New Jury Duty Rules Result in New Format

New jury lists are being compiled by staff members of the Wayne County District Court under provisions of LB 234 which Aug. 24 changed regulations regarding jury duty.

Emphasis, Inc. Trial Ordered

In Wayne County District Court action Friday, Judge Merrill C. Warren signed a pre-trial order setting tentative trial date of Jan. 28 in a civil case involving Emphasis, Inc.

The original suit was filed in March of 1976 by plaintiffs Lester L. Wacker, Delores A. Wacker, Andrew Manes and Marion Manes on behalf of themselves and all other persons vs. Wayne L. Cox, Sidney L. Cox, Charles Thomas, Robert LaMotte and Emphasis Inc., Norfolk.

The suit seeks that defendants "account for, restore and pay the funds misappropriated and damages resulting from their negligent failure to provide a reserve for restarting" the corporation.

According to the original suit, the Wayne Development Fund was established in 1973 to "promote, solicit and sell shares of common or preferred stock."

The suit says that after the plaintiffs paid $5,000 for stock, the defendants, by "manipulation of subsequent stock issue in some manner not known to the plaintiffs, retained control, domination and direction of the policies and actions of the corporation."

The suit alleges that "no stockholder meetings were held, no officers or directors elected, no reports were made and no information was furnished to plaintiffs and other stockholders by way of prospectus, statement of financial condition" until the events had occurred giving rise to these actions.

Judge Warren's order came at conclusion of a pre-trial conference here.

selected and sent questionnaires which also are new under the Aug. 24 regulations. Two of the major changes involve the age of those eligible to serve and the types of professions qualified to serve.

Previously, only registered voters 21 years old and above were eligible to serve, and the maximum age limit was 69 years old. Now, the minimum age for jury duty is 19 while the maximum age requirement has been removed completely. The judge is empowered to decide on the possible competence of prospective jurors.

In addition, the automatic exemption for ministers, county commissioners, attorneys, doctors, dentists, druggists, postmen, embalmers, members of the fire department and teachers during the school was removed. Only the court will have the authority to exempt anyone, according to the new statute.

Another major change will be the reduction of the period during which a juror can be required to serve in the past jurors could serve during a six-month period. Now, the time span is four weeks.

Lions Need $2,000 More

The fund-raising campaign for the "Jaws of Life" project by the Wayne Lions Club has topped the $3,000 mark with another $2,000 left to go before the hydraulic rescue tool can be purchased.

Stan Hansen, chairman of the project for the Wayne Lions, said he has been pleased with the response to the mail campaign and urged those who received a letter and have not yet sent in their contribution to do so at their earliest convenience.

Hansen also urged organizations and individuals who have not been formally contacted to consider contributing to the worthwhile community project.

Fred Webber, Lions Club president, said a door-to-door solicitation for the "Jaws of Life" project will be combined with the club's annual Halloween candy sale to be held in Wayne and Carroll Oct. 1 and 2.

Wayne Ranks High in Cattle Numbers

THIS AREA is considered one of the major cattle feeding areas of the nation as evidenced by the feedlot on the Con Munson farm northeast of Wayne. Wayne County ranks 10th among Nebraska's 93 counties and the state usually is second or third in the nation for total number of cattle on feed. There are an estimated 90,600 cattle on feed in the county, the county Extension office reports.

State Restricts Spending

County Improvement Fund Tops Half Million

More than half a million dollars has accumulated in the Wayne County Improvement Fund since the county board attached a 1.5-mill levy to the tax rolls in 1963, the Wayne Herald has learned.

The board's action in 1963, and renewed in 1973, was in accordance with Nebraska legislation approved in 1943. However, the money can be used only for erection or repair of a jail or courthouse, or acquisition of a site for either.

At the end of August, a balance of $514,937.54 was on hand in the fund.

THE LAW initially was established by the Unicameral so county boards could make long-term plans for construction and not have to burden taxpayers with a bond issue. The Wayne County Board of 1963, looking down the road, decided to take advantage of the law and implemented the levy.

However, as the fund began to grow and county officials looked toward a new or renovated facility, inflation entered the picture and outpaced the growth of the fund.

Wayne County taxpayers were spared the burden of a bond issue in the mid-1960's when a new jail was constructed. The jail, which included living accommodations for the county sheriff and family, cost about $125,000 to build.

Expenditures out of the County Improvement Fund for fiscal years 1965-66 and 1966-67 amounted to $35,150 and $96,785 respectively. While most of this was for construction of the jail and living facilities, there were other improvements made to the courthouse those years.

SINCE THE fund was established, expenditures in 1965-66 and 1966-67 were the largest.

Members of the current county board said Tuesday they plan to continue the

Pork Producers Cancel Show

Board members of the Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers have voted to cancel their live hog show for this year.

Conditions prevail which make it impossible to have the event this year, a spokesman for the group said. Future such events will be announced as circumstances dictate, he added.

The awards banquet will be held Nov. 4 at the Wayne State College student union building. The queen contest will be held in conjunction with the banquet and entries may be sent to the following persons:

Mrs. Clarence Beckmann, Rosalie, 68055; Mrs. Larry Nichols, Wayne, 68787; or Mrs. Francis Lusler, Hubbard, 68741.

levy, now at only 20 hundredths of a mill, with the hope of someday building a new facility or remodeling the present court house.

Year	Levy	Amount Generated	Expenditures
1964	1.50	$43,930	$ 0
1965	1.50	40,481	187
1966	1.50	44,549	35,150
1967	1.50	45,943	96,785
1968	1.50	54,350	1,600
1969	75	27,247	15,166
1970	26	9,700	3,883
1971	25	9,355	4,025
1972	25	9,462	3,635
1973	25	10,022	5,450
1974	25	10,842	0
1975	25	10,723	0
1976	23	9,581	0
1977	23	10,915	0
1978	20	9,567	4,957

ALL AGREED that the half million dollars on hand now would not provide much toward a new courthouse. Inflation, they noted, has pushed the cost of construction materials, architectural fees, etc. to a prohibitive level.

In addition, they noted, the courthouse was declared an historical "showplace" in May of this year by the U.S. Department of the Interior.

With the courthouse designated as a "showplace," the county is eligible for federal funds for money to restore the property. Also, the designation is a form of limited protection in that anytime there is a federally funded project, the Federal Advisory Council of Historic Preservation must be given a chance to comment on the project to be assured there is no damage to historic property.

Wayne County's current board agreed that the 1963 board that took advantage of the Nebraska law deserves a pat on the back. Although $500,000 will not buy much today toward a new facility, it will help cushion the cost of any directives by the state Fair Marshal's office concerning violations at the present facility, the board said.

"Besides," one member noted, "I'm not sure the taxpayers would stand for a bond issue now anyway."

Accumulates Interest
County Treasurer Leon Meyer pointed out that from 1964 through 1970, interest from the money generated by the mill levy was put back into the Improvement Fund.

In June of 1971, the county board passed a resolution to place the interest in the General Fund rather than the Improvement Fund. While this has prevented the Improvement Fund from accumulating more money, placing the interest in the General Fund has held down the overall county levy, he said.

MEYER SAID state law forbids the levy from climbing above 14.25 mills, and the interest money from the Improvement Fund has helped prevent this. For example, he noted, the mill levy for 1977 reached 13.46, less than three quarters of a mill under the limit.

