Winside 'Old Settlers' Event Monday, Tuesday

The annual Old Settlers Reunion at Winside is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, with a wide variety of events planned for all age groups.

Prior to the reunion, a community praise festival will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Winside Park.

ON MONDAY, old timers' wrestling will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Weight classes will be 134, 142, 150, 158, 167, 177, 186, 200, 215 and heavyweight. Regular high school rules will prevail.

At 1:30 p.m. Monday, there will be horseshoe pitching. Junior water fights are set for 4 p.m., fire department water fights featuring Wayne, Carroll, Hoskins and Winside will be at 5 p.m. and tractor and pickup pulling contests are slated at 6 p.m.

WEIGH-IN for these will be from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Classes in the tractor pull will include non turbo 5,000, 7,000, 9,000, 11,000 and 13,000 pound, turbo 9,000, 11,000 and 13,000 pound. There also will be different weight classes for pickups.

All entry fees will be returned 100 percent. For more information, call 286-4488.

The D.C. Lynch Carnival will be on hand Monday and Tuesday also.

THE KIDS' parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, with the main parade to follow with a theme of "Man and His Accomplishments." A band concert will begin at 12 noon, a barber shop quartet will perform at 1 p.m., the Starlets at 1:30 p.m., three legged races at 2 p.m., penny scramble at 2:15 p.m., tug-of-war at 2:30 p.m., Anything Goes for kids at 3 p.m., and Anything Goes for adults at 4 p.m. A demolition derby and powder puff are slated to start at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and will feature powder puff competition as well. There will be a $1,000 purse with check-in time at 4 p.m. The demo derby will be held one quarter mile south of main street.

AT 8 P.M., H.I.S. Simple Truth Quartet will perform.

The barber shop quartet — called The Classics — features Don Schumacher, Paul Blaser, Cal McClurg and Jim Bass.

Jim Craun Files For City Council

Through petition, a candidate has officially filed for the Ward I City Council seat currently held by Sam Hepburn who is not seeking re-election this November.

THE NAME of Jim Craun, 25, 514 Wayside Lane, will be on the General Election ballot after a petition signed by 19 residents in Ward I met the legal requirements.

According to state statute, the petition was required to have 5 percent of the number of voters that voted in the last election of a governor, that being in 1978.

SOME 13 signatures were needed for the petition to be legal. The Craun petition contained 21 names, with two names declared invalid.

Livestock Feeder Queen

Rains Boost Crop Hopes

There is a saying that some things are better late than never, and that can apply to the rain that soaked the area this month.

But there is mixed reaction among area farmers as to how much good will result to corn yields as a result of the long overdue moisture, reports Don Spitze, Wayne County agricultural agent.

SINCE AUG. 1, Wayne has received nearly 4 inches of rain. Through Sunday, a total of 3.54 inches of rain had been recorded this month. That does not include about 30 hundredths Monday night and a trace Tuesday night.

This compares to a total of 4.87 for the first seven months of the year. Moisture in January was 21 hundredths, in February was 41 hundredths, in March was 44 hundredths, in April was 87 hundredths, in May was 3.61 inches, in June was 1.37 inches and in July was 1.21 inches.

Normal rainfall for this area to date is 15 inches, but the area had received only about half of that before the rains came in August.

Ag Agent Spitze said the rain will be a "real boost" to the bean crop, but the effect on corn yields probably will not be known until the corn picker makes its first few runs down the rows.

THE BENEFIT to corn depends largely on what stage the corn was in when it began to rain, Spitze explained. The moisture will do little good for corn that was planted early, he said, since ears set on about the time the moisture ran out.

However, corn that was planted later should have boosted yields with the rain.

"One farmer I talked with said he doesn't know of a year that it has been harder to predict" what the yield outlook will be, the ag agent said. Some ears have kernels and some do not.

Estimates by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) also point to improved yields because of the rain.

ON DRY LAND corn before it began to rain — the USDA estimated that if it did rain, yields would be about 40 to 50 percent of normal. Since it did rain shortly after that estimate, the USDA feels these figures are accurate.

Ray Butts, ASCS director here, said beans should do somewhat better, with three quarters of a crop estimated. However, he noted, there are fewer pods than normal. "But we should get a pretty fair crop," he theorized.

As a result of the prolonged dry spell, some 39 farmers in Wayne County have applied for low yield disaster payments. There were no applications last year, a few in 1976 and several in 1974.

Many of the 39 applicants are "green chopping" their corn for cattle feed this fall and winter. Yields in some of these areas range from 5 bushels per acre to about 15 or 20 bushels per acre.

THE LOW yield payments are available to farmers who certified their crops by Aug. 1. Butts estimated that nearly 98 percent of Wayne County farmers did so after realizing yields would be substantially reduced because of the mini drought.

Butts said farmers who planted more than the normal crop acreage (established in 1977) are eligible for disaster payments. The disaster — in this case no rain — must result in production being less than 60 percent of the estimated farm yield.

Farmers with less than their normal crop acreage (NCA) will receive $1.18 for each bushel of corn lost, while those outside the NCA will receive $1.03 per bushel.

A FORMULA has been set up to help farmers determine how many acres they will be eligible to collect for. However, Butts reiterated, production must be less than 60 percent of the estimated yield.

Those needing more information, are asked to contact him at the ASCS office.

Census Bureau Reviewing Wayne Head Count; Report Due in October

It will be at least two weeks before any new information is released concerning Wayne's projected 1980 population, the Census Bureau reports.

CONTACTED Tuesday, Judy Backhaus, Census Bureau director for this region, said her office is working on a review of census figures for Wayne.

However, any information must be routed through city officials rather than directly from her office, she explained. Rules established by the U.S. Census Bureau prevent the release of data to news media.

City and Chamber officials are still hopeful that initial census figures for Wayne and Wayne County will be increased when the preliminary report is made public in late September. They contend that annexation data was not taken into consideration accurately when the census was taken last spring.

FIGURES released to the city several weeks ago indicated that Wayne had suffered a 4.9 percent loss of population, rather than a substantial gain as officials had anticipated. There have been several subdivisions built in the last decade, they noted.

The information showed that Wayne has an estimated population of just 5,114 compared to a 1970 estimated population of 5,379. But at the same time, the information indicated, the total number of housing units during the 10-year period showed an increase of 280.

After a quick review of its own records, the city filed an appeal with the Census Bureau in Lincoln. It is that appeal and additional information that Backhaus and her crew is working on, she explained.

THE LINCOLN office is scheduled to close down in mid-September. All information will be fed into computers in Washington, D.C. and Denver for dissemination to local authorities, she explained.

City Clerk Norm Melton said the city objected to boundaries used by the Census Bureau in determining the head count here. To support its appeal, the city supplied the Census Bureau with updated ordinances on annexation.

But based on its own projections, city officials indicate the population should be 5,215 — still less than the 1970 projected population here. Ten years ago, the Wayne population was estimated at 5,380.

Some local officials were quick to point out that the enrollment at Wayne State College has declined by about 400 persons in 10 years. That has some bearing on Wayne's population, it is believed.

The increase in housing units and the decrease in population were perplexing to officials at first, but subsequent investigation has shown the housing figures to be reasonably accurate. Initially, officials surmised that more housing units was a reflection of more population.

FOR CENSUS Bureau purposes, the city was divided into four enumeration districts (ED's). Two of these were in Hunter Township and two in Strahn Township which divides Wayne into two relatively equal sections. The dividing line is Nebraska 15.

Strahn Township comprises the west half of Wayne, while Hunter Township the east half.

According to the Census Bureau computer print out, the population in the portion of Wayne within Strahn Township for 1980 is estimated at 2,735. That compares to 3,129 a decade ago.

Registration At WSC Set Monday

Registration for fall classes at Wayne State College will be from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on Monday. Residence halls opened at noon Sunday.

