No Objection Noted

School Board Adopts 79-80 Budget

Approval of the 1979-80 fiscal year budget, a review of goals and activities for the past school year and adoption of a lunch price schedule were highlights of the Wayne-Carroll board of education meeting Monday night. Total budget asking is $1,073,909 for the coming fiscal year. There were no written or oral objections at public hearing Monday night. Adoption was unanimous. Total tax asking is $1,127,175 and compared to $1,035,549 the previous year. Total property tax asking is $1,035,378 but includes $9,995 for county treasurer's collection fee (as required by law), and $29,866 to cover delinquent taxes. Supt. Francis Haun said he "personally feels" the budget is adequate, and the board agreed by adopting the proposal which was reviewed in depth by Haun. Board President Wilbur Gleske complimented Superintendent Haun and secretary Doris Daniels for the work in compiling this year's budget. Lunch prices The board also approved a modest increase in lunch prices for the coming year. Student single meals will be 75 cents daily, a 15 cent hike from a year ago. Student weekly ticket will be $3.50 up from $3.25; adult single meals will be 85 cents, up from 80 cents; and adult weekly ticket will be $4.25, up from $4.00. Haun said the increase is "conservative" and reflects the fact there are not many subsidies involved. A summary of District 17 (Wayne-Carroll) goals and activities also were provided to the board. "There is a tendency to look back on the school year and say we didn't do anything," Haun commented. Some of the highlights are found in a separate story elsewhere on this page. In other action, the board reviewed progress on improvement of the elementary school playground. The area is nearly completed although some of the items needed are as follows: Poles are needed around the playground perimeter, swings are 88, but new links and seats need to be installed, sand is needed for sandboxes; and cable needs to be installed on some of the new equipment. Trees have been moved, old playground equipment has been painted and reset and many new pieces of equipment have been built. There has been some vandalism on the playground. Milk bid from Gillette Dairy Inc. was received and accepted by the board. Beatrice Foods Inc. was only other bidder, and indicated it would not serve the Carroll school. Gillette bid was 10.25 cents per half pint.

Wayne-Carroll Goals and Activities Are Reviewed

Wayne-Carroll Supt. Francis Haun provided the board of education with a summary of goals and accomplishments for the 1978-79 school year at the regular board meeting Monday night. Some of the activities are as follows: Improved K-12 curriculum — social studies curriculum committees have been appointed under leadership of Middle School Principal Richard Mettler. Sample texts were reviewed. K-12 mathematics — a study committee reviewed curriculum materials which resulted in major K-8 text adoption for the 1979-80 school year. K-12 language — a study committee reviewed curriculum materials in grades K-8 which resulted in major K-4 text adoption for the coming year. Inservice programs for staff — an inservice committee consisting of principals and faculty prepared the entire preschool workshop for the coming year. An inservice program for art teachers developed and implemented in the fall of 1978 under the direction of art instructor Ted Blendernan. Selected staff attended five inservice workshops sponsored by Educational Service Unit No. 1 and 11 during the past school year. Staff participated in inservice reading program developed and implemented in the fall of 1978. Staff visited Millard schools in the process of evaluating proposed mathematics text book series. Staff attended state media convention in 1979; Faunell Bennett attended regional career education convention last year. Physical education staff attended Midwest American Association of Health and Recreation and Education Convention in Omaha. Elementary string program was evaluated by faculty from Wayne State College; music educators attended the state convention; music educators attended all state music program. Restrooms and storage for the track were substantially completed; window replacement program for Middle School was implemented last year and is scheduled for completion in 1980; the student council planned four special programs for students. Board of education members attended district, state and national meetings. Elementary program facilities were revamped and improved. Citizen Committees in education — the Adult Education Committee meets three times a year; the Community Council for Learning Disabilities meets three or four times annually; the Vocational Education Committee meets three times a year. Sensitive Issues Committee meets on call. Music Boosters meet monthly in Wayne and Carroll on an alternate basis; Title I Committee meets on call. Adult education program — sixteen classes for adults were offered in 1978-79; adult basic education classes meet each Monday at the high school. Guidance counselor Curt Frye is licensed to administer tests; four geriatric aid classes were offered in 1978-79.

Approximately $194 million were appropriated from the state general fund for the general support of public elementary and secondary schools, would you favor allocating approximately 80 percent ($155 million) to foundation support and 20 percent ($39 million) to equalization support? If such an increase were forthcoming would you favor allocating a portion of it to reimbursement for required pupil transportation? If such funding were to become a reality would you favor giving consideration to both assessed valuations per pupil and adjusting gross personal income per pupil in determining the need of a school district for equalization support? The board also voted approval to a contract for one student at Region IV Services of Wayne. Cost to the district will be $2.96 an hour (up from $2.75 an hour), five days a week, six hours a day, 12 months a year. The money spent will be reimbursed by the federal government. Superintendent Haun said. The board agreed to have Haun seek bids on a 1979 pickup for use by the district. The current vehicle is a 1959 model and is in a "sad state of disrepair."

All members were present except Dorothy Ley and Neil Sandahl. All actions were unanimous.

Hotel Comes Down in Spare Time

BILL KJER of Allen purchased an old building on the north side of Allen's main street and is tearing it down in his spare time. The building used to be a hotel, a pool hall and restaurant at one time. Kjer, who is employed by Burlington Northern, said he works on the building for relaxation.

Threshing Pictures

A large crowd attended the annual threshing bee on the Carl Johnson farm north of Wayne Saturday afternoon. Watch for pictures of the various activities in Saturday's issue of The Herald.

TRANSFER STATION OPEN

The transfer station is now open, city officials report. Regular hours are in effect there and the dump site east of town is closed. The refuse facility has been closed for about three weeks due to a machinery breakdown.

Hearing for Ross Friday

Preliminary hearing for Michael Leroy Ross, 34, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Wayne County Courthouse. Ross is charged with first degree murder in the shooting death Thursday, Aug. 9, of Karen Sunderman, 18, Wayne. Sunderman was shot in the abdomen in Ross' room at the Elm Motel shortly before 1:30 p.m. that day. He is a former member of the Wayne Police Department, having been discharged only a few days prior to the shooting. Department officials say Ross was on probation at the time of his discharge and did not meet department standards.

