Appreciation Expressed to 670 Area Farm Ladies

By LaVon Beckman

"Farm ladies, we appreciate you" was the message sent forth to hundreds of area farm wives and women who turned out for a free luncheon and program Thursday afternoon sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

THEME FOR the event, which was held in the Wayne State College Student Center, was "Friendship Hot From the Oven".

For the past five years Wayne businesses have contributed both time and money for the luncheon, which is believed to be the only such event in the state expressing the business community's appreciation for rural contributions towards the welfare of the area.

John Dorcey, Chamber president, welcomed the nearly 670 women attending this year's luncheon, thanking them for their business in the Wayne community during the past year and wishing them a prosperous year ahead.

SPEAKING ON BEHALF of the area farm ladies, Mrs. Donna Ring expressed their appreciation to the participating Wayne merchants and to the women on the committee who spent months planning and preparing for the event. "This has to be a most discouraging day for rural door-to-door salesmen," laughed Mrs. Ring.

Entertainment following the meal included selections by The Goodtime Quartet, comprised of Gordon Nedergaard, Keith Kopperud, Jim Marsh and Bill Dickey. Their accompanist was Cheryl Kopperud.

Toastmaster Alan Cramer introduced speaker Tom Allen, Omaha World-Herald roving reporter and photographer, who wooed the women with his opening remarks. "This has to be one of life's greatest moments for a man," said Allen, as he looked out across the hundreds of "beautiful and angelic women."

ALLEN PAID compliment to Wayne's business district when he announced that his wife was unable to accompany him to the luncheon because she was shopping Wayne's stores.

Allen, who is known across the state of Nebraska for his stories and pictures which have appeared in the World Herald for the past 21 years, chose not to speak to the women about farming, saying "everyone knows they (women) are the greatest experts in the world."

The longtime newspaperman reflected on his years in the business, telling of various persons he has met and places he has seen.

His three-part message to the women was divided into gobbledegook (double talk), hog slop (hidden meanings), and deep sleep (quality of life).

Allen described gobbledegook as the type of talk that comes out of Washington, D. C. or the type of things written in "do-it-yourself" pamphlets.

REFERRING TO "hog slop," Allen told the story of an old professor, who, when speaking to a hippie discouraged with the state of the world, advised him to nurture his soul on the good and beautiful things of this world to strengthen his desire to clean up the "slop."

The journalist chose to quote the late John G. Neihardt, Poet Laureate of Nebraska, to define "deep sleep."

Allen said he once asked Neihardt to tell him the best things in life. Neihardt responded with not one, but four qualities needed for a rich, full life. First, said Neihardt, you need to have an all-inclusive love, second you need the joy of craftsmanship, and third you must have deep spiritual insight.

Neihardt went on to say that you must have the first three qualities in your heart so as to obtain the last, which is deep sleep. Allen explained that Neihardt did not mean the sleep of exhaustion, but the "deep, restful, restorative sleep of complete oblivion."

The speaker closed the program by wishing all of the farm women "deep sleep."

RECEIVING DOOR prizes at the close of the afternoon were Mrs. Wallace Anderson, Mrs. Harold Fleer, Mrs. Willis Meyer, Mrs. Ronnie Doring and Mrs. Leo Hansen, all of Wayne; Blanche Sauser and Mrs. Wayne Seibert, both of Laurel; Mrs. Fred Ulecht, Mrs. Paul Jackson and Mrs. Lyle Brown, all of Wakefield; Mrs. Larry Bowers and Mrs. Terry Janke, both of Winside; Mrs. Jane Tomason and Mrs. Alden Serven, both of Concord; Mrs. Loyal Lackas of Belden; Mrs. Clayton Stingley of Dixon, and Mrs. Donald Johnson of Hoskins.

The door prizes were contributed by Marra Home Improvement, The Wayne Herald, Wiseman and Lindau Clinic, First National Bank, Sav Mor Drug, Richard Sorensen, Logan Valley Implement, The Rusty Nail, Wayne Veterinary Clinic, Joanie Designs, State National Farm Management, Rich's Super Foods, Gay Theatre, Ellingson Motors and the Wayne County Fair Board.

WOMEN SERVING on this year's luncheon committee were Joyce Reeg, chairman, Becky Keidel, Vickie Pick, Mary Jo Gross, Sheryl Lindau, Verneal Ellingson, Wilma Marra, Jan Liska, Sandra Elliott, Kay Marsh, Betty Reeg and Sandy Anderson.

Joyce Reeg, chairman for this year's luncheon; featured speaker Tom Allen, who has been a roving reporter and photographer for the Omaha World-Herald for the past 21 years; and Mrs. Donna Ring, representing area farm women.

County Retail Sales Rank High

Wayne County showed the largest increase in fourth quarter 1979 net-taxable retail sales of any other county in Region 11, according to a report from the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

WAYNE COUNTY recorded sales of $12,215,000 for an 18.9 percent increase over the fourth quarter of the previous year. Net taxable sales for the fourth quarter of 1979 were $10,270,000, the report indicated.

For the year to date — 1979 compared to 1978 — Wayne County had an increase of 19.1 percent, also the largest increase of any county in the region.

