ONE HUNDRED FOURTH YEAR NUMBER FIFTY ONE

As Easy As One, Two, Three

YOUNG MARTIN RUMP of Wayne listens attentively as art instructor Marla McCue helps him draw a picture of a bug, just one of the many creations the kids in her classes come up with during weekly art sessions sponsored by the Wayne Regional Arts Council. Mrs. McCue, who has a teaching certificate from Northern Arizona University for K-12 art and K-8 physical education, teaches the classes in her home. Martin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rump, is one of 11 Wayne area youngsters participating in the classes. The youth are divided into two classes which meet Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. During the hour-long sessions, the youngsters draw, paint and discuss such art related topics as advertising layout, commercial studio art, colors and labels. The idea of the class is to give students art instruction in addition to what they receive in school. Parents interested in registering their children should call Mrs. McCue at 375 1986. Classes will continue throughout the school year and are designed mainly for youngsters in 1-6 grades, although youngsters as young as four are invited to take part.

Judge Signs Order

Principal's Hearing Postponed

A restraining order prevented the Allen Consolidated School District board of education from holding a public hearing Thursday night on the possible dismissal of the high school principal.

THIS IS THE second time the hearing has been postponed. It originally was scheduled for early January, but an agreement between both sides' attorneys resulted in the first postponement. A new date for the hearing has been set.

Dixon County Judge Francis Kniefl issued the order about 4 p.m. Tuesday after Kennedy's attorney, George Hirschbach of South Sioux City, told the judge several witnesses for the defense would have to be subpoenaed.

KENNEDY IS the subject of board action in December that notified him there may be just cause not to renew his contract. Under Nebraska law, Kennedy has the right to public hearing to hear the board's complaints. The Allen High School principal, who also has responsibilities as guidance counselor and transportation supervisor, has been at Allen five years.

THE ALLEN board had extended him three one-year contracts followed by a two-year contract. In a telephone conversation with The Wayne Herald Thursday afternoon, Kennedy said Supt. Robert Heckathorn asked him several months ago to step down as principal and become the guidance counselor only, but Kennedy said he refused.

Kennedy said he received a letter from the board which listed three reasons the board felt there may be just cause not to renew his contract. These included the following:

1. Failure to cooperate with school and law enforcement officials in the theft of two telephones and one public address system from Kennedy's office.

2. Not working in harmony with the faculty and superintendent.
3. Failure to inform the school board of the cost of repairing a bus.
4. Insubordination.

AT AN ALLEN board meeting Feb. 11, Kennedy explained to the board what actions he had taken since being notified of the decision regarding his contract.

He said he has spent considerable amounts of money on attorneys and has deposited two sums of money with his per-

Bypass Surgery

Allen School Supt. Robert Heckathorn, who suffered a severe heart attack Dec. 28 at his home, is scheduled to have coronary bypass surgery Tuesday morning at Marlan Health Center's St. Joseph Unit in Sioux City.

Heckathorn, who said he expects to be hospitalized about eight days, plans to return to work in a few weeks barring any complications.

Athletic director Glenn Kumm is acting superintendent during Heckathorn's absence.

The Allen board of education voted Feb. 15 to extend Heckathorn's contract through July 1, 1982, with the salary to be negotiated in January, 1981.

Voting in favor of the motion to extend the contract were board members Verlan Hingst, Martin Blohm, Harlan Matles and Richard Olesen. Voting against was Jacquelin Williams.

sonal attorney to insure he will carry the case. Kennedy said the Nebraska School Administrator's Association attorney refused to handle the case and dropped him as a client.

KENNEDY made an official request for a public hearing within 10 days, board minutes show, which would have been Feb. 21.

The board reconvened Feb. 15, a continuation of the Feb. 11 meeting. Kennedy was told the hearing was set for Feb. 21, but the principal indicated this was not suitable.

ACCORDING to board minutes, Kennedy said the Feb. 15 meeting was the one at which his public hearing was to be set. The board disagreed and let stand the Feb. 21 meeting which subsequently was postponed.