REGULAR on-campus classes begin Tuesday. Students not already enrolled should stop by the computer center of the Hahn Administration Building for a registration packet. After filling out the enclosed cards, students are to proceed to the General Assembly Room of Hahn to confer with their advisers. Class cards from various departments will then be collected. Tuition for Nebraska residents is $19 per credit hour and $34 for non-residents. Fees are assessed according to the number of hours the student is enrolled.

Students taking evening classes only can register in advance, or at the Computer Center in the basement of Hahn Administration Building, on the night of the first class meeting. Evening registration has to be completed before 6:30 p.m. Evening students must complete registration before the second meeting of an evening class. All Wednesday night classes begin on Aug. 27 and Thursday classes on Aug. 28. Tuesday night classes begin Sept. 2, with Monday night classes starting Sept. 8.

DUE TO building renovations on the WSC campus of the education and humanities buildings, certain rooms have changed location. For information concerning those changes and any course additions, deletions and corrections, students can refer to the publication called, "Revised Schedule — Fall Semester, 1980," available on campus.

Registration for WSC Extended Campus courses will be according to individual class offerings throughout the semester. Courses held locally will be announced.

For any further information on fall registration at WSC, contact the Registrar's Office at 402-375-2200.

FOR INFORMATION on Extended Campus Courses, contact the Director of Extended Campus at 402-375-2200 or the following regional coordinators:

County History Book Topic This Tuesday

Persons interested in the writing and publishing of a new county-wide Wayne County History are invited to attend an organizational meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 26, at the fire hall in Wayne.

Bob Jonson of Taylor Publishing Co. will be on hand to discuss how county histories are compiled.

Clete Sharer, president of the Wayne County Historical Society, said the meeting will determine if there is sufficient interest to carry out the project.

The book will be designed to update the general history of Wayne County and to primarily include historical sketches of Wayne County families, new and old, as well as former residents. Each family would receive information and guidelines on how to compile their history for the book.

Sharer said representation is needed county-wide to make the project successful. At least one representative is needed from each township in Wayne County.

Sharer said the Wayne County Historical Society will sponsor the project if enough interest is shown. A staff will be made up to put the book together, using the material received.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend the meeting Tuesday night.

A Narrow Victory

A REAL BOOST for Wayne's Junior Legion club Sunday night was Tod Heier's fair-lymph double down the first base line to give the Juniors the Class B state championship. The hit scored the winning run for Wayne in a 2-1 victory in extra innings. Don Mitchell hoisted Heier (above) onto his shoulders in a gesture of jubilation and thanks immediately after the win.

A reception held following the ceremony was hosted by the couple's children, Suzanne Lundin of Blair, Mary Jo Lundin of Allen, Peter Lundin and Jeanie Holsclaw of Chadron, Mr. and Mrs. Scott McAfee of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Stan McAfee and Tiffany and Jeff McAfee of Allen.

Field Day Includes Program for Ladies

Homemakers can taste foods prepared with corn sugar, tour the experimental farm, and learn the causes of stress as part of the activities at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station Field Day Tuesday, Aug. 26 at Concord.

While their husbands are viewing test plots and demonstrations conducted by Extension specialists and staff, the women again can be part of the annual Field Day by attending the homemaker's program at the experimental station headquarters.

Helen Solt, Extension Supervisor at the South Central Station, said the program at Concord will begin at 10 a.m. with a presentation by Teresa Shafter, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Foods and Nutrition Specialist. Shafter's program will be entitled "How to Use Corn Sugar in Food Preparation."

In the afternoon, Dr. Hermann

Witte, psychologist from the University of Nebraska Cardiovascular Center, will present a program on "How Homemakers Can Manage Stress."

Other program items include a tour of the experimental farm, blood pressure screening and a farm safety demonstration by Rollin Schnelder, UN-L Farm Safety Specialist.

Registration for the day will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the station headquarters located one and a half miles east of Concord.

Bornhoffs Residing in Lincoln

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Allen Bornhoff, who were married Aug. 9 at St. Charles Catholic Church in North Bend, are making their home at 4241 Holdrege, in Lincoln, following a wedding trip to Wyoming and the Black Hills.

Mrs. Bornhoff, nee Carolyn Ann Hynek, is the daughter of Marjorie Hynek of North Bend and Eugene Hynek of Fremont. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Budd Bornhoff of Wayne.

The Rev. Stanislav Golik officiated at the 2 o'clock double ring ceremony.

The bride appeared in a white sheer silesia floor-length gown designed with an open neckline and bishop sleeves. Venice lace adorned the bodice, cuffs and pleated skirt, which fell from an empire waistline and flowed into a chapel train. Her veil was adorned with venice lace and she carried white and blue roses.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Barb Hynek. Bridesmaids were Lee Ann Merriweather of North Bend, Kim Lake of Pender, Cheryl Kavan of Fremont, and the bridegroom's sister, Robyn Bornhoff of Lincoln.

Their pale blue gowns were designed with long matching jackets. They wore a ring of flowers in their hair and carried white fans with blue baby roses.

Bob Bornhoff of Lincoln served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Mike Hynek of Morse Bluff, brother of the bride, John Colborn, Mike Olsen and Ken Ote.

Vocallist was Diane Cerny of Lincoln and organist was Mrs. Bev Nissen of North Bend. Flower girl was Jenny Sue Hynek of Cedar Bluffs and ring bearer was B. J. Bornhoff of Omaha.

MR. AND MRS. TODD BORNHOFF

Ushering guests into the church were Greg Anderson, Rick Etofson, Brad Roberts and Ed Bull.

A reception was held at the North Bend city auditorium following the wedding ceremony. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hynek and Mr. and Mrs. Budd Bornhoff.

The bride, who was graduated from North Bend Central High School in 1977, attended Wayne State College and is employed by the State of Nebraska Bureau of Vital Statistics. The bridegroom, a 1972 graduate of Wayne Carroll High School and a 1976 graduate of the University of Nebraska, is attending UN-L College of Law.

Smiths were presented a set of stainless tableware from the group.

In addition to the card club, other guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Linatetter and Mr. and Mrs. Art Eslick.

An anniversary cake, baked by Mrs. Lanser, was served at the close of the evening.

Marking Silver Year

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kluber of Allen invite all friends and relatives to attend an open house reception Sunday, Aug. 24, marking the couple's silver wedding anniversary.

The event will be from 1 to 4:30 p.m. at the First Lutheran Church in Allen.

Hanna Anderson Honored for 85th Birthday

About 65 friends and relatives gathered at the Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord Sunday afternoon to observe the 85th birthday of Mgs. Ivar (Hanna) Anderson of Wakefield, formerly of Concord.

The guests came from Wayne, Wakefield, Pilger, Laurel, North Platte and Concord.

Mrs. Anderson's children are Mr. and Mrs. Harley (Carol) Bard of Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Anderson of Itasca, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Winton (Marilyn) Wallin of Wayne.

A family supper was served Sunday evening in the Winton Wallin home.

Card Shower Planned For Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Nelson of Concord will observe their golden wedding anniversary Monday, Aug. 25.

Due to the illness of Mr. Nelson, there will not be an open house reception. The couple's children, however, are requesting a card shower for their parents.

Connie Jaeger August Bride of Randy Wills

Connie Jaeger became the bride of Randy Wills in a 7 o'clock double ring ceremony Aug. 9 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside.

The Rev. John Hafemann of Winside officiated at the wedding ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jaeger, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wills. All are of Winside.

Decorations include altar bouquets of pink gladioli and white and pink carnations, and a candelabra with an arrangement of matching pink and white miniature carnations and gladioli.

Wedding music included "God, A Woman and A Man," "Quiet Understanding" and "Wedding Prayer," sung by Debbie Fox of Wayne and Becky and Sherry Westerhaus of Winside. Organist was Mrs. LeRoy Damme of Winside.

