Improved Service to Small Communities

The nation's small communities will receive more and more improved service — not less — if rate, entry and route regulation of trucking companies is reformed, according to the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), the nation's largest business organization.

NFIB's statement comes on the heels of continuing reports by the American Trucking Association (ATA) that deregulation would kill any hopes of full services to small towns.

"This charge is a pure and simple scare tactic by the ATA in its contrived plan to derail legislation now before Congress that would loosen Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) regulation of the industry," said James D. "Mike" McKeivitt, Washington counsel for NFIB.

The Trucking Competition and Safety Act, sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, would lift the antitrust exemption from motor-carrier rate bureaus and would allow trucking companies to choose their own routes. The impact of the legislation would be to permit trucking companies to set their own prices competitively, and to give companies a freer hand in backhauling. The bill would also make entry into the industry more accessible.

McKeivitt voiced NFIB's support of the bill adding that he believes it "will reduce trucking costs and create new opportunities for the smaller entrepreneur." He added that these changes will also provide for better small town service.

Transportation Secretary Neil A. Goldschmidt made related comments during recent testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee. He concluded that small towns would benefit, not suffer, if federal regulation of the industry was relaxed. He pointed out that the current state of small community service is a reason for proposing change, not resisting it. "Contrary to claims of the regulated trucking industry, ICC regulation does not ensure small town service now," he added that there is no evidence that ICC bars carriers from dropping small town service that is unprofitable. In fact, carriers often abandon small community service without notifying the ICC.

According to a number of studies, small trucking operations on the other hand, often find they can serve small communities profitably. For example, in 1967, R.L. Banks and Associates conducted a study for the Department of Transportation on the operations of 35 motor carriers who primarily served small communities. Of the 32 carriers in operation during the two sampled years of 1967 and 1974, all but one carrier made an accounting profit in both years. According to the carriers' responses, they found serving these small towns to be profitable because they adapted their operations to the specific needs of the small town shippers. Most of the randomly picked 35 carriers were small to medium-sized companies.

Although opponents of deregulation argue that ICC regulation has protected these smaller trucking companies, such as in the case in fact, during the period from 1960 through 1967 alone, the number of Class III common carriers (the smallest regulated carrier) operating inter-city service declined by 18 percent, while the number of Class I common carriers (the largest of the regulated carriers) grew by 27 percent. In the same period, the operating revenues of the Class I common carriers grew by over 70 percent while that of the Class III common carriers grew by only 8 percent.

Wayne County Publishes Soil Survey

Forty-nine of Nebraska's 93 counties, including Wayne County, have published a soil survey as of Oct. 1, and field work for 19 more is complete. Surveying is under way for 19 additional counties, but 13 more counties have yet to be begun.

That's a nutshell summary of the status of soil surveys in Nebraska, according to Phil Harlan, extension land use specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. But there's much more to know about the survey which Harlan calls "a county's most valuable document."

What's in a soil survey? To begin with, many, many maps. Harlan said. Most use a scale of 32 inches to represent a mile. Lines showing location of the various types of soil are shown on an aerial photo background.

The earliest soil surveys in Nebraska in the early 1900's used a one inch to one mile ratio," Harlan said, "and not much information could be presented." New methods for improving soil surveys were developed in the '50s and the first survey on an aerial photo background was made in 1955. "The larger scale and the aerial photos make the maps much better for locating and identifying specific spots," he added.

In addition to maps, soil surveys include information on the water supplying capacity of soils, discussion of soil associations or groupings of soil types in an area, extensive discussion of soil types, management of soils, and recommended crops, pastures, windbreaks and environmental plantings.

In addition to agriculture-related information, soil surveys also contain discussion of building site development, suitable construction materials, appropriate sanitary facilities, recommended recreation sites and wildlife habitat.

Harlan calls the soil survey a county's most valuable document because of the wealth of information it contains. And, recently surveys achieved additional prominence because "all rural, property assessment is now based on the most current soil information," he explained.

Given all it contains, a soil survey is a long term project, he said, and may take up to 10 man-years to complete. Soil scientists from the Conservation and Survey division of IANR and the Soil Conservation Service identify each soil type in the county and may probe the soil as many as 100 times in a single square mile to collect data. Most counties have 40 to 50 different types of soil Harlan said.

Aerial photos are taken and location of soil is mapped on the photo prints by cartographers. Then the mass of detailed information is organized into various sections to make it accessible to different interested parties, including home builders, and recreation planners as well as farmers. If there were an "average" survey, Harlan estimates it would take four to five calendar years to complete.

The process involves many people and governmental bodies, he said. In Nebraska, input into soil surveys comes from the Soil Conservation Service, the Conservation and Survey division, Natural Resources Districts and county boards of supervisors or commissioners. These groups and their personnel are combined under the umbrella of the National Cooperative Soil Survey, Harlan said. The national organization ensures uniformity of the soil classification process, naming of soils and interpretation of their uses across county and state boundaries, he added.

When a survey is complete, informational meetings are held in the county to present the information to interested parties. Because the survey is used for assessment purposes, the meetings attract large audiences, he added.

And because many counties are still without a modern soil survey, efforts to accelerate the process to finish all the state's counties were begun a few years ago Harlan said. Additional state funds and monies from the Old West Regional Commission have helped to speed up the process. "We should be finished by 1987 if we continue at present levels of funding," he predicted. In terms of acres, about two-thirds of the state's nearly 49 million acres have been mapped, he added.

The costs involved in doing a soil survey are substantial, Harlan said, but a county's soil survey isn't a high-priced document. It's free to landowners in the county and can be obtained from Soil Conservation Service offices, county extension offices and Natural Resources Districts.

Other area counties that have published soil surveys include Pierce, Antelope, Cumming, Thurston and Dixon counties. Cedar, Knox and Madison counties are in the process of publishing.

Cancer Battle Is Twofold: Medical Bills

The community of Laurel has a big heart. Kenneth and Norma Roland, 821 Nebraska St., Wayne, will attest to that.

Friends of the Rolands started a fund drive in Laurel which has spilled over to Wayne. Money raised from the drive will help defray medical expenses incurred by Norma who is suffering from cancer.

Mrs. Roland became ill in April and has been battling cancer of the liver and of the ovaries. The bills have continued to mount with treatment and tests in Sioux City and Wayne.

Pat Gross, manager of Triangle Finance Co. here, and Galen Wiser, a loan officer for State National Bank, are spearheading the local effort. Gross said anyone wishing to donate should make the check payable to the Norma-Roland Cancer Fund, care of the State National Bank.

The Rolands said containers are located at Lony's Cafe and at the Corner Cafe in Laurel for anyone wishing to make a contribution there.

The Rolands were residents of Laurel for several years and Norma worked at Lony's Cafe until about five years ago. She worked there several years while a resident of Wayne.

New York City Tour and Study Being Offered Through WSC

Plans are being finalized for the 6th annual New York Theatre Seminar offered through Wayne State College Extended Campus Division.

Persons interested in taking advantage of the opportunity to spend a week (Dec. 27 to Jan. 3) in New York City may still enroll in the course. Space is limited and the deadline for enrollment is Wednesday.

The total cost of $400 includes round-trip air fare from Omaha, New York bus transfers from and to the airport, hotel accommodations at the Sheraton City Squire for seven nights, insurance, choice tickets for three award-winning plays, a backstage tour of a Broadway theatre and two hours of graduate or undergraduate credit in English or Communication Arts. Individuals not wishing college credit may enroll for audit.

The three plays which participants will see as a group are "The Elephant Man," "Sweeney Todd" and "Getting Out." "The Elephant Man," which won the Tony Award for the best play of 1979, also won the New York Drama Critics' Award, the Drama Desk Award and the Outer Circle Award.

Angela Lansbury and Len Cariou star in "Sweeney Todd," which won eight Tony awards for the best musical of 1979. Music and lyrics are by Stephen Sondheim and Harold Prince directed the musical thriller.

Acclaimed as the best Off-Broadway play of 1979, "Getting Out" stars Dale Soules and Julia Nesbitt. In addition to these three plays, students enrolled for credit must see at least two additional plays or musicals and visit one art museum.

One unique feature of the Wayne State-New York Theatre Seminar is that participants are given ample free time to explore New York City and discover the "Big Apple." The Sheraton City Squire Hotel is located at Seventh Avenue and 52nd Street. All of the Broadway theatres, Times Square, Rockefeller Center, Radio City Music Hall, St. Patrick's Cathedral, United Nations, art museums, and the Fifth Avenue shops are all a short walk from the hotel.