Kennedy is a native of Chadron and taught in Kingman, Ariz., before moving to Allen. Prior to that, he was principal at Stuart, Neb., for one year. He also has been in School District 72 at Rushville, Pine Bluff, Wyo; Shiprock, N. M.; Sand Creek, Mich.; Alo, Ariz.; Chintlee, Ariz.; Cheno Valley, Ariz. and Padogonia, Ariz., in his 22 years in education.

PMC Announces Officers for 1980

Providence Medical Center Advisory Board elected officers and heard a summary of reports at its annual meeting Feb. 18 in the Chapin Room of the hospital.

FELIX DORCEY was re-elected president of the group; Sister Gertrude Marie Woller, vice president, and Sister Cecelia Pott, secretary.

Pat Gross was named chairman of the group, replacing Densil Christiansen who has served in that capacity for two years. Ruby Pedersen was re-named secretary for the third year. Both are from Wayne.

THE ADVISORY Board was established shortly after the hospital was opened. It is designed to serve as a liaison to the various communities which the hospital serves. The board makes recommendations to the Governing Board which in turn is the group that makes final decisions, according to Marc Thomas, PMC administrator.

Two services through PMC added recently for the community were discussed. Home Health Services now provides homebound health care to residents in all communities within a 25 mile radius.

CARDIOPULMONARY stress testing also is available at PMC. These two services greatly expand the services of the hospital and the community," Mrs. Thomas said. Ann Wilkowsk will head the home services program.

Members of the Advisory Board for 1980 are as follows:

ROBERT PIPPIET and Shirley Kraemer, Laurel; Virginia McCain, Winslow; Larry McMasters, Wisner; Densil Christiansen, Pender; Dr. Walter Bentback, Carl Nuss; Ruby Pedersen, Frank Prather; Dr. Willis Wiseman, the Rev. Thomas McDermott, the Rev. Kenneth Edmonds, Clifton Ginn and Pat Gross, all of Wayne.

Terms ended for representatives from Randolph, Carroll and Pitger. New members will be chosen from those areas in the near future.

DR. WISEMAN was re-elected Chief of Staff at PMC and Dr. Robert Bentback vice president.

More details on the year's activities including financial review, energy project and capital outlays will be provided by PMC later, Mrs. Thomas explained.

ONE OF THE HIGHER skilled areas of the Region IV Adult Developmental Center here is construction of wood stakes for Carhart Lumber Co. Residents of the center are given a variety of basic skills in a working situation as near normal as possible. Carhart's, along with other businesses here, contract with Region IV for such services.

Local Groups Learn About Region IV

Region IV Developmental Disabilities was focus of two organizations last week as the human services agency continues its efforts to enlighten the public.

MONDAY NOON, Feb. 18, Barb VerLinden, public information director for Region IV here, was guest speaker at Kiwanis Club. Friday, the weekly Chamber of Commerce coffee was held at the adult developmental center at First and Logan Streets.

VerLinden told Kiwanians the agency is centered around a philosophical base which includes several concepts. These include normalization, dignity of work and age appropriateness.

NORMALIZATION, she explained, is the agency's attempt to serve clients in the most normal environment possible. Rather than a sterile institution such as in Beatrice, residents of the program here are placed in situations as near normal as can be expected. Work and living environments are similar to those a worker would be involved in while on the job. This philosophy gives residents a sense of belonging and participation, she explained.

AGE appropriateness is designed to help the resident distinguish between work and play. A daily routine is established at the developmental center, including coffee breaks and lunch (just as in a normal work situation, VerLinden explained. This helps the residents learn that a work experience does include a routine. Dignity of work provides residents with the pride that normally accompanies a work experience. Residents are given basic skills tasks such as taking apart an electric meter, making wood stakes, etc. This type of skill helps prepare them for a possible life and job of their own.

VERLINDEN SAID the developmental center concept, as opposed to institutionalization, also is more cost efficient. The average cost of maintaining a resident is about $9,600 annually, while at a facility such as Beatrice, the cost is nearly $19,000.

