The Nebraska Press Association

There were not many surprises in the recent primary election with the major races going about as had been predicted.

Some political observers expressed mild surprise that residents of only three of the more than 30 cities and towns that battoted ontained to the surprise that sales lax approved the tax. Voters in Opalitals, Lewellen and Sidney approved the additional tax but in most of the other cities that had the proposition on the ballot, it was defeated rather decisively. Omaha-residents gave their strong endorsement to an extension of that city's special one-half cent sales tax. Mayor Al Veys and other city officials had said Omaha was in critical need of the revenue the extra-one-half cent of sales tax generates.

In a widety watched race, Robert Sim-nons, a Scottsbluff attorney, topped a field for the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

An occasionally blunt spokesman, Simmons easily outdistanced his large field of challengers. Runnerup and the man Simmons will oppose in November was James L. Zimmerman, an attorney from Mitchell. Voters rejected a proposed constitutional emendment that would have provided a method of giving members of the Legislature a salary increase.

Turned down was an amendment that would have created a seven-member Compensation Review Commission appointed by the governor. The commission would have recommended salaries for the state senators, judges, the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and auditor.

Under the amendment, the Legislature could have accepted the recommended salary figures or could have lowered them but could not have increased them.

The state lawmakers, who are paid $400 a month, have not had a pay increase for 12 years. The amount of the senatorial salary is locked-into the Constitution and cannot he channed.

Another constitutional amendment was approved. It empowers the governor to appoint a new lieutenant governor in case the office is vacated for any reason.

Voters at Fails City and Airen soundly

Both Issues were placed on the primary those approved last summer in Omaha and Nebraska City.

At Falls City, the suggested lid was rebuffed by a 59 percent to 41 percent margin, and at Allen the margin was 73 to 27 percent.

Dear Editor:
I offer my congratulations to the 871 per-

I offer my congratulations to the 871 per-sons who voted against a city sales tax for the city of Wayne in the election of May 13. There are always some items that are not available in our home town, or are more favorably priced by some of the good mer chants of Wayne. For these reasons we like to make our purchases where the advantage is in our favor, whether it be Wayne. Nor-folk, Yankton or Sholes, you name it.

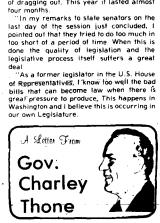

However, we have no desire to be penalized by paying a sales tax for the privilege of patronizing any particular merchant in any particular town sons who voted against this tax, we reet that we have a continuous welcome to do some of our trading in Wayne.

Had this election gone the other way, it would seem that those voting for the lax would have been saying "sure, we want your business, but we want you. Lo pay for the privilege, of buying from us" which we had no intention of doing.

I wrote your city administrator, Mr. Brewington, last December that it this measure had passed, it would have been, "well, so long, it has been nicg knowin ya" but his attitude seemed to say "very well, we will get along without your business," or, if you want to favor us with your business, then pay for your privilege of trading in Wayne.

Session Lasts

Four Months

"The legislative session that was just concluded was the so-called 'short session.' On odd number years the Legislature meets for 0 legislative days and on even-number years they meet for 60 days. Somehow, the short or 60 day legislative session has a way of dragging out. This year it lasted almost lever menths.

streamlined. He said he plans to-look at how other states handle similar problems that arise because of stringent fime limits on legislative sessions.

"We must remember when Nebraskans approved a constitutional change in 1970 allowing the Unicameral to meet every year instead of every other year. The purpose of the short session was to handle budget matters and those important issues that were not concluded in the longer 90-day session.

"During the 60-day session, 461 bills were introduced. An additional 138 were held over

"During the 60-day session, 461 bills were introduced. An additional 158 were held overfrom 1979. Of that total, 249 became law in 1980. As the end of the session drew near, the verbal battles on the floor of the Legislature became more heated. Emotion, rather than reason, sometimes was the rule. The pressures of 'getting something done' are sometimes very great as the adjournment hour approaches. Complex issues can be misunderstood — or not understood at all — unwise compromises made and votes traded without consideration of the consequences. This all done because of too much volume and too little time. "Perhaps there should be some serious consideration given to returning to the beinial approach. At least there should be some rules established before the 1982 'short session' to limit the scope of legislative consideration."

