Economy, Employment Show Rest of the State Up

For the first several months of 1980, Wayne appears to be leading the state in net taxable retail sales and at the same time recorded the lowest unemployment rate for this area for four of the five months.

SUPPORTING the contention that a high employment rate is directly related to a consistent level of retail sales, Ken Boyer of the Norfolk Job Service Office provided encouraging statistics.

Month	Employed
January	2,562
February	2,563
March	2,612
April	2,619
May	2,644

NET TAXABLE retail sales for January, February and March in Wayne were up 15 percent over the same period of last year, according to figures released by the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research.

While Wayne was well ahead of last year's sales, the remainder of the state however showed only a 5.6 percent gain over sales a year ago.

As noted in a Monday Wayne Herald article, Wayne was the state's leader in net taxable retail sales for March. Sales were 19.8 percent ahead of sales for March of 1979. Kimball was next highest, recording 13.2 percent more than a year ago for March and Bellevue was 11.6 percent ahead of March of last year.

ALL OTHER reporting cities showed losses for March.

Don Purcell, head of the Bureau of Business Research, told Chamber officials here that Wayne apparently has something that is causing employment to remain high.

Chamber manager Gary Van Meter, reporting in this week's Chambergram, says retail sales are a direct result of the public's ability to spend. This is contingent upon several factors, but for the most part it is employment, Van Meter explained.

ONE OF the major factors in keeping employment at a high level here is the advent of the Rural Employment Service, started at the Chamber just prior to Jan. 1, Van Meter said. Since then, the Wayne office has consistently ranked in the top three positions statewide in placement of workers.

To date, 102 placements have been made through the Chamber office, the Chamber head noted. This is equivalent to what a small manufacturer would otherwise employ, Van Meter said.

"Putting these people in a position where they can earn a spendable income has got to be a significant factor in our local economy. We all benefit from programs such as this," Van Meter said.

Since the first of the year, RES has placed 90 people in jobs. The figures for the first 6½ months are as follows:

Month	RES Placements
January	8
February	5
March	9
April	11
May	19
June	23
July (to the 15th)	15

The unemployment rate for Wayne County during January was 2.4 percent, for February was 2.1 percent, for March was 2 percent, for April was 2.6 percent and for May was 2.3 percent.

The total employment picture for those first five months was as follows:

Month	Employed	Jobs
January	4,463	109
February	4,521	95
March	4,760	99
April	4,955	131
May	5,083	118

BOYER NOTED that although the number of persons without jobs did increase each month, the total number of persons with jobs also increased. This situation probably is true over most of the state, since employment was one of the few bright spots statewide during the first quarter of the year, he said.

Boyer noted that employment figures provided above reflect the total number of those employed who live in Wayne County. Some of these workers are employed with firms outside the county such as at Waldbaums, at Nucor Steel, Dale Electronics and 3-M.

Actual employment figures for Wayne County, with the work force employed within the county, were as follows during the first five months of the year.

City	1979	1980	% Change
8 Seward	95.3	89.0	90.6
9 York	92.6	89.0	92.6
10 Columbus	89.4	86.7	98.1
11 Norfolk	92.2	89.8	93.6
Wayne	119.8
12 Grand Island	88.9	87.8	92.7
13 Hastings	89.7	86.7	91.5
14 Beatrice	92.9	87.7	91.7
Fairbury	84.4

THE ABOVE TABLE shows net taxable retail sales percentages for March of this year compared to March of a year ago. Wayne was the state leader during the month, and is 15 percent ahead of sales for a year ago.

Heat Hikes Electricity Use to Record Levels

A Nebraska power official said this week the state's current prolonged, hot, dry spell re-emphasizes the need for energy preparedness — particularly among the state's electrical utilities.

OFFICIALS IN Wayne agreed, saying electricity usage here the first two weeks of July is by far the most ever recorded. Wayne buys its power from NPPD.

Bud Wacker of the city's light plant said total kilowatt hours (KWH) recorded for the first 15 days of this month are 448,900 KWH ahead of the same 15 days of last July.

For the first 15 days of July, 1979, there were 1,410,900 KWH used. The first 15 days of July, 1980, there were 1,859,800 KWH recorded.

