set off the binder and put into shucks made up of eight bundles. Fuoss plans to display the oats at the Cedar County Fairgrounds Aug. 10. He spends much of the summer months cutting oats on a commercial basis with his antique equipment.

Early Census Figures Show Decline

Preliminary census figures supplied by the U.S. Census Bureau indicate Wayne experienced a 4.9 percent decline in population over the last decade.

RELEASED Monday to city officials, the figures show that Wayne has an estimated population of just 5,379 compared to a 1970 estimated population of 5,379. But at the same time, the total number of housing units during the 10-year period showed an increase of 280.

City and Chamber of Commerce officials quickly pointed out that the figures received this week are strictly preliminary and are subject to change. However, early indications are that the population estimate is reasonably accurate.

City Administrator Darrell Brewington said his office began work immediately after receiving the report Monday to evaluate the Census Bureau figures. The city has less than 10 working days to justify to the census people any increase in the city's population.

"ADMINISTRATIVELY, the city is going to do everything it can" to accurately evaluate the census information, Judy Backhus, district supervisor for the Census Bureau, has indicated her office will revise the figures if the city can justify any changes, he explained.

Chamber Executive Vice President Gary Van Meter noted that according to admissions figures at Wayne State College, there has been a decline in student population over the last decade of 399 persons.

"If there is in fact a shortage, it will be because of a decline in college population," Van Meter said. "This points up the need for the community to throw its support behind the college."

VAN METER said he feels there has been a tendency for residents here to take the college for granted.

The increase in housing units and the decrease in population were perplexing to officials at first, but subsequent investigation has shown the housing figures to be accurate. Initially, officials surmised that more housing units was a reflection of more population.

But Van Meter pointed out that the per-house population in Wayne, and the state of Nebraska, has declined over the past decade. In 1970, it was estimated there were approximately 4.0 persons per household. The state estimate for this year is from 2.4 to 3.0, with Wayne's per-house population at 2.8.

FOR CENSUS Bureau purposes, the city was divided into four ED's or enumeration districts, two in Hunter Township and two in Strahan Township which divide Wayne into two relatively equal sections. The dividing line is Nebraska 15.

Strahan Township comprises the west half of Wayne, while Hunter Township the east half.

According to the Census Bureau computer print out, the population in the portion of Wayne within Strahan Township for 1980 is estimated at 2,735. That compares to 3,129 in 1970.

Figures for the portion of Wayne within Hunter Township for 1980 are estimated at 2,339 compared to 2,250 in 1970.

IN OTHER words, the population in the western quadrant of the city increased 129 persons, while the population in the eastern half declined 394 for a net loss of 265 residents.

There was some feeling that because a 1978 map was used by the census takers in figuring 1980 population here, several newer areas of the city were not included. The city has annexed considerable area in the past two years.

However, city officials noted that census people asked specifically for annexation data and up-to-date information on the expansion of the city's boundaries.

OFFICIALS also said college students are included in the count. The number of students in dormitories for this year was estimated at 1,087. Residents in the Wayne Care Center also were included, with that figure estimated at 111 persons. City and Chamber officials were dismayed by the preliminary census figures, indicating they had projected Wayne's population to be closer to 6,000 than to 5,000.

The initial population picture for the entire county was equally dismal, as initial reports show the headcount at 9,616 for this year, compared to 10,400 a decade ago.

Only four other communities in the area have received census information, and three of those recorded increases.

WINSIDE — in Wayne County — was the only town surveyed (besides Wayne) that reported a decrease. The 1980 census there was 437 compared to 453 in 1970.

Hoskins, also in Wayne County, showed a substantial gain from 271 in 1970 to 306 this year; Allen was up from 309 to 389 and Laurel was up from 1010 to 1029. Norfolk reports an increase in population from 16,000 to 19,000.

Census Bureau figures for Wakefield and Carroll had not been received as of Wednesday morning.

Although the effect of the population loss, if there is a loss, will not be known for some time, City Administrator Brewington said all state and federal funds received by Wayne are based to some extent on population.

Brewington said the distribution of revenue sharing funds is in part based on population also, although the exact formula is not known. In addition, per capita income, local taxing effort and intergovernmental transfers are the elements that go into the formula.

ALL STATE and local governments eligible for the funds compete with all other eligible governments for a portion of the total revenue sharing fund. Because of the complexity of the formula and the relative impact of the data upon the allocation, each government's share is computed simultaneously with all other eligible governments.

Since the federal government has been using its own figures rather than local projections to determine allocation of revenue sharing money, it is not clear how much impact the new census data will have on Wayne's share.

Area census figures are as follows:

Area	1970	1980
County	10,400	9,616
Wayne	5,379	5,114
Winside	453	437
Hoskins	271	306
Allen	309	389
Laurel	1,010	1,029

All Is Calm, Quiet As Men Register for Draft

DOUG PIERSON (left) will go down in history as the first male in Wayne to register for the draft after it was reinstated by President Carter. Helping him fill out the forms is Jim Atkins, postal clerk at the Wayne Post Office.

Call it a sign of the times if you wish, or the Midwest's conservative leanings.

The first few days of mandatory draft registration for 19 and 20 year old males in Wayne and surrounding communities have gone off without a hitch.

UNLIKE some of the larger communities where mild protests have greeted registrants, Wayne has experienced nothing of the kind. Only "respectful cooperation" has been reported at several area U.S. Post Offices.

The on-again, off-again registration got underway here shortly after 8 a.m. Monday when Doug Pierson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pierson, dutifully signed the appropriate draft registration forms.

SINCE THEN, a total 31 men have registered in Wayne. There were 25 registered Monday, five Tuesday and one by mid-morning Wednesday. By the end of the day Tuesday, Wakefield Post Office reported eight registered, Allen seven, Laurel four, Winside five, Hoskins five and Carroll eight.

Pierson's reaction to the draft registration apparently was typical of most.

"I think everyone should register. I don't have any problems with being drafted," the Minneapolis College of Art and Design student said.

POSTAL employees from the various area communities had similar comments on draft registrants. None reported any problem, and most said the young men "showed real respect for it (the registration). They've been real super about it."

The registration program is being challenged as unconstitutional because women are not included. Last-minute efforts to halt the start of the program were unsuccessful, but the lawsuit on the basic issue is pending.

The draft sign-up was thrown a curve last week as a federal panel in Philadelphia ruled the sign-up unconstitutional because it excluded women.

BUT SATURDAY, Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan ruled that the registration should begin as planned. President Carter had sought registration of both men and women, but Congress decided to exempt women.

An estimated 4 million men are eligible to register. The government planned to register men born in 1960 this week and those born in 1961 next week. Next January, registration is slated to begin for those born in 1962. After that, men are to register whenever they turn 18.

In Nebraska, some 48,000 young men will be affected by the registration ruling. Failure to register is punishable by up to five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Holland Native Named College Relations Head

A native of Holland has been named Director of College Relations at Wayne State College.

Lyle Seymour, president of WSC, said Adrie Nab, 41, who was raised and educated at The Hague, Holland, currently is serving in the position which was vacated last spring with the resignation of Rick Pomerville.

Adrie Nab

NAB MOST recently was director of public relations at Tarkio College, Tarkio, Mo., working there four years before coming to Wayne State.

Prior to Tarkio, he was employed by Mobile Oil Company, Princeton, N.J.; attended Brooks Institute of Photographic Arts, Santa Barbara, Calif.; and got his feet wet in the academic world at Burlington County College, Pemberton, N.J., before joining the staff at Tarkio.

NAB WAS born outside Arnhem, city of the largest airborne invasion during World War II. After being educated in The Hague, he served two years in the Dutch Marine Corps.

