Ross Faces Murder Charge

Michael Leroy Ross, charged in the shooting death of 18-year-old Karen Sunderman Thursday, sat quietly in the Wayne County Courthouse Friday morning as his attorney argued for "reasonable" bond.

Ross' attorney lost his bid, and County Judge James Duggan refused bail for the 24-year-old Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, native who was described by authorities as a boyfriend of the slain Thurston woman.

Ross is charged with first degree murder after Sunderman was fatally wounded in the abdomen between 1 and 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Ross' room at the Elm Motel. The slightly-built, sandy haired Ross was discharged from the Wayne Police Department only a few days before.

Wayne Chief of Police Vern Fairchild said his former police officer was let go because he did not meet standards set by the Police Department. He reportedly had been found sleeping on the job and had been seen driving recklessly.

City Administrator Darrell Brewington said Ross was in a standard probationary period that all officers joining the force are placed in. Ross had been an officer for about 2 1/2 months and had some 3 1/2 months of probation left when he was discharged.

Ross' appearance in court Friday morning was to determine bail. His attorneys, David Lathrop Sr. and David Lathrop Jr., members of the Omaha law firm of Lathrop, Albracht and Dolan, collaborated in arguing that the judge should set "reasonable" bail for Ross.

Lathrop Sr. told the judge that Ross had hand-written a voluntary statement in front of County Attorney Budd Bornhoff and County Sheriff Don "Butch" Weible after the shooting.

The statement said Ross had been "toying" with the gun when it went off, striking Sunderman in the stomach. He reportedly administered first aid after calling the emergency 911 number and reporting the shooting.

Lathrop told Judge Duggan that Ross was not "hoodwinked" into writing the statement. The judge was informed that Ross and Sunderman were preparing to go to Stanton where she was to pay a speeding ticket fine. Ross was toying with the weapon, which he said he didn't know was loaded, and it discharged.

Police Chief Fairchild said the gun used by Ross was not police issue but was a gun similar to what police use. The gun, as well as the ammunition, were personal property of Ross, Fairchild said.

Attorney Lathrop, while arguing for the reasonable bail, said the incident "has all appearances of an accidental shooting. There is no evidence of malice or premeditation on the part of Ross."

County Attorney Bornhoff, who will act as prosecuting attorney in the case, argued that bail should be refused for a number of reasons.

Bornhoff said Ross' appearance in court was not an "evidential-type" hearing and that no one has had ample time to pursue ramifications of the case.

The prosecuting attorney also said "it doesn't strike me as proper" that a former member of the police department would handle his gun in such a manner of negligence.

Judge Duggan saw fit to side with Bornhoff as the bail was denied. Court officials noted bail could be set at a later date.

Karen Sunderman

Ross did not enter any type of plea at his court appearance Friday. Several area members of the media reported he had pleaded innocent to the charge. County Attorney Bornhoff said Friday evening that this information was inaccurate. Ross will not enter a plea until later.

Preliminary hearing has been set for 10 a.m. Friday at the Courthouse.

Ross' parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Werner Sunderman of rural Thurston, refused any comment on the shooting when contacted at their home. A spokesman for the family declined information on funeral services, adding that "we have nothing to say to the news media. You can consider this an unqualified comment."

Management and employees of the Elm Motel also refused comment on the incident, indicating they had been asked to remain silent.

Sources close to the investigation said Ross and Sunderman had been seeing one another for some time and had not been heard quarreling prior to the shooting. They were considered "girlfriend and boyfriend" and Ross had become acquainted with Sunderman's family.

A scenario of the incident shows that, as noted previously, Ross and Sunderman were in his room at the motel Thursday. They were preparing to go to Stanton when the shooting occurred around 1:20 p.m.

Ross had been a resident of the motel for some time. Sunderman was not living at the motel, authorities said.

Ross' statement said he administered first aid to her in an attempt to keep her alive. The ambulance and law enforcement officials were called and Ross was at the scene when they arrived. He was taken into custody and charged with first degree murder shortly thereafter.

Sunderman died en route to or right after arriving at Providence Medical Center. An autopsy was performed in Sioux City.

She was a 1978 graduate of Pender High School and was unemployed at the time of the shooting. Since her graduation, she worked briefly for Dohrmann Manufacturing in Emerson in 1978, Millton G. Waldbaum Co. in Wakefield in 1978 and 1979, Andy's Pizza House in Wayne in 1979 and most recently at National Fiberglass in Wayne for one day.