Mini-Computer, Refuse Station Council Topics

Purchase of a new mini computer, update on the transfer station, change in management at the Pizza Hut and appointment of a new Volunteer Fire Department member were actions at a regular City Council meeting Tuesday night. The city is in the process of modernizing its bookkeeping systems and as a result the council accepted the bid of Burroughs Corp., Sioux City, for a new L9000 mini computer. The bid was $26,350 and compares to the only other bid submitted of $25,999.20 from NCR in Lincoln. City officials noted that, based on a monthly expense of $600 for data processing center use in Columbus, for utility billing and payroll, it will take about 3 1/2 years for the new mini computer to pay for itself. As required by law, the council approved management change at the Pizza Hut. New manager is Ronald H. Schroeder, formerly of Yankton, S.D. He has been assistant manager here for some time and has been involved with Pizza Hut for about three years. The city's transfer station, inoperable for nearly three weeks due to equipment failure, is back in business and accepting trash. City Administrator Darrell Brewington said an entire new unit was provided by the Alabama manufacturer after it was decided original equipment was defective. Regular hours are now in effect at the garbage compaction facility. Area residents should not take their trash east of town to the old dump site. The council approved appointment by Mayor Wayne Marsh of Roger L. Niemann to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department. All members were present except Sam Heppburn and Darrel Heier and all actions were unanimous.

Thought for Today
 By Brian McBride

If friends and relatives fully realized the great amount of support their mere presence affords at the funeral home, no one would neglect to make an appearance in this time of need. The simplest expression of sympathy to the bereaved is adequate to lift some of the oppressive burden of their grief. There is great healing power in each person's presence.

The recent amendments to the DOE price regulations effective July 1 remove the restrictions previously imposed by the DOE price regulations on changes in the credit practices of independent retailers of gasoline. The eliminations of these restrictions, however, does not in any way affect the requirements and prohibitions of other federal and state laws or the provisions of any contract a dealer has with a credit card issuer. Retailers should be aware of these requirements before making any changes to their credit practices.

Credit Card Surcharge Not Allowed on Gasoline

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Department of Energy (DOE) are advising gasoline station retailers that they are prohibited from imposing a surcharge on customers who use a credit card rather than paying in cash.

The warning is prompted by reports that some gasoline retailers have begun imposing credit card surcharges. While a surcharge is not prohibited by the new DOE pricing regulation this practice is a violation of the Truth in Lending Act.

A station that imposes a surcharge for use of a credit card would be liable, under Federal law for minimum damages of $100 and reasonable attorney's fees.

In 1974, one of DOE's predecessor agencies enacted regulations prohibiting retailers of gasoline from charging their credit card practices in any way that would circumvent the price restrictions on the sale of gasoline. Among other things these regulations prohibited surcharges for the use of credit cards in all sales transactions.

The recent amendments to the DOE price regulations effective July 1 remove the restrictions previously imposed by the DOE price regulations on changes in the credit practices of independent retailers of gasoline. The eliminations of these restrictions, however, does not in any way affect the requirements and prohibitions of other federal and state laws or the provisions of any contract a dealer has with a credit card issuer. Retailers should be aware of these requirements before making any changes to their credit practices.

Healthy State Surplus Means Lower Tax Rate??

Capitol News
 By Melvin Paul
 Statehouse correspondent
 The Nebraska Press Association

There has been some talk in political circles that Nebraska's tax rates should be lowered in view of the healthy surplus that has been built-up in the state treasury.

But several state senators say a cut in the sales and income tax rates would violate a tacit understanding between the state's lawmakers and Gov. Charles Thone.

According to Sen. Don Wesley of Lincoln and John DeCamp of Neligh, Thone and the Unicameral had an understanding that if the Legislature submitted a budget of no more than seven percent over the previous year's budget, Thone, as chairman of the Board of Equalization and Assessment, would not move to lower the rates.

At least some of the senators believe the difficult spending choices they made last legislative session created the healthy condition of the treasury and that the surplus money should be waiting for them when they return to the Legislature in January.

Lawmakers with that point of view say after their frugal spending decision, the governor should not be able to enjoy the political benefits that would accompany a reduction in taxes.

Wesley put it this way: "We planted the fruit (with an austere budget) and Thone should not be the one to get to pick it."

State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington of the Board of Estimating the members said he has met with Thone to talk about the possibility of lowering tax rates if tax revenues continue to exceed projections.

DeCamp said he has fairly clear recollection of what was going through the senatorial minds while the tight budget was ready to be handed out earlier this year. The Neligh lawmaker said there was "an unwritten understanding that the tax rates would not be lowered this year. I hope before any precipitous action by the board we could sit down and discuss the matter."

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, chairman of the Legislature's Budget Committee, said there was an agreement with the governor. But Warner said the presumption was tax receipts would reflect projections. And the Waverly lawmaker said if reality funds do not exceed greatly the projections over a period of months, Thone and the board could lower taxes without violating the agreement.

Warner said he believes any action by the board, based on two months' figures, would be inadvisable.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston is among senators who want the treasury balance to continue to grow until the 1980 legislative session. It was Koch who tried to increase state aid to schools by $10 million this year. It appears the increase could have been accommodated easily, he said.

Koch said he would like to allow the treasury funds to accumulate so the next Legislature could increase state aid as well as state reimbursement to local governments to offset personal property exemptions the Legislature has given to businesses.

Exon vacations in Nebraska
 Sen. J. Exon, saying he was glad to escape the oppressive heat of a Washington summer, told a Lincoln news conference he has thought for more than a year that President Carter will not be his party's nominee in next year's election.

Exon said if the president runs, he will have "great difficulty."

The senator told reporters that as a Democrat he would campaign for Carter if the president is nominated, "but I suspect he will not be nominated."

Exon said he could not and would not vote for the Democratic candidate if that turned out to be California Gov. Jerry Brown, "who blows with the wind, whichever way it is blowing." Brown simply could not gain the confidence of a majority of the people, the senator said.

Exon said he does not expect Sen. Ted Kennedy to be a candidate, although he admitted there was a possibility the Massachusetts senator could be pushed or drafted into becoming a candidate.