He came to the United States when he was 23 years old as a part of the Church-World Service Program, being sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, Penn.

Nab still is a Dutch citizen as the country does not allow dual citizenship. He said this presents a problem as his mother still lives in Holland.

He is married. PRESIDENT Seymour said Wayne State is "very pleased to have a person with the experience and qualifications that Mr. Nab brings to the college community. He will play an important role in the continued development of Wayne State."

Record

Temperatures High, Precip Low

Monthly temperatures during June for this area averaged 84.4 degrees for the high and 58.9 degrees for the low, according to a preliminary climatic summary prepared by the University of Nebraska.

The temperature figures are for Wakefield since there is no official reporting station in Wayne. The highest temperature in Wakefield during June was 97 degrees recorded June 27, while the low was 45 which was recorded on June 8.

Precipitation in Wakefield for the month was recorded at 1.61 inches, some 2.92 inches below normal for the month. For the state, monthly temperatures averaged above normal, on some days 12 to 15 degrees higher than normal.

Nearly all maximum temperatures occurred during the last five days of the month. Nearly all minimum temps were recorded during the first 10 days and ranged from the low 50's along the southern border and in Southeastern Nebraska down to the 30's at scattered sites in the western and northwestern areas.

Valentine received 73 percent of the possible amount of sunshine, Lincoln 83 percent, Omaha 70 percent and North Platte 79 percent.

June divisional precipitation was below normal except in the East Central Division where it was normal. However, frequent heavy rains at some sites in that division raised the divisional average.

The cumulative precipitation for the period April through June, 1980, was below normal in all divisions at the end of June. In the past 40 years, this was the third driest April through June in the Northeast and Central divisions.

Ceremony Unites Kelly Frevert-Mark Heithold

A seven-branch candelabra decorated with peach, green and blue gladioli, tinted daisies, pompons and baby's breath decorated the altar of Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne for the July 12 wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Kelly Frevert and Mark Heithold.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Frevert and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Heithold, all of Wayne.

The Rev. Paul Jackson of Wakefield officiated at the double ring ceremony. Sheryl Anderson of Wayne sang "Longer," "One Hand, One Heart," "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Gene Nuss of Wayne and Michael Nuss of Lincoln.

The bride, who was escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a sheer organza gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline highlighted with Alencon lace, tiny pearls and sequins. The waistline and full accoridian pleated sleeves were trimmed with lace. Two rows of Alencon lace also accented the accoridian pleated sunburst skirt ending in a chapel-length train. The bride's double tiered illusion veil in waltz and fingertip lengths was edged with Chantilly lace and was attached to a band of scalloped Chantilly lace highlighted with tiny pearls and sequins.

The bride carried a nosegay fashioned of yellow sweetheart roses, white daisies and stephanotis accented with vari foliage and baby's breath. Small bunches of roses and daisies hung loosely from yellow and white bridal streamers.

Maid of honor was Cheryl Abts of Dixon and bridesmaids were Patricia Lenihan of Lincoln, Renee Fernau of Butte and the bride's sister, Kolette Frevert of Wayne.

Their silesia gowns, in rainbow colors of maize, apricot, Nile green and blue, featured scoop necklines and fluttery sleeves. The full skirts fell from mushroom blouson bodices. Their bouquets were of multi-colored mini carnations, daisies and baby's breath accented with a bow to match each dress.

Flower girl was Kelli Lubberstedt of Dixon. Candles were lighted by the bride's brothers, Brian Frevert and Brett Frevert, both of Wayne.

Bryan Ruwe of Wayne served as best man. Groomsmen were Bryan Heithold of Wayne and the bridegroom's brothers, Kevin Heithold of Wayne and Gary Heithold of Redondo Beach, Calif.

Guests were ushered into the church by Brian Frevert, Brett Frevert and Keith Schuttler, all of Wayne, and Monte Dowling of Laurel.

The bridegroom was attired in white tails with peaked satin lapels and a white ruffled shirt and bow tie. His boutonniere was a yellow rose with white stephanotis and baby's breath. His attendants wore white tuxedos with peaked satin lapels. Their white shirts were trimmed in ruffle to match the bridesmaids' dresses, and they wore boutonnières of tinted carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Frevert wore a cocktail-length violet polyester jacket for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother selected a blue and white polyester dress designed with a pleated skirt edged in lace. Both wore corsages of yellow sweetheart roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Regg Lubberstedt of Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Brian Frevert of Wayne were hosts for a reception and dance at the American Legion Club in Wakefield following the wedding ceremony.

Guests were registered by Shari Lawrence of Lincoln.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Harley Heithold and Mrs. Orville Nelson, both of Wayne. Mrs. Ed Heithold of Wakefield and Mrs. Dean Wobig of Newman Grove, Mrs. Glen Frevert of Winside and Mrs. Wendell Korth of Wayne poured, and the bridegroom's sister, Deb Heithold of Wayne, served punch.

Waitresses and gift carriers were Peg Pinkelman, Sara Gavit, Beth Glassmeyer, Jolene Bennett and Ann Fredrickson, all of Wayne.

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, rural Wakefield, assisted in the kitchen.

The newlyweds traveled to Colorado following their wedding and are now farming near Wayne.

Both are 1978 graduates of Wayne Carroll High School. The bride is attending Wayne State College.

Rev. Daniel Monson Arrives At Wayne Redeemer Lutheran

The Rev. Daniel Monson delivered his first sermon at the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne Sunday.

Pastor Monson, who comes from Wahoo, will serve as minister at Redeemer Lutheran following the resignation of the Rev. S. K. deFreese in December of last year.

Monson, 48, had served as minister at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Wahoo for the past 11 years. He and his wife, Mary, are residing in Wayne.

Monson, 48, had served as minister at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Wahoo for the past 11 years. He and his wife, Mary, have four children, Mrs. Keith (Diane) Paseka of Fremont, Tim, a student at Midland College in Fremont, Phil, a student at Bethany College in Lindbergh, Kan., and Stephen, who will be a senior this fall at Wayne-Carroll High School.

Monson, the son of a retired minister, was born in Montana and resided in several states where his father served churches, including Nebraska, California and Minnesota, and in Saskatchewan, a province in West Canada.

He was graduated from a collegiate institute (high school) in Saskatchewan, where he received one year of college credit in addition to his high school diploma. He attended Augustana Seminary in Rock Island, Ill., and served a one-year internship in Chicago.

Following his internship, Monson was called to a church in Pine City, Minn., where he served nearly three and a half years, until January of 1961. From there the Monson family moved to Westminster, Calif., where he was instrumental in starting a Lutheran church in Temple City, Calif. until 1969 when he was called to Wahoo.

The new Wayne minister holds several synodical positions, including chairman of the World Hunger Task Force and chairman of the Professional Preparations Committee, which is responsible for evaluating and guiding persons interested in positions in the church. In addition, he has served on the executive board of the State Mental Health Association for the past 10 years and on the advisory board for the Region 5 Mental Health Association since it was formed nearly six years ago. He also is a trustee at Midland College in Fremont.

An avid gardener and former 4-H club leader, Monson is a charter member of the Wahoo Men's Chorus and was active in Lions Club and the Community Development Association in Wahoo.

The Monson family enjoys camping and stamp collecting. Mrs. Monson (Mary) also was active in the Wahoo community, where she served on the Chamber of Commerce board of directors for a short time and as a member of the board of directors of the Historical Society. She also was chairman of the county's bicentennial committee in 1976.

Her other interests include writing and community theatre work. She wrote for the Wahoo Newspaper before coming to Wayne and reports for the Nebraska Lutheran magazine.

