Wire, Pliers, Patience and Talent Turn Idle Moments Into Puzzles

By Darwin Rubeck

Some wire, a pair of needlenose pliers, and patience is all you need to turn idle minutes into entertainment for hours. Art Mallum, a retired street commissioner from Wakefield, has done just that. He makes various puzzles out of wire and a few from wood and string. The 77-year-old Mallum began making puzzles about eight years ago after a visit to relatives in Grand Island. "My grandchildren had gotten a wire tricycle from a neighbor so I went and bought one for myself," Mallum said. "I thought they were interesting so I began making them myself." Mallum's favorite is the wire tricycle, which is made in two parts; the wheels and frame make up one piece with the handlebars making up the other. "It takes me 45 minutes to an hour to make one," Mallum said. "If I'm in the practice." A Wakefield resident since 1939, Mallum has made and sold several hundred wire tricycles as well as many other types of puzzles. "I've sold over one hundred to one man," he said, adding, "and he in turn gives them or sells them to friends." The puzzles make great gifts for children or novelty items for grown-ups, too. "I used to carry one or two downtown with me and people would see them and want to buy them," Mallum said. "I've sold many of them in that manner." "The tricycle is the most complicated to make, but not the most complicated to figure out," he explained. The trick to the tricycle is to try and take the handlebars off and then put them back on "right! That may sound simple, but until you try it yourself, don't laugh at anyone who can't get it right." Mallum likes to sit out in his front yard, and on any given day you'll find some of the neighborhood children flocked around him, fascinated by the many puzzles he makes.

School Budget Under Lid Limit

Wayne-Carroll School District taxpayers will have a chance to comment on a proposed 1979-80 budget of $1.87 million at 8 p.m. Monday at a public hearing during regular board of education meeting at the high school. Total budget asking is $1,873,909 and compares to last year's budget requirements of $1,814,980, a difference of $58,929. Supt. Francis Haun said the coming year's budget was prepared under a 7 percent "lid" restriction on revenues as mandated by the Nebraska Legislature. The lid was imposed in 1978 and amended in 1979 to allow for growth more than 7 percent for energy requirements, special education and social security. Total tax asking Total tax asking for the budget is estimated at $1,137,175 and compares to $1,053,549 last year. This year's tax requirements include $46,737 for the sinking (special building) fund and $55,060 for bonds, interest and retirement allowances, Haun explained. Total property tax asking is $1,035,378 but includes $9,955 for county treasurer's collection fee (as required by law) and $29,866 to cover delinquent taxes. Major expenses for the coming year include $790,843 for regular salaries of teachers, an increase of $36,953 over the previous year's salary figure; $63,516 for regular salaries of the administration, an increase of $7,072; an estimated $31,500 for fuel and $22,500 for electricity to operate facilities, a total of $10,700 more than was budgeted last year. Another major increase was in transportation costs. Gas and oil needs jumped $4,700 and bus repairs and maintenance increased $2,500. Superintendent Haun noted that the $46,737 needed for the sinking fund will be used for replacement of windows at Middle School and improvements at the elementary playground. The cash reserve picture continues to be healthy, Haun noted, with an estimated $300,000 in reserve. This saves the school district from having to borrow money when there is a low tax flow since taxes are collected only twice a year, he said. Some decreases There were some areas where the budget asking actually decreased, the supertendent noted. Requirements in the bond, interest and retirement fund fell some $28,000 due primarily to the bonds on the elementary school being paid off earlier this year. The only bonds left to be retired are for the high school. An estimated $50,000 is needed for principal on the bonds for the coming year, and $12,600 for interest. The balance is $385,000. Other decreases included $655 for furniture and equipment under instructional services; $225 under pupil supplies; $120 under the district's share of health insurance; $350 under general administration supplies; $400 under water and sewer for operation of facilities; $600 under repair and maintenance of buildings; $500 under furniture and equipment for buildings. Lid limit As noted previously, the 1979-80 district budget was developed under a 7 percent limit on receipts, net expenditures. This is a requirement of the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979. The Legislature has provided each school district with a formula to use in determining the limit. Briefly, it is as follows: Anticipated budget receipts for each of the previous two fiscal years (1977-78 and 1978-79) first are compiled. Each of these two figures then is multiplied by 107 percent. Once these figures are compiled, the greater of the two is again multiplied by 107. This is the figure which cannot be exceeded by anticipated receipts. In compiling anticipated receipts for the 1979-80 fiscal year, Superintendent Haun combined local tax sources and state tax sources. Exclusions (for social security, fuel and for first-year pre-school special education programs) are subtracted from this figure. The resulting figure cannot exceed seven percent of the anticipated 1979-80 budgeted receipts. According to this method, the Wayne-Carroll district budget is $30,732.43 short of the limit. In other words, the budget for the coming fiscal year could increase more than $30,000 and still be within state-ordered limits.

Rules, Regulations Protect Public's Interest

(Editor's Note: The city of Wayne is considered one of the more progressive Class A communities in the state. Industry is beginning to recognize Wayne as a viable site in which to locate satellite facilities. Construction is a multi-million dollar business here. As a result, the city is experiencing "growing pains." New ideas are being presented on the development of subdivisions; cheaper methods of construction are being proposed by developers; and the city is faced with providing expert guidance with the best interests of the public in mind. City Administrator Darrell Brewington has agreed to comment on the city's philosophy regarding construction standards and the reasons for adopting a schedule of rules and regulations.) Wayne, as do most other communities in the country, periodically adopt building rules—called codes—which legally direct how a particular structure is to be built. These codes—such as the uniform electrical, uniform plumbing and uniform building codes—are based on engineering and technical knowledge which assures quality workmanship and materials during actual construction. Elected city officials enforce these rules and codes as part of their responsibility to the public. In enforcing these, officials protect the citizen from developers or contractors who otherwise might use sub standard and/or poor methods of building. Insurance One of the benefits in enforcing these codes involves insurance, Brewington said. An individual's house or business insurance will cost less when building is done with uniform, quality requirements, he explained. There are other equally important benefits, Brewington said. Regarding public improvements (construction of streets, water and sewer lines, sidewalks, storm drains etc.), elected city officials, the city by law to determine the quality of construction and materials needed. Improvements in small cities often are accomplished by creating an assessment district, Brewington explained. When this happens, the city has its engineer prepare plans and specifications using the city's standards which may or may not be written. As a city grows, developers oftentimes build subdivisions of various sizes. Under the law, the subdivision must have streets, water and sewer, etc. built and later dedicated to the public. Once this is done, the city, using taxpayer's dollars, must maintain and repair the public improvements forever. Brewington added, "Again, when an assessment district is created to pay for public improvements, the city, through its engineer, controls the quality of construction. However, if a developer elects to pay for the improvements, he normally would have his own engineer prepare plans and specifications at the developer's direction. When this happens, the city must review the developer's plans and specifications to be sure they are up to the standards and quality the city would require for its own construction. "To accept substandard construction could require the unnecessary spending of tax dollars to correct construction failures. Property owners could be subjected to unneeded expense for the same reason. Adherence to standards is just one of the many ways your city protects the public's interest," Brewington explained. "Enforcement of these codes has a direct benefit to all of our citizens," Brewington said.