While he said he admired Kennedy for his great talent, hard work and "respect on both sides of the aisle" in the Senate, Exon said he has "concern that Kennedy as the head of the ticket would be successful."

He said Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington is in good standing with major elements of the party and that Vice President Mondale would make a good candidate but would never get involved unless Carter stepped aside.

Brennan dies
 State Sen. William Brennan died recently after having been hospitalized more than two weeks following emergency surgery.

Brennan, who was president of the Nebraska AFL-CIO, was admitted to an Omaha hospital on July 21 for surgery involving an aneurysm in an important blood vessel between the heart and legs.

Brennan was elected to the Legislature in 1976 and had been expected to seek a second term next year.

Early during the 1979 legislative session, the Omaha lawmaker had been hospitalized for tests. He returned to the legislative chamber after having been ordered by medics to watch his diet and quit smoking.

Brennan was the second lawmaker to die this year. Sen. William Hasabrook of West Point died shortly before the end of the session this summer.

Refuses to close hearing
 There have been several cases in Nebraska recently in which judges have closed preliminary hearings in criminal cases.

But the most recent request for a hearing closed to the press and public was turned down. It happened in Lancaster County Court when Judge Robert Camp said, "There are reasons to close a preliminary hearing, but I don't think this is the case to do it. A motion of this kind (for a closed hearing) would give the case more publicity."

A representative of the Lancaster County public defender's office who asked the pretrial hearing be closed, argued that "only a closure would permit my defendant the right to a fair trial."

The defendant is accused of first degree sexual assault.

Alan Peterson, attorney representing Media of Nebraska, described Camp's decision as "a healthy precedent, much appreciated by the public and press."

Increase in Use of Futures Market

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
 By M.M. Van Kirk,
 Director of Information

The number of farmers and ranchers who are using the futures market as a "tool" to hedge the marketing of their farm production is gradually increasing.

There is general lack of understanding of the commodity futures market and wide-spread suspicion in the minds of many who see it simply as a speculative medium. It will never be a marketing tool for every commodity producer but for those who understand both its opportunities and limitations and use it wisely, it can at times provide the difference between a profitable year or a loss year.

In recent years, some banks, farm credit groups, farm organizations and the state's major farm broadcast station have sponsored informational meetings and programs to make farmers and ranchers more aware of the commodity futures market and the role it plays in agricultural marketing. But as one farmer who has used the futures in his marketing program explains, "Until one actually uses the futures a few times, he doesn't really comprehend how it works."

Recently the Chicago Board of Trade sponsored an informational panel session in Lincoln for news media representatives. Members of the panel included a Nebraska irrigated farmer who has been using the futures market for the past three years; a representative of a Chicago brokerage firm; the operator of a Nebraska elevator; and the manager of a Production Credit Association unit.

The farmer, who farms 700 acres in one of the state's most productive areas and has a 120-cow beef herd, became interested in the futures market after attending a PCA-sponsored seminar on "hedging." Following are some of his personal observations and admissions:

"Know your production costs in detail. He figures those costs and builds a chart on his costs and price prospects which he keeps for his own use and places a copy also with his broker. He makes a legal arrangement with his banker to cover "margin calls" if such an eventuality becomes necessary.

"He hedges 50 to 60 percent of his estimated production and sells in 1,000 bushel futures units. He says he has found he makes more money by hedging than by "forward contracting," and he has more flexibility.

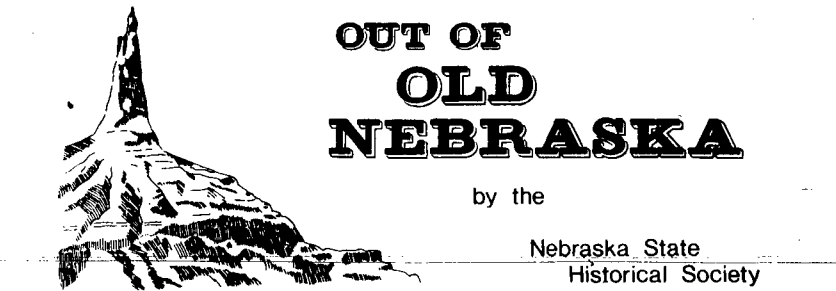

"Have a good understanding of the futures market before you begin to hedge for your operation and situation. For some producers, there is a danger of panicking if the market drops and "margin calls" develop. Some farmers should not participate "because they would worry about it too much."

"This farmer carries minimum hail coverage but says one shouldn't worry excessively about hail. Since he has "locked in a profit," if he had a serious hail loss, he would call his broker and liquidate his futures contracts.

"This year his cost figures indicated he had prospects for "locking in" a $3 per acre profit on corn—$112 per acre on soybeans, so for the first time he has more acres in soybeans than in corn.

"Avoid speculating. If you speculate, then establish a separate account for that purpose... credit sources would insist upon this anyway.

"The small elevator operator explained that when he buys grain, he hedges it immediately to protect himself against price declines. He said country elevators are just getting into hedging but he finds it gives him more flexibility than forward contracting.

Masquerade or costume balls were often held in Nebraska cities and towns during the 1890's and early 1900's. Dancers disguised themselves in a variety of costumes, either for amusement or the benefit of some local charity. Nebraska newspapers, on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society, contain lively accounts of masquerade balls.

The Dec. 4, 1896, "Pioneer Grip" (Alliance) reported the details of an 1890's "Charity Ball" sponsored in Alliance by the "Cheese and Cracker Club." The Charity Ball was held Tuesday night, according to programme; and it was mainly a grand success.

The dressing up in rags was participated in generally by everyone present aside from the spectators, and great amusement was obtained from watching the many ridiculous costumes. Jim Whitehead impersonated the Wandering Jew to perfection. Pete Galarrague's make up as an Irishman fresh from the old sod was immense, as was George Burke's. Tom Burke and Harry Mollring, as weary willies, were great. The worst of all, however, was Banks Stewart and Fred Raymond, who took the cake, bakery and all. Mrs. Mollring as a "bowery girl," Misses Edith Phelan and Moser, and Mrs. Turner, as "Topsyes" were dressed the most ridiculous among the ladies. There being at least 200 participants, it will be seen how utterly impossible it is to describe them all!