Mary also was owner and operator of an arts and crafts shop in Wahoo, called The Shepherdess, and hopes to open a similar shop in Wayne if a location can be found.

Monsons said they have received a warm welcome to the Wayne community. Installation services for the new minister have been scheduled Aug. 24 at 7 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Wanted: Folk Artists, Craftspersons

If you quilt, bake kolaches, whittle or practice other skills that have been passed on in your family or community, the Center for Nebraska Folklife is looking for you.

The Center, a division of the Nebraska State Historical Society, will be searching for folk artists and craftspersons in the northeast Nebraska area through the middle of August.

Kay Young, a representative of the Center, is interested in locating persons involved in these "handed-down" activities.

Among the kinds of individuals she hopes to find are blacksmiths, rugbraiders, tanners, quilters, dowers (water witches), whittlers, fiddlers and storytellers, as well as makers of lace, toys, goose feather brushes, soap and saddles.

Through taped interviews and photographs, Mrs. Young will create a lasting record of these artists and craftspersons and the work they produce.

Persons who possess these kinds of skills or know of others who do are asked to contact the John G. Nelhardt Center in Bancroft. John Lindahl, Nelhardt Center curator, is assisting in the project and will relay information to Mrs. Young as she travels through the region.

Information gathered through the project will be housed at the Center for Nebraska Folklife's headquarters in Lincoln. There it will be made available to teachers, researchers and groups interested in the state's folk culture.

The project also includes similar surveys in the north central, south central and Pine Ridge areas of Nebraska, and is funded in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Final Town Team Exhibition Tomorrow

Wayne's Town Team will complete its exhibition season tomorrow (Friday) with a game against West Point, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the Wayne city ball park.

The high calibre West Pointers compete in the tough Dodge County League.

Wayne defeated Laurel 9-3 and Wakefield 11-7 in previous Town Team exhibition games this season. Wakefield is a member of the Dodge County League and Laurel competes in the Northeast Nebraska League.

The locals will be short several starters in Friday's game against West Point. Tom Ginn, Mark Gansbom and Jerry Goeden are all out of town on vacation and won't be able to participate in the game.

Next year, Wayne will try to enter the Dodge County League, coach Hank Overlin said. Tryouts will be held to re-organize a Wayne Town Team on which only local players will compete.

All profits from Friday's game will go toward a ball park renovation fund, to help assist in reconstruction of the grandstand. Admission for the game is $1 for adults and 50 cents for high school students. Younger persons will be admitted free of charge.

Browns, Blues Tie 7-7

Wayne Boys T-shirt League Browns 7, Blues 7: In an evenly matched, evenly played six inning game, neither team could come away a winner. David Longe of the Browns and Kevin Maly of the Blues had similar performances on the mound.

Each team recorded eight hits in the game. Maly fanned 11 batters and Longe retired four on strikes.

The Browns scored early to hold the first lead of the game. Brad Moore, Longe, Rick Nelson and Jon Stoltenberg all crossed the plate in the first inning giving the Browns a 4-0 advantage. Key hits that inning were made by Moore, Nelson and Casey Nichols.

The shutout continued in the second inning as Moore added another run to the Browns' lead. He doubled and scored on a base hit by Ted Lueders. Nelson and Kory Leseberg scored the final two Brown runs in the top of the third.

The Blues began their rally by scoring four runs in the third. Steve Luft, Scott Nichols, Jason Jorgensen and Dan Gross counted as runs in that inning. Russell Longe and Luft scored in the bottom of the fourth. Tim Fleming had an RBI single.

The Blues tied the game at 7-7 in the fifth inning when Maly the Blues and Moore, Nelson and Nichols for the Browns.

Next Tuesday, the Browns will play the Greens at 6:45 p.m. and the Blues will play the Reds at 8 p.m.

Greens 3, Reds 1: The Greens scored two runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to nip the Reds 3-1 in Tuesday's late game.

The Greens' Rick Haase and the Reds' RJ Meter engaged in a five inning pitching duel. Each pitcher struckout 10 batters. The Greens managed only two hits but brought home three runs. Tom Perry singled and scored in the first inning.

For the Reds, Doug Doescher singled and scored in the second inning on Pat Melena's base hit. They had two other base hits but failed to score again. Melena was the leading batter with two hits. Doescher and Jon McCright each had one single.

Two runs in the bottom of the fourth put the game away. Dan Heikes and Jay Luft scored the two decisive runs. Haase pounded a double but was stranded on base as Meter fanned the final three batters.

Larsen was the winning pitcher. He pitched five innings of hitless, scoreless baseball with 12 strikeouts before Brent Plick gained the save for Wayne in the seventh inning.

Wakefield managed three runs on two hits and two errors in the bottom of the final inning. Lund, Erb and Anderson scored the only runs for the hosts. Criddle and Erb had Wakefield's only two hits.

Food Stamp Rules Should Save $80 Million

An estimated 200,000 people, including 150,000 college students, will be dropped from the food stamp program, and food stamp costs will be cut by $80 million a year under new rules published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said the new rules, required by 1980 amendments to the Food Stamp Act, will cause most of the 200,000 adult students (over 18 and under 60 years of age) who now receive food stamps to lose their eligibility on Sept. 1. The only exceptions will be low-income students with disabilities, or those who: (1) work more than 20 hours a week, (2) head households with dependents, (3) participate in a federal work-study program, or (4) are enrolled in a work incentive program.

In addition to eliminating most college students from the program, the new rules will cause 50,000 more food stamp recipients to lose their eligibility when a new assets limit takes effect on Oct. 1.

Under the present food stamp law, most food stamp households must have assets worth less than $1,750. The new law and regulations lower this limit to $1,500. Households of two or more people, in which at least one person is elderly, will not be affected by the change. The assets limit for these elderly households will remain at $3,000.

"The rules issued today carry out 1980 amendments to the food stamp law aimed at cutting program costs and tightening management," Foreman said. "Earlier this month, the semi-annual cost-of-food increase was cancelled, and new procedures lowering food stamp income limits took effect."

"Together these changes are expected to save $448 million in the upcoming fiscal year," Foreman said. "With the publication of today's rules, we have implemented all of the savings provisions of the new law that will affect eligibility for food stamps and benefit levels."

The interim final rules published in the July 8 Federal Register also exclude the counting of federal, state and local energy assistance payments as income or resources in determining a household's eligibility for food stamps. Vehicles used by handicapped people also will not be counted as a household resource. These latter two provisions become effective Oct. 1, 1980.

Seniors' Unicameral Deadline, Guidelines Revised for Project

The Nebraska Senior Citizens Council, Inc., has announced an extension of the filing deadline for the Silver-Haired Unicameral from July 26 to Aug. 2.

The Unicameral, a model legislature for senior citizens, is sponsored by the Nebraska Senior Citizens Council as part of a year-long educational project entitled Project Senior Voice.

The number of required signatures on a candidate's petitions also has been reduced from 50 to 25, and the requirement that petition signers live in the same district as the candidate has been dropped. Candidates will be elected by Senior Citizens in their own legislative districts.

They can register at any time through Aug. 2 and seniors can register to vote any time prior to Aug. 19 to be eligible to vote in the Silver-Haired Election. Seniors are urged to call their county clerk or election commissioners if they have questions about voter registration.

The new requirements are as follows.

Candidates must be registered voters who will be 60 years old by the new filing deadline of Aug. 2.

Candidates must secure or make an exact copy of the candidate's petition. The existing petition with the previous filing deadline of July 26 may be used.