Lori Prince of Winside and Sandy Backer of Randolph registered the guests, who were ushered into the church by Todd Jenkins of Carroll, Dave Ritze of Denver, Colo., Rick Backer of Randolph and Kevin Bowers of Morrison, Colo.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length dacron organza gown. The Queen Anne neckline and bodice were decorated with self fabric ruffle and venice lace. Gibson girl sleeves carried motifs of handclipped lace, and a flounce at the skirt edge extended into an attached chapel train. Her bridal illusion veil, edged in petit lace, was held in place by a headpiece of handclipped medallions. She carried a cascade of pink roses, white daisies, pink and white miniature carnations, purple statice and baby's breath with pink and white bridal streamers.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Joni Jaeger, and bridesmaids were Corinne George, Dawn Janke, Jeanine Longnecker and Melodi Jaeger, all of Winside.

Their pink polyester knit frocks in floor length were designed with spaghetti straps, empire waistlines and matching pink lace jackets. They wore combs of daisies in their hair and carried nosegays of pink miniature carnations, white daisies and purple statice with pink and white streamers.

Wayne baseball coach Hank Overin and six of his Junior Legion baseball players had waited four years for a state championship. Finally, their dreams came true.

The Juniors chalked up the Class B title with a classic 2-1 extra-inning victory over Wakefield that will be remembered by area fans for years to come. The hosts were within inches of holding off Wayne's ninth inning rally. The game between the two Northeast Nebraska powers was played before a crowd of 1,200, Sunday night in the Wakefield city ball park.

Tod Heier, Wayne's number seven batter in the line-up, shot from rags to riches, becoming the hero of the tournament in the final two games.

In Sunday's finale, Heier drove in the winning run with a two-out double that scattered chalk dust in the air off the right field foul line. The hard hit ball left an indentation in the center of the chalk line that was proof the ball was fair.

Heier, who saw limited action as a reserve most of the season, also drove in two runs with a base hit in the bottom of the seventh inning to defeat Lexington Friday night. Wayne was one out from elimination that night.

It was the first state championship for Wayne since the Juniors won the 1976 Class C title. The loss ended Wakefield's string of state titles. Wakefield won the Class B Junior title in 1977, the Class C Junior title in 1978, the Class C Junior title again in 1979 and the Class B State High School title in 1980. This time, the hosts had to settle for second place.

Six members of Wayne's championship team have competed in four consecutive state tournaments but had never claimed the elusive state title.

Herman Carroll, Jeff Zeiss, Dan Mitchell, Jeff Dion, Jeff Sperry and Steve Sorensen were all members of the Wayne Midget team that finished second in Class C in 1977 and second in Class B in 1978. They also played on the 1979 Junior Legion team that qualified for the Class B tournament.

"We've got six kids who have been trying for this for four years and they finally made it," Overin said. "They were pretty disappointed the past three years when they came up short."

Heier's base hit couldn't have come at a more appropriate time. The two teams had engaged in a typical pitching duel before Heier broke the 1-1 deadlock. Catcher Dan Mitchell hit a one-out single and Kevin Nissen was hit by a pitch with two outs. Then, with two strikes, Heier slapped a low pitch down the right field line, scoring Mitchell.

Heier broke into the lineup for defensive purposes late in the season but displayed his offensive abilities in the final two games.

"This says something for Northeast Nebraska with two teams meeting in the finals. Baseball is really popular and coaching keeps improving," said Overin, who is now relaxing on vacation at Kansas City. "We won the trophy but I definitely think Wakefield is a champ too. Every game with Wakefield is a big one and every game is close."

Tim Pfeiffer and Mark Starzl went head to head for almost seven innings in one of the most exciting pitching duels of the year.

Pfeiffer, who completed his tournament eligibility by pitching 6 1/2 innings, held Wakefield to three base hits, all in the first inning. Zeiss was responsible for one out in the fifth inning so Pfeiffer could finish the game. Pfeiffer was the workhorse of the Wayne team, pitching 33 innings in the state tournament.

"Starzl is one of the best competitors I've seen. There's no difference in speed in his fast ball and curve," Overin complimented. "It's difficult to pick up his curve ball and that's what makes him so effective."

Zeiss then re-entered as pitcher when the game went into extra innings and shut Wakefield out in the final two innings. The two Wayne pitchers combined for 10 strikeouts.

Wakefield's Starzl was also overworked. He pitched 32 innings in the state tourney, including 8 1/2 on Sunday. Starzl limited Wayne to three hits and one run while striking out 11 in the championship game. Two of those hits came in the ninth inning.

The hosts scored the first run of the game in the first inning but never scored again. Larry Soderberg led-off the game with a single and Rick Guy drove him home with a two-out double. Blaine Nelson also singled but Guy was thrown out trying to score.

Wayne knotted the game up in the second inning and that's where it stood until the bottom of the ninth.

Pfeiffer drew a base on balls and Kevin Nissen reached base on a fielding error with one out. The runners advanced on a passed ball one out later and Pfeiffer then scored from third on a wild pitch.

The two rival teams evened their series record at three wins apiece. Wayne finished its championship season with a 29-6 record. The locals lost to Wakefield three times and to Plattsmouth, Wisner and Sioux City Heelan once each.

MARK STARZL of Wakefield is put out here at first base as Wayne's Jeff Dion takes the throw from an infielder. Starzl held Wayne to three hits in nine innings at Sunday's championship game but Wayne won the state title.

HANK OVERIN gives his left arm a good workout as he satisfies two autograph seekers by signing his name on their arms.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

SUPER CONGRATULATIONS to the Wayne Juniors and coach Hank Overin for winning the Class B state championship. I believed as the season opened that the locals would be the team to beat for the state title and they proved me right.

Wayne avenged all but one loss this season while compiling an excellent 29-6 record. Sioux City Heelan defeated the Juniors in a close game at the Chuck Ellis Tournament at Wakefield early in the season.

WHAT A TREMENDOUS crowd was on hand for the State Class B Legion championship, Sunday night in Wakefield! Tournament director Don Rouse said that according to gate receipts, about 1,200 people witnessed the championship between Northeast Nebraska powers Wayne and Wakefield.

That was the largest crowd I've ever seen at a baseball game and several veteran fans in the area said they've never seen the Wakefield ball park packed that full.

Both teams were backed by cheering sections whose efforts echoed through the ball park. And surprisingly enough, it seemed to me from my positions on the ball field that few disagreements took place between fans from the two sides. In this tense of a situation, I would expect most rivals to be pulling hair and clenching fists.

I attended the game expecting an exciting contest and got just what I expected. I would have staked my week's pay check that the game would be decided by no more than two runs and probably by one. Sure enough.

I'm not sure how long the Wayne-Wakefield baseball rivalry has been going but I know it began well before my time. It has to be one of the best rivalries in the state.

This year alone, the two Legion teams have met six times. Each won three games. Wakefield won the first, Wayne the second, Wakefield the third, Wayne the fourth, Wakefield the fifth and Wayne the sixth. No game was decided by more than three runs. How's that for an equal series?

HANK OVERIN was assisted in the state tournament by two individuals who donated their time to help coach the Wayne Juniors to the state championship.

Mike Meyer and Doug Carroll, both Wayne State College varsity baseball players, were assistant coaches for the Wayne team at the tournament.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL lovers will really be getting involved in their favorite sport now that the pennant races are getting tight.

Only one team, Kansas City is running away with its division. The Royals, paced by hot hitting most valuable player candidate George Brett, have pretty wrapped up the American League West title.

In the American League East, the New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles are battling for supremacy. Milwaukee is still a long shot but chances are pretty slim that the Brewers can sneak in.