The following year in 1897 several more masquerade balls were held in Alliance.

The April 23, 1897, "Pioneer Grip" reported: "The masquerade ball given in the opera house Monday night by the Modern Woodmen was quite a success. About 20 couples attended masked, their suits being very comical and attractive. Over a hundred spectators occupied seats in the house and enjoyed the affair very much. The boys succeeded quite well financially."

Another dance, a "fancy dress masquerade," was held one week later. The April 30 "Pioneer Grip" reported that it was a "very well society event... under the auspices of the Cheese and Cracker and Young Ladies Kensington Clubs, who have invited only a few special guests outside the coast music to be furnished by the Fort Robinson string band, being the finest that can be procured... There will be many elegant and brilliant costumes worn, judging from the manner by which dress makers are being rushed with work."

The "elegant and brilliant costumes" mentioned by the "Pioneer Grip" in 1897 became even more elaborate as the years passed. The Jan. 1, 1905, "Alliance Times" reported the costumes and decorations exhibited at the "New Years ball given in the (Alliance) opera house... by Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Phelan," which "simply astounded and electrified Alliance society. The place had been converted into a fairy scene which baffles description. Festoons of roses, chrysanthemums and poppies were intermingled with specially arranged strings of electric lights, the color scheme of the decorations being white, red and green... Bunting was all about, while red and green curtains covered the windows. Cozy corners were embellished with handsome furniture, curtains, flowers and cushions. Moore's orchestra occupied a specially constructed circular stage in one corner surrounded by potted palms which were also placed advantageously about the room... Each of the ladies was attired in costume to represent some flower... The elaborate, elegant, dainty, expensive and simple were all represented."

The Feb. 15, 1907, "Alliance Times," in its report of a "fancy dress ball," did list each couple attending and their costumes. A sampling of disguises: sultan and sultana, Charles II of Spain and cow girl, Romeo and Juliet, Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, Indian Chief and Pocahontas, robber chief and Bohemian girl, Uncle Sam and colonial lady. A 1905 "carnival ball" in Valentine featured dancers "dressed to represent some firm, business or character" "Valentine Republican," Dec. 8, 1905.

Prizes were often awarded for the best and worst costumes. "Banks Stewart and Miss Langan were awarded the prize for presenting the worst appearance, and being the best waltzers, which was a string of doughnuts. George Burke and Miss Marshall were awarded second best, the prize being nothing..." "Alliance Pioneer Grip," Dec. 4, 1896. At a Valentine masquerade ball in 1906, "Miss Bessie Holsclaw received the prize for the best ladies' costume, which—well, it will suffice to say that Wallace McDonald purchased it... and a Mr. Melton received the gentleman's prize, which was a pair of suspenders" ("Valentine Democrat," Dec. 27, 1906).

Valentine in 1907 was the scene of a novel masquerade... the participants "glided round the room in graceful movements" on roller skates ("Valentine Democrat," March 28, 1907). "The floor was crowded with skaters, well masked, and ingenious costumes representing the cowboy and lasso, revolver belted on and cowboy hat, an Indian costume, a soldier, a tramp, blackbirds with huge beaks belted on for a face, clowns, two old women and a number of others."

Contemporary Nebraskans can appreciate the ingenuity and artistic flair of our grandparents and great-grandparents in devising costumes and other decorations for early masquerade balls.

Boating Equipment Should Be Checked

Boating is increasing as a family summer pastime all across the nation. And the boom in boating has greatly increased the potential hazard for drownings.

With boat traffic getting heavier each summer on the lakes and streams and shorelines, boat operators must understand and practice safe boating practices.

The Nebraska Medical Association reminds that boating equipment should be checked before leaving shore. Essential safety equipment for a boat includes an anchor, a fire extinguisher, oars, a horn, running lights, a signal mirror and a first aid kit.

A life preserver or flotation cushion should be handy for each person aboard. Non-swimmers should wear life jackets at all times afloat. Some states have laws requiring such equipment before boats can be licensed for hire.

Most boating accidents involve faulty operation, negligence, or ignorance. The skipper should know his or her boat, keep his mind on business, and operate the boat according to nautical rules. And by all means stay ashore in threatening weather.

If water skiing is on your list of water activities, make certain you and other members of your family who might try the sport know how to swim. There should be at least two persons in the boat when pulling water skiers.

The Nebraska Medical Association says good physical condition is a prerequisite for water skiing. The skier should practice basic maneuvers before adding new or advanced skills. A life jacket or belt should knock the wind out of the skier temporarily. In case of a fall the skier should stay with the skis and signal the boatman that he is all right. Ski only during the daytime, never at night.

OBSERVATIONS

It Isn't the Town, It's You

By and large, members of Wayne's business community are proud of their businesses, their shopping areas and their city as a whole.

This is evident by the continuous remodeling and refurbishing of store fronts and interiors. Competition for the dollar is keen here, and local businessmen and women know that in order to attract and keep customers, a top-notch operation is needed.

One of Wayne's business personalities has commented that hard work and perseverance are factors which combine to make Wayne one of the most respected communities in Northeast Nebraska.

The businessman has offered a few words by poet R.W. Glover which sum up what it takes to make a community. It is entitled "It Isn't the Town, It's You."

If you want to live in the kind of town you like...
 That's the kind of town you like.
 You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
 And start on a long, long hike.
 You'll find elsewhere what you left behind.
 For there's nothing that's really new.
 It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.
 It isn't your town — it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid
 Lest somebody else gets ahead.
 When everybody works and nobody shirks
 You can raise a town from the dead.
 And if while you make your stake
 Your neighbor can make one too,
 Your town will be what you want to see.
 It isn't your town — it's you.

— R.W. Glover

Dear Editor,

Some time ago due to a typographical error: "I'll advised" and unwarranted surgery is a curse" was printed "All advised is."

What can be more idiotic, utterly insane, then unnecessary surgery? Lower limbs serve the purpose of standing upright, without support, body balance and the ability to move, walk, run, climb. When a too-anxious and willing surgeon offers treatment with a knife or a docile, unsuspecting and trusting individual who did not ask for it as he was unaware of anything wrong, and without warning of risk or possible disastrous consequences and without a second opinion for elective surgery, and the result is paralyzed lower limbs and constant pain, he should be liable for negligence and malpractice. It can turn what might be a lesser injury into permanent disability. So not "All advised" but "I'll advised" surgery is a crime.

