ONE-HUNDRED FOURTH YEAR NUMBER NINETY-THREE

Those Crazy Days of Summer

THE ONE DAY WHEN BARGAINS are at their lowest — Dog Day — got off to a roaring start early Saturday morning as hundreds of area shoppers lined the streets looking for just the right buy. Participating Chamber of Commerce merchants hauled a variety of items onto the sidewalks and marked them with discount prices. Although the sales were not scheduled to start until 7 a.m., parking places around Wayne became few and far between well before that

Proposed Budget Includes Cutbacks

City Council members are expected to take action Tuesday night on a proposed budget for next year that will include the elimination of two employee positions and a reduction in salary increases for employees.

PUBLIC HEARING will be held at 8:30 p.m. at the City Hall during the regular Council meeting. The Council will either approve or reject the proposed fiscal year 1980-81 budget which must be submitted to the County Clerk in the next few weeks.

The budget cuts are the result of several "concentrated" informal meetings between Council members, Mayor Wayne Marsh and City Administrator Darrell Brewington. In making the budget adjustments, the administrator acted at the request of the Council which had to deal with a projected deficit of about $180,000 in the coming fiscal year.

Major cutbacks for next year are the elimination of one position in the Police Department and the elimination of one in the Street Department. Brewington said the administration will follow the "last one hired, first one fired" concept.

BY ELIMINATING the positions, the Council saved an estimated $21,656 — some $12,256 for the police position and $9,400 for the public works employee.

In addition, Brewington pointed out, by reducing the cost of living raise from 8 percent to 6 percent, a savings of $33,906 will be realized. So, total savings in salaries and benefits for the coming year will be $55,562.

When the deficit figure of $180,000 was projected by the administration last year, the deficit was based on a cost of living raise of 8 percent, the city administrator noted, and an inflation rate of 15 percent. Thus, considerable savings are being realized by providing cost of living increases of only 6 percent and because inflation has slowed somewhat.

IN WHITTILING the budget, the Council also saved $37,000 by not immediately filling vacant positions.

These included a street department employee, a police department employee, a bookkeeper in the clerk's office, a police department dispatcher and a city clerk. The total accumulated time lapsing before the positions were filled was 15 months.

Other savings in the general fund amounted to $24,000 in commodities or supplies, Brewington explained.

SAVINGS in commodities included small tools, vehicle maintenance, gas, oil, tires, travel and conference, insurance, postage, office supplies, etc.

"The department heads should be commended for getting by with as little as possible," Brewington said. "Their endeavors have resulted in considerable savings to the city and to the taxpayers."

One of the factors intrinsic in cutting costs this fiscal year has been the implementation of a new purchasing and accounting procedure, the administrator explained. Any purchases in excess of $25 require a purchase order, the signature of a purchasing agent and a check to see if funds are available in the budget.

THE conservative approach to purchasing will not end with this fiscal year either, he said. "We consider it a good practice regardless of the economy."

A few major construction projects, also known in budget circles as capital outlay, have been deferred until the coming fiscal year. The asphalt resurfacing of 10 1/2 blocks in the southeast quadrant of Wayne was deferred from the current fiscal year to next year, at a delayed savings of $24,000.

Also, Brewington pointed out, deferral of a storm sewer replacement program has been postponed indefinitely — a $38,000 expense to taxpayers.

THE TOTAL savings — through reductions this fiscal year and next — are estimated by Brewington at about $178,000. This leaves the city close to a break even point at the end of next fiscal year.

"But if there are any major problems, any major disaster, there are no contingency funds or reserve funds. We would effectively be bankrupt if anything like that happens," he said.

And, Brewington noted, "each successive year as long as inflation is with us will create a budget deficit."

"WE CAN'T continue to defer replacement of material, sewer lines, streets, equipment and so forth. Some place along the line, we have to have these or we're out of business," he explained. "The longer these are deferred, the more it costs." Councilman Cliff Ginn, contacted Friday for his comments regarding the proposed budget, said he is opposed to the short-term reductions in the budget such as deferring the purchase of various items.

"We're merely borrowing time for larger expenses down the road," he said.

ONE AREA OF the budget that escaped any serious cuts is recreation, Ginn noted. However, there may be some problem in meeting the city's in-kind obligations involving renovation of the city ball park.

In-kind support would come in the form of volunteer work and donations. Ginn is confident that the general fund will be able to pick up some of the deficit as well.

CITY OFFICIALS predicted late last year there would be a severe budget deficit unless some drastic measures were taken. After considerable discussion, the Council opted for a one cent sales tax issue to be voted on by the taxpayers.

The issue failed, however, and the Council began to examine ways to reduce the deficit and at the same time keep the city solvent. Had the sales tax passed, it would have generated between $200,000 and $300,000.

BREWINGTON has pointed out repeatedly that while the Council may be successful in cutting the budget for the coming fiscal year, a deficit of well more than $100,000 is anticipated for the 1981-82 fiscal year. There is concern that further reductions will severely hamper the city's ability to function effectively.

City Council Considers Proposed 80-81 Budget

Wayne City Council will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the City Hall with the following agenda items scheduled:

MAYORAL reappointment of Howard Witt to the Wayne Housing Authority, action on volunteer fireman application, review of an industrial development policy statement, consideration of utility bill bad debts, a building code permit fee and census discussion.

Others are opening of bids on an asphalt overlay project, awarding of bids for renovation of the ball park, certificates of completion on various Marywood Subdivision projects, a public hearing on the fiscal year budget, consideration of an ordinance on the Mohr Industrial Tract, a resolution accepting the Hillside Drive petition, and a resolution accepting the Thorman Street petition.

OTHERS are an ordinance creating street improvement districts (SID's) 80-2 and 80-3, a resolution on plans and specs for Hillside Drive, a resolution on plans and specs for Thorman Street, advertisement for bids and notice to contractors for SID's 80-2 and 80-3 and any other items that may come before the Council.

Frito Lay Announces Distributorship Here

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce announced Friday the location of a new distributorship here.

Frito Lay, Inc., one of the largest "store door" delivered snack food systems in the world, will begin distribution operations out of Wayne Aug. 1.

The Chamber office and Wayne Industries, Inc., became the initial contact for Frito Lay in June in a search to locate suitable warehousing facilities.

A subsidiary of Pepsi Co., Frito Lay is making the move to Wayne in an effort to decentralize its operations. Mike Tew, Mid-Central Zone area sales manager from Sioux City, Iowa, told Chamber officials that significant growth in the community and surrounding area prompted the need to locate in a more central location.

Communities to be served by the Wayne facility include Wakefield, Pender, Emerson, Coleridge, Dodge, Howells, Beemer, Wisner, Pilger, Hartington, Leigh, Clarkson, Stanton, Carroll, Laurel and Randolph.

The distributorship office will begin as a one-man operation. Tew named Larry Nelson of Sioux City to be transferred to Wayne for the position of area routeman. Nelson, his wife and family, will move here as soon as suitable housing is found.

Other Frito Lay distributorships in this area include Fremont, Norfolk, Sioux City, Iowa, and Yankton, S.D.

Four County Century Farms Will Be Honored on Aug. 7 at Fair

Four Wayne County farm families are to receive the Nebraska Pioneer Farm Award during the Wayne County Fair on Aug. 7.

ENGRAVED plaques and framed certificates will be presented to Homer Biermann of Wisner; Robert R. Greenwald of Wayne; Don L. Luft of Wayne; and Mark R. Stringer and Margaret M. Stringer of Wayne.

