County's Net Taxable Sales Increase

Net taxable retail sales in Wayne County for the first quarter of 1979 showed a 16.2 percent increase over the same quarter a year ago.

A report by the Bureau of Business Research, College of Business Administration, University of Nebraska at Lincoln, showed that total net taxable sales for the county were $9,422,000 as compared to $8,107,000 a year ago.

The report used motor vehicles sales as an indicator pointing out that motor vehicle sales are recorded in counties in which the vehicles were first registered, regardless of point of sale. In addition to the county's substantial gain, the increase also was above the state average gain of 13.7 percent.

Region 11, of which Wayne County is a part, showed a 17.9 percent gain over the same quarter of 1978. Counties which make up the region and their percent of increase are as follows:

Antelope, up 19 percent from $6.17 million to $7.34 million; Madison, up 16.9 percent from $39.94 million to $46.685 million; Pierce, up 27.5 percent from $5.23 million to $6.67 million; Stanton, up 15.7 percent from $2.52 million to $2.92 million.

Statewide

Nebraska's net taxable sales were 13.7 percent above the total recorded during the first quarter of 1978. "This does not account for an estimated 10.1 percent inflation rate.

First quarter real retail sales, adjusted for price increases (inflation), were 3.2 percent above the level for first quarter of last year.

The state's two largest dollar volume regions, Region 1 and Region 2, were once again below the state's average in terms of retail sales gain.

The strongest retail markets in the state continued to be nonmetropolitan areas. This is a trend which emerged in 1978 and may be still developing, the report states.

However, it may be difficult to maintain the substantial increases in quarterly retail sales during the balance of 1979 because of the large increase recorded in the second, third and fourth quarters of 1978 the report concludes.

Tornado Information Re-Evaluated After Funnel Cloud Study

In the wake of recent tornadoes across the Midwest, authorities are re-evaluating traditional tornado preparedness recommendations, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension specialist, Rollie Schnieder.

Studies of tornadoes elsewhere in the United States seem to indicate that some National Weather Service recommendations may need to be re-examined.

For example, it has been previously recommended that people driving cars in the open country should travel away from the tornado's path at right angles, he said.

Path not fixed

But a tornado's path is not fixed and people's judgment under stress is not predictable. Also, cars are vulnerable to tornado damage, and what could initially be an attempt to escape the tornado's path could lead to injury or death, he noted.

The National Weather Service's recommendation for travelers in urban areas to abandon their vehicles and seek shelter in nearby buildings, culverts, underpasses or ravines, might be more applicable to all travelers, Schnieder said.

He said people should be advised to remain in their homes or other substantial structures — away from windows — even if the home or structure is in the path of a tornado rather than to evacuate the area in a vehicle.

In studies of tornadoes in Wichita Falls, Texas, most people were at home when the tornado hit. Even when houses were completely destroyed by a direct tornado hit, those who sought shelter indoors were at little risk or suffering a fatal injury, he said. By contrast, people caught in the open or in their cars were at much greater risk.

There were four major injuries, but no deaths, among residents of an 89-unit mobile home park which had no common cellar. Many of the residents sought shelter beneath a nearby underpass.

Cloud Knowledge

In general, knowledge of what types of storms spawn tornadoes and what cloud formations to look for is helpful, Schnieder said.

The ragged, trailing clouds of squall lines and certain other harmless phenomena are frequently mistaken for tornadoes, he noted. Organized rotary motion about a vertical axis is the clue to distinguishing harmless clouds and the funnel of a developing tornado, he explained.

Some tornadoes drop from a thunderstorm cloud without developing a visible funnel-shaped cloud of their own. These invisible whirlwinds become visible when picking up debris or dust from the ground, Schnieder said. The longer such a tornado touches the ground, the darker it becomes as pieces of material are lifted toward the thunderhead.

A tornado at night, or one hidden by low-hanging clouds, heavy rain or buildings can still be detected — its winds have a distinctive roar which can be heard for several miles, according to the specialist.

The sound has been described as that of a big jet aircraft or that of an approaching train.

Warnings issued

When storms are likely to occur, the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., issues watches for potentially threatened areas, he said.

A watch means tornadoes are possible, Schnieder explained. During a watch, people should be on the lookout for threatening weather, and listen to radio and television for more information.

Tornado warnings are issued by area National Weather Service offices when a tornado has been sighted or indicated by radar, he said.

Warnings describe the area that could be affected. When a warning is received, persons close to the storm should take cover immediately. Others should be prepared to take cover if threatening conditions are sighted, he said.

