ONE-HUNDRED FIFTH YEAR NUMBER TWO

County Valuations Set

According to a 1979 crime comparison, the city of Wayne had the fewest number of crimes reported among first class cities in Nebraska.

Only LaVista and Papillion had fewer crimes per 1,000 population. Wayne reported 21.6 crimes per 1,000 population while the other two towns had a crime rate of 21.5.

IN ADDITION, last year Wayne had the second highest percent of crimes cleared at 47.5 percent. York was the only other first class city studied that had a higher percentage of its crimes cleared — 50.4 percent.

Wayne also had the fewest number of sworn officers, tied at seven with Papillion, Ralston and Plattsmouth.

Having the highest percent of crimes per 1,000 was Alliance which has a population of 8,098 and a crime rate of 87.2 percent. Only 19.2 percent of the crimes there were cleared last year and the number of crimes totaled 706.

GRAND ISLAND, with a population of 34,592, had the most crimes reported among first class cities at 2,114. The crimes per population there were 61.1 and the percent of crimes cleared was 16.3 percent.

The order of rank in cities with crimes per 1,000 population was as follows for the first 10 places:

Papillion, LaVista, Wayne, Ralston, Blair, Falls City, Nebraska City, Fairbury, York and Sidney.

The bottom 10 were Alliance, North Platte, Kearney, South Sioux City, Scottsbluff, Grand Island, Chadron, Seward, Beatrice and Gering.

August's report

The Wayne PD has issued its monthly report for August.

According to the report, there were fewer arrests in August of 1980 than in August of 1979. Some 45 persons were arrested a year ago compared to 39 this year.

HEARING THE list was speeding with 10 arrests, seven persons for no valid registration, five for no valid inspection sticker, four for consuming alcohol on a public way, four for minor in possession of alcohol, two for stop sign violation, two for illegal U-turn, two for drunk driving, and one each for traffic signal violation, operating a vehicle without headlights and allowing dog to run at large.

Total amount collected in fines was $229 with 18 cases to be heard. Two were dismissed.

There were 96 parking tickets issued, 85 parking warnings issued, 43 traffic warnings issued (29 were for speeding) and 37 violation cards were issued.

ACCORDING TO the monthly report, there were 16 criminal complaints this year compared to 23 a year ago. There were seven traffic accidents investigated on public streets compared to eight a year ago. Traffic accidents investigated on private property were two this year compared to five last August.

Total miles driven by three units were 3,234 this year compared to 3,226 a year ago. Total gallons used were 337.1 compared to 446.7 a year ago.

Emergency 911 calls totaled 47 this August compared to 37 last August. Of these, 35 were justifiable last year and 27 this year.

State's Economy Still Weak

Additional information released last week by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln substantiates a continued weakness in the Wayne economy and that of the state.

THE FIGURES — the same as those reported in the Sept. 8 Wayne Herald — indicate Wayne's economy is still 17 percent behind that of a year ago for May. But the economy did improve from the dismal low recorded in April.

Statewide, the economy is slow, the report indicated. The physical volume index for the state fell 1.9 percent from its April level and was 3.9 percent below its value of last year. Nationally, the index fell 1.1 percent from April and was down 3.1 percent from May of 1979.

ANALYSIS

According to the Bureau of Business Research, the Nebraska economy has been affected by the slowdown in the national economy during the first half of 1980. The physical volume index for the state is at its lowest level since August of 1978.

MOREOVER, first-quarter data indicate that real personal income in Nebraska may have dropped slightly from the fourth quarter of 1979.

With the exception of retail sales and construction, however, the weak areas in the national economy are relatively less important in Nebraska, the report indicated. On the other hand, depressed agriculture prices, coupled with lower yields in 1980, will cause net farm income to decline considerably below the levels of 1979.

Although seasonally adjusted prices received by Nebraska farmers increased 1.8 percent from their April levels, prices have suffered from five consecutive monthly declines and remain 9 percent below last May.

AT THE NATIONAL level, it was reported that domestic auto sales improved and new housing starts began to pick up in June. If this carries over to the Nebraska economy, the report said, the declines in sales and construction may moderate in June and end later in the year. But unless increases in agricultural prices can be sustained, lower farm income will exert a downward influence on the Nebraska economy.

Although employment in the state continued to grow in May, it appears that employment has been affected by the slowdown. The number of employed increased by 2,400 persons (.3 percent) compared to May of 1979, but, at the same time, there was an increase of 7,700 persons (38.5 percent) in unemployment. This is a continuation of the recent trend in which successively smaller year-to-year increases in employment have been accompanied by successively larger increases in unemployment.

