Third Traffic Fatality

WAYNE COUNTY recorded its third traffic fatality of the year early Monday morning west of Wayne when Robert Bierschenk, 43, Randolph, died of accident-related injuries. According to the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, Bierschenk was westbound about 2:30 a.m. when his car hit the guardrail on the south side of U.S. 35 and then crossed the road, hitting the guardrail on the north side, flipping over and landing on its top in Logan Creek. The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department Rescue Equipment Truck was used to right the car. Bierschenk was pronounced dead on arrival at Providence Medical Center. An autopsy was performed in Sioux City, determining that he died of accident-related injuries.

Cablevision Rates Go Up

Wayne City Council covered a variety of subjects at its regular meeting Tuesday night, including approval of new Cablevision rates, discussion on Sunnyview Subdivision and adoption of a classification pay plan for city employees.

THE MEETING opened with Council members discussing briefly their decision recently to increase rates charged at the swimming pool, and their decision to remove several stop signs around town. Councilwoman Carolyn Filler said she had received an irate phone call on the stop sign decision, and Councilman Darrel Faelberth said he has requested that the matter be placed on the July 8 Council meeting agenda.

On the matter of pool rates, Councilman Cliff Ginn said he has found that non-residents of the city who own large amounts of property inside the city limits are having to pay the non-resident pool fee. They are in effect paying double.

HE REMINDED those present that the idea of the non-resident fee was to give city property taxpayers a break in costs. Those who do not support the pool through taxes should be charged a little extra, Council members decided a few weeks ago.

Mayor Wayne Marsh said he felt "we didn't get what it (the increase) was worth. The increase in revenue — only a few hundred dollars — was not worth the hard feelings that have resulted between residents and non-residents," he said.

"In the future, let's think about it a little more before making the decision," he told Council members.

CITY ADMINISTRATOR Darrell Brewington read a letter from DeWild, Grant, Recker and Associates, consulting engineers from Sioux City, Iowa, who are inspecting the Sunnyview Subdivision construction.

Because of a variety of reasons, construction is taking longer than anticipated and the original inspection fee estimate of $5,000 no longer is valid, the letter indicated. The letter sought Council approval for the engineering firm to continue inspections as per its original agreement. The Council agreed.

In other construction business, the Council approved three separate warrants involving progress at Marywood Subdivision. A total of $2,734.22 to Bruce Gilmore & Associates, $19,932 to Albin Excavation and $63,782 to Gill Construction Co.

THESE FIGURES represent about 97 1/2 percent of the total to be paid them for the project.

A classification pay plan for employees for 1980-81 was approved. The plan involves fewer steps than before, but includes the same dollar amounts as before.

Voting against the plan, which Council members did not receive for review until the meeting, were Council members Filler and Larry Johnson.

CABLEVISION rates in Wayne will increase effective Aug. 1. The Council voted to accept the rate request after listening to Wayne Cablevision General Manager Jack McEvoy.

The basic cable subscriber fee will increase from $6.95 to 7.95 per month and represents the first such hike in fees since Nov. 1, 1976.

"Through these 45 months, we have faced increasing material, utility and labor costs," McEvoy said. "During the period we have also invested more than $15,000 in plant extensions and more than $30,000 in a receiver-only satellite earth station to bring extra services to the people of Wayne."

All Cablevision fees will be increased including those for apartments, motels and hotels, hospitals, installation charges, etc.

Area Towns Entered In Betterment Event

Wayne is among several area communities that will participate in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program for 1980.

WAYNE WILL participate in Class V for communities with populations between 5,001 and 50,000. Competition will include Seward, South Sioux City, Norfolk, Fremont, Fairbury, Grand Island, Nebraska City and others.

Laurel and Wakefield will compete in Class III for towns with population of from 801 to 1,500. Others in the category include Crawford, Creighton, Dakota City, Emerson, Peru, Pierce, Plainview, Ponca, Scribner, Stanton and Tilden.

BELDEN AND Concord will vie in the Class I category which is for communities with a population of less than 250. Others include Bainsford, Dwight, Rising City, Santa Fe, Rulo and Springfield.

There are no area communities participating in Class II (population of between 251 and 800) and Class IV (population of between 1,801 and 5,000).

The NCIP was created in 1963 to encourage improvement activities and to recognize outstanding community achievements. Communities compete in five categories according to population size. Lincoln and Omaha participate in the program through a special neighborhood category.

"THE NCIP demonstrates to local leaders how to make the best use of their own ideas, people and resources. Every project is initiated locally and controlled. And any community, regardless of size or stage of development, can benefit from participation," reports Nancy Donovan, NCIP coordinator, Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

Program entrants submit scrapbooks for evaluation by out-of-state experts each fall. After the entries are evaluated, the judges personally visit finalist communities. A recognition banquet in the fall honors the community and neighborhood participants.

The NCIP is sponsored by investor-owned gas and telephone companies serving the Midwest.

MCEVOY ADDED that Home Box Office (HBO) will become available here this fall. Through HBO, at an additional $9 per month, viewers will receive first run and uncensored movies without commercials.

The general manager said the rate increase will provide his company about $830 more each month in gross revenue. Currently, there are 618 subscribers out of a potential of some 1,700, he said.

A preliminary water study for the city of Wayne was presented by Dennis Hirschbruner of Gilmore & Associates. The comprehensive report details weaknesses in the city's water distribution system and recommends several improvements.

The cost — to be spread through improvements over the next 5 to 7 years — will be about $800,000.

THE COUNCIL will review the study and hold a special meeting in August for further discussions.

Approval was given to final plat of the Mohr's Industrial Tract Subdivision on the east edge of U.S. 35 across from the Industrial Park; approved the final plat of Papenburg Subdivision one mile north and one mile east of Wayne involving one home, and approved a lot consolidation (from three to two) in Westwood Subdivision.

A request for $250 by the Wayne Jaycees for fireworks also was approved. The expenditure had been budgeted for, the city administrator explained.

THE COUNCIL recessed for about 10 minutes before discussing at length the fiscal year budget. No action was taken.

Wayne's 'Head Shop' Owner Says He Will Continue to Fight New Bill

The owner of Wayne's only "head shop" says he will continue to battle against a "ban the bong" law despite the news two major retailers in Omaha and Lincoln have decided to get out of the drug paraphernalia business.

DIRT CHEAP in Lincoln and Homer's Records and Tapes in Omaha announced last week they no longer would sell drug-related items. Dirt Cheap, however, will provide financial help in a lawsuit testing Nebraska's new paraphernalia law.

Dennis Robinson, owner of The Joynit in Wayne, said he was "appalled" that the two biggest outlets in the state were dropping their items.

But the news does not affect Robinson's determination to fight the constitutionality of the state's paraphernalia law. He will become president of the Nebraska Accessories Trade Association in the next few days and will continue to provide the strong leadership needed to defeat the new law, he says.

NEBRASKA'S statute, which was to go into effect April 23, is designed to curtail the sale, possession and advertisement of accessories such as bongs, hashish pipes and roach holders that can be used for administering drugs or smoking marijuana products.

The lawsuit, which was brought by 14 plaintiffs including Robinson, was filed April 23. An order temporarily restraining enforcement of the law was signed by Senior U.S. District Judge Richard Robinson.

The Joynit owner says he finds several flaws in the new law, and is sure the courts will determine the law to be unconstitutional.

"I DON'T think we should moralize with our laws," The Joynit owner said. Legislators are attacking drug abuse through the new law, not the paraphernalia. In addition, Robinson said he feels it is unconstitutional to discriminate between his business and the retailer of hardware or clothing down the street.

Another argument among the paraphernalia dealers is that many things can be interpreted as having a drug-related connection. Although some of the items he carries are obviously manufactured for the drug culture, there are some that were manufactured for legitimate reasons.

FOR EXAMPLE, a wood framed antique mirror intended for sale as a decorative item can be used in the cutting and packaging of cocaine. Will that be confiscated as drug paraphernalia, Robinson mused?

Drug items cannot be defined accurately, the store owner contended.

Besides the drug items offered at The Joynit, Robinson carries records, leas, T-shirts, stereo equipment, posters, magazines, clothing, etc. Drug related items constitute between 20 and 25 percent of Robinson's total business.

DRUG ITEMS include "bongs," "hash pipes," "roach clips," and "joint rollers." The ironic part about these items, Robinson pointed out, is that any of them can be made with cardboard tubing or with items bought at a hardware store.

