Vandals Damage Crane, Tower

INVESTIGATION by the state Fire Marshall's office and the Highway Patrol continues into apparent vandalism east of Winslow. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department reports that a 20-ton, multi-crane was damaged when two of its four tires were burned off, four windows were smashed and another was cracked.

Damage to the crane's engine will not be known until tests are run in Omaha. In addition, parts of a Nebraska Public Power District tower were damaged. The crane was being used to erect the tower, and was being leased by Seaward Construction Co., Portsmouth, N.H., contractors in erecting the towers.

Council Gives Approval to Nebraska 15 Compromise

Controversy surrounding reconstruction of Nebraska 15 north to the Concord spur apparently was settled Tuesday night at the regular Wayne city council meeting.

By a 4-1 vote, the council decided to ask the Nebraska Department of Roads to only resurface that portion of Nebraska 15 which lies inside the city limits. From the north edge of the Municipal Golf Course (also north edge of city limits) the highway will be reconstructed and the shoulders graded in accordance with state specifications.

This ends several months of haggling between the Golf Course board of directors and the Department of Roads over how and how much to rebuild the aging Nebraska 15. The state contended that damages to the golf course would be less than $17,000 and a golf course architect maintained that damage would run more than $200,000.

Voting against the motion to ask the state only to resurface inside the city limits was council member Larry Johnson. He indicated he was not satisfied with either side's arguments.

There also was discussion involving the possibility of reducing the speed limit along the stretch of highway inside the city limits. City Administrator Darrell Brewington assured the council he would request a traffic study be made of the area.

The council voted to deny two burning permit requests. One request was by Richard Van Every to burn remaining material in a house he recently razed at Seventh and Walnut Streets. The other was by Bob and Marilyn Carhart to have the Volunteer Fire Department burn an old house for practice at 120 W. 13th St.

City Administrator Brewington cited the city's liability in burning, possible damage to utilities, safety and possible smoke damage to area residences in recommending that both requests be denied.

Vote on the Van Every request was unanimous, while Council member Keith Mosley voted against denying the permit request by Carharts.

In other action, the council decided not to take action on vacation of an alley which runs north and south behind Wayne Grain & Feed Co., Coryell Derby, etc. Officials noted that because city utilities are in the alley, easements are needed from all adjoining property owners. Not all owners were in agreement.

A lot split request by Arnie Reeg was approved by the council. Under current state rules, the plot of land is considered a subdivision and must be "subdivided" in order for part of it to be sold.

The council approved a resolution which gives possession of railroad right-of-way land to the Airport Authority for extension of a runway at the Municipal Airport. The council will hold title to the property.

An ordinance approving duplicate building permits was approved. This provides that permits of $1,000 or more must be made in duplicate and the second copy sent to the county assessor. The city has been doing this for several years, and the move is a state requirement.

The council voted to amend the city's park ordinance to exclude areas already developed that meet criteria of lot splits under subdivision regulations of the city. The ordinance also excludes industrial park subdivisions from having to include a proportionate amount of land for development of a park or pay a fee.

Certain bad debts resulting from delinquent electric, water and sewer bills will be removed from the accounts receivable. The debtors are out of state and to pursue the delinquent bills would be costly. If the debtors return to Wayne, the delinquencies will be taken up again.

The council also contracted with engineers DeWild, Grant, Record to inspect the Sunnyview Subdivision as its progresses.

All actions were unanimous unless noted otherwise. All council members were present except Sam Hepburn.

Marching Band Competing In Contest at UN-L

The Wayne High School Blue Devil Marching Band has been selected to participate in the University of Nebraska Band's Centennial Marching Band Contest on Oct. 20.

Ray Dalton, instrumental instructor at Wayne High School, said the nine bands were selected on a basis of performance ratings over a period of the past three years.

Dalton said all of the high school marching bands in the state were invited last spring to apply for entry into the contest, with only nine bands being selected to actually compete in the event.

Other bands selected include Papillion, Fremont, Columbus, Wisner Pilger, David City Aquatics, Elkhorn Valley, Shelby and Hampton.

The competitions on Oct. 20 will initially be divided into three classes of three bands Wayne, Wisner Pilger and David City Aquatics will compete in Class B for individual class ratings.

The band selected as overall best band of the day will be invited back to Lincoln the following week to perform with the UN-L Marching Band at halftime of the Nebraska Colorado football game.

Dalton said additional contests on the Blue Devil Band's schedule are the Wisner Pilger Invitational Marching Band Contest on Oct. 27 and the Pershing Marching Band Contest on Nov. 3.

To help defray transportation costs for these contests and also to assist with the purchasing of new uniforms, the Wayne High Varsity Band will conduct a fund raising campaign on Sept. 13, 14 and 15. Band members will be taking orders for a variety of candies for year round enjoyment, including special selections for the holiday season.

Dalton said the help of everyone in the community is needed in order for band members to reach their goal.

Frevert Toddler Rites Tuesday

Funeral services for 3-year-old Matthew Jay Frevert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Frevert, were held Tuesday at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Altona.

The toddler died Saturday night at Providence Medical Center from internal injuries he suffered when a piece of furniture fell on him at a wedding reception at the Wayne Eagles Club.

Authorities report Frevert was struck by an old piece of furniture which had been used occasionally as a bar in the club basement. The freak mishap reportedly occurred about 8:30 p.m. as the youngster and other children were playing in the club basement.

The wedding reception was for Janet Splittgerber of rural Altona and Gordon Emry of Wayne.

Officiating at the funeral services was the Rev. Paul Jackson. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery here.

Matthew was born Nov. 24, 1975, at Wayne. He was baptized at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Altona on Nov. 16, 1977. He lived with his family on a farm southwest of Wayne.

Survivors include his parents, a brother, Daniel; four sisters, Karla, Jodi, Treisha and Vicki; all-at-home grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frevert of Wayne, and Esther Hjorth of Wisner.

Clerk-Treasurer Tells Resignation

Wayne city clerk-treasurer Bruce Mordhorst has submitted his resignation effective Sept. 28.

His letter was read at the regular city council meeting Tuesday. Mordhorst, clerk-treasurer since 1974, has accepted a similar position with the city of Sierra Vista, Ariz., a community of about 27,000.

City Administrator Darrell Brewington said the city will begin a search for his replacement soon.

A native of Wayne, Mordhorst graduated from Wayne State College in 1974 and worked briefly for Dale Electronics in Norfolk before beginning with the city.

He said the position in Sierra Vista will be as clerk-financial director and provides an opportunity for advancement. He noted he is leaving Wayne not because of any dissatisfaction but because the new position will give him an opportunity to expand his knowledge of city administration.

He and his wife, Carol, and their son, Jason, 2 1/2, will move in early October. Mordhorst is to begin his new job around Oct. 8.

EQUALIZATION SESSION

The Wayne County Board will meet as the Board of Equalization about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 18, at the Courthouse. Purpose of the session is to set mill levies for 1979.

Immunizations Survey Topic

Local representatives of the Census Bureau will conduct a survey in this area during the week of Sept. 17-22, to determine to what extent people have been immunized against selected diseases. Leo C. Schitting, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Denver, has announced.

The survey is conducted throughout the U.S. every year to provide information on immunization against measles, influenza, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, rubella, and mumps needed for the administration of health programs geared to disease prevention. The health questions are in addition to those asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

The monthly employment survey provides data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in July the survey indicated that of the 103.1 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 97.2 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, little different from the June rate of 5.6 percent and similar to those which have prevailed since Aug. 1978.

Personal information supplied in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

WSC Chosen for Major Program

Wayne State College recently was selected as one of 10 higher education institutions from throughout the U.S. to participate in a new academic program evaluation project that is expected to provide a model for other colleges and universities for evaluating their general education programs.

The project, sponsored by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), will help the 10 participating colleges and universities determine how well they teach basic skills.

Other program participants include: Ball State University; California State University, Chico; North Adams State College, Mass.; Ramapo College, N.J.; Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the State University College at Potsdam, N.Y.; the University of Nebraska; Omaha; Western Carolina University, N.C.; and Western Kentucky University.

WSC and the other institutions conducting the four-stage evaluation will examine how well they teach students basic skills — to communicate, quantify, analyze and synthesize. During the first year of the two and one-half year project, WSC faculty and administrators will define those four skill areas for their institution and students, establish levels of performance in each skill area, determine where in the curriculum and college programs students are taught these skills, and finally, design and conduct an evaluation of WSC's ability to meet its definitions of the four skill areas.