Dr. Helen Russell and Dr. Gilbert Vaughan, instructors for the trip, will meet for a question and answer session in Ramsey Theatre at 4 p.m., Tuesday. All persons wishing to enroll or wanting to find out more about the seminar are urged to attend the Tuesday meeting or contact the Extended Campus office at the Wayne State College Administration Building.

Herald Will Print Early

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, The Wayne Herald will print Tuesday instead of Wednesday. News and advertising deadlines are 5 p.m. today (Monday). Papers will be delivered by carrier Tuesday evening and those receiving The Herald by mail will receive theirs Wednesday.

New Subdivision Announced Here

The Planning and Zoning Commission has given its initial approval to a 10-acre subdivision east of Tara Ridge.

The area will be developed by owner Pat Gross, who also is the developer of Tara Ridge.

Gross made his presentation before the P & Z Commission Nov. 5 and explained that the area will include single-family dwelling lots and condominiums.

He explained there will be 10 single-dwelling lots of 95 x 130 feet. In addition, 20 condominiums will be constructed in clusters of four.

The condominiums will be presold with from one to three bedrooms available. Gross said he will be working with Ona Construction Co., Wayne, initially, but other builders will be able to participate in the complex.

To be named Marwood Subdivision, the area will include a renamed street, Fifteenth Street, now only a stub, will be renamed Aspen Street and will be extended east to be connected with a new north-south street, Gross said.

The City Council will consider the plans at its next regular meeting Nov. 27.

Recertification For Benthack

Dr. Robert B. Benthack of Wayne has been recertified as a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a recertification examination offered by the ABFP. He thus maintains his specialist status in the medical specialty of family practice.

ABFP diplomates must continue to show proof of competence in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being recertified every six years. No other medical specialty requires diplomates to prove competence on a continuing basis.

"WAITING for the Bus," one of four productions scheduled at Wayne State College today (Monday) and Tuesday comments on an old, senile couple and their fantasies. The cast includes, from left: Denise Lee, Pat Lenihan and Charles Benzen. The productions are entitled "Tonight at Eight" and are under advisement of Dr. Helen Russell, theater professor at Wayne State. Students are directing the plays.

4 WSC Plays Continue

The four "Tonight at Eight" productions at Wayne State College opened Saturday night in the Menagerie room of the Student Center.

Plays which were presented Saturday night and will be staged again at 8 p.m. today (Monday) are "The Collection," and "The Feast."

"Doing a Good One for the Redman" and "Waiting for the Bus" opened Sunday afternoon and will run again at 8 p.m. Tuesday night, Nov. 20.

Dawn Harlung is directing "The Collection," a 1960's play by Harold Pinter, focusing on a heterosexual and homosexual couple. "The Feast," by Daniel Wright, is being directed by Claudia Aldrich-O'Neill and is complicated by the elements of fantasy and reality.

Directing "Waiting for the Bus" is Pam Swartz. The play, by Ramon Del Gado, comments on an old, senile couple and their fantasies. "Doing a Good One for the Redman," directed by Jeanna Robinson, comments on the dying era of the American Indian.

All of the "Tonight at Eight" directors are advanced theater students under advisement of Dr. Helen J. Russell, theater professor at Wayne State.

Tickets for each performance may be purchased at the door.

OBITUARIES

Greg Noyes

Funeral services for Greg Noyes, 22, Omaha, are pending with Hiscox-Schumacher Funeral Home.
Noyes died at his home Friday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Noyes of Wayne. Visitation was from 3 to 9 p.m. Sunday at Hiscox-Schumacher.

Fredrick Thies

Fredrick Henry Thies, age 100, died Nov. 9 at Pioneer Manor Nursing Home, Hay Springs.
Family services were held Tuesday evening at Winside, with graveside and burial services Wednesday morning at Pleasant View Cemetery, Winside.

He was born Nov. 25, 1878, in Naustadt, Germany, where he attended public school. He came to the United States at the age of 13, settling near Nickerson, where he did farm work. He was united in marriage to Augusta Louis Wolff at Winside on Feb. 17, 1903.

Thies, who became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1911, farmed for a number of years in Wayne County. He purchased a ranch near Chadron, where his wife preceded him in death in 1925. He continued farming and ranching in the Chadron area until 1942, when he retired.

He married Ada Christensen of Chadron and the couple moved to Loveland, Colo., where they resided for several years. They later returned to Chadron, where Ada died. He had been a resident of the Pioneer Manor Nursing Home in Hay Springs since November 1970.

Also preceding him in death were a son, Louis, a granddaughter, three brothers and four sisters. Survivors include a son, Max of Hay Springs; four grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren and six great great grandchildren.

Craft Festival Attended by 60

Crafts of all kinds were learned by more than 60 persons attending the Christmas Craft Festival held Monday, Nov. 12, at the United Methodist Church in Laurel.

Crafts including crystal craft, cut glass work, pine cone decorations, off-loom weaving, wreaths, silk flowers and Christmas creations were taught by area residents during rotation sessions throughout the day. A book of craft instructions and recipes was also distributed to those persons in attendance.

Area persons teaching the craft sessions were Mrs. Jim Mote and Mrs. Paul Ebmeier, both of Laurel; Mrs. Darrell Millbrath and the Rev. Robert Neu, both of Coleridge; Mrs. Lloyd Roebert, Wakefield; Mrs. Richard Korn, Wayne; Deb Schroeder, Cumming County home extension agent, West Point; and Val Schelleper, area extension agent, Hartington.

"Everyday Parenting" was the topic of a film shown to part of the group over the noon hour. This is one in a series of five "Look At Me" films on effective parenting and available through your local extension office.

Nutritious snacks were served throughout the day, such as cranberry tea, granola bars, spiced nuts and barbecued nuts. These were served to encourage persons to serve more nutritious foods during the coming holiday season.

"I thought it was very good, informative, helpful and so interesting sharing ideas!" was one comment received after the program.

The craft festival was sponsored by the Cedar County Cooperative Extension Service.

No Time for Economic Illiteracy

By U.S. Chamber of Commerce
As Americans confront one economic crisis after another, they cannot help but become more knowledgeable about their economic system.

This is the taxing principle behind a new proposal—the Capital Cost Recovery Act of 1979—gaining strong support on Capitol Hill and from such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The complexity of the present system also is a serious drawback because many small businesses find it too difficult and costly to use. The Treasury Department says that while 92 percent of taxpayers with $1 billion or more in depreciable assets elect to use the system, only a fraction of 1 percent of businesses with assets of $500,000 or less attempted it.

The basic change in the proposed legislation would streamline and speed up the capital cost recovery system, mainly by allowing investments and buildings to be written off over 10 years, equipment and machinery in five years, and automobiles, taxis and light-duty trucks in three years.

measure against inflation fails, the citizenry is becoming aware that new solutions to our problems must be explored. Congress should make the same discovery.
Synfuels — leakage problem
If you subscribe to the leaky bucket theory, you already are aware that any government-regulated synthetic fuels program is bound to be a money loser.

merce of the United States, in its legislative newsletter, reports that the legislation reads, in part: "The provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act shall apply to the Energy Security Corporation as if it were an agency of the United States."
The fine print means that plants built under the legislation would be subject to inflationary pressures of the Davis-Bacon Act, a depression-born law which regulates wages on government construction projects.

Nov. 12
Dear Sirs:
Am disappointed and so are others up here at the Care Centre because there were no pictures in the last Wayne Herald of the personnel who were decked out in their Halloween costumes. Some were beautiful and all comical which were amusing to the residents.
There are some mighty fine folks up here. Maybe your mother or father or maybe both are up here. All the workers do their best to make life more pleasant and comfortable for the residents.
Aren't all these folks just as important as the athletes who are pictured on one or more pages of The Herald each week.
Sincerely,
Anna K. Meier
Resident of Care Centre

Limitation Is Real Threat

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information
Nebraska farmers who operate farming units dependent on irrigation water from Bureau of Reclamation projects have a stake in what happens in Congress to legislation to change the "160-acre limitation" in the Reclamation Act of 1902 to greater reality.
Simple repeal of the 160-acre limitation would be the most direct method of updating the 77-year-old law but politically that does not appear to be possible. Recognizing this, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho has sponsored legislation to increase the number of acres, along with some other changes, and in September, S. 14 was passed in the Senate to eliminate residency requirements on such reclamation land and increase the limitation to 1,280 acres.
This month the House of Representatives has scheduled hearings on legislation to reform the acreage limitation provisions of the Reclamation Law. A great many people do not understand what is involved and some who do engage in political demagoguery equating the limitation to preservation of family farming, restricting corporate farming, and promoting various social reforms.