"And if the sale of these items becomes illegal, they will just go underground," he theorized. In addition to drugs, pushers would go into the drug paraphernalia business as well. The Joynit owner surmised.

"THE DRUG paraphernalia problem is not even closely related to the drug abuse problem," Robinson said. He feels it is hypocritical for legislators and opponents of drug paraphernalia to chastize "head shops" while at the same time condoning the use of alcohol.

After all, he reminded, alcohol abuse is by far a more serious problem than abuse of marijuana, cocaine, hashish, etc.

"They are attacking a minor problem and ignoring a major one," he said. "Adults are separating the two."

ROBINSON, who says his was the first "head shop" in the state some 10 1/2 years ago, has never sold drug paraphernalia intentionally to a minor. In fact, he has refused to sell items to some customers.

Passage of the drug item law will only precipitate a growing disrespect for the law, Robinson says.

Legislators have criticized youth for beer parties, but themselves are sometimes found guilty of soliciting prostitution or of drinking while driving; laws state that minors shall not use tobacco products, but vending machines continue to be easily accessible to them; rock musicians are lauded for their performances which might have been induced by drugs.

"WE CONDONE the byproducts but ignore the reality of the situation. Why should I feel guilty about something that isn't illegal," he explained?

THE DRUG paraphernalia law, says Dennis Robinson, owner of The Joynit, is ambiguous. He says defining drug-related items will be difficult, since some merchandise not manufactured for drug use is used for that purpose after all. For instance, Robinson (above) holds a decorative mirror which he says could easily be used for cutting and packaging cocaine. Other paraphernalia which are considered as drug-related are pictured on the shelves behind him.

Francis Would Like the Fireworks

And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there. Francis Scott Key

Once a year, Americans celebrate the fact that our flag was, and still is, here with rockets-and "bombs" bursting in the air.

In most American communities, hand-held sparklers will draw bright silver circles in the night while big colorful bursts of red, blue and white stars explode overhead on July 4. If Francis Scott Key were here today, he probably would be delighted to know that the noise is happy celebration and, if properly used, the fireworks won't harm a soul.

ALTHOUGH fireworks are such an integral part of American celebration, they were created in the East, probably China, more than 2,000 years ago. They were picked up by the Crusaders and brought to Europe where they were eventually included in Western civilization. The Italians were the first Europeans to make fireworks and became respected masters in making the noisy spectacles. From England to Spain, fireworks went off to enhance religious events and flatter kings and queens in their royal gardens.

WHEN EUROPEAN emigrants came to the New World to establish the first American colonies, they brought with them their love for a good fireworks display. After the colonies decided to break away from England, John Adams envisioned the first celebration and included in his fantasy fireworks as a matter of course.

In fact, fireworks became associated with Independence Day celebrations long before the Declaration of Independence was actually signed. Now more fireworks are blasted for July 4 than for any other national holiday in the world.

It's no secret that fireworks can be dangerous when misused. George Pflimpton, chairman of the National Council on Fireworks Safety, said. When used with common sense and caution, however, they are as harmless as they are spectacular.

THE NATIONAL Council on Fireworks Safety and the U.S. Consumer Product Commission encourage you to:

Read directions, have an adult present, buy from reliable fireworks stands, ignite fireworks outdoors, have water handy, never experiment, light one at a time, never relight malfunctioning fireworks, keep at a safe distance, keep fireworks in a cool, dry place and dispose of them properly.

To enjoy fireworks like an expert, note the quality of colors (blue and white are especially difficult to produce); count the number of blasts from one firework; pay attention to the ground displays of pinwheels, fountains and Roman candles; and note the time lapse between each event.

Finally, the best view can be had from at least 500 feet from the site, which also happens to be the safest distance. Designated watching areas are chosen with these two facts in mind, so it is doubly wise to stay within them.

Norfolk Latest Victim In Juniors' Win Streak

BRUCE SCHAFFER, Wayne Legion first baseman, takes the throw from the second baseman for an out in baseball action against Norfolk, Monday night. Wayne won the game 6-0 as Tim Pfeiffer threw a one-hitter to lead the hosts.

Tim Pfeiffer increased his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 30 as he fired a one-hitter against Norfolk's Legion team Monday night at the Wayne city ball park. Wayne won the game 6-0.

Pfeiffer struckout 16 batters giving him a total of 71 strikeouts in his last 32 1/2 innings.

Norfolk threatened to break up Pfeiffer's scoreless streak in the sixth inning when a walk, an error and a passed ball enabled the visitors to place runners on second and third with one out. Pfeiffer got out of the jam when the next two batters grounded out to the infield.

Wayne scored two runs in the bottom of the third to send Norfolk starter Greg Dostal to the dugout. Bruce Schafer and Jeff Zeiss opened the inning by drawing walks and Dennis Carroll brought both runners home with a shot to deep center field which was good for a triple.

The 2-0 lead held up until the fifth inning when Zeiss scored again. He walked, stole second and third and came home on an error by the catcher.

Three more runs in the bottom of the sixth inning sent Norfolk home with a 6-0 loss.

Jeff Dion doubled off of Norfolk's second relief pitcher and Dan Mitchell moved him to third with a hard hit single to center field. A passed ball enabled Dion to scramble home.

Sorensen replaced Mitchell as a pinch runner and Jere Morris and Schafer walked to load the bases. Norfolk's third baseman misplayed a hard grounder by Carroll allowing Sorensen and Morris to score the final runs of the game.

Wayne State Hires Basketball Coach

Richard (Rick) Weaver, basketball coach at Westmar College in LeMars, Ia., has been hired to take over the head basketball coaching position at Wayne State College for the 1980-81 season.

The post was vacated when Bill Ivey resigned effective at the end of the 1980 school year.

Weaver, who was head coach at Westmar for two years, compiled a 16-12 record last season. Prior to Weaver's term, Westmar had suffered through a dismal two-year record of 8-45.

Wayne State athletic director John Merriman said Weaver signed the contract Sunday morning in Sioux City, Ia. He was one of 40-45 applicants for the position.

"I'm extremely impressed with him (Weaver). He is very familiar with Northeast Nebraska and Northwest Iowa," Merriman said. "He is an extremely good floor coach and will win a lot of ball games for us."

The Sioux City East graduate received his bachelors degree at Morningside College in 1972 and his masters degree at Iowa State University in 1977.

During his college career at Morningside, Weaver played four years of basketball, earning honors as all-district player, All-NCC player and NCAA All-Region V player.

He taught in Jefferson, Ia. from 1972-77 and was head basketball coach from 1973-77. Following his stay at Jefferson, Weaver became assistant basketball coach at the University of Eastern Kentucky for the 1977-78 season.

Weaver's contract at WSC begins with the 1980-81 academic year. He is presently recruiting athletes with the help of assistant coach Clark Coco. Coco will also be head junior varsity coach for the upcoming season.

The 29 year old Weaver, his wife Debbie and son Jake are presently looking for a home in Wayne.

Athletic Trainer To Sign Contract

The Wayne Herald learned Wednesday morning that Wayne State College is on the verge of signing a head athletic trainer for the 1980-81 school year.

Kurt Czupryn of Kendallville, Ind. informed Wayne State athletic director John Merriman that he will sign a contract. Merriman said the contract was being sent in the mail Wednesday afternoon. The position became open when Reggie Swanson resigned.

"He (Kurt) has been informed that the contract will be in the mail and he has informed us he will sign it," Merriman said. "Everyone on our staff really liked him (when he interviewed) and we're just as excited as he is. He's as enthusiastic as Reggie."

Czupryn, 23, received his bachelors degree at Indiana University and his masters at the University of Arizona.

Watch Town Team Baseball Tonight

For the first time in a couple of years, Wayne will get a taste of Town Team baseball when a hand picked team of local stars hosts Laurel's Town Team at 8:15 tonight (Thursday) at the Wayne city ball park.

Members of the Wayne Town Team, announced by coach Hank Overin are former Town Team players Bill Schwartz, Mike Meyer, Earle Overin and Marty Hansen, Paul Mallette and Nell Blohm, who expressed interest in joining the team and newcomers Doug and Dean Carroll, Tom Ginn, Jerry Goeden, Vic Sharpe, Mark Gensebom and Al Nissen.

The latter seven players all completed Legion careers in the last two years. Most members of this special team are now playing Town Team ball for other communities.

