STRETCHING FIXED INCOME?

Living on a fixed income during these inflationary times is usually disappointing. Too often there simply is not enough money to live comfortably.

A "quick profit" advertisement might seem to be the answer to a fixed income problem. But wait! You should be alert for certain warning signals.

Be suspicious if the ad says:
 — the work offers quick, easy profits
 — the work can be done in your "spare" time
 — you must make an initial investment

— you must buy something to get started
 — often it is difficult to recover even the cost of the initial purchase. Sometimes there may be a minimal profit, but only after much more time and effort on your part than the ad would have you expect. A chance for "fantastic" profits may exist, but is seldom if ever realized.

Before investing any money, investigate the market. Is there

“The sage has no fixed principles.” Lao-Tse

“Chance is the riddle fate asks man to solve.” Nietzsche really need for this product or service in your locality? How have others fared making or selling this item or service? Do you have the money, time and energy to keep at it for even a small profit? Can you afford to lose any money?

If you're still interested after answering these questions, do one more thing — call the Better Business Bureau to ask if you would be dealing with a reputable company. The toll free number for the Omaha Better Business Bureau is 800-642-9332.

Questers Club Has Program On Postcards

The Confusable Collectables Questers Club met in the home of Mrs. Fred Glicksleiva Monday evening for a program on picture postcards given by Mrs. Max Lundstrom.

Ten members attended the January meeting. Each told about antique articles they acquired during the past year.

Mrs. Lundstrom showed her unique collection of postcards, including one of early Wayne, where the city water tower appears to be in the middle of the street on a hill at the north end of town.

She told of the history of picture postcards, which begins in 1892, and of the pictures considered valuable.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Orville Brandstetter on Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. The program on cobalt will be given by the hostess.

'Better Life' Forecast in '80's

Despite a doubling of prices in the next 10 years, most Nebraskans can look forward to a better life in the coming decade than they've known in the 1970's.

Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension specialists forecast a growth in real disposable incomes, more recreation and leisure time, less waste and greater health consciousness in the 1980's.

No end is predicted for inflation, however. Economists expect an inflation rate of eight to nine percent a year during the decade, compared to an average 6.9 percent rate per year since the end of 1967.

Per capita income should increase 30 percent in Nebraska to $60,069 by comparison, said Kathy Prochaska-Cue, family economics specialist. That figure is slightly less than the national average per capita income figure of $61,660 expected by 1990.

She said economic growth should increase by about three percent annually during the 1980's.

Housing will continue to take a large share of people's incomes, she said. More families will buy homes and more money will be spent for home modernization and repairs. Breakthroughs in household electronics and appliances also should attract a larger share of disposable income.

People will spend considerably more on recreation, leisure-time activities and energy, said Prochaska-Cue, while no drop in food prices is expected to occur.

A lower birth rate, smaller families, more working women and more two-income families should help offset some of the increases in the cost of living for many persons, she added.

Inflation and energy shortages will call for adjustments in lifestyles, however, said Janet Wilson, consumer education specialist.

The decade of the '80s will mark the beginning of an era of "critical financial management" for many families, she said. People will begin to re-scale their levels of consumption and use available resources more efficiently.

For example, people are expected to become more self-reliant in areas of personal care and health care. "They'll repair, rather than replace goods and they'll waste much less," she commented.

Prochaska-Cue said conservation will be the "watchword of the '80s" and the "do-it-yourself" trend will continue to grow. She expects people to do more remodeling and interior decorating themselves, and to do more gardening and cooking "from scratch."

In some ways, the coming decade may be more similar to those earlier in the century than the one just past, Wilson observed. She said there will be more "sharing" of resources among families and neighbors, with more car pooling, old-fashioned social activities and an increased reliance on neighbors.

"There's a growing awareness that our energy-intensive lifestyles are just too expensive to maintain," she added. In the '80s, homes will be built closer to places of work, and they'll be smaller and more energy efficient, she said, with greater use of alternative energy systems.