Other fourth quarter figures for Region 11 counties were as follows:

ANTELOPE, 13.1 percent increase; Pierce, 2.2 percent increase; Madison, 13.2 percent increase; and Stanton, 8.1 percent increase. The entire region had a 12.6 percent average increase in retail sales.

The state's net taxable retail sales were $240 million for the fourth quarter. Retail sales were 12 percent above the total recorded during the same period of 1978. State totals include retail sales that cannot be allocated to Nebraska counties, the report showed.

HOWEVER, when retail sales were adjusted to reflect the impact of inflation, sales failed to keep pace with price increases.

Commodity price increases were 12.4 percent higher during the fourth quarter of 1979 compared with the fourth quarter of 1978. If allowances were made for population increase, an estimated 3 tenths of a percent, then retail sales were down 7 tenths of a percent during the fourth quarter of 1979 over the previous year, the report showed.

The state's strongest retail markets during the fourth quarter present a mixed picture, the bureau indicated. Eleven of the state's 24 market areas showed sales gains above the state's 12 percent dollar volume increase.

THESE INCLUDE Region 11, 12.6 percent; Region 1, 13.8 percent; Region 16, 14.2 percent; Region 19, 16.6 percent; Region 20, 16.7 percent; Region 21, 18.3 percent; Region 24, 16.8 percent; Region 25, 13.6 percent; and Region 26, 13 percent; Region 8, 12.6 percent; Region 23, 14.7 percent.

Comparing 1979 with 1978 indicates that retail sales in the state's nonmetropolitan markets were the main source of sales increase.

On an annual basis, 19 of the state's 24 market areas had gains above the state's average of 12 percent. For the entire year, the state's two major metropolitan markets recorded increases in retail sales below the state's average. Slower growth in the two major state markets tended to reduce the overall gain in Nebraska's retail sales in 1979 over 1978.

Nebraska retail sales outpaced retail sales at the national level during 1979 by a small margin.

NATIONALLY, retail sales increased by 10.8 percent while the increase in Nebraska was 12 percent in 1979 compared to 1978.

Wayne Farmer's Market Hopes to Offer Variety of Produce, Arts and Crafts

The first in a series of weekly farmer's markets is scheduled to begin Thursday, July 10 in Wayne. Shoppers in Wayne will be able to take advantage of a variety of farm produce along with homemade arts and crafts from 4 to 8 p.m.

FOR A FEE of $2 a day or $12 per season, vendors may set up in designated areas. The event is scheduled to run from the second week in July to October. Regulations that participating vendors must follow include the following:

—Each seller must have a sales tax permit prior to obtaining the Wayne Farmer's Market stall permit.

—Organization time will be from 3:30 to 4 p.m. with selling time from 4 to 8 p.m.

Clean up time is scheduled from 8 to 8:30.

—The area must be kept clean and every seller will be responsible for cleaning his stall when he leaves.

—The stall fee of $2 per day or $12 per season is to be paid at the time the stall permit is issued.

—Each seller will be assigned a stall as space permits.

—Sellers must have grown or made the items offered for sale.

—One vehicle will be allowed per stall. No vehicle larger than two tons or four wheels will be allowed in the market.

—Application should be submitted not later than one week prior to the market date requested.

—It is suggested that each seller at the market provide a sign identifying his products and prices.

—Each seller must abide by the regulations or his or her permit could be suspended.

RANDY PEDERSEN, chairman of the event, pointed out that similar markets have been run in Yankton, S.D. and Fremont and have been beneficial for both shoppers and vendors.

"The idea of an organized market helps to bring shoppers a greater variety of goods from which to choose. At the same time, it provides the seller with an increased volume of traffic making it easier to move fresh produce," Pedersen said.

For more information on the farmer's market, contact the Chamber of Commerce office at 375-2240.

Energy Conservation Plan

Elimination of Jeep Mail Service Passes Trial

By Mark Reinders

"I would say that energy conservation was the largest factor in the move to demotorize Wayne's postal service," according to Wilbur Giese, Wayne postmaster.

A MONTH AGO the Wayne post office returned to utilizing more foot carriers in its mail delivery system. Since that time, figures have been tabulated that will determine whether or not the demotorized system will stay in effect at Wayne.

For the first four weeks of the program, figures indicate that 11 gallons a week are being saved through the elimination of the jeep service. At a gas price of $1.25, the savings total $5 dollars a month.

"THESE FIGURES may not say much on their own, but compile them with numerous other postal systems nationwide that have gone to the demotorized system and they total up to substantial numbers," Giese said.

WAYNE'S POSTAL SYSTEM formerly utilized four jeeps in its mail delivery. One jeep is now used in regular delivery to the college and through package delivery. Three full-time foot carriers are employed by the Wayne post office as well as one auxiliary route. Two part-time carriers and two rural carriers are also on the postal staff.

The directive to eliminate partial jeep service in Wayne came through a study conducted by the sectional post office in Norfolk.

The foot carriers seem to be adjusting to the new directive.

"The postal system is the greatest service that the American people have. Anything that we in the postal service can do to keep that service moving is worth our effort. Whether that includes cutting back the jeep service or ending the Saturday mail delivery is okay with me," Bill Kugler, one of the foot carriers, said.

