Crowd Control Legislation Withdraws

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

A bill designed to provide law enforcement officers with an effective crowd control tool was withdrawn from further legislative consideration by its sponsor, Sen. Rex Haberman of Imperial.

Haberman's colleagues had done extensive work on his controversial proposal before he finally asked them for permission to withdraw it. The vote in favor of taking the bill off the legislative agenda carried 34-4.

The legislation would have authorized a police officer to disperse a group of three or more persons disturbing the peace and the crowd at the disturbance scene. News reporters who were not disruptive or were not obstructing an officer of the law would have been exempt from provisions of the bill.

Haberman said the State Patrol, which asked him to sponsor the bill, later requested that he withdraw it if some of the amendments incorporated into the legislation during earlier debate could not be deleted. The Imperial lawmaker said he knew he could not get the amendments stricken and that is why he finally requested permission to remove the bill from further debate and action.

Before Haberman made his withdrawal request, an amendment exempting labor unions and their members participating in labor activities would have been exempted from the bill's coverage. Pending was another amendment that would have exempted farm organizations.

That led some of the senators who spoke out against the measure and the amendments to argue that changing the bill to exempt one or two organizations might mean others would want the same type of exemption.

After the bill was withdrawn, Haberman said he was puzzled by the reluctance to approve his proposal. Law-abiding citizens had no reason to be concerned about the legislation, he said.

Budget bills advance
During the first four days of debate on the Appropriations Committee's bills, little change was made in them.

In fact, only one very small alteration to reduce spending was made. That was a reduction of $7,500 in the University of Nebraska-Omaha's $19.6 million general fund operating budget.

The $7,500 would have been allocated to expand UNO's folklore archives to include data on experiences such as the sightings of unidentified flying objects.

The amendment was made to LB 999, which will provide the funding for higher education.

At the request of the Appropriations Committee, $50,000 was added to one of the bills. That money will be used for biomass research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Also added at the committee's request was $70,000 for the state Health Department's budget to provide loans to medical students who pledge to practice in Nebraska.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha sought to delete $1 million from UNL's appropriation because of the donation of 1,300 South African Krugerrands to the University of Nebraska Foundation. The Legislature's only black member, Chambers argued the gift insulted "people like me" because of the apartheid policy in South Africa. Acceptance by the foundation of the gift, Chambers said, could be interpreted as acceptance of South Africa's policy.

His amendment was turned down on a 9-34 vote. That was after Sens. Jerome Warner of Waverly and Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, both members of the Appropriations Department, advised their colleagues the foundation is a private corporation outside the control of the Legislature and the university.

Repeal bill amendments
It happens every legislative session — a non-controversial bill comes before the lawmakers and amendments are offered that would turn the piece of legislation into a measure of significance.

This session, Sen. Peter Hoagland of Omaha sponsored LB 741, which would have repealed a number of obsolete laws, some of them on the books almost 100 years. The statutes deal with formation of posses, hitching of horses and the assessment of poll taxes.

That was before some of the senators sought to use the bill as a vehicle for proposals that have sparked emotional debates and strong disagreements, such as repeal of the law providing for district elections of Omaha City Council members. An amendment for that change, offered by Sens. John DeCamp of Neligh and Bernice Labetz of DeCAMP, was defeated.

Sen. Ernest Chambers, who fought hard to get the Omaha City Council election statute enacted prior to this year, said he had readied amendments to LB 741 that would repeal the death penalty and the personal property tax exemptions the Legislature authorized for farms and businesses in 1977.

Other amendments to the bill that were prepared include one to repeal the litter tax approved last year, one to repeal the local option city sales tax, and another to repeal the guest statute that restricts the right of a passenger to sue a car driver after an accident.

Because of the pending amendments, Hoagland asked that action on LB 741 be postponed for a few days. With time rapidly running out on this year's session, it appeared the bill might not get processed this year.

Sticks with lid plan
By the time this appears in print,

Nebraska's lawmakers may have made their final decisions on LB 627 under which local spending lids imposed by voters would remain in effect for only one year instead of until they were removed by the voters.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, who introduced the bill, said he is going to fight for it despite the fact Gov. Charles Thone has expressed concern about the legislation.

As introduced, the measure increased from 5 percent to 15 percent the number of registered voters who, using the petition method, could force a local option lid election. The bill was later revised to change the 15 percent to 7 percent, a figure Thone indicated was not unreasonable.

Koch said he still favored the 15 percent figure and had an amendment prepared that would also require the signatures on petitions be from a specified number of voting precincts.

During a recent press conference, Thone, said one thing about the bill that bothered him was it would interfere with rights voters were given when the local option law was passed two years ago.