Murder in the first degree is a Class I or Class IA felony. Class I is punishable by death and Class IA carries a sentence of life imprisonment.

The lines of defense were drawn by Lathrop in his statements before Judge Duggan Friday morning. The incident is being considered by the defense as accidental.

Funeral Services

Funeral services for Sunderman were held at 2 p.m. Sunday from St. Peter's Lutheran Church in rural Pender. The Rev. Kenneth Foss officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

She was born Sept. 15, 1960, in Pender and lived all of her life in the Thurston area until moving to Wayne in May. While attending Pender High, she was a member of Pep Club, Annual Staff and participated in the music program.

Survivors include her parents; two brothers, Larry, Pender, and Alvin, Thurston; three sisters, Mrs. Russell Hopper, Hampton, Mrs. Craig Jones, Moore, Okla., and Mrs. Leroy Mostek, Beemer; and grandmother, Mrs. John Sunderman, Pender.

Winside Schools Will Open Monday, Aug. 27

Classes at Winside Public School will begin Aug. 27, announces Supt. Donavon Leighton.

All kindergarten students, seventh grade students, athletes and new students are required by law to have physical examinations prior to entering school. Examinations also are required.

Lunch prices for the 1979-80 school year are as follows: 55 cents for students in grades 1-6; 60 cents for students in grades 7-12; and 75 cents for adults.

Budget adopted

The board of education adopted the school's 1979-80 budget during its regular meeting Monday, Aug. 6.

The budget was set at $855,953 which reflects a 5.67 percent increase over the previous year's budget. The operating budget shows an actual decrease of $1,347 from $772,300 to $770,953.

Superintendent Leighton said under the 7 percent lid limit this is a 3.63 percent increase and "is well under the limit." The tax request increase will be $12,287 or 2.28 percent.

Breakdown of the budget is as follows:

Instructional services, $426,546; support services, pupil, $23,776; support services, instructional staff, $9,570; support services, general administration, $62,813; support services, school administration, $24,292; support services, business, $47,873; support services, operation of plant, $71,638; support services, maintenance of plant, $13,450; support services, pupil transportation, $47,873; transfers to other accounts, $33,000; cash reserve, $85,000.

Last 'Murder' Reported in 1934

The last "murder" recorded in Wayne is reported in Courthouse records as having been committed on or about May 4, 1934.

The case is confusing and rather bizarre because it involves two charges — one of which was a charge of second degree murder and the other a charge of stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim.

The "counts," as they were called in the county attorney's information, were level ed against Dr. Ron Young, a local dentist.

The victim was Nancy Ann Alford.

As best as can be deciphered from the records, the following is a brief summary of the case:

On or about May 4, 1934, Dr. Young was charged with Count I — stabbing Nancy Ann Alford on her arms and then giving her a poison gas, chloroform, until she died. This charge was second degree murder.

The other charge, Count II, alleged that he stabbed Nancy Ann Alford on the arms with intent to kill, wound or maim. A charge of murder was not involved here.

Young pleaded not guilty to both charges. Well, after several months of court proceedings, an amended complaint was filed by the county attorney. It said that Dr. Young aided, assisted and abetted Nancy Ann Alford in her attempt to commit suicide at his dental office by cutting her arm and administering chloroform gas.

Confusing? Okay.

Toward the end of the proceedings, and this is where the records become unclear, Dr. Young agreed to change his previous not guilty plea to a plea of guilty to the second count — that of stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim.

As a result of this move, the prosecuting attorney and the judge saw fit to dismiss the first charge, that of second degree murder.

So, about eight months after the "murder" was alleged to have been committed, Dr. Young was sentenced to from 1 to 20 years at hard labor at the state penitentiary in Lincoln.

It is not known how much of that sentence was served or of the outcome of Dr. Young.

The judge was J.M. Cherry who also served as acting Justice of the Peace. Prosecuting (County Attorney) was H.D. Addison and defense attorneys were Fred S. Berry and Harry E. Siman.

The only other "murder" in memory was a murder-suicide in the 1950's. Since both parties were killed, there were no charges filed.

Water Quality Management Plan Considered for State

For the last three years, the Natural Resources Commission has been working with other government agencies and public groups to develop a water quality management plan for Nebraska.

Preparation and implementation of this plan is a requirement of federal law. The plan is to coordinate all water quality programs and to modify existing and establish new programs as required to meet the goals of the Water Pollution Control Act. Applications for federal funds for projects not in compliance with the plan may not be approved.