"What bothers me is that our country lets in 100,000 Cubans, but we can't get enough money together to continue giving Americans the quality of service in mail delivery that they are used to," he said.

ACCORDING TO ED AMEN, sectional postmaster, it was found that Wayne and O'Neill were the two communities that would be the most economical to demotorize because of the limited number of curbside boxes within the two towns. Norfolk has two demotorized routes in operation.

"Energy conservation is a matter we are constantly aware of in the postal system. Anything we can do to limit our dependency on OPEC is a significant step. The demotorization of the Wayne postal system will continue because it has been found to be economical," Amen said. "The studies we make are a part of a continuous program of fuel conservation," he concluded.

"THE TIME FACTOR involved in hand delivering the mail is minimal," Giese said. No complaints have been expressed at the post office because of the later deliveries.

One other service that has been cut back in the Wayne postal system is through the use of the courtesy box located behind the post office.

UNTIL RECENTLY any mail dropped in the box up until 2 a.m. would still go out that day to the surrounding Wayne area. Now outgoing mail must be placed in the courtesy box before 5:30 p.m. in order to be sent out that same day. This change came about because the mail is now picked up on the way back to Norfolk from Sioux City instead of the trip over to Sioux City.

Responding to a question concerning the service cut, Giese said, "I guess it all revolves around the question of what constitutes a cut-in-customer-service? We talk the later pick-up time at the courtesy box was a better service to the Wayne community, but apparently it was not found to be the best feasible solution," he concluded.

BILL KUGLER delivers the mail on foot (far left) now that the Postal Service jeeps sit idle and unused (near left). Officials report that about 11 gallons of gas have been saved each week since the energy saving plan went into effect.

Why Can't Government Free Enterprise?

Richard L. Leshner, President
Chamber of Commerce
of the United States

Just recently, nine local neighborhood organizations from around the country came to Washington to explain how their self-help work projects were countering youth crime in big-city ghettos. The remarkably revealing two-day event was sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute; but with the exception of one account by columnist William Raspberry, it was largely ignored by the national media. That's a shame, frankly, because the media, and through them the country, might have learned something.

These organizations, after all, are run by people who must cope daily with wretched ghetto conditions. They know what they're talking about. What's more, their message gave short shrift to Washington's traditional belief that inner city tensions can best be cooled by a new outpouring of federal aid. For example, before the government even knew of its existence, one local organization, the House of Umoja, had already made great strides in eliminating the shootings and stabbings that once plagued Philadelphia. Impressed with such an obvious success story, Washington stepped in and offered "to help." Here's what happened then in the words of House of Umoja leader, Sister Fatoka Fatah:

"Because we have a residential program, which is a group home, now we have to deal with a license every year. Before we were 'discovered,' we were doing the same job without a license. In order to have a license, you have to pass the different regulations — you know, the kitchen has to be just so; you have to have credentials in terms of staff, you have to have a social worker. They tell you your house has to be fixed up, but they don't give you any money to fix it up. It's a bureaucratic nightmare."

And on, and on... and on. One participant noted that in order to qualify for many of their jobs programs "...you've got to be a criminal... you can't be just a poor kid who needs service." Doesn't the government understand that the incentive is to prevent crime, not create it?

One man who does understand incentives, and their vital role in fighting crime by creating jobs, opportunity and hope, is Congressman Jack Kemp of New York. Kemp, you might remember, is that engaging fellow who has won a wide audience around the country — while ruffling quite a few feathers in Washington — because of his penchant for spouting such heresies as: "People don't work to pay taxes, but to earn more after-tax income. So, by lowering tax rates, we can increase work, savings, investment, growth and prosperity."

As Kemp notes, if a person receiving the equivalent of $8,000 a year in welfare benefits today were offered a $10,000 a year job, that person would face an astounding tax rate of 80 percent. Where is the incentive for individuals to get off welfare if the government insists on taxing their new work effort at higher rates than it imposes on millionaires? And why give grants and loans to businesses that must be financed by higher taxes on the very enterprises most likely to offer new opportunities to the disadvantaged?

So Kemp proposes we stop feigning compassion while perpetuating dependency, and start treating the poor as individuals of real worth and potential entrepreneurial skills. The way to do that, he argues, is to get the wheels of innovation rolling again by re-establishing incentives at the local level. Along with Congressman Robert Garcia of New York City, he offers a novel approach — The Urban Jobs and Enterprise Zone Act. Poverty areas meeting specified criteria could be designated Enterprise Zones, within which individuals and enterprises could engage in economic activity at dramatically reduced rates of taxation.

The beauty of this approach is that the government will not lose revenues by reducing tax rates on young blacks and Hispanics who currently produce no taxable income.

Of course we must do more than just increase tax incentives. We must also reduce the conditions of excessive regulation that are hampering neighborhood organizations like the House of Umoja, and go after other disincentives as well. In Washington, D.C., the highest workers' compensation in the country, which is mandated by law, payment of the minimum wage, and rent controls, have all combined to impoverish a large area of the city and drive thousands of jobs into the surrounding suburbs. These problems are serious and they must be faced.