During the second year WSC will design and conduct an evaluation of its ability to teach the four basic skills. The results will be documented during the following six months.

Dr. Ed Elliott, WSC vice president for academic affairs and a member of the AASCU Center for Planned Change, said WSC's participation in the program should prove to be both an honor and of major significance to the general education program at WSC. Dr. Elliott has worked with AASCU on the evaluation project since 1977. "The study will require considerable hard work on the part of our faculty and staff," Dr. Elliott said. "But we hope it will pay off in the future by strengthening WSC's general education program as well as the programs of other institutions of higher education in the U.S."

Dr. Elliott compared the project with an AASCU futures planning model currently used by many colleges and universities for planning their future directions. That model was first developed through similar projects on selected college and university campuses and is now widely used.

"The Futures Paradigm is one of the most valuable tools for colleges and universities today and we hope for the same results from this academic evaluation project," Elliott said. "I believe the general education paradigm which will be developed through this project will be every bit as valuable."

Marina Buhler Kiko, project director and director of AASCU's Resource Center for Planned Change, said a number of factors were considered when selecting the 10 schools to participate in the academic evaluation, including the capability of leadership to manage change, evidence of faculty and administrators' understanding of the project's methods and goals and the willingness of the institution to build quality educational programs. Also considered were educational mission, school size and geographic location.

Final selection was made by AASCU from mini-proposals submitted by 17 institutions and reviewed by a five member panel of experts.

AASCU's Resource Center for Planned Change is administering a $445,000 grant for the overall project from the Fund For the Improvement of Postsecondary Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. WSC will receive a portion of that grant.

AASCU serves about 340 state colleges and universities in the U.S.

Higher Education for '79 Grads

School Board Amends Policy, Reviews Levy

Wayne-Carroll board of education breezed through a number of agenda items at its regular meeting Monday night, including adoption of two amendments to the school board policy and review of the school district valuation and mill levy.

As per requirement of the federal government, the board adopted amendments to its written policy involving mandatory retirement age and maternity leave.

The mandatory retirement age was raised from 45 to 70 years of age. Also, a clause in the 1979-80 negotiated salary agreement providing that maternity leave not exceed 10 days was removed, and a clause was added that says a medical doctor's statement of need may be required for justification of sick leave.

Preliminary information from the Wayne County Assessor's office indicated to the board that valuation of the school district jumped nearly $10 million from the 1978-79 school year. As a result, the mill levy for the district for the 1979-80 school year fell slightly more than 16 mills. Levy for the coming year is estimated at 40.05 and compares to 56.12 last year.

The district's valuation for the coming year is set at $28,403,245 and compares to $18,548,625 last fiscal year, the figures show.

A claim involving alleged injury to a student last winter was disallowed by the board upon recommendation of its insurance company and its attorney.

The tort (liability) claim sought damages after a student allegedly slipped on ice when getting off a school bus. Upon investigation by the insurance company, it was found that the injury had been sustained previously. The report showed no negligence on the part of the school district.

Resignation of senior high biology instructor Leigh Mueller was accepted. He indicated to the board he has accepted employment with the French Construction Co. of Wakefield and termination of his contract is to be effective Oct. 1.

Supr. Francis Haun said the resignation will cause some problem in finding an adequate replacement this late in the year.

A leave of absence for elementary teacher Sally McNeill was approved from Jan. 5 until school starts next fall. She will be returning to school to fulfill teaching certificate requirements.

Superintendent Haun provided a follow-up report on graduates of the class of 1979. An estimated 81 percent of those graduating opted for attending institutions of higher education. Three percent entered the armed forces and 32 percent went directly into full-time employment.

The report indicated that the vast majority of graduates will attend Wayne State College. The state average for high school graduates attending college or a technical school is around 38 percent, one board member noted.

The school district will participate in the National Assessment Program. There is little involvement by the school district personnel, but basic skills are tested by the national group and will be compared to scores of other areas.

Wayne-Carroll will never know the results of its districts, and only students in grades 6, 7, and 11 will be tested.

Several board members will attend the Nebraska School Board Association district meeting in Norfolk Sept. 18. Those tentatively planning to attend are Wilbur Giese, Jim Hummel, Dale Stottenberg, Milton Owens and Neil Sandahl.

Prior to the meeting, the board had a walking tour of the recently-completed track building and elementary playground.

All actions were unanimous and all members were present except Dorothy Ley.

Revenue Sharing Money Declines

The city of Wayne was notified recently that it will receive less revenue sharing money for 1979-80 than was previously estimated.

City Administrator Darrell Brewington said about $50,000 was anticipated from the federal government, but only $38,592 will be received.

The city's original estimate was slightly lower than last year's amount, but did not anticipate an $11,400 reduction. Brewington said the city will have to tighten its belt a little more.

City Could Lose Grant If Senate Cuts Funding

A major grant for which the city of Wayne has applied may be lost as a result of pending action by Congress.

If legislation passed by the U.S. House is approved by the Senate, Nebraska's outdoor recreational development would be cut by more than $150 million, the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission has announced.

As a result, the city might lose a $144,500 grant for renovation of its ballfield at E. Fourth and Windem Streets.

City Administrator Darrell Brewington said the city is well aware of the possible cut. He noted, however, that Wayne's grant application has not been acted upon yet and is one of many being considered by the Game and Parks Commission.

So even if the Senate votes not to cut the funds, there is no guarantee the city will receive the money, he said.

The money-conscious House already has approved a $1 million cut in outdoor recreation funds, and the Senate will consider the proposal in October. Approval of the budget cut would reduce the federal aid to $200 million rather than the $359 million recommended by the Carter administration.

The federal money is administered by the Interior Department's Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service. It is set up for allocation on a cost-sharing basis and is programmed on the local level by the Game and Parks Commission.

The Wayne project is one of several being considered. Since it is a project involving a political subdivision, financing would be on a 25 percent local, 25 percent state (general fund) and 50 percent federal cost-sharing basis.

The Parks and Game Commission has programmed $3.7 million for a variety of state and local recreation projects for fiscal 1980. If the budget cut prevails, it would mean the Nebraska projects would have to be trimmed to $2.3 million.

Editorial Courts Say Manufacturers Are Liable for Products

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Gov. Charles Thone went to Europe on Sept. 4 for an 11-day swing during which he promoted Nebraska agricultural and industrial products.

Among the items he took was a considerable amount of American popcorn, which he described as a great food, very popular in Nebraska and throughout the United States.

"We're going to get some interest in popcorn here too," said the governor shortly after his arrival in Frankfurt, Germany.

Nebraska produces a lot of popcorn and exports about $1 billion worth of farm products annually.

Thone said he believes even more can be exported, despite protectionist economic barriers in Europe.

Thone scheduled talks with West German agricultural officials, attended an agricultural fair in Cologne, inspected shipping ports in Rotterdam, and then went to Ireland to check economic markets.

The trip marked the first time in his life that the governor was outside the continental limits of the United States.

Education budget proposed

The state Education Department is proposing a budget of more than $151.1 million for fiscal 1980-81. That represents a five percent increase over the current budget.

The spending proposal, which will be presented to the Legislature next year, includes more than $93.5 million in state monies and nearly $56 million in federal funds.

The board first discussed the budget during an August meeting. Board members expressed concern about a suggested 9.9 percent salary hike for department employees and decided to review the budget some more before adopting recommendations for legislative review.

Later, during an Aug. 27 telephone conference call, the board trimmed about $205,000 from the initial request. Among other things, the proposed salary increase was cut from 9.9 percent to seven percent.

The budget adopted during the most recent meeting includes more than $135.1 million for aid programs and $15.7 million for continued operations. The spending blueprint has $132.373 for new and continued program activities and only $114,674 for capital construction.

Date changes discussed

There was a lot of talk recently about changing the opening of the State Fair from the first to the third week in September. But at this writing, it appears probable that nothing will come from the proposal, at least not as far as the opening of next year's fair is concerned.

What was under discussion was switching the dates of the fair and the annual Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show and Rodeo.

Dick Becker, Ak-Sar-Ben general manager, said he likes the idea but that Ak-Sar-Ben did not originate it. Rather, he said, it came from the State Fair Board.