The hand picked squad is planning to play several exhibition games this year. Next year, tryouts will be held to reorganize a Wayne Town Team. Only local players will compete.

All profits from Thursday's game and any other practice games this season will go toward a ball park renovation fund to help assist in reconstruction of the grandstand. Admission for the game is $1 for adults and 50 cents for high school students. Younger players will be admitted free of charge.

The next exhibition game is tentatively scheduled Tuesday, July 8 against Wakefield.

Pair of No-hitters Fired vs. Wisner

Don Larsen and Steve Overin

pitched back-to-back no-hitters as Wayne's Little League and Pony League burned their counterparts from Wisner by identical 12-0 scores.

In the Little League game, Larsen struckout 11 batters and Wayne's bats cracked freely for 12 hits. A seven run third inning propelled the locals to the victory.

Larsen added his cause by cracking a two run single in the third, a one run triple in the fourth and an RBI single in the fifth.

Dan Gross went two for two and drove in four runs and Tom Perry brought in two runs with a single and double to lead the attack.

Four runs in the fourth and one in the fifth put the game way out of reach, handing Wisner's Little League its first loss of the year.

The former record was set by Hornbeck on May 4.

The long hitting Wayne golfer shot a 31 on the front nine with five birdies and four pars. On the back nine, he carded five more birdies, three pars and a triple bogey. He triple bogged the 11th hole when he hit his tee shot out of bounds.

Hornbeck, who has been having what Froeschle described as a "very hot season," has lowered his handicap to zero. This is the first time since Wayne began using the Mini-Max system of handicapping that anyone has had a zero handicap, Froeschle said.

Overin scored three runs and

Randy Gamble and Wayne scored two runs each to lead the Ponies.

Wayne managed six hits including a two run double by Gamble, a one run single by Overin, a one run single by Maly, a one run double by T. Dorsey, a single by Moore, and a single by Doeschner.

Horn'eck Sets Course Record

When you're hot you're hot

For the second time in two months, Bill Hornbeck set a course record at the Wayne County Club, Hornbeck, golfing with Wayne CC pro Rudy Froeschle, fired a 31-34-65 to break the course record of 67.

The former record was set by Hornbeck on May 4.

The long hitting Wayne golfer shot a 31 on the front nine with five birdies and four pars. On the back nine, he carded five more birdies, three pars and a triple bogey. He triple bogged the 11th hole when he hit his tee shot out of bounds.

Hornbeck, who has been having what Froeschle described as a "very hot season," has lowered his handicap to zero. This is the first time since Wayne began using the Mini-Max system of handicapping that anyone has had a zero handicap, Froeschle said.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

BILL SCHULTZ, former Wayne State baseball coach, found himself in an unusual situation recently and is now looking for a new job.

After a fine career at WSC, Schultz moved to Emporia State for a short time and then on to Colorado University. Now, Colorado has cut seven sports, including baseball, from the athletic program. And Schultz is unexpectedly out of a job.

This is a bad time of year for a coach to be job hunting and Colorado's cuts seem to have come as a surprise to most people.

ROBERTO DURAN now reigns as the World Boxing Council welterweight champion after scoring a majority 15-round decision over Sugar Ray Leonard, Friday night.

The fight was THE major sporting attraction for some time. Which just proves that boxing fans are turning their attention from the heavyweight ranks to the lower weights.

Lacking a real champion in the heavyweight class now that Ali is washed up, fans must turn to other weight classes to see good boxing. The heavyweight champions and challengers are no longer the first one to get rich from a fight.

Duran and Leonard—two big name boxers competing in (of all things) the welterweight class, a weight division that some people never even realized existed.

According to Saturday's write-ups, the fight must have been an evenly matched exciting bout. No longer do sports fans have to follow a heavyweight fight between two no names. Now, they can turn to the lower weights, where competition is always improving.

THE CASE of the getaway golf cart: Some of the second hand accounts about happenings at the Wayne County Club on Wednesday league nights are pretty wild but this last Wednesday night must have been one of the wildest.

It seems a local golfer was driving his cart toward the club house when he discovered his brakes, wet from the rain, were failing. After dodging a bunch of parked golf carts, the driver finally decided his best bet would be to drive his cart into a couple of white wooden posts.

Unfortunately, the runaway cart was more than the white posts could handle. After knocking two posts over, the driver pursued his route between a few more idle carts before finally coming to a stop.

And that's the truth.

GREG DOSTAL, a tall righthanded pitcher from Norfolk, is one of the latest recruits to sign at Wayne State College. WSC coach Ron Jones was pleased to announce that the 6-4 Norfolk Legion-star signed to play baseball for the Wildcats.

I'M LOOKING FORWARD to watching a four man softball team called "Softball Fever" play an all star team from the Wayne Men's Slow Pitch Softball League. Sunday, July 13 at the Wayne city ball park.

One of the members of "Softball Fever" is a former player for "The King and His Court". If this newly organized team is half as good as "the court", the game is sure to be a great deal of fun.

"Softball Fever" is supposedly the "Harlem Globe Trotters" of softball. They should bring a lot of laughs, fun and talent. Doug Sturm, secretary of the men's league, is responsible for lining up the game.

WHEN I ANNOUNCED the All Area spring sports teams this last week, I had a feeling I probably left off someone's name.

Sure enough, it was brought to my attention that Al Lindsay wasn't listed on the boys' track team. I had to reread the list twice to believe his name wasn't included with the others. Then, I went back to the drawing board and refigured my calculations.

Track athletes were judged on invitational place points and best times. Lindsay placed in several meets and also turned in some good marks. Somehow, his name was omitted. I hope that was my only mistake.

Anyway, my apologies Al. Your name will be added to the honorable mention list where it belongs. Incidentally, every All Area athlete will receive a certificate of achievement.

Rec Tennis Lessons Will be Offered

Area youths, who are interested in receiving free tennis lessons, are encouraged to pre-register, according to Tom Roberts, tennis instructor.

Free lessons will be offered through the Wayne City Park and Recreation Department again this year at the Wayne State College tennis courts. Pre-registration is scheduled at 11:30 a.m., Wednesday, July 2 at the college courts.

It will be necessary to pre-register in order to divide individuals according to age, sex and ability, Roberts said.

Classes will begin on Monday, July 7. They are tentatively scheduled at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday through the end of July. Anyone who is at least 10 years of age and no older than 18 is eligible to take lessons.

Official United States Tennis Association certificates and badges will be awarded to those individuals who successfully complete the classes. One can of tennis balls will also be given for each badge won.

This will be the sixth year in the continuation of the Wayne

Recreation tennis program. Youths will be required to furnish their own shoes and racquets if possible. A limited number of racquets will be available. All tennis balls will be furnished by the Recreation Department.

Roberts has completed two USTA sponsored tennis teaching clinics.

Golf Tourney At Wakefield

The Wakefield National Bank is sponsoring a golf tournament at the Logan Valley Golf Course, Sunday, June 19. The tournament, which is limited to the first 100 golfers, is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m.

The 18 hole flights will be determined by the first or second nine holes. The championship flight will consist of 27 holes. Prizes will be awarded to the first four place winners in each flight.

The bank is offering $2,000 for the first hole-in-one made during regulation tournament play on the third hole. To reserve tee-off times, call 287-2342.

Early Surge

Wayne Trips Norfolk Midgets

TODD PFEIFFER scores one of the final runs for the Wayne Midgets in the fifth inning of Monday night's game against Norfolk. The Midgets took advantage of a big first inning to drop Norfolk.

A four-run first inning led Wayne's Midgets to an 8-3 win over Norfolk, Monday evening at the Wayne city ball park. Jim Sperry threw a four-hitter to gain the victory for the hosts.

Wayne exploded early with four runs on one hit, four errors and a walk in the bottom of the first inning. A double by Jeff McCright was the big hit of the inning.

Norfolk took advantage of three Wayne errors to rebound in the third inning, closing the deficit to 4-2 for a short time. A run by Al Lindsay in the bottom of the inning put Wayne back in front by three runs. Todd Schwartz had a key single.

The hosts gave up another run in the fourth but offset it when Jeff Allen scored in the bottom of the fourth. McCright pounded an RBI double.

Chad Dorcay and Todd Pfeiffer added the final two runs of the game in the fifth inning. Sperry had an RBI single for the winners.

