Mother of the Year Entry Deadline Near

Entries for this year's Mother of the Year are now being accepted at the Chamber of Commerce office, 108 West Third St.

ENTRY BLANKS are being distributed to Wayne area schools, with youngsters high school age or younger eligible to enter the event.

Those entering are to tell why their mother should be Mother of the Year in 50 words or less. Entrants are asked to send or deliver their letter to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Box 349, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

DEADLINE for entering the contest is Thursday, reports Gary Van Meter, Chamber executive vice president.

The name of the winning mother will be announced Saturday, with the winner notified Friday.

The winner will receive a Mother's Day traveling trophy and several hundred dollars in prizes from participating merchants. A list of gifts and their sponsors is found elsewhere in this issue.

YOUNGSTERS are urged to get their entries in as quickly as possible.

Ballot Wording May Be Problem in Allen

George Emmons says he may have found a quirk in the wording of an Allen Consolidated School District spending limitation issue planned for the May 13 ballot.

EMMONS, AN Allen farmer, has been the main supporter of placing a limitation on the growth of the Allen district's budget for fiscal year 1980-81. He said Wednesday he plans to file a complaint with the Dixon County attorney's office.

A check with the County Attorney Friday afternoon indicated no complaint had been filed there yet.

Emmons maintains language on the petitions has been ignored on the ballots printed by the Dixon County clerk's office. Clerk Audrey Dohma said Friday she, too, had not had any official word of the complaint.

THE ALLEN FARMER said he felt the wording was misleading, and leaves the impression that the school district will end up with no money at the end of the year. His complaint deals with the "zero percent increase" referred to on the printed ballot.

The election question is as follows: "Shall that portion of the budget of the School District of Allen 70-70A, funded by ad valorem taxes (except such funds as are necessary to pay interest on and for retirement funding or serving bonded indebtedness) beginning with the 1980-81 fiscal year be limited to a zero percent increase over the amount budgeted by the school district for the like portion budgeted for the 1979-80 school year?"

HOWEVER, EMMONS said, petitions circulated by the pro-lid group say the "limit shall be not more than 100 percent of the current budget." He says this is what should appear on the ballot.

Emmons said the same concern was raised by residents Omaha and Nebraska City a year ago. A pre-election test in Douglas County courts affirmed that the words "zero percent increase" should not be used on the ballot, he added.

The lid proposal said if the Dixon County attorney does not order the ballots reprinted, then lid supporters may take their case to court.

ALLEN VOTERS will decide the fate of the no-growth lid on the budget May 13 during the primary election.

Tax collections would be limited to $254,669, or the amount that was collected for the current year for the district's general fund and capital construction fund. The lid would remain until voters decide to remove it.

THE TREND IN AGRICULTURE TODAY is toward minimum or conservation tillage practices. Above, Floyd Glassmeyer uses his Buffalo system to demonstrate the method he uses by planting between last year's rows of stalks. Glassmeyer does not shred his stalks, does not plow nor does he disc. The minimum tillage system saves considerable fuel and costs, and helps reduce the amount of soil lost to erosion each year.

Reduced Till System Comes of Age

Farmers in Wayne County are learning new ways to reduce the use of energy, cut costs and prevent soil erosion. The Floyd Glassmeyer farm four miles south and one half mile west of Wayne was site of a conservation tillage demonstration, Thursday evening. More than 100 area farmers were on hand for a look at the latest ideas in saving the environment and saving them money.

twice, planted and then cultivated once. To cultivate once, he said, takes 13 minutes per acre and uses 1.6 gallons of diesel fuel per acre. Planting takes 11.1 minutes per acre and uses 65 hundredths of a gallon of fuel per acre. Cultivating takes 6 1/2 minutes and uses one half gallon of fuel per acre. Total average cost per acre is $5.20.

Till planting — this involves shredding stalks, planting on the ridges that have not been disturbed and then cultivating twice. Shredding takes 6.9 minutes per acre and uses one-half gallon of diesel fuel per acre. Planting takes 12.8 minutes and uses 65 hundredths of a gallon of fuel. Cultivating twice takes 17.4 minutes and uses one gallon of fuel. Figuring labor at $5 an hour, the total cost per acre is $5.12, Spitzle said.

Conventional tillage — includes plowing, disking, disking with a harrow, planting and cultivating once.

Plowing takes 19 minutes per acre and uses 2.3 gallons of fuel per acre. Disking takes 13 minutes per acre and 1.6 gallons of fuel. Planting takes 11.1 minutes per acre and 65 hundredths of a gallon of fuel per acre. Cultivating takes 6 1/2 minutes per acre and one-half gallon of fuel per acre. Total cost per acre is 9.02.

SPITZLE NOTED that the reduced and minimum tillage systems were comparable in per acre cost, but the conventional system was much more expensive.

Glassmeyer said he has been using the minimum tillage system for about seven years and has found it to be quite acceptable.

Dispelling a myth about eliminating the plowing each fall or spring, he noted that his land appears to have become more mellow and has not compacted as many believe.

He has not experienced any additional insect or weed problems, and has not needed to shred his stalks. His grain is harvested in the fall, and the ground is not worked until his minimum tillage program starts in the spring.

GLASSMEYER ALSO uses a heavy duty cultivator which reduces the number of weeds, and applies anhydrous ammonia prior to planting.

Despite the numerous advantages of cost reductions and fuel savings, there are some drawbacks with the system, Spitzle explained.

First of all, the equipment for minimum tillage is costly. Also, he said, patience is needed in learning the new management system. Experiments at the University of Nebraska in yield results have shown varying figures. Yields have tended to be slightly lower in wet years, and slightly higher in dry years.

CERTAIN TYPES of soils (like heavy types found in Minnesota) are not practical for the conservation tillage system, Spitzle said.

But advantages continue to outweigh the disadvantages, he said, especially in the use of fuel.

For example, the ag agent provided the following fuel use table:

Plowing	7.3 gallons/acre
Discing	2.3 gallons/acre
Cultivating	4.5 gallons/acre
Planting	4.5 gallons/acre

Discing	7.3 gallons/acre
Cultivating	4.5 gallons/acre
Planting	4.5 gallons/acre

YET ANOTHER ASPECT of reduced tillage farming is the savings in soil erosion, Spitzle pointed out.

Arnold Murre, a member of the Soil Conservation Service here, indicated that not more than five tons of soil should be lost to erosion each year. That is based on SCS standards.

SOIL ON THE Glassmeyer farm is considered Moody silty clay loam and produces an average of 100 bushels per acre Livestock is fed half of the stalks.

Based on a 4 percent slope such as on the Glassmeyer farm, conventional tillage results in a loss of 12 tons a year, conservation tillage four tons and conservation tillage with contour planting two tons annually.

BASED ON A slope of 8 to 10 percent and Moody Class III soil (of which there is considerable in the county), soil erosion is estimated at 33 tons for conventional tillage, 13 tons for conservation tillage and six tons per year for minimum tillage with contour planting.

By examining these figures, it again becomes obvious that minimum tillage with contour planting is the best method of corn and soybean management, Spitzle explained.

Hearings Involve Allen Principal In Dixon Court Wednesday

Two hearings are scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday in Dixon County District Court involving the March firing of Allen Consolidated School District Principal Dale Kennedy.

KENNEDY WAS fired by unanimous vote of the Allen School Board after returning from executive session March 12. The closed session followed a lengthy public hearing at which testimony was given against and in his behalf.

Within a few weeks of the hearing, attorneys for Kennedy filed a notice of appeal in District Court. The hearings Wednesday are the first court proceedings in the appeal process.

DISTRICT JUDGE Francis J. Kneiff is expected to rule on a motion by the board of education asking that certain information in the appeal petition be removed, and that the petition be made more definite concerning the alleged unlawful procedure.

The petition of intervention, filed by the Allen Education Association, seeks that certain information not be allowed as evidence. The AEA maintains that among documents admitted into evidence during the hearing were the personal files of some Allen teachers.

This, the petition says, is in violation of state statutes regarding right to privacy.

THE MARCH 12 hearing was requested by Kennedy after the board voted in December to give him notice there might be just cause not to renew his contract.

The principal was charged with four separate items as follows:
— Failure to cooperate with school and law enforcement officials in the theft of two telephones and one public address system from the school.
— Not working in harmony with the faculty and superintendent.
— Failure to inform the school board of the cost of repairing a school bus.
— Insubordination.