Becker said Ak-Sar-Ben officials and the Fair Board members did meet to "discuss the possibilities."

He said both Ak-Sar-Ben and the State Fairgrounds track need additional horse racing dates, and the change in dates would help achieve that objective.

Becker said the longer horsemen can stay at one place, the better they like it because they don't have to van their horses from place to place.

A number of Lincoln retailers, who were contacted before the date change idea was apparently abandoned, said they favored the switch because people are more inclined to purchase fall merchandise later in September than they are around the beginning of the month.

One retailer said, however, he wondered whether the idea was feasible because a mid-September State Fair would conflict with the University of Nebraska football schedule.

University of Nebraska Athletic Director Bob Devaney said he did not think that would pose any special problems. Devaney said he is sure the later fair date would not affect attendance at the football games "and it might even help the fair."

He reasoned at least some of the football fans would come to Lincoln early or stay late and take in the fair, along with the football game.

Tower open at night

For the first time in 50 years, the Capitol tower was open until 10 p.m. for three nights during the State Fair.

It was estimated about 5,000 people took advantage of the opening to get to the top of the Capitol and take a night-time view of the Lincoln skyline.

Gov. Charles Thone ordered the tower opened so visitors to the State Fair could have the chance to enjoy the view.

Manufacturers are obligated

The Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled manufacturers are liable for product defects that could result in some accidents being more serious than they might have been.

The ruling was handed down in a decision that upheld a Lancaster County jury award of $251,180 in a lawsuit against Paccar Inc. of Delaware. The action was filed by Virginia R. Hancock, whose husband, Lowell, was fatally injured while driving a truck made by Paccar.

Hancock was killed in a 1971 accident when the tractor trailer he was driving 60 mph struck a deer on Interstate 80 near Waco.

Court records said the impact caused the front bumper to bend backwards, wedging between the inside of the left front wheel and the adjoining frame rail, causing the wheel to lock in a left turn.

According to Mrs. Hancock, the bumper was defective and caused her husband to lose control of his vehicle.

Paccar had argued Mrs. Hancock failed to prove the bumper was "unreasonably" dangerous and was the only cause of the accident.

The court said Mrs. Hancock was not obligated to prove that point.

In addition, anticipating possible product defects is a responsibility of manufacturers and not users, said Chief Justice Norman Krivosh, who wrote the majority opinion.

Two of the court's judges dissented originally.

Judges Lawrence Clinton and Leslie Boslough said the ruling "essentially makes the manufacturer an insurer."

Clinton said bumpers are not designed to prevent damage or injury in high speed impacts and that the product in question was "neither negligently designed nor was it unreasonably dangerous."

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the editorial in the Sept. 10 issue of The Wayne Herald and seek to answer some of the questions they asked in their editorial.

Let me begin by stating what I understand to be God's view of sex and his intent in creating it. God created sex for two reasons — one being the propagation of the human race, the other being our enjoyment. He also set guidelines for sex to insure a proper environment for raising children and to provide guidelines for its greatest enjoyment. That guideline is still in place that sex should be experienced only by one man with one woman and that in the security of the marriage vows. Sex in the eyes of God is dirty only when it leads to fornication and adultery.

Now let me seek to answer the person's question they asked, "What is Pornography?" My answer is pornography is anything which promotes, encourages or endorses fornication and adultery. Their second question was "where does the store owner draw the line?" My answer, when something is by the above definition pornography. I have read a number of articles about sex written to Good Housekeeping any more virtuous than those written to the Playboy Advisor? Not being familiar with either one, I will merely venture a guess — No! The problem isn't the questions but the answers that encourages fornication and adultery. They also made the statement that "Wayne isn't an island." We are not an island in reference to hunger either so does that mean we should stop growing food and join the hungry? The issue isn't whether we are an island but is such literature moral or immoral. If it is immoral, I say let's be an island.

The writer also said "There has been no evidence that pornography has led to teenage pregnancy, rape or a collapse of morals." I have to wonder how many teens this person has interviewed who are sexually active or how many convicted rapists they have talked to in order to come to that conclusion. I haven't talked to them personally, but the statement "no evidence" is pretty conclusive and in my mind open to debate. They then indicated that "if anything, over exposure could be more effective than a cold shower." In my opinion if over exposure will cure it, it ought to be extinct by now!

Finally, we were told that "censorship can be a dangerous thing" and I am in total agreement with that statement. One must also acknowledge that the written page can be a dangerous thing. We cannot give license to one at the expense of the other.

I would like to ask the people who carry pornography to reconsider the place of such literature in their stores.

Dear Editor,

Thank you to all in the area who supported the production of "Carnival" through your interest, attendance and contributions. A special thanks goes to The Wayne Herald for their generous coverage of the event, to KTCH for their extensive interviews and reminders, to the First National Bank for their aid, to the Second Guessers for the use of their sign, and to Rich's Jack & Jill for the circus posters and signs. Generous appreciation goes also to Wayne State College and its board of trustees who allowed us to use the facilities needed for this event.

We are of the firm belief that Wayne truly has interest in the arts because of the obvious support the region has given to this production and to the participation in the earlier Spring Festival. Contributions are still needed and will be gladly accepted through the Wayne Regional Arts Council for the arts in general, for the Wayne Community Theatre, or for the Community Choir. The arts are an expensive endeavor, but we are beginning to realize that the Wayne region can really become an art center for all of Northeast Nebraska.

Citizens Party Backed by Commoner

PRESIDENT,
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES

In case you missed the breathtaking announcement, a new group — the Citizens Party — has just laid claim to the presidency in 1980. The "Washington Post" reported the party was conceived in part by Barry Commoner and blessed by none other than Ralph Nader who called it "progressive." Nader's praise follows his criticism of the present two-party system as "... a political conspiracy against the citizens of this country."

Commoner is an ecologist known for his love of solar power. Less well-known, perhaps, are his political views. In his book, "The Poverty of Power," he writes: "Economists and other students of capitalism will recognize that the basic ideas I have discussed are among those first put forward by Karl Marx."

"All this suggests that it may be time to view the faults of the United States economic system from a vantage point of alternative — to debate the relative merits of capitalism and socialism." And now, Commoner has gone beyond debate to outright advocacy. His Citizens Party platform calls for nationalizing the energy industry; expanding government control over other industries, mandating price controls and government planning and, initiating both "an immediate, sharp reversal in the rate of military spending" and, the "conversion of the armaments industry to productive activity."

These last two proposals would place the security of America and our allies in grave peril, even as a Soviet's engineer a massive military build-up. That's for starters. Then of course we would be saddled with some form of socialism which has never worked, no matter where, when or how it has been tried. It disappointed our British friends even in their modified democratic form, and the Soviet totalitarian version has been an outright disaster. As a writer George F. Will recently mused: "Amazingly, for the 62nd straight year unusually wet (or is it dry?) weather prevented Communist agriculture from flourishing."

Actually, Commoner and company are clever enough to smelt the danger of unpopular political labels. So where would they say "government control," they neatly substitute "public control." This little rhetorical trick is so simple any child could master it. But looking at the results, one wave of their wand and Viola all the bureaucrats magically disappear, replaced by shining populist heroes who tirelessly promote citizen representation throughout the economy. It all seems almost too wonderful to believe.

YOU AND YOUR CAR

The highly touted air bag, which government regulators favor for automotive passenger protection, has come under a blistering barrage of criticism from the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

Lining up against the regulators are some Congressmen, led by Rep. John D. Dingell, the watch-dog General Accounting Office and the auto companies.

Rep. Dingell accuses the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of concealing from the public the results of tests in which the bags burst into flames 12 percent of the time when activated.

The GAO took NHTSA to task and said that air bags would cost $400 to $580 per car, not the "imaginary" $112 quoted by NHTSA. In addition, replacement cost would be perhaps double that amount.

General Motors recently stated that it has grave doubts about the bag because tests show deployment of the bag could injure a child who sits in a position different from an adult. Consequently, GM notified NHTSA that it doubts it will be ready to offer bags as an option on 1981 models, as had been planned.

The government has ruled that a "positive restraint" system is required on large cars in 1982, mid-size in 1983 and all cars in 1984.

Passive restraints can be either the air bag or seat belts which fasten automatically. The automatic belts are priced at $50 on some current cars.