Allen Receives Vials

THE COMMUNITY OF ALLEN is the latest in the area to implement the Vials of Life program, designed to provide immediate health care information in the event of an emergency. The vials were distributed to Allen senior citizens during a breakfast last Friday morning at the Senior Citizens Center. Eva Stark, who was instrumental in establishing the program in Allen, is pictured demonstrating to the senior citizens where the vials should be placed in the refrigerator. In an emergency, ambulance personnel would respond according to information located in the vial, including medical information and history of the residents. The vials also are being made available to other residents in Allen. Several other area communities already have Vials of Life programs, and interest has been expressed in introducing the program in Wayne.

Need Great to Conserve Resources

"There is an overriding need to conserve and improve in rural areas those basic resources on which life depends — our soil and water and forests. The continued availability of ample agricultural resources is basic to maintaining our current standard of living," Anson R. Bertrand, director of science and education for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said recently.

Speaking at the Conference on Rural Conservation sponsored by the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the National Association of Conservation Districts in Washington, Bertrand said, "We have come to see that there are limits to good farmland and water even in the United States. Most people now realize that we can no longer squander either land or water as if we had an unlimited drawing account in these resources."

Bertrand said many people are attracted to rural areas today because of certain traditional advantages that persist there, such as a lack of congestion and the strains that go along with it, opportunities for nearby recreation and a more instructive environment for bringing up children.

"The trick, as our population increases, will be to keep rural America a pleasant and fulfilling place to work and live, while improving its capacity to grow the food, fiber and timber on which we depend," he said. "Rural America is a place to live, but it is also where our agricultural plant is located."

Bertrand said the conservation of rural resources and communities is not going to be easy. However, we now recognize that much worth saving in rural America is threatened and that something needs to be done about it.

He said recent studies by the USDA make clear that demand on rural resources will continue to grow rapidly in the years ahead. "If current trends persist, demand for timber will more than double by 2030, water consumption will increase by 60 percent, and demand for range grazing will rise by 40 percent," he said.

Soil erosion will continue to be a problem, with adverse impacts on crop yields and water quality, he said. "We are currently losing some 4 billion tons of soil a year to all types of erosion, despite 47 years of federal soil conservation programs," he said.

Bertrand cited problems such as prime farmland being converted to nonfarm purposes, the diminishing supply of irrigation water and the vanishing wetlands.

"We are not facing a crisis today, nor do I believe we will face one tomorrow," Bertrand said. "I am saying that if we go on as we have, there is certain trouble down the road. If we take more good land out of farming, if our yields level off, if soil erosion continues unabated, if demand continues to increase — someday we will run short of food and fiber. It may first come in a drought year, or when unexpected crop disease takes its toll. Secretary of Agriculture Bergland has called current trends a 'collision course with disaster.' But trends don't have to come true. These projections are nothing more than warning signals, and a wise nation can heed those warnings and take steps to turn things around."

Bertrand said it would be useful to emphasize a few basic principles in developing a national strategy for rural conservation. He recommended providing rural people with more information about resource management; more attractive incentives for land users to apply soil and water conservation techniques; better management of private forest lands; adequate research and extension help and conservation assistance directed to the needs of the small farm; and coordination of federal, state and local efforts to serve rural people.

Bertrand closed his address by urging that continuity in rural America be preserved and that we not forget our past as we wrestle with the problems of the future.

German Cyclist Finds Countryman in Wayne

When the fellow who was busy packing his camping equipment on his motorcycle recently told Bob Boeckenhauer that he was from Munich, Germany, Boeckenhauer asked if he would like to talk to someone from his home town.

Boeckenhauer then called Inga Atkins and asked her the same question. She soon arrived and there followed a lot of conversation in the German language.

Manfred Hasel, about 30 years old, is traveling across the country. He arrived in New York City with $4,500, bought a Honda motorcycle for $2,100 and still had about $1,300 left. His goal is Los Angeles where he has a friend. There he hopes to sell his motorcycle.

Hasel spent several days in Henry Victor Park.

The young German has no prearranged itinerary except that he wanted to see the Bad Lands of South Dakota, Yellowstone National Park and the Grand Canyon. When he got a Nebraska road map at Omaha, he saw there was an Indian reservation in Thurston County, Nebraska.

Hasel expressed disappointment at what he saw of the Indians, didn't care for American food and wondered if driving up and down Main Street USA and through the park honking horns was the best thing Wayne area youths could think of doing in the evenings.

Hasel has been a student in Munich but is a taxi driver when at home.

Utility Seeks To Reduce Its Expenses

The Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) is making a concerted effort to reduce its construction and operations expenditures in view of the ever increasing costs of electrical energy, according to Jules W. Burbach of Hartington, a member of the NPPD board of directors.

As of the end of May, the district's staff and management had agreed to cancel more than $611,000 in construction and capital expenditures that had previously been approved as part of the 1980 budget, Burbach said today.

"The cut in expenditures is particularly important now in view of the tight money situation and recession period we are experiencing," according to Burbach.

He said that, for the most part, the construction work can be delayed because high interest rates have discouraged subdivision developments in cities thus eliminating additional electrical loads on the NPPD system. He also noted that the District's overall load growth has not been at the level that had earlier been anticipated.

The delay in construction work is general throughout the NPPD system and is not concentrated in any particular area.

"The cutback in spending will not have a noticeable effect on the quality of service customers have come to expect from NPPD," Burbach said.

Americans Need More Respect for the Military

Congressman Doug Bereuter has called on Americans to renew their respect for the armed forces, which "promise careers worthy of our finest, most talented young men and women."

"We will begin to solve some of our military manpower problems only when this nation rediscovers the fundamental value of the sacrifices and contributions made by our men and women in uniform," Bereuter said at Flag Day ceremonies at the York City Auditorium. "It is a sad state of affairs that military service is no longer widely regarded as a noble profession."

"I fear that individuals are leaving the armed forces in part because of the decline in appreciation and respect for our nation's soldiers. Once the pride of our country they have been unjustly scorned and mistreated since the Vietnam War," he said. "Let's not lose sight of the fact that our armed forces promise careers worthy of our finest, most talented young men and women."

Bereuter also called on Congress to restore some of the generous educational benefits of the old GI Bill, which expired in 1976. In addition, he emphasized the need for increased pay for enlisted personnel. Military compensation and benefits must be restructured on a scale more commensurate with civilian pay and benefits, Bereuter said.

'Reasonable Charges' May Confuse Some

Many people in the Northeast Nebraska area who have Medicare protection are not sure just what is meant by "reasonable charges." District Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk said recently.

Under the law, payment of benefits under the medical insurance part of Medicare is based on reasonable charges for covered services or supplies. People probably would have less trouble understanding this term if they thought of it as the "allowed" or "permitted" charge. But that, Branch said, is not the complete story either.

The reasonable charge for a medical service is determined by the Medicare carrier for each year. First, the carrier determines the customary charge by each doctor and supplier for each separate service or supply. This is generally the charge most often made. Then, the carrier figures the prevailing charge for each covered service or supply. This charge is a figure high enough to cover the customary charge on three-fourths of the bills submitted the previous year for each service or supply.

Increases in the prevailing charge from year to year are limited by an index formula based on the cost of doing business and raises in general earnings level. Only the amount Medicare can pay is limited; the amount a doctor charges is not limited.

Medical insurance pays 80 percent of the reasonable charge after the $60 annual deductible has been met. If the doctor accepts assignment, then the total charge for the covered services will be the reasonable charge approved. When a Medicare claim is submitted, the reasonable charge approved by the carrier will be the lowest of either the customary charge, the prevailing charge or the actual charge. The Medicare concept of reasonable charge has nothing to do with whether a particular doctor's fees are reasonable in the usual sense of the word. It has only to do with the amount Medicare can pay.

Precipitation in Wakefield also was slightly under normal for May, according to the report. Some 3.72 inches of rain was received which is .01 of an inch below normal.

Thone Asks Change in Construction Project Wages

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Gov. Charles Thone has requested the U.S. Labor Department to reverse a decision to raise wages on certain highway construction projects.

The decision that minimum wages for workers constructing specified federally funded projects must equal union scale would increase costs because the union scale is higher than the open shop scale used in Nebraska.

In a letter to Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Thone said the new wage determination violates the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 in that it requires the state to pay wages on certain projects that are higher than the area's prevailing wage rate.

A copy of the governor's letter was sent to President Carter.

So far, the only project that would be affected would be construction of a new executive director's 80 rest stop north of Lincoln.