The Reclamation Act of 1902 governed the sale of water from U.S. Bureau of Reclamation water projects for irrigation purposes. The intent of the Act was to encourage settlements and development of arid land in the western United States. One of the key restrictions was this one: "No right to the use of water for land in private ownership shall be sold for a tract exceeding 160 acres to any one landowner, and no such sale shall be made to any one landowner unless he is a bona fide resident of such land..."
In 1902 a 160-acre irrigated farm was large for one family to own and operate. But 77 years have passed and there is scant comparison to be made between the manpower and horsepower farming of the 1902 era and the mechanization and farming techniques of today. In between, there were some 1926 amendments to the Act, but generally regulations were changed or ignored to conform to changing times and farm technology.
But in California, court action was brought and a decision obtained to force compliance with the 1902 limitation requirement. The Secretary of Interior in 1977 proposed regulations calling for strict enforcement of the 160-acre limitation. Hearings in California brought a turnout of farm labor groups suggesting a breakdown into holdings as small as 10 acres. The latter is an extremist proposal from some of the social action land reform movements.
The 1,280-acre limitation figure proposed in S. 14 sounds like it was related to the large irrigated farm spreads in Sen. Church's home state of Idaho that to the average holdings in Nebraska's reclamation-served farmlands. In any event, it would take the pressure off for the present in our state as well as in most states, even California. The complications that would result in widespread confiscation of land holdings that families have put together over several generations and it certainly would have an effect upon property values since many land sales are normally made to adjacent farm landowners.
The limitation if strictly enforced was not even practical in 1902, and that is why it was ignored all these years. The original Homestead Act also applied to 160 acres but there was no provision which told the homesteader that he could never own more than 160 acres or that he couldn't sell his 160 acres to a neighboring homesteader if he chose to do so. The 640-acre "Kinkaiders" in the Nebraska Sandhills weren't deprived of their privilege to sell their land to adjacent ranchers after they found they did not have enough acreage to survive as a ranch unit.
Congress needs to get on with changing the law to a pattern that landowners and operators can live with now and depend on in the years ahead.

The Nebraska Press Association sponsored a workshop in Lincoln Nov. 1 and 2 for reporters. It was a review of a variety of aspects of the business, but one of the focal points was on the law.
We've said here many a time that recent court decisions have not been too favorable toward the First Amendment and newspapers in general.
One of the speakers during the 2-day study session was Alan Peterson, a well-respected lawyer in the state and one of the drafters of the state's open meetings law.
He explained that newspapers are more and more being held liable for their contents, including the pictures. Nebraska's new privacy law has forced reporters, editors and publishers to become mini-lawyers of sorts.
Other topics covered included the basics of reporting, investigative reporting, the Freedom of Information Act and its applications to journalism, how to cover a trial, the legal limits involving arrests and confessions by an alleged criminal, how to cover the Legislature, etc.
One two-hour discussion paid particularly close attention to the ethics of reporting a major crime. Since we've been in this fine and growing community (it's been five months now, readers), there has been an alleged murder (a shooting) and a bank robbery.
Both resulted in felony charges being filed and both involved public testimony.
At the outset of the first day, the Nebraska Press Association provided each participant with a media handbook which I carry everywhere.
It gives guidelines for disclosure and reporting of information relating to pending criminal proceedings, taking photographs of alleged criminals, the complete text of the Nebraska open meetings law, the complete text of the state's open records law, the complete text of the state's new privacy law, the state's shield law, and the state's search warrant law.
As most of you discovered, there is a growing trend across the country to protect the civil rights of residents. In the meantime, however, teachers, administrators, bankers, journalists, doctors, etc., are having to become experts on the law to keep from being sued for invasion of these rights.
For instance, technically, any of us at The Herald who takes a picture of any handicapped, or underprivileged, or indigent, or learning disability or any type of "privileged" person should have written permission to do so.
If we should use any of these types of photos for commercial purposes, or even a picture of a crowd of shoppers on main street, then we will be liable for the photo and most courts would rule against us.

A six-day Florida concert tour being planned by the South Sioux City High School band with the backing of the Music Boosters gained endorsement from the school district's Board of Education Monday night. Muri Mickey, band director, estimated total cost of the sojourn would be $19,406, with each band member being charged $40. The trip is scheduled to begin June 2.

RUSSELL E. Maxwell, newly-elected president of the Wahoo Chamber of Commerce, reported that the organization is in serious financial troubles. He said the office closed officially Nov. 7. Maxwell said the office was closed to cut expenses, adding that the organization has about $1,500 in outstanding bills that are three months past due.

Blumenthal Speaks Some Terrible Truths

President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States
What a difference a year can make! In 1978, while still President Carter's Treasury Secretary and chief economic spokesman, Michael Blumenthal offered this lucid explanation for the nation's number one problem, "inflation," he said, "is caused by a number of factors that act together and interact in strange and mysterious ways."
When Blumenthal made that statement, he was still a member in good standing of the administration's team — that group of inflation-fighters who use words like "restraint" to describe policies that have given us a near tripling in the rate of inflation in less than three years. Now, however, Blumenthal has bid farewell to his old friends. Once again he is a free man... and he is ever speaking out!
In a devastating critique of his own experiences Blumenthal recently told the "Washington Post" why the administration's anti-inflation efforts have failed. Citing what he called the "basic schizophrenia within the administration," Blumenthal said the president has never developed "a clear, simple, single economic philosophy."
He notes, for example, that the president and his advisers are committed to fighting inflation, "if for no other reason than that they know (inflation) is politically damaging."
But then he singles out the administration's liberals who he said believe that "fighting inflation hurts poor people and that we have to be very careful how we fight inflation in order not to hit the natural constituency of the Democratic Party."
He concludes: "So there has been an effort to fight inflation, but not too hard. It was tightened the belt, but don't cut out any important programs; cut down on government regulation, but don't offend any special groups. It made it difficult for the president to stand up and say, 'my economic philosophy is that inflation is the No. 1 problem, and that's what I'm going to stick to.'"
We can confirm from personal experience the truth of Blumenthal's complaint. At a White House meeting earlier this year, the Administration's inflation czar, Alfred Kahn, criticized the Chamber and told us he just could not understand our position. We told him to listen one minute and let us explain it to him. First, we warned that inflation is far more severe than his Administration realized; second, we said his belief in wage and price guidelines is not just wrong, but counterproductive, because what is really needed to fight inflation is less government spending and regulation; third, we suggested that a fixation on specific, single numbers for guidelines for all industries virtually guaranteed failure; and fourth, we urged his Administration to stop its demagoguery and to start developing substantive policies that would treat the real causes of inflation.

The White House has been unhappy with us ever since.
Others have agreed with the Chamber. Recently, a high-level official of the Department of Commerce said the Chamber has been right all along, and that only a substantive anti-inflation effort would win the public's confidence. The "Wall Street Journal" has run several brilliant editorial stressing the need to combine spending and regulatory restraints with significant tax rate reductions. In other words, we must also fight inflation on the supply side of the economy by providing individuals and businesses greater incentives to work, save and invest. This, in turn, would finally generate genuine opportunities for the poor.
One look at our competitive record against our major trading partners illustrates the logic of the "Journal's" plea. During the past few years we have experienced the lowest rate of savings, the lowest rate of growth. How's that for progress?
Unfortunately, the Administration does not care much for incentives. The government claims allowing people to keep more of what the earn is inflationary. So whenever we suggest incentives, they're apt to cry out greed; we request a tax reduction (even a morsel would help) but they demand huge new tax increases; we beg for some — any — cut in federal spending, and they bust the budget by increasing spending approximately 17 percent during the last half of 1979, while looking for still better ways to control our wages and prices.
Consistency has not been the hallmark of this administration — or the 96th Congress for that matter. It's time to recognize we can't have it both ways, and that inflation must be brought under control, for the benefit of all Americans.