The air bags also are criticized because they do not deploy in anything but a front-end collision, offering no protection in a side or rear crash or a rollover; because they can be deployed accidentally; that they might not deploy when needed should the inflation mechanism be fouled; and because belts would still be required to keep occupants from being thrown from a car.

Why then is NHTSA pushing so hard for them? Editorialized the Detroit News: "NHTSA, like so many government agencies, approaches its work with a well-known better attitude."

WRITE A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

OBSERVATIONS

Study Says Basics

A study recently completed by the Philadelphia Public Schools and the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia is sure to cause a stir among some educators.

It reports that a basic approach to reading, a combination of phonics and the old "Dick and Jane" approach, is head and shoulders above any other method of teaching reading in terms of achievement growth for pupils.

The study finds to discourage modernistic educators who support concepts of the sight-vocabulary system — which is based on sight learning rather than sounding out the words.

In essence, the study supports a trend back to the basics. In doing so, it pinpoints other critical factors involved in improving reading achievement in elementary schools:

- Teachers who used a combination of whole class instruction and small group instruction, while the rest of the class was engaged in silent reading, achieved significantly more learning growth.
- The more time a classroom teacher spent away from a "direct link" to his or her pupils — through absence, inservice training during class hours, or even by using reading aides — the less the pupils learned.
- When principals of elementary schools were former reading professionals, they were more "tuned in" to the importance of reading and better able to motivate teachers.
- Another finding which is sure to be controversial is that in every class of 24-35 pupils, those in larger classes experienced more reading growth than pupils in smaller classes.
- This finding is "startling," says former Federal Reserve Bank economist Anita Summers, who is now a professor of the Warnton School of the University of Pennsylvania and one of the authors of the study.

The test was run repeatedly to verify the results and the same was found each time. Two possible reasons are cited: one, that many recent studies have shown little or no effects of larger classes on pupil achievement; and two, that teachers with larger classes may be forced to instill more discipline and prescribe more silent reading.

Both findings point to the benefit of the teacher's continued, direct, personal involvement with the pupil.

However, there are several variables which were found to make no difference at all in improving reading. These included:

- The mobility of the students and busing.
- The amount of education and administrative experience of the principal.
- The number of graduate courses in reading taken by the classroom teachers and the teacher's experience.
- The professional preparation and experience of the school reading teacher.
- The time spent on reading instruction and whether the instruction was in the morning or afternoon.
- A Philadelphia schools research director, also one of the authors of the study, said he is convinced this time the findings are on solid ground. He says there were extensive cross-validation procedures used in the three-year study which examined almost half a million variables.
- We have long believed that the basics were the best and most effective methods of teaching youngsters. Study after study has indicated that new and innovative concepts in education do not produce results comparable to sound and logical reading techniques.
- Rah, Rah, for the basics of education. — Dan Field.

Dedication services will be conducted Sunday afternoon, Sept. 16, at the newly constructed First Church of Christ, located on Highway 35 east of Wayne.

The Rev. Mark Weber, pastor of the First Church of Christ, said the dedication service will be at 2:30 p.m. with a reception following. The public is welcome to attend.

Guest speaker will be Harold Milliken, president of the Nebraska Christian College in Norfolk. Also taking part in the service will be the Rev. Greg Hafer of the Wakefield Christian Church and the Rev. Robert Kelly of the Norfolk Christian Church.

Special music will include selections by the church choir and a solo by Matt Smith of Wayne. Also singing will be a men's quartet, comprised of Mark Weber, Bob Weber, John Agler and Mike Carney. Pianist is Michelle Weber.

Groundbreaking for the new church was held about a year ago, and construction was completed in early July. The first worship service in the new facility was conducted on July 15.

Pastor Weber said the new facility includes eight classrooms and a kitchen. Seating capacity is 140, with additional seating for 75 in the overflow.

The First Church of Christ which has a membership of about 40 persons, was organized in Wayne in 1926. The first worship services were held in the old City Hall. A copy of years later, the congregation purchased a house at 208 E. 4th St., and in 1935 a church was constructed at the same location.

Pastor Weber began serving at the First Church of Christ in 1974, while he was a student at the Nebraska Christian College. He and his family, which includes his wife Michelle and daughter Tabitha, moved to Wayne in 1976.

The Church of Christ is aimed at the restoration of primitive Christianity, and consequent union of all the followers of Christ in one body. Teachings of the church are based on the New Testament.

K. Nissen Scores TD

South Sioux Too Hot To Handle

In a year of high winds, the Wayne Blue Devils ran into a tornado on the football field this weekend. Playing in one of the longest games in history, the Devils committed seven turnovers and South Sioux's Brett Evans rushed for 185 yards and three touchdowns. Wayne lost their season opener 18-8 in South Sioux, Saturday.

The game was scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Friday at Memorial Stadium on the Wayne State campus but light transformer troubles at the stadium postponed the kickoff until 8:20. Evans scored the first South Sioux touchdown on the first series but a missed point-after attempt failed leaving the score at 6-0.

The two teams exchanged possession of the ball several times when the lights went out at 8:40. The game was officially postponed at 9 p.m. and later moved to South Sioux when the lights could not be repaired. The lights are expected to be repaired in about two weeks.

With 1:23 remaining in the first quarter, the game was continued in South Sioux's stadium, free to the public. The game opened with the Cardinals punting on fourth down and 17 at their own 35 yard line. A fumble on the punt reception gave the Cardinals possession of the ball at the Wayne 32. The teams exchanged the ball twice on turnovers before South Sioux finally began a drive.

The Cardinals moved the ball to the Wayne five yard line but a strong goal line defense prevented them from scoring. Stuart Nissen stopped the fourth down play for a four yard loss and the Devils took over at their own nine yard line as the first half came to an end.

Injuries Hamper Devils

Wayne suffered some setbacks in the game when four players received injuries. Number one running back Rick Johnson was injured on his first carry and missed the rest of the game with a ligament strain. Tim Thomas and Dan Mitchell both sprained the ankles but played despite the injuries.

The most serious injury occurred when Doug Hummel received a concussion. He was taken to a hospital in Sioux City for tests but was released. All of the injured players may be back in action this week and according to coach Stew Cline should be at about 85 percent strength by Friday's game at Blair.

Wayne had a couple of opportunities in the second half but couldn't take advantage of them. South Sioux's Evans scored his second TD in the third quarter. A missed PAT left the score at 12-0. The Cardinals scored another touchdown on a 20 yard run by Evans in the fourth quarter. Stu Nissen blocked the pass on the conversion attempt with South Sioux on top 18-0.

Trailing by three touchdowns, Wayne was forced to pass. An interception, the fourth against the Blue Devils in the game, stopped another attack. The Devil defense tightened and held the Cardinals in their own territory. Stu Nissen blocked a South Sioux punt to give Wayne good field position.

The Blue Devils failed to move the ball in three plays and faced a fourth and 10 play at the Cardinal 37 yard line. Coach Cline, permitted by new high school rules to join his players in a huddle on the field during time out, called the important fourth down play.

Quarterback Jeff Dion dropped back into the pocket appearing to look for receivers. He then tucked the ball under his arm and headed downfield for a first down. Playing with intensity, the Devils moved the ball into scoring position when Dion connected on a pass to Kevin Nissen at the five yard line.

The Wayne offense had troubles moving the ball against the big South Sioux line and found itself facing a third and goal situation from the nine. Dion hit Kevin Nissen again for a nine yard TD pass, breaking the shutout with 2:50 remaining in the game. Bryan Aguirre ran the two point conversion for an 18-8 score.

Wayne State Settles For Tie With Chadron

By Kevin Weiberg
Wayne State SID

The Wayne State College Wildcats failed to take advantage of three scoring opportunities late in the fourth quarter Saturday and had to settle for a 9-9 tie with 13th ranked (NAIA Division II) Chadron State College (CSC) in both squads' season opener at Chadron. The game proved extra costly to the Wildcats when senior wide receiver Jeff Ingrum, Sioux City, suffered a broken collar bone in the opening period.

The game's longest drive behind the outside running of tailback J.D. Hill, scampered 23 yards with 6:21 left in the third quarter for the game's first touchdown. The PAT was wide to the left and CSC led 6-3.

Following an interception, about 10 minutes remaining to tie the score at 9-9. Junior kicker Emanuel's extra point try was wide to the right and the game remained tied.