Also, Meyer said inheritance tax money was placed in the Improvement Fund until 1971 when a separate fund was established.

The 1.5 mill levy was maintained through 1968 when it was dropped to 75 hundredths of a mill in 1969. The levy dropped again in 1970 to just 26 hundredths of a mill and then to 25 of a mill in 1971. It remained there until 1976 when it fell again to 23 of a mill. The county board dropped the levy to just 20 of a mill for 1978 and is expected to drop it again for 1979.

THE FIRST six years the levy was attached were the most productive years. Some $43,930 was realized in 1964, some $40,481 the next, $44,549 in 1965, etc. The most generous year was 1968 when, based on an improvement Fund levy of 1.50, the county generated $54,350 based on an assessed valuation of $36,330,435.

Since the levy was attached to the tax rolls in 1963, it has generated an estimated $337,112.60. The remainder of the balance is from interest and inheritance tax. While interest was put into the General Fund in about 1971, some inheritance tax money was placed in the Improvement Fund on several occasions, Meyer noted.

EXPENDITURES from the fund, with the majority being for construction and completion of the county jail, have been for improvements such as remodeling of the Veterans Service Office, air conditioning of the courtroom, repairs to the roof, new gutters, etc.

A spokesman for the Fire Marshal's office said records going back to 1972 do not show any inspection of the Wayne Courthouse.

Records prior to that are no longer available, he said, and inspections are not made on a regular basis but usually by request.

The jail was inspected in 1973 and minor violations were corrected.

Ed Commissioner: Too Many School Districts

Capitol News by Melvin Paul, Statehouse Correspondent, The Nebraska Press Association

State Education Commissioner Anne Campbell believes the state has too many school districts but admits she doesn't know what the "magic number" of districts is.

During a recent meeting of the state Legislature's Education Committee, Mrs. Campbell said the state Education Department probably could lower its administrative costs if there was a reduction in the number of districts.

While replying to questions from Lincoln Sen. Chris Beutler, the education commissioner said, "I have said repeatedly I think we have too many school districts, but I don't know what the magic number is. We simply cannot keep track of what's going on in our schools."

Nebraska with about 1,100 districts has more than any other state.

The purpose of the hearing before the Education Committee was to give its members a better understanding of the funding, services, personnel, programs, organization and structure of the state Education Department.

For some time, the state's lawmakers, at least some of them, have been debating the wisdom of reducing the number of school districts. Some of the department officials have said care would have to be exercised because of unique school problems that exist in sparsely settled regions of the state.

On another matter, Mrs. Campbell said her department has problems in hiring the most qualified personnel. The reason is the state's salary schedule, she said.

"The strength of this department is in the people who work in it," the commissioner told the committee. "We have difficulty attracting the most qualified."

The department also wants to have funds for hiring a bilingual staff member because an estimated 700 children of the more than 1,700 "boat families" are attending Nebraska schools, Mrs. Campbell said.

Tech college worries

The state law that will alter the funding system next year for the six technical community college areas is causing some concern among community college officials.

The Legislature's Education Committee was advised there may be problems in financing needed building projects if the colleges lose their authority to impose a property tax for building needs.

Presently, the schools may levy up to 2 mills for operations and up to 1 mill for capital construction. If the total does not go beyond 2.5 mills. But there is a provision in the law for terminating the capital construction levy on July 1, 1980.

Some of the tech college spokesmen told the committee they will not be able to repair and renovate many of their structures and meet future educational needs if their capital construction mill-levying authority is not renewed. According to survey results presented to the committee, 167 tech college buildings are in need of rehabilitation.

In addition, Robert Cox, president of Northeast Technical Community College, said ending of the funding mechanism for building projects would hinder development greatly.

Issuance of revenue bonds for capital construction projects is "not a suitable alternative in a 20-county area," Cox told the committee. Other officials testifying at the hearing agreed.

Standards reinstated

Specific standards for health care services have been reinstated into the rules and regulations for the state's certificate-of-need law.

About a month ago, the state health board voted to consider the standards as guidelines and not give them the effect of rules and regulations. But the state Justice Department said that kind of arrangement was not acceptable.

In a letter to the department, Assistant Attorney General Marilyn Hutchinson said either the standards apply or they don't.

The certificate of need law was supposed to have gone into effect on Sept. 1. The statute requires health care providers to show before building, buying expensive equipment or adding additional services.

The Health Department won't begin implementing the law until the rules and regulations have the okay of the attorney general, have been filed with the reviser of statutes and secretary of state, and have been signed by the governor.

Just when that will happen, no one knows for certain.

The standards will be used by Health

Department staff members to analyze proposals in nine areas — acute-care hospital beds, long-term care beds, obstetric services, neonatal care, pediatric beds, open heart surgery, diagnostic and therapeutic radiology and end-stage renal disease.

Dr. Warren Bosley of Grand Island, a health board member, said inclusion of the standards does not permit the flexibility needed, especially when considering projects from rural hospitals and nursing homes.

Terry Dutton, attorney with the department's section of hospitals and medical facilities, said there will be room for exceptions to cover special cases.

Wants to meet with regents

Gov. Charles Thone has advised the University of Nebraska Board of Regents he wants to discuss a requested 15 percent increase in the University's 1980-81 budget.

Before he left on his recent trade promotion tour to Europe, Thone sent a letter to Regent Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff and advised he will "not recommend such an increase and would like to meet with the regents on this."

Regent Edward Schwartzkopf of Lincoln, who received a copy of the letter, said he believes the proposed meeting is a good idea. Schwartzkopf and NU President Ronald Roskens said they were not surprised the governor doesn't plan to recommend the proposed increase.

Thone's spending proposals have been based on restricting the overall state tax budget to annual increases of 7 percent.

In his letter to Simmons, the governor said, "The university system has not appreciably fallen behind the rest of state government nor the rest of post-secondary education in Nebraska, since the 1973-74 fiscal year."

Thone added in terms of general tax support for post-secondary education, "Nebraska taxpayers 'have nothing to be ashamed of in comparison with other states.'"

He said all the needs of state government will be considered and all sectors will be treated "fairly" when "spending" recommendations are being made.

"We will establish priorities, and the University will not go unnoticed," Thone said.

While commenting on the governor's letter, Schwartzkopf said how the 15 percent increase proposal fares in the Legislature could hinge on the state's economy in the months ahead.

OBSERVATIONS

Caught in the Middle

The Wayne County board is sitting on a veritable treasure chest but is caught up in the time-honored axiom of "damned if they do and damned if they don't."

An estimated $514,000 is sitting in the Wayne County Improvement Fund and can be used only for construction or repair of the courthouse or county jail. Nebraska law dictates that.

Some will criticize the board for allowing the money to lie idle (although it is generating interest), while others will complain if the board moves to renovate the courthouse or build another. Board members are caught between a rock and a hard place.

More than half a million dollars has accumulated in the Improvement Fund since a 1.5 mill levy was imposed on the tax rolls in 1963. Some of the money was used in the mid 1960's to build and furnish the county jail, while more of it was used for remodeling and other improvements at the courthouse.

Members of the current county board are faced with a dilemma. Do they undertake construction of a new courthouse when $500,000 won't buy much on today's construction market? Or do they let the money continue to accumulate while inflation rises at a pace faster than interest rates? And to compound matters even further, the courthouse is considered an historic "showpiece" by the U.S. Department of the Interior. It can't be abandoned.