They are descendants of a family that started a century of farm ownership when Wayne County was first being settled.

This unique award, co-sponsored by Ak-Sar-Ben and the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers, is made annually to owners of farms which have remained in the same family for 100 years or longer.

Information on the farms is as follows:

NELS NELSEN was the original family owner of the farm which legally is described as Section 33, Township 26, Range 4. The acreage originally was acquired by the family in December of 1860.

Nels Nelsen bought 80 acres of land southeast of Wayne for just $2.75 per acre. He later added to his 80 acres until his holding had reached 200 acres.

NELS DROVE a stage coach in his earlier days when he and a brother, Jens, bought the mail route between LaPorte and Ponca. They made two trips a week over their route, carrying items such as mail, passengers and many other things that could be hauled on the stage.

Nels died at the age of 97, and the land was purchased by a grandson, Don L. Luft, for $244.50 an acre in 1956. Luft's son, Dennis, now lives on the farm located five miles southeast of Wayne.

MARK R. Stringer and Margaret M. Stringer are owners of a 74-acre spread which does not include six acres of road.

Legally described as the E 1/2 of the SW 1/2 of Section 9, Township 26, Range 4E, the land was acquired by the family on May 6, 1880.

Mark Stringer homesteaded in Dixon County in 1867. He and Matilda Bygert were married on March 28, 1868, at Ionia in Dixon County.

THE UNITED STATES General Land Office sold to Seth Richards the SW 1/4 of 9-26-4 on Jan. 2, 1873. Richards contracted it to Mark Stringer in 1879 and gave the deed May 6. He also bought 80 acres on the north side of the road, all for $4 per acre. Later, he acquired a quarter south of this for $8 per acre.

THE BIERMANN farm, now owned by Homer Biermann of Route 2, Wisner, is in the Plum Creek Precinct.

William Biermann, of German descent, bought the 200-acre tract in 1880 from Otto Gaugler. The homestead dugout was on a little hill west of the present homestead which is legally described as the W 1/2 of the S 1/2 of the NE 1/4 of Section 27, Township 25, Range 4; and the SE 1/4 of Section 27, Township 25, Range 4.

Homer's father, August, married Martha Longe and built the present home in 1934. Besides farming, August raised and sold seed corn and he also had bees and honey. He was serving in the State Legislature when he died in January, 1935.

THE 160 ACRE Robert Greenwald farm, described as the SW 1/4 of 27-25-4, was bought by brothers Phillip and John Greenwald on July 4, 1876. Being single at the time, Phillip lived in a dugout until a home could be built.

After the death of his wife, he lived with his eldest son, Ernest, until his death in 1929. He took possession of the farm in 1930 and died in 1955.

Robert, son of Ernest, is the present owner of the farm. He was born and reared on the farm.

Give-Away Winner Not Here

The stroke of luck befell Ralph Emry of Aiten, but poor Ralph wasn't in Wayne Thursday to reap his reward.

THE THIRD time turned out not to be such a charm, as there was no one in town to claim last week's Grand Give-A-Way of $1,000 in script money. Ralph's name was drawn from among subscribers to The Wayne Herald and from those who receive The Marketer each week.

But, alas, Ralph opted to stay home Thursday evening and lost out on the big money. This marked the first week in the Give-A-Way promotion that a winner has failed to collect the $1,000.

THERE'S always next week, though, and the rules remain unchanged.

There is no purchase necessary. The name is chosen and announced at about 8 p.m. each Thursday night in participating stores. In order to win, the person whose name is announced or their spouse must be in one of the participating stores when the name is called. The name is not announced in non-participating stores.

New Betterment Sign

WAYNE WAS AMONG the first of many Nebraska communities to receive the recently redesigned Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) roadside signs last week. Jesse Milligan (above) and Joe Stanton, State Department of Roads employees, erected the sign east of town on Wayne's population sign. The distinctive NCIP logo is used in 175 participating communities this year in Nebraska. Sponsored by the area investor owned natural gas and telephone companies, NCIP has been a significant force in encouraging community improvement in Nebraska, according to Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Gary Van Meter. Verneal Ellingson is local NCIP chairman.

Coffee Honors Haun

A SURPRISE Chamber of Commerce coffee was held at the high school Friday to honor Dr. Francis Haun, (right), superintendent of the Wayne-Carroll School District. Haun has been superintendent here for 15 years and was instrumental in initiating the building effort for the new high school. Presenting the honor is Chamber member Keith Mosley.

'Fiddler' Cast, Stage Crews Are Selected

A cast change and selection of stage crews for the September production of "Fiddler on the Roof" have been announced by Director Ted Blenderman.

Publicity Chairman Ann O'Donnell said Mandel, formerly played by Steven Morse, will now be played by Mike Devall.

Blenderman also has chosen Curtis Jeffries of Winside as conductor of the orchestra; Jane O'Leary will be the vocal music director and accompanist; Pat Craun will be choreographer, and Connie Vopalensky will be costumes mistress.

Bob Gullikson will be in charge of the elaborate set construction, Jan Merriman will arrange for props and Mrs.

O'Donnell is in charge of publicity.

The show will be presented as a dinner show Sept. 5 and 6 at Ramsey Theatre at Wayne State College. A performance only will be staged Sept. 7. Tickets go on sale Aug. 20 at Blake Studio, Sav-Mor Drug and Griess Rexall.

Cast members include the following:

Alan Cramer as Tevya, Diana Ruested as Golde, Alyce Froschle as Yanke, Pat Craun, Connie Vopalensky and Suzanne Platter as the daughters, Matt Smith, Bill Dickey, Frank Pralther, Tim Thomas and Mark Shuffelt have other male roles, while Linda Wood, Sandy Blenderman, Nancy Hewitt and Jan Merriman have female roles.

News Briefs

Nedergaard Attends Conference

Gordon Nedergaard, Wayne, district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood, attended the Eastern Regional Sales Conference in Hershey, Penn., July 11-13. He qualified for attendance at the sales conference on the basis of his total life and health insurance and mutual fund production for last year.

Delp, Krueger Fund

Funds have been established at the Winside State Bank for Dennis Delp and Dean Krueger, both of Winside. Donations for the two men and their families may be left at the bank. Krueger has returned home from the hospital, however. Delp remains a patient in a Sioux City hospital.

Northeast Tech Graduation

Graduation exercises for the 23rd class of practical nurses at Northeast Technical Community College will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 7, at the NTCC Activities Center. Candidates for diplomas in practical nursing include Sharon Frahm of Dixon, Deborah Brudigan of Hoskins, Donna Ruzicka of Wakefield, and Connie Sukup of Wayne.

Correction

Edward Fleer, Wayne, whose horse was named champion of the Boys' Western Pleasure at the State 4-H Horse Exposition in Grand Island recently, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haas of Wayne. He was identified as the son of Carl Fleer in Thursday's Wayne Herald. In addition, the news release said his horse's name was Curtis Ski. It should have been Custus Shi.

Scholarship to Hoskins Student

Sixty-five students enrolled in the College of Agriculture, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, have been awarded Ak Sar Ben scholarships for the coming school year. Included is Mike Gnirk, Hoskins, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gnirk, is a sophomore majoring in agriculture with an emphasis in agronomy and animal science. He will receive $500 to defray tuition expenses at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. This is the 36th year for the awards from the Knights of Ak Sar Ben.