Too Late to Close Gate

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information
The Nebraska Unicameral Legislature left the gate open and unattended and now there is a threatened stampede of large and small municipalities to rush out to enact their own city sales tax. The whole thing bodes ill for all Nebraska taxpayers but particularly for farmers and ranchers who pay the most in both sales taxes and properly taxes.

the most in both sales taxes and property taxes.

Each city and town which enacts a city sales tax represents a further encroachment on the sales tax as a major source of revenue for the state which is under steady pressure to assume more of the burden traditionality borne by local property taxes. It becomes increasingly difficult to increase the state sales tax rate (now at 3 percent) to meet such demands after municipalities have been permitted to "muscle in" for an extra one-half to as much as 1½ percent freprior with proposes.

extra one-half to as much as 1½ percent for their own purposes.

A brief review of Nebraska tax hisfory may help one to understand the presentistuation. In the late 190% and early 1940's. Nebraskans promoted their state as "the white spot of the nation" and exulted that it was the only one without a state sales fax or a state income tax, a great example of frueal government.

white spot of the nation" and exulted that it was the only one without a state sales tax or a state income tax, a great example of frugal government.

"White spot" promoters did not dwell on the fact that taxes on property were the only major source of revenue for the state, public school districts, University of Nebraska and the state colleges, and all local subdivisions of government. On top of the levy for the state general fund, the Legislature around 1951 instituded a special building fund levy to provide funds for building projects at the University and state colleges.

As spending demands of state and local government Increased, there was pressure to broaden the tax base to include sales and income taxes. Among the chief opponents of such suggestions for the better part of 25 years were the state's metropolitan newspapers. One of the arguments against a sales tax was that it would discourage lowans from crossing into Nebraska to do their shopping to avoid the lows asles tax, or Southeast Wyoming residents coming to Scottsbluff to grocery shop to avoid the Wyoming sales tax.

The Legislature in 1965 passed a state income tax law as the first break in tax broadening but if was never implemented because if was rejected in a referendum vote in 1966. But also in that 1966 election was a constitutional amendment submitted by petition, to provide that the state could no longer levy a property tax for state purposes. When the voters knocked out the state income tax law and also prohibited the state from levyling a property tax. The state was left without a major source of revenue.

The 1967 Legislature met this crisis in 1967 by passing the present combination sales and income tax law. At the same session, it eliminated the poll tax and exempted household goods and intangibles (cash in bank, stocks, bonds, etc.) from personal property laxes. Passage of Constitutional Amendment 10 in 1970 permitted the Legislature to proceed with personal property tax taws which have now exempted tarm machinery, livestock and bus perty tax saws which have now tarm machinery, livestock and business inventories.

The major centers of trade and commerce have been able to levy a city sales tax because of their natural market advantages. But the smaller cities and villages lack such competitive ability. Already there is discussion of farm implement firms and auto dealerships moving beyond the city limits to escape city sales tax levies. This can lead to manifold zoning problems and loss of more prime farmland. On the plus side, it could provide incentive for people to shop in communities which do not levy local sales tax. Many veteran legislators would admit that the Legislature should never have permitted municipalities the opportunity to pre-empt the state's sales tax revenue field but they will also say that the herd has already started running and it is too late to close the gate.

Blue Devils. "We're awfully happy to win.
I'm especially happy for the eight seniors on the team. It's an exciting climax to their careers," Coble said. "I have to give a lot of credit to Pletifer (pitcher Tim) and Wayne.
I don't really believe there are any losers."
The district matchup turned into a nail bitling defensive game. Wayne's Tim Pfelfer fer and Wakefield's Rick Guy engaged in a nine inning pitching duel.

Pfeiffer pitched a five-hitter, giving up onty oner run in the first inning and one in the ninth. Guy fired a one-hitter, striking out 13 batters and allowing only one run.

The host Trolans appeared on their way to a big first-linning when they loaded the bases with no outs. Blaine Nelson walked and Tom.

to open the bottom of the inning.

With bases loaded, Rick Guy attempted to bunt on a suicide squeeze play but missed the pitch. Nelson was rapped in a rundown. Detween catcher Kevrin Nissen and third baseman Todd Pteliffer but a bad throw allowed Nelson to score. Soderberg was then thrown out attempting to return to first base.