The board truly is in an unenviable position. The trend today is away from burdening the taxpayer with bond issues or similar tax askings. For instance, Nebraska's political subdivisions are saddled with a seven percent lid limit on budget receipts. Congress, surprisingly, is beginning to watch its spending a little closer.

The state Fire Marshall's office hasn't inspected the courthouse for at least seven years and possibly longer. Records available in Lincoln support this.

It is virtually certain that if the fire marshal were to make a spot inspection, a long list of violations would be found — violations which should be corrected for the safety of courthouse employees and customers.

We hope the county board will consider these problems carefully. The proper expenditure of more than half a million dollars is at stake and the elected board members are qualified to make a rational decision — Dan Field.

How would we survive without the Department of Energy? I've often noted this bureaucracy spends almost as much as the major oil companies make in profits, but has yet to strike oil. Well, at least now you'll know what they do. Here's an excerpt from form CLC9004A instructing your service station operator how much to charge you for your gasoline.

"If the amount shown on Line 8 is greater than the amount on Line 1, then multiply the difference by the unit cost shown on Line 5. If the amount on Line 8 is less than the amount shown on Line 1, then go back to each succeeding delivery prior to the delivery used in computing Line 6 and add these deliveries to the amount shown on Line 6 until the total number of gallons delivered equals or exceeds the amount on Line 7. The total costs associated with these deliveries, if Line 8 now exceeds Line 1, then multiply the difference by the unit cost of the earliest delivery used to adjust line 6.

Isn't we lucky the Post Office finally came through and got all the forms delivered before the gas crunch hit?

BULLETIN TO JANE FONDA

TOM HAYDEN AND RALPH NADEK You are cordially invited to promote and attend an anti nuclear protest against a Soviet designed system about to be built in Cuba. "National Review" reports a U.S. scientist believes the system will apparently lack two key safety features common to nuclear plants in the United States and Europe. A steel and concrete outer casing and a back up cooling system. As a result, writes Jorge F. Perez Lopez in "Cuban Studies," a meltdown not only would be disastrous for Cubans, but could affect neighboring areas including southern Florida." Now there's a real threat.

"ASK NOT WHAT YOUR COUNTRY CAN DO FOR YOU"

Andrew Bavas tried to save taxpayers some money but he paid the price. The Chicago based Health, Education and Welfare executive told his superiors he didn't need their $1,272 raise — his $43,000 a year salary was quite sufficient thank you. Andrew's boss told him Civil Service regulations forbade such a refusal. But Bavas refused again, and was ordered to a position in Philadelphia at an $8,000 cut in pay. So Bavas quit. But even then he found himself wrapped in red tape, unable to locate the proper form on which to hand in his resignation.

INFLATION REMAINS. SCAPEGOATS CHANGE

Each month I look forward to learning who the government will blame for the latest bad news on consumer prices. Inflation remains, but scapegoats change. Recently the meat middlemen got a rare taste of what it's like to be publicly grilled by the President himself. No one who witnessed that fender confrontation reported the President acknowledging that the rate of increase in meat prices over the last decade lags way behind increases in federal spending and taxes. If Carter does not believe the federal government itself has raised meat prices, maybe he should quit beefing and start reading. He would find there are approximately 265 statutes related to the ground beef industry, 41,000 regulations, and 111,000 court decisions to interpret the regulations affecting production, processing and distribution.

A California city official, writes "U.S. News and World Report," was so angered by government-mandated paperwork that he saved all the papers and reports sent to him by federal, state and local government over three years.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 Years Ago September 15, 1949: Dale Dicknite has purchased the Goebel Drug Store in Wisner. He took over the business Sunday.

A palomino mare, owned by Darrell Erwin, Dixon, was killed by lightning Sunday night in a pasture west of Town. A colt with the mare was unharmed.

The colony of trailer homes located at 13th and Pearl Street is being given to the city of Wayne by the federal government. The acceptance agreement provides that the city must maintain the trailers and continue a "veterans preferred" policy in their rental. Between five and six inches of rain fell at Dixon Saturday night, causing flood conditions. The creek south of town was full to the banks. Planks used for seats in the outdoor movie floated out on the road and some of the walk coverings were lofted out of place by excessive rains.

The Wayne State campus acquired a definite foreign flavor this week with the enrollment of seven students from scattered parts of the world. The seven are among about 500 new students registered for the fall semester.

Enrollment at Wayne State College passed the 2,000 mark this week, and additional evening class registrations are expected to bring the total close to the 3,000 of a year ago. President W.A. A NEW FOOD WAS INVENTED, TOO! Canned Tuna — today a mainstay in more than 80% of American homes, was packed for the first time in the U.S. in 1933. Today, more than 30 million cases of tuna are packed annually, and are valued at $850 million!

A special thank you to the many umpires who throughout the season volunteered their time to help carry out our games, and the umpires during the tournament who gave up their weekend and put in many hours of service.

A special thank you to Frank Teach and WSC for the use of the fields, to Denny Spangler and the Armory for the use of their field, and to the city for the use of the City Ball Park.

Congratulations go out to Gooches for their victory in the tournament and to Winside's first place in the League.

And last but not least to the other teams and the many, many people who volunteered time and donated money to help support our League and establish a fund for the future.

Dear Editor, We in extreme northern Emerson township are concerned about the condition of our roads, especially the last 4 miles of county road in the township. They are extremely dangerous because they are so full of ruts and ditches and have little or no gravel on them. Someone is going to have a bad wreck or get killed on them. These are heavily traveled schoolbus and mail routes. The Governor and national guard commander should tour our area and declare it a disaster area also, such as they did Ponca.

In Otter Creek township also in the 7th district of Dixon County all the county roads and mail routes are being well graded and have been gravelled not once but as many as three times with the very best gravel from Akron, Iowa. Why the unfair treatment? We in northern Emerson township pay heavy taxes too and are entitled to good roads also as well as Otter Creek township and the rest of Emerson township. We are also being forced to pay an extra two mills for the County disaster fund. Why not use it on our roads too? Emerson township can also afford to gravel and grade their roads better too. They had almost $10,000 left from last year's taxes. Thanks to revaluation.

The County board and township boards know of these conditions and yet do nothing. Why? Are they waiting for a wreck or someone to get killed?

George Emmons Rt. 2, Emerson

Hansen TD Lifts WSC Wildcats To Win Over Dakota State

By Kevin Weibers
Wayne State SID
 Wayne State College quarterback Rick Lade, connected with senior wide receiver Marty Hansen on a 58-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter Saturday in Madison, S.D., ensuring a 24-22 victory for the Wildcats over the previously undefeated Dakota State Trojans.

The game consisted of two contrasting halves. The opening 30 minutes was a defensive struggle with both teams enjoying controlled scoring drives, while the second half was marked by wide open offensive plays and quick scores. Defensive end Tim Hurlley, got the Wildcats on the scoreboard first when he sacked Trojan quarterback Carlos Cornay in the end zone. The safety, with 11:15 left in the opening period, proved to be the difference in the ball game, as both squads came up with three touchdowns, a two-point conversion and two one-point PATs. Both teams pieced together second quarter scoring drives thanks to costly penalties. Dakota State took advantage of a pass interference penalty and a personal foul to go 57 yards for their only lead of the game, 7-2, with 7:35 to go in the half. Jim Janssen plunged over from two yards out for the score. The Wildcats also capitalized on a personal foul to move 65-yards to retake the lead 10-7 with 25 seconds left in the half. Lade plunged over from the one-yard line for WSC's first touchdown.

record On the very next play Lade spotted Hansen on the 58 yard pass play that secured the win.