The next decade also should see less emphasis on youth, according to Prochaska-Cue. As the population becomes dominated by the "over-30" age group, society will become more adult-oriented, she said.

Mrs. Schumacher said money presented to the Hospital Auxiliary will be used to purchase a fetal heart monitor for Providence Medical Center. Mrs. Manske said other proceeds from the house tour will go to AAUW Fellowships.

The vote to re-elect Janke as president was unanimous, while the vote to retain the other officers was split. Voting against the motion to re-elect the other officers was Brugger. Abstaining was Bargstadt.

The board also named committees as follows:

AMERICANISM—Janke, Bargstadt and Melvin Meierhenry; building—Brugger, Roberts and Lynn Lessmann; transportation—Bargstadt, Janke, Meierhenry.

The school calendar for the 1980-81 school year was approved.

School will begin Aug. 27 at Winside and will dismiss May 22 unless inclement weather requires additional days.

In other action, the board denied a request by a family which is moving from the Winside School District. The board was asked to permit the family's children to remain in the district until the school year ends.

A TEMPORARY land transfer was approved to allow the children of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Shelton to attend Winside schools. The Sheltons will not pay tuition, but their land will be taxed in the Winside School District.

As required by law, a steering committee for school self-evaluation was appointed. Members include school personnel and residents of the community. These are as follows:

Pat Meierhenry, Jim Halferty, Reba Mann, Supf. Don Leighton, Principal Al Schlueter, Warren Mertz, Dean Janke and the Rev. John Haferman.

THE BOARD ALSO voted to offer three-year contracts to Leighton and Schlueter. Details of the contract will be made available when negotiations with other school personnel are completed.

Anyone wishing to express their thoughts through a memorial to the Heart Association should send the name of the person to be honored, their own name and address and that of the person to be notified, together with their check or money order (payable to the American Heart Association) to Wayne County Memorial Chairman Mrs. Carl Lentz, 703 E. 10th St., Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Allen Council Okays Program

A non-descript one- and six-year street program for the city of Allen was adopted during the regular City Council meeting Monday night.

The program calls for armor (thin asphalt) coating of some streets next spring. City Clerk Pearl M. Snyder said nothing specific has been scheduled, but streets will be resurfaced as needed.

The Council gave serious consideration to problems involving street lights. Sam Knepper, NPPD employee, said 19 street lights in Allen have been shot out recently. Fifteen of these were destroyed during a two-day period when he was making routine inspections.

In the long run, the Council said, it will be taxpayers who suffer the burden of extra costs. As a result, patrons who hear or see anyone shooting within the city limits are asked to contact Dixon County Sheriff Dean Chase.

Social Security Tax Rate to Stay the Same

The social security tax rate will stay at 6.13 percent for 1980, but there will be an increase in the earnings base, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk said recently.

The earnings base is the maximum amount of annual earnings subject to the social security tax, Branch said. The base will be $25,900 in 1980, compared to $22,900 for 1979.

Workers who earn less than $22,900 will pay no more tax in 1980 than they did in 1979. Those who have earnings of $25,900 or more in 1980 will pay an additional $183.90 in social security taxes.

The maximum 1980 social security tax will be $1,587.67 for workers with annual earnings of $25,900 or more. The maximum tax for 1979 is $1,403.77.

The tax rate for self-employed people will stay at 8.10 percent for 1980, Branch said, but the higher earnings base will mean a bigger tax bill for those with earnings of more than $22,900.

Workers should check their 1979 W-2 forms carefully when they receive them. A copy of this form is used to enter a person's covered earnings in social security records. Any difference between the worker's own records and the information on the W-2 form should be reconciled.

Workers should check their social security records every 3 years or so, Branch said. This is especially important for those who change jobs often. People can get a free postcard form for this purpose at the social security office.

The Norfolk office is located at 1310 Norfolk Ave., 1-800-642-8310.

Although Irving Berlin wrote "God Bless America" during World War I, he waited until 1938 to have it published.