Schnieder listed these individual safety tips endorsed by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency:

Stay away from windows, doors, and outside walls. Protect your head. In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or interior part of the lowest level — closets, bathrooms or interior halls. Get under something sturdy.

In schools, nursing homes, hospitals, factories and shopping centers, go to designated shelter areas. Interior hallways on the lowest floor are usually best.

In high-rise buildings, go to interior small rooms or hallways.

Leave mobile homes or vehicles, and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine or culvert with your hands shielding your head.

John Wayne Subject of City Dedication Plan

The Chamber of Commerce and the City Council are toying with the idea of an honorary dedication of Wayne in memory of the late John Wayne.

The idea was first proposed by Chuck Barnes, official liaison for the Chamber with the city. Barnes, who also manages the Morning Stopper, says the plan is not to rededicate the city in the name of John Wayne, but to establish an honorary dedication in his memory.

At its last June meeting, the Council briefly discussed the idea with Barnes.

There was mostly negative reaction then from the Council which felt the plan would give the city a black eye.

But Barnes explained that the idea is to honor the late movie star and legend of the West, and at the same time "try to make people (in the Midwest) aware of Wayne, Neb."

"It's primarily a promotion of Wayne as namesake of John Wayne," Barnes continued. "We want to honor him in such a way that his name relates to Wayne, Neb."

Barnes said the Wayne Historical Society has shown some interest and had indicated it might consider setting aside an area to display mementos of John Wayne during some type of annual John Wayne promotion.

"The details could be worked out later, but we could establish 'John Wayne Days' or something similar to show appreciation for what John Wayne stood for," he added.

The Chamber Board of Directors has yet to make any formal comment on the matter. The proposal was not presented in time for discussion at its June meeting and will not come up again for action until the July meeting this Wednesday.

Public reaction, although disappointing in number, has been favorable, according to Barnes. When the idea was first publicized, Barnes explained, there was a misunderstanding that the city would be rededicated in the name of John Wayne. Once it was made clear that the idea is to honor the late actor, reaction became more favorable, he said.

History

Involved in the midst of the discussion is just how the city of Wayne and Wayne County were named.

According to the 1964 edition of "Nebraska Place Names" by Lillian L. Fitzpatrick, the county was named for Anthony Wayne, an American Revolutionary War general. The naming of the county was originated by a proclamation of Nebraska Gov. David Butler in 1870. Boundaries were defined and the county's organization legalized on March 4, 1871.

The book goes on to say that the city of Wayne was named after Wayne County.

The 1938 edition of "History of Wayne County, Nebraska" offers the following information:

LaPorte was the first town in Wayne County and was dedicated in 1869 as the county seat. It was a few years later that the railroad moved through the area missing the county seat of LaPorte.

As time went by, interest increased in the new town of Wayne, a short distance away, which was being serviced by the railroad. In 1882, a petition signed by 171 voters was presented to the county commissioners asking that a special election be held to vote on relocation of the county seat from LaPorte to Wayne.

Like all county seat removals, the book explains, the contest was bitter. But after several attempts by various interests to keep the county seat in LaPorte, the election was held and carried in favor of Wayne by a substantial majority.

While the reasons for naming Wayne County are clear, it has not been established exactly why the city of Wayne was named after the county was named. It appears the city was in existence before LaPorte was moved, although this, too, is not clear.

'Mad' Anthony Wayne

There is considerable discussion around Wayne that "Mad Anthony Wayne," for which the county was named, was a loner.

This could not be farther from the truth, according to the 1974 edition of "Webster's American Biographies."

Anthony Wayne (1745-1796), served in the Pennsylvania Assembly from 1774-1775 and when the Revolutionary War began he was commissioned a colonel.

In 1777, he was commissioned a Brigadier General and because of his tactical business and his personal courage in the field (which some of his fellow officers called recklessness), Wayne was often called "Mad Anthony."

According to the book, "his worth was recognized on all sides and for his story

Point exploits he received congratulations from Gen. George Washington and the Continental Congress. A medal was struck in his honor later.

Anthony Wayne was largely responsible for liberating Georgia from the British and he also was involved in the final Indian uprising in the Ohio Valley. Records show the farthest west Anthony traveled before his death was Fort Wayne in what later was to be called Indiana.

So where the mystery exists is why, hundreds and hundreds of miles away, was Wayne County, Nebraska, named after Gen. Mad Anthony Wayne?