VARIOUS FACULTY members testified against Kennedy, citing what they considered to be examples of his ineffectiveness. Some related examples of alleged unruly students in his office, poor rapport with school faculty, and instances of non-discipline among students.

Probably the major complaint against

Kennedy involved repairs to a bus and the apparent theft by unknown parties of phone and public address equipment from the school.

According to Supt. Robert Heckathorn and Dixon County Sheriff Dean Chase at the hearing, Kennedy was aware of persons in the building at the time of the theft of the phones and the address system.

HOWEVER, THE TWO said Kennedy refused at first to say who the persons were and later even denied knowing of the situation.

Kennedy did say, however, that he gave names of students he thought might have been in the building to Superintendent Heckathorn, a charge the superintendent denied.

Sheriff Chase recommended to the Dixon County attorney that charges of withholding evidence and providing false information be filed against Kennedy because of the matter. Nothing was ever filed.

THE BUS REPAIR charge apparently resulted from unauthorized repair of a school district bus that later was sold through a bidding process.

Dear Editor:
Who is George Emmons? Not a teacher, I bet! Hey, George, let's save big bucks. Let's stop all of this government spending. Let's get rid of state senators. I'm sure the governor would step in and do the senators' job.

Oh, heck, George, maybe you're right. We could combine all kinds of positions in the government to save money. Let's have the President of the United States act as the political ambassador or military attaché for each country. I'm sure other countries could care less if they don't get a good deal. Maybe we could get rid of the whole White House staff. Heck, the President can do their job!

Based on your logic, I'm sure you could save all kinds of money by teaching those classes in Allen yourself. Students don't want a teacher in the classroom who knows absolutely nothing about what he is talking about.

George, have you forgotten each class is different? Classes are not just one entity. A speech teacher is not an English teacher. Some teachers have had communication arts; therefore, they can teach specific subjects in the speech department. Not all English teachers should teach speech.

According to your logic, why not have the P.E. teacher teach English? The English subject has little to do with impromptu and extemporaneous speaking. One may have the best grammar background in the world, yet not be able to communicate. Let's not try to jam 10 subjects and 15 different divisions into one.

I have little to do with Allen, but I do know about students and how they feel when they get a teacher that doesn't know the subject they are teaching. In fact, George, I'm sure that there are other people that care about the education of their children as well.

Teachers are more than just people who watch children at play. Believe it or not, George, they are specialists in their specific subject area — speech, English or math. Let's not put the burden of several classes on one teacher, and then complain about the education our children are getting.

You can vote any way you want to on the lid bill, but don't use examples such as combining teacher's classes and cutting out the time they prepare for class as areas where a cut is necessary. Would you really want a teacher who is not informed about the subject he is teaching and doesn't have any time to prepare for classes to give lectures on a subject that he knows nothing about?

Just a note to say that, "As for we and our neighbors, we shall just turn at Highway 15 and go north to Laurel to shop, if the city sales tax is passed."

The Wayne people have already denied us a good road north of Wayne because of certain influential people and the "fabulous" golf course which only the rich can afford. The road north to Laurel is great. We have always divided our shopping between the two towns, but after the 13th of May, we will go only one direction, depending on the vote.

Dear Editor:
The board of directors of the Wayne Regional Arts Council thanks all who attended and participated in the Spring Arts Festival.

We are very proud of the various arts and crafts that were displayed and presented, and hope that other regional artists will be encouraged to participate in the next Spring Festival. Such an event could not have been organized without the help of the many volunteers who provided the manpower in setting up and later putting away all of the materials needed. We are very grateful to those people, too numerous to name.

A particular thank-you to the Wayne Eagles Auxiliary for their participation, and to the "Klick and Klatter" and the "We Few" Extension Clubs for their displays and demonstrations.

Several members of the Wayne business community provided materials in the final week, and were not acknowledged in the program. We thank Rich's Super Foods, Morris Machine Shop, Wayne Greenhouse, Columbus Federal Savings and Loan and the State National Bank and Trust Company. The generous public information provided by The Wayne Herald and KTCH is much appreciated as well.

We feel the Spring Arts Festival represents the various communities, organizations, students and individuals within our region, and would not be successful if it did not also represent the local talents. Many additional activities are planned by the arts council, all of which will be geared to meet the interests of the region.

Open letter to the voters of Allen Consolidated School District No. 70 and 70 A:
In response to several questions, we feel we should write this letter as a matter of information to the people of this school district.

The first question asked by many is What is a Tax Lid?

Answer: It is a restriction put on a governing body stating they cannot raise taxes except to pay interest on bonded indebtedness, nor can they register warrants and pay interest on them.

Question: How long does the tax lid last?

Answer: Indefinitely.
Question: Who benefits from the tax lid? The taxpayer!!! The school!!! The teacher!!! The student!!!

Consider the taxpayer or property owner. His taxes will not go up, but how long will they stay stable? One year, maybe, two years at the most. Then one of two things will happen, either conditions will get so bad the lid will be voted out, but by then the district will be in such poor shape, taxes will have to be raised considerably to get the school on its feet again or the school will close. We will have to consolidate with a neighboring district. We now have the lowest mill levy in the area. We will have no control over taxes if we go into another district. Will the property owner really gain?

Consider the school. It will have a hard time operating with 18 percent inflation. If you need further proof of this, ask any school board member or read the statement in last week's paper. Will the school benefit?

How about the teachers? Will they continue to teach for the same wage year after year? Will we be able to hire good teachers? If you have any doubt as to whether a tax lid will affect teachers ask anyone associated with education in Nebraska City where they now have a tax lid. Will the teachers benefit?

The students. Will they benefit? No way. The tax lid causes emotional stress and unrest among students. It lowers the quality of education, makes entrance into college more difficult, limits the number of classes they can take, limits opportunities to participate in extracurricular activities, limits special programs. As you can note, we have come up with more negative results for the student.

In summarizing this, we feel the tax lid will not do any harm to Mr. Heckathorn or any member of the faculty. They can move, or the school board their term of office runs out in 4 years. The one we care for the most will suffer the most — the student.

We have reached the conclusion that the tax lid really benefits, NO ONE. So why have one?????

Dear Editor:
First of all, I would like to commend those students of the Allen Consolidated School who took time and cared enough about their school to express their opinions and concerns in letters to the editor. I am proud of you and of all the students in the Allen school system.

I would like to relate to you an experience I recently had with my senior and junior high students during a Sunday School class in Allen. Our lesson was titled "What Color is Faith?" In the lesson were three cases which would involve a decision in Faith. The students were asked to read the cases, discuss them and decide what they would do if they were in that particular situation. The following is a synopsis of the cases and the conclusions the students came to.

1) School A's science lab is vandalized beyond repair. The students have no place to do their science experiments. A nearby school (B) has a science lab available. School A's principal calls School B's principal to see if the science students can use the lab. School B's principal said, "No!" He thought his school's science lab might be vandalized.

The students' conclusion: They agreed unanimously with the principal from School B. The reason, not only might the lab be vandalized, but the principal might lose his job for allowing a situation where damage to school property is done.

2) The president of the school class is using the class funds for his own purpose. The class treasurer knows about it, but allows it to go on because she wants to be liked by the president.

The students' conclusion: They unanimously agreed that their responsibility as class treasurer would be to the entire class. They would report the incident to the class sponsor and try to help the president.

3) A new girl moves into town. She is told by her new classmates that the only way she will be accepted is to smoke "pot." She refuses, and has no dates or friends.

The students' conclusion: They admired the girl for standing up for her own convictions instead of following the crowd, but agreed she should get involved with a church youth group and try to help her classmates see that smoking pot wasn't the answer.

The three cases involve decisions to live by Faith. These senior and junior high students could make that decision of Faith in the second and third cases, but just couldn't bring themselves to that kind of decision where it involved a school. How much of their conclusion in case number 1 is OUR doing? Have we handled the situation at the Allen School in OUR decision of Faith, or have we become so involved with what WE (want) that Faith no longer exists?

From my parents and others who lived during the Depression, I've heard that things were really TOUGH! There were taxes, and school districts, and a lot of Faith. But there wasn't a tax lid law. They made it through the tough times. Many of us received an excellent education during those times and fondly remember our school years. Will the students at Allen today be able to say that same thing in 20 years? I pray to God they will be able to.