The public information director said community based mental retardation services allow people to work in or live in a community near their hometown.

WAYNE IS headquarters for Region IV, and includes a children's developmental center east of town on U.S. 35, and the adult center downtown.

Funding primarily is federally supported, with state and county funds also involved. Additional income is received through contracts which involve providing a service for some local businesses or manufacturers.

Funding primarily is through federal efforts, while the state and county also share in the expenses. In addition, some money is raised through contracts with local businesses or manufacturers. Region IV provides a mental service to some local businesses.

Can Senator Kennedy Command the Tides to Stay Out?

Richard L. Leshé, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Teddy Kennedy, the senior Senator from Massachusetts, has worked himself into a real dither over inflation. Fancy that! After striving for years to swell the federal budget (and the deficit) with endless something-for-nothing schemes, Senator Kennedy now worries Americans might not be able to pay their bills. Unfortunately, his concern for inflation has not chilled his love for big government.

While quick to criticize the administration on inflation, Senator Kennedy has one of the best records in the Senate for supporting administration positions. During the past three years, while federal spending was shooting up a disastrous 40 percent, one heard nary a peep of protest from Senator Ted. Indeed, the only time he really seemed upset was when the President got tough with inflation and proposed his barebones national health insurance plan. You remember: the President's little boondoggle will "only" cost us $24 billion its first year in 1983, whereas Mr. Kennedy's more "comprehensive approach" could run $60 billion... or more.

So how will the Senator get this horrible inflation beast back into its cage? No problem. In fact, it will be as simple as one.

Who's who, what's what?

1. WHAT was recently presented to the Wayne County Museum by local Boy Scout Troop 174?
2. WHO was recently presented the 1979 "Citizen of the Year" award by the Laurel Chamber of Commerce?
3. FOR what benefit did The Wayne Herald and The State National Bank stage a basketball game Sunday, Feb. 24, at the Wayne City auditorium?
4. WHAT was the Wayne-Carroll School District, grades K-12, chosen as a pilot school for?
5. WHO did the Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America chapters at Allen High School choose to reign as Sweetheart King and Queen during the annual dance at the high school?

ANSWERS: 1. A new American flag. 2. Famy Ericson, 77, a lifetime resident of Laurel. 3. To form a scholarship for a Wayne-Carroll High School athlete to attend Wayne State College. 4. A nutrition curriculum program called Educational Experience. 5. Lisa Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wood, and Lee Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hansen.

two, three. Listen to his magical plan: "The President should impose an immediate six-month freeze on inflation, followed by mandatory controls, as long as necessary, across the board, not only on prices and wages, but also on profits, dividends, interest rates and rents."

Rated on a scale of silliness, the idea of imposing an immediate freeze on inflation seems about on a par with commanding the tides not to come in. But there are disturbing signs Kennedy's proposal is gaining credence, because more and more economists who should know better are joining the call for mandatory controls.

If the country makes this terrible mistake again, then we will have learned nothing from the lessons of history which could not be more clear. In a fascinating book entitled, "Forty Centuries of Wage and Price Controls" Robert Schuettinger and Eamonn Butler examine the history of mandatory controls spanning 4,000 years in 30 countries. The authors write:

"While there have been some cases in which controls have at least apparently curtailed the effects of inflation for a short time, they have always failed in the long run. The basic reason for this is that they have not addressed the real cause of inflation which is the increase in the money supply over and above the increase in productivity. Rulers from the earliest times sought to solve their financial problems by debasing the coinage or issuing almost worthless coins at high face values; through modern technology the governments of recent centuries have had printing presses at their disposal.

When these measures resulted in inflation, the same rules then turned to wage and price controls... when their efforts failed, as they usually did, governments then put the blame on the wickedness and dishonesty of their subjects, rather than upon the ineffectiveness of the official policy. The same tendencies remain today."

They certainly do. The President publicly disagrees with Kennedy; in reality, however, he has followed a policy of creeping controls since the outset of his Administration. After proposing the expansion of COWPS — The Council on Wage and Price Stability — he signed a bill giving the agency the power to subpoena wage-price information from business and workers. Then, after announcing "voluntary" across-the-board controls, he sought to "impose" them through the use of sanctions, blacklisting and threats against anyone who did not properly comply.