The project has been scheduled for letting recently, but state Roads Director David Coolidge postponed the letting, pending resolution of the wage question.

Sen. Edward Zorinsky also sent a letter to the President, requesting that he look into the matter.

Zorinsky told Carter he is concerned because a spokesman for the Associated General Contractors of Nebraska has charged the Labor Department decision was politically motivated and was contrary to "established Nebraska practice."

James Critchfield, association executive director, had earlier charged that the president was attempting "to inflate the costs of the Nebraska taxpayers' program an additional 20 percent to buy union votes."

In his letter to the President, Zorinsky said, "Because of the seriousness of these charges, I would appreciate your looking into this matter."

Urdules resigns
The state's Mexican-American Commission is looking for a new executive director. Pete Urdules recently resigned the position during a commission meeting in Omaha. He had been executive director since 1977 when he succeeded Stan Porras.

A three-member committee was named to search for a replacement and applications will be taken until July 13, according to Commission Chairman Clement Aguilar of Lincoln.

Jesse Cervantes, who is serving as acting director, said he did not know whether he would seek the appointment.

He said the three-man committee will screen the applications and the final applicants will be interviewed by the full commission.

Guest statute upheld
By a vote of 4-3, the state Supreme Court judges have upheld the constitutionality of the law that forbids passengers to file lawsuits against vehicle drivers after accidents.

In a minority opinion, three of the judges indicated they are ready to declare the controversial statute unconstitutional.

It takes the agreement of five judges to declare a state law unconstitutional.

The court's majority, in upholding the validity of the so-called guest statute, noted it had ruled the law constitutional five years ago.

"As a less than constitutional majority of this court is willing to reconsider that decision, a discussion of the arguments made by the plaintiffs would be fruitless," the majority opinion said.

The ruling was in connection with a lawsuit filed by Leonard Kreifels after his son, Jimmy, 13, a passenger on a motorcycle, was killed in the collision of the cycle and a car on an Otoe County gravel road.

The court record showed the motorcycle, driven by 14 year old Randy Warfle, did not stop for a stop sign, even though Jimmy yelled at Randy to stop before they came to the intersection.

The court majority did reverse Otoe County District Court's dismissal of the case on the grounds the issue of gross negligence should have been given to the jury.

Chief Justice Norman Krivosha, in the minority opinion, acknowledged there were not enough votes to reconsider the 1975 ruling that upheld the guest statute. But he said, "I would not wish to leave the impression that that holding is so firmly supported that it should not continue to be considered."

Krivosha said the law violates the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment by denying equal protection under law.

Psychiatrist's credentials questioned
State officials are expected to announce a decision soon on whether a psychiatrist at the Norfolk Regional Center who recently turned in his medical license had the proper credentials for the position.

The acting director of the state Department of Public Institutions, Dr. Charles Landgraf Jr., said there was no particular urgency in getting the investigation completed because Dr. Richard Theodore Flynn had voluntarily submitted his medical license while he is being treated for drug dependency.

Flynn, who is 60, was a psychiatrist at the Norfolk center for 18 months. He surrendered his medical license on June 4.

Dr. Howard Herrick, 54, former clinical director at the Norfolk center, turned in his license on May 22.

According to state officials, the two doctors were prescribing a painkiller, which is a depressant, for each other.

Landgraf said Flynn received his medical degree in 1945 from Marquette University. He said Flynn's degree and certification to practice obstetrics and gynecology are in order but his training as a psychiatrist is being questioned.

Landgraf said Flynn claims to have received his psychiatric training through a five-year preceptorship program, which is training received under another psychiatrist.

Preceptorship programs are not accredited for psychiatric training, Landgraf said.

He added the procedures used by Herrick in hiring Flynn were not the ones normally followed.

Normally, he said, the hiring would have been done in consultation with the center's personnel director and after Flynn had met other physicians on the staff. Landgraf said those steps were not used when Flynn was hired.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 years ago
June 29, 1950: Wayne has its fogging machine. The council voted to reject the "trail fogger" because Henry Victor and Norb Brugger have put together a homemade "fogger" that is just as effective as the other machine. The machine was built for about $30 out of an old range boiler, valves, hose and other fittings. It is mounted on a 1928 International Truck. Jerry's Cafe was robbed of $107 early Thursday evening. It was the sixth robbery in Wayne within two months. Both cash registers had been rifled and $5 and $10 bills and a few $1 bills have been taken, for a total of $107. Dr. D.R. Walter, Wayne dentist for three and one-half years, has bought the Albion Dental practice of Dr. J.J. Conlan and has gone to Albion to take over the practice. Dr. R.E. Gormley of Winside bought the practice of Dr. Walter's in Wayne.

20 years ago
June 23, 1960: Mike Karel, Budd Bornhoff and Roger Lueders, Wayne High, are attending the University of Nebraska all state fine arts course in Lincoln. The course will close Friday with the presentation of portions of noted musical shows at the Student Union ballroom. Charles J. Koeber, son of Dr. and Mrs. W.A. Koeber, Wayne, was one of 700 W.W. Navel academy midshipment who completed two weeks of amphibious warfare training Friday at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious base, Norfolk, Va.

15 years ago
June 24, 1965: Harry Kelson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kelson, and a graduate of Wayne's Hahn High School, has been named winner of the regional organ competition covering five states. He competed in the contest sponsored by the American Guild of Organists. Michael Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perry, Wayne, has accepted a position with Ford Motor Co., Louisville, Ky. He and his family left Sunday. His wife, Jill, has accepted a teaching position with the Louisville School system. The cornerstone of a new nine-story dormitory, destined to become a landmark signifying the growth of Wayne State College, is to be laid in ceremonies Monday, June 28. The dormitory is expected to house over 400 students.

10 years ago
June 25, 1970: Don Johnson, assistant basketball coach at Wayne High for the past five years, has been advanced to head basketball duties for the 1970-71 school year, replacing Dick Nelson. Diana Meacham won the "Miss Congeniality" award at the annual Miss Nebraskaland competition last week at North Platte. Miss Meacham represented Wayne State College. Winside will have some of its local talent appearing at the Clarkson Czech Festival Saturday. Phyllis and Carla Miller, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Miller of rural Winside, will present a baton twirling duet act featuring one and two batons. The Mrs. Jayces in Wayne are still seeking contestants for the coming Miss Wayne County Centennial Pageant. Winner of the beauty contest will reign as Miss Wayne County during the first week in August and she will be the honored during the 1970 Wayne County Fair.

Corn Syrup to Sweeten State's Economy: Thone

"High fructose corn syrup is going to sweeten Nebraska's economy in the years just ahead.

"Making sweetener out of corn is one of the nation's fastest growing industries. As of now, Nebraska doesn't have a plant to make corn syrup, but I'm working with the state's industrial development agency to attract one or more companies to build within our borders.

"In January, the Coca Cola Company announced that it was going to begin using corn syrup for half the sweetener in Coke. A year ago, the same company switched to 100 percent corn syrup in its non-cola drinks. Dr. Pepper, 7 Up and Royal Crown are using corn for 25 to 75 percent of their sweetening.

"Shipments of corn syrup to bakers and makers of ice cream and frozen desserts are increasing at the rate of about 30 percent a year.

"Processing our state grain in Nebraska — whether in making corn syrup, alcohol or Gasohol or more traditional food products — is becoming increasingly important. The fact of the matter is that we can hardly afford to ship our whole grain for long distances.

"Everytime OPEC raises oil prices we can expect another increase in shipping rates. The cost of moving a bushel of grain out of the state jumped about 20 percent last year. Other freight rate increases are expected yet this year.

"Recent and pending freight increases are apt to knock 10 cents a bushel off the price that Nebraska's farmers will receive for their crops. We desperately need to develop more markets in the state for our grain.

"There's no shortage of starch anywhere in the world, but in many parts of the globe there is a great need for more protein. After syrup is taken from corn, it still produces about 17 pounds of protein per bushel. A great economic plus is that although the European Common Market levies a very high tariff on American corn it charges no duty on corn protein.

"Nebraska farmers are using their own dollars in efforts to make corn sweetener even more attractive to industry. The state corn board — operating with dollars raised by the checkoff that Nebraska corn farmers voted to levy on themselves — has just financed very important research at the University of Nebraska. The search is to find those enzymes that will best convert the starch in corn to sugar and do it at high temperatures.