On the May 13 ballot, the lid proposal is not the only item to be voted upon. There will be 15 names, of which the voters of School District 70 70A (Allen Consolidated School), will ultimately select six names to go on the ballot in November as prospective school board members.

If you have become disenchanted with the school board and the administration, THEN make the change by electing new board members, and allow those three elected in November the opportunity to see what they can do. It's an act of Faith!

I hope and pray that every voter of the Allen School District will, in the week to come, evaluate and re evaluate the lid proposal and the 15 candidates for the school board. And I sincerely hope that each voter will pray to God for guidance to make the right decision before casting their ballot on May 13.

What color is YOUR Faith? It's your decision.

The "experts" remind us all never to use these words in a relationship: I told you so. Those words provide for added anxiety, tend not to be tactful and can lead to feelings of ill will, psychologists maintain. But I can't pass it by, this time.

Here follows the explanation:
What I have heard most from leaders of our community is this: don't be so negative. Avoid controversy, they said, it's bad for the community. Don't print the bad news.

The current economic conditions here and across the country bring these "requests" to mind. I recall a story written by the pied typer for the Nov. 1 issue of The Herald.

At the time, the nation was feeling what I thought was a serious credit crunch. Interest rates were nearing — and getting there — about 14 to 15 percent and lending institutions were pulling in their horns.

Taking to heart the media's obligation to keep the public informed, The Herald interviewed local bankers and savings and loan association people. They said what the "big boys" in the cities were saying: there is a credit problem, interest rates are high and finances are tight.

Well, we printed the story and gave it prominent placement on the front page. We, too, were concerned with the financial picture and felt the public should know so it could make the necessary adjustments.

Because of that article, The Wayne Herald lost one of its major advertising accounts. It has not returned. The reason? The article was too negative and irresponsible, the advertiser felt. He had been a resident here nearly all his life, and he was better able to judge the mood of the people here than a newcomer like myself.

Those quoted in the story claimed they were misquoted and hadn't really said all that bad stuff at all. They were getting fed back from their customers.

We were personally raked across the coals by some of our leading businessmen because they felt the article was too negative. It really wasn't that bad, they said.

Now here comes the "I told you so" part. The bankers and S & L people apparently were prognosticators and were not aware of their soothsayer abilities. Because we now know they were just scratching the surface in their estimates of the situation.

Looking back, the story was 100 percent accurate. As we now know, the interest rates are nearly 20 percent, money is scarce, some loans have been denied because of a money shortage, and some of our larger companies here have had to cut personnel.

I told you so.
We don't make the news, the media cliché says. We just print it. It's a time worn adage, but how true it is.

Now another bit of "bad news" if you will. A prediction of sorts.

The city, too, is having its share of money woes. Inflation is eating away at its budget, their electric fund reserve (used for many years to keep the city solvent) is nearly gone and the 7 percent lid limitation is icing on the cake.

The City Council and Mayor Wayne Marsh, along with city officials, have banded their heads together seeking an equitable solution. Their alternatives are scarce: ask the voters to impose a city sales tax or reduce services and programs.

We are endorsing the city sales tax because we feel it is the only logical and long term solution to the problem. Cutting back on various areas of the budget certainly is a possibility, but which program gets cut first and how much? And what about next year? After another 12 months of unabated inflation, more cuts need to be made. Where then?

What we are saying is this. Yes, the news isn't good. The city has a problem and is asking you, the voter, to lend a helping hand. There is a problem and talk that it will go away on its own, or that the city is trying to pull the wool over your eyes is a weak and short-sighted excuse for being against the sales tax.

I'm also convinced that those people against it will refuse to look at the facts and will refuse to be understanding. They are against the sales tax and no matter what facts are laid before them, they will refuse to even consider a change of heart.

What has disturbed me most, however, is a total mistrust for the Wayne city government. This is what I hear: Why don't they (the city) be honest with us? Why don't they tell us the truth and lay it on the line?

Through The Wayne Herald and the local radio station, the city has kept the public informed. The Herald has carried more than a half dozen stories on the city's financial crunch, the sales tax proposal, and the proposal's intricacies. There are no excuses for not understanding what the problems and solutions are.

The mistrust of local government is baffling. I've asked several veterans of city affairs and none has ever known the city to be misleading.

We ask that residents use common sense and understanding. Base your decisions on facts, not personalities. Wayne is a well-respected community across the state. Shall we keep it that way?

Wayne Taxpayers Need to Understand

Mayor Wayne Marsh, a credible and conscientious public official, said it best recently when he told taxpayers he was concerned about the city's financial future.

The Mayor said that if certain things don't happen, Wayne will not be able to continue the services and programs enjoyed by residents today.

The financial situation in our city for the coming year is bleak. Officials anticipate a deficit of about $185,000 for fiscal year 1980-81. What is the solution? Mayor Marsh and the City Council have concluded that a one-cent sales tax is the only viable alternative available.

Unless drastic cuts are made in the budget or the sales tax proposal is approved, the city will be broke next year as a result of several unpredictable circumstances.

As recently as just a few years ago, the city's financial status was healthy with an annual surplus of about $350,000. The electric fund was generating adequate revenue to pay for its own operations and at the same time subsidize other less profitable entities of the city.

The reserve was used to buy a new tire truck, pay for construction of the transfer station, purchase the railroad right-of-way, allow for investments in electrical equipment, some sewer projects, etc. It was not spent foolishly.

By relying on the electric fund reserve, an increase in taxes was avoided. Had the electric fund not been generating a substantial surplus, the city's taxes would have been increased to meet the costs of the additional expenses.

But a peculiar and unanticipated situation arose that has caused the city and many other cities to stumble a bit in their quest to maintain a quality standard of living for its residents — the nation's economy began to get out of hand.

We all are aware that inflation raced upward, the nation's productivity declined, the value of the dollar fell and most of us faced unwanted financial woes. But municipalities also have been caught in the choking grasp of inflation.

Like everyone else, the city has been forced to lighten its belt. Purchases of new equipment have been delayed until the last possible moment. The city has been cautious in spending its money, and is running about 42 percent behind its normal amount of expenditures to date. With warm weather activities near, that figure will change rapidly.

For example, a combination tractor-park vacuum seen used this spring in reality is saving the city considerable dollars.

The vacuum also serves as a mower, thus eliminating the additional purchase of a mower. The combination vacuum-mower does a much improved job and provides residents with a neat, clean environment.

The new equipment also is more efficient than the previous system, since mowing of parks is now done in three days rather than in eight days as before.

In addition to cleaning the parks, the equipment is used to mow weeds and grass at the city lagoon and along the railroad right of way.

The tractor, which replaced a worn out model bought nearly eight years ago, is used in several different departments, thus eliminating the need for additional tractors. Efficiency has been and will continue to be a major consideration in buying new items.

Another factor affecting the city's finances is the state imposed 7 percent lid limit. With the city caught in a financial bind, the lid limit was imposed, preventing the city from increasing its tax askings more than 7 percent of the previous year's requests.

So, as inflation continues unabated at 15 to 18 percent, the city is limited to increasing its income to just 7 percent. Inequitable, but a fact.

The dwindled reserve account, the lid bill and inflation have placed the city in a precarious financial position. The upcoming deficit is a reality, while the means of offsetting that deficit are few.

The sales tax, if approved, would generate about $300,000 the first year and would be subject to the 7 percent lid limitation in following years. Any reserve is used to begin the next fiscal year's business.

Any good businessman knows that a surplus is used to carry a business until the accounts receivable are collected. The same goes for the city. It prefers to maintain a surplus since tax revenues usually are received in June and October.

Mayor Marsh has stressed that financial problems will be realized if something is not done now. The help and understanding of every citizen is needed.

We ask that each and every taxpayer look at the facts, look toward the future of their city and decide what is best for not only themselves but for the community. We ask that you vote "for" the sales tax proposal Dan Field, Editor.

Wisdom of Big Brother, II

Richard L. Leshner, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Who says bureaucrats can't make things happen? Just before the President presented his latest anti-inflation plan (I keep forgetting, is this his fourth or fifth?), the entire federal bureaucracy erupted in frenzied activity.

Fearing an imminent hiring freeze, waves of agency heads began to scramble, trying to fill all the empty slots in their departments. At the Department of Justice, for example, workers reported their superiors had put aside all their normal activities to concentrate on hiring new employees.

Surveying this explosion of patriotic anti-inflationary spirit, one government person not officer remarked with indifference: "It's a normal bureaucratic action in a situation like this."