Trustees Approve New Computers, Budget

Computer upgrading and several 1980-81 budget requests for the Nebraska State Colleges were approved by the colleges' Board of Trustees at their Saturday meeting in Lincoln. The computer upgrading approval was the result of a recommendation from a board-appointed task force to lease computers, made feasible by the Burroughs Corporation, at each state college. Wayne State will be the first to install the new equipment, beginning in late December, followed by Kearney and Chadron in February. The Peru State system will not be altered in the current plans. The new computer system is designed to upgrade and strengthen college computer capabilities and programs and to make the individual computer systems more compatible for instructional and administrative needs. The system will increase WSC's computer efficiency by 300 percent at no additional cost due to new developments in computer technology. The board also voted to request about $4.65 million from the Legislature for

1980-81 capital construction. The request will include $771,251 for the second phase of renovations on the Wayne State humanities and education buildings. A Buildings and Grounds Subcommittee of the board recommended that a project cost request of $2.3 million be submitted, after board approval, to the Legislature for the humanities and education buildings project, with a specific request for the $771,251 for use in 1980-81. Under the capital construction request, WSC also would receive a percentage of $500,000 requested for the four colleges for miscellaneous renovations, a percentage of another $150,000 to initiate projects to adapt WSC facilities for the handicapped and about $78,450 for asphalt covering for parking lots. The board approved the use of just more than $276,500 for instructional improvement projects at the four colleges, including nearly $60,000 specifically for WSC. Among other uses, those WSC funds will be used in 1979-80 for pursuing faculty development in computer technology, professional development, faculty exchange and academic advising. Also approved in the instructional improvement funds were professional development grants, production center funds, a post in the schools program and additional faculty. In other action regarding WSC, the board:

MALLUM makes it look simple as he demonstrates one of the more complicated puzzles, that of removing a heart-shaped wire from a series of loops and circles. He spends many of his idle hours creating and recreating mind-teasers.

Approved a WSC 1980-81 budget request of just over $8 million, including state, non-state and federal funds. The request, excluding new and expanded programs and representing an 8.2 percent increase over 1979-80, will be submitted Sept. 15 to Governor Thone. Increased the mandatory retirement age for all college personnel from 65 to age 70. Personnel will be allowed, but not required, to retire at 65. The action was necessary to bring the college system in compliance with federal regulations. Voted to discontinue payment of retirement benefits to college personnel at age 65. Approved a site north of Providence Medical Center for a college maintenance building. The board approved the architects of Jackson and Jackson of Omaha to begin drawing plans for the building. Construction of the $225,000 building is scheduled to be completed in December, 1979. Approved the acceptance of $111,765 in federal funds for national direct student loans in 1979-80; $27,872 for supplemental educational opportunity grants and $102,820 in federal and $44,068 in state funds for college work-study aid. Approved the application for $416,752 in federal funds for 1979-80 basic education opportunity grants; $29,870 in federal and $29,870 in state funds for student incentive grants; $4,900 in federal funds for development of an instructional education safety program; with another $9,400 in state and federal funds allotted for in-service (training) for the safety program.

Juniors Move On To Broken Bow

The Wayne Juniors returned home after midnight Monday, physically and mentally exhausted with sore, aching muscles and wide grins on their faces. After a long and grueling Class B, Area 3 Baseball Tournament, the Juniors came home with five victories in six games and a first place trophy in the back of coach Hank Overlin's van.

The Juniors staggered up a long, steep, and narrow path in the district tournament but Monday night, they finally reached the top. After six hard fought games, the Wayne Junior Legion team had claimed the district title and qualified for the Class B, State Tournament in Broken Bow, beginning Friday. They had to sacrifice to earn the berth and not one sole could honestly say that the winners didn't deserve it.

After the final game, an 8-7 win over Valley, the Juniors used up their last bit of energy by yelling and cheering and lifting teammates in the air. The State berth belonged to them.

The final game was a typical one in the Area 3 Tournament — one of excitement and thrills until the final out. Dean Carroll rapped a single in the bottom of the seventh inning to score Tom Ginn for the winning run.

Valley, a first round loser to Wayne by the score of 10-1, played fine baseball to reach the finals of the district tourney. They defeated South Sioux City, Greta and Emerson before receiving a bye into the finals against Wayne.

Wayne, on the other hand, defeated Valley, Elkhorn, West Point and Emerson to reach the finals. They suffered a second round loss to Emerson but gained revenge in the semifinals. Dennis Carroll, Wayne's ace pitcher, was definitely the workhorse of the tournament. He pitched in five of the six games, within seven days. He was hit in the ankle by a ground ball, hurt his elbow and suffered from headaches in the final game. Still he pitched.

Herman, as he is better known by his friends, was the key to the championship. When someone was needed to lead the team, he was there. The entire Wayne pitching staff received a workout. Jeff Zeiss pitched in three games and Jerry Goeden pitched in two. Even Tom Ginn, who hadn't thrown a single pitch since injuring his throwing arm last summer, entered the game and pitched for three innings. He was inserted to buy time for a weary pitching staff.

The Wayne offense was never more balanced. The pitchers needed some runs and the offense earned them. Dan Mitchell, Dean Carroll, Jeff Dion, Jeff Zeiss, Mark Ganseboom, Tom Ginn, Jerry Goeden and Dave Schwartz all recorded at least two hits in at least one ball game. Every player made his contribution to the team with a key hit or key run.

Lookout, Broken Bow, the Wayne Juniors are for real. After battling through a tough area tournament, the Legion team will receive three days of rest and return to the road for the big one — the state tournament. At press time, the team was scheduled to leave Wayne between 1 and 1:30 p.m. Thursday and play St. Paul at 11:30 a.m. Friday.

State Tourney-Dream Come True

Once upon a time, there was a baseball team with a dream to qualify for the State Tournament. The Wayne Juniors played through their regular season with a fine record but at times lacked the offensive power they needed to win games. Then, came the Class B, Area 3 Tournament at West Point, and the dream came true.

At the tournament, the Juniors found a big stick and carried it with them at all times. They pounded out 10 runs to defeat Valley 10-1 in the first round of the tourney. Then, they lost to Emerson by the score of 6-3. Still alive in the double elimination action, the Juniors ran down a team from Elkhorn 7-1. The next foe, West Point, was considered the mightiest in the land. The Wayne team slew its opponent 7-6. Then came a rematch with Emerson. Wayne won this one 10-7. The win pushed them into the finals for a rematch with Valley, a team which seemed to improve through the tournament.

The Wayne Juniors, tired and weary after their previous battles, came alive late in the game and outdueled the sleeper team of the tourney 8-7, to win the area tournament and qualify for state, Monday night.

Valley's starting pitcher held Wayne hitless for four innings and things began to look dismal, with Valley leading 2-0. Then, the Juniors found a spark of life.