Good Neighbor Nominations Being Sought

Do you know a good neighbor who consistently goes out of his way to help others in need? If so, he or she may be a good candidate for Ak-Sar-Ben's annual Good Neighbor Award.

Community groups and organizations performing exceptional service for the greater benefit of all are also logical candidates.

Ak-Sar-Ben reminds all citizens throughout Nebraska and western Iowa that the deadline for submitting Good Neighbor Award nominations is Feb. 1. The 1980 awards will be made for neighborly deeds performed during 1979.

Framed citations and gold lapel emblems will be awarded to winners selected by a statewide committee. Nomination forms are available from the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, Ak-Sar-Ben Field, Omaha, Neb., 68106.

Mercurio, assistant secretary of agriculture for rural development, said recently.

Farmers Home Administration, the credit-arm USDA, had suspended certain new housing loans and grants because legislative authority had expired Dec. 1. New authorization became effective after Congress passed the Housing and Community Development Act and President Carter signed it into law Dec. 21.

Programs affected were the section 502 low to moderate income home ownership, section 515 rural rental housing and the section 523 technical assistance grants and self help site loans. These programs represent most of FmHA's rural housing lending authority.

Previously, Congress had appropriated $4.9 billion for all FmHA housing programs for fiscal year 1980. That represents a slight increase over the FY 1979 budget.

FmHA invested nearly $14.7 billion in rural areas programs in FY 1979.

Farm Pseudorabies Prevention Plan May Work Here

Dr. Alex Hogg, an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension veterinarian, has proposed a plan for preventing the entrance of pseudorabies into Oregon, a state that has never had a case of confirmed pseudorabies. Hogg said the proposal may work well for Nebraska as well as Oregon.

The plan, which was proposed by Hogg at the Oregon Swine Days in Corvallis, Ore., calls for blood testing of all imported swine for pseudorabies before and after buying, and thus keeping individual herds completely free of the disease.

"Pseudorabies (Aujeszky's Disease) is an acute, frequently fatal disease often associated with swine, although it may infect any species of domestic and wild animals. The disease is caused by a virus of the Herpesvirus group and is spread by direct contact. In swine, the nose is the main entry point of the virus."

Hogg said that he "highly recommends" the plan he devised for Oregon to individual Nebraska pork producers that have not experienced pseudorabies and are fairly isolated from pseudorabies-infected herds.

Hogg stated that the only difference between the two plans considered, that is, a single farm opposed to a whole state.

"Hogg outlined his plan as follows:

"The plan would require that all imported swine, including breeding stock and feeder pigs have a negative serum-neutralization blood test within 30 days prior to arrival, or originate from a pseudorabies qualified herd," Hogg said.

A pseudorabies qualified herd has had all breeding stock tested and found negative to pseudorabies. In addition, 25 percent of the herd must be retested every three months and found negative to maintain the qualified status.

He said the only exception to the pre-entry testing requirement on imported swine would be market animals, which must be consigned directly to a packing plant for immediate slaughter.

"Market swine should not go through auction markets or other collection points," Hogg added.

He said the second and most important part of the Oregon plan would require that all breeding animals be isolated on the farm of destination or a nearby farm having no swine and retested after 21 days. No animals are to be commingled with the main herd until the negative status of the second test has been confirmed.

"The reason for the retest is that it takes about 10 days for an animal to develop a positive serum-neutralization test after infection and thus could be in the incubation stage at the time of the first test," he said, "and in addition, animals can and do become infected during transit."

Hogg said that imported feeder pigs need not be required to have a second test but must be quarantined to the farm of destination and moved only to slaughter.

He cautioned that imported feeder pigs should never be brought to a farm that maintains a breeding-farrowing operation.

Another aspect to his plan, Hogg said, is to be sure that any suspicious signs of pseudorabies which includes convulsions, shaking, paddling and coughing, should be submitted to the state veterinary diagnostic laboratory and also reported to the state veterinarian.