Fun, frolic and fraud in fat city

UPI reporter Don Lambro knows a thing or two about waste in government. In 1975, he catalogued many of his horror stories in a book, "The Federal Rathole." The book stirred up such a storm, and was so popular, that Lambro was soon asked to research and write another.

His latest work is titled "Fat City: How Washington Wastes Your Taxes." Lambro says: "Things are a lot worse than I thought." He estimates that government loses up to $50 billion a year on fraud, abuse and mismanagement and wastes another $50 billion on nonessential programs.

In a chapter entitled "Butting the Government," Lambro looks into Mr. Carter's claim to have abolished 760 federal agencies. He finds only a dozen agencies of little significance or cost have been eliminated. All the rest have been merged with and hidden inside larger programs and continue to function.

Latest bulletin
from the Energy Front

The Department of Energy, which has been blasted by the House Operations Committee for its "abysmal record in saving energy," remains undaunted. It has requested a 17 percent increase in its travel budget, presumably so it can travel to more places and give more speeches on the need for more Americans to conserve more energy — by traveling less.

Question: If the government wants to do away with Saturday mail delivery, how can it justify its proposal to increase the cost of postage stamps to 20 cents?

Answer: To pay the storage charges.
Question: But isn't there any way to straighten out the postal service?

AFTER several weeks of dirt moving and excavating, work was begun last week on the new high school for Madison. Over 100 yards of concrete were poured for footings that will bear the weight of the building, in preparation for the erection of the walls. ## Longtime Resident Director Leaving

By Joan Kozisek
Wayne State College
Journalism Student

Mrs. Geneva Beckner, better known around the Wayne State College campus as Mrs. B ("Some students do not even know I have a last name"), left her post as resident director of Anderson Hall this year.

Mrs. B has been associated with Wayne State since 1963, when she became Berry Hall's resident director. After 11 years there, she decided to move to Anderson Hall because she "just wanted to work with girls for a change." "I still have a special feeling for Berry Hall," she adds.

Mrs. B still corresponds with students who were resident assistants under her. "This means so much because it makes you feel that what you did was really worthwhile," she says, adding that she believes that her 17 years as a resident director at Wayne State is a record.

Mrs. B is a familiar face in Wayne after having lived here all her married life with husband Merle, a maintenance mechanic for Wayne State. Prior to her work at the college, she was employed at the Ben Franklin Store in Wayne for 10 years.

The position of resident director was offered to her by then President Brandenburg and Dean of Students Don Merriman. She gladly accepted the job and made it her career. She never took any classes because "I wanted to be available at all times."

After she retires, Mrs. B plans to spend time with her family. "All I want to be now is a wife, mother and grandmother, in that order. We have one son in Tennessee, and we will be able to visit him more now. I just want to do my own thing," she says.

Mrs. B said the thing she will miss most is "all the friendships I have made in the past years." She feels that she has been very fortunate as far as discipline is concerned. "I know the 'Anderson Angels' are not really angels, but I have had no real problems in the past three years," she smiles.

She said that those in authority must trust students if they want cooperation. "The main thing students must understand is that we are not here to spy or to discipline, instead, we are here to make them responsible for themselves. We also are here for security. It is comforting to have someone to talk to if you need it," she says.

The resident director says that she is leaving her post with a good feeling. "I would have missed something in my life if I had not experienced this. I have thoroughly enjoyed it and it has changed my life."

"I hope students' lives have changed for the better too," she adds.

MRS. GENEVA BECKNER, resident director at Anderson Hall on the Wayne State College campus, retired this year after being associated with Wayne State since 1963. The women of Anderson Hall showed their appreciation to Mrs. Beckner during a tea recently, where they presented her with a plaque.

Newlyweds Travel to Colorado Following April Wedding Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Meyer, who were married April 19 at St. Bonaventure Church in Ravenna, traveled to Colorado following their wedding ceremony and are making their first home at Wayne.

The bride, nee Barbara Reestman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reestman of Oakdale. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Meyer of Wayne. The Rev. James McCluskey of Ravella officiated at the couple's double ring ceremony. Bouquets of light blue carnations, mums and ferns decorated the church altar.

Nancy Baum of Wayne sang "For Bobbie," "With You," "Walk Hand in Hand," "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Shirley Meis of Elgin.

Ushers were Gary and Mark Reestman of Oakdale, brothers of the bride, and Ken Daniels and Brent Petersen, both of Wayne. The guests were registered by Doris Meyer of Wayne.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of rosepoint lace and nylon tulle over off-white satin. The floor length fashion was designed with a sweetheart neckline, long tapered sleeves, a full gathered skirt with a scalloped pointed pleum of lace over tulle, and tiny covered buttons down the back. Her two-tiered illusion net veil was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls, and she carried white roses, miniature blue carnations, forget me nots and baby's breath with blue streamers.

The bride's honor attendant was Karen Reestman of Wayne, and bridesmaids were her sister, Sue Reestman of Norfolk, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Linda Atkins of Nebraska City.

The maid of honor wore a long, azure blue dress of delustré fashioned with a scoop neckline and blouson bodice with small bows at each shoulder. The bridesmaids were styled in identical light blue gowns. They wore sprays of forget me nots and baby's breath in their hair and carried a single white silk rose accented with baby's breath and blue streamers.

Terry Meyer of Wayne served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were another brother, Jim Meyer of Fort Calhoun, and the bride's brother, Ken Reestman of Elgin.

The bridegroom was attired in a white tuxedo jacket trimmed in black, with black trousers and a white shirt. His attendants wore light blue shirts with black trousers and white jackets. Each wore a rose boutonniere.

The bride's mother wore a blue floor length dress of silk, and the bridegroom's mother chose a beige polyester dress, also in floor length. Both wore corsages of white roses and blue miniature carnations.

A reception was held at the Ravenna Hall following the 3 o'clock wedding ceremony. The 200 guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henn of Elgin and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Daniels of Wayne. Gifts were arranged by Barb Temme and Janet Eggerling, both of Norfolk, and Janet Zwingman of Kearney.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Betty Temme of Petersburg and Eleanor Rauss of Wakefield. Punch servers were Dorothy Henn of Wayne and Mary Eggerling of Lincoln.

Waitresses were Gayann Henn, Julie and Carole Schrage, Janice and Karen Beckman and Delores and Lorraine Starman, all of Elgin, and Mona and Julie Eggerling of Norfolk.

The bride was graduated from Elgin High School in 1974 and from Wayne State College in 1978. She is employed as an accountant at Wayne State. Her fiancé, a 1974 graduate of Wayne Carroll High School and a 1978 graduate of Wayne State, is employed at Automatic Equipment Co in Ravenna.

City Administrator Says City Sales Tax To Benefit Elderly

The Wayne Senior Citizens Center could be one of the first programs in Wayne to suffer if the proposed city sales tax fails to gain support by the voters on May 13, according to Wayne City Administrator Darrell Brewington.

Brewington spoke last week to a crowd of nearly 30 persons at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center, where he explained the need for a local city sales tax and told about possible cuts that would have to be made in the city budget should the proposal be defeated.

"The departments that will suffer most could include the Senior Citizens Center," said Brewington, who added that the purpose of the Senior Center is to provide programs and services to help keep elderly persons in their homes rather than placing them in area nursing homes at the cost of the county and state.

Brewington also pointed out that the local mini-bus, which is funded by a grant of Wayne through a city from the Nebraska Department of Roads, is the only local means of transportation for many of the city's elderly.

Mrs. Bull also expressed concern about the proposed sales tax, saying she believes it is fair and necessary taxation.

Mrs. Bull emphasized that the mayor and city council have pledged to reduce the portion of property taxes paid to the city by 40 percent if the sales tax referendum passes. She added that the seven percent annual increase in property tax, which is allowed under the lid bill, will not be added on.

How will property owners benefit under the one percent city sales tax?

According to Brewington, an average family of four will save more money with a 40 percent deduction of city property tax than they will pay out in a year for a one-cent sales tax.

Mrs. Bull said the proposed tax would be fairer to local senior citizens who are on fixed incomes and own their own homes.

Voters will go to the polls on May 13 to decide the fate of the controversial tax.

National Metric Week May 5-9

Many Americans are beginning to take measures to improve their diets by cutting down on fats, cholesterol, sugar and sodium. The dietary guidelines released recently by the federal government say these and other changes can help healthy persons stay healthy.

