ONE HUNDRED FOURTH YEAR NUMBER FORTY TWO

March on Birth Defects

The Wayne Mrs. Jaycees will conduct their annual Mothers March on Birth Defects in Wayne on Sunday, Jan. 27.

The march is a drive against America's major child health problem.

Mrs. Robert Woehler, Mothers March chairman, said volunteers this year will again distribute health education literature about low birth weight, the leading cause of infant death and the major cause of childhood disabilities.

"With early prenatal care and good nutrition during pregnancy, many women could reduce the risk of having seriously ill babies," said Mrs. Woehler, adding that birth defects strike more than a quarter million babies each year.

Money raised during the Wayne Mothers March will help provide special medical attention for women suffering complications during pregnancy, and intensive care for critically ill newborns. Other funds make possible health education, research, and community service programs, all aimed at giving every baby a healthy start in life.

Mrs. Woehler said persons interested in helping with the drive are asked to call her at 375-3239.

Candidates May File for Offices

County Clerk Oregretta Morris has issued a reminder that March 15 is the filing deadline for partisan and non-partisan candidates who plan to seek office on the city or county level or in the school system.

Primary elections are scheduled May 13, and the filing deadline applies to Class II, III and IV cities, she explained.

Enos G. Williams, Carroll, is the first to file candidacy papers. He is seeking re-election to the Wayne County Noxious Weed Control Board.

She added that May 2 is the final day to register to vote for persons not already registered. Mrs. Morris said this applies to persons moving into Wayne County, moving from one ward or precinct to another or a change in marital status.

Wayne Council seats up for election currently are held by Sam Heppburn, Ward I; Darrel Fuelberth, Ward II; Keith Mosley, Ward III; and Cliff Ginn, Ward IV.

Airport Authority spots open are held by Bob Reeg and Frank Prather.

Winside board of education seats to be open are held by Dean Janke, Harlan Brugger and Randall Bargstadt.

Wayne Carroll board of education seats to be up for grabs are held by Jim Hummel, Neil Sandahl and Dorothy Ley.

Wakfield board seats to be open are held by Chalmers (Bud) Simpson, Verneil Hallstrom and Marvin Borg.

Board of trustees positions on the ballot for Winside, Carroll and Hoskins were not available Wednesday morning.

County slots up for grabs this spring will include three rural members on the Noxious Weed Control Board, Dwaine Retzwich, Wayne; Lester Menke, Carroll; and Williams, Carroll.

In addition, the board seat held by Kenneth Eddie of Carroll will be on the ballot.

In the city of Wayne, four City Council seats will up for grabs plus two positions on the Airport Authority. The Council seats are four year terms, while the airport spots are six year terms.

In Winside, two seats on the board of trustees will be placed on the ballot, three trustees seats in Carroll will be up for grabs as will three in Hoskins.

Three seats on the Winside 95R board of education will be sought; three seats will be available in the Wakfield 60R board and three on the District 17 Wayne-Carroll board.

Mrs. Morris said she will deputize persons in Winside, Carroll and Hoskins to accept filings for the open positions and to register voters unable to come to the Courthouse.

Those to be deputized include Lynn Wylie, Winside village clerk; Norma Brockmoller, at the Winside school; Bev Hitchcock, Farmers State Bank in Carroll; and Shirley Mann, Commercial State Bank in Hoskins.

She also reminded incumbent office holders that they must file for re-election by Feb. 28. Non-incumbents have until March 15.

MOST OF THE insects found in stored grain are hardly seen with the visible eye. Phil Rzewnicki (above), county ag agent-in-training, uses a microscope to find and identify a variety of little pests which harm stored grain, thus reducing the grain's value. Several bins in Wayne County were found to be infested and followup treatment recommendations were made.

Survey Finds Considerable Grain Infested With Several Insects

by Phil Rzewnicki
Extension Agent-in-Training

In the past few years, many farmers have invested in long-term, on-farm storage for their grain. The bins they use normally hold 6,000 to 12,000 bushels of shelled corn. Wayne County farmers themselves hold almost $24 million worth of corn in storage.

WHAT'S LITTLE known, however, is that these large, stubby towers can be perfect breeding grounds for a large variety of tiny insects which live off the grain and damage it in the process.

Several farmers in the past year have brought samples of obviously infested stored corn to the Wayne County Extension Service, Rzewnicki said. "County Agent Don C. Spitz and I initiated a series of intensive bin inspections to better assess the conditions of stored grain in the county," he explained. The type of survey conducted had never been done before in Nebraska. The only similar work performed in Corn Belt states is that of a costly grain bin inspection service offered in Kentucky, he said.

CORN STORED for more than one year has a greater potential for insect damage than that which is harvested in the fall and fed out in the spring. As a result, a list of those farmers who have stored corn for one year or longer was obtained from the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

Don and I contacted each farmer on the list by letter," Rzewnicki said. "They were asked to participate in our stored grain survey. From those who replied, a total of 23 bins was sampled. The bins ranged in size from 256 bushel wooden bins in sheds to 34,000 bushel steel bins."

EACH BIN surveyed was inspected in a consistent pattern. Samples of grain for both insects and moisture were taken with a grain inspection probe at center, north, west, east and south points of the grain mass. A surface sample also was collected.

Temperature readings were made 10 feet into the center and south side of the grain. The capsule used for temperature readings contained approximately a half cup of corn, thus providing two additional, deeper samples for insect inspection.

"The survey was not without its risks for us. We nearly got stuck in our very first bin," he explained. "The corn was stacked high in a cone shape and it slid down towards the open hatch as we worked

"OUR EXIT was blocked as there were only a few inches between the top and bottom of the hatch due to the very low angle of the roof. It took quite awhile to dig ourselves out. After that incident, we learned to reject certain bins if they were too full for safe inspection.

"Another situation which challenged us was an angled, metal roof which had to be crossed some 50 feet on a rainy day in order to reach the bin. Needless to say, we took very small steps."

After the samples of grain were collected

Varsity Band Sets Concert Monday, Feb. 11

The Wayne-Carroll High School Varsity Band will present its annual Mid-Winter Concert at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 11, at the high school lecture hall.

Band director Ron Dalton said selections to be performed include "March Gloria," by F. H. Losey; "Civil War Fantasy," by Billik; "Prelude for Band," by Smith; "Selections from Oliver," by Bart; "Muppet Movie Music," by Williams and Ascher and others.

Prior to the concert, the bi-monthly meeting of the Wayne-Carroll Music Boosters will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the commons area. It will be highlighted by showing of the new sample band uniforms the organization is purchasing for the varsity band.

In addition, the uniforms will be on display after the concert during which time coffee and cookies will be served.

and tested for moisture. Careful inspection was made of each sample under a microscope. The insects which feed on stored grain can barely be seen with the naked eye. "They tend to average about one sixteenth of an inch in length," he added.

ABOUT 20 varieties of stored grain insects were found. Two of these cause extensive damage -- the Indian Meal Moth and several types of weevils. Most of the remainder were of secondary importance, and normally prosper only if the grain is already in poor condition.

Rzewnicki said three criteria should be met for storing grain more than one year to prevent mold and insect damage: moisture, temperature and number of insects.

Moisture of grain in the bin should be less than 13 percent. Temperature of grain should be within 10 degrees (Fahrenheit) of outside temperature in fall and spring. Winter temperatures must be between 30 and 40 degrees and summer levels held between 60 and 70 degrees. There should be no Indian meal moths or weevils present and not more than five insects of other varieties per quart of grain.

RESULTS OF the survey show that only

26 percent of bins in the county have average moisture of less than 13 percent, he said. Only four percent had average temperatures below 45 degrees which was the level needed at the time the survey was performed. Only 35 percent of the bins sampled would not need insect control measures. Of all the bins surveyed, none met all three of the above criteria for storing grain.

The survey revealed there are significant problems with stored grain in the Wayne County area, Rzewnicki said. Nearly half of the bins studied showed evidence of meal moth and 10 percent have weevil infestations.

"THE LONG-TERM storage of grain is a new agricultural development started only a few years ago," he continued. "Thus, there is little experience with it. There are, however, several good chemicals available to farmers to prevent any insect problems. Detailed information is available through county extension offices."

The survey brought out considerable information and has been well praised by stored grain experts, the assistant said. Plans already are being made by other extension agents to perform similar surveys in their counties.

PRINCIPLES OF INSECT PREVENTION IN STORED GRAIN

Temperature — Aerate the grain for temperature control, at least 40 degrees in winter and aim for 60 to 70 degrees in summer. During fall and spring, stay within 10 degrees of average temperature outside to avoid condensation.