THE WEAKNESS in employment is underscored by the fact that May's growth resulted from increases in the distributive sector while the remaining sectors all lost employment. The growth in two of this sector's components (services and transportation, communications and utilities) is a long-term trend which is unlikely to be altered by the current slowdown.

It is not surprising, then that the growth in employment occurred primarily in the state's trading centers, as 21 of the 26 cities recorded employment gains in May.

PD Ranks High

Wayne County's total 1980 valuation is up by nearly 9 percent to $82 million, and the county board of commissioners will work with this and other valuations when setting levies Tuesday.

COUNTY ASSESSOR Doris Stipp said Friday that while levies for some taxing districts have been completed, nothing has been certified by the commissioners as yet. The total county valuation — $82,545,770 — is up from the 1979 valuation of $72,844,790. This represents a difference of $9,700,980. The increase primarily is due to upgrading farm land appraisals from a year ago and does include some new construction, the assessor said, although the economy has slowed that aspect of valuations somewhat.

VALUATIONS in all taxing districts have increased, her figures indicate. Valuation of the city of Wayne is estimated at $20,455,230 up from $19,443,780 a year ago. Wayne Carroll School District (District No. 17) is up as well from $28,307,485 to $30,727,575 this year. The city of Winside had a valuation hike from $1,607,625 to $1,646,320 this year. Hoskins' valuation jumped from $1,080,380 million to $1,136,830 million this year; Carroll's valuation went from $691,550 to $746,880 this year; the portion of Wakefield that is in Wayne County increased from $437,150 to $502,685 this year; and Sholes' valuation went from $437,150 to $502,685 this year.

ALL FIRE districts saw similar jumps in valuations as follows:

No. 1 Carroll — from $9,365,120 to $11,155,518; No. 2 Wayne — from $16,751,215 to $19,681,365; No. 3 Hoskins — from $6,696,285 to $7,507,875; No. 4 Winside — from $6,724,165 to $7,277,390; No. 5 Pender —

State College Board Reaffirms Review Vote

Meeting in Lincoln Wednesday, the State College board of trustees unanimously reaffirmed its support of a study of Nebraska teacher education, but also urged caution in the thoroughness of the plan.

THE NEBRASKA Postsecondary Coordinating Commission has proposed that a consulting firm study a proposed merger of the colleges and the university. It was first proposed in the University of Nebraska board of regents' long-range plan. NU and the college board differed earlier over a phrase in the NU plan that proposed a study of the merger.

The difference of opinion, however, is over how much time should be spent at each of the four state colleges — Wayne, Peru, Chadron and Kearney. The coordinating commission has suggested that the consultants designate a half-day beginning in November for each of the four colleges.

THE BOARD of trustees feels the tentative procedure is not in-depth enough for a complete teacher study.

Any study should consider the program's quality, a board statement said, not just quantitative factors such as enrollments and number of courses. Quality cannot be determined in a half-day, the resolution states.

IN OTHER action, the board approved spending more than $190,000 for ramps, restroom changes and more accessible entryways in five buildings at Peru State College to keep in line with federal handicapped requirements.

Wayne State spent about $600,000 to alter its buildings.

The board approved a 1981-82 budget request to the Legislature that includes a 9.5 percent faculty salary increase plus $200,000 more in discretionary money for merit raises. The vote broke a 3-3 August deadlock on a proposed 10.5 percent raise.

THE LATEST budget calls for 16.1 percent more from the state compared with a 12.1 percent proposal last month.

Vials of Life Available Friday

A handy method of helping medical personnel determine vital information in case of an emergency will be available at the Hospital Auxiliary Booth at the Community Health Fair Friday at the City Auditorium.

DONNA SCHUMACHER, president of the Providence Medical Center Auxiliary, said Vials of Life will be on hand free of charge for anyone wishing to take part in the program.

The plastic vials, after the necessary information is placed inside, will provide ambulance personnel, nurses or doctors with vital medical information in the event of an emergency.

INFORMATION contained in the vials is to include the person's doctor, his address, hospital preference, next of kin, allergies, medicines presently being taken, medical history, blood type, etc. The vial will be located inside each person's refrigerator so it can be easily located.

And to alert personnel of the Vial of Life, each resident will have a sticker on the front door of his residence and on the refrigerator door to alert medical authorities. It also has been suggested that a vial be placed in the glove compartment of automobiles and a sticker on the window.

THE PROGRAM is sponsored by the auxiliary, the Wayne County Extension Clubs and the American Red Cross. Vials for the program were received from Marian Health Center in Sioux City, Iowa, and from PAMC and the local medical clinics.