The draft, "Section 208 Water Quality Management Plan for the State of Nebraska," is now available for public review. A series of basin policy advisory committee meetings to review this plan have been scheduled. At these public meetings, the recommendations in the plan will be explained; the public will have an opportunity to express their support, or lack of support, for each recommendation. The plan includes a number of recommendations including expanded educational programs, greater cooperation among government units and some changes in state law. These changes include clarification and strengthening of several statutes, establishment of a complaint system to provide recourse for damages caused by sediment from soil erosion, authority to establish groundwater quality control areas, mandatory wastewater treatment operator certification, and licensing of septic tank manufacturers, installers, and pumpers.

The establishment of a state cost share fund for soil conservation also is recommended. The plan designates management agencies that are to be responsible for implementation.

Copies of the draft plan may be obtained for review from Gayle H. Lewis at the Natural Resources Commission, 301 Centennial Mall South, Lincoln, Neb., 68509, (phone 402-471-2061), and also will be available for review in the public libraries of the following Nebraska communities: Grand Island, Lincoln, Omaha, Norfolk, North Platte, Scottsbluff and Valentine.

Philip Riley County Judge

Philip Riley, 40, a Creighton attorney, has been appointed as county court judge for the Ninth Judicial District which includes Wayne County.

Gov. Charles Thone appointed Riley to the position Friday, Aug. 3. Riley will replace R. Bruce Henning who will reach the mandatory retirement age of 72 in September.

Riley will join Judges Stephen Finn, Neligh, and James Duggan, Norfolk, as the three county judges serving the seven county district. Since Henning was currently occupying the Wayne County bench, Riley will take over at least until Jan. 1, when the judges rotate their areas.

Riley was chosen over two other candidates nominated by the Ninth Judicial Nominating Commission earlier last week, John Thor of Wisner and Richard Splitler of Norfolk.

The commission held a public hearing last Monday at Madison. Other attorneys who sought the position included Charles L. Caskey of Stanton, Anthony C. Nanfiro of Wayne and Phil Trine of Madison.

Riley has practiced law in Creighton since he graduated from Creighton University Law School, Omaha, in 1967. That year he joined Merrill C. Warren of Creighton in a general law practice. In 1969 Warren was appointed district judge and since Riley has operated alone.

He is currently on the Creighton school board and has served as Creighton's city attorney. He and his wife have two children, 13 and 8.

It's A Small World

You've heard the old saying, "the world's a small place."
Mrs. Leon (Melvina) Meyer of Wayne would probably say touche to that! Mrs. Meyer recently established connections with her second cousin and namesake, Mrs. Melvina Schure Hamilton of Folsom, Calif.

The two women, who lived near Humphreys as youngsters, lost touch of one another nearly 40 years ago. They crossed paths again recently as a result of a series of unusual events.

If seems the California Melvina read a newspaper account of the death of Mrs. Evelyn Streblow Jungheane of Columbus, which included the name of Mrs. Melvina Streblow Meyer of Wayne.

Because of the unusual name and the area in Nebraska, the California woman phoned Mrs. Meyer to confirm their long-lost kinship, and after corresponding for a few months, invited her second cousin to visit her in California.

The two Melvinas wrote a letter to The Wayne Herald recently telling about their reunion and travels together up and down California. Despite the 40 year separation, Mrs. Meyer said they immediately became great friends.

Although Mrs. Meyer found California an amazing state, she said she was glad to return to Nebraska. "Every state has its virtues and endearments," she added. Touché!

Wayne Native Is Pharmacist

Wayne High and Wayne State graduate John Matson, 28, has returned to Wayne after completing pharmacy school at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

Matson has taken a position at Sav-Mor Drugs as a pharmacist.

After graduating with a bachelor of science degree in biology from WSC in 1972, Matson completed graduate work at UNL and received his masters in zoology in 1975.

"The job market was pretty tight at the time so I decided to go to pharmacy school," Matson said.

Matson completed pharmacy school and graduated in May of 1979. "After all that, the hard part was studying for my pharmacist license in June," Matson said.

Matson became a licensed pharmacist on July 16 and decided not to remain in the city, but find a small town to work in.

"I really didn't plan on returning to Wayne, but this job happened to be open and it was the best offer I had," Matson said. "So far I have enjoyed my work as a pharmacist, and I like being in Wayne."