Fairgrounds Cleanup

Dates for clean-up of the Wayne County fairgrounds have been announced by Marilyn Koch, director of the county fair. To prepare for the fair, which is scheduled Aug. 7-10, clean up will be held at 4 p.m. Monday, Aug. 4. Clean up after the fair is planned at 4 p.m., Monday, Aug. 11. Anyone who wishes to lend a hand is welcome, Koch said. Riding mowers and other cleaning equipment would also be appreciated.

OBITUARIES

James Goad
James Goad, Green Bay, Wis., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rogge of Wayne, died July 15 at his home. He was 54 years old. Funeral services and burial were in Green Bay. Goad was born Feb. 10, 1926 at Tatum, Texas. He served with the Coast Guard during World War II and married Colleen Rogge of Wayne on May 29, 1947. He was a steam fitter with Local 298. Preceding him in death was one brother. Survivors include his wife, Colleen of Green Bay; two sons, James Goad II of Green Bay, and Gary, at home; one daughter, Patti, at home; two grandchildren; his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goad of Lancaster, Texas; and his mother, Mrs. Lota McGulgan of Henderson, Texas.

Loren Washburn
Services are scheduled today (Monday) at Wittse Mortuary, Wayne, for Loren Washburn. He died Thursday at the Wayne Care Centre at the age of 88. The Rev. Kenneth Edmonds will officiate at the 2 p.m. service. Pallbearers are Glenn Walker, Willard Wittse, Ed Wolske, Elray Rinehart, Orville Brandstetter and Arnold Marr. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery, Wayne. Washburn, the son of James Roscoe and Margaret Jones Washburn, was born Oct. 30, 1887 at Winside. He resided in Sioux City and California for a short time before moving back to Nebraska. He farmed for many years before moving into Wayne. Preceding him in death were his wife, his parents, three brothers and four sisters. Survivors include two sons, Lionel of Mt. Wuk, Calif.; and Frank of Foster City, Calif.

William Benjamin
Services for William Benjamin of Laurel, who died Wednesday at Providence Medical Center in Wayne, were scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday at the United Presbyterian Church in Laurel. Benjamin, 79, was born Sept. 23, 1900, at Laurel to James and Dorra Rounph Benjamin. He married Hilda Doring March 31, 1922, at Yankton, S.D. The couple farmed in the Laurel area until 1975 when they retired and moved into Laurel. The Rev. Thomas Robson officiated at services Saturday. Burial was in the Laurel Cemetery and pallbearers were Neil Doring, Garry Anderson, Earl Benjamin, Lawrence Obermeyer, Harold Meier and Ronald Rees. ## Which: Energy Crisis or Energy Catastrophe?

Richard L. Lasher, President
Chamber of Commerce
Of the United States

It does not happen often, but a few times each year, the Congress debates an issue so absolutely crucial to the nation's economic well-being, security and survival, that it is simply impossible to excuse any member of Congress for voting wrong — i.e., for voting against this country's vital interests. Just such a situation is shaping up now as the Senate prepares to determine the extent of future energy exploration and production in Alaska through its vote on the Alaska Lands Bill. Here is why.

In this summer of 1980, the United States finds itself perilously dependent on increasingly unstable sources of energy supplies. The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan means Soviet troops are now within easy striking distance — only 400 miles — from our oil lifelines in the Strait of Hormuz. What's more, the political stability of certain Arab countries which supply America and her allies with vast quantities of oil is being threatened by growing unrest throughout the Middle East.

Thus, simple prudence dictates that it is no longer possible to rule out the worst — an interruption, or even a total cut-off, of more than 50 percent of the oil on which western nations depend. Should such a catastrophe occur, the result could be the most severe economic depression the free world has ever known and the possible loss of our freedom as well.

Given these very real dangers, it doesn't take a great deal of intelligence to understand that the United States should be doing everything possible to increase its domestic production of energy. Incredibly, however, the Administration is actively supporting attempts to foreclose any meaningful exploration or production in precisely those areas scientists have designated as having the highest oil and gas potential in the United States. That is what the fight over the Alaska Lands Bill is all about.

There are an estimated 76 billion barrels of recoverable oil in Alaska, and by some estimates, the state's potential reserves are greater than the proven reserves of Venezuela, Abu Dhabi, Mexico and the Soviet Union.

Yet, in all of Alaska, only seven oil rigs are presently pumping oil, compared with 366 in Louisiana and 807 in Texas. Why this ludicrous situation? Because more than 120 million acres of the state, including those holding the greatest potential for the discovery of oil and gas, have been closed off to any exploration by the Carter Administration's executive fiat. The Administration took this action while awaiting final Congressional action on the Alaska Lands Bill. To date, only the House has approved a very conservation-oriented version of this bill.

The Senate Energy Committee, recognizing the dangers inherent in locking up Alaska's oil-rich lands, has hammered out a more balanced version of the Alaska Lands Bill than that approved by the House and supported by the Administration. The House bill places almost all its emphasis on protecting the environment and almost none on encouraging energy development. The Senate Energy Committee's version would observe strict environmental safeguards to protect Alaska's "crown jewels," but at the same time permit access to Alaska's much needed resources.

Sen Paul Tsongas (D-Mass.) has voiced objections to the Senate Energy Committee's bill, and with support from the Administration, plans to introduce amendments which would effectively eliminate Alaska as a viable option for future energy development.

For example, one Tsongas amendment would classify as a "wilderness" area the Arctic Wildlife Range which geologists believe has the highest oil and gas potential in the United States. Wilderness is described as "an area where the earth and its community of life are untrampled by man...where man himself is a visitor who does not remain."

Another Tsongas amendment would check off access to the extremely important Ambler District containing several significant deposits of essential industrial minerals — minerals which the United States lacks and which could only be replaced by uncertain, and probably more expensive foreign imports.

America is in a dangerously vulnerable position, perhaps the most vulnerable in postwar history. It is imperative that we rebuild our economic security as rapidly as possible. Senators who vote for the Tsongas amendments will not be voting against the exploitation and desecration of Alaska; they will be voting against the vital interests of the United States, and they should be identified as having done so.

An energy crisis is bad enough. An energy catastrophe would be too much.

the pied typer

A postscript to notes of a few weeks ago on Kansas City.

Worlds of Fun is an engineering feat that boggles the mind. After partaking of its enjoyment for three straight years, we still found it fresh in its approach to entertainment.

The system of hauling visitors from the many parking lots to the main gates is truly fascinating. There are several motorized passenger carriers much like those used at some major airports to ferry people from airline to terminal.

Each is equipped with a driver and a courtesy announcer. As you board the mini-train you are reminded which parking lot you left your car in and which mini-train you need to take to get back. The rules of the park are explained, some of the highlights, etc.

Worlds of Fun is staffed by hundreds of high school aged youth, all outfitted in Worlds of Fun garb and all (there are exceptions, of course) as pleasant and amiable as one could ask. Although we did not experience any discontent among the staff, we have been told of a few instances of rudeness. But we all have a bad day now and then.

The secret to Worlds of Fun is to go on a week day and get there by 10 a.m. or shortly afterward just as the gates open. By noon, the lines are long and the amusement park is bustling with all shapes, sizes and colors of people.

We chose the early hour mainly because temperatures were expected to be about 108 that day. We didn't particularly relish the thought of spending several hours on the black asphalt runways that lead visitors through the maze of rides, shops and amusements.

All of the staff we encountered were cordial and always returned our smiles or comments. One we talked with briefly said the temperatures within Worlds of Fun on that particular day were expected to reach 150 degrees, primarily because of asphalt's absorption qualities.