The National League West is a real dog fight between Houston, Cincinnati and Los Angeles. The three teams are scheduled to meet again so it should be a fine battle.

In the National League East, Pittsburgh, Montreal and surging Philadelphia are fighting it out. That race will probably be as close as any.

Reeg Regains Club Title

Regaining the old form that had made him a champion, Bob Reeg fired a two over par 110 over 27 holes to win the club tournament at Wayne Country Club, Sunday.

The win was Reeg's eighth club championship in the past nine years. Bob Bornhoff won last year's tourney, ending Reeg's seven year string of titles.

Consistency was the name of the game for the veteran golfer.

He shot rounds of 37, 37 and 36 to win the title by two strokes over Clark Coco. Russ Swigart of Wakefield placed third. Chuck McHarg, Sid Hillier and Darrell Moore finished in a three way tie for fourth place at 116 and had to break the tie with a sudden death playoff.

McHarg placed fourth, Hillier fifth and Moore sixth after the playoff.

Flight champions were Don Wacker, Bill Workman, Dick Berry, Craig Williams, Lee Remer, Gene Case, John Dorsey, John Keating, Brian Lessmann, Rick Urwiler, Bill Dickey.

Reeg, who held a two shot lead after 18 holes of play, toured the final eight holes at one under par to protect his lead. Coco carded eight fours and a three for a one under par 35 on the final nine holes, giving him sole possession of second place. Defending champion Bornhoff was back in the pack.

In first flight action, Wacker recorded a 39 on the back nine holes to finish at 81, two strokes ahead of Larry Wingett and Don Koeber.

Bill Workman played consistent golf, shooting a 40 on the front nine and a 39 on the back to win the second flight. Bill McQuistan placed second and Les Luft placed third.

In the third flight, Dick Berry came in with an 84 to edge out Willis Lessmann and Chuck Surber, respectively.

Craig Williams won the fourth flight with a score of 84. Tom McClain and Bud Froehlich finished third and fourth respectively.

In the fifth flight, Lee Remer carded an 85 to edge Randy Ellis and Ray Murray. Gene Case won the sixth flight with an 82, two strokes ahead of Randy Simonson and Morrie Sandahl.

John Dorsey ran away with the seventh flight, shooting an 81. Wayne Marsh and Al Voorhies placed second and third respectively.

The eighth flight winner was John Keating with an 87. Jack Tomrde and Gene Casey earned second and third place positions respectively. Brian Lessmann won the ninth flight with a 91. Carl Troutman and Red Carr were his nearest competitors.

In the 10th flight, Rick Urwiler shot a 95 for first place. Larry Carr finished second and Bill Reeg placed third with a 98. Bill Dickey won the 11th flight with a 96, finishing above Jeff Backstrom and Cliff Pinkelman.

BOB REEG knocks in a putt for a routine par en route to winning his eighth club championship in nine years at Wayne CC.

Run to Wakefield Now Planned

If you are a runner in good physical shape and are looking for a good 10-mile sprint, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce is looking for you.

Pat Gross, chairman of the Wayne to Wakefield run, has so far enlisted three runners including himself, Ed Elliott, Wayne State College vice president, and Cliff Ginn, Wayne City Councilman, will run along with Gross also.

"We've got terrific showing from the 'over 55 crowd,'" Gross said, "and we'd like to promote this with some of the younger runners in the area. It would be nice to have them break the wind for us!"

Gross also announced the opening of a "handicap" division for runners strong in spirit but weak in body. Those wishing to run the final two miles may do so by joining the run at the two-mile corner south of Wakefield.

The run, an idea hatched by Gross, is designed to honor the 30th anniversary of the Waldbaum Egg Company and to promote the goodwill between the two companies. Plans call for several runners to carry greetings from the people of Wayne to the citizens of Wakefield and even a ceremonial egg to the Waldbaum plant. Wayne State College also will send a plaque to recognize Waldbaums' 30 years in business and their significant contributions to the college's athletic and academic programs. A Chamber coffee also is planned for the event beginning at 10 a.m. at the Waldbaum plant offices. Members of the Wakefield Community Club will be present to meet and greet the Wayne visitors making the trip.

Heat Affecting Milk Production

The hot weather is taking its toll on milk production, reducing milk yields by decreasing feed consumption in the dairy cow, according to an extension dairyman at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"The most challenging period of the year is this period when the hot weather is on us," said Foster G. Owen. Hot weather also results in poorer pastures, lowers the keeping quality of feed, especially silages, and causes shifts in ration as green chop pasture or silage supplies are exhausted.

The cow produces great amounts of heat in utilizing feed and must rid herself of the excess to avoid elevated body temperature, Owen said. As the temperature exceeds 80 degrees F., it becomes a burden on the Holstein cow.

The cow's natural response to the problem is to reduce feed intake, which results in lower milk production.

The dairyman can help reduce the damaging effects of hot weather on milk production by reducing body heat production (shifting cows to cooler rations), reducing overheating of the cow from radiation of the sun and assisting the cow in removing excess body heat.

Cool rations include grains such as high quality forages, high fat feeds like soybeans and cottonseed and high-energy feeds. Hot rations that should be avoided are roughages of low quality, low quality pasture, mature hay (haylage and silage) and poorly preserved silages or hays.

The sun's radiation can be avoided by providing a shed or sunshade with feed and water nearby. Other alternatives are pastures or lots with trees or sunshade over feed bunks and waterers. Producers might also consider keeping the cows in a shed during the day and putting them out to pasture at night.

Cool water can help relieve excess heat burden of cows, Owen said. "It's surprising sometimes to realize that a cow will consume about two times or more than double the amount during hot periods than during the winter months," he said.

Sheds should allow for maximum air movement. An open sun shade with 30 square feet per animal is also a possibility — "any way to improve air movement," Owen added.

Other ways to help keep milk production up include increasing grain feeding as pastures drop in quality and avoiding moldy, heat damaged or otherwise unpalatable silage.

Production of 'Fiddler' Nearing

Cast members, set crews and other persons closely involved are gearing up for the September production of "Fiddler on the Roof".

Tickets went on sale Wednesday. For more information, see news brief on page 2 of this issue.

The production is planned for Sept. 5, 6 and 7 at Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College campus. Friday and Saturday evenings (Sept. 5 and 6) will be dinner shows, with a show only planned Sunday, Sept. 7.

"Fiddler" is the story of the lives and customs of poor Jewish people in the early 1900's and has a magnetic appeal to people of all faiths and ages.

Starring in the musical production is Alan Cramer as Tevye; Diana Runestad as his wife, Golda; Alice Froeschle as Yente, the Matchmaker; and Mike Carney as Lazar Wolf.

Many people from the community are either cast in the play or helping behind the scenes.

Jane O'Leary is the vocal director and accompanist. She is the administrator for the Wayne Regional Arts Council. She was born in Oakland and attended Wayne State College and received her masters degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder. She was the vocal director and accompanist for "Carnival." She currently teaches at WSC and is the keyboard instrumentalist for the Sioux City Symphony.

Jan Merriman is cast as Fruma Sarah and is in charge of props. She was born in Princeton, N.J., received her bachelor degree from Douglas College, Rutgers University, N.J., and a masters from Indiana University. She is an associate professor at WSC.

Pete Craun is cast as a Russian soldier and dancer. He was born in Indiana, Iowa and attends Wayne High School. He appeared in the production of "Carnival."

Solveig Korte is in the chorus. She was born in Wilmington, Del. She received a bachelors from Luther College and a masters from Ohio University. She is a speech pathologist with the ESU No. 1. She appeared as Millie in the winter production of "California Suite," and worked on sets and props for "A Midsummers Night Dream," and "I Do, I Do" while in college.