IN ADDITION, a record 9,100 kilowatts were used Monday as high temperatures for the second week of July averaged 98 degrees. The previous kilowatt use record was 8,600 KW set July 7. Last year's peak was 8,100 kilowatts.

For the first 15 days of July, the average high temperature was 93.4 degrees. Since the onset of the heat wave July 5, the average temperature has been 97.3 degrees.

Nebraska Public Power District spokesmen said the record setting power usage in the state is being handled because electric utilities planned ahead so electricity was available to meet the needs of agriculture, industry and residents.

NPPD RETAIL and wholesale customers set their third all-time peak demand record of the year at 6 p.m. Monday, using 1.7 million kilowatts of electricity in what NPPD terms its "native load." That usage is 9.1 percent more than 1979's record high peak demand that had been set Aug. 7, 1979.

"We have been saying all along that we are an extremely weather dependent electric utility," the official said, "and agriculture's use of irrigation coupled with the impact of air-conditioning and industry has emphasized that fact."

The 9.1 percent peak growth from 1979 to 1980 exceeds NPPD's forecast of an 8.2 percent growth in the peak demand for the same one-year period. This is the largest one-year growth in peak demand on the NPPD system since an 11.5 percent increase in 1974 over 1973.

OUR PLANNING department was right on track when it told us we would soon experience a catch-up year and that we had better be prepared for it," the NPPD official said. "It is this preparedness in our generation and transmission capability that has allowed us to keep electricity flowing to our customers as they need it."

In recent years, timely rainfall, which the state has not experienced this summer, and cooler-than-normal summers were the prime factors that contributed to holding down the peak demand.

"WE'RE certainly not out clamoring for additional peak load on our system to make our forecasts look good," the official explained. "In fact, our advertising and promotion has been a concentrated effort to educate our customers on the need to defer the use of electricity consuming devices outside of the peak periods after 8 p.m."

"But this current trend establishes the fact that electrical energy is vital to an agricultural and industrial state like Nebraska and that electricity must be available to be used when it is needed for our well-being," he said.

MONDAY'S peak demand was reached despite the fact that one large industrial customer in the state — Nucor Steel near Norfolk — was not in operation. That plant is expected to resume operating this week and thus a new record peak may be reached again.

Donations Are Sought

Been wondering about the Wayne County Fair barbecue?

Fair officials say the annual event is planned for 6 p.m., Aug. 8. Some 2,000 pounds (or one ton) of beef and pork will be served to all fair-goers.

CHAIRMAN of the event are making many of the necessary preparations and it is hoped area residents will continue their support and cooperation involving the event.

Persons wishing to make donations should mail them to Wayne County Fair and Agricultural Society, Marilyn Koch, 914 Nebraska St., Wayne, 68787, or leave it at the State National Bank, David Ley, treasurer.

DONATIONS are asked as soon as possible so they can be listed in The Wayne Herald the first time. Those donating are asked to specify how they wish to be listed. The fair will open Aug. 7 and close Aug. 10.

Dog Daze Set July 26

Participating merchants are gearing up for the annual Chamber of Commerce Dog Daze Saturday, July 26. This is the one time of year when bargains are at their lowest.

Stores are expected to open about 7 a.m. with discount items displayed in front of their stores.

Advertisements involving Dog Daze will appear in the Thursday, July 24, issue of The Herald.

ANIMALS SUCH as dogs and cats have a more difficult time during hot spells since they are unable to perspire as humans do. Their only method of keeping cool is to pant and take an occasional dip in the backyard bathtub as did Amy (above) owned by the Al Wittigs. When not distracted by passersby, the German Shepherd lounges in her made-to-fit swimming pool.

Legal Aid Services Expanding Here

Legal services for those who cannot afford them continue to be offered in an 11-county area by the Legal Aid Society of Wayne.

SUCH SERVICES have been offered in this area by the Wayne branch of Legal Aid Society of Omaha for about two years now, reports Frank Daley Jr., one of two lawyers staffing the facility at 420 Pearl St.

There are other branch offices in Columbus and Winnebago. The four legal aid facilities are part of a corporation headquartered in Omaha and operated by a board of directors, Daley explained. Lawyers in the four offices handle almost every type of case except criminal cases and those which are fee generating (such as civil suits involving sums of money). Included are divorces, child custody cases, guardianships, cases involving income maintenance (food stamps, Social Security), landlord-tenant cases, etc.