In one of his most unforgettable utterances, President Carter claimed: "...the price constraints and wage constraints that we have imposed on a voluntary basis have had very beneficial results." Tragical ly, like Kennedy, Carter still does not understand there are only two ways to reduce inflation: Cut back on the production of new money, which means cutting back on government spending, and, increase the supply of goods, which means cutting taxes and regulations. Without these measures, we will inevitably experience increasing supply shortages, more calls for rationing of scarce products, and ultimately, long lines, bribery and black markets.

Nor will it end there. As Nobel prize-winning economist Milton Friedman has warned: "By encouraging men to spy and report on one another, by making it in the private interest of large numbers of citizens to evade the controls, and by making actions illegal that are in the public interest, the controls undermine individual morality... (and) threaten the very foundations of a free society."

There are no words capable of expressing our pride in the U.S. hockey victory over USSR in the Winter Olympics.

Emotions have been boiling over past months at the aggressions of the Soviet Union, and although a minor victory, the Olympic triumph adds to the swell of pride and patriotism most folks feel about the U.S.

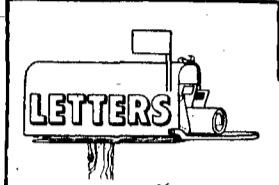

Some national writers even called the confrontation on ice a mini-cold war. The Russians, purported to be the best hockey team in the world, were beaten by a young and supposedly inexperienced U.S. team.

Sports broadcasters were attempting to downplay any emotions resulting from Russia's invasion of Afghanistan and other such animosities against the Soviets.

But the world situation had to have some bearing on the players' determined efforts. We're proud of our team, even if it fails to defeat Finland Sunday for the gold medal. The team and this country's fans have demonstrated that there is a feeling of pride for our nation.

Cynics have said in the last decade there is a lost sense of belonging within this country, stemming from the Vietnam War and Watergate. We find this philosophy somewhat shortsighted, and a scapegoat for those whose wants and wishes are being ignored.

This week's bit of trivia: There are more than 3,000 varieties of tea. Like wine, they take their names from the districts where they are grown such as Darjeeling, Assam, Ceylon, etc.

Dear Editor: Since I've seen no other letters on the subject, but have heard numerous comments, I feel compelled to voice a protest to the Rusty Nail's underwear ad in the Feb. 11 paper. In my opinion, it was in poor taste.

Peoples Natural Gas

A letter from Governor Charley Thone

Saving Is Perfect Fuel: Cheapest, Best: Thone

"Do Nebraskans want an energy source that produces no waste, doesn't pollute, is completely safe and doesn't send any American dollars abroad?"

"If so, that source is saving, that is, energy conservation."

"Nebraskans have already accomplished much in conserving gasoline. They used 10.12 percent fewer gallons in 1979 than in 1978, as I pointed out at the Governor's Conference on Energy Conservation, which early in February brought together nearly a hundred Nebraska leaders interested in fuel savings."

"Much more can be accomplished in gasoline saving, and I'm asking Nebraskans to do more. I am proclaiming March as 'Energy Conservation Month'."

"'Import 2 less' is a slogan indicating the savings of two gallons a week per family, which, of course, would result in two fewer gallons being imported from OPEC nations."

"In March, I hope that thousands and thousands of Nebraskans will sign a voluntary pledge to 'Import 2 less.'"

"If three-fourths of all American drivers carried out such an annual pledge, we could reduce our foreign oil imports by $7 billion, or by 10 percent."

"Energy conservation doesn't have to mean doing without. Savings can be achieved by tuning up cars, by keeping tires properly inflated, by combining shopping trips, by sharing rides with friends and neighbors, by joining a car pool and by using public transit in Omaha, Lincoln and other places where it's available.

"We can use less gasoline and still have it available for all essential uses and even for recreation, if we merely use some method of cutting down our fuel use each week."