For the plant enthusiast, Worlds of Fun is heaven. Every available inch of ground is covered by lush, well-maintained grass or plants you would swear were direct from the jungle. All of the plants were lush and huge. We had to look hard to find any signs of unhealthy plants even in the scorching temperatures.

In addition, the grounds were immaculate. The staff continually traversed the miles of asphalt pathways, picking up trash left by thoughtless park-goers with semi-automated dust pans.

Because of the heat, we weren't at the park but about two hours. We spent much of our time just walking and admiring, stealing ideas for flowers, shrubs and expert use of railroad ties for landscaping.

Unlike our sports editor who has more nerve than I, this old boy didn't venture on any of the monster rides such as the Zambie Zinger, The Orient Express, The Steam Roll, etc. We enjoyed the train ride through Dry Gulch, the antique car ride and the tram ride over the complex.

A few helpful suggestions on how to enjoy the park: go early before the lines form. The lines do move rapidly, but being among the first 50 in line is better than the first 250.

Go on a weekday. There is so much to see that could be missed while watching people on a weekend rather than looking at the beauty of the facility on a week day.

Dress appropriately. Remember that the asphalt here hikes the temperatures several degrees and can turn an ordinary summer day into a scorcher.

Take your kids if they're under four years old. Although there are an awful lot of rides to take, eatery stands to stop at, shops to spend money at, and game parlors to drop a few bucks at, there isn't much for the toddler.

To thoroughly enjoy Worlds of Fun, set aside at least three hours. The park is located on the northeast side of KC several miles from Interstate 26. But there are many good quality and "brand name" motels and hotels which have sprung up in the immediate area of Worlds of Fun.

Take lots of money. Admission is around $10 a head, with discounts for the youngsters. Prices at the food stands are inflated, so plan to skip lunch or take lots of dinero. Of course, you'll have to take a KC or Worlds of Fun memento home to each of the kiddies. That will set you back a $5 spot or more, too.

We'll no doubt go back next year. By then, maybe, I'll have generated the needed nerve and take on some of the bigger rides. But in the mean time, I'm complacent to watch others force themselves into near hysteria.

Don't worry about getting lost. If you can read and drive, you shouldn't have any problem. Worlds of Fun is just off I-35 north. There are signs galore and the park is visible for miles in every direction. The Worlds of Fun water tower is a sure tip-off.

If you have lodging downtown or near Arrowhead Stadium, plan on a 30 minute drive. It probably won't take that long, but city traffic can be a surprise if you aren't used to it.

"IT SAYS, 'IF ELECTED, I PLEDGE TO REDUCE TAXES, BALANCE THE BUDGET, STOP INFLATION AND INCREASE SERVICES!'"

Major Ag Forces Show Trend to Fewer, Larger

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Most of the major forces affecting agriculture, both governmental and economic, are contributing to the continued trend toward fewer and larger farms, according to a book published by the USDA entitled "Another Revolution in Farming?"

And the economists who arrive at that conclusion after long study and analysis of statistical information dating back 50 years and more, make a very convincing argument for that premise. Most people equate the "small farm" to the "family farm" and the "big farm" to the "corporate farm." The words "corporate farm" immediately create an image of a huge operation owned by a conglomerate even though most farm corporations are in the family-owned category.

At the top of the list of the forces which have made farming and ranching the way it is today is inflation and the reasoning of the economists is this:

"Inflation increases — 1. the wealth of those who own land; 2. demand for land; and 3. input prices. And it strengthens the relative economic position of the wealthier and higher income people in buying land. Through these effects, inflation (compared with stable prices) leads to fewer farms and greater concentration of production, in comes and wealth among those associated with the larger farms."

Most farmers and ranchers can't really argue with such a finding. Inflation has made it increasingly hard for young farm people to get into farming for themselves, to lease and buy additional land, and to cope with their big annual increases in production costs.

The next major force listed which has contributed much to the shape of today's farm structure is the increase in farm product exports. Following is what the analysts had to say about this factor:

"Exports were important to the — 1. sharp increase in farm earnings in 1970's, 2. opportunity to realize politically acceptable prices and farm income with only modest restraints on production; and 3. relatively strong markets for soybeans and corn. Aside from the substantial effects of the higher incomes and wealth on the organization of U.S. farming, these developments led to greater specialization in the production of grain and soybeans in the Corn Belt."

Next force everyone recognizes — availability of capital-intensive new technologies. The writers observe, "It is the control over a large amount of production resources (on large farms and ranches) that affords the opportunity to realize increased incomes and wealth. In crop production, the adoption of modern machinery means production systems that have extremely high unit costs at small volumes of production and low costs at large volumes."

Similar production functions are associated with large scale cattle feedlots and confinement hog production units. Only large volume operations can support such investments regardless of where the ownership lies.

Those who strongly proclaim their support for "family farms" usually include demands for the federal government to guarantee high commodity support prices. Here is what the analysts say about this feature:

"U.S. commodity programs have accelerated the shift to large farms by supporting commodity prices and increasing the chances of significant price increases. In this way, commodity programs have enhanced the confidence of people aggressively willing to accumulate land and/or invest in capital goods that facilitate large scale production of commodities; and 2. willingness of lenders to extend credit to these kinds of people."

In 1935, there were 6.8 million farms in the United States, the peak in numbers for all time. In 1978, there were 2.6 million and there are fewer than that now. In the 45 years between 1935 and 1980, there have been huge increases in inflation, vast expansion of government interference in agriculture, a whole revolution in agricultural mechanical advancement and farming techniques, and enormous growth of agricultural export sales. All in some way have contributed to the state of the nation's agriculture and the status of the individual farmer and rancher of today.

Dear Editor:

Here is one place one can air their views and thoughts of others. The topic: $1,000 drawing.

It's great for the few who will be winning. Why not try a new "deal." Divide the $1,000 drawing into 10 $100 drawings. Draw 10 names and give them five minutes to call in. If not present, call (draw) another name.

More people would come into town and nine more would be happy. Then take out the names of the winners for at least four months or for always. There are a lot of people in and around Wayne.

I have heard many complaints on the $1,000 drawing.

July Wedding Ceremony Unites Heffernan - Hall

Mary Pat Heffernan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heffernan of Sioux City, became the bride of Scott Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Hall of Wayne, on July 18 at the Blessed Sacrament Church in Sioux City.

The Rev. Msgr. Richard Sweener of Sioux City officiated at the 7 o'clock double ring rites. Deacon was John Heffernan of Sioux City and lector was Mark Heffernan.

Spiral candelabras, fireside baskets of apricot and white carnations and daisies, and white satin pew bows decorated the church. The youth choir of the Blessed Sacrament Parish sang, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Helen McElroy of Sioux City. Soloist was Garry Stoltenberg and guitarist was Greg Logge.

The bride, who was escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a white sheer organza gown highlighted with tiny pearls and sequins. Her full length illusion veil with Chantilly lace was attached to a band of scalloped Chantilly lace highlighted with tiny pearls and sequins.

The bride's honor attendant was Sylvia Heffernan of Sioux City. Bridesmaids were Lou Ann Wittse of Wayne and Mary Howell and Mary McCloud, both of Sioux City. Junior bridesmaid was Katie Heffernan.

Their Quiana gowns, in apricot, were in full length and were designed with empire waistslines with spaghetti strap tops and matching capes. They wore baby's breath in their hair.