THE STAFF here has shrunk recently to just two lawyers and two receptionists, but Daley says the need for free legal aid is on the increase here because of several factors. He anticipates the addition of one and possibly two lawyers in the next year.

Wayne is typical, Daley said. There are several small industries which, because of the economy, have experienced layoffs in the past few months. As a result, there have been more domestic problems, bankruptcies and defaults on bills and loans.

The number of Legal Aid Society clients also has increased due to word-of-mouth advertising. "The longer we're here, people hear about us," he noted.

BECAUSE of increased demand, Daley and his co-worker Mike Krochmalny have found themselves working additional hours each week to keep pace with the paperwork. "But we never like to turn anybody away. Anyone who comes in will be given due consideration," he explained.

Another reason the workload has increased is the addition of several counties under the Wayne branch office jurisdiction. In all, there are 11 counties including Wayne, Burt, Cumming, Stanton, Dakota, Dixon, Cedar, Knox, Pierce, Antelope and Madison.

Legal Aid Society of Omaha covers counties from Omaha west to about Columbus and then north to the South Dakota border.

WHILE THE Legal Aid Society is operated by a corporation and relies on private donations to function, Daley said some public funds administered by Congress are involved, although he was unsure how much.

The only other source of income for the

THIS HOUSE at 420 Pearl St. is the home of Wayne's Legal Aid Society. There are three other such legal services branches in Omaha, Winnebago and Columbus.

Speaking of People

At 105, She's Tired of Remembering

By LaVon Beckman

Dixon County's oldest resident says she's tired of remembering. That's understandable, considering she will be observing her 105th birthday Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Noe of Allen has lived to see many changes, including the coming of electricity, indoor plumbing, the telephone and television. She's seen 23 men serve in the White House and has ridden in everything from a horse and buggy to such cars as a 1916 Model T Ford, a seven-passenger Studebaker, an Oakland, a Paige and a Star. She's cooked on a wood stove, using cobs for fuel, farmed using horse power, and traveled to church in a sled and wagon.

Emma Elvira Royce was born to Mr. and Mrs. Delancy (Miles) Royce on July 19, 1875, at Irving, Iowa, the sixth in a family of eight.

For over 45 years now, Mrs. Noe has lived in her own home at Allen with two of her daughters, Martha Noe and Mrs. Emma Shortt.

Daughter Martha recently discovered several letters among her mother's keepsakes, including a letter dated Dec. 27, 1897, from Fred Noe. Fred was farming near Waterbury at the time and wrote to ask Emma, who later would become his bride, how her work was coming at the Waterbury Corner General Store. He tells of going to church meetings at the Springbank Church and told her that he would bring "something" when next he came to visit her at her parents' home at Wakefield.

In a letter she wrote to Fred Jan. 16, 1898,

Emma tells how she's looked for his buggy in her yard for the last two weeks and promises to tell him what her friends think of him when she sees him next.

Also discovered was a letter written during the Civil War from Van Buren Rugg to his sister, Mary Rugg, who later became Emma's mother, Mrs. Delancy Royce.

Rugg was camping five miles southeast of Corinth, Miss., at the time on "a nice hill where the tall pines make shade that we like to be under when the sun shines hot." In addition to daily drills, he was paid $5 a month to cook for 12 men, carrying water from 200 to 300 yards up a steep hill.

Emma's father's ancestors came to Connecticut from England in 1643 and built a house at Wallingford, Conn. The house, later named Royce House or Washington Elms after the town gave a farewell for General George Washington at the beginning of the Revolutionary War, stayed in the family until recent years when it was turned over to the Choate School Foundation.

Emma attended high school at Toledo, Iowa and planned to become a teacher until a bout with scarlet fever altered her plans.

Her family moved to Wakefield in 1892 and raised beets and wheat. Emma followed by train the following year and went to Waterbury in 1897 to manage Mrs. Fannie Conner's General Store. It was there that she met Fred Noe, a former teacher who was farming at the time. She was 23 years old when she married Fred on April 6, 1898 at her parents' home five miles northeast of Wakefield.

The newlyweds began farming on the

Charles Chase farm south of Waterbury. They resided on several farms around Allen and Dixon until 1942 when they moved into Allen. Fred died in April of 1947.