Catcher Dan Mitchell, who his teammates said plays best under a full moon, cracked the first base hit for the Wayne team. Speedster Jeff Sperry came off the bench to pinch run for the slower Mitchell.

With Sperry on first, Dean Carroll singled. Then, Dave Schwartz drew a walk. Bases were loaded and Jeff Dion stepped to the plate. The quiet outfielder did his talking with his bat by ripping a base hit which scored Sperry and Carroll to tie the game. Schwartz stole third base on the next play and scored the go-ahead run on an overthrow by the catcher.

Leading 3-2, Wayne opened the game up momentarily in the sixth inning. Tom Ginn led off with a walk and Mitchell recorded his second base hit of the game. A sacrifice bunt by Mark Ganseboom advanced both runners into scoring position. Dean Carroll continued the streak with a single to score Ginn. Schwartz drove a double and drove the Valley pitcher out of the game as Mitchell came home for the fifth Wayne run. Jerry Goeden took over where the others left off by slashing a base hit which scored Carroll. Six runs were not enough so Tim Thomas laid down a squeeze bunt which brought Schwartz home with an important run. The sixth inning attack ended there.

Valley, a fiery team that wasn't expected to even reach the finals, showed why it was there. Trailing 7-2, the Valley Juniors scored five runs in the seventh inning to tie the game. Batting last in the seventh inning, Wayne needed one run to win the championship and got the job done.

Ginn struckout but reached first base when the catcher let the third strike get away. Mitchell bunted the ball but was called out for stepping on home plate. With one out, Wayne coach Hank Overlin gave Ginn the steal sign.

Ginn safely stole second base to move into scoring position. The Valley coach decided to give Ganseboom an intentional walk and try to get the double play. With Ginn on second and Ganseboom on first, Dean Carroll approached the plate with his hot bat. He lined a base hit into the outfield to score Ginn for the winning run in an 8-7 final win. The dream of a state qualification became reality.

Wayne Tops Favored West Point

The Class B, Area 3 Baseball Tournament at West Point was one of the most wild and woolly affairs around and the Wayne West Point Legion game was one of the wildest games in the tourney. Wayne relied on seven runs in the first four innings to slip by the host team 7-6, Saturday night.

West Point scored three runs on two hits and four walks in the first inning to take advantage early in the game. Wayne rallied back to within one run in the bottom of the inning. Mark Ganseboom ripped a base hit to score Tom Ginn and Dan Mitchell for the two Wayne runs.

West Point threatened in the second inning but a tough Wayne defense held off the attack. Catcher Dan Mitchell, who played well in the tourney, tied the game in the third inning. Mitchell doubled and scored on a throwing error when Ganseboom singled.

The local Juniors threatened to put the game away with another display of offense in the fourth inning. Jeff Dion and Jeff Zeiss began the attack with singles and both runners scored when Dennis Carroll unleashed a triple to deep right field.

Wayne built up a strong lead with five runs in the first inning. Walks were issued to Jeff Zeiss, Dennis Carroll and Ginn. Dan Mitchell ripped a triple to clear the bases. Mitchell, then scored on a ground ball by Mark Ganseboom.

Emerson scored one run in the second but found themselves further behind when Wayne

Carroll came home on a squeeze bunt by Ginn. Ginn, who reached base on the play, stole second and third bases to set up the eventual winning run. Ganseboom singled Ginn home for a 7-3 Wayne lead.

After four innings with no runs, the West Point Juniors rallied in the top of the sixth with three runs on three hits. Wayne trapped one West Point runner between second and third and then retired the next two batters to get out of the jam.

West Point entered the tournament with a 23-3 record but was eliminated when Emerson and Wayne lacked on back to back losses. Jeff Zeiss started the game as pitcher and was relieved by Dennis Carroll.

Rematch Turns In Wayne's Favor

The Wayne Juniors pulled out all the stops to avenge their only Class B, Area 3 Tournament loss with a 10-7 win over Emerson, Sunday night in West Point. Emerson defeated Wayne 6-3 in the tournament but lost two previous games to Wayne this year.

With a fired pitching staff, Hank Overlin saved Jeff Zeiss for possible pitching duties on Monday. Jerry Goeden started the game and was relieved by Tom Ginn and Dennis Carroll, who was credited with the win. Ginn made his first pitching appearance since last summer when he injured his throwing arm. He was brought to the mound to buy time for the ailing pitchers. Ginn pitched two and one-third innings, giving up three hits and two runs.

Wayne built up a strong lead with five runs in the first inning. Walks were issued to Jeff Zeiss, Dennis Carroll and Ginn. Dan Mitchell ripped a triple to clear the bases. Mitchell, then scored on a ground ball by Mark Ganseboom.

Emerson scored one run in the second but found themselves further behind when Wayne scored four runs in the bottom of the second, for a 9-1 score.

Ginn, Mitchell, Ganseboom, Dean Carroll and Goeden scored in the second. A catcher's balk gave Wayne the spark they needed. Emerson closed the gap to three runs by putting together a five-run attack in the third inning.

Another run in the fourth, made the score 9-7 and Wayne's fans began to worry. Ganseboom added an insurance run in the fifth inning and Carroll held Emerson to one hit in the final three innings for a 10-7 win. The win advanced Wayne into Monday night's final game against Valley, which received a bye.

Step right up and see the show! In this ring, the ferocious man-eating Wayne Midgets! Over here, the hard-hitting, cunning West Point Midgets! In the other ring, the illustrious tournament umpires who defy reality!

The setting was West Point and a large following of Wayne fans were on hand for the final performance of the Class B, Area 3 Baseball Tournament, Sunday. The final show pitted Wayne against host West Point with the winner going to State. By the time the Wayne fans and players left the arena they seemed to think they had watched a three-ring circus with Midgets in two of the rings and clowns in the other.

West Point won the game 9-8 and qualified for the State Midget Baseball Tournament in Ord, beginning Friday. The Wayne Midgets, who suffered the loss completed their season with a 12-7 record.

Wayne tried to tame the West Point team for 2½ hours and nearly had the job done when a final lunge by the hosts made Wayne the prey. The atmosphere was anything but tranquil. The Wayne fans, players and coach were upset with the umpiring and they made their opinions known. But, the umpires had the final say, and the Wayne followers went home with a loss, they felt they didn't deserve.

Wayne coach Hank Overin, although protesting numerous calls, made no excuses. He said he felt responsible for not leaving starting pitcher Kevin Nissen in the game. Nissen pitched the first two innings, allowing one hit and one base runner. After he threw a couple of wild pitches in the third inning, Overin relieved him with ace pitcher Tim Pfeiffer. Pfeiffer, who has been overpowering all season, had some problems in the early going.

Wayne's Midgets scored four runs in the third inning on four walks and a double. Jeff Brandt, Jere Morris and Pfeiffer walked to load the bases. A walk issued to Nissen gave Wayne its first run. Pat McCright then belted a double to clean the bases. He finished the game with a double, a triple and two singles.