A Letter From
Gov. Charley Thone

"Development and promotion of corn syrup in our state shouldn't hurt Nebraska sugar beet producers. In 1980, for the first time in six years, world sugar demand is expected to grow faster than production. To correct our nation's imbalance of trade, the U.S. needs to stop importing so much foreign sugar and sweeten our food with our sugar and corn.

"The Cornhusker state can become the corn sweetener state. And if the syrup adds a hefty boost to Nebraska's economy we won't care if others call us corny."

June 21, 1980

Dear Editor:

You really goofed, I hope!

I refer to the June 19th coverage of the Winside school notes, where you stated that board members had agreed to charge $5,000, FIVE THOUSAND, that is per non resident student.

My reaction was that of shame to think I was actually a member of a district that would gouge friends and neighbors in such manner. And if it is actually costing $5,000 per student per year, then we seriously need to overhaul the entire school structure, eliminating and reducing programs throughout the system.

But then I thought, "It must be a misprint, because one can attend college full time, including board and room for half that amount."

So please, dear Editor, say it's a bad mistake and print us an accurate figure.

Mrs. Paul Dangberg
Wayne

(Editor's Note: Sorry Mrs. Dangberg, but a check of Winside School Board Minutes shows that the free-high tuition is indeed $5,000 for the coming school year. This means that students not living within the school district boundaries must pay $5,000 for attending school there. Wayne-Carroll School District charges non-resident students $4,500.)

June 21, 1980

Dear Editor:

I was offended by parts of the article on a Quota for Red Cross Swimming Lessons.

I am one of the mothers who signed her children up for Red Cross swimming lessons. To say that we of other communities did "besiege" the swimming program was a misleading statement as was the statement "carloads of children." You made it sound like an extremely large group of "out of town" children, which I am sure, is not the case. We certainly did not "lay siege to overwhelm or close in on" the pool or the program, as the definition of besiege would imply.

What I thought I was doing was registering my children for swimming lessons given by a very organized, well trained group of individuals, in an excellent pool, in a nice friendly town. Maybe the quota system would be fairer for Wayne residents but by the Nebraska State

Historical Society

Housekeeping in pioneer Fremont, 1857

M. Elizabeth Reynolds arrived in Fremont in August, 1857, when the town was, in her words, "six or eight log cabins and about a score of hay stacks." Forty years later in 1897 she wrote down her experiences for the Women's Club of Fremont. Her manuscript is on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society.

neighbors to a greater or less degree.

"Our dwellings were log cabins, a story and a half high; the floors of rough cotton wood boards, put down just as they came from the mill, which shrank so badly in a few weeks after being laid, that the space between the boards bade fair to rival the width of the boards themselves. The wind which blew incessantly, came through the cracks with such force, that in winter time it was impossible to keep the dwelling warm.

"Few of us possessed carpets. Those of us who did not used to buy a rush mat that the squaws made, and which lasted very well while they lasted. One winter I covered my floor with buffalo robes; of these every settler had a supply, procuring them from the Indians who lived on the South of the Platte River. I used also to buy buffalo moccasins from the squaws, and wear them over my shoes in the winter, which, though awkward and clumsy, were comfortable. Of clothing, most of us brought a beautiful supply from the East, so we did not suffer in that respect.

"But the larger, to keep that filled with the most common necessities of life, was beyond most of us. Omaha was our base of supplies, and it took three days to make the trip, one to go down, one to do the trading and one to drive home. So our shopping expeditions were few and far between.

"As long as a cent remained in the purse the first year, we lived comfortably, but there came a day, alas, when the purse became empty, not only that, but the flour barrel also, and the coffee canister and the tea canister, also the sugar bucket. In fact we had nothing in the house but potatoes and salt. We had a quantity of corn, which had been purchased of the Indians, a much softer variety than the dent corn of today, and made a fine meal.

"But there was no mill to grind it nearer than Bellevue, south of Omaha, and we could not wait for a team to make the trip there and back. So an Uncle with an inventive turn of mind, took a tin milk pan and with a nail punched the bottom full of holes, as close together as they could possibly be put. Turning the pan upside down upon the table, the ears of corn were scraped backwards and forwards over the rough surface, and the particles thus scraped off, formed the meal, which made all the meal we had for many days.

"I might add for the benefit of the cook of today, that having no cow, we had no milk or butter. Owing no hens we had no eggs. The corn bread was mixed with water, and a little saleratus (baking soda) added. I will not vouch for its lightness.

"There were plenty of wild plums and grapes on the banks of the Elkhorn and Maple Creek, but as few of us had the necessary sugar to preserve them, we could make but little use of them. In the spring of '58 we were made happy, by receiving from the Agricultural Department of Washington, packages of sorghum seed, which were planted and tended with zealous care. Our townsman, Wm. Kittle, made a small mill for crushing the cane. A number of the women went to the fields and helped strip the leaves from the stalk in order to prepare it for the crushing. The juice was then boiled down in shallow tin pans, and we felt rich indeed, in the possession of a few gallons of sorghum, which was all the sweetening of any kind, I had in the house that winter."

remember that we "out of towners" do help support your community and pool, too.

Yes, my family bought a very expensive non-resident family ticket this year as we have in the past.

I have always liked Wayne — it's people and it's businesses but give us "out of towners" a break, will you? We could become paranoid with first, the sales tax proposal, then the high non-resident pool rates, and now a proposed quota on swimming lessons. Maybe you should feel proud instead of angry, that we like your facilities.

Bereuter Seeks Ouster Of Speaker Tip O'Neill

First District Congressman Doug Bereuter told Nebraska Republicans recently that he is urging Republican congressional hopefuls to campaign not only against their Democrat opponents this year, but also against the Speaker of the House, Thomas "Tip" O'Neill.

In a speech to delegates at the Nebraska State Republican convention in Lincoln, Bereuter revealed that he and two other first term Republican Congressmen have urged national GOP strategists to focus on the apparently unpopular image of O'Neill.

Bereuter noted that the Republican National Committee has been very successful with its nationwide media campaign in the past few months.

and I have advised the Republican Campaign Committee to take a page out of history and "run against the speaker," Bereuter noted. He explained that, in 1908, the Democrats used the same tactic against Speaker "Uncle Joe" Cannon, with much success. Cannon also had a very negative image among voters, Bereuter added.

During his remarks to the Republican gathering, Bereuter also predicted major gains for Republicans in both houses of Congress. Bereuter reminded the convention delegates of President Carter's theme of "A New Foundation."

"It appears that the building blocks of Carter's 'New Foundation' are runaway inflation, stagging interest rates, millions out of work and a total lack of confidence by foreign nations in our ability to lead the free world," Bereuter said. Bereuter also commented that Carter is either a bad Mason or a poor president allowing the convention delegates to take their pick.

Bereuter also asked for the support of the delegates for his candidacy for a second term in the House of Representatives.

Seeking Credit May Bring Dilemma

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of several articles developed by the Cooperative Extension Service in Lincoln. The articles provide some practical advice for making the best of a bad situation. The articles will deal with farm management practices, cropping decisions, marketing and financing.

Obtaining credit this year for farm operations may be as difficult and expensive as it has ever been. Farmers seeking credit may find themselves in a dilemma between obtaining sufficient operating funds and the undesirable practice of splitting financing needs between lenders, some of whom may be unfamiliar with the borrower's needs and operation.

If they have not already done so, farmers should first go over projected credit needs with their usual lenders. Remember that lender's are favorably impressed by operators who have definite operating plans and detailed projections for credit needs and repayment. Prior planning greatly increases the likelihood that credit will be approved. Your best chance of obtaining credit is probably with a lender who is familiar with you and your operation.

If you are not able to obtain sufficient financing from your usual lender, a number of alternative credit sources exist. Such sources include:

1. Farmers Home Administration, FmHA was recently granted additional funds to make economic emergency operating loans to qualifying Nebraska farmers. Consult your local FmHA Office for qualifications and details. Funds are limited, so act immediately.

2. Small Business Administration. The SBA has received the authority to guarantee loans to farms and ranches as well as other small businesses. Their current efforts primarily involve guaranteeing loans by commercial lenders to eligible borrowers for equipment purchases and operating credit. Consult your lender and the SBA for eligibility and details.

3. Seller Financing. If you wish to buy feeder cattle or feed, the seller may be willing to finance your purchase himself in order to make the sale. The same applies to suppliers of fertilizer, fuel, seed and farm machinery.