Pfeliffer struckout Guy and retired Scott Halistrom to get out of the jam.

The Devits wasted no time striking back. Pitcher Pfeliffer walked to leadoff the top of the second inning and Dan Mitchell reached first base on a fielder's choice when he altempted a sacrifice bunt. Both runners were safe, setting up the scoring situation.

A sacrifice bunt by Tim Thomas advanced both runners. Wayne coach Mike Mailette countered Wakefleld's suicide squeeze play by calling one of his own. Jeff Sperry laid down a fine bunt to bring Pfeliffer home for the typing run.

FIVE OR SIX Wayne High baseball players stopped by the office, stopped me on the street and called me at work this week, asking if 1'd present their views on the proposed elimination of baseball at Wayne asking it 'd present their views on the proposed elimination of baseball at Wayne High.

The Wayne Board of Education is considering a proposal to drop baseball at the wayne and the players who spoke to me were extremely concerned about the proposal. To put it straight on the line, they don't want to see baseball be eliminated.

Several points that were brought up by these players deserve mention. Of the five Northeast Nebraska high schools presently competing in baseball, three (Wakefield, Laurel and Bancroft) are planning to continue their programs next year. Wayne and Ponca are both considering dropping baseball as a high school sport. If both schools actually drop the sport, it will probably put an end to high school baseball outside of the Omaha-Lincoln area. Wakefield, Laurel and Bancroft will hardly be able to travel 100 miles to compete.

Another point emphasized by the players

Another point emphasized by the players is that "baseball is one of the most productive, most enjoyable sports at Wayne High School and, ties in with the summer program," One player added that "It keeps kids out of trouble and off the streets".

Several players indicated that baseball is fine baseball players.

Extra curricular activites are essential to a well rounded education and the players were concerned that a section of Wayne's line educational system will be lost if baseball is dropped.

The reason given for the proposed cuts is except. In addition to baseball, the school board is considering eliminating golf as well. No golfers have talked to me about the proposal but I'm sure some of them are also upset and disappointed.

One other point asked by one of the baseball players is "Why can't Wayne alford baseball when Wakefield, Laurel and Bancroft can. Why must Wayne be the first school to drop the sport?."

CONGRATULATIONS and good luck to the area boys who qualified for the Boys' State Track and Field Meet, scheduled tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday at Omaha

The list includes Kurt Powers, Doug Proett, Tod Heler, Paul Sutherland and Rick Johnson of Wayne; Greg Carr, Scott Carr, Lee Hansen and Robb Linafetter of Allen; Dennis Anderson, Mart Johnson and Todd Twiford of Laurel; Brian Foote and Randy Ritze of Winside.

Results of the meet indicate that girls track is improving steadily and still on the upswing. Many state records were broken in the field of strong competitors despite the rainy conditions.

upswing. Many state records were broken in the field of strong competitions despite the rainy conditions.

Many athletes were impressive but one young girl stood out from: the crowd. Karlene Erickson, a-freshman at Glass D Wheeler Central, ran away from all other competitors in the 3.00 meter run. Her gold medal winning time was 10:34.8, about 50 seconds fasfer than anyone in any class. The freshman was the Nadia Comanechi of the meet. Every time she completed a lap, the crowd of 5.000 gave her a standing ovation, hoping they could inspire her to break the national record.

The national record in the 3.200 meter run is 10:09.8, set by Cheri Williams of Livermore, Cal. In 1978. Karlene's fastest time is within about 15 seconds of the record.

One of the most touching minutes of the state meet was when Erickson received her gold medal. Presenting the medal was Terri Franzen, a 1979 gold medal winner in the 1,600 meter run. Franzen was an outstanding athlete at Gothenburg before breaking her back in a car accident leat summer. She is recuperating well although partially paralyzed.

ANOTHER INTERESTING note about the state meet is the use of photo finishes. A camera takes pictures of the finish of every short distance race and all close finishes. Then meet officials compare numbers and

Cats Challènge Dana, Fall Short of Goal

The Wayne State Wildcats had some good news and some bad news Monday.— Wayne State exploded for 20 hits and 11 runs to defeat Dane College 11-1 in the opening game of the final round of the NAIA District 11 playoffs. Dane came back, however, to defeat the Wildcats 9-1 in the champlonship game.