The Chamber office and Barnes are seeking input concerning the proposal to honorarily dedicate the city in memory of John Wayne.

Crash Is Fatal To Winside Man

A fiery one-car crash resulted in death for Ronald Wells, 19, Winside, shortly after the accident at 1:50 a.m. Wednesday just west of the Goodyear plant west of Norfolk.

According to the Nebraska State Highway Patrol, Wells was westbound on a half-mile county road when he apparently lost control of his car. The vehicle then rolled into the north ditch and caught fire.

The fire was caused by a ruptured gasoline tank, according to the Norfolk Fire Department.

Services for Wells were held Saturday afternoon at Peace United Church of Christ near Norfolk, the Rev. B. Roy Brown officiating in the Spring Branch Cemetery near the church.

A construction company employee, he was born April 7, 1960, at Plainview and attended schools in Hoskins and Winside.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Darlene Rosendahl of North Platte; his father, Donald Wells, of Norfolk; his sister, Mrs. Winside and Darin of North Platte; three sisters, Mrs. Delmar Jensen and Mrs. Eugene Jensen, both of Winside; and Mrs. Kurt Brudigan of Norfolk.

Community Choir Organized Here

Thirty-three people met to organize a community choir at a meeting Thursday night. Purpose of the choir is to sing light music to be used in concerts and community performances.

The choir is open to any interested persons of high school age or older. Those who want to participate should call Cindy Nigh at 375-4679, or come to the next meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 17, at the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Farmers to File Gas Requests

Alden Johnson, chairperson of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, reminds farmers, food processors, food distributors and other agricultural concerns desiring protection against natural gas curtailments to file a written priority request with their supplier no later than July 15.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) originally designated June 15 as the last day for this requirement but extended it by one month.

"Users of interstate natural gas have been certified by the Secretary of Agriculture to be prioritized up to the full requirement against curtailment," Johnson said.

The request should include: Name and address; intended end uses and volumes of natural gas needed; natural gas purchases for most recent 12 months for which records are available; documentation to support calculation of needs. Others are standard industrial classification (SIC) code numbers such as 01 for crops and 02 for livestock; and signature swearing or affirming to accuracy of the request.

Johnson suggested that local natural gas suppliers be contacted concerning procedures for obtaining agricultural priority. If additional assistance is needed, our State and county offices will soon have information regarding eligible essential agricultural uses, as well as a suggested format for filing, the ASC official said.

Britain the Radicals; U.S. the Oppressors

Only a few years ago, the National Chamber was the first to predict the coming of a new conservative age. Many of the so-called experts disagreed; but we were convinced, because every day we were hearing more complaints from people exasperated by inflation, runaway taxes and government bureaucracy. It wasn't long before others were saying pretty much the same thing.

In 1976, Jimmy Carter began cultivating these frustrations and quickly engineered a series of upsets over prominent liberals in the Democratic primaries. Carter campaigned as the outsider who would slay the bureaucracy, reduce welfare fraud and balance the budget. Among his more than 600 promises he pledged to drastically simplify the income tax system so that taxes on middle-income families could be reduced. And he specifically pledged: "I would never increase taxes for the working people of our country and the lower and middle-income groups. . . and you can depend on that if I am elected."

About that time, Margaret Thatcher, who is now Prime Minister of England, was also gaining national recognition by attacking bureaucracy, taxes and regulation. And with Britain hit by paralyzing strikes, she criticized excessive union power as well. So when you consider their backgrounds and listen to their promises, you might think these two leaders have a lot in common. Look again. Look at each one's performance; the differences are inescapable.

Mrs. Thatcher wants to make a clean break with the past because she's seen how socialism nearly destroyed her country. She will push for economic growth by promoting more freedom for individuals; rather than more power for the state. The same does not hold for President Carter. He has moved, systematically and dramatically, to increase the power of the federal government over the American people. Yet because he retains his campaign rhetoric and style, much of the public and the media still consider him a conservative.

People get confused. First, the President demanded his cabinet officers read all the regulations issued by their own departments. Then, he requested whopping increases for regulatory budgets, proposed a new Department of Education, a new Department of Natural Resources and a new Department of Energy. The latter, now alive and well, thrives on an annual budget of some $11 billion, produces no energy but an energy shortage, and adds about nine cents to every gallon of gasoline we buy.