Moisture — Grain which is stored more than one year should go in between 12 and 13 percent. Do not aerate when humidity outside is over 70 percent for more than a day.

Indian Meal Moth — Always take action against meal moths. A new, easy-to-apply product, Dipel, works well for one year or use Vapona strips which are replaced every four months.

Clean Bin When Empty — Before grain goes in clean out all debris. Vacuum cracks and crevices. Then spray walls with malathion, methoxychlor or pyrethins. When grain goes in, screen out the fines.

Frequent Inspections — During warm months, sample grain every two to four weeks. Inspect grain every four to six weeks during winter. Use a grain probe, a screen with pan, a magnifying glass, a thermometer attached to a long rod, and a stick to check for crested areas. Equipment costs are small compared to potential loss of grain.

Fumigate if Infested — It's usually less expensive and more effective to hire a commercial fumigator than to do it yourself. Do not fumigate if grain temperature is less than 65 degrees.

Annual Chamber Meeting Sunday at Black Knight

Presentation of several honors will highlight the annual Chamber of Commerce meeting at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Black Knight.

A SURPRISE honor will be awarded to a member of the Wayne Chamber by the U.S. Small Business Administration during the evening's short program, said Gary Van Meter, Chamber executive vice president.

Leo Navin, community economic development chief of the SBA from Omaha, will be present for the ceremonies.

AS USUAL, Wayne's Man of the Year Award will be presented to an individual who has displayed exemplary effort in the area of community development in Wayne during the past year, Van Meter said.

This year's meeting format will be similar to previous years', with no formal program or dinner planned. Members and their spouses will be invited to partake of hors d'oeuvres and refreshments and the short program.

THIS YEAR'S meeting also will mark the Chamber's 40th year of service to the community. All Chamber members and their spouses are urged to attend.

Dean Bruggeman, annual meeting committee chairman, will give the welcome and Van Meter will make a presentation of the 1980 board of directors.

Chamber President John Dorsey will present the President's Plaque to outgoing President Glen Ellingson. Bruggeman also will present the Man of the Year Award.

IN A LETTER to Chamber members, Bruggeman said:

"On Jan. 20, 1940, articles of incorporation were signed for the newly-formed Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Organized as a non-profit group, the Chamber has since served the community of Wayne by doing many of those things that people think just happen."

"Our 40 years of service to the three major contributors to our economy — agriculture, education and industry — have paved the way for unprecedented development of each in Wayne. There is no question of the success our community has enjoyed in becoming an important segment in Northeast Nebraska.

"NOR IS THERE any question that our success would be less without your support. Your membership helps to make the things we do happen. Why not take a moment Sunday evening to join us in a salute to 40 years of progress in the Wayne community for the Chamber of Commerce. Your presence will help make this year's banquet a real success."

RES Cited As Superior For Service

The Wayne Rural Employment Service (RES), which recently replaced the Nebraska Job Service here, has been cited for superior performance.

DON CHRISTENSON, rural manpower service supervisor in Lincoln, said December tallies for the statewide network of 13 offices show a total of 65 job placements with 11 of these originating in the Wayne office. This is a 17 percent share of the total number of persons placed, he indicated.

"For obvious reasons," Christenson said, "the Farmer's Union and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce are very pleased with the results of the new office." The two groups are co-sponsors of the program.

THE RES started in November after Wayne's Job Service Office was closed as a result of a statewide reduction. A lack of activity here was cited in closing the office.

Mable Tietjen, secretary of the Wayne Chamber, was named administrator of the RES program when it was instituted here, and now handles job applications and work orders on a part-time basis.

Persons looking for work and employers looking for workers are urged to take advantage of the new program by stopping by the Wayne Chamber office at 108 W. Third St. or by calling 375-2240 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

NPPD Expected to File Motion for a New Trial

An attorney representing Nebraska Public Power District in its case with Valerius and Bernice Damme says he plans to file a motion for a new trial.

NOYES W. Rogers, Columbus, cited District Judge Merritt C. Warren's refusal to allow the jury to hear certain evidence as a basis for filing the motion. Nebraska law provides the defense with 10 days from a jury's or judge's decision to appeal.

Rogers defended NPPD in an appeal case filed by the Dammes who live about 7 1/2 miles south of Wayne. The jury trial began Tuesday, Jan. 15, and concluded Thursday, Jan. 17, with the jury awarding the Dammes three times the amount the appraisers had recommended.

THE DAMMES had not been satisfied with appraisers' estimate of damages presented in County Court. They subsequently appealed the figure to District Court which heard the case.

Rogers said he feels Judge Warren kept out "very important evidence" the jury should have heard. At one point in the trial, Judge Warren dismissed the jurors while certain evidence comparing land values was being heard.

The attorney said he will appeal the case if Judge Warren denies his motion for new trial.

THE CASE involves construction of a 345-kilovolt transmission line from Raun, Iowa, to near Hoskins. Some 116 tracts of land in Wayne County is affected by the power line.

Seven appeals have been received in District Court, three of which were filed by plaintiffs after property owners decided the original offer was satisfactory. The remainder are appeals by property owners.

The Dammes are property owners. Attorney for the prosecution was Aas Christensen, Lincoln.

The city of Wayne will conduct its monthly testing of Civil Defense sirens at 1 p.m. Friday.
 Sirens will be allowed to run only one minute with a three minute pause between each test, and will be tested in the following sequence:

 —Pause, three minutes.
 —Attack, both high and low on for 10 seconds, off for 10 seconds, continuing for one minute.
 Normal time sequence for each of the sirens in an emergency situation would be a full three minutes. Since this is for testing purposes only, the siren will be shut off after one minute each so the public can quickly determine the difference between test and an actual warning. If this were not a test, the public should immediately take shelter upon hearing either the alert or the attack signals given.

Thought for Today

By Brian McBride

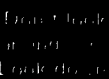

If friends and relatives fully realized the great amount of support their mere presence affords at the funeral home, no one would neglect to make an appearance in this time of need. The simplest expression of sympathy to the bereaved is adequate to lift some of the oppressive burden of their grief. There is great healing power in each person's presence.

Laetrile Debate Resumed by Legislature

Capitol News
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska's lawmakers have resumed debate on a number of bills left over from the 1979 session, and one of them is the controversial measure that would legalize Laetrile.

The bill, sponsored by Omaha Sens. Patrick Venditte and Bernice Labez, got through its first floor test last year but time ran out before the state senators could give it a second-round vote.

When the proposal came up early this session, it fell one vote short of the 25 needed to send it on its way to final consideration.

Laetrile is a derivative of apricot pits and is believed to be effective in the treatment of cancer.

The bill before the Legislature would allow the prescription sale and the administration of the drug.

Venditte said he was quite confident he could round up enough support to get the bill passed and sent to Gov. Charles Thone. The reason for Venditte's optimism was the absence of two senators when the second-round ballot was cast. Those two lawmakers are expected to vote for the measure, Venditte said.

There is some strong opposition to legalizing Laetrile. Among those speaking out forcefully against legalization was Sen. Sam Culllan of Hemingford, chairman of the Public Health and Welfare Committee.

He noted the Federal Drug Administration has not approved the sale of the substance and that last June the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a prohibition on interstate shipment of the product.

That means the drug could not be used unless the apricot pits from which it was made were grown and processed in Nebraska, Culllan said.

Several of the opponents said passage of the bill would amount to an endorsement of Laetrile, a claim that Venditte denied. He said the bill would require that anyone desiring to be treated with the drug would have to sign a request for it and would have to be advised Laetrile is an unapproved new drug.

Forensic expert bill advances

A bill that would set up a state-wide system for probing the deaths of persons who died under unusual or mysterious circumstances recently received first-round approval in the Unicameral.

The legislation grew out of an interim study committee's investigation of a number of deaths that were ruled suicides by local authorities.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, who led the floor arguments for the bill, said he is convinced the death of an elderly McCook woman several years ago was a murder, rather than a suicide, and that the killer is walking the streets.

The bill the interim committee proposed would provide for the hiring of a state forensic medical examiner and the appointment of three other district pathologists who could be called upon when the circumstances of a death had suspicious elements.

DeCamp said the legislation was prepared with the cooperation of county attorneys and law enforcement officials.

Some of the senators expressed the fear the proposed law would prove to be too expensive, but DeCamp and others said they doubted that would be the case.

He said the district pathologists would be employed on a per case basis and that approval of the bill would mean local governments would be subsidized because some of the investigative costs would be paid by the state.

The Forensic Medical Examiner Board that would be established by the bill would consist of five members appointed by the governor. The board would have two physicians with specialized knowledge in forensic medicine. They would also have to be certified as specialists by the American Board of Pathology.