March 31, 1955: Burglars hit Wayne taverns three times during the past two weeks taking a total of almost $175. Robbed twice was Little Bill's Bar. Last Thursday night thieves took $100.75. They struck again Monday, taking $42.50 more. The week earlier the Nu Tavern was robbed of about $30. In each instance the money was taken after the businesses were closed for the night. Wayne firemen were called out Saturday afternoon to extinguish a chimney fire at the John Benjamin home. Grainland Hwy. Slight smoke damage resulted. Seven youths were baptized at services at Wayne Church of Christ Sunday evening. They were Barbara and David Stringer, Ruth Cook, Neil and Kenneth Palmer and Evan and Noel Bennett.

Missouri River Use to Aid All Huskers: Thone

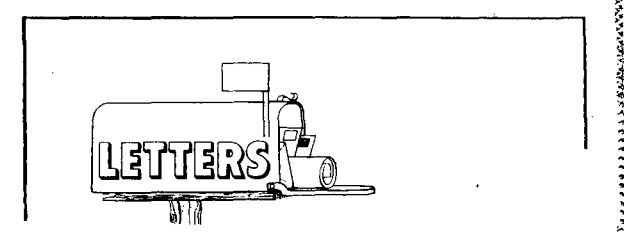

"Every Nebraskan's economic future will be brighter as we increase the amount of freight moving up and down the Missouri River.

"Even though it's unlikely that any western Nebraska wheat will move down the Missouri by barge, western wheatgrowers will benefit if farmers and elevators in the eastern part of the state have another choice in deciding how to move grain. And those engaged in agriculture in western Nebraska may be able to buy fertilizer and equipment at lower prices if it can come up the Missouri to eastern Nebraska and then be shipped across the state.

"Considerable progress has been made since 214 interested citizens on March 11 gathered in Omaha for the Governor's Conference on Increased Use of the Missouri River. A solid plan for development is being prepared by a task force of heads of agencies that report to me. We're preparing for the opening of an office that will be dedicated to providing information and coordination for those interested in river shipping.

"We are urging the states of Iowa, Kansas and Missouri to join us in action to stimulate more river traffic. We hope that the governors of those states will sign into law bills providing for a joint compact to develop river traffic. Even if they don't get such laws passed this year, we will be seeking a meeting of the four states to promote barge traffic.

Thank you for your editorial in support of the fetal heart monitor and the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth.

My husband and I had our first "Lamaze baby" six years ago in Hays, Kansas. We've been enthusiastic supporters of Lamaze ever since. We agree with you that the birth of a child is a beautiful experience to be shared by both mother and father.

I am glad Lamaze classes are now being offered in Wayne and hope expectant couples will take advantage of such instruction.

Dear Editor:
I must agree with the letter written by the members of Girl Scout Troop 145, complaining about the lack of newspaper coverage for their recent all-council activity.

Along with the Scouts, several dozen professionals of the Wayne community donated their time and talents to conducting productive workshops for the day-long conference, which over 300 young women attended.

One "Wayne Herald" photographer/reporter was present during the workshops conducted in Rice Auditorium. He was, however, taking pictures of athletes who had been named to the all-area athletic teams. Neither the reporter nor the athletes should have been admitted to the facility which had been reserved for the Scouts. Never the less, common courtesy prevailed, even when the picture-taking sessions necessitated the moving of several sections of a workshop. It would have taken little effort to secure a program of events for the conference and to take a few pictures of the varied activities.

The newspaper was informed on several occasions that the day-long Girl Scout conference was to occur. The reason for the newspaper's lack of coverage is obvious: Girl Scouting is simply not as important as the all-area athletic teams, the math-science fair, the kid wrestling meet or the gong show in Allen.

Dear Wayne Herald:
Unfortunately, I cannot make it back to my hometown very often — though I like to keep in touch with things there.

Three of us who graduated from Wayne High School in 1976 have managed to stick together here for four years, and will be graduating from UNL shortly. Dr. and Mrs. Francis Haun's daughter Jan, Lori Lesh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lesh and Donn Dutton, son of Mrs. James Evans will be going through commencement in May. I do not know of any other Wayne people graduating from the University this year.

I received notice of my acceptance to the University of Nebraska College of Law for the upcoming Fall semester on March 27. This is most assuredly my plans after graduation. My major in undergrad has been political science.

I believe Jan is planning post-graduate work in her major, psychology. Lori will be receiving a degree in dietary food science and nutrition.

Both Jan and I have been on the Dean's Honor List for all four years of college.

Dear Editor:
It is always a source of great pleasure to see young people relate to other young people in a cooperative effort such as the joint choir presentation between Wayne-Carroll choroid group and the Southern High Choir from Wymore which was held on March 22.

We would like to express our appreciation for the marvelous cooperation received from the parents of the Wayne-Carroll choir members in preparing for this event.

A special thank you to those who opened their homes to house members of the visiting choir and to those who helped by furnishing food for the evening meal. We also greatly appreciate the efforts of Francis Haun and Don Zeiss in allowing the Southern choir members to attend the dance at the high school.

Let us all learn from our young people that working together for the nicer things in life can truly be rewarding.