How can you make your diet measure up? "Thinking metric can help," says Dr. Mike Humphrey, metric coordinator for USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service (FSQS). "Knowing how to use the metric measures on nutrition labels can help you make positive and informed dietary choices."

Dr. Humphrey urges Americans to begin thinking metric during National Metric Week, May 5-9.

Metric measures are used on nutrition labels to identify amounts of some important nutrients. Humphrey said the conventional "ounce" unit is too large to conveniently express these small quantities.

Although FSQS does not presently require nutrition labeling for federally inspected meat and poultry products, many manufacturers voluntarily provide it.

When nutrition labels are displayed on meat and poultry products, they must include: serving size (expressed in cups, ounces, slices, etc.); number of calories per serving; and grams (g) of protein, carbohydrate and fat per serving. Other information may be included, such as percentages of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA) of certain vitamins and minerals, grams of saturated and unsaturated fats and milligrams (mg) of cholesterol and sodium.

What is a gram? Its weight has been likened to that of a paper clip, or a small blueberry or raisin. A milligram is one one-thousandth of that.

In terms of meat and poultry products, it may be helpful to know the metric weights of various items: a typical hotdog weighs 45 grams; one slice of prepackaged bologna weighs in at 28; a one cup serving of chicken fricassee is about 240 grams.

"You don't need to be a mathematician to take a calculator to the supermarket to make metric measures work for you," Humphrey said.

For example, if you want to limit amounts of fats, cholesterol and sugar in your diet, think in terms of how large a role these nutrients play in the total calories per serving of a nutritionally labeled meat or poultry product.

One gram of fat provides 9 calories. If a product provides 100 calories per serving and has 3 grams of fat, 27 calories — more than one-fourth — of that product's total calories is devoted to fat.

At 4 calories per gram, "carbohydrates" on the nutrition label refers both to sugars and starches. Cutting down on sugar means cutting down on "simple" carbohydrates rather than the starchy "complex" ones (foods containing complex carbohydrates, such as beans, nuts and vegetables, provide many essential nutrients in addition to calories). To determine if a food is high in sugar, look for names such as sucrose, glucose, maltose, dextrose, lactose and fructose in the ingredient statement, and not where they appear — ingredients are listed from most to least.

Protein also provides 4 calories for each gram. To find high-protein meat and poultry products with lower fat, you can compare calories per serving of these nutrients.

If you're watching your intake of cholesterol or sodium — neither of which adds calories — look for nutrition labels that list their amounts. The easiest way to use these metric measures is to look for the lowest numbers. For example, if several brands of luncheon meat provide the same number of calories per serving, you may want to choose a product with fewer milligrams of cholesterol, or sodium or both.

Nutrition-conscious consumers can never know too much about how to make healthful food choices. "Metrics has always been a part of nutrition labeling. During National Metric Week, try using metrics in planning your diet," Humphrey said.

day's district tournament at Wayne State, carry the trophy with them across the finish line.

Gals Claim Husker Title, Boys Finish Close Second

If the medals awarded at the West Husker Track and Field meet, Friday were made of solid gold, Wayne's track teams would be mighty rich.

There was quite a sense of accomplishment at the end of the day when Wayne's girls were presented the first place trophy and Wayne's boys were awarded the second place trophy.

The girls simply pulled away from the field in their division, outscoring runnerup Columbus Lakeview by 65 points. In the boys' division, Wayne overcame a tremendous deficit in the field events to place second behind Wisner-Pilger.

The winning Gators racked up 92 points in the field events compared to only one for the Blue Devils. Wayne turned in a superb effort in the running events to pull into second place for the day.

Success beamed off the Wayne High coaches' faces like light off a mirror following the trophy presentations. Coaches Darrel Heier and Deb Bodenstedt handed out the individual medals amid applause after the team returned from a victory lap.

"The girls have been working hard and it's paying off. We have to be pleased," said Heier. "The gals just did a really good job."

Bodenstedt pointed out that personal goals had been set and the girls met them. Nearly every time was an improvement from earlier performances. She added that she was especially pleased with Wayne's performance in the shot put.

Boys' coach Al Hansen was just as pleased with his team. "We really performed well today. I'm really satisfied with second place," he said. "Wisner is real strong in the field events and we couldn't quite catch them." Assistant coach Byron Heier agreed.

The ideal weather played an important role in the fast times. Thirteen West Husker records were set during the day. Wayne girls set five and Wayne boys set three.

Lisa Peters ran the 800 meters in 2:24.8 and broke the 60 second barrier in the 400 meter dash with a time of :59.6 to set two new records.

Lynn Surber set a conference record with a time of 5:39.9 in the 1,600 meter run. She also won the 3,200 meter run, although not in record time.

Jolene Bennett set a record of 113 feet, two inches in the discus. The other record set by Wayne girls was the 3,200 meter relay time of 10:13.7. That event is new this year. Missy Stollenberg was the other leading individual for the host team. The freshman sprinter won the 100 meter dash in 12.7 seconds and the 200 meter dash in 26.8 seconds. She also placed second behind Peters in the 400 meter dash and second in the 100 meter low hurdles.

Tracy Stollenberg, who was competing in the high jump, didn't want to use up her energy so she made only one attempt in the long jump. Her first and only jump was 15 feet, two inches, giving her first place by three inches. She also placed third in the high jump.

Wayne finished second, third and sixth in the shot put behind the performances of freshmen Jo Carlson, Kelly Bartholomew and senior Bennett respectively.

Other top individual performances were turned in by Jill Mosley, second in the long jump; Jill Zeiss, fourth in the 100-meter low hurdles; and Julie Wiener, fourth in the 800 meter run. The 400 meter relay team placed second.

Wayne's girls are scheduled to compete in the Class B 4 districts at Wayne State College, Thursday.

The Wayne boys turned in their best team performance of the season, breaking four school records and three conference records.

Kurt Powers sparked the Blue Devils by setting records in the 800 meter run (2:02.0) and the 400 meter dash (:50.7). The 3,200 meter relay team won its event in 8:19.7 to set the other West Husker record.

Doug Proett ran the mile in 4:45.3 for a new school record and a third place medal. Powers placed fourth in that event.

Rick Johnson won the 300 meter intermediate hurdles in 42.3. Eric Brink placed fifth and Stuart Nissen sixth.

Other time performances were: Todd Heier, second in the 800 meters and fourth in the 400 meter dash; Marvin Hansen, second in the 110 meter high hurdles; Jeff Baier, fifth in the 800 meters; Mark Kubik, sixth in the pole vault; Doug Proett, third in the 3,200 meter run; Jeff Allen, fourth in the 100 meter dash; third in the 200 meter dash; Al Lind say, fifth in the 200 meter dash.

Wayne placed second in the 1,600 meter relay and third in the 400 meter relay to complete the scoring.

Lincoln Teams Learn Costly Lesson From Small Town Boys

There's an old saying that "the bigger they are the harder they fall". Class B baseball teams Wayne and Wakefield brought that saying to life as they swept doubleheaders from Lincoln High and Lincoln East, Friday afternoon.

Undeclared Wakefield stopped Lincoln 4-3 and Lincoln East 5-3. Wayne handled Lincoln East 7-6 and Lincoln High 5-4. Both doubleheaders were played in Northeast Nebraska with the Lincoln schools traveling from one town to the other.

The victories gave Northeast Nebraska teams a combined 6-0 record against non-conference foes. Wayne swept a doubleheader from Boys Town last Monday.

Wakefield 4, Lincoln 3. Blaine Nelson drove in two runs with a base hit to lead the Trojans to a come-from-behind 4-3 win over Lincoln High in Wakefield.

The Links scored the first run in the top of the third inning and added two more in the fourth. Wakefield put an end to the shutout with one run in the bottom of the fourth. Three runs in the bottom of the fifth was the deciding factor in the game.

Sophomore Mark Starzl pitched 6 2/3 innings and limited Lincoln to five hits and three runs. He also struckout 10 batters while running his record to 4-0. Coach Joe Coble said he was "real pleased with the job Starzl did."

Rick Guy retired the final batter on a strikeout with runners on second and third bases to earn the save.

Scott Hallstrom collected two of Wakefield's five hits in the game.

Wakefield 5, East 3. The Trojans struck early in the second half of their doubleheader and held on for a 5-3 win over Lincoln East.