BILL SCHWARTZ

Dakota State pieced together one final desperation drive but when Brad Hoffman, Chambers, covered an inside kick with 30 seconds remaining the Trojans had run out of scoring opportunities. Wildcat football coach Del Stollenberg said he was pleased with his club's overall effort. "I was pleased with the fact we were able to come back after they put a lot of pressure on us," he said. "Our offense very definitely sputtered at times and, of course, we've got some new people in there and I think this is going to happen."

Dakota State's Janssen entered the game the nation's 15th leading rusher (NAIA) but was limited to 29 yards by the Wildcat defense. Far below his 117.5 yard average.

Wayne Eighth Grade Earns Tie

The Wayne eighth grade football team opened its season with a hard fought 6-6 tie with Norfolk Catholic, Tuesday on the home field. The second half saw both teams struggle with the ball between the 30 yard lines. Both teams failed to score and the game ended 6-6. James Poehlman led the team with eight tackles and three assists. Brian Loberg, Layne Marsh, Layne Luaders, Brendon Dorsey and Blaine Jones were the other top defensive players. The Wayne boys played hard and everyone was proud of their efforts, coach Al Hansen said. The eighth graders are not scheduled to play again until Oct. 2 at Hartington Holy Trinity.

Emerson Wins Winside Tourney Over Host Team

The Emerson-Hubbard Pirates won their fourth consecutive title in the Winside Invitational Volleyball tournament, beating the host Wildcats 15-8, 15-11, Tuesday night.

Winside reached the finals with wins over Coleridge 3-15, 15-13, 15-10 and over Wynot 15-12, 8-15, 16-14. Emerson defeated Pierce 15-7, 6-15, 15-9 and Laurel 15-5, 15-9.

Joanie Bowers and Marci Thomas played well for Winside, leading the team in net play. Julie Krajicek was the team leader in setting.

Emerson was a big hurdle. I was just pleased to reach the finals," said Winside coach Jim Winch. "Our team is playing well. This is the first time we beat Wynot under their present coach. The conference title could be up for grabs."

Winside holds a 3-2 record against what Winch described as "five good teams." In other tournament action, Laurel defeated Wakefield 15-13 and 15-10 in the first round. The Bears lost to Emerson in the semifinals and then settled for fourth place after a 15-11, 15-8 loss to Wynot in the consolation match.

Wynot edged Osmond in the other first round match 15-17, 15-11, 15-10. Winside is scheduled to play at Wausa Tuesday. Laurel hosts Plainview tonight and Wakefield hosts Wausa tonight.

Wayne State Cats Open Home Season, Saturday

Unbeaten Wayne State College opens its 1979 home football schedule at 1:30 p.m. Saturday against undefeated Midland Lutheran College in Memorial Stadium. The game will be the culminating activity of this year's Parents' Day celebration.

Both teams appear to be improved from last year. Midland spluttered to a 1-8 record in 1978 and have already won more games this year defeating Peru State 22-10 and Simpson College on a fourth quarter field goal 16-14. The Warriors have put together an impressive offensive attack leading the NAIA District 11 in total offense (337 yard game).

The Midland offense is guided by senior quarterback Doug Lanik, who has passed for 231 yards in two games. Fullback Larry Diller is the Warriors' leading rusher with 160 yards in two contests. Midland, primarily a wishbone team, has put the ball in the air more this season. Grandee West is the Warriors' and District 11's leading receiver with eight catches for 159 yards.

Most eyes will probably be on WSC's All American tailback

Bob Barry when the Wildcats have the football. The Battle Creek senior needs only 30 yards to establish a career rushing record at WSC. In two games Barry has gained 168 yards in 53 carries.

Barry's roommate quarterback Rick Lade, could provide another record setting performance. Lade needs only 177 yards passing to set a career passing record at WSC.

Wingback Pat Maxwell, and wide receiver Marty Hansen of Wayne, have combined to give the Wildcats an explosive one-two punch on the outside. Against Dakota State, Maxwell sprinted 27 yards on a reverse for a third quarter score while Hansen hauled in the game winning pass, a 58 yard bomb from quarterback Lade. The Wildcats, 1-0 in the year have tied Chadron State 9-9 and downed Dakota State 24-22.

Last year in Fremont, the Cats turned a 17-0 halftime lead into a second half rout behind the running of Barry. The final score was 39-14 and Barry rushed for 128 yards. WSC had 521 yards total offense in the game.

Injury sidelines Schwartz. WSC defensive end Bill Schwartz, Wayne, suffered a sprained knee in last Saturday's contest at Dakota State and is expected to miss three to four weeks. Wildcat officials had originally thought Schwartz had suffered ligament damage, however, further examination indicated no internal damage to the knee.

WSC Team Dropped In KS Tourney

Wayne State's volleyball squad was eliminated early in single elimination competition at the Kansas State University tournament Saturday in Manhattan, Kansas. The women dropped their opening match of the competition losing to Drake University by scores of 4-15 and 8-15.

On Friday, the netters competed in round robin action meeting Wichita State University, Emporia State University, the University of Nebraska at Omaha and the University of Missouri at Kansas City. Following are the scores of each match:

Wichita St	15	14
WSC	6	16
Emporia St	5	13
WSC	15	15
UNO	16	15
WSC	14	8
UMKC	15	10
WSC	12	15

Setting Up To Attack

Laurie Gallop bumps the ball for Winside as teammates Marci Thomas (25) and Kim Lage (22) watch. Winside lost the match against Emerson in the finals and won a second place trophy.

Sitzman In Special Olympics

To thousands of young athletes across the country, the International Special Olympics are a once in a lifetime opportunity just as the 1980 Olympics will be to many other thousands of athletes.

One Wayne youngster, 16 year-old Cindy Sitzman, experienced the Special Olympics this year and she wouldn't trade the experience for anything. Cindy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sitzman of Wayne, qualified for the international level of competition with a strong performance in the regional olympics Cindy represented Area IV in the international contest.

Competing in the 15-16 age group against athletes from every state in the union and many other countries, Cindy placed seventh in the 50-yard dash and fifth in the softball throw. Karen Spittigerber of Plainview, formerly of Wayne, won bronze and silver medals in the competition.

In addition to the competition in New York, the athletes visited Niagara Falls, a top flew in a helicopter and met many celebrities and personalities. Uniforms were given to the youngsters by the Olympic committee and Levi Strauss Company. Some of the personalities present at the olympics were Hank Aaron, Art Buchwald, Bob Dandridge, Frank Gifford, Penny Marshall, Cindy Williams, Rosie Grier and many others. The olympics are scheduled to be televised in an upcoming edition of "Wide World of Sports."

CINDY SITZMAN relaxes at home after returning from the International Special Olympics in Brockport, N.Y. She displays the uniform she was given as a contestant in the olympics.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

Thanks to Donors
A BIG THANK YOU goes out from the Wayne Baseball Association to everyone who donated to the organization. Association members said that approximately $1,000 was raised from Wayne and the surrounding areas.

The object of the organization is to help with the baseball park and baseball and softball programs. The money went into the youth program. The organization purchased time for marking the diamond, wire for patching, hog rings, a shovel, a rake, a pitching machine for softball and baseball and two tires for the older pitching machine.