Mrs. Schumacher said there will be someone on hand to explain the program and to help fill out the medical forms.

Vials also will be available at both First National Bank and State National Bank after Friday.

For more information, call Mrs. Schumacher at 375-3252, or Mary Nichols, the Wayne County Health Nurse, at 375-1950.

Just Hangin' Around

ALL TIRED OUT after using up his energy on a new set of playground equipment at the Wayne Middle School is Ric Wilson, seven year-old son of Aaron Wilson. This line shot was taken of the equipment which was erected last spring by the Wayne State Art Department. The Art Department donated its time to build the structures. Now that school is in full swing, the equipment is getting considerable use. Materials used to build the equipment included fires, wood, chain, sand and various other materials.

Sewage Plant Up To EPA

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of two articles examining the city's problems with water and waste water treatment facilities. Last week's article dealt with water, and today's story with waste water treatment.)

The city has found that it has little choice when it comes to its sewage (waste water treatment) facility. The government says improve the system or lose federal assistance on other projects.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL Protection Agency directive came down from the federal government about four years ago. Since then, city officials have been working with engineers in developing a plan which meets EPA and Department of Environmental Quality standards.

The most recent word is that the feds are not sure the city's proposals are adequate. According to their standards, more land than is available is needed for the type of sewage treatment plant Wayne is considering.

Dennis Hirschbrunner, engineer for Bruce Gilmore & Associates of Columbus, met with the Council at a special meeting last week for an update. He said his firm is awaiting the go-ahead signal from the EPA and DEQ before moving into Phase II.

PHASE I — the facility plan — has been underway for some time now. Once final approval is received from the government, then the city and its engineers can move into Phase II, the design phase. The final step — Phase III — is the construction stage.

While total cost of the project is estimated at $1.2 million, the city's share will be about $150,000 or 12 1/2 percent. The state's share will be that also, with the federal government picking up the balance.

The current waste water treatment plant does not meet federal regulations for pollution. As a result, the city is being mandated to increase its degree of treatment of sewage at the lagoon.

INITIALLY, it was expected that bids would be let by now. But due to unexpected delay by the EPA, the project probably will not get underway until next year, Hirschbrunner explained. The project will take about a year to complete.

Once the new system is functioning, the city will be able to expand and stay within the government's standard of waste treatment. The system will be able to handle up to three quarters of a million gallons of effluent daily and is being designed to handle a projected Wayne population of 6,500. The present system is capable of handling about 400,000 gallons of sewage daily based on an estimated population of 6,300.

Hirschbrunner explained.

THE TYPE OF system proposed by Gilmore & Associates is a bio-disk system which requires less monitoring than the other types. It would best suit Wayne's sewage situation for the least amount of cost.

A concern that has developed since the plan was chosen is a problem of mechanical failure of the disks. There has been a 2 percent failure rate among the some 2,800 bio-disk systems in operation, Hirschbrunner said.

Because of the problem, the engineers recommend some type of an extended warranty be implemented. There is a one-year guarantee on the facility by the contractor.

THE MANUFACTURER — there is only one — has been paying for replacement of the defective parts.

The proposed system does not require 24 hour monitoring. It should be watched eight hours a day, five days a week, Hirschbrunner said, and checked a couple of times on weekends.

All that can be done now is wait for a final report from the EPA and DEQ, the engineer said. Once that is received, then the remainder of the project should proceed smoothly.

Be Good to Your Automobile

Your car has done a lot for you. If you think about it, it takes you here and there on errands, gets you there and back on vacations. It has opened up a whole new world of places far away that might not have been available otherwise.

So why not do something for your car, something that will help you, too?

That something is taking the extra care your car requires to keep doing things for you much longer and better, suggested Janet Wilson, extension consumer education specialist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

School re-opening marks the end of a summer that may have been hard on the family car, with vacations, short trips and heavier use by school-age drivers. This may be a good time to take steps that may cut car expenses and the use of fuel.

To make the most of your car, get a tuneup according to the specifications in the car's manual. A major tuneup should be done every 10,000 miles for most cars. This includes:

- New spark plugs, ignition points and condenser;
- Cleaning or replacing positive crankcase ventilating (PCV) valve and removing gum or sludge from the hoses;
- Checking the electrical ignition circuits and connections for voltage drop and resistance. They should be cleaned, tightened and replaced as necessary;
- Inspecting the choke for proper operation;
- Setting the timing to the manufacturer's specifications;
- Checking the ignition advance mechanism (mechanical and vacuum);

- Removing foreign matter from the exhaust gas recirculatory valve and hoses and checking the controls following the manufacturer's specifications;
- Checking the exhaust system for blockage;
- Replacing air and fuel filter elements;
- Checking for fuel leaks at the carburetor, fuel pump, gas line and gas tank.