The other three members would be a law enforcement officer, a county attorney or deputy county attorney, and a member of the public at large.

Kennedy won't run again

Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove says he's calling it quits following this year in the Legislature.

Kennedy, who has served 12 years in the Unicameral, said he believes that is long enough.

He said he will not retire from public life and plans to serve "in other efforts to make Nebraska an even greater place to live."

The Newman Grove legislator served from 1968-76 but did not seek re-election in 1976. He was succeeded by the late Pete Boughn of Norfolk. Boughn died in 1977 after which Gov. J. James Exon tapped Kennedy for the post, to which he was re-elected for two years in the 1978 election.

Kennedy said he plans to continue as director of the Nebraska Health Manpower Referral Service, which seeks out doctors for practice in areas short of physicians.

Would abolish death penalty

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has reintroduced a bill calling for abolishing the death penalty.

Chambers managed to steer such a bill through the Legislature last year, but Gov. Charles Thone vetoed the measure, which calls for a mandatory 30-year prison sentence for anyone convicted of first-degree murder.

There wasn't enough time left after the veto to attempt an override.

Want embargo lifted

A majority of Nebraska's state senators have voted for a resolution calling on President Carter to lift his grain embargo to the Soviet Union, and they want the action immediately.

The resolution, approved 25-11, asked for the naming of a legislative delegation to go to Washington to seek remedies for the hardships stemming from the embargo.

As alternatives to the immediate suspension of the embargo, the resolution suggested additional federal grain purchases to stabilize the market; increasing loan price support levels to 90 percent of parity; increasing the storage subsidy for farmers storing grain; set-aside programs; and stopping all exports to Russia.

Chief sponsor of the resolution was Sen. Loren Schmitz of Bellwood who said food should never be used as a war weapon.

Sen. Peter Hoagland of Omaha said he was against lifting the embargo but that he thought farmers should not be the only ones to suffer because of it and that their losses should be spread out over other segments of the economy.

But Hoagland said it would be a mistake for the United States to back down from the stance it has adopted. This country has to take a "tough" attitude in its dealings with the Soviet Union, he said.

A letter from
Governor Charley Thone

Taxes Cut 8 Ways By State Budget

"Your state or local taxes may be lowered or held down in eight ways by the budget I presented to the Nebraska legislature on January 10.

"First, here are three ways your state taxes may be lowered if the unicameral adopts a budget in accordance with my recommendations.

"The Nebraska State Board of Equalization, which I serve as chairman, in action on November 15, 1979 lowered the state income tax from 18 to 17 percent of the federal tax before credits. The budget that I recommended of the 12 months beginning July 1, 1980 would allow that lower rate to remain in effect for the next 18 months.

"I have recommended that the food sales tax credit be increased by 30 percent from $20 to $26. For a family of four, this would reduce net state taxes paid by $24 per year.

"Another of my requests is for the granting of a state income tax break for expenses of child care in a family where there is only one parent and that parent works or where both parents are employed. This could reduce state income tax liability by as much as $136 a year.

"In addition to the three ways of lowering state taxes, there are three items in my recommended budget that would lower or hold down local property taxes. The state collects no property taxes, but the budget I have proposed for next year provides state money from other sources to allow local units of government to lower property taxes or have additional funds.

"The legislature has mandated that certain personal property be exempted from property taxes. My proposed budget for the next year provides an additional $7.8 million in state funds to be distributed to local governments to reimburse them for the personal property that they won't tax.

"Existing state legislation mandates that the state increase its percentage of payment of costs for medical services for the handicapped and the indigent and for nursing home care. Accordingly, my budget recommendation would provide $2.3 million in additional state funds. This would reduce the percentage of these costs paid by each county from property taxes from 20 to 16 percent of the total.

"Additionally, I plan to offer soon a plan to substantially increase the Homestead Exemption program to especially help our state's older citizens. And, my budget request for technical community colleges was accompanied by a message that their property tax levies be reduced proportionately to the amount of increase I asked that was above their recommendation.

"If the budget I have recommended is adopted, the burden of state taxes will be lowered and the state will have helped in lowering or holding down property taxes levied by local governments. This will be good news, indeed, for the people of Nebraska.

Take A Second Look At Embargo Effects

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Unpopular as it may be to say it, the embargo of 17 million metric tons of grain to the Soviet Union need not and should not be the ultimate disaster to U.S. agriculture that many politicians and farmers have been saying that it will be.

Shocking to the entire grain marketing system? Yes! Creating present and future difficulties for individual farmers and ranchers that will require countering government help to overcome? Yes! Justified as an expression of U.S. resolve and resistance to Soviet world power grabbing to the brink of war? Probably, since the alternative is to do nothing.

Some precedents from our nation's history in the matter of trade and commerce.

We sold scrap iron to Japan in huge quantities right up until the time we started getting it returned to us in the form of bombs at Pearl Harbor. Grain cannot be fired back at us in the shape of bombs, shells or missiles, but who can argue with the slogans of World War I and World War II that "food will win the war." Big Russian grain purchases from the U.S. this past summer and fall had caused some analysts to speculate that the Russians were buying ahead of a possible cutoff of U.S. grain and were stockpiling a reserve.

In 1956, Communist Russia mounted a massive tank and troop invasion of Hungary to put down a Hungarian attempt to achieve freedom and autonomy. The U.S. protested and agonized but there was little retaliatory action. We weren't trading and exporting to the Russians in those "Cold War" days.

In October 1962, the U.S. and the Soviet Union went "eyeball to eyeball" over the Russian introduction of missiles into Cuba. U.S. military strength held an advantage in those days, war was averted as the Soviets backed off. We weren't exporting much grain then either, and none to the Russians.

In 1968, Soviet tanks and troops invaded Czechoslovakia and wiped out the resistance of Czech patriots who had shown signs of returning a measure of self-rule and a breath of freedom to their homeland. The U.S. and the United Nations protested and pontificated but who can recall any retaliatory action of even token consequence? There were no U.S. grain exports to be cut off.

In 1972, while the Soviets were continuing to aid and bankroll the North Vietnamese to their ultimate victory over U.S. interests in Indo-China, they made up for a short crop by their first massive purchase of U.S. wheat to bail out their failing food production system. Purchases in subsequent years were made dependent on the up and down pattern of Russian grain production, but nothing on the size of the 25 million metric tons of wheat and corn which were projected for the current marketing year. The current Carter embargo yanked the rug out from under everything over the 8 million annual metric tons guaranteed in the purchase agreement negotiated between the two countries in 1975.

Soviet long-range goals are undoubtedly control of Mid-East oil fields which supply the U.S., Western Europe and a large portion of the world's petroleum needs that can't be replaced overnight from other sources. Does this threat constitute a national crisis sufficient to warrant cutting off grain sales to the enemy or should we just keep on doing business as usual?

U.S. Sen. J.J. Exon (D-Nebr.) made a comment about the situation that went something like this, "U.S. agriculture is in a bad way if it has to depend for its survival on such an unreliable customer as the Soviet Union." In private business, a tough sales manager who had just seen his company lose one of its big customers would tell his sales force, "You've got all the rest of the world out there to sell to. Get off your behinds and get out there and find some new accounts!"

We do have the rest of the world to sell to. Let's do it!

Winside Uses Three Point Play To Slip By Allen

Sue Meierhenry made a three-point play and Laurie Gallop stole a pass in the final 30 seconds as Winside nipped Allen 52-51 in girls' basketball action, Monday night in Winside.

The game was nearly an instant replay of last year's matchup between the Lewis and Clark Conference rivals, which Allen won 51-50.

This year's contest was close all the way with both teams holding the lead at times. Winside came out in a man-to-man defense and Allen opened in a zone as the two teams battled to a 12-12 standoff after the first quarter.

Good Outside Shooting

The pace lived up in the second period when individuals from both teams relied on good passing and outside shooting. Allen's Lisa Erwin and Stacey Koester hit from the outside while Winside was led by the outside shooting of Marci Thomas and Kathy Thies. Beth Stalling rebounded a missed shot and banked in a field goal with three seconds left in the half to give Allen a 30-25 lead at the intermission.

The second half action picked up where the first half left off as both teams again treated the crowd with fine outside shooting. Erwin and Koester again carried the load for Allen but Thomas countered by pumping in three consecutive 15 foot jumpshots from the right side of the lane to give Winside the momentum.

Lead Changes

The Eagles, who once led by eight points, held on for a 30-36 lead at the end of the third period. The Wildcats gained the lead only 40 seconds into the final quarter, and Gallop and Meierhenry hit back to back baskets.