HAVE A HAPPY DAY
Anyone attending the annual Farmers' Appreciation Night Dinner Nov. 10 for the first time had to be impressed.
It was a first for us and the sheer numbers of people and food was awesome. There were just shy of 500 farmers and businessmen at the Wayne State College Student Union.
The event is held to say "thank you" to area farmers for their support of the Wayne community, and those of us at The Wayne Herald are as thankful as anyone else in the area.
As was noted at the outset of the program, when agriculture has a good year, then Wayne has a good year. If there's a drought, or a major insect infestation that cuts grain yields, then the pinch is felt throughout the area.
But as everyone in the area is quick to point out, the strong, stable economy of agriculture prevents the area from feeling the recession pinch felt by the metropolitan areas.
For example, car sales in the metro areas are down by several percentage points. But in Wayne, car dealers have felt only a slight drop in sales. Once crops are harvested and the cash flow speeds up, then the economy will feel the surge.
We appreciate the farmer; the businessmen appreciate the farmer; and residents appreciate the farmer.

Make a Christmas-tree ornament from Scotti's soft-drink cup during our ...

Grand Opening

and you could win a 10-speed bike!

2 TEN-SPEED BIKES For the Grand Prizes!

CHOOSE A BOY'S OR GIRL'S MODEL. ONE OF EACH TO BE GIVEN!

Scotti's has a brand-new restaurant in Wayne—and we think a Grand Opening celebration during the Christmas season is just about the best thing that could happen!

Getting into the spirit of the season, we're having a contest with two ten-speed bikes as the grand prizes! It's a simple—and fun—contest to enter: Just stop by Scotti's, pick up one of our medium-sized soft-drink cups (no purchase necessary), and decorate it so we can use it as a Christmas-tree ornament. You can cut it into a different shape, add fabric or paper or ribbons, top it off with mistletoe... whatever you want! The only rule is that you must use a Scotti's cup as the basis for your creation.

Bring your ornament back to Scotti's by December 1, with this entry blank identification (or pick up an entry blank at Scotti's). Every entry will win something, because we'll give you a free medium soft-drink when you turn in your ornament.

On December 8, we'll put up our Christmas trees with all the entries we receive... and, on that day, we'll announce the two lucky people who won the bikes.

Be sure to try Scotti's food; we know you'll love the great menu, the tasty food, the fast service, and the good prices!

We're glad to be in Wayne... especially at Christmas time! We'd like to see you at our Grand Opening... and we can't wait to see your individually-designed Christmas ornament!

Once Small And Timid Hurley "Grew" Into Leader

For Wayne State's senior offensive end, Tim Hurley, high school was not much fun. When Hurley entered Omaha Summit High School (now Roncalli High) he was a 5-3, 145-pounder. After four years he had grown four inches and had gained 45 pounds. Despite his growth, Hurley still lacked an important element for an aspiring athlete — self-confidence.

"I might have been able to play when I was a senior but I still didn't have the self-confidence that I needed," he said.

Hurley added that part of his confidence problem was created by being the oldest member of a family of talented athletes and not having the physical size to compete.

"I didn't really have a lot of self-respect and it was really bothering me," he recalled.

Hurley said he decided self-respect would only come with increased size and during his freshman year at the University of Nebraska at Omaha he enrolled in a weight lifting class. Soon after Hurley was pumping iron regularly and by the time he decided to enroll at WSC, in 1977, he was 6-2 and weighed 195 pounds.

A walk-on, Hurley began his football playing career at WSC as a wide receiver.

"I remember the first day of practice," he commented. "We finished running and when we were supposed to pick where we wanted to try out I was standing near the backs and receivers so I picked them."

Hurley's offensive career ended quickly, however, because "I was doing pretty good — until we put on shoulder pads."

Luckily for Wayne State the

Super Finish Lifted Trojans, 12-6 Season

After getting off to a slow start, the Wakefield Trojans' volleyball team used excellent team play to win 10 consecutive matches and finish its season with a 12-6 record and second place in C-4 districts.

The Trojans opened with a dismal 2-5 record but coach Ernie Kovar insisted his team wasn't playing that badly. After winning their next 10 matches, the Trojans lost to powerful West Point in district finals. West Point then went on to win a regional match and qualify for the Class C State Tournament in Kearney.

"We finished the season very strong after a slow start," said Kovar. "The strong points of this team seemed to be serving and a very consistent floor game, which is a credit to the girls' concentration and togetherness. We played the game the way we intended it to be played and when we did lose it was to teams who were quite good. We did not beat ourselves."

The 10-match winning streak better the former record of seven straight wins for a Wakefield team.

Four individuals, Jolene Bartels, Joni Erb, Kathy Gustafson and Ardie Barker were the team leaders for most of the season. Bartels, an All-Conference first team selection, was the spiking leader with 184 good spikes in 217 attempts for an 84.8 average, 69 ace spikes and 17 blocked shots. She also served for 123 points with 35 ace serves and a 90.6 serving percentage. Erb, the other All-Conference selection on the Wakefield team, was the team's leading setter with 186 good sets in 193 attempts for a 96.4 percentage. Of the 186 good sets, 61 were set up for kill spikes.

Gustafson was the other key spiker for the Trojans, accounting for 145 good spikes in 207 attempts. Her serving percentage was 91.3 and she set the ball 22 times in 22 attempts for a perfect 100 percent efficiency. Of her 165 good spikes, 74 were for aces.

Barker sparked the team in many of its games, coming on stronger as the season progressed. She served the ball successfully 208 times in 220 attempts for a 94.5 percentage. And many of her serves were deadly. She was the leading scorer with 171 serve points and 66 ace serves.

Kovar believed in substituting freely throughout the season and often shifted his players around looking for the winning combination. Varsity letter winners in addition to the four mentioned are: Joan Miller, Donna Kleckhaver, Shelley Paul, Jackie Lueth, Rhonda Wilson and Kelly Murphy. These six individuals played an important role in the Trojans' success as well.

talented performer switched to defense and for two years he has led the Wildcats in quarterback sacks. In 1978 he was third on the club with 73 total tackles, including 11 quarterback sacks. This year, despite missing a game due to an ankle injury, Hurley carded 78 tackles, 10 of which were quarterback sacks. His 1979 performance was good enough to earn him a berth on the first team of the NAIA District 11's All-District Team.

Tim is not the only Hurley playing collegiate football. His brothers Joe and Mike are both members of the University of Nebraska at Omaha squad and Dan plays offensive tackle for the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Other Hurleys active in football include: Jeff, a linebacker at Westside High School; Matt, a 12-year old little leaguer and Kevin, a former quarterback at Westside and now a little league coach. His two sisters are also athletes and compete on an Omaha soccer team.

The senior defender gives football credit for teaching him leadership qualities and giving him confidence. As Hurley completed his final game for WSC against Kearney State last Saturday with eight tackles and a quarterback sack two things were obvious, the Wildcats had lost a leader and Tim Hurley had come a long way.

Wayne Set And Spiked Its Way To 12-6 Record

Setting and spiking were strong points for the Wayne Blue Devils as they finished their season with a 12-6 record and second, third and fifth place finishes in four

After an opening season loss to state bound Beemer, Wayne won four straight matches before losing to Class A Norfolk South Sioux City, another Class A school, handed the Blue Devils their next loss three matches later.

The Devils reached their potential against Hartington Cedar Catholic, handing the visitors their first season loss. Inconsistency led to a disappointing finish.

After defeating Wisner-Pilger and Madison in the West Husker Tournament, the Blue Devils lost to a fine state bound team from Columbus Lakeview. After that loss, the momentum seemed to turn around and Wayne lost its following two matches, including a disappointing upset loss to Schuyler in the first round of B-4 districts. The Blue Devils defeated the Warriors easily earlier in the season.

Breaking down Wayne's 12-6 record shows that the Devils won 26 games to their opponents' 18. Wayne outscored its opposition 550 to 508. Team-wise, the Blue Devils served with 90 percent efficiency for 103 ace serves.

Leading individual servers were Lynn Surber with 165 in 189 attempts, Lisa Peters with 158 in 164 attempts, Jolene Bennett with 141 in 148 attempts and Stacy Jacobmeier with 127 in 153 attempts.

Wayne bumped successfully 84 percent of the time, set the ball successfully 94 percent of the time, spiked with 78 percent efficiency, dinked the ball successfully 75 percent of the time and blocked 71 shots.

Bumping was pretty equally divided between Bennett, Julia

Dorcey, Jacobmeier and Peters. Dorcey was the workhorse in the setting department, with 641 sets in 672 attempts for a school record.

Spiking was handled mainly by Peters, Bennett and Jacobmeier although Surber and Tammie Thomas did a fine job as well. Peters set a school record for most spikes with 186 successful spikes in 210 attempts for 41 aces. Bennett and Jacobmeier followed with over 100 spikes and 32 and 21 aces respectively.