Still, Congressman Kemp has taken a big step in the right direction. He has offered a bill that deals with human nature and economic reality the way they are, rather than the way Washington wants them to be. And, by offering hope, rather than merely a handout, to those who have no hope, he is articulating the true meaning of compassion and of help. Just think how many more people government could help, if only it had the courage to free enterprise.

the pied typer

Guest Column
By Randy Hascall

The pied typer is on vacation in fun-loving Kansas City for a couple of days, so it's my privilege as acting editor to write a guest column this week.

If you've been trying to find a gift for the person who has everything, how about a "Kitty Whiz Transfer System"?

Straight out of our mailbox, we received plenty of information regarding the transfer system. This system was invented by an Ernie Hemple because he "got sick of the mess, odor and expense of the litter box." No fooling folks, that was our prize letter of the week.

For only $12.95, this product is advertised to toilet train (not house train) cats of any age or breed. The enclosed letter offered to send a free sample to The Wayne Herald if we would review the product in the paper. Unfortunately (or fortunately) we're fresh out of cats.

After a cat is fully toilet trained, it will receive a degree for having mastered the skills necessary to effectively utilize the commode. Sound farfetched? I thought so too.

According to the ad, the "Kitty Whiz Transfer System" was demonstrated live on NBC's "Real People", Nov. 28, 1979. It was again demonstrated on Feb. 27, 1980.

The system uses a process called selective environment adaptation and includes an instruction booklet, a diploma, a special blend of herbs and a flex form, making it possible for a cat to actually use the commode.

I did my good deed for the month, this past week. While walking down the sidewalk on Second Street near Main, I stumbled upon a wallet which was lying near the curb. I looked around and saw no one, so I picked it up and took it with me back to the office. When I looked inside, I found it contained $81. Newspaper reporters aren't the best-paid people in the world so I felt like I was carrying half of my life savings with me.

The wallet contained a driver's license of its owner from Norfolk. I tried to call him but found out that he doesn't have a phone. Then, I noticed he also carried a mini-copy of his high school diploma in his billfold.

By dialing information to his home town in South Dakota, I was told there were six residents by the same last name. I somehow guessed right and dialed the number of his family. They informed me his Norfolk address was correct and that he could be reached by mail.

I sent him a letter Thursday afternoon so hopefully he'll be in Wayne this week to pick up his belongings. I never would have thought I'd spend so much time trying to get rid of money.

America is preparing to celebrate the Fourth of July, its Independence Day. Somehow, I wonder how our fore-fathers would have felt, knowing that 50 U.S. hostages are being held captive in Iraq, during the celebration of independence. Eight months of captivity hardly makes a person feel independent.

Looking over all the turmoil in the world today, I guess we should be proud. People in Vietnam, Korea, Afghanistan, Thailand and the Mid-East don't have much to cheer about. Their lives are practically being run by neighboring countries.

Wayne's plans for the Fourth of July include the always popular fireworks display. The Wayne Jaycees are planning to shoot off about $1,200 worth of fireworks. July 4 at the Wayne city ball park.

According to the Jaycees' fireworks chairman Dave Zach, about 75 aerial shells and 15 ground displays are planned for the evening.

If you've found driving around the city of Wayne more risky in recent weeks, don't feel like the Lone Ranger.

Stop signs were removed in many areas of town and it sure doesn't make driving any easier or safer. The reduction of stop signs was also supposed to reduce speeding. And it probably did.

I'm all in favor of reducing speeding but I don't want to see the accident rate go up. In turn, it might be interesting to compare Wayne's in-town accident rate this coming year with that of last year.

I'll be surprised if there are fewer or an equal number of accidents. But, then time should tell.

The old saying of "watch out for the other guy" has never been such good advice. Next time, you slow down at that intersection and look both ways, take a good look. The oncoming traffic no longer has to stop. Make sure that no motorcycle is speeding down the street toward the intersection. Make an extra effort to look over that landscaped yard so you're not in a fender bender.

And don't forget that the stop sign which has been on your corner for as long as you've lived in Wayne, has been removed. Last but not least, on the day when you smash up the front end of your brand new economy car because of an unmarked intersection, ask yourself, "what ever happened to all of those stop signs?"

Suggestion of the week: Invite Ramsey Clark, Ayatollah Khomeini, Lord Kilginn, Leonid Breshnev and the former Shah of Iran to a good will meeting on the moon. Then ration the fuel supply for their rocket ship.

City, Farm People Are Allies

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Americans who seek to preserve and protect the nation's crop-producing soil and water resources and those who wish to revitalize the nation's cities need to realize that they are allies in a common cause, according to "The Farm and The City" report of the American Assembly meeting in April. That cause, the report states, is to make the cities attractive as dwelling places and work places for future generations and to halt encroachment on important farmlands. Such accomplishment, it says, would help assure that Americans will be both well housed and well fed.

The American Assembly points out, "Population growth and sprawling cities encroach continued conversion of rural lands to urban uses. In recent years significant amounts of our cropland have been annually urbanized or isolated by leapfrog development." America has reached the point where further application of existing agricultural technology is not expected to substitute for loss of land. With land fixed in supply, the more land that is used for shelter and other purposes, the less remains to grow food."