Bob Gullickson is cast as Avram. He attended schools in Norfolk and received his BA from WSC. He is a social worker with Region IV services. While in high school, he appeared as Doc in "Calamity Jane," and Winthrop in "Music Man" and Cockey in "Roar of the Grease Paint and the Smell of the Crowd." Bob is also in charge of set construction.

Nancy Hewitt is cast as Grandma Tzeitel. She was born in Chicago, attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and College of Dupage, Alen Elynn, Ill. While in college she played "Honey in Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf." Kate in "Student Prince" and Nellie in "South Pacific." She has had nine years of voice lessons.

Mike Devall is cast as Mendel. He was born in Spencer and received a BA from WSC. He is the resident manager at the Region IV mens residence. He has appeared as Stephen in "The Shadow Box," as Bobbie in "Rats" and Zalutula in "Row and the Tigers" at WSC.

Barb Wortman is in the chorus

She was born and raised in West Point. She attended Brian School in Lincoln and is a certified operating room technician. While in high school, she appeared as Louisa in "Fantastiks" and Little Annie in "Pearls of Pauline." She has had voice lessons and received honor awards in voice in high school.

Michele Brockmoller is cast as a barmaid. She attends WSC and received the Alpha Psi Omega Scholarship for theatre, the Rusty Nail scholarship for theatre and the John G. Neihardt Scholarship for writing. She was selected as the best actress for one act play in 1980. She has appeared as Alice in "You Can't Take It With You," as the White Rabbit in "Alice in Wonderland," in a Winside High School production.

Karen Mendenhall was born and raised in Wichita, Kan. She is a member of the chorus in "Fiddler" and received her bachelors degree from Wichita State University where she majored in drama. She was in the chorus for "Carnival."

Laurel Sisters Winners

Two Laurel sisters — Amy and Sara Adkins — took top honors at the recent Cedar County Fair.

Showing Limosine X-Bred steers, Sara captured the grand champion steer and Amy the reserve champion honors. Both steers were middleweight champions weighing in at 1,120 pounds and 1,110 pounds respectively.

Eleven-year-old Sara was also named champion junior beef showman and received a belt buckle donated by the Sioux City Stockyards.

After dusting off the show ring dust, the girls modeled purple ribbon garments in the style revue show. Eight year old Amy's winning creative clothing garment consisted of a blue jumper.

Named the beginning unit champion in the style revue, Sara modeled a dress and vest ensemble in the magic world of clothes division. She received an engraved silver bowl donated by the Cedar County banks.

The purple ribbon winning streak continued for the sisters as they presented demonstrations. Amy demonstrated how to prepare a horse for showmanship in "Tender Loving Care for Sonny." Sara presented a safety demonstration entitled "Beckoning Barbecues."

Sara and Amy are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Adkins of Laurel.

The girls also were purple ribbon winners in junior horse showmanship. Sara was named champion and received a 4-H belt buckle.

Hiring Freeze Cuts Full-Time Employees

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The state government's hiring freeze, which has been in effect a little longer than one month, has resulted in a decline of 171 full-time employees — or slightly more than 1 percent.

That said, Budget Administrator Don Leuenberger, is satisfactory as far as Gov. Charles Thone and other state officials are concerned.

Leuenberger said about two-thirds of those hired during July were exceptions to the freeze and the remaining one-third were hired before the freeze went into effect but had not started their jobs until July.

Not counting University of Nebraska employees, the state had 14,483 full-time employees as of July 31.

Leuenberger said the first month of the freeze would probably be the easiest time to show favorable results and acknowledged as more workers leave the government offices, their absence will be more noticeable in the various agencies.

The state budget administrator said cooperation on the part of agencies not forced to follow the hiring freeze has been good. The governor is empowered to dictate a hiring freeze only on departments directly under his control but has asked all agencies to cooperate.

The governor has approved a number of exemptions to the freeze. Among them was authority to the Department of Public Institutions to hire replacements for essential patient care workers at the Hastings and Lincoln regional centers and at the Beatrice State Development Center.

Authorized to replace correctional officers without asking permission each time a vacancy occurs was the Department of Correctional Services.

Some other exemptions were also approved.

Urdales officially fired

Peter Urdales, former director of the Nebraska Mexican-American Commission, has officially been fired.

Urdales resigned in June after he said he was given the option of quitting or being dismissed.

He later raised questions about how the matter was handled, and an attorney general's opinion indicated the commission's acceptance of the resignation might be voided because of violations of the Nebraska public meetings law. In addition, Attorney General Paul Douglas said, three persons who participated in the June commission meeting had not technically been sworn in.

The commission majority then voted during a subsequent meeting to officially fire Urdales.

That didn't end the matter. Urdales said the fact the commission voted to fire him in August meant he legally had been director since June 14 and was entitled to compensation.

Several commissioners agreed and abstained from voting on the firing.

Urdales has claimed his criticism of Gov. Thone while the governor was in Congress triggered his dismissal, a charge the governor denied while citing a University of Nebraska evaluation that was critical of the commission and Urdales.

Tax cut possible

If the economy holds up "reasonably well," a tax cut will probably be approved by the state Board of Equalization in November, Gov. Thone said.

He made the comment during a recent press conference and said it was made in response to those who have been advocating action that would take advantage of the state treasury surplus.

One of the most frequently heard requests was that the state income tax be reduced.

Before he made his press conference statement, Thone had defended the surplus by citing the uncertain economic conditions and by arguing the extra money could be used as a hedge if the recession made itself felt in a more pronounced way in Nebraska.

The governor said it is too early to make a firm commitment on a tax reduction and added, "We'll be in a much sounder position come November."

The board of equalization must meet no later than Nov. 15 to review and set the state sales and income tax rates. The governor is also authorized to call the board into session earlier if revenue receipts are 10 percent higher or lower than projections made at the previous board meeting.

Thone said he expects the Congress to pass an election year income tax cut. If that happens, Nebraska's state income tax rate would also be lower because it is tied to the federal income tax rate.

The governor has directed the Revenue Department to make a study designed to show the sources and distribution of state tax funds. Thone said the study stems from a national survey which showed 10 percent of wage earners pay almost 50 percent of the taxes.

The governor said those statistics bothered him and he would like to find out who is paying taxes and who isn't in Nebraska.

Won't dismiss suit

Senior U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt says he is not ready to dismiss an $18.8 million federal funding lawsuit that was brought by the state Department of Roads against the U.S. Transportation Department.

The federal agency says the matter is moot because Congress recently approved a supplemental-appropriations act.

Van Pelt said, however, he would reserve ruling on the DOT's motion for the time being.

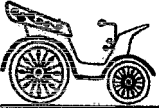

According to the state Department of Roads, Nebraska stands to lose $18.8 million in road funding because of a change in DOT allocation formulas.

Earlier this summer, Van Pelt orally granted a temporary restraining order that prohibited the DOT from giving that $18.8 million to any other state until after the legal issues were resolved.

The judge said the prohibition was in order. If, at a later date, he explained, the federal agency's application of the distribution formula was found improper, the $18.8 million might no longer be available.

The Roads Department has argued the altered allocation formula is arbitrary and capricious and also does not follow the intent of the Congress.

In his order, Van Pelt said on the basis of what he has noted in cases with identical facts, there is "good reason" to believe the Roads Department has a chance of succeeding on the merits of its arguments.

"BY GOLLY — IT GOT ELECTED!"

To Maintain Good Life Takes More Jobs: Thone

"If the slogan 'Nebraska — the Good Life' is to continue to be meaningful, we must create more and better-paying jobs in the state. That was the gist of a recent editorial in the Falls City Journal written by George W. 'Bill' Schock, editor and publisher. Publisher Schock pointed out that several southeast Nebraska towns had lost population according to recent census figures, and Bill then concluded his editorial with this sage advice, 'All of which tells us that we've got to keep hustling to make our community a better place to live.'"