Allen was dealt a blow when Des Williams, a fine ball handler, fouled out with seven minutes remaining in the game. Stalling tied the score at 40-40 by sinking two free throws only 15 seconds later.

Baskets were exchanged during the next five minutes. Erwin sunk two baskets for Allen while Thomas and Gallop scored for Winside.

Then the two teams battled at the free throw line. Gallop converted the front end of a one-and-one to give the Wildcats a 45-44 lead but Koester added both halves of her one-and-one situation to regain the lead for the Eagles at 46-45.

Back and Forth Again

Stalling added to the Allen lead with another free throw and Erwin rebounded a charity shot and banked in a basket for a 49-45 lead. In the final two minutes, Thomas and Erwin again exchanged outside jumpers for baskets to raise the score to 51-47.

After Kathy Thies took her turn by drilling a 15 foot shot, Winside applied a full court press and forced an Allen turnover in the final minute.

Meierhenry worked inside for a basket and was fouled in the process. She made the free throw giving the hosts a 51-49 advantage. Gallop stole an Allen pass in the final 30 seconds and the Wildcats used good ball control to run out the clock for the victory.

Nine Assists for Winch

One of the key performances of the evening was turned in by Robyn Winch. The 5-7 junior set a school record by making nine assists in the game. Winside committed only 10 turnovers.

Joanle (Bowers) and Robyn (Winch) did what they were supposed to do—pass the ball around. They did a fine job off the bench. Our press really helped us," said

Winside coach Kathy O'Connor. "Allen is really a fine ball club."

Leading scorers in the game were Thomas with 24, Thies with nine and Gallop with nine for Winside and Erwin with 21, Koester with 14 and Stalling with 12 for Allen.

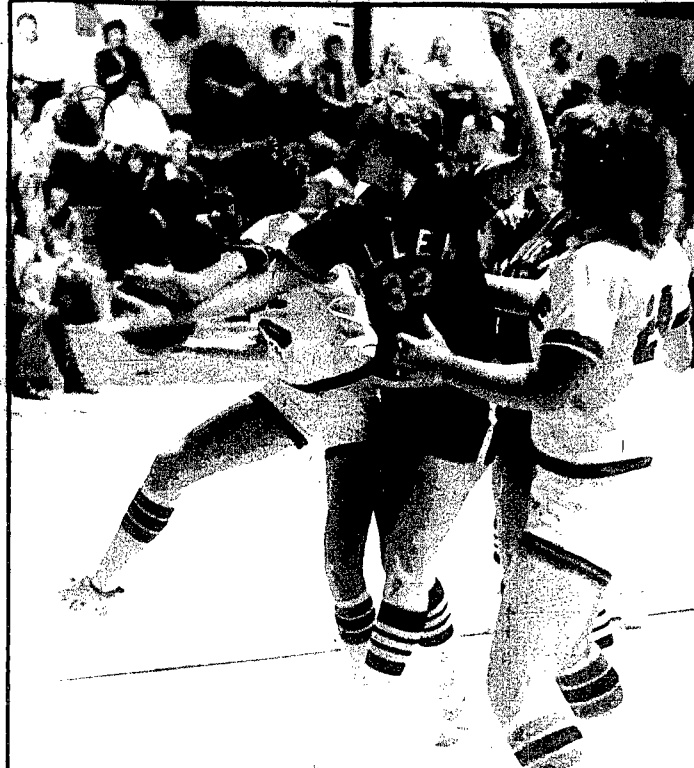

Allen led in the rebounding category. Leading rebounders for Winside were Deb Brockman and Thomas with eight each and Meierhenry with seven. Allen rebounding statistics were not available.

The junior varsity game was won by Winside 28-21. Tammy Thomas, Darla Janke and Kim Fredrick scored eight points each for Winside.

Winside travels to Wausa Friday, for a boys girls doubleheader while Allen travels to Decatur tonight (Thursday) for boys and girls action.

Trojan Gals One Point From Title

One point. That's how close the Wakefield girls' basketball came to winning the Newcastle Tournament, Tuesday night.

After defeating host Newcastle 42-33 Monday night, the Trojans played Coleridge in the Tuesday night finals and returned home with a second place trophy after a 30-29 loss. Wynot, which was undefeated before losing 35-31 to Coleridge in Monday's opening round, came back to take third place by bombing Newcastle in the consolation finals.

The championship game started out as a defensive battle with Wakefield leading 2-1 after the first quarter of play. The Coleridge press took its toll in the second period as the Trojans committed several turnovers and fell behind 17-8 at the half.

Jolene Bartels led the Trojans in a second half rally as the locals gradually cut the Coleridge lead. Wakefield pulled within five points at 23-18 after the third quarter and continued to close in during the final period.

Wakefield was forced to foul in the final eight minutes as the Bulldogs went to their delay game. Coleridge missed eight free throws in the last quarter, including several one-and-one situations.

The Trojans, trailing 30-29, had one last chance to win with seven seconds left in the game but failed. Bartels led Wakefield with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Kathy Gustafson and Joan Miller added six rebounds each. Penny Smith led Coleridge with 13 points.

"We started out slow but started gradually creeping back and the game got pretty exciting. Turnovers and rebounds were even. Both teams were pretty evenly matched," said Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur. "Our defense did a good job. Everyone played well teamwise. I'm proud of the way we came back. I think we came win the next time we play Coleridge. The Trojans will take their 5-5 record against state rated

Wynot, tonight (Thursday) on the road.

Newcastle No Match

Wakefield opened the Newcastle Tournament with an easy 42-33 win over host Newcastle. The Trojans led by as much as 14 points in the third quarter.

Jolene Bartels hit 7 of 10 shots from the field for 15 points and pulled 20 rebounds. Kelly Murphy added 10 points and Kathy Gustafson grabbed 11 rebounds and made 6 assists. Wakefield outrebounced the hosts 50-25.

"We did well. If we continue to play well we can get some momentum going. Jolene played a very good ball game," said Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur. "I was pleased with the results and the way the team played. We took the ball away 16 times. We had all of the substitutes in with about four minutes left."

Laurel Loses Two Games

It was a long weekend for the Laurel Bears. The Bears fell 56-40 on the home court Friday night and then lost to Hartington 54-39 on the road, Saturday.

Laurel got off to a slow start against Homer, falling behind 12-6 after the first quarter of play. From that point on, the Bears couldn't get back in the game.

"We dug ourselves into a hole," said Laurel coach Joel Parks. "They got off to a big lead and we couldn't catch up. We just had a poor shooting night."

Laurel shot only 25 percent from the floor in the game and had no individuals in double figures. Paul Guern led the scoring with nine points. The rebounding department was nearly even with the Bears falling on the short end with 44 rebounds compared to 46 for Homer.

Lon Swanson pulled down 11 rebounds and Clark Maxon grabbed seven. Homer's scoring was paced by Mike Kruse and Mark Maslowka with 14 points each and Kevin Tighe with 10.

Laurel scoring: P. Guern, 9; K. Erwin, 6; L. Swanson, 6; B. Maxon, 5; J. Olsen, 4; C. Maxon, 4; S. Norvell, 2; S. Stark, 2; B. Buss, 2.

The story was similar against Hartington on Saturday. Laurel trailed 15-8 after the first period and 28-17 at the half. The Bears closed within six points in the third quarter but that was as close as they could get.

Laurel shot 34 percent from the field compared to 49 percent for Hartington. Paul Guern led his team with 10 points. Other scorers: L. Swanson, 8; J. Olsen, 6; B. Maxon, 4; C. Maxon, 3; M. Johnson, 3; S. Stark, 2; H. Anderson, 2; K. Erwin, 2. Hartington was led by Joel and Mark Hansen with 22 and 13 points each.

"We're in a slump and we must pick things up if we're going to make anything out of this season. We must regroup," Parks said. The Bears will take a 2-8 record into a game at Creighton tomorrow (Friday) and then travel to Wakefield Saturday.

Rhoda netted 18 points in leading the Wildcats to a 34-32 halftime margin but was limited to only two double half points by Washburn's second teaming zone defense. Washburn scored the basket that proved to be the winning margin with 2:14 left and neither team could take advantage of scoring opportunities the rest of the game.

Winside Wrestler

Of the Week

Barry Bowers
Sophomore
155 pound class

Barry earned a big win over Nathan of Stanton, Thursday to lift his team to victory in a dual. Nathan had defeated Bowers earlier in the season when he placed second at the Winside Invitational. It was only the second or third loss of the season for the Stanton wrestler.

Coach Reeves' comments: "Barry is showing a great deal more maturity and a lot more confidence now. He can wrestle with the best in the 155 pound class."