4. Borrowing against life insurance. Most "whole life" policies accumulate a cash value you may borrow against at a low rate of interest. The cash value and interest rate are stated in your policy. Remember that the debt outstanding will be deducted from the insurance proceeds if you should die.

5. Borrowing against savings accounts. Many financial institutions permit borrowing against savings account balances at an interest rate only slightly above the interest you receive. Remember, however, that borrowing against savings accounts ties up the account until the debt is repaid.

6. Borrowing from relatives. This source of credit frequently strains family ties. If it is used, set the loan up on a businesslike basis. Both parties should understand that the loan is a business transaction, not a gift or forgivable loan.

7. ASCS loans. Loans may be available from ASCS for grain storage facilities. These loans are covered in another part of this series. Check with ASCS for details.

8. Equipment leasing. While leasing often results in higher total costs, it may be a useful alternative when credit is unavailable or the producer is unable to make a purchase downpayment. Leasing with option to buy may also be advantageous, although the Internal Revenue Service would probably not consider it a lease.

9. Custom Operations. Farmers unable to obtain sufficient credit to purchase machinery might consider having certain operations performed on a custom basis. This strategy might have particular merit if major changes in cropping patterns are anticipated this year.

In summary, farmers should discuss their credit needs with their usual lenders before exploring alternative sources. Try to minimize credit splitting when possible, but take advantage of available alternatives as needed.

Better lawns
One of the tricks for a better lawn is by not cutting your lawn too short. By now you should have raised the cutting height of your lawn mower to three inches. Leaving the grass taller will usually result in a deeper root system which is better able to withstand drought stress. If you apply a fertilizer, use no more than one half pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. Mow your lawn with a sharp mower that will cut off the blades evenly without shredding the tips and vary your mowing patterns so that equipment traffic will not compact the soil. The lawns should be mowed when it is dry and no more than one third of the blade surface should be removed during any one cutting.

Strawberries
Harvest period for June bearing strawberries is nearly completed. Only vigorous plantings of June bearing strawberries should be maintained for next year. Weak, weedy or diseased plants should be destroyed following harvest. June bearing strawberry beds should be renovated immediately after harvest. Yields and size of berries are usually less in second and third year beds.

Row width of June bearers should be narrowed with a cultivator or plow. Original plants in the center of the row should be plowed out, leaving a row six inches wide to the right or left of the original row. Spacing between the new rows, center to center, should be four feet. Cultivate between new rows and use mulch or herbicides to kill competing weeds.

New rows should be irrigated and treated as young transplants.

1981 asparagus crop
When the spear size harvested begins to decline in your asparagus bed it is time to stop harvesting the crop. Eight to ten weeks of harvest is usually maximum for a mature asparagus bed.

After completion of harvest you should add two pounds of ammonium nitrate per 1,000 square feet side dressed on your rows after harvest will increase vegetative growth and strengthen the plant for next year's production. If fertilizer is unavailable, compost or well rotted manure should be used on the asparagus bed after harvest.

Premerg herbicide, a preemergent herbicide, could be used in the asparagus bed after the harvest is complete for weed

New Lawn Pests Now in Nebraska

If your lawn appears wilted this summer even though it has been heavily irrigated, a U.S. Department of Agriculture entomologist says the problem may be caused by a recently confirmed insect pest that has the common name of black turfgrass ateniuss.

Or, if Kentucky bluegrass plants appear seriously weakened, with yellow and reddening of the foliage this summer, a form or biotype of the greenbug adapted to Kentucky bluegrass may have evolved in your area.

Dean Kindler, Lincoln, says the newly identified turf pest prefers to feed on Kentucky bluegrass, annual bluegrass and bentgrass. Its scientific name is Ataenius spretulus. It has been identified in most states as far west as Nebraska and Colorado.

The greenbug, an aphid, is familiar to most Great Plains farmers because of the damage it causes to wheat, grain sorghum and grassy crops. It has also recently damaged pastures in Arkansas.

Sod webworms, white grubs and bluegrass billbugs are other insects that continue to damage bluegrass lawns in the Midwest. These established turf pests may be controlled with sevin or diazinon applied according to instructions on the pesticide label.

The newly transformed adult beetle of Ataenius spretulus is initially dark red, slowly changing to black in a few hours, Kindler says. The adult beetle is about three sixteenths of an inch long at maturity. Larvae look like miniature replicas of white grubs, and like other grubs, they feed on roots of grasses.

The adult Ataenius spretulus overwinters by burying itself in the upper two or three inches of loose and well drained soil. It rises to the surface and begins laying eggs as early as mid April in Nebraska, says Kindler, of the department's Science and Education Administration Agricultural Research. Clusters of up to a dozen eggs from each beetle can be found near the soil surface.

Turf takes on a wilted appearance when larval populations become high in early summer, and damage is more severe if the grass is under moisture stress. As many as 700 or more grubs per square foot is not unusual and the number of Ataenius spretulus grubs may double after a second generation is produced in August.

The greenbug, a potential damaging pest of Kentucky bluegrass if an adapted biotype develops, is a soft bodied, small and light green or greenish yellow aphid with a narrow dark green stripe down the center of its back. Kindler says large numbers of greenbugs damage grassy plants by feeding on the sap with piercing sucking mouth parts. In addition, the greenbug secretes and injects a toxin in plants as it feeds, producing a pronounced yellowing and red dening of the foliage.

The greenbug is not known to overwinter in northern states but migrates from the south, arriving in early June in Nebraska. Kindler says it can complete a generation every seven days, so many generations may be produced during the growing season.

Ethanol Has Several Byproducts

By Dr. Stan Farlin
Extension Beef Nutritionist
Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources

University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Byproducts are an important factor in overall economics of ethanol alcohol production since they represent about one-third of the original weight of the grain fermented and can be worth about two-thirds of the original value of the corn used.

For example, if corn is worth $2.30 per bushel, the 17 pounds of byproducts from a bushel of corn may be worth roughly $1.50.

The increase in value per unit weight of the byproduct as compared to the corn is due to the higher protein content. Because starch in the grain amounts to about two-thirds of the weight, when the starch is used up during fermentation, all the protein and other nutrients in the original bushel of grain are concentrated in the 17 pounds of byproduct, thus yielding a product with about 30 percent protein.

To take full advantage of the value of the byproducts requires that the byproduct be used correctly. The most effective use of distillers grains, which amount to 60 percent of the total byproducts, is accomplished by using it as a protein source in growing cattle rations. It has about 173 percent the value of soybean meal as a protein source for growing cattle due to the resistance of the distillers grain protein to breakdown in the rumen of the calf.

The other 40 percent of the byproduct is distillers solubles (really solids in suspension in the liquid phase). Although this fraction contains about 30 percent protein, its protein has no more value than urea as a source of protein.

The relative value of the distillers grains and distillers solubles changes when used as a protein source for cattle being fed high grain finishing rations. Distillers grain have no additional value in this case; thus, the byproducts should be considered equal as a protein source for high grain rations. They could be considered as having the same value as urea since they all will result in the same animal performance when used as a protein source for finishing cattle.

If the relative value of the distillers grain protein to soybean meal protein is taken into account, formulating a protein supplement using distillers grains usually will offer a price advantage over using soybean meal. The advantage will change as prices of ingredients (soybean meal, distillers grains, corn, urea) change. For example, prices on Dec. 21, 1979, resulted in a $33 per ton advantage for distillers grains. On April 7, 1980, the advantage was reduced to $5 per ton because of the drop in soybean meal price.

Previous research has been conducted using dried byproducts providing above values. Many questions remain to be answered concerning the wet byproducts.

Current research at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is aimed at determining the value of wet byproducts, although the results are expected to agree quite closely with values of dried byproducts. The nutritional value of distillers byproducts is obvious from the previous research, however, utilizing the wet products will present serious problems.

The wet material is very susceptible to mold if not fed in a matter of days. Separation of the grains and the solubles will be difficult for small on-farm ethanol plants, thus, methods of feeding the stillage containing both grains and solubles are needed.

The stillage may contain about 90 percent water. A steer would need to consume about 10 pounds of material, or about 1.25 gallons to get one pound of dry matter. To get a pound of protein would require that the steer consume about 3.75 gallons per day. The distillers grains may contain from 40 to 65 percent water. Thus, any product fed wet will present some problems that must be solved if full use is to be made of the byproducts of alcohol production.