"We're going to need to develop in Nebraska all available sources of energy, both traditional and alternate. In the long run, we'll need every practical American source of power. Both when in Congress and as governor, I have pushed for rapid development of such new sources as solar and gasohol."

"But over the next several years while new energy sources are being developed, our best means of reducing our over-dependence on foreign oil is conservation."

"The price of gasoline alone ought to be enough incentive for using less. If we don't use less voluntarily, the federal government will step in with a mandatory, coupon gas rationing program. That would mean that rural Nebraskans would be treated less fairly than Eastern big city dwellers, and it would mean large scale cheating and black marketing."

"Nebraska's constitution prohibits the state from spending more than it collects, so we Nebraskans have set an example for the nation in conservation of funds. I am confident that the people of this state will now also lead America in showing how to conserve petroleum."

Laurel Couple to Work With Missionaries in Formosa and Philippines

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Kvols of Laurel, who have worked with missionaries around the world, are planning to leave March 10 on a two-month tour of the Philippine Islands and Formosa, where they will be working directly with missionaries in those areas.

The public is invited to attend an evening of fellowship and encouragement for the Kvols on Saturday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the city auditorium in Laurel. Kvols' work in the Philippines will include the construction of a Christian Training Center on land donated by the Governor of the Province of Surigao, in the Philippines. The governor requested that the center be built to train his people in the field of evangelism.

Word recently was received that construction of the new center is being delayed due to heavy rainfall which has caused considerable flooding, mud slides and washouts.

In Taipei, Taiwan, Kvols' will be staying with Dr. James Hudson Taylor III, who is the director of the Overseas Missionary Fellowship, with personnel working in nine Eastern Asian countries.

Mr. Kvols, whose last missionary tour around the world was in 1964, recalls one of the most difficult times was in India where he stepped over children and adults who were crying and dying of starvation.

Since then, the Kvols' have traveled into many states to share in the work of the missionaries. The couple said they are grateful to the many persons who have stood behind them, both in prayer and financial support.

Kvols added that 100 percent of all donations received for Foreign Missions go directly to the fields for which they are intended.

Alcohol is Expensive, Growing Problem

Alcohol is an expensive and growing problem to Nebraskans. How expensive?

"Alcohol problems cost Nebraska taxpayers $358 million a year in the form of lost work time and productivity and health and welfare payments — that's $240 per Nebraskan," said Hal Gillaspie, director of the Physical Chemical Dependency Services in Omaha.

"I've been told that 70 to 80 percent of the welfare money in the county could be cut if there were a way to eliminate the problems arising from alcohol and drug addiction," he added.

How expensive is the alcohol problem in Nebraska?

A look at a recently released five-year report from Eppley may give a hint. The report, which takes in the 1975-79 period, shows a 56.8 percent increase in adult patients treated and a 133 percent increase in minors treated.

Eppley's alcohol rehabilitation program admitted a record 831 patients in 1979 — a 14.9 percent increase over the 1978 figure of 723.

The Eppley facility is located at Methodist Midtown, 36th and Cuming Sts.

According to Gillaspie, Nebraskans in 1978 consumed almost 50 percent more alcohol, per capita, than they did nine years earlier.

A study by the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission revealed that Nebraskans consumed an average of 28.6 gallons of alcohol per person in '78, a staggering 48.9 percent per capita increase over the 1969 figure of 19.2 gallons.

That shows you the magnitude of the problem," Gillaspie said. "I would guess that 90 percent of all adults use alcohol to some extent and that 70 percent of them drink alcohol on a regular basis."

One of the main factors in the increased alcohol consumption is women.

There are more women out in circulation; it's more common now for women to go to bars

There's more social tolerance for people who drink, especially women. There are more women getting jobs, getting off work and going to have a drink before going home, just as men have been doing for years," Gillaspie said.

The Eppley program's figures during the last five years show that nearly 70 percent of its patients treated are men. That's a very misleading figure, Gillaspie said. "I'd say the drinking problem is about 50-50 between men and women, but for some reason people just aren't referring women for treatment," he said.