Sports

Dan Heeren Is WSC Leader On The Mats

Wayne State sophomore Dan Heeren, wrestling in his first tournament since battling back from a knee injury, captured the championship of the 158-pound division in the Wayne State College round robin wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday in Rice Auditorium.

Westmar College won the team championship of the meet by posting a 3-2 record in dual competition. The wrestlers from Westmar were also aided by the decision of Kearney State and Fort Hays State not to wrestle each other. Both Hays and Kearney posted 4-0 records, however, both teams chose not to compete against each other because of too many previous meetings and thus defaulted from the team championship.

Kearney State and Fort Hays still dominated the individual championships with the Antelopes grabbing four first places and Fort Hays three. Wayne State finished with a 2-3 dual record moving their season mark to 3-6.

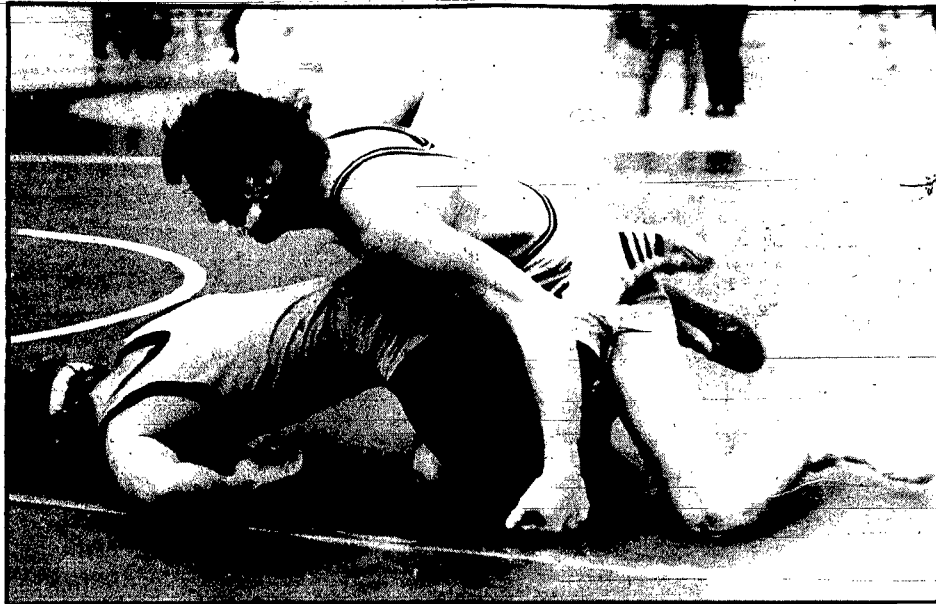

Emporia Hands Loss To WSC

Emporia State University outscored Wayne State 18-8 in the last 8:58 to turn a close battle into an 86-70 Hornet victory Saturday night in Emporia, Kan.

Emporia led only 66-62 when Paul Sanger scored on a layup after a Wildcat turnover with just under 9 minutes left in the game. Emporia hit on 67 percent of their field goal tries in the second half to wipe out a 41-38 Wildcat halftime lead.

DAN HEEREN (on top) drives Daryl Henning of Fort Hays to the mat en route to a 4-1 decision in the 158 pound class. Heeren was the only individual champion on Wayne State's team in Round Robin action, Saturday.

Last Shot Fails As Trojans Lose

A missed field goal in the last seconds ended a fine comeback and sent the Wakefield Trojans home with a 58-57 loss to Emerson Hubbard Tuesday night.

The Trojans trailed by two after the first quarter and by one at the half as the well-matched teams engaged in a tight battle. Emerson scored 15 points in the third quarter, with good offensive rebounding to build its lead to 47-38. Wakefield rallied during the last five minutes of the period and during the final quarter but missed an opportunity to win late in the game.

Scott Hallstrom led the Trojans with 19 points while Jeff Hallstrom and Barry Jones added 10 points each. Jones was the rebounding leader with 16 and Tom Prestbon made four assists. Emerson was led by Randy Fuschler with 19 points.

"The key to the game was rebounding. They beat us on the boards and had 14 offensive rebounds. They got too many second and third shots at the bucket," said Wakefield coach Ernie Kovar. "I can't fault our play. We came back with a lot of intensity and played good basketball from midway through the third quarter on."

Wakefield lost the junior varsity game 56-42. The Trojans will enter the weekend's home stand with a 4-4 record. Wynot will invade Wakefield Friday and Laurel will play the Trojans on Saturday.

Emporia Cans WSC Ladies Winside Bows On Home Mat

Defending conference champion Emporia State University used a fast break offense and 51 percent field goal shooting to crush Wayne State's Lady Wildcats 89-68 Saturday night in Emporia, Kan.

The Lady Cats stayed close in the first half and trailed by only nine, 47-38, at halftime. The Lady Cats received another strong rebounding performance from junior center Julie Pelronis who had 21 caroms in the losing cause.

Three pins and two forfeits in the final six matches gave Plainview a 36-22 wrestling victory over Winside, Tuesday night in Winside.

Wins by Mark Koch, Brian Foote and Rick Bowers combined with a forfeit to Curt Rohde gave Winside a 16-3 lead after the 126 pound class. The turning point was at the 167 pound class.

Prior to the dual, Plainview's 185 pound wrestler failed to make weight. Winside was also open at that weight and it appeared the forfeits would cancel each other out.

However, Winside has to enter its wrestler on the mat first and after Barry Bowers stepped onto the mat for his 155 pound match, Plainview's coach did some changing. He moved his 155 and 167 pound wrestlers up one weight to accept forfeits at 167 and 185.

This left Bowers with a win by forfeit and probably cost Winside some points. If the change hadn't been made and Bowers would have pinned his opponent, the Wildcats would have lost 30-28 had all other results been the same.

"The match was closer than the score indicated," said Winside coach Doug Reeves. "We have a lot of things to work on. We're still not the aggressors. We're not stalking our opponents."

Winside will compete in the Oakland Craig Invitational Saturday.

Sitzman Appointed To Region IV Group

Kenneth "Dutch" Sitzman of Wayne has been newly appointed to the Human and Legal Rights Committee for the Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities.

REGION IV provides community based programs for children and adults who are mentally retarded. These programs were developed to offer a workable alternative to institutionalization. A full range of developmental services are provided, along with supportive educational and informative services to families of persons who are mentally retarded.

The particular purpose of the Human and Legal Rights Committee is to make sure the rights of the mentally retarded citizens served by Region IV are met, reports Joan Kozisek, public information assistant. The committee resolves questions concerning client grievances and behavior programs and reviews all policies and procedures of Region IV to insure consistency with basic human and legal rights. Committee members include staff members, volunteer community representatives and clients of Region IV.

SITZMAN's first impressions of the committee were positive.

"I found it to be interesting, and I think that quite a bit of good came out of it. I am looking forward to the next meeting."

Sitzman also is a member of the Citizen Advisory Board for Region IV Services in Wayne. Its purposes include keeping informed on the various services and programs of Region IV and making recommendations to the Governing Board involving any items of concern. Unlike the members of the Human and Legal Rights Committee, members of the Citizen Advisory Board cannot be employees of Region IV.

MEMBERS include county commissioners, who represent both the counties of Region IV and its Governing Board, and a representative from each Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) group in the area. The ARC is a program involved in making sure the needs of mentally retarded persons are met.

SITZMAN is involved in other community programs as well. Along with his work with Region IV, he is a volunteer fireman in Wayne and is a Nebraska State Fire Service instructor. Sitzman says community involvement is extremely important. "Community involvement will better the person. It will make him more aware of the problems in his community. The most important thing is to work together."

Guard Inspector Sees Better State Situation

"Things are looking good in the Nebraska Army National Guard," says Colonel Edward K. Johnson, inspector general for the 6th U.S. Army area.

Colonel Johnson's remarks came in an exit briefing to the Adjutant General after a nine-person inspection team completed the Annual General Inspection of 20 Army National Guard units, nine Organizational Maintenance Shops, and two Unite Training and Equipment Sites in Nebraska.

Johnson further commented that the equipment maintenance program, and the individual Organization Maintenance Shops, were among the best he has ever seen. "The supply accounting and general administration producers were also noted as "very good" in Nebraska.

Starting some two weeks ago, the inspectors formed five teams and visited guard activities across the state, inspecting all aspects of personnel management, supply accounting, fiscal accounting and maintenance management.

Congress May Ask Administration to Protect Income

Efforts are likely in Congress to direct the administration to use existing authority to protect farm income following the Carter grain embargo, Congressman Doug Bereuter said Friday.