A CSC fumble and a short punt gave the Wildcats two final scoring opportunities but when Emanuel's 21 yard field goal try strayed wide to the right, the Eagle defense had salvaged the tie.

JEFF INGRUM

Wildcat head coach Del Stoltenberg said he felt his squad should have won the game. "I wasn't very pleased with the outcome of the ballgame," he said. "You know, I thought we should have won the ballgame. We had opportunities to do it several times."

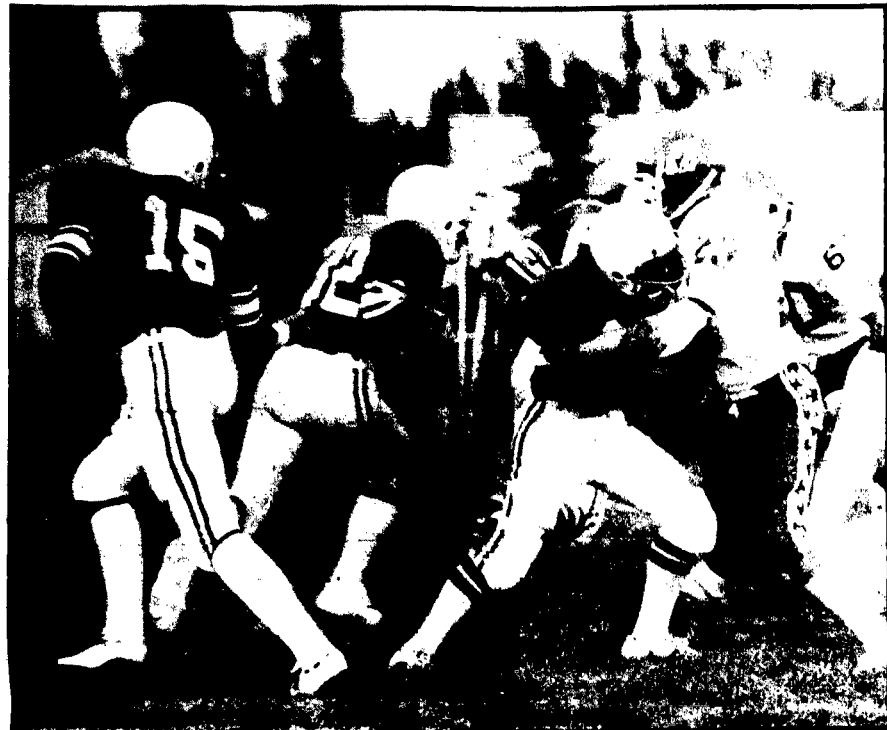

Stoltenberg was impressed with Chadron State's defense. "We played reasonably well offensively," he said. "Chadron was very definitely a veteran defensive ballclub and I think this was evident throughout the course of the game."

The Wildcats' All American tailback Bob Barry gained 90 yards rushing in the game leaving him 108 yards short of a career rushing record at WSC. The senior runner could pick up that yardage when the Wildcats travel to Dakota State College, Madison, S.D. Saturday.

CSC again moved into scoring position but had to settle for a 27 yard field goal by Dennis Brieng to grab a 9-3 lead with 12:14 left in the game.

The Wildcat defense then came up with several big plays forcing the turnover that led to the tying score. Backup quarterback Kelly Neustrom spotted sophomore tight end Ed Blackburn in the end zone on an 11 yard touchdown pass with

Wildcats Travel To Dakota State

Featuring an improved offense and a new coach, the Dakota State College Trojans will entertain Wayne State College at 7:30 p.m., Saturday in Madison, S.D.

The undefeated Trojans, usually among the national leaders in overall team defense (NAIA Division II), have pieced together back-to-back wins in their first two games of the year. The Trojans opened with a 26-20 win over Northwestern, Orange City, Iowa, and followed last week with a 17-14 victory over Southwest Minnesota at Marshall, Minn.

The Trojans have shown an improved offensive attack this season led by junior quarterback Carlos Cornay. Cornay threw for two touchdowns in the Trojans' opener. Other offensive standouts for the Trojans include: Dale Martin a senior wide receiver, Jim Janssen a senior tailback, Pete Daiker a junior fullback and kicker and Brian Leighton a junior wide receiver who had two touchdown catches against Northwestern.

Wayne State's Wildcats are hoping to rebound from a 9-9 tie at Chadron last Saturday.

Though Kelly Neustrom threw the only Wildcat touchdown pass last week, Rick Lade is once again expected to start at quarterback.

All American tailback Bob Barry could set an all-time career rushing record at WSC if he can gain 108 yards against the Trojans. Barry ran for 90 yards on 24 carries at Chadron State.

Dakota State's Trojans are under the first year guidance of Bob Bozied, South Dakota's 1978 high school football coach of the year. Wildcat head coach Del Stoltenberg indicated that Dakota State and WSC have similar philosophies.

"I think Dakota State probably has a similar philosophy as we do and that's the fact that they believe in defense and feel that if the other team doesn't score they can't beat you," Stoltenberg said.

Last year Dakota State raced from behind in the second half and downed the Wildcats 13-9 in Wayne, behind a 60-yard run by Pete Daiker in the third quarter. The Trojans have captured three of the two school's total five meetings.

"This was one of the better South Sioux teams we've faced," said coach Stew Cline. "We couldn't crack their excellent defense. We lost some key personnel which might have made some difference. Evans was an exceptional runner and had a good game against us. Now we have to play Blair. They're an excellent team and they beat Plattsmouth Friday."

Defensive standouts in the South Sioux game were Dan Mitchell, Stu Nissen, Randy Dunklau, Kevin Nissen and Todd Heier. All five of those players scored at least 20 points on a defensive scale set up by Cline. Players were awarded three points for a solo tackle and one point for an assist.

Wayne Trounces Schuyler at Home

Playing well as a team, the Wayne Blue Devils blasted Central Ten Conference foe Schuyler 15-6, 15-3 on the home court in Tuesday night volleyball action.

With Julie Dorcay doing much of the setting and several girls taking turns at the net, the Devils didn't let Schuyler stay close in the match. Lisa Daniels scored six points to lead Wayne in the first game and Stacy Jacobmeier paced the Devils with six points in the second game. The leading spiker in the match was Jolene Bennett. Lynn Surber and Jacobmeier did damage to the Schuyler team with their serving. Terry Johnson aced the final serve of the match. The varsity record is 2-1.

"We played much better to gether tonight. We played as a team," coach Deb Bodenstedt said after the game. "We only missed four serves all night which pleases me. All three setters (Dorcay, Jeanny DeTurk and Jill Zeiss) played real well."

Wayne's B team was forced into a three game match but came out the winner in a tight finish. 15-3, 15-15, 15-13. Tracy Stoltenberg scored six points in the first game win and Teresa Ginn scored six in the last game. Kris Proett and Ginn were the leading bumpers in the match.

The B team easily won the first game but lost the second, forcing a third game. Trailing 9-10, Ginn served four consecutive points to put her team on top 13-10. After the Lady Warriors tied the score at 13-13, Stoltenberg served the final two points for a 15-13 win.

The Blue Devils freshman team lost a three game match 7-15, 15-7, 6-15. Leading scorers were Tammie Murray and Cathy Wieseler.

Third At Beemer

After opening their season with a loss, the Wayne Blue Devils rallied for a victory to place third in the Beemer Invitational Volleyball Tournament. Saturday Wayne lost its opening match 8-15, 4-15 to host Beemer. A 15-10, 14-16, 15-9 win over North Bend placed the Devils third.

"We played well all around against North Bend," coach Bodenstedt said. "Against Beemer, I don't know whether it was nerves or first game jitters or what but we didn't move. We will get better." Lynn Surber was the leading scorer in the first match with seven points. In the second match, Lisa Peters scored 10 points, followed by Jolene Bennett and Surber with nine points apiece.

TAMMIE THOMAS makes a diving save against Schuyler in a volleyball match the Blue Devils won 15-6, 15-3 Tuesday. Stacy Jacobmeier (background) and Lisa Peters (foreground) watch the save.

Eagles Win Pender Invitational Title

The Allen Eagles, continuing where they left off last season, exhibited their potential by downing West Point Central Catholic in three games to win the Pender Invitational volleyball title. Saturday Allen defeated West Point 15-6, 10-15, 15-11 to win the title.