Most of us can still picture the President's first prime time address on energy. Dressed in a cardigan and seated before a crackling fire, he called for voluntary sacrifice and conservation. But the substance of his proposals actually represented what commentator Nicholas Von Hoffman called: "The most massive and minute peacetime intervention in business, industry and private life since the New Deal."

staff members first lost their limousine privileges. Then were granted huge salary increases — increases, incredibly, rationalized as a savings. Despite claims of reductions by presidential spokesmen, the current White House staff is, about the same size as President Ford's; its budget is almost twice as big.

And the contradictions continue: An austere federal budget, we are told, demonstrates the administration's commitment to fight inflation. Not quite. Federal spending has ballooned by nearly 25 percent in the last two years, driving inflation back to double-digit levels. And the bottom line is this: Last year, American workers suffered the steepest tax increases in post-war history. Their take-home pay buys less today than in 1976. — But the administration now claims inflation prevents it from granting us a tax cut.

Margaret Thatcher's government is young. Faces tremendous difficulties and could fall. But already her policies are exhilaratingly bold. She is moving to denationalize industrial concerns, freeze the growth of the bureaucracy and slash government spending. Anyone willing to work harder will benefit from steep tax cuts.

Mrs. Thatcher believes people's earnings belong to them, not to their government. My, my, haven't we all come a long way. For weren't we the ones who originated that idea more than 200 years ago? In those days, we were the radicals and the British were the oppressors. What about now?

Emergency Medical Plan Developed

The Nebraska state plan for Emergency Medical Services has been developed based on the overall goal of emergency medical services to eliminate avoidable death and disability resulting from serious injury and life threatening illness.

In Nebraska, almost 400 persons die annually as a result of motor vehicle accidents and 1,500 succumb to heart attacks. Another 400 Nebraskans die yearly from non-vehicular accidents such as burns (37), falls (124), drownings (33), farm related (45), and other (159). Homocides and suicides claim another 200 lives. Deaths from other causes which are potentially avoidable number 2,000 or more. Add to this the even larger numbers of persons who are permanently impaired as the consequence of serious injury and acute life threatening illness and one can see the magnitude of the problem.

The components of the state plan for EMS include: manpower training, transportation transfer, communications, facilities critical care units, access to care, consumer participation, consumer information, education, public safety agencies, mutual aid, disaster and evaluation.

As envisioned, an EMS system has three functions: to detect the onset or occurrence of a life or limb threatening injury or illness, to bring the patient into contact with the appropriate medical care elements of the health care system, to administer emergency medical care.

The plan details the goals, problems, broad objectives and current year objectives which have been developed based on the following statements of EMS system functions:

Since members of the public are usually the first to encounter a medical emergency, the public must be informed and educated in detection of these incidents, how to activate the response element of the EMS system, and what first aid measures should be taken until professional help arrives.

When the ambulance arrives at the scene, provision of physician-determined and physician-controlled emergency medical care to support life and prevent further harm must be initiated.

In the event that patient transfer for definitive care is desirable, adequately trained and equipped personnel, operational protocols, communications and vehicles must be available to carry out this secondary transport process.

The state plan is designed to assist each of Nebraska's six EMS areas (Panhandle, High Plains, Central, Northern, Southeast and Midlands). In continued development and operation of EMS systems which provide citizens and travelers exemplary emergency medical care

YOU AND YOUR CAR

The auto industry is faced with a severe shortage of trained mechanics and the situation probably is going to get worse, reports the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

Criticism by government officials has been blamed for mechanics leaving the trade.

"We get blasted so often that the motoring public now looks on us as a bunch of crooks," said one shop owner. "No wonder we're having trouble attracting new talent and keeping those we now have."

Another shop owner, fed up with the attacks, wrote the following sarcastic letter to his local newspaper:

"Due to the complete dishonesty and lack of integrity of the automotive repairers, it is time for our legislators — in their infinite wisdom — to rule them illegal.

"Think of the money those fellows take out of circulation. If I could go a long way toward curbing inflation, we no longer would have the nasty chore of having our car repaired. We couldn't!!"

Car repair speakseys would prevail. Little old ladies with axes could again come down like the wolf on the fold and break up air compressors. Mechanics in trench coats could ply their trade in dark alleys, if they paid protection.

"Our long weekends could be spent sitting in our immobile autos listening to the stereo, if it works."

Despite attacks on the auto repair industry by U.S. Transportation Secretary Brock Adams and other high-ranking government officials, the federal government has ended its Auto Mechanic Apprenticeship Training Initiative program, which was designed to bring more qualified mechanics into the fold.