"His views and mine coincide on this. Preliminary 1980 census figures being released emphasize that some cities in Nebraska have growing populations to support public services while other communities are being hard pressed to maintain existing services with shrinking populations.

"It's a pleasure to report to you that the state is making progress, even during the national recession, in persuading industries to expand or to locate for the first time in Nebraska.

"Despite the economic downturn, nearly all the statistics on new and expanding industry compiled by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development for the first half of 1980 are ahead of those for the same months in 1979.

"In January-June, 1980, 40 Nebraska firms began or announced expansions, compared with 26 in the same period last year. Those expansions will provide 997 additional jobs, compared with 869 created by the additions in the first half of 1979. And the capital investment in the expansions is $32 million, compared to $31 million in 1979's first half.

"Fifteen firms announced during the first half of 1980 that they will open plants in Nebraska, compared with 13 in January-June, 1979. Those 15 will provide 1,000 jobs, not as many as the 1,921 created by the 13 that began new plants in the same period of 1979. The capital investment committed during the first half of 1980 is $117 million, far greater than the $36 million in the same period of 1979.

"There's usually considerable time between an industry's first visit to Nebraska to consider it as a site for a new plant and the day when construction work begins. This year's starts are the result of industrial development work done last year or even earlier.

"During the first half of 1980, there were very few industrial prospects visiting Nebraska. Activity has picked up, however, in July and August; so I'm hopeful that despite the recession Nebraska can continue to attract industries that want sites where there are better workers and better community facilities.

"We must be unceasing in our efforts to provide the kind of conditions that will cause Nebraska's existing industries to grow and will cause other firms to want to locate in our state."

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

by the Nebraska State Historical Society

The Deshler Broom Factory Deshler, Nebraska, has become known the world around as a "broom" town. Millions of brooms have been manufactured in its factory since Joseph Steiner of Pennsylvania founded the business in 1890. It is still a going concern.

(The principal research and writing for this article was done by Timothy L. Moll, a member of the Deshler Lutheran Husker Historian, a junior high school organization cooperating with the Nebraska State Historical Society junior-historian program. Timothy is developing this project further, collecting photographs and interviewing broom-factory employees of earlier years. He plans eventually to complete a documented article for publication.)

When Steiner began to make brooms in the nineties, he employed four men in a small uptown shop. The panic of 1893 was weathered with the financial help of H.J. Struve, and the work force grew to 15. The business had moved by 1896 to a site along the Rock Island tracks and was incorporated for $2,000 under the name "Deshler Broom Factory." Steiner died in 1896, but Struve continued as manager; his son, H.C. Struve succeeded to the post in 1931.

By the mid-1930's the factory covered two city blocks containing 385,000 in equipment. A freight car (90 bates) of broomcorn from Texas or Oklahoma arrived daily. Two hundred varieties of brooms were made, one named the "Meadow Gold," which had gold plating. At peak capacity, 1,400 dozen brooms were produced. Once 24 carloads of brooms were shipped in one consignment.

Waste broomcorn chips, when burned, drove a generator which at one time produced enough electricity to supply Deshler. Coal augmented the chips during slack times at the factory.

In 1940 on the 50th anniversary of the factory's founding, 30,000 persons visited Deshler and Gov. Roy Cochran addressed an evening assembly. A broom 30 feet high (including the handle) was made for the event.

During World War II the factory hummed with activity, and Struve served on the War Production Board. But on July 31, 1943, lightning started a fire in the factory's shipping section, but while losses were in the thousands of dollars, enough of the equipment was saved to resume operation on August 4.

Fire again hit the factory in 1946, probably from spontaneous combustion, and damage was extensive. Losses ran above $200,000. Still another blaze destroyed the central section of the factory in January, 1948. While the factory got into production soon afterward, the production rate never approached its former output. On its 75th anniversary in 1965, Gov. Frank Morrison and Senator Curtis spoke to visiting crowds.

One couldn't have expected a lighter fit when the horse stuck its snout into the bucket to quench its thirst. Assisting with the chore is older sister Rita. All three were taking in the Dixon County Fair on opening day Thursday.

Higher Prices For Reserve Grain Now in Effect: Bergland

Higher release and call prices for the farmer-owned grain reserve were put into effect today, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced.

Wheat, corn and barley reserves are in release status and will so remain at least until Aug. 31, as previously announced. Oat and sorghum reserves have been called, and today's actions by the U.S. Department of Agriculture do not change this. Instead, Bergland said, new reserves for oats and sorghum which have not previously been in the reserve become available to producers today with the higher release and call prices.

Implementing the higher reserve price levels principally affects corn and sorghum," Bergland said. "Because these two crops are being harvested and going under loan, we are putting the higher release and call prices in effect now rather than wait for Oct. 1, the beginning of the corn and sorghum marketing year."

He said the action also ensures that release and call prices will be based on the higher loan prices for all reserve grain — including grain in existing reserves from 1979 and previous crops.

On July 28, President Carter announces new loan, reserve release and call prices for wheat and feed grains with reserve release prices for wheat set at 140 percent of the loan price and call prices at 175 percent of the loan price. For feed grains, the release prices remain at 125 percent of the loan price and call prices at 145 percent of the loan price.

Farmers who take part in the reserve program agree to hold their grain off the market in reserve until the contract matures or until the farm price reaches the specified release price. When the farm price reaches the call price, farmers agree to repay the loan plus accrued interest and unearned storage payments, or forfeit the commodity to CCC.

Under the reserve program, the Commodity Credit Corporation makes a loan to the producer with interest rates waived after the first year of the contract. The CCC also agrees to pay storage payments of 26.5 cents per bushel per year, except for oats where the payment is 20 cents.

With today's change, the release price for corn now in reserve is $2.81 per bushel and call prices are $3.15 and $3.26 per bushel — 125 and 140 or 145 percent, respectively, or the $2.25 per bushel loan price — and up from the $26.3 previous release price and previous call prices of $2.94 and $3.05 per bushel. The new reserve release price for sorghum is $2.68 per bushel ($4.78 per hundredweight) and the call price is $3.10 per bushel ($5.54 per hundredweight).

These changes were filed with the Federal Register last week.

Wittig's IGA Will Not Be Undersold

Every supermarket has weekly specials, and the prices on those items may be below IGA's regular shelf price... but when that happens, just follow three simple steps, and we'll SAVE YOU MONEY. It's as easy as 1-2-3.

1. Check all Wayne supermarket ads published this week.
2. If you find an item with a price you like, just tear out the entire ad and take it to IGA.
3. If our price isn't already lower than our competitor, we'll meet the price in their ad.

Selling A Centennial

A CONTINGENCY of Wakefield residents dressed in Centennial garb appeared at both the Wayne and Dixon County Fairs recently to promote their community's Centennial celebration next June. The folks entertained with song and instruments, telling Northeast Nebraska residents of their upcoming event. The group also sang (above) for fairgoers during the Wayne County Fair barbecue.

Highland Club Elects Officers

The Highland Women's Home Extension Club elected new officers at a meeting last Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ron Lange. Newly elected officers, who will assume their duties in January 1981, are Mrs. Orville Broekemeier, president; Mrs. Emil Gutzman, vice president; Mrs. Neal Wittler, secretary; Mrs. Bill Fenske, treasurer; Mrs. Scott Deck, citizenship leader; Mrs. Lane Marotz, family life leader; Mrs. Lyle Marotz, music leader; and Mrs. Arnold Wittler and Mrs. Gerald Bruggeman, social leaders.

Guests attending the August meeting and election were Mrs. Louise Behrens of Plainview, Mrs. Mabel Contras of Fountain Valley, Calif., Amy Schluns of Carroll and April Marotz. Mrs. Arnold Wittler, president, opened the meeting with the club creed in unison. Members responded to roll call with a club memory.