About 5,000 miles after a major tuneup, a minor tuneup should be done to clean the plugs and adjust the points and timing as needed.

Tire pressure should be checked at least once a month.

"For best gas mileage and for driving on long trips with heavy loads," Wilson said, "inflate your tires three to four pounds above the recommended pressure but do not exceed 32 psi. Under inflated tires can decrease fuel economy by as much as one mile per gallon."

With self service gas stations so widespread, she added, checking tires is one practice that may be neglected.

Passenger cars consume about 14 percent of all the energy and about 31 percent of all the petroleum used in the United States, so upkeep is important. Other hints:

- Consider buying radial tires, which give from half a mile to one more mile per gallon.
- Their initial high cost is usually paid for in fuel savings and longer tread life. Do not mix radial tires with conventional tires.

— Be sure wheels are properly aligned, through annual checks. Improper front wheel toe-in alignment can increase fuel use by .3 miles per gallon.

— Be sure brakes are adjusted correctly and releasing properly. Dragging brakes can rob gasoline economy.

— Eliminate unnecessary weight. For every additional 100 pounds, gas consumption can increase .2 miles per gallon.

— Buy gas only when the gauge shows a quarter of a tank or less. Keeping tanks nearly full all the time is wasteful; each fillup makes spillage possible and a higher gas tank weight can affect mileage.

— Use gasoline of the proper octane rating. Using too low an octane rating will produce a ping that can damage the engine. Using too high an octane rating wastes money and will not produce more power or improve fuel economy.

— Change oil and oil filter at recommended intervals. Dirty oil can seriously damage engine parts and cause friction and wear that reduce mileage. A worn engine that burns oil will require more frequent tuning and get progressively poorer gas mileage.

"On the average, a tuned-up vehicle gets four to 12 percent better gas mileage than one that has not been properly maintained," Wilson said. "A car that is properly maintained will pay you back many ways, in better mileage, fuel savings, peace of mind, safety confidence and greater trade-in value."

"Results are all positive."

POW to Speak at Norfolk

The Norfolk Production Credit Association will hold its 46th annual stockholders meeting on Sept. 18 at King's Ballroom in Norfolk at 7:30 p.m., followed by the business meeting.

During the business meeting, the directors will present a report on the activities of the association during the past year. One director also will be elected for a three year term. Eldon P. He was immediately captured and taken to the Hanoi prison complex. For the next five years and nine months he underwent brutality, degradation and humiliation at the hands of his captors. During this imprisonment, he distinguished himself among his fellow prisoners as a professional in underground communications. In 1970, he was appointed chaplain of his prison unit and served in that capacity for two years.

According to the report, Bowers was westbound and turning left when Rodekohl came over the hill and was unable to stop in time. Both pickups received more than $250 in damage.

A one car accident was reported about 1 a.m. Wednesday one mile south and one-half mile west of Winside on a country road.

According to the report, a car driven by Donald W. Landanger, 21, Winside, went into a ditch after Landanger fell asleep at the wheel. Damage to the car was less than $250.

There were no drivers involved in a mishap about 9:35 p.m. Thursday at Crawford and Chapin Streets in Winside.

A parked bus slipped out of gear and rolled down a hill, across an intersection and into a corner post on the canopy at Stenwall's Conoco Station. The bus also hit a gasoline pump which hit a parked pickup owned by Kenneth or Clara Stenwall of Winside.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO YOUR ESTATE WHEN YOU DIE?

That is a serious question that most of us had rather not think about. If you don't know the answer to this question it probably means that you have not made proper preparation for the disposition of your estate after your death. Improper preparation could mean:

- (1) A serious tax burden for your heirs.
- (2) The improper division of your assets.
- (3) People making decisions about your estate that might not be in line with your wishes.
- (4) Unnecessary detail burden on your widow or other members of your family.

Will 80's Return to Cattle Feeding in Corn Belt?

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Will the 1980's see a trend toward return of cattle feeding to the Corn Belt states, reversing the movement that took place during the 1960's and 1970's when concentration occurred in the very large feedlots of the Southwest (Texas Panhandle, etc.)?

That question has been raised by a number of agricultural observers including Allan W. McGhee, editor of the authoritative Drover's Journal, and some of the factors seen as influencing that change exist to a degree here in Nebraska.