NEBRASKA - HISTORICAL QUIZ

- Name the site in western Nebraska famous for prehistoric fossil remains discovered there. It is now a National Monument.
- Wahoo has produced native sons who have achieved fame in entertainment, science, sports and the arts. Which of the following are not among this group? Darryl F. Zanuck, movie producer; Sam Crawford, baseball; Henry Fonda, actor; George Beadle, scientist; and Howard Hanson, composer.
- Thousands of overland emigrants died of disease along the trail between 1842-1858. The disease which took the heaviest toll was: malaria, smallpox, Asiatic cholera, typhoid fever.
- The youngest man to be elected governor of Nebraska was only 30 years of age. Who was he?
- What is the name of William Jennings Bryan's home in Lincoln? Wildwood, Arbor Lodge, Hillcrest, Fairview.
- When gold was discovered in the Black Hills in 1874, which western Nebraska town soon became an important freight center for supplies to the Dakota mines: Ogallala, Crawford, Sidney, North Platte.

ANSWERS:

- Agate Fossil Beds National Monument was established by Congress in 1965. Located on the Agate Springs Ranch in Sioux County, the fossil beds contain world-famous deposits of Miocene animal bones. The deposits were discovered by Captain James H. Cook who owned the ranch. Shortly after the turn of the century, scientists from around the world began excavations at the fossil quarries. Most of the bones have been found at Carnegie and University hills, named by Professor E.H. Barbour of the University of Nebraska.
- Henry Fonda, a native Nebraskan, is from Omaha. Darryl F. Zanuck, longtime head of 20th Century Fox studios, died recently. "Wahoo" Sam Crawford played with the Detroit Tigers, 1903-1918, and is in the Baseball Hall of Fame. He died in 1968. Composer Howard Hanson, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1944, and geneticist George Beadle, Noble Prize winner in 1948, are still living.

3. Asiatic cholera was the greatest killer of overland emigrants. It was carried by rats on board ships to New Orleans and then it spread up the Missouri to the plains. During the peak cholera years 1849-1852, thousands of travelers succumbed to the disease and were buried in shallow graves along the trail. A few marked emigrant graves still remain in Nebraska.

4. Albinus Nance, after whom Nance County was named, served two terms as governor, 1879-1883. Because of his youth, he was known as the "Boy Governor." He later moved to Chicago where he died in 1911.

5. Bryan's home, Fairview, was completed in 1903 on his farm southeast of Lincoln. In 1921 Bryan deeded the home and 10 acres of land to the Nebraska Methodist Conference for a hospital site. Today Fairview stands on the grounds of Bryan Memorial Hospital, surrounded by residential Lincoln. It has been partially restored by the Nebraska State Historical Society in cooperation with the Hospital and is open to the public during specified hours.

6. Sidney, located on the Union Pacific Railroad, had been a major supply center for the Red Cloud Indian Agency and adjacent Camp Robinson on the White River in northwest Nebraska. The trail was soon extended to the Dakota mining camps. The Sidney-Blackhills trail remained an important stagecoach and freight route until about 1880. During the peak years of 1878-1879 an estimated 22 million pounds of freight was carried over the trail.

Mother Nature Plays April Fools' Joke

Mother Nature had the last laugh on April Fools' Day as area sports events had to be postponed due to the inclement weather.

The Laurel-Concord Relays, which opened as planned Tuesday morning were postponed at about noon, as rain and cold weather persisted. The relays have been rescheduled for next Tuesday (April 8).

Wayne's baseball team was scheduled to open its season Tuesday afternoon at home against Ponca. That game has been rescheduled for 4 p.m. Thursday, April 10. Another game between Wakefield and Bancroft has been changed to 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 9. That game will be played in Bancroft.

Wayne State's track team was scheduled to compete in the Kearney State Invitational but because of severe snow in that area, the meet was cancelled. A men's and women's dual against Westmar College as added to the schedule for Wednesday (April 2) at 3 p.m.

A WSC softball game was indefinitely postponed from Tuesday. All baseball and softball action scheduled later in the week was still expected to be played as of press time.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

HOW QUICKLY the spring sports schedule can change! A full state of events ranging from baseball to track to softball to golf was scheduled this week. However, a decline in temperatures and an increase in precipitation caused the postponement of all events Tuesday.

During the past week, the sports pages have been crammed with all area teams, track and baseball stories and basketball and wrestling wrapups. As is often the case with the newspaper business, stories and pictures had to be held out of at least one paper because of lack of space. This week is different.

Since the sports schedule died down, so did the amount of copy on the sports pages. At least now we're all caught up for awhile.

OWNERS AND PLAYERS are back at it again in baseball's Major Leagues. As usual they are bickering over the free agent rules and this time the players have voted to strike. The latest report—which changes almost as quickly as the reports from Iran—indicates that exhibition season is cancelled. The players also plan to strike on May 22 unless a new agreement is reached by that time.