One might expect such observations from agricultural-oriented people. But the American Assembly is made up of a broad spectrum of representatives from government, business, agricultural institutions, urban planning groups, foundations, real estate development and the communications media. The Assembly was established by Dwight D. Eisenhower at Columbia University in 1950. It holds non-partisan meetings twice yearly and publishes authoritative books and papers to illuminate issues of U.S. policy.

The April meeting report stresses that in urbanized areas throughout the nation, productive soils and water supplies are caught in conflict between urban uses and farming. It advocates a concerted policy to direct development from the urban fringe back into the suburbs and into the cities in order to protect existing farms in the fringe areas. It urges farm and city people to work together to avoid, and, where necessary, reverse those features of taxation controls and zoning that stimulate dispersion.

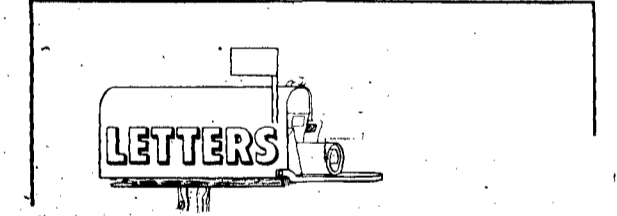

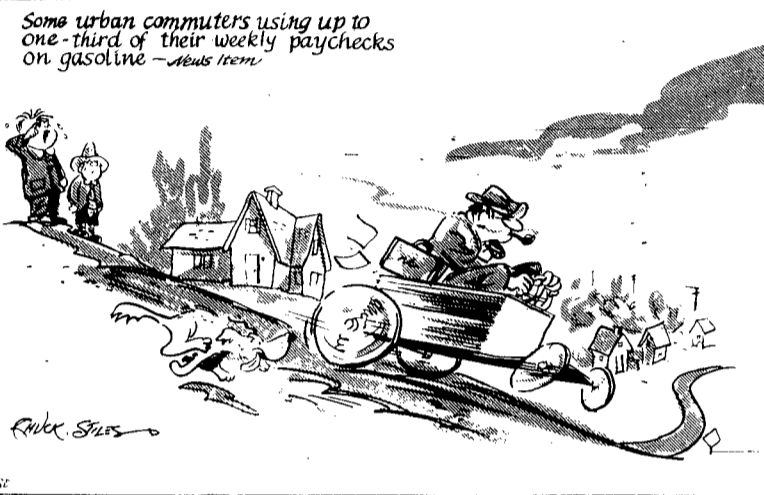

The Assembly recommends that the Federal Government declare clearly that it is in the national interest to (a) Preserve farmland; and (b) Restore cities to their role as the principal places people come together to live and work.

It notes the recent tendency to move back to the city and the Assembly urges that this trend be encouraged, with the goal to create a strong magnet in city centers and satisfactory aesthetic, social and public service conditions in residential areas of cities and close-in suburbs to make people want to live there.

One has only to look at the older sections of Nebraska cities to see the trends through the years. In the early days when transportation was limited, objective was to live within walking distance of the downtown or at least near a streetcar line. Lots were small and large homes were of 2 and 3 levels to make the best use of space. How strange it seems when land then was so plentiful and so cheap. Those older residential areas today look crowded in comparison to modern ranch-style homes located on at least two lots or perhaps an acre of ground in the city outskirts.

Since World War II, the post-war prosperity and life styles have encouraged developers to invade the rural areas and create housing areas far beyond city services of sewer, water, garbage collection, law enforcement and public transportation. Such development has been wasteful of natural resources and has created environmental problems in addition to problems for schools, law enforcement and other governmental agencies. Now, with gasoline at $1.25 per gallon and going up steadily, it no longer seems so practical to drive 30, 40 or 50 miles per day back and forth to work and school in order that families can enjoy "country living."

The American Assembly is saying that this country needs a policy of strong farmland protection coupled with a city revival movement and both rural and urban dwellers would be better off.

Dear Editor:
The trustees of the Greenwood Cemetery Association met last week. We agree that the cemetery should have looked better this Memorial Day. The trustees' loved ones are buried there also, so we have a very personal feeling for the cemetery and it's upkeep.

This is not an excuse, but we feel that everyone deserves an explanation of the problems that led up to Memorial Day. There is a limited budget we must operate under. Every lot owner contributes to a "Lot Owners' Fund." This fund is to care for the lot for all time to come, so must be invested and only the interest spent. The income from the guaranteed investments of this fund varies from 25 cents a grave to $2 a grave.

In total, this income amounts to no more than $5,000 a year. With these funds we presently employ a full-time sexton, and occasional extra help. A combination of weather and mechanical breakdowns made this year's Memorial Day unusual compared to other years.

The most important question, we discussed at our meeting was, how we could improve the appearance of the cemetery in the future years. We purchased new equipment that should help us from experiencing more breakdowns. We set up a system to provide part-time help when our full-time sexton gets behind. We revised the cost of lots to keep up with inflation.

It is the hope of the trustees that these actions will improve the quality of maintenance in the future. Again, the

Dear Editor:

The front page article in today's Wayne Herald on the "Head Shop" owned by Dennis Robinson was a little amusing and very disgusting.