Affair boys were Andy Greer and Jim Tritz, both of Sioux City. Guests were ushered into the church by Mike Heffernan and Dan Heffernan, both of Sioux City, and Mark Wittse and Mike Meyers, both of Wayne. Sam Hepburn of Wayne was best man, and groomsmen were Steve Hall of Wayne and Tim

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT HALL

Howell and Joe Heffernan, both of Sioux City.

The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo and trousers with a white shirt. His boutonniere was a white rose and baby's breath. His attendants were attired in light brown tuxedos trimmed in dark brown.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Heffernan selected a seafoam green Quiana dress. Mrs. Hall chose a mint green Quiana fashion. Both wore white rose corsages.

A reception for 300 guests was held at the Izaak Walton League at McCook Lake, South Dakota following the ceremony. The guests were registered by Jane Ann Striegel of Minneapolis.

Minn. and Connie Hall of Wayne. Gifts were arranged by Sarah Morris of Sioux City and Lori Hall of Wayne.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Jim Tritz and Mrs. Leo Morris, both of Sioux City. Mrs. Bill Striegel of Minneapolis, Minn. and Mrs. Tom Greer of Sioux City poured.

The newlyweds are making their home at 810 9th St., Apt. 1, in Sioux City.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Heenan High School and a 1978 graduate of Wayne State College. She is employed at Postal Finance Co. The bridegroom was graduated from Wayne Carroll High School in 1974 and attends Wayne State College.

Three Area FHA'ers Attend National Leadership Meeting

Susan Baker of Wakefield, Kathy Zielke of Wayne, and Yasuko Kohno of Thurston, representing District 5 Future Homemakers of America (FHA), joined 1,500 students and advisers at the Future Homemakers of America's annual leadership meeting.

Students and advisers attending the meeting, held July 14-17 in St. Louis, Mo., were selected from more than 400,000 home economics students and advisers nationally.

Theme of the four-day meeting was "Families Are You Out There? You Bet!" The theme was designed to help teens expand their thinking about the diversity of the American family and learn to cope creatively with the challenges families face today and in the future.

Activities included general sessions, small-group workshops, and the election of 14 national officers.

Problem-solving sessions called "Making Families Work," focused on family demands and stresses such as divorce, working parents, handicapped members, family violence, and limited resources. There were idea exchange booths and special seminars on teen parenting, nutrition and health, and leadership development.

The three area youths attending the convention were among 28 youths and seven advisers representing Nebraska.

Miss Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Baker of Wakefield. Her chapter adviser is Kathy Zielke.

Yasuko Kohno (Sue) is a Youth Exchange Student from Future Homemakers of Japan. Yasuko has spent the past year with her host family, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Lamplot of Thurston. Yasuko brought greetings from Japan and the YFU program at one of the general business sessions. She also assisted at one of the exchange booths.

4-H'ers Modeling Clothes

About 65 4-H members will be participating in 4-H Style Revue when they model their garments for judges the morning of July 31.

Modeling will begin about 8:30 a.m. in Bentback Hall at Wayne State College.

After modeling activities are completed each garment is judged for construction. Four-H'ers are given an opportunity to visit with the judges about their garments.

Judges will be Mrs. Lori Punt of Wayne, Mrs. Mary Lou Sausser of Randolph, and Mrs. Norman Weber of Wisner.

Four-H'ers will model their garments for the public show on Friday evening, Aug. 1, at Wayne State College Ramsey Theater immediately after the 4-H Song Contest which begins at 7:30 p.m.

Superintendent for Style Revue is Mrs. Sandra Wriedt of Wayne.

She is being assisted by Mrs. Jean Luff, also of Wayne.

Ten 4-H clubs are pre-registered for the Song Contest. Mrs. Wallace Anderson of Laurel is superintendent of the Song Contest and Mrs. Jane O'Leary of Wayne will be the judge.

The public is invited to attend these 4-H events.

Margaret Hansen Awarded Grant

Margaret Hansen of Kennewick, Wash. has been awarded a grant through the Vocational Education Graduate Leadership Development program (GLDP).

The award is through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington, D. C.

Miss Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen of Randolph, was named an alternate for the three-year program in 1978. She was one of 280 alternates and 155 recipients throughout the United States.

She was awarded the GLDP position at Colorado State University in Fort Collins to apply towards her doctorate in vocational education. Her area of study will be teacher education, with emphasis in the trade and industry programs.

The award began in January 1980 and will continue through August of 1981.

Miss Hansen was initiated to Omicron Tau Theta, the Vocational Education National Honorary Organization, on May 13. She was elected treasurer for the 1980-81 year.

Prior to receiving her award, she was employed with Westinghouse Electric Co. at the Hanford Nuclear Plant in Richland, Wash. as a draftsman.

She is a graduate of Wayne State College and Randolph High School.

Prayer, Share Group Hosts Bible School At Wesleyan

The Winside Prayer and Share group hosted a baby shower and brunch to honor Mrs. Norman Jensen and Andrew John, who was born May 17.

Twenty-one women and children attended the brunch Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. LeRoy Damme. Special guests were Mrs. Jensen's mother, Mrs. Leon Buckendahl of Osmond, and her sister, Mrs. Dan Morfeld and Nicholas of Pilger.

Mrs. Duane Field read a poem, entitled "Petition," and presented a copy to the honoree.

After opening the gifts, the group closed with singing.

Music, Bible stories, games and crafts will be featured during vacation Bible school classes this week at the Wayne Wesleyan Church.

The Rev. Bernie Cowgill said all area youngsters ages four years through sixth grade are welcome to attend.

Classes are scheduled to run today (Monday) through Friday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. daily at the church. A special outing is planned Saturday, Aug. 2.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST

The object of our existence is:

1. TO RESTORE Christianity as described in the New Testament.
2. TO EXALT Christ above party and His Word above human creeds.
3. TO BUILD a church of Christ without denominational name, man-written creed or other barrier to Christian unity, whose terms of fellowship shall be as broad as the conditions of salvation and identical with them.
4. TO LEAD people to Christ in the light of the New Testament teaching.

Thus we teach and plead for:

1. THE BIBLE as the only rule of faith and practice. (1 Timothy 3:16, 17).
2. CHRISTIAN as the name of Christ's followers. (Acts 11:26, 28; 28).
3. CHURCH UNITY. (John 17:20, 21; 1 Corinthians 1:10).
4. BAPTISM OF BELIEVERS. (Mark 16:15, 16; Acts 2:38, 41; 16:32-34).
5. IMMERSION AS BAPTISM. (Mark 1:5-10; John 3:23; Acts 8:26-40; Romans 6:1-6).
6. LIVING THE CHRISTIAN LIFE, working as if all depended on us, trusting as if all depends on Christ. (Hebrews 12:1, 2).

The First Church of Christ is one of over 10,000 churches, organized to pattern all things after the church found in the New Testament scriptures. We are an undenominational congregation with no creed but Christ and no book save the Sacred Word. We are seeking to unite Christian Faith upon the sole basis of the Divine Scriptures, given by God, and the Divine Name, given by God.

We, at First Church of Christ, encourage you to take the accent from the names that divide and place it upon the name that unites — Christian. We encourage you to take the emphasis from the documents made by men and place it upon the only Book that saves and unites — The Holy Bible.

First Church of Christ is known for its warm, friendly spirit and its Bible preaching, and affords excellent teachers and Bible school classes for every member of your family. You are invited to visit with us at any time. You are invited by the Lord to become a Christian and thus become a part of the wonderful family of God.