If things go according to schedule, I'll still get to watch the Kansas City Royals host the Baltimore Orioles in late April as planned. That's something I've been looking forward to doing for a couple of months now.

Maybe major league baseball needs a strike. Not for a week or even a month but for the whole season. Then, these players, who are drawing a million bucks a year, might realize they don't really have things so rough.

AN ARTICLE in the "Omaha World Herald" last week drew the attention of many readers in the Wayne area. The article discussed the construction of a $2.3 million sports complex at Peru State College. In addition, Peru, which dropped its wrestling program a year or two ago, will add tennis and indoor track to its slate of competitive sports.

I spoke with a Peru State official concerning the new complex. He informed me that the complex consists of three main sections: an office area, a swimming room and a field house.

The office area consists of a ticket stand, a concession stand, restrooms and a supply room. The swimming room is 120 feet by 68 feet and contains a pool 20 meters long and 45 feet wide, two diving boards and a scoreboard.

The field house has four full sized courts, one marked for basketball, one marked for volleyball, one marked for tennis and one which is presently unmarked. A six lane indoor track is also included in the field house. Ten laps around the track equals one mile.

The seating capacity for the field house is 2,088. Two master scoreboards and three smaller ones are included in the complex.

However, there is one major flaw. What the article in the newspaper did not mention is that the sports complex has "very limited locker room facilities." In fact, there is practically no locker room facility. Locker rooms are included in an adjacent building which is being remodeled. The two buildings are now connected by a corridor.

FINALLY, COMPLIMENTS to the Wayne Jaycees and the Wayne High wrestling team for a job well done. The two groups were responsible for the kids' wrestling tournament over a week ago and did a fine job of running it smoothly.

I've watched a tournament this year in another community and it was not run properly, making it a flop. The Wayne tourney was an exception however and went just about as smoothly as a meet of its type could be expected. All parties involved did a good job.

Somewhere along the line, an anonymous reader sent in a story from the Des Moines Register, written by the executive secretary of the Iowa High School Athletic Association. In the article, the IHSAA official criticized those types of tourneys for several reasons.

He said these youngsters are burned out by the time they reach high school and are not benefiting from these meets. He had some good valid points.

However, I might add that anything done in excess can be hazardous. Parents should determine how many tournaments a child should compete in during a season. After all, I've seen lots of kids begin playing basketball at age five and younger and haven't seen many get "burned out."

The basis for a strong athletic program is a properly run program for youth.

Chace Named Best At UNO Invitational

Paula Chace has become almost a household name in Northeast Nebraska and is making her name well known across the rest of the state. Chace's latest achievements came at the Lady May Track and Field Invitational at the University of Nebraska at Omaha field house Saturday.

The Laurel senior set three meet records and was named most outstanding athlete among the field of nearly 500 girls. Most of the 30 Nebraska and Iowa teams competing in the meet were Class A schools. No team score was kept.

Chace opened her record setting performance by jumping

17-1/4 in the long jump which broke the previous meet record by more than three inches.

She followed that performance by winning the 400 yard dash in 60.18 seconds for another record. Her time of 2:27.8 in the 800 yard run set yet another record and gave her another gold medal.

Laurel's two mile relay team, composed of Chace, Roxie Kraemer, Dee Maxon and Cindy Janas placed third in 10:45.1. Laurel coach Ev Jensen said the team was "real good."

The Laurel-Concord Relays were scheduled Tuesday at Wayne State College.

Grady in Action

GRADY HANSEN, a two-sport athlete, has emerged as Wayne State's ace pitcher early this season. The Wildcats, who were scheduled to play at Briar Cliff Wednesday, are scheduled to be at home Friday, Monday and Tuesday. The Cats will host Kearney State Friday and Chadron State on Monday and Tuesday.

Softball Teams Needed

The Elkhorn Valley Softball League has been formed and is in need of a few more teams to complete its twelve team schedule. All games will be played in Pilger with the tentative starting date of May 13. For more information call Randy Kindschuh, 439-5164 at Stanton or Bob Wolverton, 396-3317 at Pilger.

Men's 'B' League Results

Things went pretty much according to schedule this week in B League Recreation basketball action. The only surprise came in the evening's opening game.

Team Six, which has won only one game in 11 outings, gave once-beaten Team Five a scare before falling 67-59 in the closest game of the night. In other action Team One bombed Team Three 85-59 and Team Seven dumped Team Four 84-68.

Perfect Record Intact
Team Five needed a strong second half performance to pull away from scrappy Team Six but finally did and increased its winning streak to eight games with a 67-59 win.

The victory kept Team Five on top of the second round team race with a 5-0 record and stretched its overall record to 10-1. Team Six fell to 0-5 in round two competition and 1-10 overall.

Team Six offered lots of competition, staying within one point at the end of the first quarter and within three at the half as Breck Giese hit eight second quarter points.