I have been told that the drug problem in Wayne is far worse than most of us would imagine, especially among school pupils. I wonder if Mr. Robinson might not be contributing to the problem. Naturally he doesn't admit to dealing in the "real stuff" but he is certainly making it easier for the users by being able to buy their "paraphernalia" right here in Wayne.

Mr. Robinson feels it is unconstitutional to discriminate between his business and the retailer of hardware or clothing down the street, what a "sick" comparison.

His statement about the mirror was really dumb. Wouldn't a drug dealer have a "more modern" method of cutting and packaging of cocaine than using a mirror?

In my opinion anyone dealing in drugs or paraphernalia has no real concern for the user of drugs.

It is only the dollars going in his pocket that he is concerned about.

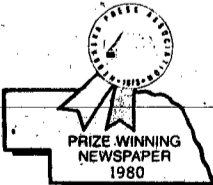

I believe the fight against the constitutionality of the states paraphernalia law bears this out as we all know that will cost good money.

I think "Denny" should get his head on straight and start "pulling a full train."

MR. AND MRS. LEN EGGE OF AUSTRALIA are spending a month with their American pen pal, Mrs. T. P. Roberts of Wayne, seated in center. It is the first trip to the United States for Egges, who will return to Australia July 7. While here, they also are visiting Mrs. Roberts' daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerstine of Carroll.

roll, and have spent a great deal of time sightseeing in Nebraska and neighboring states. Egges brought along several gifts for their American friends, including a kangaroo purse for Mrs. Roberts. The families have been pen pals for over 100 years, beginning with Mrs. Roberts' father, Howell Rees, and Mrs. Egge's grandfather

Pen Pals Have 100-Year History

Most of us remember writing to pen pals as youngsters, but how many of us can boast of a pen pal relationship that has continued over 100 years?

Mr. and Mrs. Len Egge of Sydney, Australia arrived in the United States June 11 to visit about a month with their American pen pals, Mrs. T. P. Roberts of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerstine of Carroll.

The families have been pen pals for over 100 years, beginning with Mrs. Roberts' father, Howell Rees, and Mrs. Egge's grandfather, Daniel James.

Both men* were friends in Wales. When they were 21 years of age, Rees came to reside in the United States and James stayed in Wales, later moving to Australia.

Despite the different directions their lives took, the men continued to write each other, a relationship that would continue between their families for over 10 decades. When her father died in 1927, Mrs. Roberts exchanged letters with Mrs. Egge following the death of her grandfather. Correspondence between the two women has continued more than 40 years.

Two years ago, Mrs. Roberts and her granddaughter, Mrs. Mike (Cindy Kerstine) Olason of Minneapolis, Minn., traveled to Australia, where Cindy was introduced to a daughter of the Egges. The girls have been writing each other since then, kicking off a new generation of pen pals.

Their visit to America has been a lifelong dream of the Egges. Mr. Egge is retired as a security investigator for the Internal Auditing Department. They have three sons and one daughter, all in Australia.

Egges said they are very impressed with the United States and think the people are real great.

Egges are enjoying the weather too. It's winter in Australia and June 21 (our longest day of the year) was the shortest day of the year there. The growing season in Australia begins in September.

The Australians and their American hosts have been doing a great deal of sightseeing in the past few weeks, including a visit to the Mike Olason home in Minneapolis. They plan to fly to San Francisco before returning to Australia.

Potent Town Team Makes Return to Wayne

PAUL MALLETTE of Wayne slides safely into home plate as the throw from the outfield arrives just a little too late. Wayne's Town Team won this exhibition game against Laurel's Town Team 9-3 Thursday night at the Wayne city ball park.

By Randy Hascall
 Lookout next year!
 That was the warning issued by a hand-picked Wayne Town Team which looked impressive in a 9-3 victory over Laurel's Town Team, Thursday night at the Wayne city ball park. The exhibition game marked the return of Town Team baseball after an absence of more than a year.
 A disappointingly small crowd witnessed the event as an explosive, exciting group of home town players took the field. Wayne's team contained more talent than the "Ted Mack Amateur Hour" of television's early years.
 It looked like a Wayne baseball reunion as Paul Mallette, Dean Carroll, Al Nissen, Bill Schwartz, Mike Meyer, Tom Ginn, Vic Sharpe, Doug Carroll, Roger Wortman, Jerry Goeden, Marty Hansen and Mark Gansbom represented Hank Overin's host team. Several players had conflicting schedules and weren't able to attend the game.

There was a certain aroma in the air. Players and fans remembered the "good old days" and talked of the championship teams of yesteryear. Wayne will play only exhibition games this year but hopes to revive Town Team ball next season.
 One thing for sure, the talent is there. The type of baseball witnessed by only a few fortunate individuals Thursday night was brand 'A' ball.
 The hosts jumped out on top in their first plate appearance. Paul Mallette walked, was sacrificed to second by Dean Carroll and scored on a base hit by Mike Meyer. Meyer reached third base on a single by Tom Ginn and later scored on a passed ball. Pitcher Vic Sharpe drove Ginn home with an RBI single. Sharpe went the distance for Wayne, pitching an eight hitter and striking out eight batters to earn the win.