"Pressure in Congress will probably focus on raising loan rates to farmers beyond the nominal increase made by the Carter Administration," Bereuter said. He earlier called for an increase in loan rates to levels reflecting prices in effect just prior to the embargo announcement.

The Senate and House Agriculture Committees have scheduled hearings on the embargo action and its impact on Jan. 22 and Jan. 29, respectively. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is expected to submit testimony at those hearings.

Bereuter noted that the 1979 Export Administration Act authorizes Congress to veto actions affecting agricultural exports if the actions were taken for foreign policy or supply reasons.

But, according to an informal survey by "Congressional Quarterly," such a veto is unlikely, given general congressional and public outrage following the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, Bereuter said.

Bereuter called for swift approval of pending legislation (H.R. 4489) which would establish an international wheat reserve to alleviate the strain on the domestic market.

Bereuter also outlined elements and status of existing bills providing incentives for alcohol fuels production as follows:

Windfall Profits Tax (H.R. 3919) Extends current exemption of gasoline from the 4 cents a gallon federal excise tax on gasoline. Also provides for a 40-cent-a-gallon tax credit for producers of alcohol who do not market it commercially — pending in House-Senate Conference.

Synthetic Fuels (S. 932) provides $1.2 billion in loan guarantees, purchase guarantees, and price guarantees for alcohol based fuels. Of loans and loan guarantees authorized for the Synthetic Fuels Corporation, $1 billion is earmarked for large scale biomass projects, including alcohol fuels. Gasohol would also qualify for funds under $5.5 billion for various on farm and other rural energy projects. Also sets a goal of having alcohol meet 10 percent of demand for gasoline by 1990 — pending in House-Senate Conference.

National Alcohols and Alcohol Fuels and Farm Commodity Production Act of 1979 (H.R. 3905) (Bedell bill which Ico sponsored) provides direct loans and loan guarantee for construction and operation of alcohol fuel plants and provides for plant operaions. Both direct loans and loan guarantees are involved in H.R. 3905. For fiscal year 1980-81, the bill calls for direct loans in the amount of $200 million for construction of small on farm facilities. No one loan should exceed $1 million. The bill calls for $600 million loan guarantees for fiscal year 1980-1981, 25 percent of the total must go for plants whose construction is less than $5 million each — reported out of House Banking Committee on Nov. 1, 1979, and out of House Agriculture Committee on Oct. 12, 1979.

In related action, the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has announced about $10 million available, in loans for alcohol fuels production. Interested persons should contact state, county, or district FmHA offices, Bereuter said.

Self-Employed Must Report Income

It soon will be time for self-employed people to file their 1979 federal income tax returns, and report their self-employment income for social security, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk said recently.

A person receives social security credit, and must pay social security taxes, if net earnings from self-employment amount to $400 or more in a year. For 1979, a maximum of $22,900 can count for social security credit.

Anyone who has both wages and self-employment earnings covered by social security pays the self-employment tax only on the difference between his or her total wages and the social security maximum. The 1979 self-employment tax rate is 8.1%. Even though a person may owe no federal income tax, an income tax return must be filed if there are social security self-employment taxes due. This is true even if the person is getting social security benefits.

Under certain circumstances, it is possible to use an optional reporting method and get credit for earnings even if net earnings are less than $400.

The leaflet, "If you're self-employed... reporting your income for social security," contains more detailed information about how to report earnings, including information on the optional method. Free copies can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office, or by calling 1-800-642-8310, toll free.

Looking for Some Bugs

TWO OF THE steps involved in examining grain for insect infestation require a little extra effort. County Ag Agent Don Spitzke and agent-in-training Phil Reznicki recently surveyed several area storage facilities for insect infestation. At left, Reznicki peers into a round storage bin before inspecting the corn. Climbing and inspecting the round bins was at times hazardous, they indicated. Above, Reznicki (left) and Glen Olson (owner of one of several farms visited) examine grain in a flat storage facility. The grain is checked for temperature, moisture content and a variety of insects which can damage grain. For more information on the grain storage survey, see this issue's front page.

Beef Prices Expected To Stay Steady

Nebraska cattlemen can expect beef prices to remain about steady in 1980, while total beef and per capita supplies may see a slight decline, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources economist.

"The level and pattern of performance of the general economy, however, will have a significant impact on livestock prices during all of 1980," said Allen Wellman.

The price for choice slaughter steers increased in 1979, while production and consumption declined, Wellman said.

"Fed cattle made up 77 percent of total commercial slaughter in 1979," he said. "This high percentage of fed cattle in the slaughter mix has resulted in heavier dressed weights, up about 4 percent from the 1978 average."

"But total U.S. commercial beef production in 1979 totaled slightly more than 21 billion pounds, almost 3 billion pounds less than in 1978."

Spurred by higher prices in the last two years, Wellman predicted that beef producers will increase the number of cattle in herds.

"With the sharp rise in cattle prices that began in 1978, conditions have become more favorable for cattlemen," he said. "During 1979 cow calf producers began to rebuild their herds as cow slaughter declined more than 30 percent compared to 1978."

In addition, he said, cattlemen indicated they were holding 8 percent more heifers for beef cow replacements than they did in

"The reduction in total cattle and calf slaughter during 1979 will result in a 112-113 million head total U.S. cattle and calf inventory to start the decade of the 80s," he said.

World beef production in 1979 also was down from the previous year, he continued. While the U.S. totals are expected to remain near 1979 levels in the coming year, world production is expected to drop slightly, Wellman said.

He said he expects beef prices in North American markets to remain high in 1980 and that this will influence prices in international beef markets.

"Beef and veal production in some of the major exporting countries will be down in 1980 and this is expected to reduce export availabilities. Prices in the United States, however, are expected to be attractive and 1980 beef and veal imports may remain near the 1979 level," he said.

Wellman predicted that beef production should remain near 1979 levels but that higher production costs may cause a slight decrease in per capita supply.

"The reduced placements of cattle into feedlots during the last part of 1979 has generally insured that there should be enough cattle available to support a high replacement rate in the first part of 1980," he said.

Fed cattle slaughter in 1980 may about equal last year's levels and again account for more than three-fourths of the total slaughter, he said, while cow slaughter may increase slightly.

"Not much change in beef production is expected," he said. Average carcass weights this year are likely to hold near 1979 levels, he said. "But if higher gains materialize after the Soviet grain embargo, slaughter weights and per capita beef supplies could be a little below 1979's levels."

Accompanying the slightly lower supply, Wellman said, the demand for beef in 1980 may be lower.

"During 1979, the demand for meat in the United States was exceptionally good," he said. He attributed this to higher levels of employment and increasing consumer income during most of the year.

"However, the demand picture for 1980 seems to have turned sour lately. The general economic outlook for the first half of the year seems to be bleak."

"Real per capita income in 1980 is expected to decline from the 1979 level and the unemployment rate is likely to increase," Wellman said.

"In addition, further increases in energy costs will affect the demand for meat the rest of the year," he said, and higher energy bills will require a larger share of consumer income.

Grim Outlook for Pork Producers

The economic outlook for pork producers in 1980 looks rather grim, according to an economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Larry Bitney, extension farm management specialist, says "large supplies of pork will continue to keep hog prices below total production costs throughout much of the year."

Careful attention to management could mean the difference between survival and failure for some producers this year, he added.

Bitney noted that the Dec. 1 USDA Hogs and Pigs Report indicates that the rapid expansion in hog numbers experienced during the past year is apparently over, but the report did not indicate that farrowings would be reduced from the near record levels of last year.

Supplies of red meat and poultry are expected to be at near record levels in 1980, he said, with a slight decline in beef production being more than offset by pork and poultry increases.

Pork supplies of 76 pounds per person are anticipated for 1980 and a decline to a more normal level of about 65 pounds is needed before market hog prices will allow producers a reasonable profit, he said.

Positive demand factors affecting pork include reduced supplies of beef, a possible strengthening of the election year economy in the second half of the year, and continued promotion of pork by national and local producer groups.

On the minus side are a weakened economy early in the year and continued double digit inflation, the economist said.

"The extent to which consumers may reduce purchases of meat in an effort to reallocate their shrinking real income remains to be seen," he added.

Hog marketings during the first quarter will continue heavy, up 19 to 21 percent from a year ago. Some seasonal price strength may occur into mid-February, but the average price of market hogs for the quarter is likely to be $35 to $38, he predicted.

Second quarter marketings could average in the $33 to $37 range, he said, because of seasonal price weakness and because most second quarter market hogs will come from the September-November 1979 pig crop, which was reported at 8 percent greater than a year before.