Wayne, Winside Gals Win League Titles

16 and under
Wayne 19, Winside 6: Wayne surprised Winside in the final three innings for an easy 19-6 win to complete the Ralph Bishop

League season. Despite the loss, Winside won the division with only two losses this season, one to Wayne and one to Carroll. Pam Nissen was the winning pitcher and Laurie Gallop was tagged for the loss. Leading hitters for Wayne were Teresa Ginn with three hits and four RBI's and Lisa Jacobsen, Lynn Surber, Tammie Thomas and Nancy Nuss with two hits each. Tammie Murray and Pam Nissen also had key hits.

Lisa Jacobsen, 13, played in all

WAYNE AND WINSIDE compete here in action from Friday's match-up in the 16 years and under softball division. In this photo, Wayne pitcher Pam Nissen delivers a pitch to Laurie Gallop as Joanie Bowers leads off second base. Nancy Nuss is the second baseman and Tammie Thomas is catcher for Wayne. Umpire is Jill Stenwall. Wayne won this game but Winside won the league championship in this age division.

Wayne Swimmers Rule Waves To Push Season String to 4

Three games for Wayne. She went 6-for-6 with two home runs, seven RBI's and seven runs for the day. For Winside, Joanie Bowers and Laurie Gallop led the attack with two hits apiece. June Meyer, Tammie Thomas and Janke each had one base hit.

15 and under
Wayne 11, Winside 0: Perfect games are few and far between in any sport and girls softball is certainly no exception. Pam Nissen recorded one of her most prized performances Friday morning as she threw a perfect game in an 11-0 win over Winside.

Nissen struckout three batters in the four inning game which was cut short because of the 10-run rule. Not one Winside batter reached base as 12 consecutive batters were retired. Kerri Leighton suffered the loss for Winside.

Offensively, Wayne racked up 15 hits and 11 runs. Leading hitters were Nissen and Paula McCright with 3 for 3 performances. Each batter had an extra-base hit. Tammie Murray had a double and triple. Lisa Jacobsen ripped a homer and single and Janine Baier had a double and single. Other hits were collected by Paula Koplin, Mary Sieler and Amy Gross. The Ralph Bishop League champion was not yet determined in this age division.

13 and under
Wayne 12, Winside 1: Wayne clinched at least a share of the Ralph Bishop League championship in this age division with a 12-1 triumph over Winside, Friday. Tiffany Wilke pitched a two-hitter to earn the win.

Leading hitters for Wayne were Lisa Jacobsen with a home run and single and Jody Allen with two hits. Other base hits were recorded by Laura Keating, Shelly Janke, Paula Koplin, Kelly Dittman, Mary Sieler, Amy Jordan and Susie Perry. Leighton and Thies had Winside's two base hits. Thies was the losing pitcher.

Wayne's powerful swim club continued its dominance in North-east Nebraska by defeating Norfolk 373 to 274 and dumping Hartington 275 to 188 this past week. The two victories improved Wayne's record to 4-0 this season.

Individual results of the dual against Hartington were unavailable but records were broken by Jed Reeg, Heidi Reeg and Shelly Schroeder.

Wayne's swim club is coached by Les Barclay this year.

Laurel Midgets Win

Laurel's Midgets had similar success against their opponents. The locals dropped South Sioux 6-5 and Winside 10-3 but lost to Coleridge 9-4.

Phil Martin allowed no earned runs and fanned 10 batters to gain the victory. With a little help from some wild pitching, Laurel rallied to score four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning for the win.

The explosive bats of Phil Martin and Ron Hirschman powered Laurel past Winside 8-3. Hirschman pounded a three-run homer in the fifth inning and Martin slapped two doubles and a single.

Jamie Johnson, struckout eight batters and didn't walk a single player as he gained the win.

Coleridge scored six runs in the final two innings to hand Laurel its lone loss of the week 9-4. Two runs in the third inning and two more in the fourth pulled Laurel into a 4-3 lead.

The visitors rallied in the final two innings to end the hosts' chances for victory.

Pair Cards an 825 Total

TIGED, ACHING feet are being soothed by running water at a pond on the number 12 hole at the Wayne Country Club by Layne Marsh (left), 15, and Cole Froeschle, 14, of Wayne. The two boys played 81 holes of golf at Wayne CC in less than 12 hours, Monday. The pair teed off at 8 a.m. and finished their last hole at 7:48 p.m., claiming they set a course record for most holes played in one day. Marsh and Froeschle completed their first nine holes in 48 minutes and rested no more than five minutes between any rounds, they said. "We started playing as fast as we could and then ran into groups of golfers. We walked all 81 holes", the two boys said. The idea to play nine rounds of golf was started when Bill Hornbeck of Wayne informed the twosome that he had played 81 holes in 12 hours when he was a kid. Scores for each golfer are: Cole — 42, 43, 40, 40, 42, 43, 48, 42, 41; Layne — 50, 50, 50, 45, 48, 48, 49, 53, 51. After completing their last hole, the pair said they felt alright but added that each foot felt like it weighed 90 pounds. "We could have played more holes, though," they added.

Volunteer Softball Set

A pair of benefit softball games, to raise money for the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, are scheduled Sunday, Aug. 3 at the Wayne State College ladies' softball field (near the energy system).

At 1 p.m., the Wayne County Men's Slow Pitch Softball League all-stars will host KMNS Radio of Sioux City. In the other half of this doubleheader, the Wayne Jaycees and Wayne Volunteer Firemen will square off at 2:30 p.m.

A free-will donation will be collected between games.

4-Day Tourney Planned

A four-day benefit softball tournament is scheduled at the Winside ball park, July 31, Aug. 1, 2, and 3. Proceeds will be used to help pay hospital bills of Dennis Delp and Dean Krueger.

The KTIV Channel 4's Super Stuggers will play the tournament winners at 4 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 3.

The tournament will be followed by a park barbecue at the ball park, sponsored by the Ais Association of Lutherans.

A free-will offering will be collected as admission charge for the tourney.

IRRIGATION HOTLINE REPORTS

Help is available to irrigators who are concerned about saving fuel and water. For the fourth year, Lower Elkhorn NRD and the Cooperative Extension Service are cooperating to provide irrigators with crop water use information. This is obtained from weather stations near Battle Creek, Concord and West Point and is accurate for a 50-mile radius. With the crop water use information, irrigations can be scheduled for the most effective times. Broadcasts are on:

- KNUG — 1340 — Fremont, 6 to 7 a.m. and 12:40 p.m.
- KTCH — 1590 — Wayne, 6:35 a.m. and 12:34 p.m.
- WJAG — 780 — Norfolk, 7:30 a.m.

SCHEDULING IRRIGATION

Irrigators may do several things to cut irrigation costs and maximize profits. Among these are testing and maintenance to insure high efficiency in your pumping plant and in your water application system. Your irrigation dealer should be able to provide you with a list of private firms who do efficiency tests.

Once you have brought your system up to high efficiency standards, spending time on irrigation scheduling is your best bet for saving money on pumping costs, reducing nitrate losses due to leaching, and conserving groundwater. It requires a knowledge of soil types and waterholding capacity in inches per foot of soil.

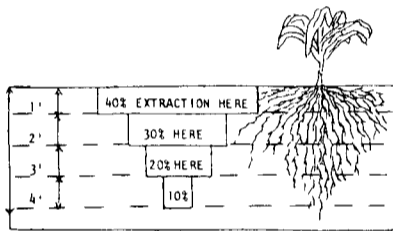

Soil moisture blocks or tensiometers give an accurate indication of the percent of available moisture removed from the soil by crops. A soil sample can be taken with a spade or soil probe and available moisture estimated by feel and appearance. This method is not as accurate as soil moisture blocks, but will indicate if water is needed. Either method must be done at various depths down to three feet and within the root area.