Representing Wayne on the West Husker All-Conference first team were Jolene Bennett and Lisa Peters, who also set a school record with 96 percent efficiency in the serving category. Dorcey, Jacobmeier and Lisa Daniels were selected as honorable mention to the West Husker team.

Other leading players were: Jenni DeTurk, Sandy Utecht, Jill Zeiss, Tammie Thomas and Lynn Surber.

Winside Netters Hit Late Season Slump

A slump during the final half of the season was critical for the Winside volleyball team which completed its season with a disappointing 4-11 record.

The Wildcats got off to a good start, winning four of their first seven matches and placing second in the Winside Invitational Tournament. From that point on, the season turned around. The Wildcats lost their final eight matches of the season as they couldn't seem to play up to their potential.

Julie Krajicek was the team's leading setter and was named to the Clark Division All-Conference second team. She set the ball successfully 166 times in 183 attempts for 25 aces and a 90.7 efficiency percentage. She also made 110 good serves in 125 attempts.

Marci Thomas, an All-Conference honorable mention selection, was the team's leading scorer with 80 points. She served the ball successfully 114 times in 142 attempts and made 79 good spikes in 101 attempts for 27 aces.

Other individuals who saw much varsity playing time and were important to the team are: Kim Lage, Kathy Thies, Joanie Bowers and Laurie Gallop.

Lage was the second leading setter with 92 good sets in 108 attempts for 23 aces. She scored 54 points. Thies scored 61 points and made 92 good serves in 124 attempts. She was the second leading scorer.

Bowers made 188 good serves, 55 good sets and 79 good spikes to score 56 points. She proved to be a consistent player at most positions. Gallop was the team's leading spiker with 98 good spikes in 140 attempts. Of her 98 spikes, 41 were for aces. Robyn Winch was the leading substitute this season.

Men Open Recreation Play Next Week

Men's Recreation basketball is scheduled to begin in Wayne during the last week of November.

The adult league will again be divided into three age divisions. The A league, for men ages 19 through 25, won't open its season until Monday, Dec. 3 because the city auditorium will be rented Monday, Nov. 26. High school graduates who are not yet 19 are still eligible.

The B league, for ages 26 through 30, will begin on Tuesday, Nov. 27 and the C league, for ages 30 and over, will start Wednesday, Nov. 28.

Players should bring equipment with them on the opening nights and be ready to play. Persons who did not play in any league last year should meet at 7 p.m. on their respective night. A second session will begin at 8:30 p.m. Overin will notify people to play in the later session. If a person is not notified, he should attend the opening session.

Anyone who cannot attend the leagues during the week of the 26th or the week of Dec. 3, should contact Overin, so he can place them on a team.

Eligible players include men from Wayne and the surrounding rural areas. College students are not eligible unless they are graduates of Wayne High School or played in the league last year.

Several changes have been made in the basketball league this season. Teams will practice only two weeks before the season actually begins and will have a two-week layoff during Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Basketball season will end in the last week of March this year and the tournament at the end of the season will be single elimination instead of double.

Mau Gets His Deer

Rushing Led Eagles To Memorable Season

For the first time since a 4-2 season in 1972, the Allen Eagles completed their football season with a winning record. The Eagles completed the year with a 4-3 record and tied for third in the Lewis Division standings.

The Eagles outscored their opponents 135 to 116 and scored 108 points in the first two quarters of their ball games. Offensively, Allen compiled 79 first downs, 48 by rushing.

The Eagles relied mostly on their rushing game with 1,203 rushing yards. Passing accounted for 424 yards. The Eagles averaged 203 total yards per game and turned the ball over only nine times all season — a leading figure in the Lewis and Clark Conference.

The leading rusher on the Allen squad was Greg Carr who carried the ball 95 times for 727 yards and eight touchdowns. His longest carry was for 78 yards. Terry Brewer and Scott Carr were the second and third leading rushers. Quarterback Lee Hansen completed 40 passes in 81 attempts for 410 yards and two TD's. Leading receivers were Terry Brewer with 13 catches for 92 yards, Greg Carr with eight receptions for 89 yards, Bob Stewart with seven catches for 82 yards and Scott Carr with 70 yards on three catches.

Greg Carr scored 72 points in eight games to lead the conference in scoring. He scored 10 TD's, four PAT's and eight two-point conversions. Defensive leaders for the Eagles were Ken Hohenstein with 40 tackles, 23 assists and one interception, Raddy Smith with 41 tackles, 38 assists and two fumble recoveries and Greg Carr with 50 tackles, 35 assists and two interceptions. Other defensive standouts were: Lee Hansen, Robert Malcom, Terry Brewer, Scott Carr, Rick Gotch, Frank Lanser, Robb Linafelter, Bruce Malcom and Pat Onderstal.

Wayne State Nets 13 On District II Team

Wayne State College volleyball players Marlene Mogensen of Cedar Rapids, and Cheryl Abts of Dixon, have been named to the Central States Intercollegiate Conference volleyball All-Conference Team.

Mogensen was the only Lady Wildcat named to the first team. The junior from Cedar Rapids tallied 877 total points, 372 of which were spike points. The 5-10 junior was the Lady Wildcat's leader on the front line.

Abts was named to the second team of the All-CSIC team. The sophomore from Dixon led the Lady Wildcats in total points scored with 1163. Abts led the Cats in serving points, blocking points and dinks.

Wayne State finished their 1979 volleyball season with a 17-23-6 overall record. The Lady Wildcats were 4-10 in the CSIC.

Boys, Girls Rec Ball To Begin In One Week

Recreation basketball for boys and girls is scheduled to begin during the last week of November. The Recreation sport will be offered for boys in grades three through seven and girls in grades five through eight.

The basketball season is scheduled to run into April but will end earlier if weather permits baseball and softball seasons to begin. The practice schedule was originally set to begin Monday, Nov. 26 but the city auditorium will be rented at that date.

Seventh grade boys will now begin practice Friday (Nov. 23) from 2:40-3:30 p.m. All other practice sessions will begin on the following week.

Sixth grade boys will begin practice from 3:45-5:45 p.m. on Tuesday (Nov. 27) Fifth grade boys will begin practice from 3:30-4:30 p.m. on Wednesday (Nov. 28) Any fifth grade boy who has a Morning Shopper or Wayne Herald paper route should contact Hank Overin for a schedule change.

Boys in third and fourth grades and girls in fifth through eighth grades will begin their seasons on Saturday (Dec. 1). The seventh and eighth grade girls will also practice from 4:30-5:30 on Wednesday, Dec. 5.

Practice schedules for the remainder of the season are as follows:

Mondays and Thursdays from 4:45-5:45 p.m.: seventh grade boys.

Tuesdays and Fridays from 3:45-5:45 p.m.: sixth grade boys.

Wednesdays from 3:30-4:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 12:30-1:45 p.m.: fifth grade boys.

Saturdays from 9:30-10:45: third grade boys.

Saturdays from 10:45-12 noon: fourth grade boys.

Saturdays from 1:45-3 p.m.: fifth and sixth grade girls.

Saturdays from 3:45-5 p.m.: seventh and eighth grade girls.

Strong Finish Was Key To Winside's Fine Year

When the going got rough this season, the Winside defense got going. Allowing only 12 points in the final four games and shutting out the final two opponents, the Wildcats finished the season with a 6-3 record and placed third in the Clark Division race.

Winside outscored its opposition 172 to 147, averaging four yards on each offensive play. Winside committed 19 turnovers while forcing opponents to turn the ball over 28 times to rank high in the Lewis and Clark statistical chart.

The Wildcat pass defense gave up only 49 yards passing per game. The offense passed for 686 total yards and rushed for 1,246 during the season for a total 1,932 yards.

Individually, the Wildcats were led by a balanced rushing attack. Dirk Jaeger carried the ball 114 times for 451 yards followed by Brian Foote with 395 yards in 94 carries and Byron Schellenberg with 322 yards in 81 carries. All had averages of at least four yards per carry. The longest run was a 61-yarder by Foote.

Leading receivers were Bob Hawkins who caught 18 passes for 353 yards and Rick Bowers who made 15 receptions for 217 yards. The longest was a 75 yard reception by Hawkins. Lonnie Carstensen, who missed one game with an injured wrist, completed 31 passes in 65 attempts for 503 yards and five touchdowns.