With a four run advantage, Overin brought Pfeiffer in to pitch after Nissen opened the third inning with a couple of wild pitches. It was a move that was discussed between Overin and Pfeiffer. Pfeiffer, who pitched seven innings on Saturday, entered Sunday's game with an impressive season behind him. He had earned most of his team's pitching victories and entered the game with a low earned run average. He ran into trouble pitching against West Point. The host team, a strong hitting ball club, peppered Wayne for three hits and five runs in the bottom of the third inning to gain a 5-4 lead. Two more runs in the fifth inning gave West Point a 7-4 advantage.

The Wayne Midgets held their heads up, despite showing their disapproval of several umpires' calls, and came back in fashion. Pinch hitter Doug Proett started the rally with a walk in the top of the seventh. Morris followed with a single and Jim Sperry reached base on an error of a fielder's choice. Proett scored on the next play as Pfeiffer hit into a fielder's choice which double Sperry out at second base.

Morris added a run when the West Point shortstop errored on Nissen's ground ball. Pfeiffer scored the tying run and Nissen put the locals ahead by one. McCright blasted a triple to score Nissen from first base for the eighth run. It was McCright's fourth RBI in the game. The Wayne attack ended there and the Midgets moved into the field, hoping to hold West Point with good defense.

The first three West Point batters dropped singles over the infielders to load the bases. Play was interrupted for five minutes when an umpire's call of a force play at second base was disputed by Wayne. Pfeiffer was ejected from the game for questioning the call. Nissen returned to the mound and West Point's batter slashed a double to win the game 9-8.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

CONGRATULATIONS to the Wayne Junior Legion baseball team. The Juniors fought through area play to qualify for the State Class B Tournament in Broken Bow, starting Friday. The players and some of the fans will probably be leaving Wayne between 1 p.m. and 1:30 today.

I called State tourney director Ron Woodward of Broken Bow and got the pairings over the phone. Team records are not listed because he didn't have them on record. Wayne is scheduled to play St. Paul, the Area 4 runnerup, at 1:30 a.m. tomorrow (Friday). Game two will match Central City against Holdrege at 2 p.m. Fairbury and Ogallala will meet at 5:30. The final game of the day pits Lincoln Meginnis against Broken Bow at 8 p.m.

The tournament is set up in double elimination brackets. Should Wayne win, they will play again at 5:30, Saturday. If they lose, they will play at 11:30 a.m. The remaining schedule is listed elsewhere in the sports section.

Tim Thomas — Tarzan
Jeff Zeiss — Zorro.

WHILE AT AREA PLAY, I nicknamed each of the Legion players and some of the Midgets. Some of the nicknames have meaning behind them and some don't. I now refer to the players by name only when I cheer them on. For what it's worth, here is the list of Legion nicknames:

- Dennis Carroll — Catfish
- Dean Carroll — Solitaire
- Jeff Dion — Clutch
- Mark Gansbom — Brooks
- Tom Ginn — Gator
- Jerry Goeden — Skish kabob
- Dan Mitchell — Ivan the Terrible
- Dave Schwartz — Fisherman
- Jeff Sperry — Bambino

I WON'T DWELL on the subject long, but I feel it merits some mention. In the past, I have been critical of people who complain about officiating. I like to give officials credit for they have a difficult job and one that I certainly wouldn't be able to do. But for the first time since I became sports editor, I feel I should be critical of officiating.

The umpiring at the West Point- Wayne games left something to be desired. It seems there should be a rule against umpires officiating a tournament game in their home town. People who watched or listened to the game understand what I'm saying. People who missed the games are just as well off. As far as I'm concerned, the games are over and the case is now closed.

Celebrating The Victory

A HAPPY CREW of Wayne Juniors rejoices after the winning run is scored in the final game against Valley. The Juniors are scheduled to play St. Paul tomorrow

Wakefield Into State But Not By Winning

With second pitcher Todd Swi part out of action with a fractured finger, the Wakefield Juniors allowed too many runs and lost their second consecutive Class C, Area 3 game, 9-5 to Crofton. Arlington defeated the locals 1-0 in opening round action.

The two losses eliminated Wakefield from the journey. However, the Juniors will be competing as host team in the Class C State Baseball Tournament at Wakefield, beginning Friday. Wakefield is scheduled to play Battle Creek at 5 p.m. Friday in the double elimination competition.

Crofton rocked Wakefield for nine runs and nine hits. Jeff Hallstrom started the game as pitcher and was relieved by Rick Guy in the third inning. Blaine Nelson, leadoff hitter, was the top offensive threat, rapping two doubles and scoring a run in the fifth inning.

Three runs were scored in the fourth inning when Guy, Scott Hallstrom and Barry Jones crossed the plate. Jones drove in two runs with a double. The final Wakefield run was scored in the seventh inning when pinch hitter Billy Warren doubled and scored on a base hit by Guy.

Class C State Pairings: Friday — 5 p.m., Wakefield vs. Battle Creek, 7:30, Arlington vs. Tecumseh, Saturday — 7:30,

Wayne Midgets Nail Elkhorn In Semis

Kevin Nissen ripped a sixth inning double to score three runs and pitcher Tim Pfeiffer, aided by a strong defense, held Elkhorn to one run as the Wayne Midgets opened the Class B, Area 3 Baseball Tournament with a 5-1 victory at West Point, Saturday.

Wayne allowed only two base hits in the first five innings while taking a 1-0 lead. Pfeiffer singled and reached third base in the first inning on a base hit by Nissen. An Elkhorn balk let Pfeiffer walk home for the first run of the game.

The Midgets held on to their 1-0 lead until the sixth inning. Two base hits in the top of the sixth led to the only Elkhorn run and tied the game at 1-1. A string of four runs in the bottom of the inning gave Wayne the first round win and eliminated Elkhorn.

Jere Morris reached base on an error, Jim Sperry walked and Pfeiffer singled to load the bases. With no outs, Nissen drove a (last ball) into left center field for a double, scoring all three runners. Pat McCright drew a walk and Jeff Baler, pinch running for Nissen, stole third base. Baler scored the final run on a grounder by Tod Heier, for a 5-1 count. Elkhorn was shutout in the top of the seventh.

The win moved Wayne into the finals of the tournament against West Point. West Point gained the tournament with a 22-2 record.

4th Jug Bound For State At Fremont

The 4th Jug, behind the powerful hitting of Lyle Blevins, won five consecutive games to claim the Men's Slow Pitch 'A' District Tournament in Norfolk over the weekend and qualify for the State Tournament. The wins upped the Jug's record to 44-2. They finished the Wayne Men's League with a 23-1 record and finished regular season tournament play at 2-1. This is the fourth consecutive year the Jug has qualified for the State Tourney.

In the first round game against B&B, Blevins rapped a home run and two singles to lead the attack. Other top hitters were Bill Schultz, Mic Daehnke, Loren Hammer and Marty Hansen. The Jug scored five runs in the first inning and four in the second to build an unbeatable lead, and hung on to win 16-7.

Mike Looft, who was the winning pitcher in four of the five games, held Jake's Bar to one run in seven innings. Blevins hit another homer and three singles to lead the offense.