"We played pretty well. We were worried going into the tournament because we weren't setting well. Then, we set nearly 100 percent in our first match," said Allen coach Gary Troth. "Every game was pretty much a carbon copy in the tournament. Last year we lost in the first round. The wins should help us and encourage us."

Troth said that his team didn't play as well in the finals, making some small mental mistakes. But the Eagles played well enough to win. Ann Gwin entered the third game with the Eagles trailing 11-12. Gwin executed three fine serves to lead the team to victory. She played a similar role against Walthill in the semifinals. Des Williams played a good game and substitutes Wendy Lubberstedt and Janet Peterson helped out in the win.

Allen reached the finals by dumping Clarkson 15-9, 15-8 and Walthill 15-3, 15-12. Lisa Erwin, who was selected to the All-Tourney team, teamed with Lisa Wood to lead the Eagles. Colette Kraemer and Beth Stalling handled their setting duties well. Against Walthill, Stacey Koester joined Erwin as the team leaders.

The Eagles served with 83 percent efficiency against Clarkson and with 86 percent efficiency against Walthill. The team made 26 and 29 good spikes respectively in the two games. Allen tallied 55 good spikes in the two matches with 16 kill spikes.

"We served well and played very well together for this early in the season," Troth said. "The team played enthused."

Winside Tops Allen

The Winside volleyball team proved it will again be strong as the Wildcats opened their season with a 15-7, 15-8 win over Allen. Led by Joanie Bowers with seven spikes, five which were aces, Winside won the match in two games on the home court, Tuesday night.

"Everyone did real well. It was a super effort," said Winside coach Jim Winch. "The team was pretty balanced and played like a team with a lot of experience. I was pleased. We got in front in the first game and stayed there. In the second game, we fell behind but the girls held their composure and came back to win."

The Winside B team, behind the serving of Sue Meierhenry defeated Allen 11-6, 12-10. Meierhenry served 10 consecutive points with Winside trailing 10-11 in the second game. The Winside C team won 11-7, 11-8. Winside is scheduled to play at Osmond tonight and will host the Winside Invitational Monday and Tuesday. Allen will play in the invitational.

Homer topped the Bears in the first round action of the Pender Invitational Volleyball Tournament. Friday, Laurel suffered an 11-15, 13-15 loss to open its season.

Dixie Manz and Janet Walton led the Bears with five points in the two games. "Serving killed us," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson. "We kind of overlooked Homer, but ran into a real good team."

First round winners in the tournament were West Point C.C., Walthill, Allen and Homer. Central Catholic defeated Homer and Allen dropped Walthill to set up the finals matchup. Allen won the tournament with West Point finishing second and Walthill third.

2nd Place TIE

$5 WINNER — Tyler Frevert, Winside

$5 WINNER — Dennis Delp, Winside

Our first weekly football contest winner is Steve Schindler. Steve correctly predicted 16 of 20 picks, missing only on Oregon's upset of Colorado, Allen over Winside, Tulane over Stanford and the Wayne State-Chadron State tie. (Note: A tie game is counted incorrect on all entries unless a "tie" is predicted.)

Second place was a dead heat between two contestants from Winside. Tyler Frevert and Dennis Delp each picked 15 winners, so the tie-breaker game was used. However, each predicted South Sioux City over Wayne High by the identical score of 20-14! (Actual score was 18-8). Tyler and Dennis have each been awarded a $5 gift certificate.

Congratulations to our three winners and best of luck to all our prognosticators in this week's contest. Don't forget entries must be postmarked by 5 p.m. THURSDAY for this week's contest.

Community Improvement Deadline Set

Deadline for entries to be judged in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) is Sept. 15, according to Nancy Donovan, NCIP coordinator.

Judging materials for the community awards, special awards, neighborhood awards and All-Nebraska Community awards must be completed and mailed or delivered by the Sept. 15 deadline. Community scrapbooks and All-Nebraska questionnaires should be sent to the Department of Economic Development, Lincoln office.

Special awards judging will take place Sept. 17-28. Donovan reminds communities submitting scrapbooks in the community awards judging categories to also enter the special awards categories.

All Nebraska evaluation of community questionnaires is done by representatives of state agencies with responsibility over the particular categories. Communities submit questionnaires covering 15 categories and if standards are met in each category, the community receives the All-Nebraska distinction for one year.

Community awards judging will take place Oct. 8-10. Out of state judges will evaluate community scrapbooks and pick finalists for personal visitation before choosing winners in each population class.

Bereuter Announces Energy Meeting Planned in Lincoln

The House Small Business Subcommittee on Energy will hold a public hearing in Lincoln later this month to focus on problems businesses have in producing and marketing alternative energy products. Congressman Doug Bereuter announced.

Problems and concerns will be addressed from the standpoint of what the federal government can do to facilitate the development and marketing of alternative energy sources by small business, Bereuter said.

The first Congressional hearing to be held in Lincoln in several years, the hearing is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 28 in room 1515 of the Nebraska Statehouse.

I believe it is particularly appropriate to hold the hearing in Nebraska because of the keen interest here in alternative energy. Great Plains firms have already made substantial efforts in developing and marketing solar energy and biomass conversion and the potential is great for further development in these areas and wind energy, Bereuter said.

Bereuter said he convinced Energy Subcommittee Chairman Thomas Luken, Democrat from Ohio, that a hearing on alternative energy should be held and that Nebraska would be a good location for the first hearing.

The hearing will be the first by Congress this year to focus on actual, rather than potential, marketing and production of alternative energy sources. Development of solar and wind energy, heat generation from waste products and biomass conversion will be highlighted, according to Bereuter.

Witnesses will be asked to suggest ways in which the government can pave the way for alternative energy development by private enterprise. We will not be there to promote particular energy sources or to consider project grants, he said.

The subcommittee will investigate such possibilities as tax credits, guaranteed loans, guaranteed markets, and cutting red tape as well as updating of regulations, codes, and standards, according to Bereuter.

Among representatives from the business community, public officials and energy experts invited to testify are Robert Youngberg, Nebraska State Solar Office; Donald Anderson, director, Mid America Solar Energy Center; Tod Sneller, executive director, State Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee; Holly Hodge, board member, National Gasohol Commission; Ben Wolff, executive director, American Wind Energy Association; Paul Biorn, with Dakota Wind and Sun, Aberdeen, South Dakota; and Bill Fritz, Middle State Manufacturing, Columbus.

"And Now..." is the title of the final session of the series on Oct. 29. John Corcoran, executive director of Region IV office of developmental disabilities at Wayne, will present the session dealing with skills assessment—how to evaluate one's present skills and abilities in the job market.

Cost to attend all six sessions of "Survival Skills for Women" is $10. A minimum enrollment of ten persons at the first session on Sept. 24 is necessary in order to offer the series. Registration will be held at the first meeting.

For more information on "Survival Skills for Women", interested persons may contact Lydia Orda, Allied Health Coordinator at NTCC, in Norfolk, 402-371-2020.

Survival Skills Meeting Topic For Women

What does a woman need to know about property ownership and inheritance laws? What part does self-esteem play in how a woman deals with her life? How can women who "can't do anything" find a job? What can a woman do about how she looks and feels?

These and many other topics will be discussed in a series of six sessions entitled "Survival Skills for Women" sponsored by Northeast Technical Community College. The series of information-awareness sessions is designed for anyone working in the home or outside the home who is concerned about women.

The first session will be offered Monday, Sept. 24, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in room 145 of the MacLay Building at NTCC. Other sessions will meet at the same time on consecutive Monday evenings at the college. Participants may attend any or all of the sessions in the series.

The first session on Sept. 24 is entitled "My Life With a Pat of Butter". The session will discuss the importance of developing self-esteem as a firm foundation to deal with life's problems. Conducting the session will be Dr. Cheryl Beamer, director of extended campus at Wayne State College.

Should a woman plan her own future or should she let the government, her employer, or her spouse plan for her? Kay Peterson, training consultant with Kay Peterson & Associates of Omaha, will deal with this question in a discussion of financial planning for women. This session, entitled "S and Sense for Women" will be held Oct. 1.

Women and the Law, scheduled for October 8, will cover laws concerning Social Security, property ownership, inheritance laws, marital property rights, and other legal issues. Nancy Peetz, J.D., attorney from O'Neill, will lead the session and answer questions.