Candidates must secure valid signatures of at least 25 registered voters who will be at least 60 years old by the new filing deadline of Aug. 2. The persons signing need not live in the candidates legislative district.

The candidate's signature must be notarized. This can be done free of charge at most area agencies on aging, community action agencies and county clerk's offices.

Farmer-Owned Reserve Corn Released by USDA

Producers may redeem corn from the farmer-owned grain reserve without penalty as the national average market price for corn is $2.43 per bushel, the reserve release level, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

Ray Fitzgerald, executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation, said farmers may sell their reserve corn after repaying their CCC price support loans. Release of the reserve does not require farmers to redeem or sell their grain at this time.

Farmers with farm-stored reserve grain must request a release from the county office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service before removing the grain for sale.

The $2.43 price level at which corn is released from the reserve is based on 125 percent of the $2.10 per-bushel national loan rate for corn.

About 894 million bushels (22.7 million metric tons) of corn are in the reserve.

Fitzgerald said that on Aug. 29, CCC will review the average price for corn to determine whether the release authorization should remain in effect. For loans not redeemed, storage earnings will continue through the end of August.

Data used by CCC in determining the release level include five day average prices as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service which show prices bid by buyers at selected markets: Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and Saint Louis are the daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn.

Arens Given WSC Stipend
Kathleen Arens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Arens of Stuart, recently was awarded the Walter Peterson Memorial Scholarship for the fall semester at Wayne State College.

The scholarship is awarded to a student majoring in elementary education, based on scholarship, character and promise as a college representative.

She is a 1979 graduate of Stuart High School and a sophomore elementary and special education major at WSC.

Warning System, Good Plan Needed for Safety

An early warning fire alarm system in the home is only as good as the escape plan that goes with it and the two together can help save lives.

Fire officials estimate that 50 percent of lives lost due to home fires could be saved by installing early warning fire detection devices, David E. Baker, University of Missouri-Columbia rural safety specialist said recently.

Baker gave a presentation on residential fire detection at the National Institute for Farm Safety conference recently.

"Fires are the third largest accidental killer in the United States," Baker said, "and residential fires and life loss are a significant proportion of the total fire problem."

Citing statistics from The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), Baker said residential fires accounted for 78.5 percent of 6,768 of all civilian deaths in 1978.

Multiple death fires, when three or more fatalities occur in one fire, accounted for 997 deaths, according to the 1978 figures, Baker said almost half of these began in living rooms and next frequently in bedrooms. The fires usually occurred between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m., he added.

"The significance of this data is that people were apparently asleep and unaware of the fire until it was too late to save themselves. If they had been equipped with some type of early warning fire detection device and had a planned and practiced escape plan, many of these deaths could have been avoided," Baker said.

Smoke detectors come in basically three types, ionization, photoelectric and combination units, Baker noted.

The ionization smoke detector uses a radioactive source which is used to ionize the air within the sensing chamber. The ionization of air by the radioactive particles causes a very small electrical current flow, Baker said.

When smoke enters the chamber, it results in a reduction of the current flow, triggering the circuitry to the alarm horn.

A report in Sept., 1976, by the Ralph Nader Health Research Group questioned the safety of the radioactive material Americium 241 contained in ionization detectors, he noted.

Analyses of the potential radiation dose, Baker said, indicates that if a person remained within 10 inches of a detector for eight hours a day, they would receive a radiation dose of less than 0.5 millirem in a year.

The normal background radiation exposure is on the order of 100 millirem per year and a person flying round trip across the country would receive an additional dose of about 5 millirem because of the increase in background radiation at high altitudes," he added.

The second principle used in smoke detectors is known as photoelectric — using scattered or reflected light to indicate the presence of visual smoke.

"Similar to the automatic eye used to open doors, a photocell senses the light scattered off of smoke particles present in the chamber, triggering the circuitry to the alarm horn."

Both types of detectors work on the principle of sensing the presence of smoke, Baker said. The photoelectric detector senses the large smoke particles and the ion chamber detector senses the small particles.

The combination smoke units combine ionization and photoelectric sensors in the same unit. An "OR" detector triggers an alarm if either detector senses smoke, while the "AND" detector will give an alarm only if both detectors sense the fire.

Outside the fire, Baker said, name, location and type of fire can be reported. In rural areas, the type of fire being reported is important since any additional equipment needed would result in a greater loss of time getting to the fire.

"Children especially should be told what to do in case of fire," Baker noted. The best escape routes and lines of exits should be planned and practiced and a location outside the house should be designated as a meeting place once away from the fire.

Because there often may be very little time between fire detection and the time it becomes deadly, Baker said, detection systems may be wasted if the family hasn't planned ahead for rapid escape from the residence

Disability May Provide More SSI Benefits

People in Northeast Nebraska who have a disability that is expected to keep them from working for a year or more may be eligible for social security disability benefits, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Social security disability benefits can be paid to disabled workers, and their families, disabled widows, widowers, and certain surviving divorced wives 50 or later — the benefits are paid on the record of a worker insured at death, unmarried persons 18 or over who become disabled before reaching 22 and who continue to be disabled — benefits are paid only on the record of a parent who receives retirement or disability benefits or on the record of a parent who was insured at death.

Disabled workers must have credit for a certain amount of work covered by social security to be eligible for benefits. The amount of credit needed ranges from 1 1/2 years to 7 1/4 years of work, with part earned immediately before disablement, depending on the worker's age when he or she became disabled.

A widow, widower or adult disabled in childhood need not have worked under social security since these benefits are paid on the record of a spouse or parent who worked under social security.

Payments to a worker or to a disabled widow or widower can not begin until the 6th full month of disability. Payments to an adult disabled in childhood can begin when the parent receives retirement or disability benefits or dies. It makes no difference how old the adult is at that time just as long as he or she became disabled before 22.

A free leaflet, "Disabled? Find out about social security disability benefits," contains more information and tells what information a person should have available when he or she applies for benefits. Free copies can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office.

Eastern Nebraska units of the Nebraska Army National Guard will conduct their annual two week training at Camp Ripley, Minn., beginning Saturday.

The main troop movement will be by truck convoy from the various armory locations. Elements slated for the training period are units of the 1st Battalion, 134th Infantry, located in Omaha, Wahoo, Norfolk, Columbus, Wayne and O'Neill. 2nd Battalion, 134th Infantry located in Beatrice, Nebraska, City, Falls City, Auburn, Crete, Fairbury and Hastings. 867th Engineer Company, located in Omaha and Seward. 87th Support Battalion located in Omaha, Lincoln and York. Hq. & Hq. Company, 67th Infantry Brigade located in Lincoln. 24th Medical Company (Air Ambulance) and the 67th Signal Detachment, both of Lincoln.

All convoys are expected to arrive at Camp Ripley by mid-afternoon on Sunday, July 27. The return to Nebraska will be made on August 9 and 10. Some 1,500 men and women will take part in the annual training exercises.

Pro-Family Rally Planned

Northeast Nebraska Pro Family Rally will be held at Kings Ballroom, Norfolk at 8 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 4.

Frank Sobota, a Nebraska delegate to the National White House Conference on Families, will report on the resolutions passed at the conference. He will explain how these resolutions and their proposed legislation will affect American families and taxpayers.

Suggestions will also be given as to future action that can be taken if the government plans for the family are not acceptable. Everyone interested is welcome to attend.

New Agreement Oats Called From Reserve

An official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced on July 15 oats in the new farmer-owned reserve are being called.

Donald Gillis, acting administrator of Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said oats are being called because prices at Chicago and Minneapolis — as adjusted to reflect farm-level prices — have been at or above the $1.57 call level for five consecutive days.