Mrs. Ron Lange read the secretary and treasurer's reports. A thank you note was received from Mrs. Scott Deck. The president reported on the recent council meeting. The birthdays of Mrs. Gerald Bruggeman, Mrs. George Langenberg Sr. and Mrs. Orville Broekemeier were honored in song.

Mrs. Scott Deck, citizenship leader, read an article, entitled "Observations on the Oval Office." The lesson on fire prevention was given by Mrs. Norris Langenberg. The club will observe its 53rd anniversary with a Guest Day meeting Sept. 11 in the Trinity Lutheran School basement.

Volunteer Wheat Should Be Destroyed This Fall

Volunteer wheat caused by scattered hail in late June to early July should be destroyed to guard against infecting the 1981 Nebraska wheat crop, according to an extension plant pathologist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

John E. Watkins said the volunteer wheat is a potential source of wheat streak mosaic virus that could infect next year's crop.

"Suspected volunteer fields should be destroyed by tillage or chemical means at least two weeks before the fall seeding," Watkins said. "As an additional precaution, avoid an early planting."

The wheat curl mite that transmits this virus disease survives and builds up to considerable numbers during the summer on volunteer wheat, Watkins said. They then move on to the newly planted fall crop and introduce the virus as they feed. Symptoms generally do not develop until the following spring, but early fall infection may result in virus symptoms visible in October. Leaves of infected plants develop light green to yellow streaks, followed by a general yellowing of the field. Individual plants often appear stunted with poorly filled heads, resulting in considerable yield loss.

"Fortunately," Watkins said, "wheat streak mosaic is relatively easy to control by the destruction of volunteer wheat in these hatted areas. High mite populations will cause the edges of the leaf blades to roll inward, trapping the tip of the youngest leaf."

Watkins emphasized planting wheat as late as practically possible. Optimum planting dates for much of Nebraska are between Sept. 15 and 25. In higher elevations of the Panhandle, planting dates are Sept. 15 for 3,500 feet elevation, Sept. 10 for 4,000 feet, Sept. 5 for 4,500 feet and Sept. 1 for 5,000 feet, he said.

Beef Outlook Showing Promise

Better market prices for choice slaughter steers in the third quarter and strengthening consumer attitudes about beef are painting a good picture for cattle producers, according to an extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

But the picture will be tempered by weather, feed grain prices and markets of competing meats, said Doug Jose.

"What happens in the near future depends on what happens in the drought situation," Jose said. If it rains and good pasture conditions exist later this summer, the market could look promising.

The strengthening in the market in recent weeks has been due in part to increases in hog prices, which has reduced consumer substitution of pork for beef.

"What has happened in the pork market should help the beef market," Jose said. With an abundance of pork available this year at low prices, beef purchases were down. The heat has also reduced the amount of inexpensive poultry supplies on the market. "What's happened in the other markets has had as much influence as anything," Jose said.

Added to this is hope consumers' attitudes about inflation and the economic situation will boost buying power. "The feeling seems to be that there will be some increase in consumer confidence, which will help the beef market," Jose added.

The average price for choice slaughter steers on the Omaha market during the third quarter of 1979 was $65.88 per hundredweight, but this year the price should average in the low to mid-$70 range during July, August and September.

Increasing grain prices and continuing drought conditions would have a dampening effect on producers, Jose said, but current conditions may stabilize prices.

Prices for choice slaughter steers on the Omaha market should stabilize in the mid-$70 range, according to available information on expected marketings in the third quarter, he said.

Feeder steer prices, however, are expected to fall about 20 percent below 1979 levels. Feeder steers marketing last fall brought about $1 per pound for a 400-to-500 pound steer.

"I don't think we're going to see that sort of price this year," Jose said. "Probably 80 cents a pound would be a more realistic price for this fall."

Beef supplies in 1981 should be at least equal to 1980's, while the decrease in pork is projected to cause a decrease in per capita meat supplies and an increase in beef consumption in 1981. Total red meat consumption, however, will be down because of the hog situation.

Per capita meat supplies in 1979 were 244 pounds, compared to 250 pounds projected in 1980 and 248 pounds predicted for 1981.

Beef consumption, which was 108 pounds per person in 1978 and will be an estimated 105-to-108 pounds in 1980, is projected to be up slightly in 1981. "If beef consumption increases 1 percent or 2 percent next year as opposed to this year, it's going to take care of any increased beef production," Jose said.

In Nebraska, the number of cattle on feed July 1 for the July to September period is estimated at only 89 percent of the 1979 total, while traditional Corn Belt states have increased numbers.

"Nebraska feedlot owners have cut down more than most other — practically all — major feeding states," Jose said.

Great Plains states like Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma have also cut back on cattle on feed, but Jose emphasized it is too early to determine whether this indicates a trend.

Jose said producers might consider locking in feed costs to guard against the effects of drought and increases in feed grain prices. While current market cattle prices are stabilizing in a price range that could be profitable for some cattle producers, he added, "the next batch won't look so good."

Annual Field
Day Tuesday
Near Concord

Seeing is believing. Farmers who believe this will want to make plans to attend the annual field day of the Northeast Experiment Station scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 26. Tours will start at 10 a.m. and will be repeated throughout the day. This schedule gives farmers time to come when they wish and leave when they need to.

Some of the research studies that will be featured include: — Herbicides on corn and soybeans; some new products and different methods of application.

Controlling insects, primarily the corn borer, in corn.

Soil erosion under a center pivot irrigation system.

Sulfur for corn production.

Corn grown where all of the fertilizer has been applied with tillage equipment.

Feeder pig receiving programs.

Feeding value, nitrate content and harvesting and feeding recommendations for drought corn.

The "crop doctor" will be an added feature of the field day this year. Specialists will be on hand to give individual help to farmers who have had problems this summer. Farmers can bring in samples of their "sick" crops, insects that are causing problems, and weeds that they would like to identify. Help will be available for anyone having problems. Another additional attraction for livestock producers and feed dealers is a demonstration of capabilities of the Agnet computer system, minicomputers and programable calculators.

Mom hasn't been forgotten either. There will be a special program for the ladies. Lunch will be available.

Water-Levels in Observation
Wells Show Mostly Increases

Water levels rose in two-thirds of the observation wells measured in Nebraska during 1979, the last full year of record, according to a report issued jointly by the Conservation and Survey Division, UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the U.S. Geological Survey.

The 1979 water-level increases were generally less than two feet higher than those of 1978, although rises of four feet were recorded in several areas of the state, concludes the report titled "Groundwater Levels in Nebraska, 1979."

The only large area in which water levels continued to decline was in Chase and Dundy counties, where intensive development of groundwater for irrigation has taken place. Water levels mostly declined in this area but at a lesser rate than in recent years," state the authors, Martin S. Johnson of the U.S. Geological Survey and Darryll T. Pederson of the Conservation and Survey Division.

Above-normal precipitation during 1979, plus the timing of that precipitation, meant that less groundwater was used for irrigation and more groundwater was available for recharge, according to the report.

The largest use of groundwater recorded in Nebraska during 1979 was that pumped by the state's 63,777 registered irrigation wells. Those wells are cited as the water source for roughly 85 percent of the 7.5 million irrigated acres in the state. The report does not attempt to estimate the amount of groundwater pumped from these wells in 1979, but it does give as a benchmark the estimate of approximately 6 million acre-feet pumped for irrigation in 1976.

The report notes that about 60 percent of the registered irrigation wells are concentrated in a 12 county area comprising the upper part of the Big Blue River and Little Blue River basins and the central part of the Platte River valley.

Counties having comparatively large numbers of registered irrigation wells are Buffalo, Dawson, Hall, Hamilton, Merrick and York counties each of which has more than 2,300 irrigation wells. Adams, Clay, Fillmore, Kearney, Phelps and Polk counties have more than 1,400 irrigation wells each. The other counties in the state with more than 1,000 irrigation wells each are Antelope, Chase, Custer, Dodge, Holt, Lincoln, Platte, Seward and Thayer.