Kim Baker added to the attack with a triple and a double. Earle Overin recorded two hits in the win.

The Jug found NEN Sports to be its toughest opponent of the tourney but built up a 7-2 lead and held on for an 8-7 win. Kim Baker doubled and tripled to lead the attack and Blevins, Overin and Hammer added two base hits each.

American Family was no match for the Jug as the locals ran up a 10-0 shutout in five innings. Mic Daehnke ripped two triples and a double to lead the way for the 4th Jug. Kim Baker drove a solo homer and added two singles. Other leading batters were Blevins, Hansen and Jim Bathen. Brad Wieland was the winning pitcher.

The championship game was a war of attrition with the Wayne team holding the upper hand. Blevins and Daehnke scored in the first inning to hold at a 2-2 tie with NEN Sports. Two runs by Tim Robinson and Jake Munter gave the Jug the lead until the fifth inning. NEN tied the game at 4-4, but Hansen and Robinson scored the final two runs for a 6-4 win. Robinson, Blevins and Overin led the winners with three singles each. Schultz added two hits in the win.

Gas Availability Program Designed

CAPITOL NEWS
BY MELVIN PAUL
STATIONHOUSE CORRESPONDENT
THE NEBRASKA PRESS ASSOCIATION

It is too early to get a reading on the success of a program designed to give the traveling public information on gasoline availability in Nebraska. Larry Bare, acting director of the state Department of Economic Development, said recently. Toll-free lines will remain open at least through the Labor Day weekend to help motorists learn what the gas supply situation is in the Cornhusker State. At this writing, advertisements were being prepared for placement in areas around the country described by Bare as "major markets" for Nebraska. Those ads will run in newspapers in a number of cities including Chicago, Champaign, Des Moines, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Denver, San Diego and Los Angeles. Gov. Charles Thone recently announced establishment of the toll-free system. Asked how it was working out, Bare said he had not received a telephone bill and couldn't say. He noted the phones are not equipped with a counter. One encouraging note for tourists, ac-ording to Bare, is that the fuel supply situation has brightened in that it is stabilizing. Drivers in Nebraska this month should find fuel readily available, Bare said. It appears, he said, "the general public is not going to be quite as nervous (about getting gasoline) as it was in June and July." He said he also expects the number of toll-free calls the state will field will probably decline because the national media hasn't been devoting as much attention to the fuel problem as it did earlier this summer. For those who want the toll-free numbers, either for their own use or for others, here they are: Outside Nebraska: 800-228-4307; Inside Nebraska: 800-742-7595; In Lincoln: 477-9202; In Omaha: 553-5000. Bill Palmer, director of the state Energy Office, said gasoline supplies in August will be considerably improved over what they were in July. He added diesel fuel allocations will be down but that he expects no serious shortages. According to Palmer, Nebraska will receive 93.5 percent of the gasoline allocation it received last August. The diesel fuel allocation will be 89 percent of what it was in August, 1976. Palmer said Nebraska drivers have reduced their traveling considerably and "as long as they don't go back to their old ways, there should be no problem." Welfare department reorganized The state Welfare Department is in the midst of a major reorganization that includes the elimination of 18 upper- and middle-level jobs. Department Director John Knight said his objective is to "improve coordination and delivery of department services." He also noted the reorganization will save approximately $250,000 annually. In the reworking, six regional directorships will be eliminated. Knight said that will make workers directly accountable to the central office in Lincoln, no matter where the employees live. Four traveling teams will be organized to call on county welfare officials to give technical assistance. Those teams are expected to be stationed in Lincoln, Norfolk, North Platte and Grand Island. There will also be teams assigned permanently to Douglas and Lancaster counties. The reorganization will give to county welfare officials more of a say about the eligibility of those who apply for welfare programs. Fifty-eight employees will be notified their jobs have been eliminated or changed, but those employees will have first crack at 40 new jobs created by the reorganization. David Lookingbill of the state merit system said length of service and quality of work will be considered in the competition for the jobs. A worker who does not qualify for a job at his current level could, however, compete for a job in the department that pays less, Lookingbill said. He also noted those fired will have priority in future department hiring. Knight acknowledged the shake-up caused some moral problems and said he expects this to continue for a period until the reorganization has had a chance to function. Equalization board acts The state Board of Equalization and Assessment has unanimously approved proposals they said should result in more uniform and thus more equitable property tax assessments across the state. After a lengthy series of hearings and after taking voluminous amounts of testimony, the board adopted a plan designed to have property assessed at about 30 percent of actual value. Agricultural land would be assessed 20 percent higher than the state's 1976 land valuation manual. The board also approved, despite protests from railroads, raising the valuation of railroad properties to more than $191 million, an increase of more than 82 percent over 1976. State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington, a member of the board, said all of the board's actions were made after it had received better and more data than any other board in history. He praised the state Revenue Department for the "excellent job" it did in compiling the facts and figures on which the board based its judgments. Gov. Charles Thone, who serves as chairman of the board, said the board attempted to devise methods of assessment that would insure uniformity, as much as possible. Herrington said, "All in all, I think we are in good shape to substantially equalize property assessments across the state."

Mobile home ruling The state Supreme Court has ruled, in a Douglas County case, that the district court made a mistake in ruling mobile homes could be taxed as motor vehicles. The owners of a mobile home had objected in a lawsuit that their dwelling was not a motor vehicle that would be covered by a constitutional amendment voters approved in 1952. Chief Justice Norman Krivosha, who wrote the court's opinion, said taxing a mobile home as a motor vehicle would result in the home being taxed non-uniformly and disproportionately to all other personal property. He said the home of the couple "resembles in all respects a residence" and the conclusion that the Legislature exceeded its authority in defining such a dwelling as a motor vehicle is "inescapable." Another argument of the state was that a mobile home is a motor vehicle because it is initially titled through a manufacturer's certificate of title and ultimately registered to the owner through a certificate. But Krivosha said the manner in which proof of ownership is established "does not permit the Legislature to make any item of personal property what it is not."

OBSERVATIONS

A Pat on the Back

A pat on the back goes to the city of Wayne and the Wayne-Carroll School District. Both are saving taxpayers some dollars. The Nebraska Legislature receives some credit in the tax savings because it slapped on what amounts to a Proposition 13-type limit on budgets in the state. But it's the administration of each of the two governmental bodies that has had to pore budgets for the coming fiscal year. Not an easy task considering continued runaway inflation of some 13 percent. The Legislature in 1978 (and amended in 1979) imposed a 7 percent lid on property tax requirements for political subdivisions. The city came in under the limit at about 6.9 percent and the school at about 6.7 percent. The dollar continues to lessen in value, inflation is not expected to drop much in the next decade. Yet these two local governments are required to hold budgets to a level about half that of the inflation rate. The city and the school district have tolled over increasing wages to keep up with the cost of living; have had to deal with skyrocketing energy costs; and have had to hold off on implementing major new programs or projects. But the fact is, both the school and the city have more than met requirements of the state and have kept the city and school district functioning at above-standard levels. The 7 percent lid was lauded by many as the savior of taxpayers; by others it was criticized as having the potential to cut services to taxpayers drastically, thus reducing the standard of living in Nebraska's communities. But there have not been massive layoffs of personnel, nor has there been any reduction in the quality of the police and fire departments, the quality of education or in the standards which Wayne residents are accustomed to having. The lid limit is still young. A massive decline in school enrollment, or a major city catastrophe could result in serious financial problems. We have confidence in the city and the school district. — Dan Field.