Another highlight of the five-year report is the fact that "alcoholic problems are the fourth most common reason for patient admittance to Methodist Hospital in 1978. It wasn't even in the top 20 in 1973," Gillaspie said.

Gillaspie dispelled the old myth that alcoholism is an affliction of the lower echelon of society.

"National statistics say that fewer than 5 percent of alcoholics are from 'skid row.' Of our 831 patients in 1979, 27 percent had between 13 and 16 years of education; 8 percent had above 16 years of education. The alcoholic definitely isn't dumb," he said.

Gillaspie has several other national and state statistics that illustrate how serious America's drinking problem is:

— Alcoholism is ranked the third major health threat in the U.S., trailing only heart disease and cancer.

— 50 percent of all fatal traffic accidents involve alcohol.

— Alcoholism accounts for 40 percent of the problems brought to family courts.

— Alcoholics' suicide rate is 88 times that of non-alcoholics.

— 50 percent of all crime is alcohol-related; crimes against person have an even higher rate of alcohol involvement.

— 70 percent of the people in prison are there because of a crime committed either while under the influence of alcohol or drugs or in obtaining the chemical.

"Alcoholism really is a disease," Gillaspie emphasized. "and the disease of alcoholism always will win out over the love of family. When there's an alcohol or drug problem, you can bet it will hurt the family — every member of the family — more every day it goes untreated."

Some historians believe that the modern western alphabet, the Hebrew alphabet, the Arabic alphabet and the Devanagari, an alphabet used in India, are all based ultimately on signs of the Egyptian hieroglyphic writing.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

RCA MEETING

The Lower Elkhorn NRD will host an informational Resources Conservation Act (RCA) meeting Thursday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. The public is requested to attend the meeting at the Maclay Building, Northeast Technical Community College, in Norfolk.

The Resource Conservation Act was adopted by Congress in 1977, to inventory the nations natural resources, and to arrive at more effective U.S. Department of Agriculture programs for conserving them. The emphasis is on public participation to insure that U.S. Department of Agriculture programs address the issues which the people consider important.

The process began with public meetings in 1978, where people were able to state what issues were a major concern to them. After tabulating the results of these meetings, 18 objectives and 7 alternatives have been proposed as the basis for future resource conservation programs.

People attending the meeting, March 6, will hear an explanation of the RCA process and receive forms on which to submit written comments on the proposed objectives and alternatives.

The results of the RCA effort will be a five-year Conservation Plan which will reflect the concerns of the American people. The program is ongoing since the Conservation Plan must be updated every five years.

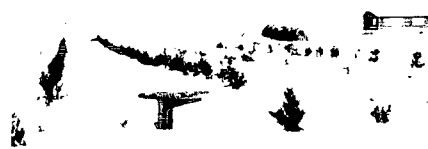

The RCA documents including Review Draft — parts I and II, Program Report and Environmental Impact Statement, and summaries are available for review at your local Soil Conservation Service or NRD office.

$35/acre PAYMENTS FOR HABITAT

The Lower Elkhorn NRD is still accepting applications from landowners for the Wildlife Habitat Program. The program pays $30 per acre for establishing wildlife habitat on former crop ground. An additional $5 per acre is paid for allowing public access on the area by foot traffic only. The program is adaptable to fit odd, hard to farm patches and offers an incentive to revert these areas back to permanent pasture, woodlots or wildlife areas.

You may also be reimbursed 100 percent the cost of grass seed or trees planted on these areas. For more information or to apply, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

LAST CHANCE FOR WINDBREAK TREES

Windbreaks planted now will produce energy savings and beauty for years to come.

Supplies of Clarke-McNary trees are rapidly selling out, and orders must be made soon to be sure of a good selection. The seedlings may be used for windbreaks, wildlife areas, and general forestry purposes. Only 10 of 23 species remain, including: redcedar, ponderosa pine, Austrian pine, Jack pine, cottonwood, cotoneaster, honeysuckle, nanking cherry, American plum and autumn olive.