Whatever method is used to find available soil moisture, a flow meter on the irrigation system is essential to apply the correct amount of water. With regular testing, an irrigator can begin watering soon enough that none of the crop ground drops below 50 percent available moisture. If the holding capacity is known, the soil profile can be filled to 75 to 80 percent of capacity, thus leaving room for rainfall.

Scheduling can save one or two irrigations by taking advantage of rainfall, and by ceasing to irrigate in the fall when irrigation water doesn't increase yields. Scheduling may also increase yields by insuring adequate soil moisture during critical times of tasseling, silking and milk stage.

In this inflationary time, irrigation scheduling makes good economic sense. For more information on irrigation scheduling, contact your County Extension Agent.

Sampling for available moisture should be in the top 3" of soil where the plant gets 90% of its moisture.

BASELINE GROUNDWATER QUALITY STUDY

Bruce Hanson, left, of the Conservation and Survey Division, and Donald (Skip) Kahler, LENRD, checking conductivity of ground water as part of Pierce County study.

Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District at the June board meeting approved an agreement to cooperate with the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Conservation & Survey Division, and the Department of Environmental Control on a groundwater quality study. The study will be done in Pierce County and will determine what groundwater temperatures, conductivity and nitrate levels are present. This baseline data can then be used for future comparisons to mark any quality changes. The study will consist of samples from approximately 108 of the 678 registered wells in Pierce County. Bruce Hanson, research hydrogeologist for the Conservation & Survey Division, will collect the samples and do temperature and conductivity tests. The Department of Environmental Control will do the nitrate testing, while the NRD and Conservation & Survey Division will share the $9,411 costs.

The study is not proposed to find high nitrate concentrations, but rather to provide baseline data for future reference. The sample collection will begin in July.

TESTING IRRIGATION WATER

Many farmers in Northeast Nebraska have found through water testing that their irrigation water contains needed plant nutrients which can be used by crops. Nutrients contained in the irrigation water are as available to crops as the nutrients applied in a fertilizer program. The results of a water test can be used to adjust a fertilizer program.

It's not hard to sample the water in a well. The suggested steps are listed as follows:

1. Let irrigation system run for 15 to 20 minutes.
2. Collect one pint of water in a plastic bottle. Make sure that the bottle is clean and rinsed thoroughly with the irrigation water before sample collection. Be sure that injection pumps are not running when the sample is collected.
3. Freeze the sample.
4. Take sample to County Extension Office for processing.

CONCORD NEWS/ Mrs. Art Johnson 584-2495

Concord Betterment Association Meeting

The Concord Betterment Association will meet tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m. at the Concord-Dixon Senior Citizens Center in Concord.

The public is welcome to attend.

Tekia Johnson returned home July 19 after spending two weeks in the Robert Burnett home, Polk City, Iowa. Burnetts brought Mrs. Johnson home and remained overnight. On Saturday evening, Mrs. Burnett attended her 10 year class reunion at Laurel. The Lee Johnson family joined them for dinner Sunday.

The Vernon Winters, Woodward, Okla. came July 19 to spend a week in the Al Guern Sr. home. Other weekend guests were Al Guern Jr. and family of Lenexa, Kan. and the Melvin Baumgardner family, Spirit Lake, Iowa. Guerns and their guests, and Grace Paulsen and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sanders joined other relatives for a Guern reunion July 20 in a West Point park.

Fred Manns, Arvid Petersons, Myron Petersons and Tom Ervins joined other relatives in the Roger Kvols home July 20 to observe the birthdays of the host and hostess.

Betty Dahlquist entertained a group of women in her home last Monday morning for a merchandise party. Demonstrator was Fran Schubert of Allen. Mrs. Doug Treptow and John Swansons, Omaha, and Jerry Stanleys and Peggy Dixon, were Tuesday afternoon guests in the Norman Anderson home. They all attended funeral services for a sister, Ruth Lundahl, at Wakefield Tuesday morning.

Ag Machinery Info Misleading Some

In the early 1900's, the term "buyer beware" had special meaning for Nebraska farmers contemplating investment in a new tractor.

In advertising literature, each tractor model was the "best," had the highest horsepower capacity, consumed the least fuel and would rarely need repair.

In reality, the farmers found many performance statements misleading and, in some cases, untrue. And they found the search for repair parts and tractor service to be long and frustrating.

But by 1919, the situation had changed. A consumer-minded professor from the University of Nebraska took the farmers' complaints and a plan for rectifying the situation to the Nebraska legislature. That same year, the Nebraska Tractor Test Laboratory was built in accordance with a new state law dictating procedures for tractor manufacturers or dealers in the state.

The last tractor test took place in the original laboratory in 1979. On July 25, the old hollow building was designated a Historic Landmark of Agricultural Engineering by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE).

By 1920 standards, the building and equipment were modern, specially designed for testing the power and dependability of new tractors in the market. Test results were made available to the public, so buyers were able to compare actual performance with manufacturers' claims before making a sizeable investment.

The concept of regulating the claims of tractor manufacturers was voiced by a Nebraska professor of agricultural engineering, L. W. Chase, who occasionally served as a judge in competitions among farm tractors. He sympathized with the farmers' complaints of exaggerated tractor advertising, as an engineer, he also believed some basic engineering principles had to be enforced in tractor manufacture.

He took his ideas to W. F. Crozier, a state representative from Polk County. In 1919, Crozier introduced legislation "to encourage the manufacture and sale of improved types of tractors, and to contribute to a more successful use of the tractor for farming."

When the tractor testing bill emerged as law in July, 1919, it stipulated that tractor manufacturers or dealers obtain permits to sell models in the state, and only after meeting requirements of the law. Requirements included the following:

Testing of a stock tractor of each model, public release of test results, demonstration that the tractor met manufacturers' claims and maintenance of a full supply of replacement parts within the state.

Chase became a member of the board of engineers charged with developing a test procedure, designing and building test facilities and equipment and conducting the tests.

The test laboratory was a hollow building of stucco and tile, 41 feet wide and 82 feet long. Twenty-two percent of the wall space was devoted to window and door openings for ventilation. Testing equipment housed in the lab included a 150 horsepower Sprague dynamometer for conducting belt tests, fuel weighing scales and speed counters. Fuel, tools and crew offices also were contained in the building.

Tractor drawbars were tested on a one-half mile adjacent outdoor oval track, originally consisting of cinder and clay, but later reverting back to complete clay to facilitate uniformity. In 1956, a new, larger concrete track was constructed on the site for testing pneumatic-tired tractors, while crawler tractors were tested on a new earthen track. Both tracks continue to be used for drawbar testing.

ASAE is a nonprofit technical, scientific and educational society committed to improving agriculture through the application of engineering principles. Headquartered in St. Joseph, Michigan, the society's membership includes 8,700 full members and 2,000 student members in 50 states and 90 foreign countries.

The Small Farm Energy Project will conduct its third "Small Energy Seminar" at Hartington Aug. 15 and 16. Alternatives to high costs of energy and fertilizers will be featured during the two-day event. A number of new energy devices will be on display in addition to those of earlier seminars.