New Trade Agreement Affects Everyone's Lives

Richard L. Leshar, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States It isn't often I feel justified in praising the administration and both houses of Congress all in the same column; but this being one of those occasions, let me quickly seize it before it slips away. The administration has successfully negotiated, and the Congress has just overwhelmingly approved, the largest trade agreement in history — one that will touch the lives of us all from manufacturers and farmers to retailers, workers and consumers. The best thing about this trade agreement (the Tokyo Round of the Multilateral Trade Negotiations, or MTN) is that it will be good for America. It could create 100,000 new jobs and generate billions of dollars in foreign orders for our products. And let's face it, we need to get into foreign trade in a big way. We've all been much too complacent about the need to better compete with our trading partners, and about the potential benefits such competition offers our economy. By some estimates, one out of every eight domestic manufacturing jobs already depends directly on exports, and approximately one out of every three dollars of business profits stems from international trade. In agriculture, the relationship is equally apparent. One out of every four acres of cropland now produces for overseas markets. So we have an obvious incentive to win new foreign markets. More exports will mean higher profits and new jobs. And that means a higher standard of living, because as other nations seek to purchase a greater share of American products, the value of our dollar will be bid up in relation to other currencies. And with a stronger dollar, our take-home pay will be worth more than before. That's an important point to emphasize in these inflationary times and in this interdependent world where many American industries must depend on foreign raw materials and component parts to manufacture the products they sell. Our economy operates at a sophisticated level, reflecting our abundance of highly skilled white and blue collar workers. Common sense tells us we should push hard to sell more of our high technology products, and this trade agreement will help us do that in a number of ways. First, the Tokyo Round agreements will result in an approximate one-third reduction in world tariffs. These are the taxes governments put on imported goods to reduce foreign competition and protect their domestic industries and political constituencies. Actually, this one-third reduction is not as big as it sounds, because current tariff levels average 8-10 percent in the industrialized countries, and tariffs are no longer the major barrier they once were. They were substantially reduced by the Kennedy Round which preceded the Tokyo Round. Of greater significance are the new non-tariff codes of conduct. They represent understandings on how the rules will be laid out... and hopefully be played. In the past, countries have unfairly used these non-tariff measures to stack the deck against us. For instance, some industries like steel have been put at an almost hopeless disadvantage by the huge subsidies their foreign competitors receive from their own governments. A third area of major importance is agriculture. American farmers will be able to sell more overseas than they do now. The concessions on tariffs and quotas represent nearly $4 billion worth of 1976 exports, and that's welcome news. On paper, this agreement sounds good. In reality, it won't be worth anything unless our government is tough enough to enforce it. That means standing behind American firms and calling the hands of their competitors when they break the rules. And one final point. If we are to compete more effectively, or even at all, we need the incentives to do so. People work harder and take risks if there is the chance of reward. That's why the Russians, for example, with some of the largest and richest grain tracts in the world, cannot match the productivity of American farmers. Indeed, just think of the possible tragic consequences if we tried to run our farms from Washington as they do theirs from Moscow. For, if that did happen, how would we ever feed the Russian people?

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

by the Nebraska State Historical Society

By 1875, the Railway Post Office had become a fixture on the principal passenger trains of the nation. In a short 12 years, much of the inter-city mail was being sorted in this fashion. One of the first experimental cars had been attached to a northern Missouri line, the Hannibal and St. Joe (later the Burlington) in the early 1860s. The "Grand Island Times" of Aug. 11, 1875, (on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society), explained the process of sorting mail on the nation's major trans-continental line, the Union Pacific:

"There are eight cars in use, employing 32 clerks, two of the latter working the head office at Omaha. The car is divided into three compartments, the largest of which is used to work in. In the form of an oval around this room are boxes, each labeled with the name of an office, into which the proper packages are thrown as fast as sorted. The middle room contains three berths, for the use of the clerks. The third is a store room and often when the leaving Omaha contains eight or ten tons of mail to be handled. Two clerks accompany each car, but on three days in each week, when the eastern weeklies mostly arrive, the services of a third clerk are required on papers. "Each clerk works six days, and lays off eight, making a trip once in two weeks. On the morning on which they are to go out, they go to the car at eight and work on the matter that has arrived during the previous night. The express into Omaha in the forenoon brings the letters in pouches, tied

Crop Field Day
Set at Concord

One good idea may be worth hundreds of dollars to a farmer, so it's a good idea for farmers to attend upcoming crop production field days. This area's field day will be Aug. 28 at the Northeast Nebraska Station at Concord.

Those words of encouragement came from D.G. Hanway, extension agronomist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Hanway noted that "gross farm income reached some of its highest levels ever in 1977 and 1978, but at the same time production expenses were increasing at a faster rate." In 1977, production expense averaged 92 percent of gross farm income, leaving less realized net farm income for farm families than in previous years when gross farm income was lower, he said.

In 1978, Hanway said, the average gross income of all Nebraska farms was $60,000, but production expense averaged 90 percent or $54,000, leaving only a $6,000 difference.

Because fixed costs for land and machinery are so high, the best way to increase farm income right now is to increase yields. "Farmers need to get yields up so they can distribute fixed costs over a greater number of bushels," he said. If costs for producing one acre of irrigated corn are $300, a 100-bushel yield from that acre costs $3 per bushel to produce. If yields can be increased by only 25 bushels, production costs drop to $2.40 per bushel, Hanway said, and if yield reaches 150 bushels per acre per bushel production costs drop to $2 — 50 percent less than at the 100 bushel yield level.

The specialist noted that yield per acre is a measure of the efficiency of a farmer, and more efficient management practices will mean more disposable income for farm families.

Hanway said last year's average of 125 bushels an acre could be reached again this year, he added that "it takes farmers with yields above the average level to balance less efficient farmers with yields below the average."

The agronomist noted that corn represents 59 percent of the value of all Nebraska crops produced, so it pays for farmers to put their efforts where the pay-offs are. He added that farmers will learn new ideas for increasing corn yields by attending field days in their area.

Tours lasting about one and one-half hours each will get underway at 10 a.m. Among projects to be visited include fertilizer-use plots; irrigation; crop varieties, including sunflowers; weed control with emphasis on conservation tillage; energy conservation; corn borer control and integrated pest management and windbreak management.

Persons interested in livestock may visit the beef cattle nutrition project, which includes studies on silage preservatives, high moisture corn and feed additives.

A special program for women will begin at 10 a.m. at the headquarters building.

Churchmen Retreat will be at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 18. The retreat will be held at the Bethpage Mission, Aug. 18-19.