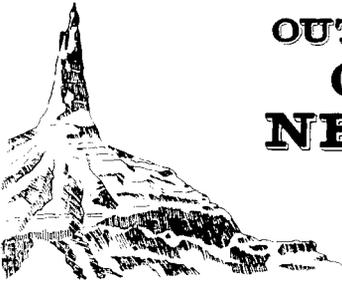

One industry estimate says that more than 270,000 persons must be trained to perform proper engine maintenance before the entire U.S. vehicle population can be maintained according to specifications recommended by the vehicle manufacturers.

To put this into perspective, it should be noted that the U.S. has a ratio of about 250 privately owned vehicles per mechanic, compared with 63 vehicles per mechanic in England and 74 per mechanic in Japan.

America's freedom of mobility, still the envy of the world, could be hampered if the government harangues continue, said AIC.

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

by the
Nebraska State Historical Society

Plans for July 4, 1879, celebrations in Lincoln were urged by an interested Lincolnite in the May 20, 1879, "Daily Nebraska State Journal," on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Lincoln, Neb. May 19 Editor Journal Show me a man in this glorious city of Lincoln who has enough of the old-fashioned patriotism still planted in him to step forth and call a meeting of the citizens of this burg, preparatory to a great and glorious Fourth of July celebration. Last year the fourth came and went just the same as all other days, and all the demonstration that was made was a few rockets sent up by private individuals at their residences.

Some breathe a sigh of regret, while others breathe a sigh of relief, and so on. The small boys, and the large ones too, were up early in the morning and before sun rise 2:22 P.M. began to sound all over the city and the same was kept up till the small hours of the morning of the fifth.

"This is the day of the year to young America it beats Christmas all hollow, for it is the only day in the year that they are permitted to let off their patriotism, and worry the old folks to death with their noise, and scare them out of a year's growth in their unsuccessful attempts to fire the city.

"But during the middle part of the day quietness was almost supreme. The great majority of the citizens went out to some of the country resorts, no celebrating being done in town not even an oration. Some went with the Congregationalists to River side Grove, some to Woodlaw, while others felt they would be better satisfied at the shooting tournament or the races. A good many went to see the convicts celebrate at the penitentiary, and many had private picnics of their own. Unlike most Fourth's of July, it was not so tremendously hot that breathing was an effort, but in every respect was a lovely day, and everybody and their friends were happy.

"The races in the afternoon drew quite a good crowd, but not as large as the enterprise deserved. A goodly number of the fair sex were there, and everything passed off in a very enjoyable manner.

"Quite a pleasant gathering took place at the beautiful Riverside Grove. This was the Congregational Church gathering, although not confined to that church alone quite a sprinkling of outsiders being present. About three hundred went out there and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Ice cream, cake, lemonade and eatables of all kinds were plentiful. They also had some good singing, boat riding, fishing, swinging and other games and enjoyments were entered into by all.

"At the penitentiary the convicts will not forget the Fourth for some time to come. For one day the convicts were men - treated as men, talked to as men, and the rigid discipline of the institution relaxed as much as possible. Of course they had no "go to meeting" clothes, but to meeting they came in their everyday garb. They marched into the hall which is used as a church, seated themselves at the word of command, and then Brown's Lincoln band burst forth with the glorious strains of the star spangled banner. Mr. O.A. Mulfon was then introduced by Mr. Nobes (warden), and addressed the gathering. Another band, and sub-band from the band, and Mr. L.W. Billingsley took up the thread of the discourse. Another tune from the band, and the prisoners then marched back to the cell house, where they dined — roast lamb, new potatoes, huckleberry pie and lemonade — such as would have made a feast anywhere. There was no work during the day, and in the cool retreat of their cells the prisoners each enjoyed the unwonted luxury of a couple of cigars."

Board of Directors Announces Future Plans for Arts Council

The Board of Directors of the Wayne Regional Arts Council met last week and voted to budget an initial $125 towards the purchase of music for the Wayne Community Choir, which is affiliated with the Arts Council.

The board also decided to provide two admissions to Community Theatre performances to persons who contribute $10 to the Arts Council. Four admissions are being given to $25 memberships, and $50 and $100 contributors will receive eight admissions.

Mrs. Jane O'Leary, a member of the Arts Council, said portions of these contributions will go specifically to help support the Community Theatre.

Mrs. O'Leary announced that the fund raising drive from businesses is well underway. Businesses who donate $25 or more will be listed in each membership class on printed programs and will receive theatre admissions; and all other membership benefits.

The need for a building to be used as an art center also was discussed by the board. Mrs. O'Leary said a downtown location is needed to provide community art displays on a continuing basis as well as to provide rehearsal and workshop space.