After a three-day delay due to rain, the Wildcats seemed to turn their frustrations into hits in the opening game. After losing to Dane 8-7 in 10 innings in the opening round of the tournament last Wednesday. WSC dominated Monday's game behind the seven-hit pitching of freshman Grady Hansen.

WSC opened the scoring with four runs in the first on RBis by Tim Carden. Bill Schwartz and Mike Meyer. Mike Test scored on a wild pitch after doubling earlier in the inning.

Grain Discounts Are Possible Sometimes

Nebraska crop producers with grain stored on their farms need to check it regularly this time of year to avoid possible discounts of 25 cents per bushel or more because of possible grain deterioration, an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agronomist said this week.

Duane Foole said insect activity and mold development are the two threats to grain quality, and both may be difficult to detect in early stages.

He advised farmers to check temperature in different parts of grain bins and observe odors when aeration fans are turned on, as ways to check for "hot spots" that may be developing ways to check for "hot spots" that may be developing.

One misleading aspect, Foote said, is the fact that "the average moisture content of a lot of grain does not indicate differences in moisture content that may be present." If any portion of a lot of grain has a high enough moisture content to permit insect and mold development, Foote pointed out, both may increase in spite of the average moisture content.

"Also, if temperatures differ within the grain bin, moisture will be transferred from the warmer portions of the grain to the cooler portions. Respiration of insects and fungi produces water, so that even if the grain is of uniform and low moisture content when stored, conditions may change with time," he emphasized.

rme, in emphasized.

Foote warned that grain can go out of confilion much faster at higher temperatures in spring and summer. Hopefully, farmers sho are good managers will have inspected heir grain on a regular basis during the finter and will continue to take samples from various points in the bin to make sureuality is being maintained, the specialist commented.

Part of the equation involved in keeping quality of grain is its condition at the time it is put into storage — including the amount of broken kernels and foreign material. Foote explained Other factors are the moisture content and temperature of the grain mass and the length of time the grain is stored.

If farmers check carefully and find grain condition is deteriorating because of significant numbers of Insects, fumigation should be considered. Foote recommended. "The grain should be leveled at the top of the bin for effective fumigation. And we would suggest that commercial operators apply the fumigant because the chemicals are dangerous materials," the specialist said.

If molds are developing, lowering the moisture and temperature are essential, becontinued. "This will keep insect activity down, too." However, Foote stressed that the causes of temperature differences need to be corrected or the problem may recur. If the condition of the grain is "past the point of no return," when it cannot be stored without possible turther deterioration, an outlet for disposal must be found at once, Foote said.

Nebraska farmers' financial losses resulting from grain deterioration can be substantial because of the large volume of grain in storage, Foote said.

The Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Serivce said more than 800 million bushels of grain were in storage in all positions in the state on April 1.

Of that amount, 64 percent was stored on terms, Foote said, and of farm-stored grain, nearly 82 percent was corn.

"Nebraska continues to lead the nation in the amount of grain stored in the reserve," Foote concluded.

Road Structures (Earth Fill Dams)

Road structures do eliminate dangerous and costly bridges — a recent inventory indicated approximately 15 percent of the bridges in the LENRD could be eliminated through the construction of Road Structures (earth dams). A typical road structure can be built for half to one-fourth the cost of a new bridge. Bridges will always be needed but because of the economics we should look to build road structures where possible. This is a cooperative program between landowners, County Boards, SCS and LENRD. Cost of structures are paid for 50/50 by Counties and Lower Elkhorn NRD. If you are interested in discussing a possible road structure please contact your local SCS Office or your County Commissioners or Supervisors.

grown in the past six months from about all cases at one time to 1/2 urrently.

Mrs. Barnes said that the Easter Seal Telethon, aired over WOWT in Omaha March 22 and 23 was responsible for a portion of the increase in calls. People became more aware of the services available to the handicapped. However, she believes that the tightening economy, the reduction in federal and state monies for services, and the increase in costs for equipment for handicapped people all further contribute to the calls for direct help and for information about services.

"The need for services is there," she said. "We try to get people all the answers they need and to provide direct services from Easter Seals whenever possible," she said. "I hope that the contributing public will continue its support so that we can continue to give the help that our clients need," she said.