Interest in the medical field runs in the Matson family, as John's father, the late Dr. Roy Matson, practiced in Wayne for many years.

"My father, being a doctor, was helpful in my being interested in science, but not totally influential in my becoming a pharmacist," Matson said. "It just happened that at the time pharmacy was an expanding area and many jobs were available."

Matson is married and his wife's name is Sharon.

39 Register in Wayne for Jobs

At the end of July, there were 479 persons registered for employment with the Norfolk Job Service office, 39 with the Wayne office and 183 with the O'Neill office for a total of 701 registered applicants.

This compares with 724 last month and 888 at the close of July 1978. The 701 total includes 392 females (56 percent) and 71 veterans, but does not include 167 individuals seeking only part time work and 204 youth registered for summer employment.

New applications filed during July totaled 351 compared with 463 last month and 312 for July of last year.

Job openings received from employers numbered 455 compared with 496 in June and 414 for July 1978. Job openings filled by our offices during July 1978. Job openings filled by our offices during July totaled 367. This compares with 406 last month and 415 during July of last year.

The employment outlook for August through September is for a continued high demand for workers with no increase in the available labor supply.

Whatever your employment needs may be, please call us at (371-4384) Norfolk, (375-2945) Wayne and (336-3636) O'Neill and let our offices serve you.

Bell Telephone Project Begins

Construction has begun on a project to improve rural telephone service in the Wayne area.

Northwestern Bell Telephone Manager Ken Berglund said two contractors are working on the project — one in Wayne and the other in rural areas.

In Wayne, the alley north from the telephone company will be torn up for about three months as new conduit is placed underground. Berglund apologized for any inconvenience this may have caused nearby streets. Most of the work will be confined to the alley, he said.

The entire project will cost more than $400,000, according to Berglund. When completed, the project will provide one and two-party telephone service to some 400 rural users who now have eight-party lines.

In addition, aerial telephone cable in the rural areas will be replaced with underground lines to prevent storm damage. The project will be completed by the middle of next year, he said.

Balanced Ration for Hog Production

Despite the fact that animal nutritionists continue to invest the lion's share of their time and money in amino acid research, a prominent swine researcher maintains that one essential consideration is still being overlooked — the crucial role an amino acid balanced ration plays in top notch hog performance.

"Unfortunately, many nutritionists and hog producers still believe amino acid balance refers only to meeting minimum requirements," contends Dr. Bud Harmon, director of swine research for a major farm feed manufacturer. "In actuality, balance means meeting the minimums while also avoiding the excesses."

According to Dr. Harmon, amino acid and mineral imbalances work in much the same way. "We've known for years that you can create the symptoms of a zinc deficiency by feeding excessive amounts of calcium because it will interfere with the use of zinc. The same is true of amino acids; too much of one will definitely interfere with the use of another, even though both are critical."

"Two amino acids, lysine and arginine, interfere with one another in the same way that zinc and calcium do," Harmon says. "Three other amino acids — isoleucine, leucine and valine — are in the same relationship."

The swine research director uses corn-soy premix — a hog ration introduced almost two decades ago — to illustrate how this interrelationship of amino acids works.

"When a hogman feeding only corn and soybean meal to growing pigs increases the ratio of soy to corn in an effort to meet National Research Council standards for lysine content, feeding excesses of the other four amino acids is simply unavoidable. In fact, our research shows that when you adjust the corn-soy premix formulation in this manner, you end up with 50 percent too much isoleucine, 66 percent too much valine, 145 percent too much leucine, and 555 percent too much arginine," he explains.

These imbalances can have a serious effect on pig performance, Harmon believes. He cites studies conducted by swine researchers at the University of Illinois and Texas A&M which found that, in a ration containing a deficiency of lysine and an excess of arginine, as the ratio of arginine to lysine decreased, animal performance improved markedly. "A 3:1 ratio produced an average daily gain of 55 lbs., a 5:1 ratio produced a 92 lb. average daily gain, while a 1:1 ratio produced a 119 lb. average daily gain," Harmon reports.

"Not surprisingly," comments Dr. Harmon, "amino acid imbalances in rations for lactating sows also have adverse effects. Iowa State researchers, examining the effects varying levels of isoleucine have on milk yield, discovered that yield increased to a peak of 15.4 lbs.-day when 37 percent isoleucine was present. As the amount of isoleucine increased to 92 percent, milk yield decreased to a low of 12.5 pounds per day."