An RBI single by Doug Carroll scored Meyer in the bottom of the third inning, giving Wayne a 4-0 lead. Schwartz drove in Mallette in the fourth inning for the hosts' fifth unaccounted-for run.
 Laurel struck in the sixth inning with its second hit of the game and took advantage of two Wayne errors to push Russ Gade across the plate.
 The hosts countered with three runs of their own in the bottom of the inning on two walks and three hits. Mallette, Nissen and Schwartz accounted for the three runs. Schwartz, Ginn and Hansen each collected one RBI single.
 Runs by Magenero in the eighth and Gade in the ninth ended Laurel's scoring with three runs. Doug Carroll drove Ginn home for the final Wayne run in the bottom of the eighth inning.
 The hosts collected 13 hits led by Mallette, Schwartz, Ginn and Sharpe with two hits each.

 Jeff Allen had a big night for Wayne, going four for five at the plate, driving in three runs and scored three runs himself. Pfeiffer and Sperry scored four runs each.

 Schwartz and Jeff McCright also had good strong batting performances.
 The Migdet game was similar, although neither team scored as many runs. Jeff Jorgensen was the winning pitcher.

Hot Juniors Roll to 12th Win

Jeff Zeiss and Tim Pfeiffer combined to pitch a three-hitter as Wayne's Legion team improved its season record to 12-1 with a 13-3 win over Laurel, Friday night at the Wayne city ball park.
 Zeiss held the visitors to one run in the first and two in the fourth before giving way to relief help from Pfeiffer. Pfeiffer extended his streak of scoreless innings to 32 by shutting out Laurel in the fourth and fifth innings. The game was called in the fifth inning by the 10-run rule.
 Offensively, Wayne cracked 12 hits to back its pitching. Catcher Dan Mitchell, Herman Carroll and Jere Morris were the team's leading hitters. Mitchell drove in two runs with a double and two singles, Carroll drove in one with a double and single and Morris collected two singles.

The game's first run in the first inning on a sacrifice fly by Brian Buss. Runs by Carroll, Kevin Nissen and Jeff Dion put the hosts on top 3-1. Mitchell and Dion were responsible for all three RBIs.
 A five-run third inning put Wayne in front by seven runs. Zeiss, Dion, Mitchell, Bruce Schaler and Pat McCright scored the runs. McCright's two run single was the key hit of the inning.
 Dion scored his third run of the game on a base hit by Schaler in the fourth inning and Hank Overin's team added four more tallies in the fifth. Zeiss, Carroll, Pfeiffer and Morris all crossed the plate for the winners. A two run single by Pfeiffer and a one run single by Nissen were the main hits.
 Lon Swanson and Matt Johnson took advantage of two Wayne errors to score Laurel's final two runs in the fourth inning.

Laurel Migdets 4, Wayne 3
 An explosive fifth inning enabled Laurel's Migdets to gain revenge over Wayne by taking a 4-3 victory, Friday night at the Wayne city ball park.
 Randy Martinson and Brian Marquardt slashed a double. Dave Marquardt reached base on an error and the Marquardt brothers scored on a single by Ron Hirschman.
 Wayne attempted to tie the game up in the bottom of the fifth but came up short. Trailing 4-2, the hosts pulled within one run as Al Lindsay singled home Todd Pfeiffer.

 Starter Jamie Johnson and Dave Marquardt pitched the six innings for the winners. Johnson was credited with the win. Todd Schwartz pitched 4 1/3 innings for Wayne and Jim Sperry finished up.
 Lindsay, who had two of Wayne's five hits, scored the team's first run in the second inning. Steve Overin, who doubled in the fourth, scored on a base hit by Jeff Moore.
 Laurel recorded only six hits but took advantage of their base runners. Dave Marquardt scored the first run of the game in the first inning.

Free Trout Fishing

Mark the period of time between July 7 and August 28 on your calendar in red - that's the time when you can fish for trout free at Two Rivers State Recreation Area, according to Game and Parks Commission fisheries biologist Randy Winter.

Winter said the Commission doesn't stock trout at Two Rivers during that period because the high summer air temperatures produce extremely poor habitat for trout. So, during that period of suspended stocking, fishermen are allowed to fish for trout remaining in the lake from previous stocking free of charge.

Trout will again be stocked Friday, Aug. 29, and the free fishing will resume at that time and be in effect until Oct. 31, when the entire area closes for the year.

Brent Pick pitched a no hitter and struckout 10 batters to lead the Little League to victory in the Pony League game. Jeff Jorgenson fired a no hitter third, two in the fourth and seven in the fifth resulted in the landslide victory.

Pony League

League to a 12-2 triumph at Winside, Thursday.

The winners scored four runs in the first, six in the second and one in the third to secure the win in Ralph Bishop League action. Overin, Wiessler and Maly scored two runs each.

Laurel Midgets, Juniors Compete

Laurel's Midgets topped Emerson 6-0 but the Juniors fell one run short in an eight inning loss 6-5. Monday night in Ralph Bishop League action at Emerson.

Scott Norvell blasted a solo home run in the second inning and Laurel scored three more runs in the fifth inning to take a 4-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh. Emerson scored three runs in the seventh, sending the game into extra innings.

The visitors managed one run in the top of the eighth but Emerson countered with two runs in the bottom of the inning to take the victory.