Soloist was Mrs. Terry Lutt of Wayne, who sang "The Wedding Song," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. John Goeller.

Candles were lighted by Todd Johnson of Elkhorn and Wesley Kassulke of Pilger. The bride and bridegroom lit a unity candle during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, appeared in an ivory gown of polyorganza featuring a V-neckline inlaid in venise lace with a high rise empire waistline that dipped into a V with venise lace also on the back. The sleeves were long and tapered with lace from the wrists to the elbows. The bride also wore a diamond necklace that her sister wore when she was married.

Her attendants wore long, polyester knit gowns in the bride's rainbow colors of pink, mint green, yellow and lavender, designed with large cape collars and full skirts with a sheer floral cummerbund sash at the waistline. They wore matching picture hats and carried nosegays of tinted daisies with ivory baby's breath centered with a matching carnation and decorated with matching satin ribbon.

The men in the wedding party wore ivory tuxedos with ivory satin trim and rainbow colored shirts to match the bridesmaids' dresses.

Mrs. Holdorf selected an apricot polyester floor-length dress for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Rees chose a mint green polyester dress, also in floor length, with a sheer floral jacket.

Annette Sitzman of Wayne registered the 150 guests, who were ushered into the church by Dean Jensen of Winside, Brian Rees and Jeff Rees of Concord, brothers of the bridegroom, and Kevin Erwin of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Delton Johnson greeted the guests who attended a reception afterward in the church parlors. Gifts were carried and arranged by the bridegroom's sister, Brenda Rees of Concord, and Joyce Kirchner of South Sioux City.

Wayne Legion Wins One At State But Ousted By Lincoln Meginnis

All good things must come to an end as the Wayne Juniors found out in Broken Bow, Sunday evening. After losing a first round game 4-0 to St. Paul the Legion team came back to defeat Ogallala 3-1 Saturday but lost 8-4 to Lincoln Meginnis Sunday to drop out of Class B State Baseball action.

The Juniors entered the State Tournament with an impressive 24-6 record. They finished the season at 24-6, Jeff Zeiss, pitching one of his best games of the season, threw a five-hitter and shutout Ogallala until the sixth inning.

Jerry Goeden ripped a double in the top of the fourth to score Tom Ginn and Dean Carroll for a 2-0 Wayne lead. Both runners had reached base on walks. While Wayne's offense scored the needed runs, Zeiss struckout eight batters and the Wayne defense played well, committing only one error in the game.

The locals threatened again in the fifth and sixth innings but couldn't score another run until the seventh. With Zeiss on third base and Ginn on second, Dan Mitchell singled in the third run. The Wayne defense held on for the 3-1 win.

Wayne recorded only three base hits but got them when they were needed. Nine walks and two Ogallala errors put Wayne runners on the bases. Ginn, Mitchell and Goeden were the only players to reach base with base hits.

Playing a strong Lincoln Meginnis team in their third game of the double elimination competition, Wayne felt the weariness of a long hard area tournament.

Wayne third baseman Mark Gansbom brought the large Wayne crowd to its feet in the first inning when he jumped up in the air and reached over the Meginnis dugout fence to make an unbelievable catch of a foul pop-up. Meginnis scored one run in the second inning and held a 1-0 lead until the bottom of the fourth.

Starting pitcher Jerry Goeden pitched two and two-thirds innings but ran into a jam in the top of the third. Two Wayne errors and one Meginnis single loaded the bases and Jeff Zeiss came in as relief pitcher. He retired the next batter on a pop-up to end the Lincoln threat.

The Wayne Legion bats came alive in the fourth after Dean Carroll and Gansbom walked. Jeff Dion lined a double to right center field to score both runners. Dave Schwartz, then singled to bring Dion home for the third run. A ground rule double by Dennis Carroll moved Schwartz to third base. Carroll lashed a long fly ball into deep left field but the ball took a high bounce over the wall, preventing Schwartz from scoring and hold ing Carroll to two bases instead of three. Both runners were stranded on base.

Meginnis turned the tables in the fifth inning when five runs crossed the plate. Zeiss walked the first two batters he faced and Dennis Carroll came in to relieve him. Carroll pitched in five games at the Area 3 Tournament and pitched the full seven innings in the State Class B loss to St. Paul. When he entered the game against Meginnis he was tired and sore but he was needed.

Two doubles, two singles and one error later, Meginnis led 6-3. Lincoln added two runs in the sixth for an 8-3 lead. Dean Carroll, who saw sparse action as a pitcher this season, entered the game in the sixth and gave up a double before retiring the last six Lincoln batters, three by strikeout.

Wayne made a gallant comeback in the bottom of the seventh but fell two runs short of a tie. Ginn and Mitchell opened the attack by drawing walks. A base hit by Dean Carroll brought Ginn home. Then, Tom Thomas walked to load the bases. Pinch runner Jeff Sperry scored the fifth Wayne run on another walk issued to Gansbom. A fielder's choice gave Wayne its first out and the next two batters were retired to end the game.

Wayne coach Hank Overin said after the tournament that he felt all of the teams were about equal except for Holdrege which he said had more depth. "We didn't play our brand of baseball or it could have been a Holdrege Wayne final. We need two or three more days of rest. We were mentally and physically tired after the area tournament," Overin said.

A LARGE crowd of Wayne fans made the four hour drive to Broken Bow to support their Legion team in the State Class B Baseball Tournament which began Friday. Wayne lost to St. Paul.

Wakefield In Driver's Seat At Class C Legion Tourney

The Wakefield Juniors are in the driver's seat in the Class C State Baseball Tournament and another game between the two teams to decide the champion.

Wakefield scored 30 runs to five for their three opponents in the journey. The team played solid on offense and defense.

The Legion team defeated Battle Creek 9-0 in the first round behind the pitching of Rick Guy and Mark Starzl. Friday night in second round action, the host team dumped Gothenburg 6-1 and in third round action, Wakefield clobbered Tecumseh 15-4. Tecumseh defeated Gothenburg 3-0 in the losers bracket, Tuesday night to move into the finals.