Reduced milk production

"Despite the fact that a 16 percent corn-soy ration provides the minimum levels of all the amino acids," he points out, "the isoleucine level in this ration is 75 percent, nearly double the 37 percent needed for optimum performance. Research confirms that this will actually reduce both milk production and the performance of nursing pigs."

According to Dr. Harmon, these studies reaffirm what swine researchers have known for a long time: you can't get optimum performance from a corn-soy ration because the amino acid levels are not balanced. "Twenty years ago it would have taken a week to formulate a ration with balanced amino acid content. Today, with our computer capabilities, we can do it in a matter of seconds, and the performance improvements are remarkable."

Feeding trials conducted at a swine research center have consistently shown that — in comparison with a corn-soybean meal — an amino acid balanced ration like high octane baby pig chow or pig starline will deliver up to 27 percent better feed efficiency, not to mention improved daily gain, and a reduction in the amount of time required to market a given hog," Harmon explains.

"You can't see it by looking at the feed," he concludes, "but the pigs performance will tell you just how important a balanced ration is to optimum pork production."

Murder — an unpleasant but admittedly interesting subject.

This is my first such crime to cover. I hope it's my last.

It is a tragic set of circumstances and our sympathy goes to all parties involved. There will be no easy answer here and whatever is said and done obviously will not return the life of Karen Sunderman.

Exact circumstances surrounding the shooting will be investigated by all the proper authorities over the next several weeks. We don't envy their jobs.

Both the prosecuting and defense attorneys will take exonerating care not to defile anyone's rights; both will try to keep families from suffering anymore pain; both will, we're sure, follow the letter of the law to the best of their abilities.

But a problem surely to plague the proceedings is rumors. So many are circulating now, it's hard to separate fact from fiction.

That is where my job comes into focus. And believe me, it hasn't and won't be an easy task, either.

We're charged with keeping the public informed. Yet, we walk a cautious line in the possibility of infringing on the defendant's rights.

Few will argue that this case is not a big story. But how much coverage do we give it?

We must be careful not to jeopardize the case with sensationalism, inaccurate reporting, innuendoes, etc. Yet we have an obligation to tell the story to the public.

We will print what we feel are the pertinent facts. Facts our readers should know, but will not affect the outcome of the case.

If we provide too many details, a mistrial could be declared or the case transferred to another county for fair trial. If we don't provide enough, we'll be charged with poor reporting, or coverage or with being afraid to put our nose where it doesn't belong.

Our job is to stop rumors which can damage the credibility of the case.

Accurate reporting also will be of prime concern to us. Already, two radio stations and at least one television station have provided false information. When the electronic media makes a mistake, it is difficult to retract. When we make a mistake, it is out front for everyone to see forever. But we have the ability to correct ourselves and make our mistakes and corrections known to the public.

We aren't relishing this case. We hope it comes to a swift and just end. Our budding community does not need the negative publicity.

Although this is our first death-by-shooting to cover, we did cover a murder trial in Council Bluffs while working for the Shenandoah, Iowa, Evening Sentinel.

The case involved an Iowa girl who was found dead in a roadside ditch near Shenandoah. Her accuser was a black man attending Tarkio, Mo., College.

Because he was black and because Southwest Iowa is as conservative as Northeast Nebraska, the trial was moved to Pottawattamie County.

As it turned out, the Tarkio student was found guilty and was sentenced to 30 or more years in prison. I'll never forget sifting only a few feet from him as he stood before the judge.

He was manacled with heavy handcuffs connected by a foot-long chain. He stood in pin-striped overalls, with sleeves torn out. His head hung as the sentence was pronounced and his only response was that he was sorry.

It was a tremendous experience for a "kid" of 22 as I was at the time.

My profession gave itself a black eye Friday morning before Ross was taken from the county jail to the courthouse. A fiery little cameraman from one of the Sioux City stations exchanged some unpleasantities with the county sheriff and his deputy.

Words exchanged were not in the form of profanities, but the "newsmen" from Sioux City showed little respect for the Sheriff's Department.

A situation such as the Sunderman shooting is a first for most of us involved. There is a tremendous amount of pressure on the law enforcement officials and we certainly respect their positions and problems.

The news media has hounded our county attorney, the associate county judge, the Police Department and others involved — at all times of the day or night.

Can a story be that important that members of my profession lose respect for authority? The Eastern press and the big city press are giving us little guys an undeserved reputation.