"The key to prevent pseudorabies in Oregon or any state lies with the state's pork producers, practicing veterinarians and state and federal regulatory officials," Hogg said.

He added, "The pork producers are by far the most important group since they must be knowledgeable about pseudorabies and prevent its introduction into Oregon on an individual farm basis."

He said that pork producers also have a strong incentive to prevent the spread of pseudorabies; they have the most to lose.

Food Stamp Users Suffer More Than Most Others

Food stamp users have suffered more from inflation in recent years than the general population, despite automatic cost-of-living increases in benefits, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

Overall income in the United States increased more than five times faster than incomes of food stamp households over the past four years. Incomes of food stamp recipients went up only 7 percent, while overall incomes rose 40 percent during this time. As a result, food stamp households are being especially hard hit by inflation, Foreman said.

According to a recent survey, food stamp households have an average monthly income of about $320, compared to an average monthly household income of about $1,500 for the general population.

Moreover, the poor have little to fall back on, she said. Sixty percent of persons receiving food stamps have no liquid assets, and 95 percent have assets under $1,500.

The needy spend 90 percent of their income on necessities such as food, shelter, medical care and utilities. Other Americans spend only about 60 percent of their income to buy necessities. Foreman said. The price index for necessities shows the cost for these items has risen faster than the cost of other items — 34 percent over the past four years. During the first nine months of 1979, the cost of medical care went up 9 percent, food up 9.6 percent, housing up 15 percent, and energy up 45.5 percent.

WAYNE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Growing avocados in the home
The avocado is an attractive houseplant with bright, shiny and attractive leaves. The plant can be started by sowing a fruit which is soft when squeezed, and then extracting the pit from it. The seed is the size of a golf ball. The seed should not be allowed to dry out.

To plant the seed, use a six-to-eight-inch clay or plastic flower pot, and use a well-drained potting mixture. To speed germination, remove the top one-fourth of the seed with a razor blade. Plant the seed so that the tip is covered with about one-fourth inch of soil, then water thoroughly.

The avocado plant requires exposure to a south or east window with full sun and a temperature of from 65 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit. The plant should be allowed to dry out between waterings, and may be placed outdoors during the summer. The plant may be pruned to shape it.

If the avocado plant has problems, the trouble may be too-frequent watering or insufficient light. Browning on leaf edges is caused by low humidity; yellow speckling of leaves indicates spider mites and general yellowing of leaves indicates a fertilizer deficiency.

Care of Christmas plants
Here are some suggestions for care of plants you may have received for Christmas.

Jerusalem Cherry and Christmas Pepper: If these plants were purchased while the fruit was ripe, keep them in full sun during the day to prevent premature fruit drop. Put them in cool (55 degrees F) place at night.

Christmas Begonia — this plant will last for several months if you get it when it has a large number of buds. Don't let the soil dry out completely, or the flowers won't last long. Keep the plant in a cool, sunny window sill.

Christmas Cactus — this isn't a typical cactus. It requires as much water as most other house plants. Water only when it needs it, but water so that moisture drips out the drainage hole. Empty any excess water.

After your Christmas cactus stops blooming this year, prepare it to bloom again next year. Simply keep it in a sunny window and set it outside in a shady place during the summer. In October or before frost, bring it in. Set it in a cool spot at night. It won't flower in temperatures above 75 degrees F.

Bakers Seminar Contributes To Improving Wheat Goods

"The successful completion of the first Bakers Seminars to be held in West Africa has contributed to a greater appreciation of the importance of U.S. wheat in improving the quality and variety of bakery products," stated Great Plains Wheat Baking Consultant William J. Sultan.

"Moreover," Sultan continued, "these seminars and bakery consultations will serve as an excellent foundation for future technical assistance activities in West African countries sponsored by Great Plains Wheat in conjunction with local wheat industry organizations."

Sultan had just completed a two-week mission to Senegal, the Ivory Coast, Ghana and Nigeria to conduct seminars and in-shop consultations for members of the baking trade. Additional meetings with flour millers, representatives of allied industry and officials of concerned government agencies, allowed the mission to be tailored to the needs of bakers in each country.