Wakefield and Tecumseh were scheduled to play in the finals Wednesday at 7:30 but rain Wednesday morning dimmed the chances of the evening's matchup. A Wakefield win would give the hosts their second championship.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Mascall

ANOTHER CLASS B State Baseball Tournament is part of history and although the Wayne Juniors couldn't claim the state title, they must be remembered as a fine team which had a fine season. By my records, the Legion team completed the year with a 24-6 record. They defeated Class B power West Point two out of three games and topped Class A teams Council Bluffs and Norfolk.

They defeated probable Class C State champion Wakefield and won the Ralph Bishop League title. The only loss which they didn't avenge was an 8-0 defeat at the hands of Omaha Roberts (Creighton Prep) in the Chuck Ellis Memorial Tournament. Roberts, at press time was only one victory away from the Class A title.

I agree with Hank Overin that the Class B field, at the State Tournament was very even. Holdrege did indeed look like the best team in the double elimination tourney and Central City didn't look like they belonged with the other teams. Otherwise, it was anybody's State title.

Let's discuss Holdrege for a little while. Their Legion team probably won the Class B State title in Broken Bow. They were only one win away from the title at press time. Their Midget team won the State Midget Tournament only two or three days ago. What a strong baseball program they must have. The double championship repeats what Beatrice did last year.

The dominance of Holdrege in Class B this year and Beatrice in Class B last year, leads us to a comparison of city and school size. Teams are categorized (Class A, Class B, Class C) by school enrollment. Class B enrollment figures vary from 300 to 1,000 in baseball. That leaves a large gap between the larger schools and the smaller ones.

Holdrege is one of the larger Class B schools and draws players from nearby high schools. Three of the other teams in the Class B Tourney are in the upper bracket of Class B population but didn't field teams with quite as much depth as Holdrege. They are Ogallala, Fairbury and Lincoln Plus. Lincoln Plus was represented as Lincoln Meginnis in the State Tourney.

The other four teams in the tournament, Wayne, Broken Bow, Central City and St. Paul all fall into the smaller high school bracket. In fact, Wayne is always at the borderline of Class B and Class C in Legion baseball and could very well drop down to Class C next year. It seems the gap is too large and another class should be added.

WHILE IN BROKEN BOW over the weekend, the Wayne group was warmly received by the tournament director Ron Woodward. The large following (which I estimate at 50-65 fans) livens up the tournament and gave the Wayne players good support. The Wayne players really appreciated the support and wanted to make sure I mentioned it in my column. I had planned to do just that. Over a Broken Bow radio station, one of the tourney announcers was heard to say that it was sad to see Wayne be eliminated from play, because they had such a large and friendly following.

One more thing that deserves mention at the State Tournament is the way the Wayne players "fit" together a final comeback instead of giving up when they fell behind. Wayne trailed Lincoln Meginnis 8-3 in the bottom of the seventh inning. Many teams would have given up in that situation but not the Wayne team. The attitudes were good and the spirit was strong as the Juniors made one final attempt to win the game. They came very close but fell short.

ANY WAYNE BASEBALL players who want to purchase one of this year's Midget uniforms or last year's Legion uniforms should contact Hank Overin. Because the Legion team received new uniforms this summer and because the Midgets will get new uniforms next summer, Hank is selling the old uniforms to help pay for the new ones. All uniforms will be sold for $7.50 each with Legion uniforms being sold on a first come first served basis. All unsold Midget uniforms and all new Legion uniforms will be collected by Aug. 27 or 28.

Legion Vs. Women Benefit Softball, Sunday

The "battle of the sexes" began long before the Bobby Riggs-Billy Jean King tennis match years ago but has expanded into almost every facet of athletics. Now, the community of Wayne will have its own "battle of the sexes" at a benefit slow pitch softball doubleheader scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., Sunday at the Wayne City ball park.

The doubleheader will pit the Wayne American Legion baseball team against the Wayne Women's softball All-Stars, composed of players in the Wayne Women's Slow Pitch League.

Two girls from each slow pitch softball team were selected to play in the All-Star squad. Two teams were picked to play in the doubleheader. The Legion players will be handicapped in some ways, although details were not yet worked out.

The women's slow pitch teams will be coached by Denny Robinson and Chuck Oris. Admission will be charged at the gate with proceeds going toward the Wayne Legion Association and the Women's Softball Association. Deb Alteman is in charge of the benefit games.

Anyone who is interested in sports is invited to attend the first booster club meeting, at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 30. Members of the club do not have to have children in high school. Anyone may join. No dues are charged for membership in the Wayne-Carroll Booster Club. The club was formed to give support to the high school athletic teams. Social Security Info Necessary

There are five times when a person should get in touch with a social security office, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Knowing the five times for action is too important to take for granted. It can mean greater security for a worker and his or her family, Branch said.

The five times are:
Before a person gets his or her first job - to apply for a social security number. A person should allow four to six weeks to get a card.

After a death in the family - to see if survivors' benefits or a lump sum death payment are payable.

When somebody in a family is disabled - to learn if disability benefits are payable.

When a person reaches retirement age - 65 for full rate cash benefits or as early as 62 for reduced payments. A person should come in two or three months before 65 to arrange Medicare protection even though he or she is not retiring.

Whenever a person has questions about social security.

The people at the Norfolk social security office will be glad to provide the answer to any question about social security.

reduced price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. A simple statement of income and family size is required, plus a signed certification by the parent or guardian that the information provided is correct.