Whatever the outcome of the proceedings, we will keep you informed as best we can without unjustly interfering in the process of justice. There has to be a compromise.

Legion Drops Opener 4-0

Wayne Upset by St. Paul

The Wayne Juniors, hoping to win their second Class B state championship in five years, suffered a major setback in the opening round as a well-balanced team from St. Paul upset the Wayne team 4-0 Friday in Broken Bow.

Wayne entered the double elimination tournament as co-favorites along with Lincoln and Magnolia. St. Paul scored three runs off losing pitcher Dennis Carroll in the first inning. Lead-off St. Paul hitter Jack Hiegel singled and stole second base to get into scoring position.

Outfielder Cliff Walelewicz rapped a base hit to score Hiegel for the first run. Then, Kelly Wolinski St. Paul's cleanup batter, slugged a two-run homer which was carried over the right field fence by a brisk wind to make the score 3-0. St. Paul added another run in the third inning on two base hits.

Wayne's Legion team hit the ball but couldn't get the key base hits when they were needed. Lead-off Wayne batter Jeff Zeiss collected a double and two singles in four plate appearances. Jerry Gooden smacked two base hits in three tries to the plate. The other base hit was slapped into center field by Tom Ginn.

St. Paul's pitcher, John Lukasiewicz, stayed ahead of Wayne batters, walking only one and striking out six. Wayne has several scoring opportunities but could not push any runs across the plate.

Zeiss opened the game with a double but was stranded at second as the next three batters popped and grounded out. Zeiss reached second base again with two outs in the third inning. He singled and stole second but could get no farther.

Dan Mitchell drew the only walk in the 1 hour and 20 minute game. He reached base in the fourth inning but pinch runner Jeff Sperry was tagged out trying to reach third on Mark Gansbom's hard grounder.

Sperry tripped after pouncing second in the play and couldn't beat the throw to third. Gooden and Zeiss threatened to score in the top of the fifth when both singled and reached third and second bases respectively. That threat also was ended and St. Paul held on to it's 4-0 lead.

Wayne, with a 23-7 record, was scheduled to play the Fairbury-Ogallala loser at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Fairbury and Ogallala played Friday evening. The tournament will continue through Tuesday or Wednesday. Wayne last won the State B tournament in 1974. The Legion also won the Class C title in 1976 at Gohenburg.

St. Paul's record is now 20-14. They were the Area 4 runner-up.

Neb. Game Commission Exhibits Expanding At Fair

Over the last three years, the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission exhibit grounds at the annual State Fair in Lincoln have grown by leaps and bounds. The exhibit continues to grow in 1979, promising a new look to the big top tents used in the past to display Commission ways and wares.

Years ago the old aquarium building was a popular meeting place at the fair, but its deteriorated condition forced it to be torn down prior to the 1975 state fair. But for the 1977 fair, the fishes of Nebraska returned in temporary quarters under the big top. And 1978 saw the unveiling of the new permanent aquarium building, with Nebraska fishes on display in 23 viewing tanks in a semi-enclosed structure.

Also, a huge outdoor fish tank with an underwater window was built that year to house many of the larger species of fish found in the state. The Fisheries Division has been collecting specimens from all over the state for display in the year-old facility at this year's state fair.

Also in 1977, a portable 22 rifle shooting gallery was introduced to instruct prospective hunters in firearm and field safety. In 1978, a new permanent Hunter Safety education building, its design complementing the new aquarium building nearby, provided fairgoers an opportunity to receive hands-on instruction in target archery as well as shooting a 22 rifle. That year saw over 49,000 rounds fired into the new gallery. And the hunter safety building is now available the year round for the hunter safety classes required of prospective young hunters.

The past two years have also seen the construction of a model wildlife habitat area, complete with duck blind and waterfowl on display by the Resource Services Division. A playground with swings and treehouses was built for the youngsters as an example of the facilities built in towns throughout the state in cooperation with the Planning and Programming Division.

Nebraska wildlife has been on display the past two years in a spacious pen built by the Wildlife Division. This year a deck has been built overlooking the area, affording a better view of the deer, wild turkey, pheasant and quail. There's also been free, live entertainment the past two years, and another show is on the books for the 1979 State Fair.

But, this year it's the 'old town' look — a mini-Commission City' complete with false facades and shake shingle awnings that looks like it's right out of the old west frontier days. Each division of the Game and Parks Commission will have its own 'store,' with fairgoers welcome to stop by and ask questions or participate in a variety of events.