Activities being planned by the Arts Council for the remainder of the summer include a puppet show for families, a guitar workshop and a photography class. The Wayne Community Theatre dinner presentation, "Carnival," will be staged Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9.

In the fall the Arts Council will help in the construction of playground equipment at the Wayne Middle School.

Mrs. O'Leary said the Arts

Council will also consider holding workshops in area communities that express an interest.

Any individual or group interested in any aspect of the arts is invited to join the Wayne Regional Arts Council. Individual memberships begin at $2.50 ($1.25 for Senior Citizens). Larger donations are welcome.

Membership checks should be made payable to the Wayne Regional Arts Council and sent to Mrs. O'Leary, chairman, 908 Circle Dr., in Wayne.

Wayne Sweeps Emerson

The Wayne Juniors scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning on key base hits by Jeff Dion and Jeff Zeiss to edge Ralph Bishop League opponent Emerson 2-1, Friday night.

Wayne's Dennis Carroll and Emerson's Jeff Utermark displayed their pitching skills in the game and both teams played fine defense with only one error being committed. Carroll recorded a two-hitter while Utermark threw a four-hitter.

Emerson scored its run in the top of the third inning on a double by Lowe that scored Jensen. Wayne didn't threaten to score until the fifth inning when the Juniors put together the winning rally.

Mark Ganseboom started the attack with a walk and Jerry Goeden followed with a single. Dion earned an RBI with a single which scored Ganseboom. Zeiss then poked a double to score Goeden for the go-ahead run. Defense was the name of the game and Wayne showed solid defense, although committing one error in the sixth inning.

Wayne didn't let Emerson's lone runner in the sixth inning get past second base and then retired the next six batters to preserve a 2-1 win. Wayne coach Hank Overin said that his Legion team is playing good fundamental baseball without making mental mistakes. Tim Thomas will be out for the remainder of the season after snapping a tendon about a week ago.

Tim Pfeiffer continued his success on the pitching mound as he struckout 11 batters while pitching a four-hit shutout over Emerson at home Friday night.

Emerson threatened to score in the second inning with runners on second and third and one out, but Pfeiffer put an end to the threat with two strikeouts. Wayne recorded only one hit in the first three innings but the bats came alive in the fourth inning.

Granddaughter Is Tennis Star

Gréchen Torres of Los Alamitos, New Mexico, and granddaughter of Mrs. Laura Banister of Wayne, is on her way to becoming a sensation in Southwest U.S. tennis.

The 12-year-old visits Wayne each summer and plays on the Wayne State College tennis courts with her cousin. Two weeks ago, the youngster played in the Southwest Tennis Association Junior Sectional Closed Championships in Tucson.

She completed in 12 and under singles in the tournament and teamed up with friend Denise Ruelas of Albuquerque in the doubles competition. That marked the first time in history that anyone from New Mexico reached the championship finals.

Miss Torres lost in singles to the number one ranked Southwest player and her doubles team also lost to the number one ranked doubles team.

Four Baseball Wins Earned by Wayne Boys

Wayne's Little League teams picked up four wins and one loss in the last week, losing only to Emerson's 14 and under team.

Wayne 15, Thurston 3 — Jeff Sherer and Brad Moore teamed up to pitch a three-hitter for an easy win. Sherer struckout all three batters he faced in the first inning and then yielded his mound position to Moore. Moore fanned 10 batters in the next four innings, allowing three runs in the top of the fifth. Providing the offensive spark for the winners were Steve Overin, Cory Lesenberg and Kevin Koening.

Jorgenson pitched a three-hitter and the Wayne offense exploded for 11 runs on 13 hits. Leading hitters for Wayne's Pony League were Pfeiffer, McCright, Jorgenson and Chad Dorsey. McCright scored three runs and blasted a triple and two singles as the leading individual batter.

Goeden Pitches Victory In Split With Norfolk

Jerry Goeden fired a four-hit shutout and the Wayne Legion team took advantage of its two hits to score one run and win a 1-0 battle over Norfolk Thursday night in Wayne.

Goeden limited Norfolk to one hit in the first inning, one in the third, one in the fifth and one in the seventh, preventing Norfolk from putting together an attack all night. Norfolk's biggest threats came in the first and seventh innings with runners on third but the Wayne defense tightened to protect the shutout.

Wayne's second baseman Dave Schwartz made a good catch of a line shot in the first inning.