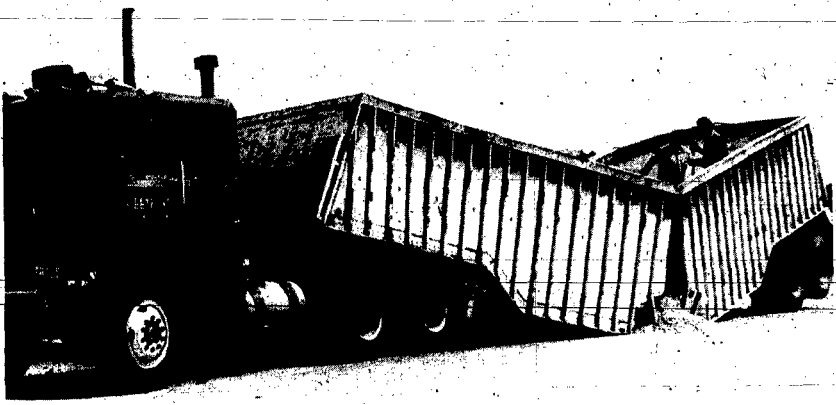

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, it should contact the school.

policy the principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Dr. F.R. Haun, 611 W. Seventh St., Wayne, 68787, phone no. 375-3159, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if a family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals or for additional benefits such as free meals if the family falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color or national origin. Each school and the office of the high school has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Change Rules on Grain Drying

Farmers who grow corn and sorghum will no longer have to dry the grain to become eligible for government farm-stored loans under a program announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

Bergland said the recent decision would save farmers both energy and money.

Any producer in compliance with feed grain program provisions will be eligible to apply for such corn and sorghum loans. Loan applications and program details are available at county offices of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Under a pilot program begun last October, farmers in 28 counties in 10 states have been eligible for these loans. Today's action expands this program nationwide.

Farm-stored loans on high moisture corn and sorghum will be issued at the loan rate in effect for the county where the crop is stored. However, for every one percent that the moisture level exceeds the department's "dry grain factor," loans will be reduced 12 percent. The "dry grain factor" for corn is 15.5 percent; for sorghum it is 14 percent.

Drying grain with conventional fuel — liquid petroleum gas and natural gas — uses large amounts of energy. Since much of the corn and sorghum stored on farms is fed to livestock, drying of these grains is not essential as the moisture does not adversely affect the commodities for feed purposes. Making loans available on high-moisture or acid-treated corn and sorghum eliminates the drying requirement, resulting in a less energy-intensive alternate technology that still preserves the crop for the feed use intended.

Don't Short-Cut Corn Freezing, Says Warning

Freezing is one of the easiest ways to preserve sweet corn for winter eating, but an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension foods specialist warns against short-cutting freezing methods.

"Skipping necessary steps, such as blanching, can cause food to spoil — even in the freezer," said Teresa Shaffer.

There are several reasons why blanching — or placing corn in boiling water for a specified time, before freezing — is necessary, she explained. First, it inactivates enzymes which could cause kernels to develop off-flavors and texture changes. In addition, heat from blanching "sets" the color and kills microorganisms on food, according to the University of Nebraska Lincoln specialist. Nutritionally, blanching also is good since it slows down the loss of vitamins A, C, thiamin and riboflavin, she said.

Shaffer recommended harvesting or buying corn right before freezing. "Ideally, sweet corn is into the freezer within two to three hours after picking," she said. Otherwise, it may lose its sweetness. For example, about half the sugar in sweet corn is lost when it's held for 24 hours at 86 degrees F (30 C), which makes it tougher and less tasty.

Sweet corn may be frozen on the cob or in kernels, although cobs may not be as good quality. For cut corn, husk and trim the ears and place them in boiling water for four to five minutes. Start counting the time as soon as the ears go into the water. When the time is up, immediately chill the ears completely in ice water. Drain and then cut the kernels off the cobs and pack in moisture- and vapor-proof containers.

Soviets to Buy 10 Million Tons of Wheat

The Soviet Union will be able to buy up to 10 million metric tons of U.S. wheat in the next 14 months, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced. Bergland also announced: U.S. wheat producers will be eligible for farm program benefits in 1980 without setting aside or diverting acreage. The 1980 wheat loan rate will be $2.50 a bushel, up 15 cents from the rate in effect the past two years. Administrative or legislative steps will be taken to discourage planting wheat on fragile land. Bergland said Under Secretary Dale E. Hathaway met recently with officials of the Soviet government to review USSR import needs and U.S. grain supplies. Based on that review, Bergland said, Hathaway informed the Soviets they may buy up to 10 million tons of wheat through September, 1980. Up to two million tons of that amount may be contracted and shipped during August and September, 1979, the last two months of the current year of the two countries' agreement. The five-year agreement allows the Soviets to buy a total of eight million tons of corn and wheat each year without consultation and requires them to buy at least three million tons of each.

"In offering additional wheat there is the mutual understanding that five million tons of corn may be purchased for delivery during the fourth year of the agreement," Bergland said. "The possibility of additional purchases of U.S. corn during the fourth year of the agreement will be discussed during the regular meeting of the two governments in early October. By that time, we will have more precise information on the size of this year's corn and other feed grain crops and the Soviets will have a better estimate of their import needs."

"Our assessment of the wheat import needs of the Soviet Union and our other customers, and supply prospects in the U.S. and other wheat exporting countries, concludes there is no need for a wheat set aside in the U.S. next year," he said.

As a result, all wheat producers will be eligible for loans, the farmer-owned reserve and target price protection.

The national program acreage for wheat will be 70 million acres for 1980, up from the 67.6 million indicated to balance production and use in 1979. In 1980, those who plant no more wheat than was planted, set aside or for other reasons was considered to have been planted to wheat in 1979 will have full target price protection. Those who exceed this acreage will be subject to the allocation factor that can cover from 80 to 100 percent of the acreage planted to wheat.

The $2.50 national average loan price will be up from $2.35 a bushel for the previous two years. The minimum release price for the farmer-owned reserve during the 1980 crop year will be $3.50 a bushel and the "call" not less than $4.38 a bushel. These changes, Bergland said, mean producers will receive a higher level of price protection and market stability through the reserve.

Area Youths on Awareness Team

The first Nebraska 4-H awareness team organized in Lincoln Aug. 25.

The 1979 team consists of 20 4-H members from across the state. These 4-Hers have undertaken the task of transmitting the 4-H youth message to the people, such as civic clubs and service organizations either directly or through the mass media. Guest appearance will be a specialty of the 20 person team to State Fair, extension club meetings, 4-H council meetings, civic club meetings such as Chamber of Commerce, etc.

Area youths from District III are: Deb Hansen of Wisner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Hansen and Nancy Arens of Hartington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Arens. These youths were selected from each of the five Cooperative Extension Districts in Nebraska.