Of course, the Law Enforcement Division will occupy the Sheriff's Office, while Park Division will operate the hotel — the State Park House. Information and Education will run the NEBRASKALAND Movie House, and the Outdoor Education Division, the Outdoor Store. Although solidly built and very authentic looking, 'Commission City' was very inexpensive to construct. The majority of the lumber used came from old buildings or barns found on Commission lands throughout the state, and the Operations and Construction Division is building the structures.

The 1979 Nebraska State Fair opens August 31 and runs through September 9. Be sure and take in the State Fair this year, and visit the Game and Parks Commission exhibit. It'll be fun, educational and something new for all.

Apply For Permits By Aug. 22

First round applications for fall shotgun turkey permits will be accepted by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission from now until Aug. 22.

This application period is open only to Nebraska Residents who did not have a 1978 fall shotgun turkey permit. A second round of applications will run from Aug. 29 through Sept. 12, and will be open to all Nebraska hunters including those who held a permit last year.

This year a total of 2,800 shotgun permits will be available, up a total of 625 permits from last year. By units, the Round Top unit has 1,500 permits available. Niobrara has 1,000 and the Verdigris unit has 300. Archery permit numbers are unlimited. The archery turkey season runs from Oct. 1 through 26, while the shotgun turkey season runs from Oct. 27 through Nov. 9.

Permit fees are $15 for residents and $35 for non-residents. Permit holders must also have in their possession a $7.50 habitat stamp, which is required for all Nebraska hunting and trapping permits. Application forms are available from hunting license vendors, any district office of the Game and Parks Commission, or the main office at 2200 N. 33rd St., Lincoln, Ne. 68503

Weekend Athlete Susceptible To Disease

More Americans than ever before are aware of physical fitness and are performing a multitude of physical activities. For example, the weekend athlete, now jogging, bowling, playing tennis and golf, or participating in organized softball and basketball leagues, may be placing extreme exertion on muscles and joints that have not been used in years.

The result could be a disease called "osteoarthritis," according to Dr. Gunter Nashelsky, member of the Medical and Scientific Committee of the Nebraska Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"Osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints that involves a breakdown of cartilage and other tissues which make a movable joint operate properly, according to Dr. Nashelsky. The damage from osteoarthritis is confined to the joints and surrounding tissues. There is little or no inflammation; but pain and limitation of normal motion sometimes occur.

"Osteoarthritis is often described as a 'wear-and-tear' disease," Dr. Nashelsky said. "It frequently is just that — but not always. The fact that it affects millions of Americans signals that the public should become more aware of it and the resulting problems.

"Every year an estimated 17 million Americans are injured while participating in professional and amateur sports," Dr. Nashelsky continued. "They tear ligaments, sprain muscles, dislocate and fracture bones. A passing sports injury in a joint today can mean a major arthritic problem much later in life unless proper early care is taken."

"A common label for osteoarthritis in recent years has been 'degenerative joint disease.' Some physicians also call it arthritis, osteoarthritis, and hypertrophic arthritis. Osteoarthritis in certain joints has special names.

Strictly speaking, osteoarthritis can occur in any joint. Certain joints are more prone to become involved than others. Some seem to be spared except when they have been injured.

The most commonly involved joints are those that bear weight such as the hips, knees and spine. Also involved frequently are the terminal joints of the fingers and joints at the base of thumb and big toe. Osteoarthritis can be troublesome sometimes in the joints of the jaw and in the second row of finger joints.

This condition seldom affects the base of the fingers, the wrists, elbows, shoulders or ankles, except when these joints are previously diseased or injured or are subjected to repeated strains as may occur in athletics or in certain occupations.

"Doctors tend to separate the condition into two kinds, sometimes called 'primary' and 'secondary' osteoarthritis," Dr. Nashelsky said. "This is because the disease can start by itself, so to speak, without any apparent 'triggering' cause of event; this is the primary kind. The other type seems to result from wear and tear on or injury to the joints — and gets its name from the fact that the condition is 'secondary' to, or the result of, such stresses and strains."

Primary osteoarthritis is more generalized, occurs mostly in women and affects small joints, especially in the fingers and toes. It occurs somewhat earlier in life, occasionally even in the late thirties and early forties, and seems to be more common in some families than in others.