Redeem 89.3 Million Bushels Since June

Farmers have redeemed 89.3 million bushels of corn from the farmer owned reserve in the six weeks following the June 19 announcement that the trigger price had been reached. Ray Fitzgerald, executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) said. The corn redeemed accounts for 12.2 percent of the 732 million bushel reserve. Redemptions in the first week were 19 million bushels — 2.7 percent of the corn reserve. Since barley was released June 5 for the second time, 2,431,895 bushels of barley have been redeemed. This is 5.9 percent of the 41.2 million bushels in the reserve. Barley was called June 26. Wheat was released May 16. To date, 133.9 million bushels — 32.4 percent of the 413 million bushel reserve — have been redeemed. Oats were released for the second time May 11. Since then, 4.1 million bushels have been redeemed — 10.5 percent of the 39.3 million bushels in the reserve. Oats was also called June 26. Sorghum was released June 22, and 11.9 million hundredweight have been redeemed to date, which is 26.8 percent of the 44.3 million hundredweight in the reserve. Release of a commodity means farmers may repay their CCC price support loan and redeem or sell the grain without penalty, but they are not required to do so. Call of a commodity means farmers have 30 days from the date of notification of the call to repay their reserve loans. They are not required to sell the grain, but if they do not repay the loan they must forfeit the grain to CCC. However, the department has announced that due to current snarls caused by strikes, rail and truck transportation, producers with barley and oats in the reserve will be contacted individually by ASCS and given the option to delay settlement in 30 day intervals.

Sarcoptic Mange Serious Problem

Sarcoptic mange is becoming an increasingly serious problem as more intensive swine production methods are practiced. In fact, mange can be found in most Nebraska non-SPF swine herds, according to Dr. Alex Hogg.

Hogg, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension veterinarian, said at the 1979 George A. Young Conference and Nebraska SPF annual meeting in Lincoln Aug. 6-7, that a recent survey of 1,000 market pigs at a Nebraska slaughter plant showed that 21.6 percent of the carcasses had moderate to mild visual evidence of mange infestation.

According to the specialist, the increase in mange can be attributed to several factors. One reason, he said, is that the pressure of other tasks, such as breeding and feeding, makes it easy to neglect the scheduled spraying program necessary to control mange.

Another factor is the lack of knowledge of the mange mites' life cycle and how to successfully combat this "pest," he said.

One other reason he listed for the increase of mange is lack of knowledge of the effects of severe mange outbreak.

Hogg said sarcoptic mange is rarely fatal, although itching and the resultant restlessness reduce feed efficiency. Also, severe anemia has been observed in sows with severe mange infestation, with resultant reproductive problems, he said. The constant rubbing and scratching also can increase the "normal wear" on buildings and equipment, he added.

Hogg explained that the life cycle of sarcoptic mites is 10-15 days from egg to egg-laying adult. Adult females lay 40-50 eggs during their one-month life span. The "preferred" site of the parasites is the inner surface of the ears, but mites also are found on the outer surface of the ears, face, top of the neck, shoulders and over the body. Positive diagnosis is made by finding the mites in deep skin scrapings, he said.

Although sarcoptic mange mites affect only swine, they can live in the skin of man for a short period of time (one or two days), Hogg said, adding that this is long enough to be transported to a mange-free herd.

The mites ordinarily die two or three days after they are off the pig, but in ideal conditions, may survive for two weeks. Therefore, Hogg said, the mites easily can be eliminated from the premises by a routine swine depopulation program.

Eradication of mange from a herd is difficult, however, Hogg said. He suggested a routine spraying program to keep the parasite under control.

Successful treatment requires breaking the life cycle, the veterinarian said. He added that the recommended insecticides do not kill the eggs, so at least two sprayings at 10-day intervals are required.

The specialist gave these recommendations:

Spray sow and 20 days before farrowing.

Spray all herd additions twice, at 10-day intervals while in isolation, before adding them to the main herd.

Spray growing and finishing pigs twice, at 10-day intervals, when they are eight to ten weeks of age.

Since mites live in the skin layers, high pressure sprays work best, Hogg said. He noted that the whole animal must be treated, particularly inside the ears. Lindane and toxaphene have been the most successful insecticides used on mange.

"Actually, dipping vats are the most effective way to apply the insecticide," Hogg said.

However, he warned against the careless use of these insecticides. He said there have been reports of abortion and death of baby pigs following careless use of lindane-toxaphene combinations. He cautioned producers to avoid spraying gestating sows in pens where floor feeding is practiced, as poisoning may occur.

Teach Children to Spend $$$$ Wisely

Mowing lawns, delivering papers, babysitting, detasseling, selling extra garden produce — these are some of the ways children first earn money on their own. Those first paychecks call for some careful guidance from parents.

Children need to develop healthy attitudes about money. Inflation has made it even more important for them to learn to earn, use and save their money wisely.

Children first learn about money by observing how their parents handle it. The next step is to let children learn about money by handling it on their own, even if that means making mistakes. Kids need to experience the consequences of their decisions or they'll never learn to be responsible.

That means parents should avoid stepping in and doing the child's job, whether it's mowing a lawn or delivering the paper.

Many parents have difficulty teaching children to save. However, children will learn to save more easily if they first save for something they want and can obtain fairly soon, such as a record, a radio or a bike.

It's hard for youngsters under high school age to even think about saving for longer term goals such as college. It's just too far off for them.

If the child's earnings are coming directly from the parents for jobs done around the home, even more problems may arise. Parents should make it clear what jobs are expected and avoid giving children money for completing routine jobs. That may only teach children to put a price on good behavior.

It may be appropriate, however, to pay children for extra jobs such as babysitting younger brothers or sisters.

Finally, parents need to respect their children's money. Borrowing from your youngster's piggy bank to pay the paper boy or pick up some groceries may not seem like a big deal to parents, but it can be a very big deal to children.

USDA Clarifies Rules On Foreign Landowners

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in response to numerous inquiries from Canadian citizens, clarified U.S. reporting requirements of foreign owners of U.S. farmland.

The reporting requirements stems from the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978, which requires all agricultural, forestry or timberland of one acre or more owned by foreigners to be reported to the department by Aug. 17 and 18.

Alternatives to high costs of energy and fertilizers will be featured during the two-day event. A number of new energy devices will be on display in addition to those visited during the tour of the first seminar one year ago.

The two-day event will feature afternoon tours of cooperating farms in the Hartington area on Friday and Saturday. Participants will have an opportunity to see a portable solar air heater, several solar grain driers and a solar greenhouse on Friday, Aug. 17. On Saturday, Aug. 18, participants will visit farms with a variety of solar heating devices for homes, a solar farrowing barn, a solar water heater, a wind electric generator, and a demonstration of three types of manure composting equipment. The composting process converts farm wastes into valuable humus fertilizers.

The morning sessions of the seminar will begin at 9 a.m. and will include research reports on results of over two years of studies by the Energy Project including the performance and energy savings of solar heaters and composting equipment during the past several years. Cooperating farmers of the Energy Project will participate in panel discussions during the two days to present their experiences with solar innova-ownership of U.S. farmland and timberland.