Old grain reserve agreements for oats were called May 23.

Gillis said calling loans on oats in the reserve means farmers have 90 days from the date of notification of the call to repay their Commodity Credit Corporation reserve loans.

Under the grain reserve program, farmers own the commodities and are not required to sell their grain. If they do not repay the loan, however, they must forfeit the grain to the CCC. About 19.1 million bushels of oats (227,628 metric tons) are in the new grain reserve program.

County offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will officially notify producers their grain has been called and the date by which the loan must be redeemed.

Under the farmer owned grain reserve program, established by Congress in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 and designed to stabilize marketing, farmers are eligible to place wheat and feed grains into a reserve during periods of low prices. In return, farmers receive CCC price support loans on the grain in reserve as well as annual storage payments. If prices rise to the "release" level, farmers can repay the loan and market the crop without incurring a penalty.

The call level for feed grains under the new reserve program is 145 percent of the national average loan rate. The 1979 loan level for oats is $1.08 per bushel. Data used by CCC in determining the call level includes a daily report by the Agricultural Marketing Service which shows prices at selected markets. The markets reviewed by CCC for oats are Chicago and Minneapolis.

With the Even Payment Plan, your energy dollars are spread over the entire year. And there's never a late payment penalty.

How the Even Payment Plan works

Every month you pay one-twelfth of your annual natural gas bill. Peoples figures it for you on the basis of the average amount of gas used at your present address in the past 12 months.

We check your payment in January to be sure it's correct. If an adjustment is needed because of energy conservation, rate changes or abnormal weather, a new Even Pay amount will appear on your next bill.

In July we compare your payments with the amount of gas you've actually used. If you've overpaid, we credit your account. If you've underpaid, we will bill you for the difference which is usually quite small.

Court Affirms Board Order Increasing Valuations

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
In a long awaited decision, the Supreme Court affirmed the state Board of Equalization's order last year that directed increased assessed property valuations across the state.

The position of the court on the controversial directive was unanimous. The ruling was handed down on the very same day some county officials were testifying in the Capitol in a brainstorming meeting called to help the board in its equalization attempts this year.

Among those highly pleased by the court's action were Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington and Attorney General Paul Douglas. Herrington interpreted the ruling as suggesting the board headed into the right direction in trying to arrive at an equitable solution to a longstanding problem.

Douglas said there were many who thought the board could not devise an equalization formula and compile a record with enough evidence to withstand a court test.

Now, Douglas added, he expects the board to take "even stronger steps" toward equalization.

Both Douglas and Herrington said they were pleased the ruling was issued when it was because the board can move with more confidence now that its members have the backing of the high court on what they did a year ago.

In its ruling the court rebuffed appeals from Sheridan, Dawes, Scotts Bluff and Box Butte counties. They had challenged the board's action on several grounds, arguing among other things it used improper methods in arriving at equalization and also utilized improper procedures. There were further claims the board decisions could not be supported by the record, were erroneous, arbitrary and capricious.

The counties actually alleged 25 errors but each was rejected.

Douglas said if the board had earlier done what it did last year, the action would have been affirmed by the court. The attorney general said the data collected gave the basis on which the five-member board could act. There had to be a record to support what the board did and that was done, Douglas said.

Last year, Gov. Charles Thone insisted one of his primary aims would be enforcement of property tax laws and equalization.

After exhaustive hearings, the board, of which Thone is chairman, directed that valuation adjustments be made in 92 of the 93 counties.

But it wasn't until the court acted that the board members could be sure they were on the right track in their attempts to get the mammoth task done.

This summer the board will zero in on analyzing agricultural land tax values.

Along with its recent landmark ruling were two others made in connection with appeals by Banner County and Great Western Sugar Co.

Great Western complained about inter-county valuation in an appeal, the high court said, that should have been made to the Board of Equalization in Morrill and Scotts Bluff counties.

Banner County said the board used a different method of valuation in dealing with it. But the court said there was sufficient evidence in the record to justify what the board did.

Court denies request
The Supreme Court has denied a request that it accept a lawsuit challenging the law under which Omaha and Nebraska City voters froze property tax support for their schools last year.

The request that the high court directly accept the case and bypass lower court proceedings was made by Richard H. Hoch, counsel for the Nebraska City Public School District III.

Under the law Hoch was attacking, voters in a political subdivision can restrict property tax support for the taxing district. The statute requires at least 5 percent of a subdivision's registered voters sign a petition to call a "lid" election. It takes only a majority of those voting in the special election to clamp the lid on — but it can be amended or revoked only by a majority of a taxing district's registered voters.

Hoch said he thinks a majority of Nebraska City voters have changed their minds about the spending lid. But Hoch said the property tax ceiling is virtually permanent because the removal provision is so difficult to get approved.

He said he asked the Supreme Court to take the case directly because he considered that "the only way to obtain an expeditious final decision on this matter." He added the issues being raised were of general interest to all taxing districts in the state.

Hoch also said the lid directly impacts on the quality of education Nebraska City students receive and deprives all residents of the district of the equal protection of the laws.

Lobbying expenses increase

The state Sunshine Commission, in its annual report, said employer reports last year showed a 60 percent increase in lobbying expenses over such expenditures for 1978.

The commission said 406 lobbyists' registrations were filed last year and they represented 260 employers whose reports indicated more than $1 million was spent on lobbying.

The commission also said 2,359 financial interest statements were filed in 1979, can didate or ballot question committees filed 98 statements and 461 committees filed statements of organization.

The report showed education interests were the most active financially in the 1978 general election. The Political Action Committee for Education spent much of the money it received on an anti-lid campaign but also made contributions to various candidates.

Jobless rate rises
The state's jobless rate rose to 4.2 percent last month, up slightly from the May rate and also that for the same month a year earlier.

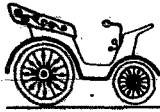

The state Labor Department said Nebraska had a labor force of 810,000, an increase of 9,000 from the previous month.

The department said the unemployment segment of the labor force totaled 33,750, or 6,050 more than the previous month and up 6,950 from June 1979.

The jobless rate in Omaha was 5.5 percent and in Lincoln 3.5 percent.

Across the state, the biggest drop in employees was in the service industry, which had 1,200 fewer workers in June than it did in May.

Government had an increase of 1,350 jobs. The labor department said the increase in state government jobs were attributable primarily to normal seasonal increases for outdoor related jobs and hiring associated with summer school.

A Dismal Record

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Government interference and strangulation by busy-body regulatory agencies received the most blame as reasons for present economic ills of the state and nation by speaker after speaker at the recent Economic Summit Conference held at the State Capitol in Lincoln.

Representatives of agriculture, business and industry were virtually unanimous in voicing their feelings that constant government intervention is nullifying the workings of the free enterprise system. Many told of their own frustrations in their businesses, brought about by attempts to comply with conflicting government regulatory agencies.

Agricultural representatives used the Administration's imposition of the embargo on grain exports to the Soviet Union as an example of the most recently harmful intervention of government in the farm economy.

There is much evidence that the Jan. 4 embargo action triggered a chain of adverse reaction in the farm and ranch economy. Up to that point, all the signals were "go" for a good year in 1980.

perhaps, Australia, or wherever else they may go for their source of supply.

The promptness and strength of the reaction to government intervention has always been amazing. In 1973, the Nixon Administration attempted to put a lid on beef prices at the wholesale level. Feeders held their cattle until the restrictions were lifted, then saw prices nose-dive as a flood of overweight cattle hit the market. Feeders as well as cattle producers sustained severe losses for several years before all effects of the disruption gradually wore off.