Foote scored 58 total points to lead the scoring category by 32 points. He made seven TD's, 11 PAT's, one two-point conversion and one field goal. He was also the leading all-purpose runner with 724 total yards and an average of 80 yards per game.

Defensively, the Wildcats were led by Brad Roberts, Bob Hawkins, Barry Bowers, Rick Bowers, Byron Schellenberg, Rod Doffin, Joel Broekemeier, Brian Foote and Bill George.

Turn In Rec Uniforms

Wanted: All Recreation boys football uniforms, washed and dried. Return to Wayne Middle Center, above firehouse between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays and between 7 and 10 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Football season is over and Hank Overin, Wayne Recreation director, would like all uniforms returned for storage. Mothers will be busy cleaning the soiled, grimy uniforms but shouldn't worry much about removing grass stains. According to Hank, the mothers should use light bleach and wash in warm water. After the uniforms are clean and dry they should be returned to the Middle Center.

Barry, Savio Place On All-District Team

Wayne State College placed thirteen football players on the NAIA District II All-District Team. Three Wildcats were selected to the first team and 10 received honorable mention recognition.

Bob Barry, Kevin Savio and Tim Hurley, all seniors, were named to the first team. Barry, of Battle Creek, is WSC's all-time rushing and total offense leader. The 6-3, 210-pounder rushed for 782 yards in 1979 raising his career total rushing and total offense figure to 3588. The Battle Creek product is a two-time NAIA All-American.

Savio was the Wildcat's starting center for two seasons. The 6-2, 230 pound Seatonville, Ill., product was responsible for much of the Wildcat's rushing success. Hurley, of Omaha, led the Wildcats in quarterback sacks for two seasons stopping opposing quarterbacks 11 times in 1978 and 10 times this year, despite missing one game due to an ankle injury.

Students Participate in Music Clinic

Several area all-state band and chorus students participated in the 44th annual Nebraska Music Educators' In Service Convention Clinic in Fremont Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Those from Wayne who attended were as follows:
Band - Tracy Otte, clarinet; Sue Wiener, alto clarinet. Director is Ron Dalton.

Chorus - Suzanne Platner, Penny James, Lisa Remer, Kim Blecke. Director is Matthew D. Smith.

Orchestra - Randy Fleeer, bassoon; David Blendenman, trombone; Bill Haas, trombone. Director is Dalton.

Those from Allen who participated were as follows:
Chorus - Lisa Erwin and Joni Kraemer. Director is Helen M. Neger.

Those from Winside who participated were as follows:
Mary Bowder, baritone sax. Director is Curt Jeffries.

The primary purpose of the convention-clinic was to provide a professional in-service program for its musician members that cannot be provided in the local schools. A variety of individual music training forums for elementary, junior high, high school and college music was presented during the three-day conference.

This year, the state clinic orchestra was conducted by Dr. Mischa Semanitzky, conductor of the Kansas State Symphony. The clinic band was directed by Dr. John Upchurch, chairman of fine arts, Brevard College in North Carolina. The clinic chorus was directed by a former Nebraskan, graduated from Kearney State College, Dr. Eph Ehly, chairman of Choral Studies at the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

The three-day conference concluded with a public concert presented by these three groups.

Medicare Helps Cut Costs of Some Care

Some patients who no longer need all the services that hospitals provide, but who still need daily skilled nursing or rehabilitation services as inpatients, can get help from Medicare for the costs of care in a skilled nursing facility. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Medicare hospital insurance can help pay for follow-up care in a skilled nursing facility that takes part in Medicare when certain conditions are met. Facilities taking part in Medicare are staffed and equipped to furnish skilled nursing care, rehabilitation services, and other related health services.

These facilities are required to meet certain health, safety and professional standards, and must follow written policies concerning the rights of patients.

People can call the Norfolk social security office to find out if a particular skilled nursing facility takes part in Medicare, Branch said.

When Medicare can cover this care, covered services include semiprivate room and all meals; regular nursing services; rehabilitation services; drugs furnished by the facility; and use of appliances and equipment furnished by the facility.

Medicare cannot cover personal comfort and convenience items, private duty nurses, any extra charge for private room, medical reasons, and the first three pints of blood in a benefit period.

The leaflet, "Medicare Coverage in a Skilled Nursing Facility," contains more detailed information about the conditions under which Medicare can pay for these services. Free copies can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office.

TOM GRANGE (left) and Mark Ptacek were elected president and vice president respectively of the Wayne State College Student Senate Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition, seven new off-campus student senators were elected for 1980.

Grange, Ptacek Are Elected

Tom Grange of Grand Island was elected president and Mark Ptacek of Bruno was elected vice president of the Wayne State College Student Senate in a popular vote of WSC students held Tuesday and Wednesday.

There's Wood in Those Hills

By Jay Aschenbach
National Geographic
News Service

There's a lot of dead wood lying around the forests. Millions of acres of it. Not just diseased and aged trees, but the leftovers from logging and timber thinning. And that waste wood, the wood that nobody wants, is increasingly finding its way into fireplaces, furnaces, stoves and power plants. Thousands of people are pulling pickup trucks up to the forests, going in with chain saws, and coming out with a winter's worth of logs for fireplaces and woodburning stoves.

Temperatures Below Normal, Precipitation Above Normal

October temperatures averaged one to two degrees below normal over the state, reflecting a similar average temperature drop in Northeast Nebraska.

For Wakefield, the closest town for which official records are kept for the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, temperatures were down by two degrees.

The average daily temperature for Wakefield for October was 64.5 degrees while the average daily minimum was 36.7 degrees. Average for the month was 50.6 degrees.

The highest temperature during the month was 78 degrees on Oct. 1 and Oct. 7. The lowest was 21 recorded on Oct. 13.

As most area residents know, the moisture situation was well above normal.

For example, Wakefield recorded 4.92 inches of precipitation for October. This was an increase of 3.40 inches above normal. Every community included in the Northeast Nebraska Division recorded above-normal precipitation for the month.

According to the report, precipitation averaged above normal in all eight divisions. In the past 49 years, only one October received more precipitation than October, 1979 in the East Central and Southeast regions.

Valentine received 59 percent of the possible amount of sunshine; Lincoln, 67 percent; Omaha, 49 percent; and North Platte, 68 percent.

The number of tons of wood residues now removed from national forests is more than six times greater in 1973 when the federal government first opened the woods to the public for free firewood. More than 7.3 million green tons were picked up in fiscal 1978, compared with 1.1 million in 1973.

Wood to burn
Federal Forest Service experts estimate that there is a minimum of 500 million dry tons of residue wood in public and private forests as well as urban land clearing sites that could be turned into energy.

Making use of waste wood is the first step, the experts agree. In looking to wood as an energy source, wood now makes up about 2 percent of the nation's fuel supply, and federal experts believe that it could be seven percent, saving more than 2.5 million barrels of oil a day.

So far the biggest obstacle to using wood on a large scale is economics — the cost of harvesting the residue wood and transporting it from the forest to the furnace. The process has begun on a limited basis in places with forests nearby — like Minnesota, where a prison once heated with coal is now using wood chips, some of it from trees killed by Dutch elm disease; or Vermont, where a state hospital switched from oil to wood.

Meanwhile, individuals taking advantage of firewood from national and state forests are increasingly installing wood-burning stoves in their homes for primary or supplementary heating, cutting down on oil and gas use. The return of the old-fashioned stove accounts for the tremendous demand for free firewood.

"In the Great Lakes region, people follow the logging operations. The timber no sooner hits the ground than the leftovers are chopped up and carted off," one federal official said.

Everybody's in the woods

"When the leaves start to fall, everybody's out in the woods at the same time," Lynn Frank, of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, said. "There'll be enough wood taken this year to heat the equivalent of 5,000 homes in the state. Already it's 39 percent ahead of last year."

In 1970, about 1,230 standard rough cords were removed; last year, more than 37,250. The state charges a fee of $3 for a cord and a half.

In some areas of the Pennsylvania forests, Frank said, the state is pushing the roads back deeper into the woods because the "easy pickings already have been removed, and people usually will not carry wood more than 200 feet."

Most commercial firewood dealers, who are selling hard-wood this year for anywhere from $75 to $150 a cord, do not consider the free wood programs competition.

"People who don't live near the forests often don't have the time or inclination to rent or buy a truck and a chain saw and head for the woods," said George Hart, who started the Firewood Company in Atlanta four years ago and recently opened another store in Washington, D.C.