The locals produced a run in the bottom of the third for the only score they needed. Jeff Sperry walked and stole second base to get into scoring position. Mark Ganseboom hammered a line shot into the outfield but the center fielder made the catch for the second out of the inning. Jeff Zeiss, then singled and the first baseman made an error, allowing Sperry to score from third base.

Tom Ginn recorded a single in the sixth inning for the only other Wayne hit but Wayne couldn't get another run across the plate. Instead, the defense held for the final out with Norfolk runners on first and third in the seventh for a 1-0 win, giving Norfolk's pitcher Schacher a tough loss. Wayne right fielder Jeff Dion made a shoestring catch in the seventh to prevent a Norfolk run.

Midgets Lose

Norfolk's bats were blazing as the invaders collected 10 hits and 13 runs to hand the Wayne Midgets a 13-3 loss in five innings by the 10 run rule Thursday night.

Pat McCright put on a one man show for the locals, with three hits in three plate appearances while batting in the seventh position. He scored one of the three Wayne runs. The only other hit for the local Midgets was made by leadoff batter Jerre Morris. McCright, Morris and Doug Proett scored the three Wayne runs.

Norfolk jumped out on top with five runs in the first inning off of starting pitcher Kevin Nissen. Wayne managed one run in the bottom of the first inning but with four more runs in the third and Morris' scored one more for Wayne for a 9-2 count.

Three runs off of relief pitcher Proett put Norfolk way out in front and one run by McCright in the bottom of the fourth was hardly a consolation. Norfolk added one final run in the fifth for a 13-3 win by the 10-run rule.

Pattersons Are In Love With Moto-Cross

Dave and Mike Patterson of Hoskins are just like any other pair of brothers in a small northeast Nebraska town. Except when it comes to hobbies. The Pattersons are hooked on moto-cross racing.

"We got started racing about mid-season last year and we hate to miss a weekend of racing now," said 14-year-old Dave. "We race because it's a good, fun hobby and we like cycles and winning trophies."

The Patterson brothers have 21 trophies in their bedroom. Thirteen are Dave's winnings and eight are 11-year-old Mike's. Dave has won three races while his younger brother has two second place trophies to represent his highest finish. Both drive 80 cc mini-bikes.

Dave first began cycling when his dad Jim, who works at B & B Cycle, brought home a Honda mini-bike, many years ago. He immediately learned how to handle the bike and became a "veteran" mini-bike driver. After mastering the 50, Dave decided it was time Mike learned how to ride. He started Mike on the cycle for the first time and was running behind, making sure his little brother didn't run into any difficulties.

When Mike figured he had the cycle mastered, he yelled at his parents so they could witness his accomplishment. At about the time they looked, the cycle drove into a bush with Mike holding on. He was uninjured by the small accident.

One day, Jim decided that Dave was ready for a larger cycle and brought home a Yamaha Y230, an 80 cc mini-bike. He also brought home a moto-cross racing schedule with the cycle. Dave understood his dad's hint and began racing at Green Valley Moto-X Track, northwest of Norfolk.

Once Dave started racing, it didn't take Mike long to follow in his brother's footsteps. Dave is now driving a 1979 Yamaha while Mike drives his 1978 model, which had belonged to Dave. Dave is in his final year of eligibility in the mini-bike division and must decide whether to drive a 125 cc or 175 cc motor cycle in races next year. Meanwhile, Mike will continue to race in the mini-bike class until he's 14 years old.

The brothers race on tracks at Norfolk, Yankton, Genoa and Sioux City, reaching speeds as high as 50 miles per hour at times. The entry fee at the races is $5 or $6 per contestant. The track at Norfolk is one and three-quarters of a mile long while many of the other tracks are about one mile long. All of the tracks are cross country, with sharp turns, hills and straightaways.

"I was really scared the first time I raced," recalled Dave. "An 80 cc mini-bike was big then and I had butterflies all the way to the track. I wasn't afraid of my first jump though because I had jumped off of culverts at home with my 50. I felt like I was on top of the world with my first jump in a race."

Dave jumps about 15 feet in length with his mini-bike and about five or six feet off the ground. Mike is still learning to jump and reaches much shorter distances when he races.

The Patterson boys pointed out that one disadvantage of racing is the cost. In addition to entry fees, equipment costs, gasoline costs and repair costs must be figured in. They said they hope to continue racing for many years if costs don't get too outrageous.