Secondary osteoarthritis tends to affect the larger joints and may hit small joints which are more exposed to excessive stresses and strains. It occurs late in life as a rule, but can occur early when a particular joint is badly abused.

As mentioned previously, many people with osteoarthritis are not bothered by it even though there may be visible evidence. When there is trouble, the number one symptom is pain. Most patients experience only mild aching and soreness, particularly with movement. Some patients may have constant nagging pain which will persist even at rest.

The second most common symptom is loss of mobility. This usually is noticed as inability to perform easy, comfortable movements of the joints involved. Severe loss of motion is unusual but it can occur to the point where a joint is completely stiff.

With soreness and loss of joint mobility, the muscles serving the joint become weakened and overall body coordination and posture may become affected.

According to Dr. Nashelsky, the pain of osteoarthritis may be confined to the joint area or it may spread to the general part of the body involved. In rare instances the pain may be felt some distance from the involved joints. In this case it is called "referred" pain. For example, an osteoarthritis hip may produce pain in the region of the knees.

The treatment for osteoarthritis consists of controlling pain and discomfort by drugs, protecting the joints from stresses and strains and correcting faulty joint mechanics. Aspirin is the single drug most widely used in the treatment of osteoarthritis. Exercise and rest in varying amounts are often prescribed, but again, quantity and type will depend on the particular condition of the patient.

If sports injuries are sustained and not treated properly, chances are good that osteoarthritis will develop. But, there are several things that Dr. Nashelsky suggested can be done to minimize the risk of injury and prevent further damage.

Be physically fit before attempting strenuous activity, and do so with moderation. Warm up exercises of 5 to 10 minutes are necessary to mobilize joints and thus help prevent ruptures and sprains. Quit when you are tired. If your activity calls for it, wear protective equipment. Should you incur an injury, seek prompt medical attention to minimize the impact of injury and prevent further damage. With proper care and rehabilitation, the severity of an injury can be minimized.

"Parents and young athletes must also become aware of the potential seriousness of sports injuries, and be sure they are treated appropriately to prevent long-term complications," Dr. Nashelsky said.

Dr. Nashelsky suggested that persons interested in obtaining more information about osteoarthritis contact the Nebraska Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

Retail Gasoline Rules Told by Government

The Department of Energy's (DOE) Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) has announced new regulations governing all sales of motor gasoline at the retail level. These regulations affect all sales of motor gasoline at the retail level, with the effective date immediate.

The ERA has adopted two new price rules covering the sales of motor gasoline at retail outlets:

Independent retail stations — an independent retail service station operator computes his maximum lawful selling price in the following manner: the most recent acquisition costs plus 15.4 cents per gallon, plus federal, state and local taxes attributable to sales of that type or grade of gasoline.

Acquisition cost is defined as: (a) for retailers which make three consecutive purchases from the same supplier, the actual purchase price paid for the most recent purchase of a product; or (b) for all other retailers, the weighted average purchase price paid for the three most recent purchases computed on a cents-per-gallon basis and in either case includes transportation costs of bringing product into inventory.

Reseller-retailers and refiner-retailers — are limited to the lower of the following two-price calculations: (a) their dealer tankwagon selling price to the nearest independent retailer plus 15.4 cents per gallon plus applicable taxes, or (b) their increased product cost (current acquisition cost minus their May 15, 1973, cost) plus their May 15, 1973, selling price plus non-product cost and increased rent and increased taxes.

All retail sellers of motor gasoline are required to post either the maximum lawful selling price of each type and grade of gasoline or a certification that the maximum lawful selling price has been properly calculated and the actual selling price is equal to or less than the maximum lawful selling price for each type or grade of gasoline. The posting must be either on the gasoline pump or in a prominent place at the retail outlet. Posting on the pump must be in at least one-half inch high letters. Postings other than on the pump must be in letters not less than four inches high.

Concerning normal business practices, retailers may charge differently (but not on a cents-per-gallon basis) for other services offered in the retail outlet. However, retailers may not require the purchase of such other services as a condition of buying gasoline. Similarly, a retailer has discretion whether or not to honor credit cards. The retailer is not prohibited by the price rules for imposing a charge for honoring credit cards, provided that the customer has the option of paying cash.

The ERA's central enforcement district has further announced that in conjunction with the Aug. 1 effective date of the regulation changes, it plans to intensify its audit efforts of retail service stations to ensure that the new regulations are strictly enforced. To accomplish this task, the Central Enforcement District is substantially increasing its staff of auditors.