Bergland said that based on the formula in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977, the 1980 target price is expected to be between $2.95 and $3.20 per bushel. Preliminary data indicate a 1980 target price of $3.07 per bushel. The 1979 target price was $2.98 but because of last year's 20 percent set aside, it was adjusted to $3.40. The final 1980 target price will be announced by March 15.

In implementing the 1980 wheat program, Bergland said the department is taking measures to ensure sound conservation practices are continued. "We do not want to see fragile lands brought into wheat production in 1980. Acreage not traditionally used for crop production will not be added into producer's normal crop acreage for subsequent years," he said. "In addition, we are reviewing our regulations concerning normal crop acreages and we may amend them to encourage farmers to follow good farming practices. If necessary, we may also seek legislative changes to encourage continued good farm ing practices as a condition for farm program benefits."

Bergland said department officials have begun a review of the reserve program for wheat and other grains for possible administrative or legislative changes to make the program function more smoothly in line with its objectives of protecting both farmers and consumers. A detailed review of target prices for all target price commodities is also underway. Should administrative or legislative changes be necessary in that system of income protection, these will be recommended, he said.

Corn Estimates Below Record

Corn production on Aug. 1 is forecast at 730 million bushels, up 10 percent from the July 1 forecast, according to the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Total production, if realized, would be 1 percent below last year's record crop. The yield is forecast at 109 bushels per acre, up 10 bushels from the previous month by four bushels below last year's record high yield. Acres intended for grain harvest totaled 6.7 million, an increase of 2 percent from last year's total.

Dryland corn production is forecast at 150.8 million bushels, 9 percent below last year. Farmers intend to harvest 195 million acres of dryland corn for grain, the same as last year. Yield is forecast at 77.3 bushels per acre, down 7.4 bushels from 1978. Corn development remains behind last year and normal.

Irrigated corn production is forecast at 579.5 million bushels, up 1 percent from a year ago. Farmers intend to harvest 4.7 million acres, an increase of 3 percent over 1978. This acreage represents nearly 4 percent of the acres to be harvested for grain. Yields are forecast at 122 bushels per acre, 3 bushels less than last year.

Production of sorghum grain is forecast at 128.1 million bushels, down 7 percent from the 1978 crop. Forecast yield per acre stands at 70 bushels, five bushels below 1978. Acreage for harvest is the same as last year at 1.83 million.

Soybean production is forecast at 34.4 million bushels, up 28 percent from the 1978 crop. Yield is the same as last year at 34 bushels per acre. Acreage for harvest is the largest on record, at 1.6 million, or 28 percent above last year.

The Nebraska wheat crop is estimated at 85.8 million bushels. This forecast increased 6 percent from the previous month and is 5 percent above 1978's production. Yield per acre stands at 33 bushels, up one bushel from last year.

Oats production is estimated at 20.8 million bushels, 2 percent less than the 1978 crop. The average yield of 52 bushels per acre is up five bushels from last year.

Hay production in Nebraska is forecast at 7.5 million tons, virtually the same as last year.

Billbug Grass Damage Over

If billbugs have been busy in your bluegrass, it's too late to do anything to control them this year. Dr. Dave Keith, extension entomologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, advises homeowners not to spend time and money to beat billbugs now. Billbug damage usually has run its course by early August. Control is difficult to accomplish after early July when larvae have entered stems or roots because chemicals can't reach them, Keith said. Adult billbugs weevil lay their eggs in grass stems in late May and June. Larvae feed inside the stems, hollowing the stem and crown, he said.

"Larger larvae can almost completely destroy root systems by feeding on roots as deep as two to three inches," he said. Billbug-infested lawns turn brown in irregular patches, frequently in unshaded areas where heat and drought stress are greater. Damaged grass can be easily pulled. Dust-like particles clinging to severed crowns is billbug excrement, a certain indication of billbug damage, the entomologist said.

Next meeting will be Sept. 30 at 5 p.m. in the Harlin Anderson home. Shelia Koch, news reporter.

Second Borers Could Affect Late Plant

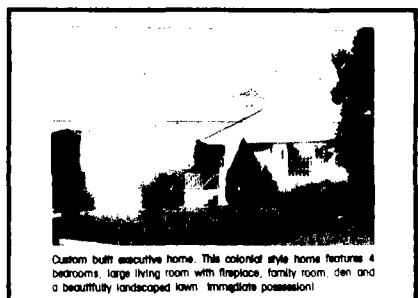

Farmers with late-planted or long-maturity corn should watch out for infestation of second generation corn borers, according to an entomologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Dr. David L. Keith, extension specialist, said corn borer moths lay their eggs in early planted corn in late May and June after wintering as mature larvae or borers in corn stalks. After the eggs hatch, the young borers do their damage as they are maturing, Keith said. This first generation of corn borers eventually reaches the adult or moth stage and is ready to lay eggs for the second generation of borers — the generation farmers need to watch for in the next two to three weeks.

John Wilkowski, UNL extension entomologist and corn borer researcher at the UNL North east Station, said the period during which corn sheds pollen is especially critical. Cool weather, high humidity and an abundance of pollen for the small larvae to eat make conditions right for a high survival rate for young second generation borers, he said.

Keith advised farmers to scout each field several times at three to four day intervals for moths, eggs and young corn borers. Each corn variety must be considered as a separate field, he said.

Farmers should look for whitish egg masses on the undersides of corn leaves and should examine several plants in different areas of each field, he said. The eggs are flat and

Hotline for Abuse

State Department of Welfare has announced that a statewide toll-free "hotline" is now available to receive reports of suspected abuse or neglect of children or incompetent or disabled adults. The toll-free number is 800-642-8288. In Omaha, the number is 444-6666.

State Welfare director John Knight said the Welfare Department has contracted with Midlands Information and Referral Agency (MIRA) of Omaha for operation of the hotline.

The public is becoming increasingly aware of the problem of abuse and neglect and the legal requirement to report incidents of suspected abuse or neglect," Knight said.

Nebraska currently averages 300 reports each month and approximately half of these are substantiated by investigators. Eleven deaths in Nebraska were attributed to child abuse and neglect in 1977.

Nebraska is the 23rd state to establish an abuse-neglect hotline.