Bob Kruger led the second half charge for Team Five by scoring 12 points to lift his team to a nine point lead. Gary Leach and Benny Stroh added eight and seven points respectively in the second half to complement the attack.

Giese and substitute Mark Fleer scored 11 and 8 points respectively in the second half to keep Team Six close.

Team Five: Larsen, 10; Leach, 14; Stroh, 17; Kruger, 19; Carlson, 8; Langenberg, 5. Team Six: Fleer, 14; Eynon, 2; L. Lessmann, 4; Hansen, 12; B. Lessmann, 8; Giese, 19.

Second Half Surge
Tom Erwin scored 18 of his 21 points in the second half to lead

Team One past Team Three 85 59 Tuesday.

Team Three trailed by two points after the first quarter but scored 23 points in the second quarter to overtake Team One 35-31 at the half. Larry Creighton hit 10 of his 12 points and Randy Jacobsen scored all eight of his points in the second quarter surge.

Erwin reversed the momentum by hitting 10 points in the third quarter and eight in the fourth for the winners. Keith Jarvi and Dave Anderson assisted in the second half rally by adding six points each. Substitute Breck Giese scored nine fourth quarter points for the losers.

Both teams stand 2-2 in second round action entering the final two weeks of the regular season. Team One is 6-4 overall and Team Three is 4-6 overall.

Team One: T. Erwin, 21; R. Erwin, 14; Jones, 8; Jarvi, 18; Olson, 10; Anderson, 10; Pankaskie, 4. Team Three: Welby, 13; Jacobsen, 8; B. Nelson, 3; Hahn, 6; Giese, 17; Creighton, 12.

Team Seven Still Rolling

Only one team stands in the way of a shootout between two undefeated teams on the last night of regular season play. Team Seven crushed Team Four 84-68 to run its second round record to 4-0. A win over Team Three next week would send Team Seven into a championship matchup against undefeated Team Five, which has completed its season at 5-0. Playoffs will begin after the regular season is completed.

Substitute Breck Giese, playing his third game of the evening, had his most successful outing, pumping in 27 points including 23 in the first half to lead the winners.

Team Four trailed by five points at the end of the first quarter and then found themselves behind 46-33 at the half. Bob Nelson scored 10 points in the third quarter and Greg Hafer added eight for Team Four but it wasn't enough to gain ground on the winners.

Bob Johnson and Jim Lindau had impressive second half performances for Team Seven.

Team Four's record stands at 1-3 in second round play and 4-6 overall. Team Seven is 4-0 in round two and 6-4 overall.

Team Seven: Lindau, 16; Johnson, 16; Hagmann, 8; Daehneke, 9; Giese, 27; Beckenhauer, 6. Team Four: Hafer, 16; Green, 16; Wieland, 6; Nelson, 18; Bailey, 12.

Tuesday's schedule (April 8): 7 p.m. — Team 1 vs. Team 2; 8 p.m. — Team 6 vs. Team 4; 9:15 — Team 7 vs. Team 3.

Wayne Recreation Boys Whip Walthill Teams

Hank Overin's Recreation basketball teams picked up two wins against Walthill Saturday, March 22. Both boys' teams were winners but the Wayne girls lost a close game in the afternoon's finale.

One Wayne fifth and sixth grade team edged Walthill 16-15 in the opener, and another thumped Walthill 34-17 in the second game. The Wayne fifth and sixth grade girls were defeated 15-11.

In the first game, Scott Milliken scored six points, Tim McCullough and Jay Luft scored four points each and Mark Creighton added two to lead Wayne to victory. Milliken hit the only basket in the fourth quarter for the locals.

The second game was a runaway from the beginning with Wayne taking leads of 12-2 and 28-10. Four players led Wayne with six points each. They were Russell Longe, Ted Lueders, Jason Jorgensen and Ted McCright. Jon Stollenberg and Bill Liska scored four points each and Tim Gries added two points.

Workshop This Month

There's still time to preregister for the housing workshop to be presented in Hartington and Dakota City by Kathy Parrott, state extension specialist in housing and interior design.

The workshop is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., April 9 at the Congregational Church, Hartington and from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., April 10 at the Courthouse meeting room, Dakota City.

Parrott will be providing information for the consumer to aid in housing decisions. The morning will be devoted to housing selection decisions in buying, building and remodeling — such as deciding what you need, is it a good investment, making energy considerations, etc. The afternoon will be devoted primarily to remodeling — financial decisions, how to plan, who should do it, etc. A number of printed handouts will be provided.

Parrott offers the following information for those currently considering remodeling:

More people are remodeling their house now instead of combating the high interest rates on housing loans. But doing research is necessary before remodeling.

Get an idea of what the project will cost you for materials and hired help.

Then do some looking at the housing market. What would it cost you to buy another house that already has the features you are planning to add to your present house?

For a remodeling project, don't spend more than two-thirds of what it would cost to buy the better house.