For every 1,000,000 gallons of alcohol produced in Nebraska, about 400,000 bushel of grain will be fermented, producing approximately 2,040 tons of distillers grains and 1,360 tons of distillers solubles on an air dry basis. If these byproducts were used to supply 1 pound of protein per head per day, it would require 12,400 head of cattle on feed at a time through the year for distillers grains or about 20,600 head for both distillers grains and solubles.

It is certain that large amounts of byproducts will become available for cattle feeds. University of Nebraska research ultimately will provide answers which will help cattle producers utilize this new feed resources in an effective way.

Pork Numbers Show Decline

Nebraska pork producers had 4.1 million hogs and pigs on hand June 1, 1980. This inventory was down 6 percent from last year but was 17 percent above two years earlier. The market hog inventory at 3.5 million head was 4 percent less than June 1 last year while hogs kept for breeding showed a 19 percent decrease. The weight breakdown of market hogs was as follows:

Under 60 pounds — 1,601,000, down 10 percent; 60-119 pounds — 832,000, down 4 percent; 120-179 pounds — 644,000, up 7 percent; 180 pounds and over — 463,000 up 5 percent.

During the March-May quarter, 250,000 sows produced a pig crop of 1.85 million pigs, down 10 percent from a year earlier but 22 percent above two years ago.

Nebraska pork producers in tend to farrow 390,000 sows during the next 6 months. Farrowing during this period, if realized, would be 14 percent less than the same period in 1979 and 1 percent below two years ago. Summer quarter intentions at 190,000 are down 14 percent while the fall quarter showed a 15 percent drop.

The home of John Tyler, America's 10th president, is still occupied by his descendants.

The Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) has adopted a resolution urging Nebraskans not to sign a petition to place a constitutional limit on Nebraska taxes.

A substantial number of questions have been raised by legislative and NSSBA staff analysis of the 13 sections of the petition which is sponsored by the Nebraska Tax Limitation Coalition. These remain to be answered.

The sponsor of the petition has failed to respond to NSSBA written requests to provide a detailed written explanation of the petition.

The NSSBA believes it would not be in the best interest of the state and its local subdivisions for the petition to be adopted as part of the constitution. In addition, the NSSBA maintains there are technical defects in the petition so severe and the language so nebulous that citizens of the state should avoid signing the petition.

If enough signatures are generated, the issue would be placed on the November general election ballot.

4-H'ers Eligible For $1,000 Scholarships

College-bound Nebraska 4-H members may be eligible for several 4-H scholarships valued up to $1,000, according to Louie Rudman, extension 4-H youth development specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Qualifications for the scholarships vary with the donors and all winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service on the basis of interest in a college education, financial need, high school grades, leadership abilities and 4-H background. Rudman said.

To qualify for one of two $1,000 scholarships donated by the Edwin T. Meredith Foundation, can-dicates must be present or former 4-H members who plan to enroll as freshmen at an accredited college or university this fall. They must live in Nebraska or one of 14 other specific states.

Four-H members in an 11-state area, including Nebraska, may be eligible for $750 college scholarships donated by the Gulf Central Pipeline Company, a Santa Fe Industries Company. In addition, 60 members in a 13-state area can earn educational awards in connection with the 59th National 4-H Congress.

Present or former 4-H'ers enrolled as college juniors, seniors or graduate students majoring in forestry, agricultural business or agricultural economics may qualify for $600 scholarships this year in a special program funded by Chicago and North Western Transportation Company. Candidates must submit a study on some phase in the marketing and transportation of agricultural commodities or forest products. One scholarship is available in each of nine states, including Nebraska.

All of the scholarship awards are arranged by the National 4-H Council, a not for profit organization serving the 4-H work of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Young people who are interested in applying for these scholarships should get in touch with their state 4-H leader or county extension office for more information and special application forms.

Unusual Father's Day Gift

JOHN PAXTON, Wayne State College marketing instructor who is working on his doctorate, got the "feel of flying" again thanks to a thoughtful family who gave him a monetary Father's Day gift to use to get some time in one of Al Robinson's "birds." Paxton, who has about 100 hours of flying time but hasn't been active since September, took a short check ride around the "patch" with Robinson and then he was on his own, as steady as ever thanks to the basic training he received while working on his private pilot's certificate.

Bereuter Says Greed Prevails Over Sense

"Greed prevailed over common sense" in a bill reported last week by the House Interior Committee to reform the 1902 Reclamation Law, according to Congressman Doug Bereuter.

Bereuter, who serves on the committee, voted against a proposal that would establish ownership patterns in Reclamation Districts at 960 acres per farm unit. "This bill runs contrary to the original intent of the 1902 law and will result in fewer people owning lands that receive federally subsidized water."

Current law, in effect for 78 years, limits to 160 acres per family member the amount of land a farmer can own and irrigate with subsidized water. The Interior Committee bill proposes to raise the limit to 960 acres with the ability to lease an additional 2,400 acres.

"Clearly I realize that 160 acres is not an adequate amount of land to run a modern farm in almost any area of the country," Bereuter said. "However, that amount, coupled with an unlimited leasing provision with higher prices for water, would still offer the flexibility to help all farmers utilize the benefits of federal reclamation water under both current and future conditions."

During committee consideration of the bill, Bereuter offered an amendment to set a 160-acre limitation of reclamation water with leasing allowed up to 960 acres, at which point a graduated pricing formula would take effect. The committee defeated the amendment, "an unfortunate action because it now reduces the number of individuals who can benefit from the program."

Bereuter summarized key provisions of the legislation as follows:

— 960 acreage limitation on ownership, plus equivalency based on growing season, soil conditions and other conditions affecting plant growth.

— In addition to owning 960 acres, an individual can lease as much as 2,400 acres.

— no residency requirement.

— Imperial Valley district of California is exempted, as ruled by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Similarly, all U.S. Army Corps of Engineers projects are excluded.

— once an individual passes the 960-acre ownership limit, he must pay additional costs for the water received.

— the irrigation district can pay off the cost of the water delivery system and after five years, no longer be subject to the reclamation law.

— only American citizens and resident aliens are eligible to receive project water.

Census Takers Making Rounds

Census takers are making their rounds in this area, calling at households which have not mailed back their 1980 census questionnaires. They are making telephone calls at most households which have mailed back incompletely filled out questionnaires.

Judy Backhaus, manager of the district office, says the round-up should be completed in the next few weeks.

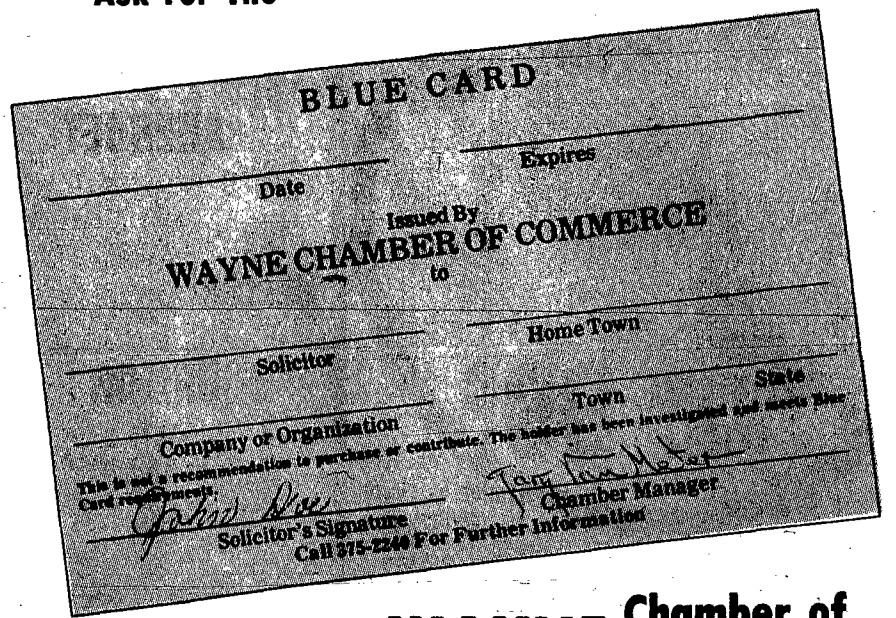

"You can easily tell if someone who knocks on your door is a census taker," the manager advises. "We all wear red, white and blue identification cards with the U.S. Department of Commerce seal and 'Census Enumerator, Official Credential' printed on them, and each bears the wearer's signature."

Households should promptly report to the police anyone who claims to be a census taker but cannot produce this identification.