"Our goal was to sweep the Lincoln teams and we accomplished our goal. The team showed good defense in both games as well as good pitching," Wakefield coach Joe Coble said. "We juggled our lineup and came through with a good team effort."

Wakefield jumped out in front 4-0 with two runs in each of the first two innings. East rallied to score three runs in the final four innings but the Trojan defense stayed the rally short.

Rick Guy fired a four hitter over the seven innings and allowed only one earned run. He helped himself by rapping a two-run double in the first inning. Guy's record is now 5-0.

The Trojans were blessed with a fine performance from Bill Warren, who collected three hits to drive three appearances. "He swung his bat real hard," Coble said. The Wakefield coach also praised Dale Phipps who made one hit and scored one run.

Other leading batters were Tom Preston and Mark Starzl with two hits each. Wakefield is scheduled to host Wayne at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Wakefield city ball park. The game was originally scheduled at 4 p.m. but is being moved up one hour to allow for a reserve game.

Wakefield ran its season record to 9-0 with the two wins.

Lincoln East scored three runs on three hits in the top of the second inning but Wayne gained the lead with five runs in the bottom of the inning.

Jere Morris, Tim Thomas and Jeff Sperry walked to load the bases. Singles by Zeiss, Kevin Nissen and Tim Pfeiffer drove in four of the five runs. A walk issued to Pat McCright brought in the other run.

McCright drove home Thomas in the third inning but the 6-3 lead didn't last long. East scored three runs in the fourth to tie the game.

The winning run was scored when Dan Mitchell lined a single to score McCright in the top of the sixth. The final seven Lincoln East batters flied out to left and center fields to end the game.

After 10 games, Kevin Nissen is leading the team in hitting with a .355 batting average. Tim Pfeiffer is batting .333. Jeff Zeiss is hitting .322 and Pat McCright is averaging .290.

Wayne 5, East 3. The Trojans struck early in the second half of their doubleheader and held on for a 5-3 win over Lincoln East.

"Our goal was to sweep the Lincoln teams and we accomplished our goal. The team showed good defense in both games as well as good pitching," Wakefield coach Joe Coble said. "We juggled our lineup and came through with a good team effort."

Wakefield jumped out in front 4-0 with two runs in each of the first two innings. East rallied to score three runs in the final four innings but the Trojan defense stayed the rally short.

Rick Guy fired a four hitter over the seven innings and allowed only one earned run. He helped himself by rapping a two-run double in the first inning. Guy's record is now 5-0.

The Trojans were blessed with a fine performance from Bill Warren, who collected three hits to drive three appearances. "He swung his bat real hard," Coble said. The Wakefield coach also praised Dale Phipps who made one hit and scored one run.

Other leading batters were Tom Preston and Mark Starzl with two hits each. Wakefield is scheduled to host Wayne at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Wakefield city ball park. The game was originally scheduled at 4 p.m. but is being moved up one hour to allow for a reserve game.

Wakefield ran its season record to 9-0 with the two wins.

Wakefield Girls Win L & C Tourney

IT'S UP and over for Winside's Randy Ritze in the high jump at the Lewis and Clark Tournament Thursday. Ritze cleared 6-1 to set a new school record and placed second to Marlin Pappenhausen of Coleridge. Ritze was leading the competition with fewest misses until he attempted to clear 6-2 and failed.

The Wakefield Trojans, led by sprinter Kelly Murphy, climbed to the top of the ladder again, winning the girls' division of the Lewis and Clark Conference track meet at Wayne State College, Thursday. Wausa ran away with the boys' division.

Murphy won the 100 meter dash, the 200 meter dash and anchored the 400 meter relay team, which also placed first. The Trojans placed second in the 1,600 meter relay.

Other scorers for the winners were Jolene Bartels, who placed third in the high jump and Shelly Paul, who took second in the 200 meter dash.

Winside scored 28 points in the girls' competition and Allen managed 13 points. The Wildcats were led by Tammy Thomas and Laurie Gallop, who placed third in the shot put and discus respectively. Stacey Koester led Allen with a second place finish in the high jump.

In the boys' division, Allen, Wakefield and Winside finished fifth, sixth and seventh respectively.

Allen was paced by the champion 400 meter relay team: Scott Carr, who won the long jump; Greg Carr, who placed third in the 100 meter dash and Pat Onderstahl who took second in the 1,600 meter run.

For Wakefield's boys, Doug Verplank won the 1,600 meter run and took third in the 800 meter run. Jerry Roberts won the 400 meter dash and Kendal Paulsen placed third in the 3,200 meter run.

Brian Foote set a school and conference record in the 300 meter hurdles and placed third in the pole vault to lead Winside. Randy Ritze set a school record of 6-1 in the high jump to capture second place.

Winside coach Doug Reeves said he was pleased with the efforts of Foote, Ritze, Byron Schellenberg in the 300 lows, Joel Brockmeier in the 220 and 440 relay and Rick Bowers in the 1,600 meter run.

Wildcats Sweep Wesleyan on Road

Freshman Grady Hansen fired a three-hit shutout in the opening game and Ken Murcek swung a powerful bat as Wayne State swept two games from Nebraska Wesleyan in Lincoln, Friday.

The Wildcats won the opener 1-0 and ignited their offense in the second game for a 15-6 victory. Dewey Edgar was the winning pitcher in the nightcap.

Murcek rapped a first inning double, advanced to third base on a Wesleyan error and scored on an RBI single by Brian Blatchford. Hansen protected the lead with superb pitching.

Murcek added two more doubles in the later innings to lead the WSC offense. Bill Schwartz and catcher Mike Meyer also lined doubles for the winners.

Murcek and Meyer combined for a rare feat in the second game of the doubleheader. Each batter smashed a grand slam home run, accounting for eight of Wayne's 15 runs.

WSC trailed 2-0 entering the third inning but Meyer changed the momentum by driving in Blatchford, Tom Carden and Schwartz with the first grand slam of the game.

The Cats put the game well out of reach in the top of the sixth inning as Murcek added the second grand-slam. He also had a double in the game.

Carden, Mark Glatter and Tony Pisciola all lined doubles in the second game, dropping Wesleyan's record to 16-18.

The Wildcats will take an 18-22 record into action today (Monday) at 2 p.m. against Dana College. That game will be played in Blair.

Laurel Joins Lewis And Clark League

The Lewis and Clark Conference approved a proposal Wednesday (April 30) to admit three new schools into the conference and to realign the conference for football. The meeting was held in the Black Knight restaurant at Wayne.

The proposal, which will go into effect at the beginning of the 1981-82 school year, needs final approval from Laurel High School, Emerson-Hubbard High School and Pender High School. The three schools to be admitted.

Conference president Lionel Froese of Ponca High School said the revamping will be an improvement to the Lewis and Clark Conference and added that it will be a long term solution.

Under the proposal, 16 teams will be members of the conference. Football competition will be separated into three divisions of 11-man competition.

One division will include: Allen, Bancroft, Coleridge, Newcastle and Walthill. Another division will include Hartington, Osmond, Wausa, Winside and Wynot. The third division will be composed of Emerson-Hubbard, Homer, Laurel, Pender, Ponca and Wakefield.

The conference will still be broken into two divisions for basketball, volleyball, music and speech drama. Laurel will join the west half (Clark Division) and Pender and Emerson will join the east half (Lewis Division).

In track and field, all 16 schools will compete in one division. There was discussion at the meeting about the possibility of dividing track into two divisions but no motion was approved.

The three schools entering the conference will not be eligible for honors, awards or championships in the 1981-82 school year unless they compete with all schools in their respective divisions. This is due to possible pending contracts.

Athletic directors will meet during 1980 to work out schedules. A constitution revision committee will work during the 1980-81 school year to prepare the constitution for the change. Athletic contracts should be set up for two years, it was stated.

GABRIEL PERILLO, exchange student at Laurel-Concord High School, applies some varnish to his shop project. The 18-year-old Uruguayan is staying at the Wallace Anderson farm.

Exchange Student 'Americanized'

When Gabriel Perillo sat foot in Laurel, Nebraska for the first time he was familiar with many of America's customs and ideas. The 17-year-old foreign exchange student from Montevideo, Uruguay, came to Laurel in late January, through the International Youth for Understanding Program. During the past several months, he has resided on the Wallace Anderson farm, south of Laurel.

Gabe, as his friends call him, is studying Spanish (his native language), art, English, physical education, biology, government and shop at Laurel-Concord High School. He considers Dennis Anderson his American brother.