For third quarter, market hogs will come primarily from December '79 to February '80 farrowings, which were expected to be the same as a year previous. An average price of $36 to $40 is likely, with possibilities of some daily market highs well into the $40's, Bitney said. Third quarter slaughter and prices will be affected by how close actual farrowings follow intentions, the severity of the winter, incidence of disease and whether breeding herd liquidation begins, he added.

"Fourth quarter marketings are likely to be similar to the heavy marketings we experienced in the fourth quarter of 1979," he said, the average price range will likely be $34 to $38, but changes in feed prices or hog prices could cause producers to alter their plans and would therefore affect price forecasts.

Costs for producers are likely to be higher in 1980, Bitney suggested. "Lower soybean meal prices may be more than offset by higher corn prices and producers will feel the direct pinch from increases in energy, equipment and labor costs." The costs of necessary services and interest rates on operating capital and term loans will also be higher than in early '79, he warned.

"Total production costs for an ongoing farrow to finish producer will likely average $44 per hundredweight in 1980. Costs above $50 per hundredweight are possible for producers with recent investments in facilities or below average efficiency. Likewise, well-managed operation could realize costs below $44 per hundredweight," he explained.

"Most producers will likely recover their cash costs, with prices ranging between $31 and $44 during 1980, he said, but most won't necessarily meet their total costs."

So, efficiency of production and marketing will make the difference, Bitney said. He suggested several vital management techniques. Careful culling of the breeding herd to eliminate the expense of carrying open animals, extra care of newborn pigs to insure survival, attention to proper rationing, feeding methods and feeder adjustments, selection of market weights which will give the most net return, and the selection of marketing strategies which will result in higher market prices.

Using these strategies can help ensure that producers are still in the pork business a year from now, Bitney concluded.

Checkoff Dollars Support Research

Nebraska Corn Growers attending their association's seventh annual meeting in Lincoln Jan. 17 learned details of research projects being supported by their corn checkoff dollars.

Dr. Robert Gast, head of the department of agronomy in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, briefed the audience of about 100 persons on four projects the growers are currently supporting.

Gast said the four projects are representative of the kinds of activities IANR is pursuing in relation to corn. Partial support for the projects is received through the Corn Development, Marketing and Utilization Board, he said.

Shattercane control is one area of research of special interest to the growers, Gast noted. Two million acres of Nebraska farmland are infested with the weed, with 1.2 million of those acres in corn. Last year, shattercane cost Nebraska corn growers up to $15 million, Gast said.

Eradicane, the herbicide widely used for shattercane control, is becoming less effective, Gast noted. This appears to be attributable to a buildup of soil microorganisms which are able to deactivate the herbicide rapidly, he explained. Some soils also rapidly deactivate Eradicane, he Having identified the nature of the problem, IANR researchers are now working on a solution, Gast said.

A second research area is the use of wet distillers grain. "Forty percent of the energy for alcohol production is used for drying," he explained, "so if we can't use wet grain, we can solve lots of problems."

Storing wet grain is a problem because it is highly acidic, doesn't ensile properly and has rapid mold growth. Carbon dioxide, ammonia and propionic acid are being investigated as possible preservatives. Feeding trials for the wet grains have also been started, he reported.

Corn lethal necrosis disease was a third area of research cited by Gast. The disease was first discovered in Kansas in 1976 and showed up in Nebraska in 1977. The Republican Valley counties of Harlan, Franklin and Furnas are currently the only areas in Nebraska with a Corn Lethal Necrosis problem, he explained.

The disease is caused by two viruses working in conjunction (maize chlorotic mottle and maize dwarf mosaic, also called wheat streak mosaic). Symptoms are a bright yellow mottled effect on leaves. The disease apparently overwinters in the soil and is transmitted by a beetle, Gast said. One area of the IANR research is aimed at trying to discover the mechanism the beetle uses to transmit the disease.

Corn oil research was the last area featured by Gast. The oil is highly stable, has a good flavor and enjoys a consumer perception of quality, he noted. For use in margarine, the oil needs to be hardened. Currently, this is done by hydrogenation which creates undesirable fatty acids. IANR research is looking at a simple alternative hardening process in which none of the undesirable trans acids are formed, he said.

Gast noted that while checkoff dollars don't pay salaries or utility bills, "they do allow our scientists to do the extra work they wouldn't be able to do otherwise."

Dr. Roy Arnold, the new dean and director of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station, accompanied Gast on the program and told the growers how IANR research projects are developed, reviewed and funded.

Farmland Value in State to Increase

The decade of the '70s will go down in history as a period of dramatic increase in the value of Nebraska farmland, according to an assistant professor of agricultural economics in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Bruce Johnson said the year end indicators suggest that Nebraska farmland values rose an average of 17 to 20 percent during 1979, keeping the value of farmland ahead of the general rate of inflation.

During the past 10 years, Nebraska farmland values increased more than three times, increasing at an average rate of more than 12 percent per year, Johnson said.

"The rate of appreciation of farmland has been about twice the general rate of inflation," he said. "Few other investment alternatives have matched the financial performance of farmland investment."

Johnson predicts modest gains in farmland value for 1980, despite the clouds over the country's economic horizon.

He said the agricultural sector of the economy is "financially solid," even though cash flow problems do exist for some producers.

"Also, there exists an investor interest in holding tangible assets, such as farmland, during inflationary periods," Johnson said.

Johnson said the farm real estate market conditions over the past 12 months have been influenced by a number of factors.

The income position of farmer producers has generally been favorable, even though costs have been climbing. For cash grain producers, reasonable commodity prices and favorable weather conditions generally prevailed during 1979, Johnson said.

He added that these conditions have encouraged more farmers to be interested in cropland purchases.

The state range cattle industry also had implications for the real estate market, Johnson said, as did the interest from nonfarmer investors.

"Recent studies by the USDA and others reveal that annual returns to farmland investment have trended upward, increasing an average of about 4 percent per year over the past 25 years," he said.

He added that the buildup of real capital gains for the farmland owner has led to a widespread belief that farmland is a desirable investment. Farm real estate has been described as related to a "growth stock" in the stock market, according to Johnson.

Federal Reserve Bank actions in late summer designed to deal with increasing inflation have had much less impact on the farm economy than on the economy as a whole, Johnson said.

He said that credit remains available through farm lending institutions and at rates one to three percentage points below the average money market rate.

"Also, the frequent incidence of seller financing in farmland transfers is a significant and relatively reasonable credit source," Johnson said, "and consequently, the market for farm real estate is buffered to some extent from the constraints of the current money policy."

Extension Service to Emphasize Major Programs During 1980's

The Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, a component of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, will put program emphasis on several major areas in the 1980's in helping citizens of Nebraska.

This work came from Dr. Leo E. Lucas, dean and director of Extension, in an address to extension workers from throughout the state attending the IANR biennial staff conference which concluded here Thursday, Jan. 10.

He listed these factors which he sees as influencing the direction of thrust of extension programming in the new decade:

Energy problems, money management to cope with double-digit inflation, national and state environmental goals, changing life styles affecting individuals and families, the higher educational level of clientele groups reached by Extension, the international influence on marketing and other activities, issues relating to farm structure, new technologies with emphasis on computerization, meeting the needs of urban audiences without jeopardizing needs of other groups now being served, working with a population characterized by a greater proportion of older people and anticipating adjustments when and if the number of children in the elementary school age range again increases as predicted in the late '80s.

Among a host of areas to be emphasized in agriculture, Lucas listed minimum tillage, solar housing, integrated pest management, transportation, water supply and water quality, climate and more efficient recordkeeping by farmers.

In the area of home economics and family living, Lucas underlined dealing with inflation, preventive health measures to maintain "wellness," human nutrition and family issues. Programs must be offered at times when people can attend, he pointed out, in reference to working mothers.

Noting that Extension's 4-H youth organization is the largest youth program nationwide, Lucas said the impact of the large number of working mothers and a trend toward less time commitment by volunteers will have implications for Nebraska's 4-H program.

He called for a variety of 4-H programs to serve the diverse needs of Nebraska youth, wherever they live, noting that "not every county needs every 4-H program or project."

In the area of community resource development, Lucas identified target areas as water, waste disposal, leadership development, public policy on farm structure and perhaps rural crime.

He said more generalized extension programming is approaching being "a thing of the past," as specialized clientele groups.

He said extension workers will need to more clearly identify audiences they work with, carry out more evaluation procedures and be prepared to document their activities to meet growing demands for accountability at all levels of government. He also said the Extension Service will be looking seriously at new or modified types of "delivered services" to get factual information to help them make decisions and improve their economic status and quality of life.

Embargo Will Further Depress Market Situation

The embargo on soybean sales to the Soviet Union will make an already depressed pricing situation worse in the year to come.