The Oct. 18 session is entitled "Women and Addiction: Why? Who? How?" Elinor Bartholomew, alcoholism counselor from the Hastings Regional Center, will lead the session and discuss lifestyles of women addicts, self-acceptance problems special to women, and recovery.

A Hartington physician, either Dr. Ruth Demmel, or Dr. Margaret Stockwell, will lead the fifth session on Oct. 22. The session, entitled "Some Time for Me", will cover the importance of nutrition, weight control, sexuality, genetics, and maintenance of health.

The public is invited to attend. A nursery will be provided for families attending with small children.

Land Judging Contests Set

More than 1,500 4-H and FFA members are expected to compete in a series of eight area land judging contests to be held around Nebraska from Oct. 9-18, an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension land use specialist said this week.

Phillip W. Harlan said each area contest is hosted by a Natural Resource District, with technical expertise provided by the Soil Conservation Service and Cooperative Extension Service.

Top teams and individuals will compete in the State Land Judging Contest Oct. 30 at Hastings. The top 4-H and FFA teams in the state contest are eligible to compete in the International Land and Range Judging Contest at Oklahoma City in May, 1980.

In each contest, youths must evaluate soil features, recommend land treatment practices and judge residue effectiveness for erosion control.

At each of four sites, soils feature are judged for depth favorable to rooting, surface soil texture, permeability of subsoil, thickness of surface soil, moisture content of soil and its potential for flooding, slope, organic matter content and its state of erosion.

Once land is classified (Class I land is deep, medium-textured soil with a medium permeability, flat slope and no erosion) contestants are required to recommend proper land treatment practices for a particular soil, Harlan explained. On the farm, it is important to follow recommended cultural and tillage practices and to install proper conservation practices to maintain soil productivity for a long time, he pointed out.

The third aspect of land judging is residue evaluation, Harlan stated. "In this section, contestants judge the amount of wheat, corn, sorghum or other plant material left on the surface to protect it from erosion. It is known that plant residue provides the best protection to the soil against both water and wind erosion," he said.

The following are area contests, with dates, counties and sponsoring NRD (exact locations to be announced later): Oct. 16, Pierce, Lower Elkhorn; Oct. 17 Dixon, Lewis & Clark.

The state contest will be sponsored by the Little Blue NRD. Awards and ribbons for each contest are provided by the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts.

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride

"A wise man turns chance into good fortune..."
Chinese Proverb

A chance turn of events can often be utilized to good advantage. Occasionally, as we go about our everyday business, something totally unexpected will pop up. It may even be a temporary obstacle which must be removed or bypassed.

No matter what happens, the wise man, with vision, courage and spirit of adventure, will try to turn each whim of chance into good fortune. He will succeed often enough to make his efforts well worth while.

Share your family the need for making painful decisions. Arrangements made prior to need will permit you to make all decisions in exact accordance with your desires.

Sales Healthy

Real output in Nebraska increased in May with the physical volume of the state recording a gain of 1.5 percent. The index is 46.7 percent above the 1967 base period.

Writing in "Business in Nebraska," Donald E. Pursell, director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln, noted that May was the third consecutive monthly increase and that the Nebraska economy was led by agriculture, where a substantial 9.3 percent increase in the index was recorded.

Gains were noted in the construction, distributive and government sectors, while a slight decline was recorded in manufacturing in May compared to April.

Next taxable retail sales for Region 11, which includes Wayne County, rose 6.1 percent above the same period a year ago ending in May.

Pursell described the Nebraska economy in May as economically healthy, with few or no signs of recession. May retail sales were up 14.2 percent above year earlier levels. Since January, 1979, retail sales increased 22 percent on a dollar volume basis. Retail sales remained strong in all Nebraska markets with the exception of the state's two major metropolitan areas, Omaha and Lincoln.

On a year-to-date basis, retail sales in Omaha were below the 1978 level. Lincoln managed to match the state gain in retail sales but larger increases were recorded in regions identified by their major trading centers: West Point, York, Lexington, Holdrege and Broken Bow. In many cases the major trading center recorded an increase similar to the region.

While the state's economy continues to expand, the index for Nebraska is still below its 1978 peak.

City Saves $3,000 on Sweeper

THE CITY of Wayne saved itself $3,000 by ordering a new street sweeper last winter. Street Supt. Vern Schulz said the new machine arrived recently and was put to use almost immediately. Bids were received in December and the low quote of Nebraska

Tractor Co. Omaha, was accepted. That figure was $26,000 and included trade-in on the city's old sweeper. Schulz said had the city waited until this spring to order, the same piece of equipment would have cost $33,000 more. Engineer's estimate was $35,000.

Rural Affairs Center Seeks Monitor of Land

The Center for Rural Affairs, Weill Hill, has asked Nebraska Secretary of State Allen J. Beaumont to monitor federal requirements for land ownership reports for possible violations of Nebraska land ownership and reporting laws.

Under Nebraska law, aliens and corporations controlled by aliens cannot hold legal title to Nebraska farmland. Farm corporations are also required to list names of directors who are aliens, and alien shareholders with more than 10 percent of the corporation's stock.

A new federal reporting law, the Agriculture Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978 requires all alien and corporations with more than 5 percent of their ownership report with their country ASCS office.

The federal reporting bill carries much stiffer penalties for failure to file, and contains more information about alien landowners than current Nebraska reporting laws. Center for Rural Affairs co-director Marty Strange said, and would be a valuable aid in enforcing Nebraska's alien land ownership laws.

Nationally, between 5,000 and 6,000 of the federal reports were filed by the end of August, according to an article in the Center's "New Land Review" news magazine.

Of these, only 3,772 were considered "complete" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Reports are considered incomplete if corporations fail to list the names of alien owners and investors.

Given such incomplete reports were filed in Dund County Nebraska, and the Center for Rural Affairs has requested Dund County Attorney James D. Owen's office investigate the ownership characteristics of the farm corporations involved. The 15 corporations own over 13,000 acres of Dund County farm land, more than 8,000 of which are irrigated.

The Center for Rural Affairs has requested copies of federal disclosure reports filed in all 93 of Nebraska's counties. Initial responses from 38 counties have revealed disclosure reports in Antelope, Cass and Thurston counties as well as Dund.

The reports list alien investors from Germany, Switzerland, the British Honduras and Canada.

Bluegrass Rust Prominent Now

Rust of bluegrass is a late summer problem in Nebraska which increases in severity in late August and September when grass growth slows. The causal organism, a fungus, may affect ryegrasses as well as bluegrasses. Some species of fungus have been known to affect all lawn grasses grown in the Midwest.

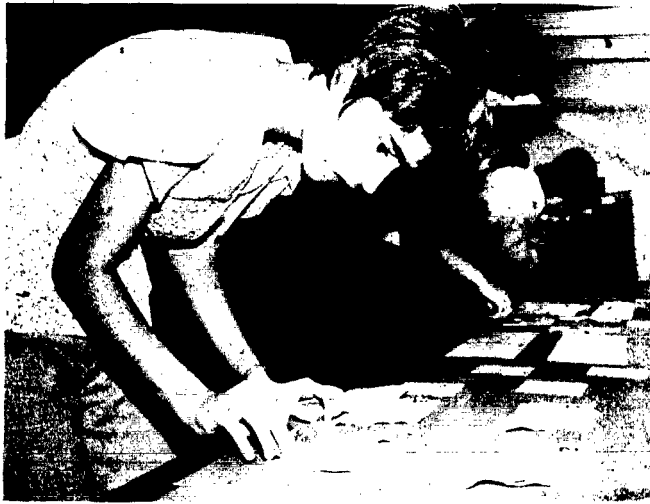

Rust is fairly easy to recognize on grass blades. Infected grass becomes reddish or somewhat yellow-orange. These colored areas are powdery and will rub off onto fingers and clothing. The powder is actually millions of tiny rust spores which can be spread by wind and water or by mechanical means such as lawn mowing or walking on the lawn.

The disease may cause grass to become yellowish or brownish and possibly to die. Grass also becomes more susceptible to winter injury.

Rust can be controlled by several measures. Proper watering and fertilizing are vital. Lawns in Nebraska need about one and a half to two inches of water a week and should be watered deeply and infrequently to develop deep, healthy root systems. Fertilizer applications should be made in late fall and early spring if two applications are desired.