To become eligible as an exchange student, Gabe had to pass an oral and written English examination. He was interviewed and one of a small number of students to be accepted.

Gabe was well educated about America at school in Uruguay and said that his native country is "Americanized" in many aspects.

"High school here (in the U.S.) is easier and almost everyone finishes," Gabe said. "There (Uruguay) many people quit school because of the difficult classes and because they must work. High school there is comparable to college here."

While in Uruguay, Gabe was able to watch modern American movies and television shows, and listen and dance to American music. Automobiles are available in his native country "but not for kids" he said.

The classes Perillo is taking at Laurel do not count toward his diploma. When he returns to Uruguay in July, he must finish his classes there. After completing school, he plans to attend college and become a physical education major, he said.

Although Uruguay is Americanized, Gabe said there are several differences between the two countries. In this age of international turmoil, Uruguay has lost its democratic system of government. Citizens of that country have lost many rights now, he said.

Another difference is shown in religion, Perillo stated. "In Uruguay only 20 percent of the people go to church. Here almost everyone goes."

According to Gabe, Uruguay's main industries are wool and frozen beef. Most South American countries have close ties, he said.

Sports in schools are not very important in Uruguay, Gabe said but added that he enjoys swimming, soccer and tennis.

Living on the Anderson farm, Gabe is not required to work but "given the opportunity to work, I don't have to work but I like it," Gabe said.

After spending over three months in Northeast Nebraska, many people might expect Gabrillo to be homesick. But he adds "I love it here. I don't want to go back. I like living on a farm near a small town instead of living in a large city. And the Andersons are really nice."

ISSUES AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Will the city curtail services if the sales tax is not adopted?

ANSWER: It is difficult to predict. The REAL reason for wanting a 1% City Sales Tax is NOT whether city services will be restricted, but to spread city operating budget costs among more people. YOU pay less. In other cities without a sales tax these cities are not necessarily operating more efficiently; the property owner is merely paying the TOTAL COST of operating the city.

QUESTION: Does the city need more money due to inflation and more growth?

ANSWER: The question is NOT whether the city needs MORE money, or even LESS. The question is whether YOU want a 1% City Sales Tax so that MORE people will contribute in paying the costs of operating your city.

QUESTION: Would a City Sales Tax encourage increased spending?

ANSWER: 1% sales tax does not guarantee increased spending. General Operating Budgets, in which YOU can participate, provide the limits of these costs. YOU select YOUR council representatives. These people are honest, dedicated citizens. They pay the SAME taxes you do. A 1% City Sales Tax merely brings large numbers of persons into the system who are not presently required to add their share under a structure depending on property taxes alone. A 1% City Sales Tax in NO WAY encourages increased spending.

QUESTION: What items are subject to the sales tax?

ANSWER: The city is required to follow the statute and regulations as the state. In other words, all items that now carry a state sales tax would carry the city sales tax as well. Items that do not would not be taxed. Although food is subject to the sales tax, each taxpayer has a sales tax credit that he may apply on his income tax at the end of the year to recover a substantial percentage of the tax paid on food during that year. The city sales tax is collected in the same way and at the same time as the state sales tax.

QUESTION: Will there be additional forms required for the city sales tax?

ANSWER: Not at all. The present forms will be used. An additional line will be added and an additional collection fee will be paid to the merchant for adding the line. Only one check will still be sent to the state.

QUESTION: When would the city sales tax be implemented if adopted at the May election?

ANSWER: According to Regulation 9-1 of the Department of Revenue, implementation would begin October 1, 1980.

QUESTION: I am a contractor or farmer living outside the city and wish to purchase a combine or heavy equipment for use in my business or operation on my farm. If I purchase it from a merchant within the corporate limits do I pay the sales tax on this piece of equipment?

ANSWER: On this type of transaction the place of delivery determines the tax. If you take delivery on this piece of equipment at the merchant's place of business and it is within the corporate limits, the tax would apply. If you take delivery on this equipment outside the corporate limits, the tax would not apply.

QUESTION: If I live in the city and purchase a car outside the city, do I pay a sales tax?

ANSWER: Regardless of where you purchase a car, if you register your car at the courthouse and your address is within the corporate limits, you pay the one percent sales tax.

QUESTION: If I live outside the city limits and purchase a car from a dealer within the city, do I have to pay sales tax on the car?

ANSWER: Sales tax on automobiles is based on the address of the owner. In other words, if you are outside the corporate limits, you would not pay a sales tax whether you purchased the car from a local dealer or not; if you live inside the city limits you would pay the sales tax regardless of where the car was purchased.

QUESTION: What's in it for me if I am a renter?

ANSWER: Reducing property taxes with the help of a 1% City Sales Tax can help stabilize your rent. For there is no sales tax on rent. When you are ready to buy, lower property taxes will make it easier for you to afford a home of your own.

QUESTION: Will the retail sales suffer if there is a 1% city sales tax adopted?

ANSWER: Other cities adopting a city sales tax have not experienced a drop in business sales. Selection of products to buy and customer service are much more important to a potential customer than the 1% sales tax.

QUESTION: Will the customers go to shop in other cities not having a sales tax?

ANSWER: Do you decide whether or not to shop in Omaha, Lincoln, or Denver because they have a city sales tax? The cost of gasoline to travel to another city will over weigh any savings in a city sales tax.

QUESTION: If a city sales tax is adopted, can it ever be removed?

ANSWER: After voter approval, the city council must adopt a city sales tax by ordinance. The initiative-referendum process in state law provides a way for the voters to petition the question of repealing an ordinance by a election. If the voters want to bring the question of repealing the sales tax adoption ordinance to a vote, they could do so by this procedure.

QUESTION: Why have many cities also placed the city sales tax issue on the May ballot?

ANSWER: There is a growing desire to reduce property taxes.

QUESTION: What is the reason for the widespread interest to reduce property taxes?

ANSWER: Property taxes have steadily increased due to revaluation, and an increasing reliance on property tax to finance services and programs of counties, cities and schools.

QUESTION: Why have cities had to increasingly rely on property tax?

ANSWER: Although some of the money to run city government comes from federal and state sources, most of the money is derived from property taxes. Your city's tax base has been narrowed by legislative action granting tax exemptions on various types of real and personal property. Your city has had to rely on real property taxes to offset the loss of revenue which resulted from the narrowed tax base.

QUESTION: How do I know that the 1% City Sales Tax will not be an additional tax?

ANSWER: The 7% bid limits budget growth by law. This means that a city council cannot budget more than a 7% increase over the previous year's budget. Consequently, there is a limit on the amount of money a city can ask for in taxes or receive from other sources.

QUESTION: What guarantee do I have that a one percent city sales tax will reduce my property tax?

ANSWER: The city sales tax is under the 7% bid. Since there is a limit on the amount of money a city can ask for in taxes or receive from other sources, the more revenue a city sales tax generates, the more your city priority taxes must be reduced.

Grain Reserve Now Open to Non-Enlistees

As of April 24, some 13,730,650 bushels (348,777 metric tons) of corn had been placed in the farmer-owned grain reserve by corn producers who did not sign up to participate in the 1979 feed grain program. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland opened up the reserve to the non-participants on April 15 to help farmers isolate additional corn stocks from the marketplace and strengthen market prices. At that time, Bergland said USDA would accept approximately 295 million bushels (7.5 million metric tons) of the previously ineligible corn on a first-come, first-served basis. This option will end after that amount has entered the reserve, or May 15. Corn farmers who participated in the 1979 feed grain program and who currently have corn under a regular nine-month price support loan will continue to be eligible to enter their grain into the reserve, regardless of how many bushels of previously ineligible corn go into the reserve. Total corn in the reserve through April 24, including the previously ineligible grain, was 825 million bushels (21.2 million tons).

Don't Take A Step Backwards!

Much has been done in the past to promote Farm-City relations in the Wayne area. Farmer man and wife appreciation dinners, Chamber promoted ag events, etc. — all have had a part in recognizing the communities most important industry. As a result a very favorable business climate currently exists.

A former Mayor of North Platte where a sales tax has been in effect for several months tells of attending a meeting in a small town near North Platte this past week. Bitterness toward North Platte and reports of business trends to other larger towns in the area still persist.

Census Takers Face Unusual Tasks

More than 200,000 Americans, temporarily employed as census takers, started knocking on the doors of their countrymen April 16 in an effort to count those not yet enumerated in the 1980 census, the U.S. Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, announced recently.