If just might be a wiser investment to buy another house instead of remodeling.

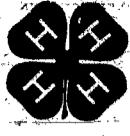

A house is worth remodeling if it has these characteristics: a good location and lot, is in good repair, is structurally sound and is in a good neighborhood that is developing in a positive direction.

See if remodeling will increase the resale value of the house. A third bedroom, second bath, modernized kitchen and a family room are desirable for resale.

Check if the remodeling value of the house would be out of line with the rest of the neighborhood. A house priced 20 to 30 percent more than the average is a hard house to sell for its worth.

And finally, be sure the planned remodeling project is within the local building codes, zoning and any restrictive covenants in your deed.

The workshop is free to the public. Please contact the Cedar County Extension Office in Hartington (254-4821) or the Dakota County Extension Office in Dakota City (987-3541) if interested in attending.

Decrease in Milk Producers Predicted

A spokesman for a dairy cooperative predicted Tuesday, March 18 that by 1985 the number of milk producers nationwide will decrease substantially and the price paid for milk will increase greatly.

THIS FORECAST came during the Nebraska Dairy Fieldman's Conference at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus Union. The conference was sponsored by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

The total number of dairy producers in the United States is expected to decline by 25 to 26 percent by 1985, said Ethan Rasmussen of Omaha, assistant manager of Mid-America Dairyman Inc.

Rasmussen said that the quantity of manufacturer's grade milk marketed is expected to decline. He said this decrease would be caused not by lowered demand for the product, but by increasing freight costs making it uneconomical to travel through the countryside to pick up small quantities of the lower grade product.

WHILE THE number of producers and the amount of manufacturer's grade milk is expected to decline, Rasmussen predicted that prices to the producer would increase $1.10 to $1.40 per hundredweight per year. He said that by 1985, the price paid to the producer may increase by about $6 to $8 per hundredweight.

He credited the price increases to federal legislation which places support prices for dry milk products at 80 percent of parity through 1981. The formula that is used to set the parity price has an inflation factor with price increases mandated in April and October.

In April it is expected that the price for 3.5 percent milk will increase 84 cents from $11.22 to $12.06.

Allen Students Place at State Vo-Ag Event

Teams from Genoa, Scribner and Oakland-Craig High Schools took home plaques for their first, second and third placings in the farm management contest one of 12 state vocational agriculture contests March 27-29.

Individual placings included Mark Koch, Allen, a red ribbon winner.

Koch also received a red ribbon in the individual livestock management sheep contest, and a red ribbon in farm management. Doug Koester received a red in livestock management.

Robert Malcom, Allen, also won a white ribbon in the sheep management contest.

John Stapleton, Allen, won a blue ribbon in the oxyacetylene division of the metals judging contest March 28 in Lincoln.

Joni Kraemer, also of Allen, was an accompanist for the state FFA chorus, and was a soloist for the group. She also received a second place in the wildlife speaking contest.

John Kraemer, also of Allen, was an accompanist for the state FFA chorus, and was a soloist for the group. She also received a second place in the wildlife speaking contest.

Rasmussen said the support program probably will be extended past 1981. "There's no reason to think that a similar type situation (inflation) won't exist for the next several years," he said.

ANOTHER reason for increases in the prices paid for milk, Rasmussen said, is that consumers are turning to milk products, such as hard cheeses, as replacements for meats. He said the reason for this change is because the milk products are less expensive than meat and because of their convenience, taste and versatility.

"We looked for increased markets and increased sales in all types of manufactured products," said Rasmussen.

With the price paid to the producer on the increase, the price of fluid milk is expected to rise by about 15 to 25 cents per gallon per year. He said, proportional increases probably could be expected for the manufactured milk products as well.

AN EXPANDED market for what Rasmussen called formula type products also is expected in the next decade. Formula products include diet foods, snack foods and artificial flavorings which contain dairy products as the flavor base.

"I think we're going to see organizations such as Mid-Am expand into this area," he said.

Increased government regulation of production and processing and more producers joining together to form cooperatives were cited by Rasmussen as factors which could change modes of operation in the dairy industry.

reviewed and scrutinized because of concern about the cooperatives are responsible, in part, for some of the increase in food prices.

HE LISTED tougher environmental specifications, new grading standards, and review of market orders and cooperatives as concerns in the next decade.

"It's not uncommon for a manufacturing milk plant to have to spend $250,000 to $1 million to update its sewage disposal system" so that disposed solids will not exceed mandated water pollution standards, he said. "As these expenses are made they have to be passed on to the consumer which will result in higher prices."

Legislation is pending in the Nebraska Legislature that would bring the state's milk grading standards up to U.S. Department of Agriculture standards.

This legislation would combine six existing state grading laws in one statute and produce one new Grade A law. By way of an amendment, the bill also would bring up to USDA standards the requirements for manufacturer's grade milk.