Also in 1973, the government embargoed soybean shipments to protect an alleged short supply. The Japanese invested in Brazilian soybean production and Brazil has become the No. 2 world soybean source and a major competitor for American soybean producers.

In mid-summer 1975, the Ford Administration applied controls to export sales of grain to the Soviet Union for several months and then negotiated the current 5-year grain sales treaty between the two countries. The halt in grain shipments again branded the U.S. as an unreliable supplier. Grain prices slumped because U.S. grain supplies at that time were perfectly adequate to meet both foreign and domestic demand and maintain reasonable year-end carryovers.

Consumer activist interests in the USDA have for a number of years promoted the theory given credibility by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs that Americans must eat less meat and animal fats. It has hurt meat consumption and meat prices. Now the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Science has said that it is scientifically unsound to recommend decreased consumption of fat and cholesterol for all Americans, and that such recommendations "often lack a sound scientific foundation."

The record of government intervention in the agricultural economy is not one which lends itself to calls for more government involvement as the answer to farmer and rancher troubles.

State Spending Curbed By Hire Freeze: Thone

Every agency under control of Nebraska's governor has a freeze on hiring new employees that began with the state's new fiscal year on July 1.

"An agency head under my jurisdiction will have to obtain written approval from me even to replace someone that leaves. This policy will result in further savings in state taxes for Nebraskans.

"In recent years the number of state employees has increased dramatically. Long before I became governor in late January, 1979, I knew that it would be difficult to stop that growth. It's been even more difficult than I anticipated.

"New federal laws and programs have required the state to take on additional duties. New laws passed by the 1979 and 1980 unicameral sessions have also expanded duties of state employees. Demand for some services that the state is required by law to provide have grown, putting on pressure for new employees. Nevertheless, we've held the increase of employees to 93, less than 1 percent. As of May 31, 1980 there were 10,421 employees of agencies responsible to the governor, compared to 10,328 as of February 28, 1979.

"That's not good enough. That's why I put the freeze into effect with the beginning of the state's new year.

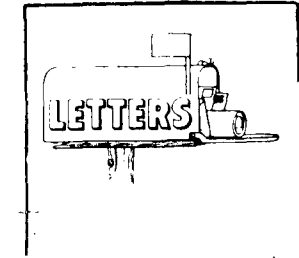

"The freeze is going to force agency heads to find ways to be more productive. Activities can be combined and consolidated.

"Even more important than reorganization, however, is the retention and encouragement of good personnel. One enthusiastic, energetic woman or man will do more work than two or three clockwatchers."

In addition to the raises that were given to all state employees in 1979 and 1980, about a third of the employees in agencies reporting to the governor have also had promotions, been reclassified to higher pay grades or have been given merit increases during my term. We're going to do the state's work with better employees, not with more employees!

A Letter From
Gov. Charles Thone

July 17, 1980

Dear Editor:
In reacting to Tim Maier's letter of July 14, I would say the "Bong Bill" needs to be rewritten.

Instead of outlawing drug paraphernalia, which is too general, it should outlaw the so-called Head Shops. Also, the use of commercially produced products for drug related uses should be a felony (I know that sounds harsh, but it should be).

Any law can be broken. All the "Bong Bill" could hope to do is slow drug use down. And I think every bit helps!

Dear Editor:
The Herald's disinterest in the city budget talks is appalling. I've been waiting for an article or editorial on the council's approach to the $180,000 dollar deficit the city will face in the coming fiscal year. Thus far, the sketchy council minutes have done little to enlighten the public.

I feel you could have done a service to the people of Wayne by keeping them informed. Maybe there would have been more interest and more information from the people given to Councilmen.

The people of Wayne are noted for their "over-coffee" comments after the fact. The Herald should have given them the news of the budget talks over the past six weeks. Not everyone, myself included, has the opportunity or fortitude to march into city hall for a look at the budget proposals. The Herald could have at least provided an outline.

July 29 will be little late for comments, suggestions and criticisms on a budget that will go into effect two days later.

Out of Old Nebraska

WW II Italian and German Prisoners at Sioux Ordnance Depot, Sidney, 1943-1944

The Sioux Ordnance Depot POW compound "Side Camp Number Nine" in 1944 held 307 Italian and 306 German prisoners. An average camp complement was about 300. The camp, located 10 miles northwest of Sidney, was one of five satellites of a parent camp at Scottsbluff. Others were at Bayard, Bridgeport, Lyman and Mitchell.

Five students of the Sidney High School Historical Society, allied with the Nebraska State Historical Society Student Historian program, have been conducting research in the camps through a Nebraska Committee for the Humanities grant. They are Tim Christlens, Richard Cole, Jeff Eisen, John Laing, David Young; project director is Ralph Spencer.

Of persons interviewed one of the most interesting was Emmanuelle Campanella, Italian POW at Sidney who returned to the Italian POW after following the war. He gave the interviewers unusual insights into his war experiences in North Africa and the reactions of the prisoners at the Sioux Ordnance Depot.

Campanella was captured in 1942 in the joint British American pincer movement in North Africa. He contrasted the poor living conditions in POW camps near the battle lines in Africa with the comparative tranquility of Sioux Ordnance.

Compared with the German POWs, the Italians were more tractable. Some prison guards said, Mussolini's government toppled in 1943, after which a 70th Italian QM Service Co., made up of POWs at the Sioux Depot, was formed. Campanella recalled that the Italians agreed to cooperate with the American war effort, the POW was removed from their uniform, and an Italian insignia substituted. Germans, who believed that Hitler might still triumph, were good workers — when they chose to do so — and needed the 60 cents per day allowed for their labor. By Geneva Convention rules of war, prisoners could not be compelled to work. Some Germans even tried to damage materials used in operating the depot, and at least one prisoner deliberately wrecked a truck.

Food, clothing and shelter were adequate. The same temporary wooden barracks used by American basic trainees in other camps housed the POWs. Food was similar to American Army rations, though both Germans and Italians preferred to operate their own mess. Clothing was Army olive drab fatigues.

Most Italians were Catholic. Sometimes priests came to the camp for services. At other times the POWs went into Sidney for services at St. Patrick's Church, where Mrs. Frances McElfresh remembers their fine voices. An all-Italian choir was formed.

Despite attempts to prevent fraternization between Italian POWs and women clerks at the post exchange, friendships developed. In one case it led to marriage after the war.

In 1946 many POWs shed tears at the prospect of returning to a war-ravaged Europe. After returning to the United States Campanella built and operated the Cedar Creek Garage between Sidney and Sterling, Colo. Now retired, he lives in Sterling.

State's Tourism Industry Shows Business Increase

Nebraska's tourism industry showed a slight business improvement during June compared to June of last year, according to data published by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

The report showed that Roads Department's traffic counts on the Interstate were about the same as last June, but 10 hotels and motels contacted across the state reported an average increase in occupancy rates of 4.8 percent. Eight tourist attractions contacted by the Department reported an average increase of 5.2 percent compared to last June.

Rich Gartrell, the department's travel director, said the improvement in the state's tourism business climate comes primarily from fewer concerns about fuel availability by the traveling public.

Gartrell also indicated that higher fuel prices and other climbing tourist expenses along with a nationwide recession continue to hinder the industry's growth.

According to the report of current trends continue, the number of visits to Nebraska by nonresidents during the 1980 summer travel season will be around 7 million. This compares to a record high 7.2 million in the summer of 1978.

Nebraskans Spending More On Energy Conservation

Nebraskans are spending increasing sums of money for home energy conservation measures, according to a Nebraska Public Power District residential customer survey.