The cost of seedlings is $17.95 per hundred trees delivered to your home. Lower Elkhorn NRD provides planting service at a cost of 13¢ per tree and spraying for weed control for 11¢ per tree. For designing plantings, ordering trees, or to arrange for planting, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

$40/acre PAYMENTS FOR CONSERVATION

Lower Elkhorn NRD is accepting applications for the Lands for Conservation Program, which makes payments to landowners for summer terrace construction. The NRD has budgeted $202,000 in Fiscal Year 1980, for land treatment which consists of the Lands for Conservation and the Cost-Share programs.

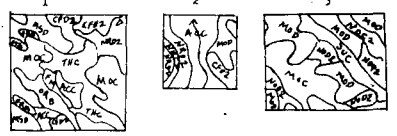

Landowners may receive up to 75 percent cost share from NRD and ACP programs for various conservation practices. For terrace systems, they may also receive the $40 per acre payment if construction is during June, July or August. A small grain or cover crop may be sowed on this land and may be harvested if time permits.

For more information or to apply for these programs, contact your local Soil Conservation Service.

DIABETES CAUSES UNDER INVESTIGATION
In many ways, diabetes is still a mystery. No one is absolutely certain what causes the disease, which is thought to be the third leading cause of death in the United States. Only cancer and heart disease claim more lives.

If present trends continue, the average American born today will have a one in five chance of developing diabetes. The likelihood of becoming diabetic appears to double with each decade of life and with every 20 percent of excess body weight.

What the public does not often understand is that there are really two major types of diabetes, the maturity-onset form and the juvenile-onset form.

Maturity-onset diabetes is the

Mini-Mall Expands With Elaine's Shop

Wayne's Mini-Mall continues to grow with the addition of Elaine's Fashions on the east side of the facility.

Owned and operated by Elaine Ellis of Fremont, the new business will offer exclusive lines of clothing for full figured ladies. The shop is to open Feb. 29 with the grand opening slated Feb. 29 and March 1.

The Wayne store is the second Elaine's Fashions shop in the state. The other, located in Fremont, is the headquarters.

Mrs. Ellis, whose husband, Chuck, is a major steel erection contractor in Fremont, said popular lines to be stocked include Mr. Alex, Lady Graff, Lady Dévon, Flutterby and Ample Tog.

Sizes to be carried include tops sizes 38-52, bottoms 30-48, coats and dresses 14 1/2-32 1/2 and lingerie.

The staff will include one fulltime and one part-time person, with Mrs. Ellis here about two days each week. Hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, and 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Mrs. Ellis, whose mother, Bertha Anderson, lives in Wakefield, said she chose Wayne because of its location, the warm reception she received from the Chamber of Commerce and the friendliness of the community.

She said there were many patrons from Northeast Nebraska who traveled to her Fremont store, so she decided to open a shop in the area. Contacts with Norfolk and Columbus proved futile, so she called the appropriate persons here.

"We found Wayne to be more suitable," she said, "and there isn't that type of facility around."

Dorcey Named County Chairman

Felix Dorcey of Wayne has been named the 1980 Honorary County of Life Chairman for Wayne County by the Kidney Foundation of Nebraska.

During the campaign, 28,000 homes in Nebraska will receive passkits from the KF-N. The recipients will be asked to contribute to the KF-N and then pass the envelope on to their neighbor. Also included in the passkit will be organ donor cards which can be signed and carried to signify that the person wishes to donate his/her vital organs for transplantation after death. An estimated 14,000 of the 51,000 Americans now on an artificial kidney machine could benefit from a transplant if enough kidneys were available. Kidney diseases kill approximately 78,000 Americans each year and afflict an estimated 13 million.

Dorcey said the passkits will begin arriving within the next few weeks.

Essays on Drinking Requested

Two unique topics — "Myths About Drinking" and "Alcohol Use In Our Complex Society" — are the challenges to junior high school students and to senior high school students who enter the NCAE essay contest.

The Nebraska Council on Alcohol (and Drug) Education contest is open to students from grades 7 through 12 in both public and parochial schools throughout the state.