"Becoming a Nigerian or Ghanaian baker," Sultan stated, "is central to his approach in suggesting methods for improving baking techniques and product quality."

Sultan also indicated that further assistance will be offered by Great Plains Wheat in the establishment of a proposed Bakers Training Center in Nigeria. "There is now a recognition on the part of all sectors concerned with the growth of the Nigerian wheat industry," he stated, "that the initiation of a local training program for bakers will have far-reaching benefits by upgrading quality standards and improving bakery profitability."

In addition to coordinating the effort to bring together interested organizations on a Baking Industry Advisory Council, GPW has offered to provide assistance in planning the curriculum and physical layout for the school, and in training its professional staff.

"The Nebraska Wheat Committee supports the wheat promotion programs of Great Plains Wheat around the world through Nebraska wheat check-off dollars," says Dan McGuire, chief of the Wheat Division, "and a combination of baking seminars and the proposed bakers training center in Nigeria is a good example of how those dollars benefit Nebraska wheat producers."

Workshop Set

A workshop on stored grain problems will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the USDA Service Center in Wayne. Dr. Leroy Peters, extension entomologist, will be the main instructor.

This workshop is based on problems encountered in a 200,000 bushel stored grain survey recently completed in Wayne County by Extension Agents Don C. Spitzer and Phil Rzewnicki.

Topics in the workshop include insect identification, insecticides to control insects, insecticides to prevent insect buildup, proper use of aeration systems and how to properly inspect stored grain to prevent future damage. There will also be a report on the results of the stored grain survey taken in Wayne County.

Spitzer explained that Wayne County farmers have over $24 million worth of grain stored on the farm. It's important that farmers know as much as possible about keeping stored grain in good condition. Spitzer said.

Bereuter Seeks Wheat Reserve

Congressman Doug Bereuter has called on Congress to give swift approval of legislation to establish an international wheat reserve.

"In light of the President's decision to halt grain sales to the Soviet Union, it is imperative that steps be taken to establish such a reserve to alleviate the strain on the domestic market," Bereuter said in calling for prompt action on the legislation (H.R. 4489).

The proposed wheat reserve would amount to 4 million tons and would help the United States augment its food aid commitments to developing nations.

The administration has recommended the reserve as one means to offset the expected decline in market prices.

Joint hearings on the proposal have been held by the House Agricultural and International Relations Committees.

Group Dynamite Workshop Set

All teenagers are invited to attend a 4-H "Group Dynamite" workshop to be held at the Northeast Station near Concord on Saturday, Jan. 26 from 9:30 a.m. through 8 p.m.

Group Dynamite is a program designed for anyone who participates in a group. Although it seems quite natural for all of us to be part of some group, there are still many unanswered questions when we actually become members of and participate in group settings.

The purpose of the Group Dynamite program is to provide experiences which will help youth develop effective group skills and become more effective in group interaction.

Those presenting the workshop will be Laura Haase from Wayne; Judy Huber, Madison County 4-H aide; Frank Morse, Dakota County Extension agent; and Roy Stohler, District 4-H and youth specialist from the Northeast Station.

Registration fee for the workshop is $4.25 which includes two meals. Registration information can be obtained from your local county extension agent. The registration deadline is Jan. 18.

The workshop is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska.

Weed Control Topic at Clinic

Farmers in the area have an opportunity to become updated on the latest in weed control techniques.

There will be a weed control clinic offered Friday at the USDA center in Wayne. One of the featured topics will be the use of recirculating sprayers and wick applicators for weed escapes such as volunteer corn.

Presentations will also be made on factors affecting herbicide effectiveness, mechanical alternatives when herbicides fail and herbicide injury symptoms. The program also includes an identification review of new and old weeds in northwest Nebraska and instruction on how to use herbicide recommendation manuals.

The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the center's conference room. Principal speakers will be extension agronomy specialist Russell Moorman and county Extension Agents Don C. Spitzer and Phil Rzewnicki.