Energy Seminar Planned

The event will feature tours of cooperating farms in the Hartington area on Friday and Saturday. Participants will have the chance to see solar water heaters, a portable solar air heater, a wind electric generator, several solar grain driers, minimum tillage implements, manure composting equipment and other innovations. The composting process converts farm wastes into valuable humus fertilizers.

The seminar also will include research reports of three years of studies by the Energy Project, including the performance of solar systems. Special reports also will concentrate on small farms with diversified livestock enterprises, which have proven to be most profitable enterprises related to energy use. The public is invited to all sessions and tours.

The Energy Seminar is being directed by the Small Farm Energy Project, a research effort sponsored by the Center for Rural Affairs, Walthill. Some 48 farms in Cedar County have cooperated in the project, which began in the fall of 1976. The project has demonstrated the use of energy conservation and alternative forms of energy on small, low-income farms. In 1979, cooperating farms of the Energy Project saved nearly $1,100 per year in energy compared to other farms not making changes in energy use patterns.

More information on registration fees, agendas, meals and lodging is available by writing Energy Seminar, Small Farm Energy Project, Box 736, Hartington, Neb., 68739, or phone 402-254-6893. Early registration deadline is Aug. 5.

Crop Certification Deadline Next Week

The final date for Wayne County producers to certify their planted acreages at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office is Aug. 1.

Alden Johnson, chairman of the County ASCS Committee, urged all producers to report their acreages by the deadline.

According to Johnson, producers who certify on time and accurately will be eligible for 1980 feed grain program benefits. The benefits include low yield disaster payments, deficiency payments and CCC price support grain loans.

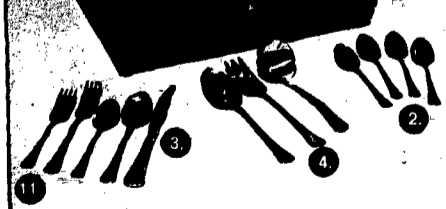

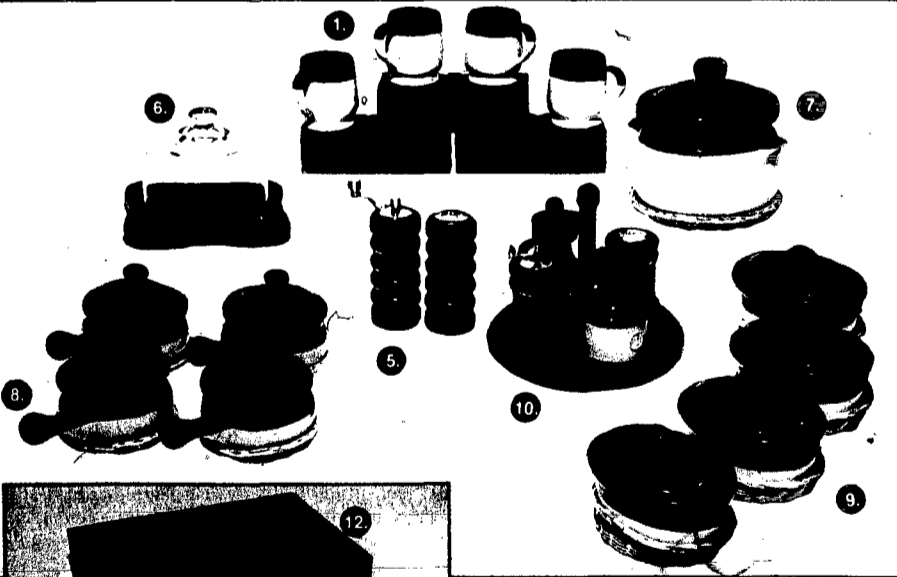

The prolonged dry weather conditions could result in low yield disaster payments for many producers, Johnson said. To be eligible, they have to be certified.

The Wayne County ASCS office carries a total of 1,245 farms. So far, 1,050 have certified their acreages. Johnson expects all but a few farms to be certified by Aug. 1.

Even farms overplanting their normal crop acreage (NCA) will be eligible for low yield disaster payments, the chairman explained. They will have lower payments than farms planted within their NCA. All farms could be eligible for disaster payments and grain loans if they would certify.

Potluck Supper For 40 4-H'ers

Forty 4-H'ers and their families from Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Thurston and Dakota counties met at the Northeast Station at Concord Sunday evening, July 20, for a potluck supper. These 4-H'ers and four others participated in the Washington, D.C. Citizenship Shortcourse Trip in June. The evening was spent looking at pictures taken on the trip and viewing slides.

The gathering was well attended from Wayne County as all 10 4-H'ers who took the trip were present. Attending from Wayne County were Megan Owens of Carroll, Kevin Marott and Sue Meleherney of Hoskins, Turena and Cynthia Waide of Winside, and Hugh Jager, Marvin Hansen, Lynette Hansen, Michelle Kubik and Marcia Rethwisch of Wayne.

The Citizenship Shortcourse participants have planned a dance for Aug. 15. It will be held in Dakota City for 4-H teens from the five-county area.

President Derwin Roberts called the meeting to order. Ten members were entered in a Bike Rodeo held July 15 at Concord and plans were made for a swimming party July 25 at the Wakefield swimming pool. A business meeting and refreshments followed.

Members of the "Let's Create" project group will meet at a later date to work on projects. Refreshments were served by Craig and Amy Noe. Robin Osbahr, news reporter.

CARROLLINERS GIRLS

The Carrolliners Girls 4-H Club met July 14 at the Carroll School and made plans to attend the Randolph 4-H Fair held July 21. Several projects were entered in the fair.

The club voted to give a donation to the Carroll ball park fund and to have a theme booth at the Wayne County Fair.

Songs were practiced for the song contest to be held in Wayne. Next meeting will be July 28. Kristi Serven, news reporter.

Even Dozen Club Picnic August 19

Mrs. Verona Henschke was hostess to the Even Dozen Club July 15. Mrs. Ernest Geewe was a guest.

Mrs. Henschke, president, called the meeting to order. Plans were made for the annual family picnic Aug. 19 at 7 p.m. in the Wakefield park.

The birthdays of Mrs. Emil Greve, Mrs. John Greve and Mrs. Ernest Geewe were honored in song.

The hostess was in charge of the entertainment. Pitch was played, with prizes going to Mrs. Ernest Geewe, high; Mrs. Dan Dolph, second high; Mrs. Clifford Baker, low, and Mrs. Albert G. Nelson, traveling.

Family Picnic

Seven members of the Farm Fans Home Extension Club and their families gathered for a picnic July 20 at the Wakefield park. Next regular meeting will be in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dietz and

Kim, Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Thies, Mapleton, Iowa, were weekend guests in the Robert Hansen home.

The Stanley Andersons, Los Angeles, Calif., arrived July 16 to visit Mrs. Ann Kai and the Dick Kai family. Anderson is a brother of Mrs. Ann Kai.

Mrs. Paul Henschke and Mrs. Doug Paulson and Jamie visited in the Jerry Anderson home July 15. Visitors July 20 were Sandra Henschke, St. Joseph, Minn., and the Terry Henschkes and Jessica. Sandra also visited the Erwin Boffgers.

The Jim Spirks, Nelson, and the Jack Hansen family, Omaha, were weekend guests in the Bill Hansen home.

Nola Zach, Omaha, and Sonya Zach, Hastings, spent last weekend with the Clarke Kais.

The Clifford Bakers were dinner guests July 20 in the Jim Schmeichel home, Fremont. They visited in the Dick Breilkrantz home at Wisner in the evening.