RASMUSSEN said the proposed law and the new regulations do not contain major changes or revisions that would substantially affect the way milk is graded in the state.

The '80s will see more dairymen joining together to form cooperatives, he continued. Dairymen were allowed to form cooperatives by the Capper Volstead Act of 1922, and Rasmussen said this piece of legislation will continue to be "The credit situation will mean tightening for everyone," he said, and added, "This is going to be the factor which will determine if the farmers and marketers are going to survive."

He predicted that there will be more of a willingness on the part of producers to enter into joint ventures to lower capital costs.

MORE FARMERS joining together to share milking equipment and buildings and processors and handlers cooperating to cut expenses were possibilities mentioned by Rasmussen.

Component pricing of milk is expected to become more routine and perhaps even a standard practice in the next five years, he said. Component pricing is a method whereby processors charge and producers are paid according to the total solids in the milk.

Rasmussen also said the dairy industry in the '80s will see a variety of new energy saving methods and new technologies in milk processing.

Creosote in chimney

Burning wood in fireplaces and stoves is becoming increasingly popular in this area. But along with the burning of wood goes the problem of removing creosote deposits in chimneys.

Many people believe that by adding salt or certain zinc-containing chemicals to the fire in a wood burning appliance they can remove the creosote deposits from their chimney.

This practice goes back to the "old" days when zinc jar lids were used for home canning. During that period, several lids were placed in a hot fire in the belief that if the fire was hot enough to melt and burn the zinc, the particles going up the chimney would pick up particles of soot or creosote and carry them out of the chimney. In reality, the hot fire was doing the chimney cleaning.

Today, salt or any other chemical for chimney cleaning purposes is considered to be ineffective and a waste of time and money.

The only way to effectively remove creosote deposits from a chimney is by mechanical cleaning with a wire brush or a weighted sack filled with straw or pine needles. The wire brush can be purchased from most wood stove dealers.

Creosote accumulation can be prevented or reduced in most chimney systems by making sure that dry wood is being burned in a hot fire for 15-30 minutes at the beginning of each burning period. This procedure should begin with a clean chimney or a chimney fire could result. If the soot, creosote accumulations reaches 1/8 inch to 3/16 inch thickness, the chimney needs to be cleaned mechanically.

Soil tests

Here is an item from George Rehm, District Extension Agronomist. "It's no secret that farmers are very concerned about costs this year. Several farmers have asked me to make UN-L fertilizer recommendations from results from commercial soil testing laboratories. This is no problem. So, if farmers bring results from other laboratories to your office, I will be happy to provide UN-L fertilizer recommendations if you or the farmer want to send me a copy of the soil test results."

Sulfur

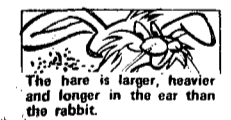

Another note from George. "Fertilizer recommendations from commercial soil testing laboratories continue to include relatively high amounts of sulfur. We all recognize that sulfur is important from some sandy soils. Throughout the Great Plains, research has shown that the application of sulfur has not increased crop production on the soils which are not sandy. There is no research to justify the use of sulfur fertilizer as a plant nutrient on our non-sandy soils in Northeast Nebraska."

Merit Award For Resource Management to LENRD

At a meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America Friday, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District was presented with a chapter merit award for their efforts in natural resource management.

Merit awards are given to organizations that support the society's objectives by promoting wise land use and the conservation of all natural resources.

Glen Olson of Wakefield, chairman of the LENRD, accepted the award. Also present were directors Richard Alexander, Pilger, Wendell Newcomb, Norfolk, and Ray Vogel, Battle Creek. The award was presented by Robert Chilvers of Neligh, SCSA president, and Richard Leitschuck of South Sioux City.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District was especially cited for its "Lands for Conservation," "Lands for Wildlife" and cost sharing programs.

The "Lands for Conservation" program was developed in 1977 as an economic incentive for landowners to get conservation on the land in the district. The program makes a special payment to landowners who apply terraces to their land during the months of June, July and August.

The idea was to lengthen the construction season to make more efficient use of technical time and contractor time. The Soil Conservation Service reports that more than half of all terrace construction in the LENRD in 1979 was because of the "Lands for Conservation" program.

Some $90,000 was expended in 1979 for this program. The state of Iowa has been studying the LENRD's success and are now considering a similar program.

In 1974, the LENRD developed a "Wildlife Habitat" program. The program was developed to achieve cover on marginal cropland for wildlife and for erosion control. It was so successful that in 1977 the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission developed a similar program. This program is administered jointly by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and the 24 NRDs. It provides an incentive for landowners to establish and maintain wildlife cover.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD has provided funds to share the cost of conservation practices with landowners since 1973 when for one year there was no federal funds. Since then they have provided cost share funds to be used after federal funds are exhausted in 1979, $360,000 was expended for this purpose.