Recounting his racing career, Dave said that his worst experience was when he fell off a hill with a brand new cycle in a race at Genoa. Mike said that his worst experience was a completely different situation. "I had a flat tire for a whole race one time and got beat by a girl. It was humiliating," said Mike. "Everyone kidded me about getting beat by a girl. My best racing friend kidded me the worst."

Mike usually competes against 13 or 14 racers in the mini-bike 'B' division while Dave competes against five or six racers in the 'A' division. The 'A' division is generally tougher competition with older, more experienced drivers while the 'B' division often consists of younger, less experienced drivers.

In addition to the fun of competition, moto-cross racing is more than just a hobby to pass time according to the Patterson brothers. Mike said that win or lose, racing gives the boys an opportunity to meet many new kids and make friendships. At the same time, the boys are learning sportsmanship and mechanics.

The two boys read a book on racing and often spend hours working on their cycles. Dave, singlehandedly prepares his bike for races, making piston, cylinder and carburetor repairs. Mike is learning from watching his brother.

Although the boys have participated in many races, neither has been injured seriously. Mike has received minor scraped and Dave's worst injury was minor when he wiped out at a Genoa sky jump. Both racers take precautions before racing. They wear helmets, leather suits, knee and shin pads, moto-cross boots, kidney belts, chest protectors and goggles.

Dave pointed out that both boys always wear helmets, even when riding with friends. "One of my best friends had a head on collision with another cycle and I watched him land in a pool of blood," Dave said. Mike said that he was once driving cycles with a friend, who said they didn't need helmets. Mike wore his anyway and was glad he did. "I hit a chuck hole and flipped my bike," he said.

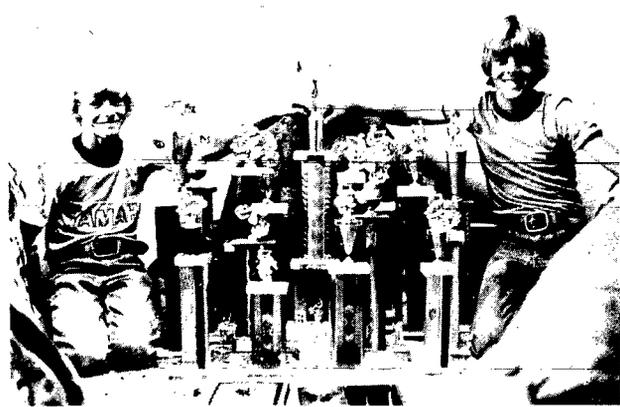

"It landed on my head but my helmet protected me."

The Pattersons recalled one time when their mother found a 50 cc mini-bike. "She ran into a tractor tire and dumped the bike in front of Dad and us," the boys chuckled. "We ran after the cycle instead of Mom."

Moto-cross racing in the Patterson family will probably not end with Dave and Mike. The two boys have a younger brother named Judd, who will be three years old in August. The boys feel that Judd will follow in their footsteps. "Whenever we go visit Dad at B & B, Judd jumps on a mini-bike and pretends he's driving it," Dave said. "One time the bike was gone and he went crazy trying to find it."

Dave and Mike both agreed that when they grow up and have families, they will start their children — boys or girls — in moto-cross racing.

"I'm going to keep racing as long as I can," Mike added. "But I don't want to be like Evil Knievel, he's crazy."

New Card, Envelope Sizes Are Effective Next Week

July 15 is the deadline mailers have to use up small and undersized envelopes and cards. Wayne Postmaster Wilbur Giese reminds customers.

Starting that date, the postal service makes its new size standards effective. Cards and envelopes measuring less than 3/2 inches high or 5 inches long no longer will be mailable and will be returned to sender. Extra larger first-class envelopes — more than 6 1/2 by 11 1/2 inches — will incur a 7-cent surcharge if they weigh one ounce or less.

Postmaster Giese advises these oversized pieces will be returned to the sender if they do not carry the seven-cent surcharge but can be remailed if the surcharge postage then is affixed. However, delays for these pieces can be avoided if mailers make sure that sufficient postage has been applied.

The new regulation also will prohibit thin or flimsy cards. After July 15, the cards must be at least seven thousandths (.007) of an inch thick.

"Small envelopes and flimsy cards tend to jam mail processing equipment and cause damage to other mail as well," explained Postmaster Giese. "The surcharge on oversize or odd-shaped pieces is intended to cover the added cost of handling such pieces which must be processed manually," he said. "These standards have been established to allow the Postal Service to process mail more efficiently and give you better service for customers."

Motorized bicycles (mopeds) are attracting older riders with an median age of 44 years. About 20 percent of moped owners are 55 or older.