Leading batters for Laurel were Shannon Hopkins with two hits, Mark McCorkindale with a hit and two RBI's, Scott Norvell, Randy Martinson and Matt Johnson.

Assmusen drove in the tying run in the eighth and later scored the winning run on a Laurel error.

In the Midget game, Laurel scored one in the fourth, one in the fifth and four in the sixth. Brian Marquardt and Anh Nguyen each had a double and single. Shortstop Jamie Johnson made two fine defensive plays to lead the visitors.

Laurel sweeps Coleridge Pitchers Jamie Johnson and Joe Olsen were at their best as they led Laurel to a sweep of their Midget Legion doubleheader, last Thursday at Coleridge.

Jamie Johnson gave up only one infield hit while notching his first victory in the Midget game. Johnson, Hirschman and Jonas had two hits each for the winners. Dave Marquardt and Hirschman also drove in two runs apiece.

Litter Often Hazardous To Some Wildlife

Items commonly discarded in the wild by unthinking people present a real danger to birds, animals and people, according to Joe Hyland, waterfowl specialist for the Game and Parks Commission.

Discarded monofilament fishing line is responsible for the death or crippling of many species of waterfowl, because the line can get wrapped around the bird's legs as they feed or wander on the shorelines of lakes. It knots, shuts off the circulation and can ultimately cause the death or crippling of the bird.

Sometimes, if the line is secured to something on the bank, the bird can become entangled and be trapped in the open, unable to fly, escape from predators or obtain food.

The birds most often the victims of monofilament are those that most tolerate man's presence—like mallards, wood ducks and Canada Geese.

Discarded pop tops from beverage cans are another hazard, as are the plastic rings from six-packs of beer or soft drinks, according to Hyland. He said metal pop tops have been found in duck's gizzards and there have been cases of waterfowl being choked by plastic rings from six packs that were thoughtlessly discarded on the shore.

Another hazard is fish hooks. Someone fishing for carp with corn, for instance, may lose or cut off a baited hook and leave it on the shore. Then a duck or other birds comes along, eats the corn and is injured by the hook.

He also pointed to discarded small lead shot sized weights as being as dangerous as lead shot, when consumed by waterfowl.

Skunks and raccoons get their heads stuck in discarded food cans, and animals, and even people can be severely injured by stepping on broken glass strewn on the shore or in the water at lakes, or just carelessly left on the ground in weedy or grassy areas.

"So many injuries could be prevented if people would just properly dispose of their trash. They should put it in a trash receptacle or take it home and put it in their own garbage," Hyland concluded.

Only 300 Miles to Go

TWO ENTHUSIASTIC bikers from Arvada, Colo. passed through Wayne, Wednesday afternoon en route to Briar Lake, Minn. where they will visit relatives. Clark Stoesz, 15, (left) and Dale Nelson, 14, stopped at M & S Oil Company to service their bicycles and take a breather after riding in mid-90 degree weather. The pair left their homes Monday, June 16, took a two-day break in Broken Bow and plan to take a four day break at Mountain Lake, Minn. to visit other relatives. One of the boys will fly back to Colorado and the other will return by car. The two boys said they ride between 70 and 100 miles a day, sleep in a tent and stop at cafes or grocery stores for meals. During the 550 miles already covered when they reached Wayne, the two had seven flat tires. Although they admitted heat, wind, hills and humidity are against them, bikers say they have no thoughts of calling it quits. Both boys started cap collections along the way.

Chancellor Says Most Don't Understand UNL 5-Year Plan

University of Nebraska Lincoln Chancellor Roy A. Young has expressed concern that public misunderstanding of the planning process involving UNL's Teachers College may be confusing UNL students and their parents.

"Questions I have received, and many more which have been directed to the dean and members of the Teachers College faculty, indicate that there is misunderstanding of the evaluation and planning process we are going through," Young said.

"I want to assure present and prospective students and their parents that all undergraduate teacher education programs at UNL will be operating during the 1980-81 academic year."

"Furthermore, students who are planning to enter the education field and who want to take their undergraduate work at UNL can expect to finish their work here in a program of the quality expected from this campus," the Chancellor said.

Young indicated the confusion triggering the inquiries stems from a widely publicized preliminary recommendation from a Board of Regents Planning Subcommittee report concerning a five year plan for the University of Nebraska's future.

This report suggested the closing out of undergraduate majors in Teachers College at UNL and concentration on graduate teaching programs.

"Although this recommendation has been reported and discussed in the media, its status as part of a 'preliminary report' has been misunderstood."

"There is no formalized plan to end undergraduate teacher education at UNL," Chancellor Young stressed.

"The current status of the preliminary recommendation made by the Board of Regents Planning Subcommittee is this: On July 26, the Regents will consider a proposal to ask the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Post Secondary Education to conduct a study of teacher education in Nebraska."

"Such a study would consider ways that Nebraska can improve teacher education in the state," Young said noting that Nebraska has a shortage of teachers in mathematics, science, special education, vocational education and English. Projections forecast a general shortage in three to five years.

Young said that the questions about the future of teacher education at UNL are coming from concerned students who fear their programs may be eliminated before they can complete their studies and from the parents of these students; from UNL Teachers College graduates; from teaching professionals and from entering students.
