as early as 1977.

Melvin Puhmann, president, and Mrs. Clarence Pearson, secretary of the Concord Betterment Association, have guided the project to its completion.

Retail sales state-wide have shown consistent improvement during 1978. The fourth quarter dollar volume increase was 16 percent above the fourth quarter for 1977. customers had to look elsewhere for fuel when his allotment was cut by the supplier during May.

Mern Mordhorst, Skelly supplier, said he was cut by some 12,000 gallons during May and this lost him customers. "It may be that I will never get them back because I couldn't deliver when the fuel was delivered," he commented. "This could be a real problem on down the road."

Mordhorst said one reason for the short supply was that farmers took to the fields at about the same time because of the weather.

"Some of them put two to three tractors in the fields to make up for lost time and this caused a high consumption in a short time," he pointed out.

He said his June allotment was down about 25 percent but expected to have 24,000 gallons. "But this figure could change on a week-to-week basis," he said.

Mordhorst said gasoline was not as big a problem and that he expects to be able to have fuel at the pumps, at least through June.

According to figures compiled at the County ASCS Office, indicated there should be about 97,000 gallons of diesel fuel available during June and 33,000 gallons of gasoline in Wayne County.

Most agreed the major crunch was over but they also said the shortage is far from over and there is going to be less fuel at a higher cost to the consumer in the weeks to come.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH from PHIL GRIESS

Motion sickness — whether from a boat, auto, or airplane — can be greatly lessened or eliminated with various proven drugs available today. Your doctor or druggist can recommend an appropriate one for you. The usual procedure is to take the anti-motion pill about an hour before exposure to the motion begins.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He sold very good hot dogs. He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and cried: "Buy a hot dog, Mister?" And people bought. He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him out. But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression. The foreign situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight. "You're right, son," the father said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

The Parable of The Chewing Gum Man*

It was common knowledge among his colleagues that William Wrigley, Jr. attributed the success of his chewing gum empire to constant and forceful advertising.

Once he was traveling to California on the famous but now extinct Super Chief with a young accountant from his firm. As they were reviewing the figures for a quarterly statement, the young man said, "Sir, Wrigley's gum is known and sold all over the world. We have a larger share of the market than all of our competitors combined. Why don't you now save the millions you are spending on advertising and shift those dollars into the profit column for the next quarter?"

Wrigley thought for a moment and then asked "Young man, how fast is this train going?"

"About sixty miles an hour," replied the young accountant.

And Wrigley asked, "Then why doesn't the railroad remove the engine and let the train travel on its own momentum?"

Moral: Cut your promotional dollars and you cut your own steam. Keep your momentum going with a regular advertising program in