Lynn Lutgen, extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the record number of acres planted to soybeans in 1979 had already created an oversupply of beans and therefore pressure for lower prices in 1980.

In addition to tremendous acreage (up 11 percent over 1978, for a total of 71.5 million acres), soybeans also had a high average yield of 31.5 bushels per acre, for a new soybean production record of 2.21 billion bushels. Adding Sept. 1, 1979, carryover stocks of 173 million bushels to record production increased the total supply to 2.4 billion bushels, compared to last year's 2.03 billion, he explained.

Even without the beans intended for the Soviets, 1980 carryover stocks were estimated at 400 million bushels, more than double the '79 total. Now, carryover could go as high as 425 million bushels, but more likely will be 410 to 415 million bushels.

The current situation, taking into account strong export demand, would have indicated prices averaging around 50 cents lower than last year, the economist said. Now with 600 million metric tons of beans embargoed, producers could very easily see an additional 25-cent drop, he said, for a per bushel price range of $5.35 to $6 at the local elevator.

Those unexpected extra beans also may mean the anticipated February-March peak price period will be "sliced off," he said. "But the market could very easily be affected more by the April-to-June period when Brazil enters the market with beans to sell than by the embargoed beans," Lutgen added.

"After May and June, it looks pessimistic for beans." Still, if crushings were to go up, then the situation might not be so bad, he said.

Yet of all commodities affected by the embargo, soybeans have the greatest potential for a price recovery, because of the great number of factors affecting beans, he said.

Lutgen cautioned farmers that "with large supplies and the bearish attitude of the market, producers will need to watch the market more closely than last year. Even though the soybean market appears bearish, rallies may occur that might allow for some improved pricing opportunities."

Iron Poisoning in Pigs
Young pigs are born with enough iron to last about one week. If supplemental iron is not provided by injection or by mouth, pigs will become anemic by one week of age.

Iron is essential for the baby pigs, too much iron is poisonous and kill pigs. Many commercial injectable iron preparations contain 100 mgm. (milligrams) of iron per cc. (cubic centimeter).

A small pig should receive one cc. and larger baby pigs may be given 1 1/2 cc. Two cc. per pig may be toxic to very young pigs. It is safer to give pigs 100 mgm. of iron at three days of age and repeat the one cc. injection at 15 days of age then to give 200 mgm. at first injection.

Tree limbs
Heavy snow can cause limbs of trees or shrubs to break. If drifting hasn't buried the plant, you can easily relieve the situation by shaking branches vigorously. This removes the snow and prevents breakage. Brushing off the snow with a broom or by hand also helps.

If a tree or shrub is buried in the snow, damage will probably occur when the snow mass begins to settle. This is especially true on spreading shrubs or junipers. In this situation remove the snow if possible and at least break the snow crust around the plant. This relieves the branches from much of the settling pressure of the snow.

After the next heavy snow, take a quick stroll around your yard and remove snow from the branches. This will greatly help your trees and shrubs.

Check livestock waterers
Cold, dry weather reduces the effectiveness of electrical grounds. When the soil is wet around a waterer, it may present a path of lower resistance to current flow than the ground rod at the waterer entrance. If this situation exists or if for any other reason such as bad insulation on the wire - voltage builds up on the waterer, livestock will not drink, they will die of thirst first.

Check on animals and waterers. If the livestock are not drinking, current may be leaking into the water and the waterer. Check the water temperature and the thermostats. Repair frayed wires and replace wires which have old cracked insulation. It might be worthwhile to water around the ground to be sure it is making a good contact with the soil.

Dry weather increases the hazard of loss either from reduced gains or from electrocution of animals.

Public Reading of Poetry Is Planned Jan. 31

Poet Cary Waterman, author of the poetry books "First Thaw" and "The Salamander Migration" will present a free public reading at 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31, in the KWSC-TV studios of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center at Wayne State College.

She and her daughter have recently completed a book of poems for children and adults. She has been writer-in-residence at over 25 Midwestern schools and has had works published in various literary magazines and poetry journals.

Great Britain Topic For Kiwanis

Observations of Great Britain's economy and emerging problems over the past five years were discussed at the regular Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Monday at the Black Knight.

Ruby Pedersen, English instructor at Wayne State College, spoke to the group about her trips overseas. Her trip to England this summer will be the fifth consecutive year.

Inflation and other economic unrest have resulted in prices tripling in England since 1972. At the same time, Mrs. Pedersen noted, the dollar has continued to devalue.

In '72, the English pound was equivalent to about $2.62 in U.S. money, while last year the pound was worth about $1.60 on the English money market.

Productivity has not increased and non-labor wages have not managed to keep up. The VAT (value added tax) has doubled over the last several years.

Mrs. Pedersen cited several reasons the English economy has faltered. The government has failed to curb wildcat strikes, the economy has failed to expand, the government spends more money on social services than it can produce, the unions have continued to maintain powerful positions in government, the balance of trade deficit has continued through the 1970's.

One major bright spot in the country's economy is the recent discovery of oil. This product soon will make Britain self-sufficient from an energy standpoint, and Britain is expected to be an oil exporting country in the coming years, she said.

Kathy Boswell Contest Seeking Symbol Gets Honor

Kathy A. Boswell of Allen was recently awarded the A.F. Gulliver Memorial Scholarship for the winter semester, 1980, at Wayne State College.

The scholarship was established in honor of A.F. Gulliver and Stella Traster Gulliver and is awarded annually to a WSC education major who has an outstanding scholarship record.

Boswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylen Jackson of Allen, is a graduate of Allen Consolidated High School and a junior home economics major at WSC.

The Canadian Falls of Niagara has carved out a "plunge basin" 192 feet deep.

Sometimes it is identified as "UN," and sometimes as "NU." Often it appears as UNL (University of Nebraska Lincoln), UNO (University of Nebraska at Omaha), or UNMC (University of Nebraska Medical Center).

That diversity contributes to a problem faced by the University of Nebraska, according to a member of its board of regents, Kermit Hansen of Omaha.

With the backing of the board — and $300 in prizes — Hansen hopes things will change as a result of a contest that seeks a single symbol representing all elements of the university.

"While perceived in many different ways because we perform many roles and serve many publics," Hansen said, "we are one university. We believe development of a dominant symbol, or logo, will assist us in establishing a unified identity with the citizens of Nebraska."

Open to everyone, the contest asks entrants to use either UN OR NU for a symbol, leaving space to accommodate specific schools, departments, programs, and services within a campus. Entries must be received by March 31.

Hansen said contest rules may be obtained by writing Jim Raglin, Director of Public Affairs, University of Nebraska, 3935 Holdrege, Lincoln, Neb. 68583.

Judges from each campus and an out-of-state graphic design expert will select three winners whose symbols will be presented to the regents, Hansen said.

The regents then have the right to endorse any of the selections, or to reject all three.

Hansen said that if the regents choose not to endorse any symbol, cash prizes still will be awarded: $200 for the one selected by the judges at best, $75 for second best, $25 for third best.

No taxpayer funds will be involved in the cash prizes or in meeting the expenses for the non-Nebraska judge, he noted.

"We hope this contest will be received enthusiastically by a wide range of citizens in and out of our state," Hansen said. Special invitations to participate will be sent to advertising clubs, art directors, artists and others experienced in graphic design, although Hansen said, the winner "might well be someone without any formal training, but with a good sense of design."

Members of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) chapter at Allen High School are sponsoring their annual foreign foods dinner this Friday evening.

Serving begins at 6:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance from any FHA member. Cost is $2.50 for adults and $1.75 for students. Children under five will be admitted free.

The public is invited to sample the foods from several different countries.

Another Project

WAYNE HIGH'S Building Construction class put the finishing touches on another project earlier in the month. The class converted a garage into a large family room for some Wayne residents. Members of the class put up siding, installed a picture window, closed off an exterior door, insulated walls, sheet rocked, paneled and put in a column island. Several local businessmen helped the class. Larry Test gave an electrical demonstration. Rowan Wiltsie helped lay carpeting and Larry Creighton helped run a heating duct to the room. Louie Thos provided workers earlier to help put up block walls. The class receives advice from people in the community while learning from first hand experience. Above, Randy Dunklau, Jeff Zeiss and David Doescher complete the column island. Below, Rowan Wiltsie demonstrates carpet laying to Dunklau and Walter Otto. Other members of Mike Mallette's class built shelves in the shop. They include: Gary Bennett, Paul Sutherland, Jay Gaunt, Hugh Jager, Stuart Nissen and Steve Sorensen.

Nicotine gets its name from Jean Nicot, a 16th century ambassador who introduced tobacco to France.