Nearly 87 percent of those households asked to mail back their questionnaires on or after April 1 had done so by April 14, according to the bureau. The task now is to find the remainder and also to continue the traditional door-to-door census-taking that has been going on this month in parts of the West, Maine and the northern tips of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Sometimes reaching the door is the most difficult part of a census taker's duties.

On the island of Molokai, for example, a census taker must fly in from Honolulu and then ride a donkey to find some of the population. Some remote households in the Rocky Mountains are being reached by census takers on skis. Near Baton Rouge, La., census takers will pilot airboats on the bayous to call on those who have not mailed back their census forms.

On their appointed rounds, census takers are expected to visit pool halls, nudist camps, jails, all-night movie houses, mansions and houses of prostitution (always seeing and hearing no evil, since a strict Federal law requires that personal information collected in a census must be kept confidential).

Four-wheel-drive vehicles prove to be invaluable for census takers who must ascend snowy Manana Kea on the island of Hawaii, traverse the rough tracks along California's Lower Klamath River, or scale the hills of West Virginia, where swinging rope bridges often must be crossed on foot.

In other rural areas of the South and Southeast and in much of Appalachia, jeeps and pickup trucks and occasionally even horses, are essential to navigate the muddy roads and steep hilly country. A special challenge is provided by mountain moonshiners who often will not give information except to someone they thoroughly trust. Census takers must convince these people that they represent the Census Bureau, not the Treasury Department.

Some of the biggest challenges of all are in urban areas. Inner city ghettos, it goes without saying, have been found difficult to enumerate. It can be safely said that the Census Bureau's greatest expenditure of time and effort is made in these core city neighborhoods.

Interviewing can be difficult where one least expects it. For example, there are still parts of Long Island that are so hard to reach by conventional transportation that enumerators must be dropped off on beaches by the Coast Guard. After that, they're on their own, hiking or hitching rides in dune buggies.

Or how about the unseen people of New York City — those who live in the steam tunnels under the city? There, they stake out territory, set up households, cook their meals, and of course are protected from the cold and wet. Census takers have to visit them, too, and get their statistics.

Census takers can be identified by their official red, white, and blue badges, worn on the lapel, and the official U.S. census satchels they carry during their rounds. Anyone with reason to believe that someone is impersonating a census taker should call the local police.

In many parts of the country, census takers are still being hired. Contact the U.S. Census District Office for your area for job information.

Census takers will be calling on households for at least a month in virtually all areas of the United States. Someone whose household did not receive a form by mail should call the U.S. Census District Office for that area to be sure that their household is not overlooked.

A household's answers to census questions are confidential by law. Census takers are sworn to secrecy, and are subject to a fine of up to $5,000 and/or up to five years in jail for a proven violation of the confidentiality law.

NPPD Kilowatt Sales Climb Some

Although the average annual use of electricity by Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) residential customers declined slightly in 1979, the district's total kilowatt sales increased from the preceding year, NPPD announced last week.

In releasing its annual report, NPPD said the average home reduced its use of electricity by three-fourths of one percent from 1978. The reduction was attributed to energy conservation and cooler than normal temperatures. However, total kilowatt-hour sales increased 9.2 percent over 1978 and the district's customers set a record summer-time peak demand which was 1.4 percent above 1977's previous record.

"The decade ended with utilities operating in perhaps the most unpredictable period in their history," said D.W. Hill, NPPD general manager.

"Throughout the nation, the emphasis on energy has changed from one of load building to load management and conservation. With the rising cost of energy, particularly in the last half of the decade, customer-use patterns are changing, causing a de-emphasis on historic methods of load projection in favor of more sophisticated methods considering the many variable trends affecting usage," Hill wrote in his message to NPPD customers. "He said utilities in the 1980's face continuing increases in fuel prices, fuel shortage, transportation problems, increasing regulation and public pressure because of energy costs.

"It will be necessary to construct additional extra high voltage transmission lines to insure internal, regional and inter-regional transfers of power and energy to make the most efficient use of existing facilities and to minimize potential shortages that could occur across the nation as new facilities are delayed for various reasons," he added.

Hill noted that NPPD's Gerald Gentleman Station Unit No. 2, a coal-fired plant near Sutherland, is scheduled to be in operation in 1981 and plans are proceeding on a third major coal-fired plant in Custer County. In addition, NPPD is continuing to work with Manitoba Hydro in Canada and other utilities on the proposed MANDAN Project, a 500 kilovolt line that would provide for seasonal exchange of power and energy between utilities in Nebraska, the Dakotas and Manitoba.

The report noted that total electric system operating revenues in 1979 were $224.6 million, up 12.8 percent from 1978; retail customers increased 1.1 percent, to 105,659; electric system operating expenses were $205.8 million, up 19.8 percent from 1978; net revenues were $10.7 million, down from $16.7 million in 1978; and the average cost per kilowatt hour for residential customers was 4.23 cents, compared with 4.04 cents the preceding year. Payments in lieu of taxes for government subdivisions and payments under terms of distribution system lease agreements totalled $7.24 million.

The district's hydraulic division, with headquarters at North Platte, reported that irrigation water totalling 112,995 acre-feet was diverted during the summer of 1979 to 615 farms and applied to 32,800 acres of cropland; the year-end reservoir storage was at normal capacity because of above-normal precipitation and a full river flow. Rural power districts and cooperatives that are NPPD wholesale customers continue to forecast increasing electrical demands for irrigation pumping and the District's planning division is projecting sizeable summer peaks in the coming years.

Hill concluded his message by saying, "Two important conclusions can be reached from this report — 1979 was an eventful year and our utility is in good financial condition."

"We are proud of the results of this past year just as we are pleased with the progress made during the past decade. We are on a sound course for the 80's."

VOTE NO City Sales Tax

DID YOU KNOW?

The city tax is only about 15% of your total property tax and that a 40% reduction in the city's 10.5 mill levy could reduce the property tax on a $35,000 home by only $51.

Total tax added on a 1% City Sales Tax on a family of four with an income of $12,000 to $14,000 is approximately $53.

We believe that a City Sales Tax would drive business from Wayne and cause a decline in business during a difficult economic period.

If the City Sales Tax will save you money why are city officials proposing that it will make up their budget deficit plus give them a surplus of funds.

IS THIS REALLY SAVING YOU TAX DOLLARS?

— Or is this merely an additional tax.

Area May Be Hurt by Cutworms

Cutworms, which have been on the increase in Nebraska the past couple of years, are expected back again this spring, especially in eastern counties, where conditions are more favorable for cutworm development.

That's the word from Bob Roselle, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension entomologist, who noted that cutworms, especially the black and dingy types, "always are a threat in certain areas."

CERTAIN conditions are attractive to cutworms, Roselle said, including cornfields that have winter annuals, such as mustards, which may attract egg-laying moths.

Other conditions which make fields good "candidates" for cutworm infestations are:

— Fields that were weedy last fall.

— Bottomland tracts are historically more likely to have cutworm problems.

— Fields near perennial weedy or vegetation-covered margins which may provide overwintering sites for cutworms to fly to the corn in the spring.

— Dingy cutworms may be a problem in fields following soy beans, especially those that were weedy last fall.

— Fields following alfalfa or pasture anywhere in the state.

SINCE ALDRIN and heptachlor are now not available for preplant treatments, nothing is highly reliable for prevention, Roselle stated. Several products, such as Dyfonate or Lorsban, are registered for pre-plant, disked-in application. However, the insect specialist advised that neither of these are proven as reliable as previous materials, and are relatively expensive to use.

Referring to advertised claims that granules applied at planting time will control cutworms, Roselle said three products do list cutworms on labels: Lorsban, Mocap and Dyfonate. Research indicates they have some value for reducing cutworms, but are not completely reliable (for that use), especially if applied at early planting dates. They must be considered an aid in case of moderate to light infestations, and probably not reliable in heavily-infested fields," Roselle said.

IF CUTWORMS become active, Roselle advised the following steps be taken: Rescue treatments should be done when about 5 percent or more plants are being fed on or cut off. The best material is Lorsban 4E, at 2 to 3 pints per acre, broadcast. Other products are toxaphene, Dylox or Sevin, which should be banded to concentrate the material in a 10-inch band over the rows.

"This will not work well if fields are crusted or dry at the surface," Roselle warned.

Rotary hoeing will help if the soil is dried down more than half an inch, he added.