In presenting the award Leitschuck noted that, "since its formation on July 1, 1972, the LENRD has been a leader in utilizing local resources to solve local natural resource problems. This district has taken the lead in areas of planning for natural resource development, conservation information and education activities and the development of natural resource legislation."

Commission Votes

The Nebraska Highway Commission voted Friday to oppose Legislative Bill 873 which could add as many as 1,208 miles to the state highway system without providing any additional funding.

L.B. 873, now in final reading, would designate certain highways within the area as scenic-recreation roads and make the Nebraska Department of Roads responsible for their construction and maintenance.

In effect, L.B. 873 establishes a seventh category to the State's present functional classification system. Under the bill the roads would be designated scenic recreation roads and highways and would apply to roads and highways serving state parks, recreation areas, historical areas and other outdoor oriented facilities.

The Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards would have to "adopt and promulgate" the criteria for the proposed scenic recreation roads within six months after passage of the bill.

The Commissioners said they opposed L.B. 873 because it would make the state responsible for the construction and maintenance for more miles of highway at a time when the State is strapped for funds to do needed work on the present system.

Members of the Commission voted to send letters voicing their opposition to L.B. 873 to Governor Thone and each of the Senators. The Commissioners will also urge Governor Thone to veto the bill if it is passed by the Unicameral.

One Highway Commissioner said that adding more miles to the state highway system in the face of inflation and decreasing highway revenues is intolerable.

These 11-month sales represent 74 percent of the assigned 1979 dollar goal of $60,100,000.

Student Health Program

The Student Association for Rural Health from the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha will present programs to high school and college students and community organizations here Wednesday, April 16.

One of the primary goals is the recruitment of allied medical personnel into the rural areas of the state. Another goal is to attract rural students to the Medical Center.

DESIGNED TO encourage potential doctors, nurses and other allied health personnel to receive training and establish practices in rural Nebraska, the association is comprised of six medical students, most of whom are from rural areas.

Schools expected to attend the program include Bloomfield, Elgin, Homier, Macy, Wakefield and Wynot. Some 70 students are anticipated here for the programs.

One of the primary goals is the recruitment of allied medical personnel into the rural areas of the state. Another goal is to attract rural students to the Medical Center.

"MANY STUDENTS feel they have to go to a major university to get into med school," a spokesman for the Rural Health Association said. That is not necessarily the case, he added. Entrance is based on grades and the Medical College Acceptance

Test (MEDCAP). Wayne State College has placed three students in medical school in the last three years. Two will begin medical training this fall. Two will enter the School of Pharmacy.

Tornado Films Will Be CB Club Topic

Wayne County CB'ers will review films and discuss tornado spotting techniques at their meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Columbus Federal Savings & Loan Association here.

Ron Wriedt, president of the local CB club, explained that anyone interested is invited to attend. The films are supplied by the Norfolk Weather Bureau and show techniques of spotting cloud formations that spawn tornadoes.

The CB club, along with local law enforcement agencies, serve as spotters whenever tornado warnings are issued. Wriedt added that spotters can provide the few minutes' advance warning needed to take cover.

Some area law enforcement representatives also will be available to answer questions.

County Trio Are Nominees

People Dissatisfied With Medicare Claims Can Appeal

People who are not satisfied with the decision made on their claim for Medicare hospital insurance benefits have the right to question that decision. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Different rules apply to claims for Medicare medical insurance. The first thing a person should do after he or she has received a notice explaining that all or part of a claim has been disallowed is to contact a social security office or the intermediary, the insurance organization which rules on and pays hospital insurance claims. A representative will explain the provision of the Medicare law on which the decision is based.

If a person still disagrees after the decision has been explained, he or she may ask that the decision be reconsidered. If all of the claim was denied, the person has 60 days from the date the notice was received to request reconsideration. When only part of a claim was denied, the person will receive two notices. He or she has 60 days from the date the second notice was received to request reconsideration.

A request for reconsideration form can be obtained at any social security office or from the intermediary. A new decision will be made on the claim by people who had no part at all in making the original decision.

A person still dissatisfied with the reconsidered decision can request a hearing, provided the amount in question is $100 or more. A hearing must be requested within 60 days of the date the notice of the reconsidered decision was received.

The hearing, conducted by an administrative law judge, is an informal proceeding which you or your representative can attend, testify and present evidence.

A person not satisfied with the hearing decision can request that it be reviewed by the Appeals Council of the Office of Hearings and Appeals. This request must be made within 60 days after the hearing decision notice is received.

If the Appeals Council decides not to review the claim or it upholds the hearing decision, a person can bring suit in Federal district court provided the amount in question is $1,000 or more. The suit must be filed within 60 days of the date the notice of the Appeals Council decision is received.

More information about hospital insurance appeals rights is in the leaflet, "Your right to question the decision on your hospital insurance claim." Copies can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office, at no charge.

The word "nobility" comes from the Latin nobilis. It means to be known to be notable or to be worthy of notice.