Although time has etched her face and hands, Mrs. Noe is in fair health. She has trouble hearing and has lost most of her sight. She is up in a wheelchair twice a day and enjoys having her daughter, Martha, read to her.

After celebrating so many birthdays, Mrs. Noe isn't much impressed by her 105th birthday and isn't concerned if she'll live to be 106. "I don't feel any different than I did at 104," she smiles.

Mrs. Noe doesn't have any theory as to why she has lived for over a century, although she said she never worried much and didn't live at such a rapid pace as folks do today.

The 105-year-old Allen woman has been a member of the Methodist Church for 89 years, having helped organize the Epworth League at Wakefield. She also taught Sunday school for many years.

Her 10 children, who range in ages to 81, are Martha Noe, Mrs. Florence Malcolm, Mrs. Emma Shortt and Mrs. Malvin (Grace) Green, all of Allen; Mrs. Rex (Mary) Milner of El Centro, Calif.; Mrs. Fletcher (Esther) Brandt of Creighton, Ralph of Melba, Idaho; and Robert, Oliver and Leslie, all of Dixon. There are 32 grandchildren, 79 great grandchildren and 25 great great grandchildren.

Mrs. Noe will be honored at the annual Noe picnic Sunday afternoon at the Allen park. Friends are welcome to drop by during the afternoon to extend their birthday greetings.

Knox Jones Sets Course Record 30 on Way to Golf Win

The play of Lincolnite Knox Jones was as hot as the temperature Sunday as he set a course record en route to capturing the Wayne Open Golf Tournament at the Country Club Sunday.

In contrast to Wayne's first open tournament of the season in mid-June when Jones and Craig Moyer of Wood River baffled to the final hole, the win for Jones was an easy one this time.

The course record 30 by Jones on the back 9 holes set the tone for the meet. He held a 4-stroke lead at the end of 18 holes and shot a 2-under par 34 on the final nine to finish at 99, five strokes ahead of second place Dale Erwin of Sioux City.

The record 30 tops the previous course record of 32 set by Chuck McHarg of Wayne a year ago. There have been several ties of that record since McHarg's conquest.

The tourney was close at the start of the second round, with one member of Jones' threesome, Erwin, only 4 strokes behind. However, Erwin shot a 35 on the final 9 holes while Jones pulled in a 34, giving Jones the 5 stroke win.

Jones, now a three time winner of the Wayne Open, and Moyer baffled until the final hole in Wayne's first open tournament of the season last month Moyer finished with a 102 then, while Jones was close behind with a 103.

Don Scholdt of Sioux City was third with a 108, Randy Sock, Norfolk, Jones' playing partner was fourth with 109.

The only Wayne area golfer to place respectably in the championship flight was Bill Hornbeck who was sixth with a 111.

Local Golfers Win
Five area golfers won their respective flights in the tournament. The Open was broken into championship flight and 10 other flights.

Bob Reeg of Wayne won the first flight with a 36-40-76 total to force a tie breaker with Don Sund, also of Wayne, and Mike Purcell of Norfolk.

Duane Blomenkamp of Wayne took top honors in the third flight with a 39-40-79 score to edge out Gene Claussen of Wayne who had an 81.

Jim Erwin of Laurel shot a 39-41-80 in the fourth flight for the win, edging out Sid Preston of Wakefield who shot an 81.

Tom McLain of Wayne managed a 37-42-79 total in the seventh flight for the easy win over second place Glen Prinz of Beemer who carded an 84.

Keith Lubberstedt of Wayne took the ninth flight with a

Wisner Tops Wayne In Legion Matchup

A four run tally in the fifth inning gave Wisner the win over the Wayne Juniors in baseball action Monday night at the Wayne city ball park.

Wayne got on the scoreboard first in the second inning but couldn't hold on to their lead as the final score had Wisner on top 4-2. The loss took the Junior's record down to 16-3.

Kevin Nissen started off the night's scoring when he got on base by a walk from Wisner's Petersen. Jeff Dion drove him home with a single. Jere Morris got on first by an error. Bruce Schaffer walked Jeff Zeiss singled before the side was retired. Dion finished Wayne's scoring for the night.

Six hits in the fifth inning was the cornerstone for Wisner's victory. Although Tim Pfeiffer threw out eight of the Wisner's hitters for the night, solid hitting including a triple in the fifth inning by Wisner's Drieling gave the opponents the edge.