The new pitching machine is used to give batting practice and drills on catching and fielding grounders. It is used by the younger athletes in the program. The older machine is used at the Midget and Legion levels.

In its final meeting the Wayne Baseball Association stated that it will continue as an organization and will form a town team next spring if possible. Last spring Wayne applied to join the Northeast Nebraska Baseball League but was turned down on a 7-3 vote. If the vote changes and Wayne is admitted into the conference, Wayne will join.

It is believed that the vote was defeated because members of the league believed that Wayne would use college players on its team. The Association stated that only Wayne area players could join the team. The next meeting for the WBA is scheduled for mid-April.

Class A ranges from Millard with 2,222 students to Omaha Roncalli with 415 students. Class B ranges from Gering with 580 to Elkhorn Mount Michael with 208. Atkinson West Holt Creighton, Tekamah Herman and West Point are at the top of the Class C list with 204 students. Silver Creek is the smallest school in Class C with 82 students. At the top of the Class D ranks is Oxford with 81. Nebraska SVH is clear at the bottom with only eight students.

ANYONE WHO ATTENDS a football game this season may see the coach join his players in the huddle during a timeout. A new rule was added at the high school level this year and permits coaches to join the team on the playing field if a timeout has been called. Now, the coach may decide to rush out onto the field and call a play when his team is in a critical situation.

Volleyball fans may have also noticed some new rules this season. One addition is the new substitution rule which requires the incoming substitute to stand beside the player who is being replaced until officials can check the numbers. It's a little difficult to explain but substituting looks a lot like pat-a-cake now.

SHAME ON THE pied typer for coming out of the closet. Two weeks ago, he confessed that he is a Missouri Tiger fan and an anti-Nebraska Cornhusker. That's a sin in Big Red land. Poor Dan received one obscene phone call, a pair of Big Red underwear and a Hail Harry Husker bumper sticker. Maybe the typer's wife Kathy (a Nebraska fan) will talk him into converting.

I guess it's my turn to come out of the closet. I'm a Nebraska fan, a Wayne State fan, a Wayne fan, an Allen fan, a Laurel fan, a Wakefield fan and a Winside fan. Actually, I'm not really coming out of the closet and I'm not irritating many people with my confession. After all, I cover six of the teams listed above in the Wayne Herald sports pages. Cover a team for awhile and you get to be a fan, especially after meeting many of the players and supporters.

I'm also a Green Bay Packer fan. Don't laugh, someday (some year) the Pack will be back. And I'll be waiting. I decided to back the Pack when I was barely old enough to understand the game of football. I really enjoyed watching the Packers of old, coached by Vince Lombardi. Remember Bart Starr, Carroll Dale, Jim Taylor, Paul Hornung, Floyd Dallor, Forrest Gregg, Ray Nitschke, Herb Adderly, Travis Williams?

The Packers have won 11 league championships (more than any other team) and two super bowls. My only complaint is that if all happened long ago.

Hunting will be better in NE Nebraska this year.

For the past years, the Wayne area has had a shortage of pheasants, but thanks to a few concerned persons that shortage may not be as severe this year or in future years.

Three local men, Les Loberg, Don Goeden and Larry Hansen were concerned about the poor hunting in the Wayne area and decided to raise pheasants to improve the hunting situation. The three applied to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission in March and received 102 pheasants in mid-June. The birds were one to three days old when picked up at the Commission office in Norfolk.

The Game and Parks Commission furnished the pheasants at no charge but the other expenses were incurred by the men. The pheasants were penned up in an old brooder house and pen on the Don Goeden farm. Mrs. Goeden and sons Bill, Dave and Todd Schwartz did most of the care taking.

The young birds were fed high protein turkey starter, then progressed to chicken starter, cracked corn and wheat. The Nebraska native pheasants were hatched in North Platte.

After eight weeks of feeding and caring, the pheasants were released at five different areas near Wayne. Of the original 102 birds, 72 were banded and released. The others either freed themselves from the pen during the summer or died. The 70 percent success rate is above average according to Game and Parks Commission figures.

Goeden's pheasants were released more than two months prior to the Nov. 3 opening date for pheasant season. The pheasants should have lost their domestic instincts by that time. The birds were set free in areas that are not normally hunted so they will have a better chance of survival. Slightly more than half of the pheasants are roosters.

Hunters who shoot pheasants which are banded should contact the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission to give them information of location.

"Raising pheasants isn't really hard work but someone must be around to watch them. Todd, Dave and Bill (Schwartz) took care of them quite a bit," said Larry Hansen. "I thought it was fun and interesting. It's so much different than raising chickens. Pheasants are so hyper. We raised the pheasants mainly to have something to hunt again. I wish they would shorten the hunting season, so there would be more birds. Next year, we want to raise either wild turkeys or quail. We can turn them loose and still have time to raise pheasants."

Second Season of Racing

Despite Danger and Expense, Brodersen Loves Moto-Cross

When 18-year-old Doug Brodersen of rural Wayne goes for a ride, he really goes for a ride. Doug started riding a mini-bike when he was 10 years-old and progressed into bigger types of motorcycles. Now, he is a moto-cross racer at many different tracks in Nebraska and South Dakota. The Brodersen family moved to Wayne from Tekamah a little more than a year ago and Doug began racing last summer. He estimates that he ran his cycle in about 15 races last season.

This season he competed in about the same number of races. He races at Nebraska Tracks near Herman, Fort Calhoun, Genoa, North Bend, Denton, Norfolk, Wisner and out of state tracks at Yankton, S.D. and Castana, Iowa. His favorite track is Tekamah's and he considers Denton's the toughest. Brodersen competes in the 125 c.c. A class. Moto-cross races are divided into divisions according to size of motorcycle and racing ability. Racers begin in the C class and move up to B class after they score enough place points. After two wins in the B class, racers move up into the A class division.

Doug began his racing career in the C class and moved up to the B class after five races. He remained in the B class until the later part of the 1979 season. The moto-cross season runs until mid-October. Brodersen has won 15 trophies in the 30-or so races in which he has competed, placing from fifth to first in the races.

The 1979 Wayne High graduate is racing in two circuits this season. One circuit is composed of Norfolk and Genoa and the other is made up of Norfolk and Yankton. Trophies are given to the racers with the highest point totals in the two circuits. B & B Cycle of Norfolk is a part time sponsor of Brodersen. Doug wears a shirt that advertises for B & B, and in turn receives a 10 percent discount on parts.

Sets Goals High
Brodersen has enjoyed a successful racing season but is still striving to reach two goals. The first goal is to beat Mark Winkabaur of Norfolk, the top racer on the circuit this year. The other goal is to race in the grand national moto-cross championships, a much more difficult goal to reach. To qualify for the grand national championships, a racer must enter five regional qualifying races and gain enough points to rank in the top five of his region. The qualifiers will race in the Houston Astro Dome next March. The qualifying races are scheduled to begin soon. Brodersen will have to race in Missouri and Nebraska in order to qualify.