Federal Cutbacks Cited In Disapproval of Grant

Pursuant to action by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission Dec. 20, a $600,000 grant from the commission for the Willow Creek Project was disapproved after having received approval in May of 1979 by the same agency. The most apparent reason for disapproval was federal budget cutbacks for fiscal 1980, a spokesman said.

The original request for federal funding for projects like Willow Creek was $359 million and Congress appropriated $300 million. The effect in Nebraska on this fund, administered by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, is a reduction from an anticipated $3.9 million to $3 million, a $900,000 reduction.

The $600,000 Willow Creek application is the largest project ever approved by the commission for funding under the Heritage, Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of Interior. "Therefore, it was the decision of the commission to defer funding to the Willow Creek Project because of this budget reduction on the federal level. We have to assume that the cutback on the federal level is a part of the attempt to balance the federal budget," the spokesman said.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD has also received a grant from the Nebraska Resources Development Fund ($450,000 FY 1980) for this project and funds are still available.

However, it is the Lower Elkhorn NRD's intention to continue towards the completion of this project attempting to obtain funds from all possible sources and continue administrative procedures for land acquisition, he said. And acquisition will not begin until the Lower Elkhorn NRD is assured of having adequate funds to acquire all lands involved for the project.

Heart Attacks Topic Of Area Meetings

Heart attacks aren't always in the category of "something that can't be helped."

There are several common risk factors that become our own self responsibility.

Details on what might be done to prevent heart attacks and heart failure will be discussed at Extension Club leader training sessions for the lesson, "Save Your Heart." Meetings are scheduled as follows:

Jan. 22, 9:30 a.m., Dixon County, Northeast Station, Concord; Jan. 22, 1:30 p.m., Cedar County, Ridgeview Manor, Coleridge; Jan. 23, 9:30 a.m., Thurston County, Extension Office, Walthill, Jan. 23, 1:30 p.m., Dakota County, Court House, Dakota City, Jan. 24, 9:30 a.m., Wayne County, Fire Hall, Hoskins.

Anna Marie Kreifels, area extension agent, who will conduct the meetings notes that cigarette smoking, obesity, too little exercise, poorly handled stress and an improper diet are "risk factors" to be discussed as ways to help prevent heart disease. Individuals have some control over these "risk factors." Factors an individual cannot control are age, sex, and family history as these are defined in relation to heart health.

"Save Your Heart" is to be presented by an extension home economist who has received leader training on the subject matter.

The meeting is sponsored by the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service and is designed for group learning situations. Organizations may send representatives who could then take the information back to their own groups. Groups wishing to have leaders in attendance are asked to give advance notice to Anna Marie Kreifels, Northeast Station, Concord, 68728.

Beefendum Topic At Wakefield Hall

An information meeting explaining the nationwide beefendum will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday at the Wakefield American Legion Hall.

Rex Messersmith, communications director of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, is guest speaker for the event.

The meeting, hosted by the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, is being held to acquaint all Northeast Nebraska cattlemen and cattlemen with the beefendum program.

The beefendum is a cattle industry-initiated effort to start a self-help, self-run program of beef promotion, consumer education, nutrition and market research and foreign market development.

If a simple majority of cattlemen favor the beefendum, funds will be raised and controlled by cattlemen to fight anti-beef propaganda, explain the nutritional value of beef, combat beef substitutes, counter cattle cycle extremes and increase demand for beef.

Registration will be held from Jan. 28 through Feb. 6. Voting will take place February 19 through Feb. 22. All registration and voting will take place during regular business hours at local ASCS offices.

Cattlemen who have owned one or more head of cattle in the previous 12 months are eligible to register and vote in the Beefendum.

Lunch will be served following the Tuesday meeting by the Northeast Nebraska Feeders Auxiliary.

Further beefendum information can be obtained from Tom Gustafson of Wakefield (287-2434) or Mrs. Leon Bruns of Pender (385-2737).