For large-scale conversion of waste wood to energy, it will take a lot more than a pickup and a chain saw. Dr. Peter Koch of the Forest Service's Southern Experiment Station is testing a machine that works like "a giant lawn mower, moving through the forest devouring everything in its path."

Leftovers plucked

The mobile harvester, which is 8 feet wide and twice as tall as a man, would pick up the small undesirable trees and logging leftovers, chip them, and throw the chips back into another vehicle that follows behind it. When full, it would be driven out of the forest to a roadside fuel dump.

The forest products industry, a major user of energy, would send out trucks to pick up the chipped wood for use in the power plants that fuel their operations. Pulp, paper, lumber and plywood plants already are getting about half of their energy from their own wood residues.

Another machine already in limited use in the forest industry pulls trees out by the roots like carrots — recovering the once discarded root system, which can be used for fuel as well as pulp.

Research also is being conducted on the development of economical and effective systems for converting wood residue into other fuels, such as alcohol, fuel oil, combustible gas and charcoal.

SEWING THE SUPER FAKES

That rich look of real suede can be sewn into a garment with all the easy-care characteristics of today's fabrics.

There's a big difference between real suede and fake suede, so when you're shopping for fabrics, it's best to know how to tell them apart.

Real suede is leather — animal skins that have been tanned to give a special effect to the inside of the skin. It's sold in pieces. The size depends on the size of the animal. Real suede is sold mainly in leather shops or specialty stores.

Fake suede is found in fabric stores. It's a nonwoven fabric that may have a suede appearance on both sides of the fabric, and may cost from $30 to $50 per yard. It has good characteristics and, if sewn properly, can be made into a beautiful garment.

There's another option to sewers who want a suede-like garment. One type of suede-like fabric has a napped surface to give a suede appearance, and a woven or knitted backing. These fabrics don't have the same appearance as fake suede, but they do have a look that reminds one of suede. These fabrics range in price from $2.88 to $10 per yard. There is a variety in quality of surface naps and backing fabrics, all of which affect the appearance of the suede-like fabric.

Generally, all of the fake suedes and suede-like fabrics are machine washable, but label instructions should be read and followed.

When selecting a pattern, the thickness of nap ("suede") and quality of the fabric should be considered. A soft, draping fabric will need a pattern that drapes. A firmer fabric, such as the fake suedes, should be used with a straighter, more tailored pattern with little ease, no gathers or other embellishments. Look for fabric recommendations on pattern envelopes.

Since both fake suede and suede-like fabrics have a nap, all of the pattern pieces should be laid in the same direction when preparing to cut out the garment. Check to see if pins, needles or tracing wheels will leave holes in the fabric. Sharp shears should be used for cutting and the sewer should make sure the pattern fits before cutting the garment. Chalk used on the wrong side is best for marking fake suedes.

Suede-like fabrics generally are sewn like any other napped fabric. On fake suedes, lapped seams may be preferred. Seams and hems on suede-like fabrics may need to be finished if the backing is a woven fabric.

Also, check the label for pressing instructions. Press lightly on the wrong side with steam and a press cloth. The nap of the fabric must not be flattened.

Allen FFA Returns From Convention In KC

Seven members of the Allen Chapter of the Future Farmers of America returned from the National Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Robert Malcom, Pat Onderstal, Joni Kraemer, Mark Koch, Doug Koester, Dave Hansen, Duane Stolle and advisor Gene Lauritsen represented Allen High School on the trip.

At the convention Joni Kraemer represented the state of Nebraska in the national extemporaneous speaking contest and placed third in the central region finals consisting of 12 states.

That established her as one of the top 12 speakers in the national FFA organization.

Another one of the highlights of the trip was the informal meeting with the National FFA president Mark Sanborne, the national secretary Kelly Grant and the central region vice president Kevin Drone.

Other activities at the convention and in Kansas City were tours of the General Motors assembly plant, Arrowhead and Royals Stadiums and the Kansas City board of trade.

Over 24,000 members, advisors and guests attended the convention. The following businesses and individuals contributed to help defray the cost of the trip: Farmers Co-op Elevator, Security State Bank, The Cash Store, Ellis Electric, Paul Stewart-Kent Feeds, Fritz Kraemer, Tom Wilmes, Rowen Ellis and Gene Lauritsen.

About half the meadowlark's diet is insects harmful to man, and the other half, weed seed.

Lutheran Women Inviting Guests

The Ladies Aid and LWML of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will invite guests to their annual Christmas dinner at noon Dec. 22. There will be a $1 gift exchange.

The entertainment committee for the Christmas meeting is Mrs. Edward Fork, Mrs.

Gilmore Sahs and Mrs. Dorothy Isom. On the decorating committee are Mrs. Irven Wittler, Mrs. Clifford Rohde and Mrs. Russell Hall.

Mrs. Harry Hofeldt, Mrs. Murray Leicy, Mrs. Arnold Junck and Mrs. Ernest Junck are in charge of coffee and serving.

Fourteen women met Wednesday at the church. Mrs. Murray Leicy had devotions and conducted the business meeting. The group sang "Come Ye Thankful People, Come," accompanied by Mrs. Edward Fork.

Plans were made to sponsor another paper drive in February.

It was announced that the Sunday school will again sell Christmas cards this year. They may be obtained at the church.

Mrs. Harry Hofeldt is in charge of purchasing a poinsettia for the church proper.

Mrs. Russell Hall was elected vice president and Mrs. Cliff Rohde was elected secretary for two-year terms. Other officers are Mrs. Murray Leicy, president and Mrs. Ernest Junck, treasurer. Mrs. Gilmore Sahs is Christian growth leader.

Women of the congregation are asked to contribute a thank offering again this year. Mrs. Edward Fork read an article from the Nebraska North Christian Growth Newsletter, entitled "Shoes and Souls."

Hostesses were Mrs. Anna Hansen, Mrs. Dorothy Isom, Mrs. Harry Hofeldt and Mrs. Bertha Isom.

Dinner Held

A Thanksgiving potluck dinner preceded the business meeting of United Methodist Women Wednesday.

There were 13 members and four guests, including Mrs. Gordon Davis, Mrs. Myron Larsen and Mrs. Lena Rethwisch, all of Carroll, and Mrs. Clarence Volwier of Norfolk.

Mrs. Wayne Hankins had the lesson, entitled "Thanks Be to God." A thank offering was received from the members. Devotions, entitled "Thanks For Things We Usually Don't Thank For," were given by Mrs. Louise Boyce.

Mrs. Merlin Kenny conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Don Harmer reported on the last meeting and Mrs. Walt Laga read the treasurer's report.

The women voted to give $10 to the Wall Street Mission in Sioux City to help pay for Thanksgiving dinner for the needy. Mrs. Walt Laga and Mrs. Ronald Jensen reported on Thank You Day they attended recently at Goodwill Industries in Sioux City.

Mrs. Wayne Hankins, Mrs. Walt Laga and Mrs. Don Harmer told about the district meeting of United Methodist Women held recently in Bloomfield.

It was announced that installation of officers and secretaries of United Methodist Women was to be held Nov. 18, during morning worship services.

The annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 12. Christmas boxes will be packed. The lesson, entitled "Do It Yourself Christmas Celebration," will be given by Mrs. Don Harmer and Mrs. Don Harmer. Members will answer roll call with what they want for Christmas.

Hostesses for the Christmas meeting will be Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Walter Laga and Mrs. Clair Swanson.

Cardinal Key Chapter Adds

New member of the Wayne State College Chapter of the National Cardinal Key Honorary were recently initiated for 1979-80. Eleven new members were added to the WSC chapter this fall.

New members are selected from outstanding junior Wayne State coeds with a 3.0 (on a 4-point scale) average or better. The girls are nominated by faculty and through campus organizations, based on character, scholarship, participation in campus and community organizations and on leadership abilities. Current members of Cardinal Key then elect members, based on the above qualifications. The organization is limited to 25 top WSC students.

New Cardinal Key members include: Karl Erwin, Concord; Mary Heyer, Omaha; Diane Kramer, Crofton; Pat Meis, Elgin; Sharon Miller, Pilger; Lois Naber, Albion; Ariene Naughtin, Spaulding; Laura Peter, O'Neill; Kim Purcell, Albion; Susan Seaton, Kankakee, Ill.; and Mary Topolski, Omaha.