Wayne Falls to Plattsmouth
The Wayne Junior's record fell to 16-4 after Sunday night's loss at Plattsmouth. Voss collected the win for Plattsmouth while Wayne's Zeiss took the loss.
The Wayne Juniors couldn't get the bats to cooperate with them as they were limited to two hits. Both were singles, one each for Tim Pfeiffer and Pat McCright. Most of Wayne's runners got to the bases on walks.
Wayne made their mark on the scoreboard in the second inning when Dion, McCright, Morris and Zeiss crossed home before the side was retired. Runs scored by Mitchell, McCright and Schaler in the third gave the Juniors the edge over Plattsmouth.
Plattsmouth took revenge on the Wayne defense in the fifth inning when eight runs were tallied. The Plattsmouth team had nine errors which the Wayne Juniors couldn't seem able to capitalize on.

Early Diagnosis of Eye Problems Important

How do I know if my child has good vision in both eyes? Does poor school work indicate poor vision? What is causing his eyes to be bloodshot, itchy or watery? At what age should his eyes be examined and by whom? These are common questions asked by parents of pre- and school age children.

"Parents usually have no way of knowing if a child has an eye disease," said Fran Patano, an ophthalmologist at the University of Nebraska Medical Center Eye Clinic. Ms. Patano said, "If an eye problem is not treated early, the eye can become blind by age nine and is in correctable."

There is no warning signs that a child has an eye problem. According to the American Academy of Ophthalmology a complete eye examination should be done by an ophthalmologist by age 3, and by age 2 if there is a family history of eye disease. An ophthalmologist is a licensed physician and surgeon (MD) who specializes in eye disease and dysfunction. An optometrist (OD) is a practitioner who prescribes and fits lenses and has limited diagnostic training. An optician fits and dispenses glasses.

Dr. Jeffrey C. Popp said, "The most common problems in children are refractive errors such as near-sightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism, which can be corrected with glasses." Dr. Popp is a member of the UNMC's Department of Ophthalmology. He added that a child who needs glasses may display such symptoms as blurred vision, vague headaches, frowning or squinting. "Complaints of burning, tearing or redness may suggest such things as infection, allergy or dry eyes," said Dr. Popp.

Fran Patano said, "Inheritance or a family history of disease plays an active role not only in specific eye problems, but also in general physical disorders which can affect vision." She cited the example that diabetes may be discovered initially by an eye examination. Children's eye disorders which are classified as congenital (meaning present at or occurring at birth) may have various causes - a common one is rubella acquired during pregnancy.

The lazy eye or amblyopia is a common problem found in children and is usually related to muscle imbalance. This can cause crossed eyes or wall eyes. According to Ms. Patano a lazy eye means that vision has been lost in one eye as a result of disease during the critical time of development.

The eyes reach maturity during the first 8 to 10 years of life, and if one eye is being deprived of visual stimulation during this time, especially before age 5," said Ms. Patano, "the vision will deteriorate, and can only be restored by patching the good eye."

In order for patching to be effective, it needs to be done before age 6 in most cases. "A child can learn to function very easily using only one eye, so school performance is not usually an indication of a child's vision," she said. "Neither are poor perceptual skills, such as mirror image or backwards handwriting and hand-eye coordination." Ms. Patano added, "Muscle imbalance can be corrected if treated early - the child will NOT outgrow the condition of his own. Parents should not be upset if their 6 month old is wearing glasses and/or a patch.

Ms. Patano said, "Early treatment will preserve his vision for the rest of his life." A child's complaints of double vision, blurring or headaches may merely be indicative of a benign eye condition, they may, on the other hand, be a sign of serious neurologic or systemic disease, and should not be taken lightly. Without proper treatment the result can be a permanent loss of vision.

A Victim of the Heat

SCORCHING afternoon temperatures and no rainfall have resulted in some damage to area crops. Moisture is about seven inches below normal to date, and little relief from the dry conditions is forecast. Temperatures reached 100 degrees again this week. Some crop experts say, however, that high humidity recently has prevented even more crop damage. Curled leaves and a dry, silver cast to most non-irrigated corn is becoming quite evident as opposed to the lush dark green of healthy corn.