During the period of 1973-79, more than half of the retail residential customers added in sulation, storm windows, weather stripping or other conservation measures. The addition of ceiling insulation has been the most popular, with 31.5 per cent of the households taking this conservation step. Other common expenditures included storm windows (22 per cent), weather strip (21.8 per cent) and wall insulation (18.4 per cent).

The survey revealed that an estimated 12,850 households (15.6 per cent) took one or more conservation measures in 1979, a significant increase over the 8.9 per cent in 1978, an even more dramatic increase over the 1975 proportion of 3.3 per cent. More than 18 per cent of the customers surveyed indicated they plan to add ceiling insulation this year.

The survey showed that dwellings heated with electricity represent 12.2 per cent of all housing in the NPPD retail service area. However, 42.2 percent of the apartments are heated electrically.

The type of heating system varies with the age of the dwelling. Electric heating is used in 38.3 per cent of dwellings which are five years old or less, but electric heat is found in only 5.8 per cent of homes which are over 20 years old. Homes over 20 years old represent 65.3 per cent of the total housing in NPPD's service area.

Newer homes are also more likely to have central air conditioning. Central electric air conditioners are found in 69.3 per cent of homes which are five years old or newer and in only 20.9 per cent of homes more than 20 years old.

Central and window air conditioners are found in 76.6 per cent of all dwellings in the NPPD service area, but it was also noted that in the Western Region, primarily the Panhandle area, only 55.5 percent of the dwellings have air conditioning.

Electricity is the most popular source of energy for kitchen ranges and clothes dryers, the study showed.

The information developed from the customer survey was based on a mail questionnaire conducted in November 1979. More than 75 percent of the customers receiving questionnaires completed and returned it. An NPPD spokesman said.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST

The object of our existence is:

1. TO RESTORE Christianity as described in the New Testament.
2. TO EXALT Christ above party and His Word above human creeds.
3. TO BUILD a church of Christ without denominational name, man-written creed or other barrier to Christian unity, whose terms of fellowship shall be as broad as the conditions of salvation and identical with them.
4. TO LEAD people to Christ in the light of the New Testament teaching.

Thus we teach and plead for:

1. THE BIBLE as the only rule of faith and practice. (1 Timothy 3:16, 17).
2. CHRISTIANITY as the name of Christ's followers. (Acts 11:26; 26:28).
3. CHURCH UNITY. (John 17:20, 21; 1 Corinthians 1:10).
4. BAPTISM OF BELIEVERS. (Mark 16:15, 16; Acts 2:38, 41; 16:32-34).
5. IMMERSION AS BAPTISM. (Mark 1:5-10; John 3:23; Acts 8:26-40; Romans 6:1-6).
6. LIVING THE CHRISTIAN LIFE, working as if all depended on us, trusting as if all depends on Christ. (Hebrews 12:1, 2).

The First Church of Christ is one of over 10,000 churches, organized to pattern all things after the church found in the New Testament scriptures. We are an undenominational congregation with no creed but Christ and no book save the Sacred Word. We are seeking to unite Christian Faith upon the sole basis of the Divine Scriptures, given by God, and the Divine Name, given by God.

We, at First Church of Christ, encourage you to take the accent from the names that divide and place it upon the name that unites — Christian. We encourage you to take the emphasis from the documents made by men and place it upon the only Book that saves and unites — The Holy Bible.

First Church of Christ is known for its warm, friendly spirit and its Bible preaching, and affords excellent teachers and Bible school classes for every member of your family. You are invited to visit with us at any time. You are invited by the Lord to become a Christian and thus become a part of the wonderful family of God.

Second Generation Borers Possible in Late Term Corn

Farmers with late-planted or long-maturity corn should watch out for infestation of second generation corn borers, according to an entomologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Dr. David L. Keith, extension specialist, said first brood corn borer moths lay their eggs in early planted corn in late May and June after wintering as mature larvae or borers in corn stalks. After the eggs hatch, the young borers do their damage as they are maturing, Keith said. "This first generation of corn borers reaches the adult or moth stage in mid- to late July and lays eggs for the second generation of borers. Farmers therefore need to watch for evidence of second generation buildup in the next two to three weeks."

According to John Witkowski, Wayne, extension entomologist and corn borer researcher at the University of Nebraska North-east Station near Concord, the period during which corn sheds pollen is especially critical.

Cool weather, high humidity and an abundance of pollen for the small larvae to eat make conditions right for a high survival rate for young second generation borers, Witkowski said.

Keith advised farmers to "scout each field several times at three- to four-day intervals for moths, eggs and young corn borers." He added that each corn variety must be considered as a separate field.

Farmers should look for egg masses on the undersides of corn leaves and should examine several plants in different areas of each field, he said. The eggs are flat and overlap each other like fish scales, with perhaps 10 to 15 eggs in a single mass. Eggs are white when first laid, but each egg will develop a black spot on it just before hatching, Keith said.

Entomologists agree that no highly reliable method is available for determining if treatment for second generation corn borers is necessary, he said. However, IANR entomologists will recommend treatment if egg masses average more than five per 10 plants and eggs are beginning to hatch.

In 1978 research by Witkowski, best control of second generation borers was achieved by treating when borer egg masses were 25 percent hatched, Keith said.

"However, even though few egg masses may be detected in some fields, ideal weather for borer egg hatch and survival could produce a damaging infestation," he noted. Conversely, fields with many eggs may end up with few borers. A long emergence and activity period of the summer brood of moths can make control of second generation borers especially difficult. "None of the currently used insecticides provides enough residual to give a high degree of control with just one application if the egg laying period is extended," he explained.

Keith said granular insecticides have generally been more effective against borers than sprays in Nebraska tests. Furadan 10 G, Dyfonate 20 G, EPN 4G, Thimet 15G and Diazinon 14G are registered for corn borer control. "Contact your county extension agent for specific rates for application, waiting periods and other restrictions," Keith said.

Embargo Only Slightly Effective

Farmers are being paid sharply lower prices for corn and wheat at most country elevators in the Corn Belt and the Great Plains because of President Carter's Jan. 4 partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union, but it appears the embargo only slightly affected Soviet Union grain imports.

That's according to Leslie F. Sheffield, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension farm management specialist, writing in the Cornhusker Economics newsletter.

The depressing price effects on the grain markets have resulted in sharply lower prices being paid to farmers for corn and wheat at most country elevators. The University of Nebraska Lincoln faculty member said but the Soviet Union has been able to import nearly all of the grain it needs.

The article was written in late June. Because of the prolonged heat and dry weather since July 1, grain prices, especially for corn and grain sorghum and soy beans, have increased sharply. The heat and dry conditions Sheffield said, have been affecting large production areas in the Southwest extending into the Central Plains states.

A study conducted earlier this year by the National Association of Wheat Growers, Sheffield said indicated prices received by wheat farmers on a national basis had declined by an average of 45 cents per bushel from pre-embargo price levels. Some grain trade sources believe current U.S. corn prices are from 25 to 30 cents per bushel below prices corn would have brought during the past two months without the embargo.

The Carter Administration's change in policy regarding third country grain sales to the Soviet Union by U.S. grain export firms, announced last month by the Minneapolis Tribune, is believed by some in the grain trade to be a step toward dismantling the partial embargo of grain shipments. Hot Weather and Swine Reproduction

This summer's hot weather can reduce the conception and pregnancy rate of sows by as much as 60 percent, according to Don Levis, Extension district swine specialist, at the University of Nebraska South Central Station, Clay Center.

"The effects of summer heat are really twofold," Levis said.

With high temperatures, boars will become infertile or won't work and sows will not cycle, or will breed and then recycle, indicating an embryonic death loss.