Fitzgerald also said further information on the reporting requirements is available from the department or from county ASCS offices. Foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land should contact the ASCS office serving the county in which the property is located.

Energy Project Sets Seminar

The Small Farm Energy Project will conduct its second "Small Farm Energy Seminar" at Hartington on Aug. 17 and 18.

State Woodlands Are Manageable

Are Nebraska woodlands worth managing for timber? The answer is probably yes, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources district extension forester.

If landowners accept timber production as a long-term proposition with cash returns many years in the future, Dennis Adams noted that planting and managing of timber may be the best alternative land use, especially on wasteland, odd corners, inaccessible areas or marginal cropland that is producing minimal return.

"An exact dollar value can't be placed on many benefits — aesthetics, soil erosion control, livestock protection, wildlife cover and food and recreation — but a dollar value can be placed on the value of timber products," Adams stated.

With timber demand expected to double by the year 2000, current projected income figures for various species may be understated, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln forester said.

Adams listed the following expected returns, based on current market value, for five common species in the state:

- $20,000-30,000 per acre for black walnut in 50 years,
- $200-300 per acre for cottonwood in 35 years,
- $500-1000 per acre for hackberry in 60 years (and ash in 50 years),
- $600-1200 per acre for silver maple in 35 years,
- $500-1200 per acre for red oak in 65 years.

"The cost of establishing an acre of timber rarely exceeds $130, and landowners can qualify for cost sharing, which pays up to 75 percent of this cost," Adams said.

On Mindoro, Philippine Islands, it is believed that if you laugh while planting corn, there will be space between the kernels.

Bergland Stop in Sioux City

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has announced the 10 cities where public meetings will be held in November and December to obtain comments and suggestions on the economic and social issues affecting the structure of American agriculture and rural life.

They include Dec. 4 — Sioux City, Iowa.

Bergland and other top USDA officials will attend each meeting.

The public meetings are part of the "national dialogue on agricultural structure," Bergland announced in March.

"We are at a point in our history where a broad-based public discussion of the issues that shape national policies is needed to promote the kind of agriculture and rural living this nation wants for the future," Bergland said.

"The forces that have shaped American agriculture as we know it today need to be re-examined. Our intent is to develop the most comprehensive package of factual information and recommendations for use in proposing future policies, especially new farm legislation when the current farm bill expires in 1981," Bergland said.

He said the term "structure" is difficult to define in precise terms. However, he said he broadly defined it as these issues:

- Number and sizes of farms, and how they vary by region and type of operation.

Ownership and control of resources, including the form of business organization, its tenure and its purchasing and marketing arrangements.

Degree of production specialization and how it affects managerial and technological requirements.

Barriers to entering and leaving farming.

Social and economic characteristics of farm operators and owners.

Bergland said the department is compiling a series of background issue papers with basic facts and statistics outlining the major questions involved in structure.

Critical areas where solid, factual information is lacking will be identified, Bergland said. He said a research agenda will be developed for these areas, and studies done by the department, universities, foundations and other groups.

Bergland said anyone who wants to comment at any of the public meetings should sign up in advance. Those who want to comment, but cannot attend one of the meetings, may send their suggestions to the project coordinator, Structure of Agriculture, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

All comments, whether written or oral, will be recorded and given careful consideration, Bergland said.

Loan Extension Option Is Told

Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loans on 1978 crop corn, grain sorghum and soybeans may be extended for six months at the option of the producer, Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said.

Producers who wish to extend their loans should contact the ASCS office where they obtained them.

Fitzgerald said the extension would help alleviate transportation and storage problems that many producers are now facing by allowing them to market grain over a longer period. Similar extensions were offered earlier for wheat, barley and oats.

There are approximately 260 million bushels of corn, 73 million bushels of soybeans and 22 million hundredweight of sorghum from the 1978 crop under price support loan to which the 6-month extension option applies.

There are also 643 million bushels of corn and 32 million hundredweight of sorghum in the farmer-owned reserve. Reserve loans were released June 19 on corn and June 22 on sorghum when the market price reached 140 percent of the loan rate, the price level at which the department is required to release feed grain.

School Breakfast Grants Set

Approximately $230,000 in grants will be awarded to state agencies, state and national non-profit groups and universities for projects that are designed to expand the school breakfast program, according to assistant secretary of agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman. Organizations awarded grants for these projects will develop various techniques and methods of teaching children the nutritional value of breakfast and the importance of good nutrition to health," Foreman said.

Public information programs and projects designed to expand the school breakfast program to all children who need it are required by the National School Lunch and Child Nutrition Act amendments of 1975.

Grant proposals may include projects that initiate and support community efforts to expand school breakfast participation. Proposals may also include innovative public information campaigns that emphasize the need for and nutritional value of breakfast.

Applications for the grants may be obtained from: Contracting Officer, Administrative Services Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 790, Washington, D.C. 20250, 202-447-8179. Completed application should be submitted to the same address by Aug. 24. Grants will be awarded by Sept. 28.

Seek Comment On Loan Rates

John W. Goodwin, associate administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), asked the public to comment by Sept. 18 on proposals for the 1980 corn and sorghum programs and soybeans loan rate.

Although the secretary of agriculture is not required to make most of the program determinations for the three commodities before Nov. 15, he has set the Sept. 20 comment deadline so that the programs may be announced earlier than the statutory date if he determines it desirable to do so, Goodwin said.

Comments are requested for the following determinations for corn and sorghum:

- The amount of the national program acreages; the reduction from the previous year's harvested acreage required to guarantee established (target) price protection on the total 1980 planted acreage; whether there should be a set aside requirement and, if so, the extent of the set aside; whether there should be a land diversion program and, if so, the extent of such diversion and the level of payment.

If a set aside or land diversion program is required, whether a limitation should be placed on planted acreage; the established (target) prices; the loan and purchase levels for 1980 crops of corn, sorghum and soybeans; and the related actions such as Commodity Credit Corporation minimum sales price, commodity eligibility, storage requirements, premiums and discounts and other provisions as may be necessary to carry out the program.

Before reaching his decision, the secretary will consider any recommendations and views regarding the proposed determinations.

To be assured of consideration all written comments must be received no later than Sept. 18 by the Director, Production Adjustment Division, ASCS, USDA, Room 3630 S. P. O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

All comments will be available for public inspection at the Office of the Director during regular business hours.

"To accept good advice is but to increase one's own ability."
Goethe

It's only natural that we are reluctant to be advised. There is an inference that we are failing or are about to fail to do something that is expected of us. The one who offers advice seems to be telling us that we need help, that we can't make it, unassisted.

If taken by a well-adjusted person with considerable intelligence to realize that he can increase his own ability by profiting from another person's experience. Such a person will not only accept advice, he will solicit it. Even if he doesn't act on it, he will have the benefit of having at least considered another point of view.

We are able to assume responsibility for most of the burdensome details which must be handled promptly in the event of a death. Your first call should be to us.