In less than two years of racing, Brodersen says he has sustained three bad wrecks. The most serious accident occurred when Brodersen was test-driving his cycle. He hit a fox hole and flipped the cycle. Doug shattered his collar bone, broke an ankle and had surgery which placed a pin in his collar bone. The most recent accident happened only a few weeks ago in a race at Yankton. Winkabaur led the race with Brodersen in second place and another racer in third. As Brodersen readied for the jump he knocked his cycle out of gear and lost speed. The cyclist behind Doug jumped completely over the top of Brodersen and hit his front tire. Doug suffered a hip pointer and a bruised shoulder in the mishap.

Racing is a Family Affair
Although moto-cross racing is a dangerous sport, Doug's family doesn't object to his hobby. "We go to the races with Doug because it's dangerous and we look out for him," said Doug's mother. "We go to the races about every Sunday. It's some thing the whole family can do together. We make a lot of friends at the races."

Moto-cross racers wear equipment that decreases the possibility of injuries. "Moto-cross racing can be a super dangerous sport without the right equipment," Doug said. "But with all of the equipment, it's safer than pro football. My boots have saved my ankles many times. It's a physically demanding sport, second professionally behind soccer. According to a book I have, it's equivalent to running four miles in deep sand. It really drains a person out."

Moto-cross equipment consists of boots ($40-$100), nylon or leather pants ($45-$100), jersey ($10-$20), gloves ($15-$30), helmets which meet standards ($70-$140), goggles ($12-$20), mouth protector ($3-$10), shoulder pads and chest protectors ($28-$50). In addition, a motorcycle costs over $1,000.

Expensive Hobby
It's super hot with all that equipment on and it is an expensive hobby. Brodersen said, "This summer it cost me about $2,000 to race. But it's just plain fun when you go to the races. Everyone is friends. People help each other and lend out parts. Everyone is out to have a good time. I love to do it." Brodersen said that he someday hopes to become a professional racer but will continue to race for a hobby otherwise. His next race is scheduled for Sunday (Sept 23) in Norfolk and he invites everyone to watch him race.

Retirement Age Can Alter Social Security

A question that has been coming up frequently these days concerns what effect retirement before age 62 or 65 has on a person's future social security retirement payment. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently. This increased interest seems to stem from the greater number of people who retire from private industry well before the age at which social security benefits can be paid. In some cases, people can retire as early as 55, Branch said. It's difficult to tell exactly how early retirement will affect payments in specific unless all the facts are known, including a person's, annual, earnings for each year since 1950. In figuring a person's benefit, five years of the lowest earnings since 1950 can be disregarded. In most cases, these "dropout" years are from the early 1950's when average earnings were much lower than they are now. Earnings for the remaining years, after adjustment for increases in wages over the years, are averaged and the benefit rate is figured from this average. If a person retires from work covered by social security at 55, seven years before age 62, then, not only must lower earnings from the past be included, but two years of zero earnings before the normal age could generally expect to receive a significantly lower benefit than would a worker who continues working up until age 62 or 65, Branch said. People who want more information about their own situation can get answers to their questions at the Norfolk social security office at 1310 Norfolk Avenue.

Soybean Losses Halved With Good Management

With good management and proper equipment operation, soybean producers can cut their harvest losses in half, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension agricultural engineer.

"Field surveys have shown that losses during soybean harvest can exceed 10 percent," said Dr. Alan Rider. "If your field is producing 40 bushels per acre and you have a 10 percent loss, that means that you're losing four bushels per acre in the field," the University of Nebraska-Lincoln staff member said. "If these soybeans are worth $6 per bushel, that's equivalent to $24 per acre that's left on the surface. We generally think that you ought to harvest in the neighborhood of three acres per hour, which is equivalent to $72 an hour loss."

With good management and good equipment operation, this loss can be cut in half, to about five percent, Rider continued. With improvement practices the farmer can save $36 an hour, "and that's a pretty good salary for proper equipment operation and doing the best job in the field," he noted.

Rider said most of the losses in the soybean field occur at the header, directly in front of the operator.

"Over 85 percent, in fact probably in the neighborhood of 90-95 percent, of all losses during soybean harvesting occur directly at the header, either due to shattering loss, knocking the beans out or cutting the stubble too high and leaving some of the beans standing on the stubble," he explained.

The farmer can reduce harvest losses a number of ways, he said, and the most obvious one is slowing down. "During harvest you're always in a hurry and you tend to drive a little bit faster. The faster you drive the greater these losses can be. Slow down that ground speed and maintain it properly for the conditions under which you're operating."

Proper equipment adjustment also can cut harvest losses, he continued.

CONCORDETTES 4-H CLUB
Concordettes 4-H Club met Sept. 11 at the Northeast Station, Concord. Nine members and two leaders were present.

Pictures were taken of the adopted grandparents, 4-H members and leaders.

Record books were discussed and are due on Oct. 1. Lunch was served by the Junior Leaders.

Cara Dahlquist, news reporter.

"One of the common practices that needs to be looked at is adjusting the reel so that it's turning at the proper speed. If it's turning too fast it will knock the beans loose, shatter them, and knock them out on the ground."

Another common cause of loss, he said, stems from setting the header too high. "We generally think that a two-inch stubble will leave about three-fourths of a bushel per acre in the field," the agricultural engineer said. "If you go to a four-inch stubble that's going to be in the neighborhood of about one-half and probably up close to two bushels per acre left out in the field."

In addition, Rider said, implement manufacturers have a variety of attachment and machines which will cut losses in the soybean field. "Most of these equipment items are really things to keep the header a little bit closer to the ground, but you can break them into three categories — narrow pitch cutter bars, floating cutter bars, and row crop harvesters."

The pitch of a sickle is generally about three inches," Rider explained. "With the narrow pitch cutter bar it's only about 1 1/2 inches, so the bean doesn't have to move as far before it's cut loose and this will help reduce some of the shattering losses."

"Probably the most common piece of equipment that's used in soybean harvesting is the floating cutter bar," he continued. "The floating cutter bar is actually what it says: the cutter bar is such that it can float on the ground and minimize the stubble height." Most major manufacturers have a floating cutter bar as standard equipment, but Rider said, the producer also can purchase a floater and install it himself.

"The floating cutter bar will work over a wide variety of conditions, including both the wide space rows and the narrow row spacings to which many farmers are going," he added.

"The other method that's available is a row crop harvester, very comparable to what you'd see in corn except designed for soybeans," Rider said.

The biggest problem with the row crop harvester in soybeans, he said, "is that it can only be utilized in 30-inch rows. Consequently, there's a number of farmers in the narrow row business that cannot use it."

Also, he said, rotary combines are very successful for harvesting soybeans. Rotary combines reduce the damage that occurs during threshing, he noted, and added that a number of surveys have proven that the rotary combine will provide less damage than other harvesting methods.

Storing pumpkins and squash

Pumpkins and squash should be mature before harvesting. Maturity can be determined by trying to puncture the rind with your thumbnail. When the rind is hard enough that you can't puncture it with your thumbnail the pumpkins and squash are about ready to pick. Use a sharp knife to cut them from the vine, leaving several inches of the stem attached to the plant.

For best results, "cure" the pumpkin and squash for about two weeks at 80-85 degrees F. This can usually be done in the garage or other outdoor building.

Later in the fall, you may need to move the plants indoors. It should be a place where it's dry and temperatures are between 50-60 degrees.

With good curing and storage conditions, pumpkins or winter squash can be kept in good condition for four or five months.