Levis said that the only solution for heat caused reductions in fertility is to keep sows and boars cool.

To maintain maximum fertility in boars, the animals must be kept cool at all times. "That means 24 hours a day," he said. "It doesn't matter how a boar is kept cool whether by shade, sprinkler or air conditioner just as long as he's cool."

He said there is also a tendency for boars to overheat if allowed to work during the day and he suggested separating boars and sows until the cooler evening hours. He noted this to be particularly true for aggressive boars.

Boars also shouldn't be overworked, Levis said. If a boar breeds five or six sows within two days, there will be a definite decrease in sperm count. This in combination with reduced sperm production due to hot weather will result in decreased litter sizes and pregnancy rates.

The effects of hot weather also can be determined to sow production, Levis said. He said that in hot weather, sows will not cycle as well as they would normally and that the first 30 days after breeding are the most critical for preventing embryonic death.

Sows should be kept cool the first 30 days after mating to cut embryonic losses, and the last two weeks prior to farrowing to reduce stillborn problems, he said.

Levis said that accurate record keeping is the only way to carry out an efficient pork producing program, particularly in the summer months.

An efficient breeding program all boils down to keeping good records, he said. Without records, the producer can't tell whether death losses came in the first 30 days later or if the sows aren't cycling.

Hot Weather May Be Bonus To Most Grain Producers

The hot, dry weather that means misery to most Nebraskans means golden opportunities for higher prices to most Nebraska grain producers.

Lynn Lutgen, extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the weather scare may mean profits on the volatile grain markets.

Hot weather conditions that have extended from Texas up through Canada, bring on what we call a weather scare in regard to corn and soybeans in the futures market, Lutgen said.

When you have hot weather conditions such as we've been experiencing, it definitely pays to watch the market in relation to the crop we've got growing, he added. "Maybe a person can find an opportunity to obtain some pretty fair prices during that period of time."

With spring bumper crops on all kinds of grains, right now some of the grain commodities on the futures market are just plain reacting to a weather scare.

As long as there's a weather scare and this hot weather continues, we can see some strengthening of prices.

If soybeans are lost in the Delta, a major soybean producing area that's been experiencing dry, hot conditions, we can look for better soybean prices next year than we have experienced the past year.

If the soybean crop looks good, Lutgen said, you certainly want to be watching what happens in the market when you have these types of volatile conditions. There can be a change in price in some price.

Considering the hot, dry conditions elsewhere and the wheat crop being harvested in western July, Lutgen said, I might feel optimistic toward the wheat prices. If a person hangs on to that grain for a little while, he should be able to come out with a lot better wheat price than he got last year.

If I had available storage,

Lutgen said putting himself in a producer's place, "I'd really watch the market, take a look at it, and I'd also be prepared to move my wheat if things started turning around."

Corn prices too he added, are expected to rise if current weather conditions continue. "When you have a weather scare and volatile type conditions in the market, there's generally some excellent opportunities to obtain a better than average price if you're on top of the market."

Cattle on Feed Show Decline

Nebraska cattle feeders had 7 million cattle on feed on July 1, down 8 percent from last year and 12 percent below 1978.

The July 1 weight breakdown shows cattle on feed weighing 900 pounds or more totaled 472,000, down 9 percent from 1979. Those in the 700-899 pound group numbered 563,000, a decrease of 8 percent from last year. The under 700 pound category totaled 232,000, down 4 percent from a year ago.

During the April-June quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 930,000 cattle for slaughter, 11 percent below the corresponding period last year. During the quarter, placements totaled 940,000, a 4 percent decrease from last year.

Feeders intend to market 850,000 cattle for slaughter during the July-September quarter. If these intentions are carried out, marketings for the third quarter of 1980 would be down 11 percent from the third quarter marketings last year.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market totaled 9.62 million head on July 1, 1980, in the 23 states. The number on feed was 7 percent less than July 1, 1979, 12 percent below the July 1, 1978, level, and the smallest number on feed for this date since 1975. The only weight group totals that exceeded previous year numbers were heifers, 700,899 pounds, up 1 percent, and heifers 900 pounds and over, up 7 percent.

Placements during the April-June quarter totaled 5.63 million, down 9 percent from the same quarter last year and 14 percent less than the second quarter of 1978. Other disappearance of 589 thousand head leaves net placements of 5.04 million. Marketings of fed cattle for slaughter during the April-June period totaled 5.62 million, down 9 percent from the comparable quarter in 1979 and 15 percent below the 1978 level.

The July 1, 1980 number of cattle on feed included 6.29 million steers and steer calves, 8 percent less than the two previous years. Steers and steer calves accounted for 65 percent of the total on feed. Heifers and heifer calves on feed totaled 3.27 million, down 5 percent from 1979 and 18 percent below 1978.

During the July-September quarter, cattle feeders intend to market 5.75 million head. This would be 4 percent below the third quarter marketings of 1979 and 12 percent below 1978.

Cow Herd Concerns Include Flies, Bulls

Beef cow herd management concerns during the summer include controlling flies, bull management, providing mineral supplements and selling dry cows, according to Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources extension beef specialist Paul Guyer. A new method of fly control is now available to Nebraskans, Guyer said. The use of Rabon-impregnated eartags appears to be reasonably effective and costs about $1 per tag, he noted. "Data indicate that one tag per cow will control horn flies on cows and calves for eight to 12 weeks." It appears that two tags per cow or calf will aid also in the control of face fly for about two months, Guyer added. During the breeding season bulls should be observed regularly to make certain they are active, Guyer noted. Injured or non-aggressive bulls will not contribute to a high percentage of an early calf crop. "Injured bulls should be replaced as soon as noticed. Bulls that lose their aggressiveness should be placed on R and R - rest and rehabilitation - and replaced by a bull from the reserve bull battery." In some instances a planned bull rotation system may increase conception early in the breeding season, he added. Producers having problems with high milk producing cows not coming into heat early enough may be using rations not providing enough phosphorus. Normally during the breeding season, grass will provide enough phosphorus for the average cow, but the heavy milker has need for considerably more. In this case it may be wise to continue using a phosphorus supplement during the spring and summer months as well as fall and winter. Spring calving cows that are not suckling a calf or fall calving cows that are not bred are profit robbers and should be sold for slaughter rather than holding till later in the summer, Guyer said.

Turena Walde To 4-H Team

Wayne County 4-H'er Turena Walde, 15, Winside has been selected as a member of the 1980 State 4-H Awareness Team. The team, composed of 17 4-H members representing each of the state's five Cooperative Extension Service administrative districts, will travel around the state, making presentations to legislators, government officials, educators, civic and community groups and friends of 4-H. Wayne County Extension Agent Don Spitze said the team will use many methods of interpersonal and mass communications to help Nebraska citizens understand the 4-H program and its contributions to youth development. Team members will receive expense paid trips to a State 4-H Teen Awareness Conference, to be held July 22-25 on the University of Nebraska Lincoln East Campus. They were selected on the basis of applications submitted through district 4-H youth specialists.

Tomato Fruitworm
A destructive worm that can do a lot of damage to both corn and tomatoes. Mature worms are 1 1/2 inches long and have light brown heads. The body has several black stripes running its full length. General body color may be greenish, yellow, brown and even pink. Worms will damage ears of corn and the fruit of tomatoes.

Control Measures
A new product that controls this insect by a bacterial disease is very effective. This product is marketed by several firms and is sold under the trade name of Thuricide, Bactur or Dipel. These are powders that contain spores of the disease which, when mixed with water and sprayed on the plants, kill various types of caterpillars such as the tomato fruitworm. Sevin spray can also be used. Repeat at 7-10 days intervals.