"The number of new irrigation wells installed in 1979 was slightly more than for 1978 but was still about half the average for either the last 5-year or 10-year period," the authors report. "New irrigation wells were reported installed in 83 of Nebraska's 93 counties. More wells were installed during 1979 than in 1978 in 40 of these counties."

This year's report is different from annual reports of past years in that the state has been subdivided into nine parts for reporting purposes and each part is described separately. Hydrographs of recorder wells located within the nine divisions are given division-by-division. This allows readers to follow the seasonal and long-term fluctuations that have occurred in the different parts of each division.

Copies of the report are available at $2 each from the Conservation and Survey Division, 113 Nebraska Hall, Lincoln, Neb. 68588. Nebraskans should add appropriate sales tax.

Cattle on Feed Declines by 5%
To 1.3 Million in Nebraska

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1,300,000 cattle on feed on Aug. 1. This inventory was up 1 percent from 1979 but down 5 percent from 1978.

Marketings of fed cattle during July by Nebraska feeders totaled 260,000, down 16 percent from last year and was the lowest for the month since 1975.

Placements of cattle into feedlots during July were a record high 320,000, up 28 percent from last July and 39 percent above two years ago.

Cattle and calves on feed Aug. 1 for slaughter market in the seven states preparing monthly estimates totaled 6.89 million head, down 4 percent from a year ago and 12 percent less than Aug. 1, 1978.

Marketings of fed cattle during July totaled 1.35 million, down 8 percent from last year and 16 percent from July, 1978. This is the lowest number of July marketings from the seven states since 1975.

Placements of cattle and calves on feed in the seven states during July were 1.52 million, a 25 percent increase from last year but 3 percent less than July two years ago. Net placements of 1.44 million were 31 percent more than July last year but 3 percent below July, 1978.

Young People Need Direction
In Contributing to Society

"Increased emphasis must be placed on helping young people become more self-directing, productive and contributing members of society," according to Dr. William Caldwell, assistant director, 4-H and Youth Development, Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service.

"Within the 4-H program, emphasis must be changed from one of major teaching of subject matter to one of helping youth develop personal skills and feelings of self-worth, identity and a positive self-image," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources administrator continued.

Caldwell's comments came in connection with the release of the results of a statewide survey conducted by the IANR state 4-H department, which he heads.

"Learn to respect and get along with people with whom we work and live," was a first priority listed by a majority of those responding to the survey. Four-H members, their parents, leaders and the general public, represented among the respondents, all agreed on the top priority.

The survey, coordinated by extension 4-H and youth specialist Kenneth G. Schmidt, was mailed to a random sample of 4-H clientele and general public in Nebraska. It was developed to obtain data to assist in putting together a "4-H Mission Statement" as a guide to planning and carrying out 4-H programs in the 1980's.

Survey recipients were asked to respond to three areas — expectations of the 4-H program, performance of the program and determining appropriate audiences and organizational goals.

Respondents were asked to prioritize 18 goal statements, with the highest ranking goal that of "learning to respect" other persons. The next five highest ranking goals were: to develop a feeling of self-worth, understand and practice family living skills, learn to be a good citizen, learn how to manage money, property and resources and develop a sense of values and goals.

Noting that "4-H is concerned with the total development of the most important resource of our state — our youth," Caldwell said the survey findings will be used to develop a mission statement which will be released in a popular report form about Jan. 1, 1981.

"Program thrusts, new projects, events and activities will reflect the reorientation of helping youngsters achieve self-worth and identify, in addition to acquiring subject matter skills," he stated.

Response to the survey was high — ranging from 64.5 percent by the public to 40.8 percent from 4-H donors. The survey provided a very good data base for use in recommending methods, delivery systems and programs for reaching goals set for the 1980's," Caldwell pointed out.

In relation to program performance, respondents gave high scores to developing leadership skills in group organization and developing a feeling of self-worth, along with working skills in the traditional subject matter areas of agriculture and home economics.

Acknowledging the family as an important influence in the development of each individual young person, Caldwell said "4-H helps in building parent-child relationships and strengthening home life by developing family-oriented projects and programs.

"Family participation in lifetime sports, gardening, livestock enterprises, dairying, interior decorating, clothing projects and others lend themselves to home and family involvement. Family participation and cooperation must be the basis for 'family' projects," he maintained.

In the audience area, respondents perceived the Nebraska 4-H program as reaching younger youth more effectively than older youth, reaching rural youth more effectively than those living in towns and cities, and expressed the opinion that 4-H should emphasize reaching the handicapped, urban racial minorities and low income youth more effectively in the next five years.

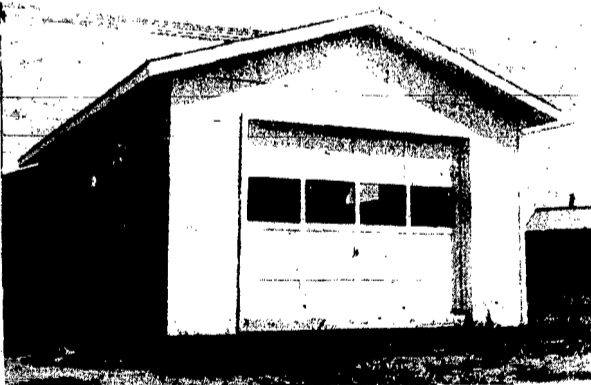

Survey participants apparently felt more comfortable calling youth who belong to an organized club or participate in a special interest group than those who attend a day camp or are in joint programs with other agencies.

The study reported that a "high percentage of respondents indicated that members or organized clubs should have the opportunity for recognition through county fairs, achievement meetings, completion of records and application for awards."

The Nebraska 4-H program includes approximately 64,000 members. "Around the state, more than 12,000 volunteer adults and teen leaders expand the staff of the University," which provides professional support and resources through the extension informal education, youth-serving program.

The program is administered through 83 county Cooperative Extension Service offices in Nebraska. In addition to tax funds which support professional extension staff concerned with 4-H as all or part of their jobs, significant financial support comes from a large number of donor organizations and friends of 4-H. Caldwell concluded

Lots of Smoke, Steam, Noise

AFTER A THREATENED walkout by demolition derby drivers was averted Saturday night at the Dixon County Fair, the crowd was given a good show with lots of smoke, steam, mud and noise. Most of the excitement was steam coming from broken radiator hoses, punc-tured radiators and overheated engines. The near walkout was a result of a difference of opinion over winnings in each heat and in the finals. In the end, the drivers prevailed and a compromise was reached.

Review of Earnings By SSI Recipients Is Suggested Now

With the year half over, now is a good time for people who get social security checks and who are working to review their earnings. Dale Branch social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

It may be that a person has earned more or less than he or she expected and this could affect social security checks. Branch said.

The general rule is that a person can receive all checks for the year if earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount. In 1980, this amount is $5,000 for people 65 or older and $3,720 for people under 65.

If earnings exceed the annual exempt amount, then $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the limit.

This earnings test applies to all people under 72 getting checks, except those getting checks because they are disabled.

There is a monthly test that can be used the first year a person has a month or she earns less than the monthly limit or does little work in self-employment, Branch said. The 1980 monthly limit is $417 for people 65 or over and $310 for people under 65. People should remember that gross pay counts for purposes of the earnings test, not just take home pay.

A person who finds that he or she is earning significantly more or less than expected should notify social security so that any needed adjustment can be made.

More information about the earnings test can be obtained from the Norfolk social security office. A free leaflet that explains the earnings test is available. The office is located at 1310 Norfolk Avenue, Norfolk, and the telephone number is 1-800-642-8310.