Fungicides are effective against rust and should be used when rust is first seen and at seven to 14-day intervals as needed, depending on severity, one or two applications should solve the problem. Zineb at the rate of two ounces per 1,000 square feet, Daconil 2787 at the rate of two to eight ounces per 1,000 square feet or Tersan LSR at three to four ounces per 1,000 square feet are a few fungicides that give control. Lawn disease preventer (PCNB) also can be used. Be sure to follow label directions for correct results.

Conditions this fall are ideal for rust development. The relatively cool days and nights with heavy dew make rust occurrence highly probable, so keep a lookout for this disease.

Wayne County Extension Agent

Firewoods The animal's body for 89 months. In Nebraska, warble or heel flies are active during May, attaching eggs to hairs low on the animal's body. The newly hatched grub crawls down the hairs and penetrates the skin. They slowly work their way through the animal's body until they reach the gutlet (common cattle grub) or the spinal canal (the northern cattle grub). They remain in the gutlet or spinal canal for several months before migrating to the animal's back where they will eventually work their way out, drop to the ground and pupate.

Time to treat The safest time to interrupt the travel is before they reach the gutlet and spinal canal — between now and Oct. 1. The latest date to administer a grubicide to native cattle would be Nov. 1. After this time, dead grubs may cause a host-parasite reaction.

If grubs are in the gutlet, swelling of the throat area may become extensive enough to cause bloating and possible death. A reaction with the northern grub in the spinal canal can cause partial to complete paralysis of the rear legs.

There are several systemic sprays, dips, feed preparations and pour-on insecticides registered for grub control. None of the systemic preparations can be used on lactating dairy cows. Dry cows and young dairy stock can be treated systemically if the proper withdrawal time is observed.

There are two species of cattle grubs in Nebraska: the common cattle grub and the northern cattle grub. Both travel through

Grain Alcohol, Diesel Fuel Blend Isn't Advantageous

Using a blend of grain alcohol (ethanol) and diesel fuel to power farm tractors does not appear economically or technically advantageous at this time.

If a farmer wishes to burn alcohol in a diesel engine he should consider adding an alcohol injection into the intake manifold. The diesel fuel is then used to ignite the alcohol. For farmers wishing to raise their own fuel for diesel engines, vegetable oils may be a viable alternative.

That's the belief of Dr. William Splinter, head of the Agricultural Engineering Department, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, who notes that a blend of vegetable oils with diesel oil, injected into a diesel engine chamber, burns readily.

"Many grains high in oil content could easily be raised as fuel crops," Splinter said, "and vegetable oils could be extracted by the farmer with much less trouble than the production of ethanol."

This is true because most of the oil could be extracted by crushing and pressing. Complete extraction would require the use of chemical solvents, however, Splinter explained.

Lincoln staff member said an added plus to using soybeans as a blending agent is that the residue is an excellent protein supplement. Sunflowers, castor beans, peanuts, rapeseed and safflower are other oil seed crops that would work as a blending agent.

The idea of using vegetable oils as an energy source is not new, according to Splinter. Research on this concept was done at UNL in 1949 and 1959 by graduate students, he said.

"The matter of applying this concept today with the current oil situation deserves some attention," Splinter added. For example, some sunflower varieties yield 47 percent oil, which would amount to 94 gallons per acre of oil for a yield of 1,400 pounds. Soybeans at 35 bushels per acre could yield 54 gallons per acre of oil. The problem today is that equipment capable of extracting vegetable oil on the farm does not exist. There is a research proposal in the making about just such an effort.

The energy rating for a vegetable oil-diesel fuel blend is close to that of just plain diesel fuel, Splinter said that it is just a little lower, on a per pound of fuel basis because of the oxygen in the vegetable oil molecule, but this is no problem since slightly more fuel could be injected to get the same horsepower. He added that the racks are adjustable as well.

Splinter emphasized that with vegetable oils, a farmer can use any blend percentage he likes.

"It could be burned at 10, 50 or even 100 percent," he said. "It would just be a matter of some adjustments."

An experimental blend of vegetable oil and diesel fuel was demonstrated at the 1979 IANR Tractor Power and Safety Day at Mead. Splinter reported that there was some problem with engine starting using straight vegetable oil, when the engine was cold, however, that problem was reduced after the injector system was warmed up.

"The only problem we can see using this blend is that the viscosity is different for different oils," he said. Oil of too high a viscosity creates injection problems.

One way to alleviate this problem is to preheat the fuel to some known temperature to give the required viscosity index. This temperature can be predetermined, according to Splinter.

Splinter said that the oil extraction can be done either commercially or by individual farmers.

"That is one of those things that will have to be figured out to determine which will be the more economical," he said.

Cattle Needing Extra Bedding

Thinking of last winter may not cool you off now, but it might encourage planning for some extra feed or bedding for the beef cow herd next winter.

This past winter, many beef producers got caught with low feed and bedding supplies, according to Dr. Paul Guyer, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension beef specialist. The result, he said, was that cattle were short of feed and didn't have a bedded area to lie down on, which would have decreased cold weather stress to some extent.

Now is the time to plan for harvesting some low quality roughage to use for bedding during periods of weather stress next year, Guyer said. Wheat straw, oats straw, corn stover and milo stover all make acceptable bedding, he said.

For bedding, most crop residues can be stored two or three years, if kept in a well drained area so stack or bale bottoms do not deteriorate appreciably, the specialist said.

These residues also can be used to provide much of the dry cow's ration. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln staff member said. Oats straw and milo stubble are somewhat more nutritious than corn stover or wheat straw, he added. When used for feed, however, these low quality roughages need to be supplemented with high protein forages of plant protein concentrates, rather than supplements containing urea, for satisfactory results, he said.

How much should be harvested for extra feed and bedding is a difficult decision, Guyer said. "Many winters, none will be needed, so moderation should be the rule."

Judging Team Is Third at State

The Wayne County 4-H dairy judging team placed third over all in the State Fair Judging Contest.

The team won the Holstein and Jersey judging division. Dennis W. Anderson was third high individual overall. Judy Bauermeister was eighth high individual overall and second high in the Holstein division. Other members of the dairy judging team included Dennis J. Anderson and Wes Sprouis.

Among the high yields is Silene dimorpha — a plant that has been found growing in the Himalayas at more than 20,000 feet.

Board Moves To Maintain Services

The governing board of the Region IV office of Developmental Disabilities met Friday in Sioux City to take action on several issues, including discontinuance of the children's developmental services, offered in the Region IV area programs.

LB 402 (1977) mandates that the education of developmentally disabled children is the responsibility of the public education system, but school district representatives present at the meeting called for more time so programs comparable to those available through Region IV could be developed, officials report.

Some parents of children who are being served by the Region IV programs were present and indicated satisfaction with the services provided, expressing concern at the proposed discontinuance of services. The major worry was that a gap or break in their children's education might possibly occur while programs were being developed by the school systems.

After much discussion, action was taken by the governing board and the following policy was adopted:

"That the Region IV office of Developmental Disabilities continue children's developmental services, both residential and developmental, for at least two years, where needed and where facilities exist; that the governing board will review progress of the school systems after one year; and that the Region IV executive director will work with the school districts and Educational Service Units to facilitate the phasing out of the Region IV Children's Developmental Services programs.

This decision was made by a unanimous vote of the governing board.

The Region IV office of Developmental Disabilities is one of six regional offices in Nebraska providing community based services for mentally retarded individuals. The board consists of county commissioners from Antelope, Boone, Boyd, Brown, Burr, Cedar, Colfax, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Knox, Madison, Nance, Pierce, Platte, Rock, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne counties.

Wheat Export Needs Clarity

"At a time when there is considerable talk about U.S. wheat exports, it may be necessary to put this wheat export picture in perspective and explain just what it means to the U.S. consumer," says Dan McGuire, chief of the Nebraska Wheat Division.

Nebraska wheat producers invest their own money in wheat promotion (foreign and domestic) through a wheat check-off (1/2 penny per bushel sold commercially). How does the Nebraska wheat check-off increase wheat exports and who benefits?

The Nebraska Wheat Committee authorizes wheat check-off dollars (wheat producer money) to help support wheat promotion around the world. The dollars work through Great Plains Wheat, Inc. and Western Wheat Associates (producer-run organizations supported by wheat producers in 12 other states). GPW and WWA promote U.S. wheat around the world. When this work began in 1956, U.S. wheat exports were 200 million bushels. Today they are 1.3 billion bushels.