Spring flowering bulbs

September through early October is an excellent time to purchase bulbs such as tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and crocus. Most failures with bulbs are due to holding them too long so they become desiccated, or planting too late in the season that there is insufficient time for roots to form before freezing soil temperatures arrive. Bulbs sold at the close of the season are usually dry and of poor quality. Good bulbs are firm, clean and free from insects and disease.

Planting bulbs

Bulbs should be planted as soon as possible after purchase. Regardless of which variety of bulbs selected, locate the planting in full sun, in a well-drained soil. Prepare the soil before planting by tilling and working organic matter into the soil and adding two pounds of a complete fertilizer per 100 square feet bed area.

The winningest race horse of all times is the Hungarian mare named Kincaid—a wonder mare who won 54 straight races and never lost a race before she died in 1888.

"Plant bulbs so the base of the bulb is at a depth that is three times the diameter of the bulb. Set the bulbs firmly into the ground so there are no air pockets around them. After planting, soak the plant beds to settle the bulbs.

Bulbs make a more effective display when planted in masses of one variety and color. Plant the bulbs close together (3 or 5 inches apart) if you want thick masses of flowers the first year.

Grain Bin Deaths Occur More Often Than Most Will Admit

Deaths in grain bins occur more often than most people like to admit. But the deaths are not attributed just to suffocation — many other problems in grain bins can cause illness, injury and death.

Grain bin suffocation is a big problem in Nebraska, especially if the grain is stored wet, according to Rollin D. Schneider, an extension safety specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Many people are moving grain this time of year in preparation for next year's crop, and a number of factors can lead to suffocation. The most important one is grain bridging over, which creates a cone-shaped empty space in the center section of the grain mass where the material has been pulled out of the bin by an auger.

When the grain flow stops, the operator usually climbs into the bin looking for a cause. The person steps on the bridged-over portion, falls into the empty space and is surrounded by the quicksand-like grain.

"The bridged over grain might sustain a person's weight for awhile, but if he or she falls in, it's hard to get out once the feet are in," Schneider said. "A dusty, moldy atmosphere is an additional problem. The person not only is unable to get out of the bin, but he or she may succumb to the dusts and molds."

This problem can be compounded, Schneider said, since rescuers do not know where the victim is in the grain flow. The person may be suspended in the grain or caught in the auger.

The only way to find him is to empty the grain bin. If the auger is started to do this, it can carry the victim into the auger. The only other method is to cut a hole in the side of the bin and take the grain out.

Some suffocation accidents occur because of a lack of oxygen in the bin. This is usually the case where some type of chemical action has reduced the normal oxygen content. However, the condition can't be detected by observing the air.

According to Schneider, the bridging problem can be resolved quite easily. If the grain does bridge, don't walk onto the grain, he warns. Break the bridge loose using some sort of prod. Some farmers have a rope suspended from the top of the bin, which can be wiggled back and forth to break the bridge.

Persons ranging from 10 to 20 years old usually fall victim to the grain bin more often than others, Schneider said. They are often asked to climb into a bin to see why the grain is not moving. He cautioned against sending a youngster to do this job.

Grain bins can be hazardous in other areas, the specialist said. Ladders are a cause of many farm injuries.

"Some of the newer elevators have cages around the ladders," he said, "but farmers who have mud on their feet or climb ladders when conditions are icy tend to compound the problems."

If a farmer feels tired or lightheaded when climbing a ladder, it's a good idea to stop and rest. With the cage, the farmer can relax by leaning back against the cage.

Another farm hazard is the grain auger which can be a potential death trap, Schneider warned. Many of the bins have automatic auger or stirrer controls, making it possible for a person to get caught in the equipment.

Respiratory problems often result when handling farm stored grain, according to Schneider.

One such problem results from mycotoxins, which are chemical compounds produced by molds. They are toxic to animals.

Farmer's lung is a seasonal respiratory disease affecting elevator operators and farmers when grain is moved from storage to market. It is caused by mold buildup, dusts and other matter and might be referred to as dust pneumonia.

"I've had more calls concerning sickness from milo dust than any other type of dust," Schneider said.

He added that farmer's lung can cause damage and scarring to the lungs and healed tissue, and cut down on the oxygen transfer.

Dust explosions are not a major problem on farmsteads, Schneider said, but are a problem in grain elevators.

"Farmers are encouraged not to move grain any more than they have to. Each time the grain is moved, part of the outer shell is rubbed off. When it's moved seven or eight times about one bushel of every 100 bushels of grain becomes dust," he said. He cautioned that stirring grain can have the same effect.

The most effective sun glasses protect against bright sun and reflected glare without distorting what you see.

Sunglass lenses should be large enough to shield the normal angles of vision above, below and either side against glaring rays. A curved lens gives the least distortion as the eye rotates.

Lens tints permitting the most accurate color perception possible are neutral gray or smoke colored.

The world's largest 4-H livestock exposition gets underway Friday, Sept. 21, at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha with a record 3,877 livestock entries and 1,123 horse entries for a total of 5,000.

Bob Volk, Ak-Sar-Ben assistant general manager, said some 2,500 youngsters are expected to exhibit animals in beef, swine, sheep and dairy classes during the nine-day exposition.

More prize money than ever offered here before will be up for grabs as the 4-H participants from Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri compete for over $40,000 in premium money. Nebraska and Iowa each will have 81 counties represented.

Widely known across the country for its excellent facilities and well-managed program, changes at this year's event will be minor. "The fact that we are staying pretty much to the same course we have followed in previous years indicates that our current program satisfies the people in the area," Volk said.

To better serve an expanding interest in the beef breeding heifer projects, Volk said a class has been added to the beef breeding heifer show for Maine-Anjou exhibitors.

The objective of the breeding heifer show, Volk noted, is to provide the nucleus with which the advanced 4-H club member could build a herd of beef breeding cattle. In addition to Ak-Sar-Ben prizes, area and national breed associations also offer special awards.

In the past few years, Ak-Sar-Ben, in the breeding heifer event, has added classes for limousins and simmental as well as for commercial competition.

Exhibitors in these classes will join Angus, shorthorn, hereford, polled hereford and charolais showmen in parading their animals on Saturday, September 22. Also due for judging that day will be feeder calf, market sheep and dairy cattle exhibits.

Market swine will be placed on Sunday, Sept. 23. The big market beef exposition gets under way early Monday, Sept. 24. Steer placings will continue through Tuesday, Sept. 25, with the selection of the grand champion steer followed with the reserve grand champion selection set for that afternoon at 4:30.

Market heifers and catch a calf entries will be placed on Wednesday, Sept. 26. Climax to the market animal exposition comes that Wednesday evening with Ak-Sar-Ben's "Sale of Sales" of the prize livestock at 6 p.m. This event will be televised live by KMTV, channel 3 in Omaha, and carried to outstate stations in Nebraska and Iowa.

While the sale brings down the curtain on the market animal exposition, 4-H participants will continue in the spotlight on Thursday, Sept. 27, and Friday, Sept. 28, in the 4-H Light Horse Show. Only entries receiving purple or blue awards at official Nebraska and Iowa district shows are eligible to compete.

As in the past, Ak-Sar-Ben will be a terminal show for market livestock. After an absence of two years, market lambs will return to the slaughter contest.

The 4-H participants will share the limelight with leading cowboys from across the country who will pit their wares against the meanest livestock available as they vie for $50,000 rodeo prize money.

Back again by popular demand, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans will entertain at each of the nine evening and one matinee rodeo performances.