The group, which provides services to a wide variety of campus and community functions, also has new officers for 1979-80. New officers include: president — Cheryl Buhmann, Albion; vice president — Lani Cole, O'Neill; corresponding secretary — Rena Schlu-bohm, Ireton, Iowa; recording secretary — Kathy Mlander, Coleridge; treasurer — Karen Reestman, Elgin; historian — Merrie Storms, Omaha; and editor — Diane Elasser, Omaha.

Erwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Erwin of Concord, is a 1976 graduate of Allen High School and a junior music major at WSC.

Parade Led by Color Guard

Military Tour
Kiwanis Topic
A recent tour of Army and Air Force installations in Missouri, Texas and Colorado was program topic at the regular Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Monday at the Black Knight Club. Chuck Barnes, representing the Chamber of Commerce on the trip, told Kiwanians that 18 counselors, educators and other "tourists" from Leonardwood in Missouri, Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, the Force Academy in Colorado Springs and NORAD. The trip's purpose was to promote enlistment in the national National Guard and other military branches. Sam Schroeder, manager of the Wayne County Public Power District, was installed as a new member. It was announced that next week's program will be by A. Cramer who spent a week goose hunting in Ontario, Canada.

Poppy Sales Total $275

The Wayne VFW Auxiliary netted $275-85 during Poppy Day in Wayne on Nov. 10.

The money will be used for the benefits of disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

Eight members of the VFW Auxiliary met at the Vet's Club last Monday night, with president Neva Lorenzen. Four new members were received, including Glennadine Barker, Wilma Allen, Betty Heithold and Phyllis Lynch.

Girls State Chairman Eveline Thompson introduced Penny James, who was Wayne's representative at Girls State in Lincoln last June. Miss James reported on her activities there.

General Orders No. 2 by department secretary Evelyn Horn were read and filed. Faunell Hoffman, Americanism chairman, read "Veteran's Day For All Veterans."

Community service chairman Janice Sperry reported that magazines, sheets and nylon hose were taken to the Norfolk

Veteran's Home. She also announced that about 40 persons attended a potluck dinner at noon Nov. 12 at the Wayne Vet's Club following the annual Veteran's Day parade.

Ruth Korth, Voice of Democracy chairman, announced that there is a change in the scholarship awards. President Lorenzen appointed Eveline Thompson publicity chairman. Mrs. Thompson, who is also rehabilitation chairman, will send Thanksgiving and Christmas cards to shut-in members.

Hospital chairman Francis Doring and Mabel Johnson will purchase gifts for residents of the Wayne Care Centre.

Agency on Aging Plans Training

To assure maximum participation of the eligible elderly in the Northeast Area, the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging will have a training session Monday, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The afternoon session is to be conducted by James Craig, field service representative, Technical assistance agency, Lincoln, to Senior Citizens Center Directors and volunteers of our area. The training will cover the Energy Crisis Assistance Program (ECAP), which has started operation in Nebraska. ECAP will provide assistance with hearing bills to the low income elderly.

Crop Livestock Survey Sought

The Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service is asking farmers and ranchers to participate in the important end-of-the-season crop and livestock surveys this fall, according to Jack L. Aschwege, state statistician.

The Nebraska surveys are a part of the nationwide program of publishing accurate and timely agricultural statistics.

Aschwege points out that all individual farm information supplied will be kept confidential. The information collected from these surveys will be used in preparing state and county estimates of acreage and yield of all harvested crops, winter wheat seedings, cattle, hogs, sheep and chicken numbers.

The first set of questionnaires concerning acres and production of fall harvested crops and winter wheat seedings were mailed in mid-November. Surveys will also be carried out in mid-December to obtain information on livestock and poultry numbers and winter wheat seedings. Some farmers will be contacted by phone or personally visited, Aschwege said.

Farmer participation is voluntary but essential in providing reliable estimates on acreage and livestock numbers, he pointed out. These estimates are important if farmers, ranchers, and their organizations are to have a sound basis for making and adjusting production, storage and marketing plans.

Aschwege said the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will release the State and National estimates for wheat acreages and production and hogs Dec. 21, 1979; annual crop production Jan. 15, 1980; Jan. 1 prospective plantings Jan. 21, 1980; and poultry and cattle Jan. 30, 1980.

Copies of the releases which provide Nebraska and U.S. data are available by request. The National report summaries are available after 3 p.m. on the day of release on a toll-free telephone line. The number is 800-424-7964.

Three credit courses offered include American National Government, from 6:30 p.m., Mondays, Jan. 7-April 28; History of the United States Since 1877, from 8:30-11 p.m., Mondays, Jan. 7 through April 28; Macroeconomics, from 8:30-11 p.m., Tuesdays, Jan. 8-April 29.

Other three-credit courses offered include Understanding Art from 6:30 p.m., Wednesdays, Jan. 9-April 30; Introductory

The Auxiliary gave donations to The Health and Happiness Fund; Children's Christmas Cheer Fund; Norfolk Veteran's Home; Norfolk Regional Center; National Home for Christmas Seals and the General Hospital and the Christmas Hospital Funds, including hospitals in Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Norfolk and Scottsbluff.

A report was given on the District III meeting held in Creighton. Women attending from Wayne included Mrs. Neva Lorenzen, District III Mrs. Eveline Thompson, District III treasurer; Mrs. Francis Doring Mrs. Ruth Korth, Mrs. Helen Siefken, Emma Soules, Lotte Longnecker, Darlene Draghu, Faunell Hoffman and Eva Brockman.

Serving at Monday night's meeting were Helen Sommerfeldt, Alice Davis and Luella Daniels.

All veterans of the Wayne community and their families are invited to the annual veteran's Christmas party on Dec. 2 at the Wayne Vet's Club. The evening will begin with a social hour from 5 to 6 and a potluck dinner at 6:30.

Next regular meeting of the VFW Auxiliary will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 10 at the Vet's Club. There will be a $1.50 gift exchange.

Several women of the Wayne VFW Auxiliary are planning to take part in a Christmas party Dec. 8 at the Norfolk Veteran's Home.

Extended Campus Topics Offered at South Sioux

Course registration for those interested in enrolling in any of 10 Wayne State College Extended Campus Division winter semester courses offered in South Sioux City will be held from 5 to 7 p.m., Monday, Nov. 19, at the S. Sioux City High School.

Representatives from WSC will be available to assist students with selecting courses necessary to fill degree requirements through WSC. Information will also be available for registered nurses interested in earning a bachelor's degree in nursing through the University of Nebraska. WSC and Northeast Technical Community College (NTCC), Norfolk, offer non-nursing courses as part of a cooperative Bachelor of Science in Nursing program through UNL.

The 10 Wayne State courses offered winter semester are worth college credit and may be applied toward a degree. Courses will be held at the S. Sioux City High School and instructors will be regular WSC faculty.

Accounting II from 6:30 p.m., Wednesdays, Jan. 9-April 30; Principles of Marketing, from 8:30-11 p.m., Wednesdays, Jan. 9-April 30; Occupational Guidance For Special Vocational Needs, from 6:30-9 p.m., Thursdays, Jan. 10-May 1 and The Shakespeare Playoffs from 8:30-11 p.m., every other Thursdays, beginning Jan. 31 and continuing through May 22.

A five-credit course, Introductory Mathematics, will be held from 6:30 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, Jan. 8-May 1. Tuition for Nebraska residents is $20 for the first credit hour and $21 for any additional hours. Non-resident tuition is $34 for the first hour and $35 for additional hours. An additional $10 matriculation fee is required for first-time WSC students.

For further information on the offerings or on the Nov. 19 registration contact Jay Morten at 494-6486, Caroline Bobier at 494-4005 or the WSC Extended Campus Division at 375-2200.

CONTEST RULES

One football game has been placed in each of the 20 ads on this page. Indicate the winner by writing in the name of the winning team on the proper line on the entry blank. No scores. Just pick the winners, or ties. In case of tie, write "tie." Use the entry blank below on a reasonable facsimile.

Pick the score of the "Game of the Week" and enter that score in the appropriate blanks. The correct closest score will be used to break ties, and will be used only in the case of ties.

One entry only to each contestant, but members of a family may each have an entry. Entries should be brought or mailed to The Wayne Herald office not later than 5 p.m. Thursday, or if mailed, should not be postmarked later than 5 p.m. Thursday. You need not be a subscriber of The Herald to be eligible for prizes.

The Winners will be announced weekly on the Thursday sports page of The Wayne Herald. There will be duplicate prizes awarded if winning scores are identical. Employees of the Herald and their immediate families are ineligible. Judges' decisions will be final in every case.