The contest this year marks the 27th year for senior high schools, and the 21st year for the junior high schools. Students in grades 7 through 9 must write an essay on the topic, "Myths About Drinking" using no more than 600 words.

Students in grades 10 through 12 must write an essay on the topic: "Alcohol Use In Our Complex Society" using no more than 700 words. The open dates of the contest are Feb. 29 through March 28.

Students can win up to $150 in United States Saving Bonds. NCAE divides the state into four principle districts and from each, a winner is selected plus two award of merit winners. The junior division winner receives a $50 Savings Bond, whereas the senior division winner receives a $75 Savings Bond. The student who wins state, wins an additional Savings Bond, either $50 or $75 respectively.

NCAE hosts all the students who place in the NCAE essay contest at the Annual Citizenship Day activities held in Lincoln April 26. The students are asked to attend the awards presentation, usually held at the State Capitol, and to attend the awards luncheon. There is a specific program held at each phase of the Citizenship Day activity.

The objective of the NCAE essay contest is to motivate students to make a specific study on the assigned topics concerning the use of alcoholic beverages. The goal is that each student who participates will be able to make a personal determination that there are "positive alternatives from false dependencies."

The "Archie W. Sandall Family Memorial Trophy" is presented to the school which has the largest participation percentage, each year. The trophy is a traveling trophy and any school which captures it the third time in alternate years, can retain it permanently. James S. Hamilton, executive director of NCAE, says there are several schools really competing for the beautiful Sandall Family Traveling Trophy.

Carbon Monoxide Can Leak From Appliances

The danger of carbon monoxide poisoning is not related just to an enclosed car exhaust system. Any appliance using gas or wood can be a culprit in carbon monoxide poisoning, according to Rich Gooding, extension safety specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"Carbon monoxide is produced when carbon containing fuels are burned," Gooding said. "These fuels include gasoline, utility gas, charcoal and even wood."

"The specialist noted that all fuel burning furnaces, ovens, water heaters, clothes dryers, refrigerators, fireplaces and automobiles are potential threats."

"That's why people have lost their lives by starting a car with the garage doors closed or sitting in a closed car in the winter with the windows rolled up," he said. "Lives also are in danger when people use the oven to heat the house during furnace failure or take a charcoal grill into a tent or camper for heat."

Carbon monoxide claims about 1,100 deaths nationally each year, Gooding said. "Thousands, perhaps even millions" of people suffer from carbon monoxide headaches. "A headache is the first symptom of carbon monoxide poisoning," Gooding said. "Other symptoms, in ascending order are nausea, vomiting and dim vision, severe headache, weakness, dizziness and collapse, coma and convulsions, depressed heart action, no respiration and finally respiratory failure."

"You can see how carbon monoxide could cause an auto accident because of a leaky exhaust system."

To prevent carbon monoxide poisoning from an automobile's exhaust, Gooding said the car engine should be tuned regularly and the exhaust system kept in good condition.

"If you have to wait for someone in a parked car during the winter, open the window a few inches and run the engine periodically for heat," Gooding said. "Never nap in a car when the engine is running."

He suggested furnaces and other gas appliances should be checked periodically by a professional to maintain combustion efficiency. The chimney flue should be kept clean and clear.

He also warned against using a hibachi, catalytic heater or gas lantern in a small closed space like a camper or tent because oxygen depletion and carbon monoxide could cause a problem.

NE Feeders Elect Officers

Directors of the Northeast Feeders Association recently elected officers for the 1980 year. New officers are Art Greve, Wakefield, president; Marilyn Holm, Wakefield, vice president; Gerald Muller, Wakefield, secretary and Darrell Rahn, Wayne, treasurer. The association also elected three new directors, Wilbur Nolte, Wayne; Rodney Lander, Pender; Norman Meyer, Wakefield; and Ernest Bartels, Dakota City.

According to Greve, feeders have entered another year where a strong voice is needed to speak out on critical issues. Fair taxation and energy legislation are just a sample of issues that feeders will face in 1980. A strong, grassroots organization, like the Feeders Association, is needed to voice our side of the story, states Greve.