"Probably no pair of entertainers has enjoyed more success on the rodeo circuit than Roy and Dale," Volk said. "They hold more all-time box office records in rodeo state fair appearances than any other team in the industry. The 'King of the Cowboys' starred in 87 musical westerns and was the leading box office star in all western movies for 12 consecutive years."

Joining Roy and Dale in entertaining will be the Western music group, The Sons of the Pioneers, and Roy "Dusty" Rogers.

Corn Output Is Set for Record

Corn production, as of Sept. 1, is forecast at a record high 757.1 million bushels, up nearly 4 percent from the August estimate. Total production, if realized, would exceed last year's crop of 740.15 million bushels by 2 percent. Average yield is forecast at 113 bushels per acre, up four bushels from last month's estimate and the same as last year's record 113 bushel average. This compares with the 1974-78 average yield of 90.4 bushels. The acreage intended for grain is unchanged from last month at 6.7 million, 2 percent above last year's harvested acreage.

Dryland corn production is forecast at 163.35 million bushels, 1 percent below last year. The yield is forecast at 83.8 bushels per acre, slightly below last year's 84.7 bushel yield on dryland corn. The 1974-78 average is 53.3 bushels per acre and the record high yield of 85.4 bushels was set in 1972. Farmers plan to harvest 1.95 million acres of dryland corn for grain, the same as a year ago. Irrigated corn production is forecast at 593.75 million bushels, 3 percent above last year. The yield is forecast at 125 bushels per acre, the same as last year's record high irrigated yield. The 1974-78 average yield is 113.9 bushels. The acreage intended for grain harvest is 4.75 million, over 3 percent above last year.

Production of sorghum grain is forecast at 137.25 million bushels, the same as last year but 7 percent above the August forecast. Yield per acre is forecast at 75 bushels per acre, equal to last year's record yield. This compares with the 1974-78 average of 58.2 bushels per acre. Acreage for harvest at 1.83 million is the same as a year ago.

Soybean production is forecast at a record high 54.4 million bushels, up 28 percent from last year's crop of 42.5 million bushels. The forecast yield of 34 bushels per acre is the same as last year. The 1974-78 average yield is 28.3 bushels per acre. Acreage for harvest at 1.6 million exceeds the previous record set last year by 28 percent.

Dry bean production was forecast at 2.1 million cwt., up 8 percent from last year. Sugar beet production was forecast at 1.42 million tons, up 4 percent from 1978.

The average person, under the best possible conditions, can see with the unaided eye as many as ten million different colors as long as he is comparing large areas of color in good illumination and using both eyes.

Rose Blackspot Is Destructive

Blackspot of rose is the most destructive disease of roses in Nebraska. It appears as black, circular spots one-eighth to one-half inch in diameter on the leaves. The spots have a feathery margin which will aid in diagnosis. Infected leaves will turn yellow and fall prematurely, causing a weakening of the plant that may lead to death of the rose or make it more susceptible to winter injury.

The causal organism of rose blackspot is a fungus (diplocarpon roseae) that over-winters in dead infected plant parts and leaf debris. In spring the fungus in the diseased material becomes active, producing spores. These spores are shot into the air and are carried by wind to new tissue. There they infect the plant if free water is present. Fungus growth on the newly infected plant material will keep the disease cycle going.

Blackspot control can be started now by gathering and removing infected fallen leaves. This eliminates the fungus that is overwintering in the leaves.

and will reduce the amount of inoculum next spring. Good sanitation is very helpful in controlling the disease, but sometimes may not be enough. Chemical sprays may be needed and when used in conjunction with good sanitation methods, better control is obtained.

A good control program consists of spraying susceptible varieties of roses at seven to 14 day intervals from May to October. Sprays allow better control than dusts because they give better foliage cover. The fungicide should be applied to both the upper and lower leaf surface since the fungus attacks both surfaces.

Some fungicides that can be used are captan, ferbam, maneb, zineb or phallan. These should be used according to label directions.

One additional measure that will reduce the occurrence of the disease is watering by surface or subsurface irrigation. Spraying the leaves with water can cause the fungus to spread, because water on the leaf surface is necessary for the fungal spores to germinate.

'Gas Clubs' May Violate Rules

In some regions of the country, consumers are being asked to join so-called "gas clubs" that offer members the privilege of buying gasoline. These groups typically offer members unlimited supplies of gasoline at a lower price in exchange for dues.

Although gas clubs may sound like a good idea, the Department of Energy (DOE) has issued a warning that such groups may be violating federal pricing regulations which prohibit charging special fees in addition to the regular gasoline price.

The DOE recently took action against Prestige Marketing Incorporated of Kansas City, Mo., which was allegedly selling memberships at $200 each. Members were then entitled to unlimited supplies of gasoline at two cents over the corporation's cost. The DOE issued an order requiring the firm to cease the practice immediately.

The explanation is that stations or retailers of gasoline are prohibited from discriminating against customers on the sale of gas. As a general rule for both consumers and operators, if the sale of gasoline is restricted in a manner that favors any one person over another, it may violate federal regulations.

Consumers who have questions on possible discriminatory practices should call the national energy hotline at 800-424-9246.

Impact 1980 Session Set

Are you aware of what's going on in your body? Do you know how to reduce risks of major, preventable diseases? Impact 1980, Health Awareness, will be launched with a series of meetings across Nebraska, one of which will be held in Valentine Oct. 4 at the Presbyterian Church.

The program hopes to help extension club members and other interested persons learn about health and health education.

Anna Marie Krefrels, Wayne County home extension agent, said the program will include ways to prevent health problems, with Dr. Leon Rothmann, extension specialist in human development in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

A physician from Valentine, Dr. Steve Senseney, will discuss working together in health education, including common health problems and possible community education programs.

Small group mini-sessions planned will deal with blood pressure, colon rectal screening for cancer, the genetic screening procedure, the meaning of high blood pressure, workshop on breast self-examination, arthritis and stress management, Krefrels said.

Pre-registration information may be obtained from county extension offices. The deadline for pre-registering is Sept. 25.

Easter Seal Drive Begins

The Nebraska Easter Seal Society is sending letters to more than 51,000 Nebraskans this September, inviting them to renew their membership in the Easter Seal Society, said J. Taylor Greer, Lincoln, state Easter Seal president.

Membership in Easter Seals means automatic membership on the House of Delegates, the society's policy-making body. Members vote on the candidates for the society Board of Directors, decide board policy questions, are invited to attend the annual meeting and dinner, and receive four issues each year of Tidings, the Easter Seal Society's publication. Membership dues are $5 per year.

"People who do not receive a letter and who would like to become members should contact the Easter Seal Society at Box 14204, West Omaha Station, Omaha, Neb. 68114 or call 402-333-9306.

"People who do not want to take on the commitment of the House of Delegates activities are welcome to contribute without being bound by membership obligations," Greer said. "People can be as active as they choose. And contributions other than $5 are also welcome."

Easter Seals nationally is the largest non-government organization serving handicapped people. Greer said. In Nebraska, services include purchase of speech, occupational and physical therapy; summer camp for mentally and physically handicapped people of all ages; payment of transportation expenses to medical centers; rental or purchase of orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, and training of people to care for handicapped individuals whose families are temporarily away.

"I feel that membership in Nebraska Easter Seals makes us all a part of this work," Greer said. "I encourage all 1979 members to join me in renewing their memberships for 1980."