The line of speculation goes something like this: the Ogallala aquifer under the High Plains area has been depleted, particularly in the Texas portion where corn and milo producers used up the water to supply the feed needs of the 30,000 to 50,000 head cattle feedlots that sprang up there, partly because of very favorable winter weather conditions. Now the combination of water shortages and the high cost of fuel for pump irrigation are taking their toll and many farmers have had to return to dryland farming and ranching.

With transportation costs rising, it will not be practical to move vast amounts of feed grains from the Midwest to supply the big feedlots in the West and Southwest. That means it will be more practical and economic to move the cattle feeding industry back to the farms in the Midwest where corn can be produced without irrigation. Such a situation existed for many years, with the feeder cattle produced in the Nebraska Sandhills and Western Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota traditionally moving to the corn producing feeders of Eastern Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana. Agricultural specialists note too that an increased need for conservation of soils and such other factors as weed control and the higher costs of control chemicals and fertilizers, may lead farmers back to more crop rotation which means more production of roughage best used by ruminants such as cattle and sheep. Rotations traditionally have also meant greater production of legume crops to put natural nitrogen into the soil.

A return to legume production and better use of feedlot manure can add up to a reduction in fertilizer costs and improved soil tilth and water retention ability. The day of the specialized grain and soybean farmer may turn full circle back to the concept of the "general crop and livestock farm." It seems strange to think that one of the popular admonitions of agricultural specialists of the 1960's was to "specialize your farming."

And in those days when fuel and commercial fertilizer were very cheap by today's standards, there were actually so-called experts who questioned that manure was worth the cost of hauling it to the field. It is worth remembering though that even then, the best and wisest people in the experiment stations were discounting such theories and advising farmers to stay with sound crop rotations and use of manure.

Some see in the present trend of events good reason for cattle feeding to move out of the huge feedlots and back to the smaller crop and livestock combination operations that once distinguished Corn Belt agriculture.

As for our own state, economics and water depletion becoming evident in marginal land areas could encourage farmers and ranchers to return to the dryland farming techniques and feeder cattle production which were once their mainstay. Those who have pumped the Texas portion of the aquifer dry should have no license to do the same thing in Nebraska.

There are some who would say that the Corn Belt should never have lost its edge in the cattle feeding business in the first place and that if changing events and conditions dictate that it return... well, that wouldn't be all bad by any means.

Finally, it appears the Wayne-Carroll board of education has made a decision on the baseball-golf issue that will stay unchanged and intact.

The issue was dragged out over several months and could have been settled at the beginning. The board should have studied the facts in detail, held discussion on the issues and made a final decision.

We commend the baseball group for their never-say-die attitude. They had a goal of keeping the baseball (and later golf) program in the school system and through considerable pressure did so. The board should take a lesson.

The board's decision — after a look at the facts — does not appear to be too wise, however. By accepting the pledge of $2,400 (and more if needed), the group has set a precedent. Next year, if the wrestling program is in jeopardy or the German program or the industrial arts program, will the board accept a pledge to keep the program in the system?

In addition, the pledge by the baseball supporters is likely to open a can of worms. Technically, the sponsorship of baseball is to remain with the school. But it was not made clear if both the head coach and assistant coach will be paid from the pledge.

If money for the pledge cannot be raised, then what of the baseball program? Will the school district be forced to pay for the program? What kind of influence will the boosters have over the program if they are the sole financial supporters?

By setting the precedent of accepting the pledge, the board is placing control of academic and athletic programs in the hands of a few persons rather than taxpayers of the entire district. Hardly equitable, would you say?

Class B baseball on the high school level does not have a future. It is not a viable program if only five (now only four since Ponca dropped its program) Class B schools outside of Omaha carry the sport.

In a time when economics play such a vital role in determining the future of private, public and parochial entities, then the least viable programs must be sacrificed for the good of the district.

We are concerned that those supporting the baseball program are doing so for selfish interests. Will the same parents throw financial support behind a program that does not involve his or her child? The class AA future of the entire district will be determined in the next few years as enrollment continues to decline, inflation wreaks havoc on budgets and the 7 percent lid limit prohibits any expansions whatsoever.

Although golf in many instances is considered more of a "social" outing than a character building sport, it does have a future among Class B schools.

There are 55 "B" schools that offer the activity. It has broad-based support across the entire state.

The board was justified in keeping golf. We would ask that supporters of the baseball program — or any athletic or academic program — ask themselves if the support is for the benefit of their children only or for the entire district.

The economy is forcing superintendents and school boards to run their schools more and more as a business. And as in any business, the least viable aspects must be eliminated in order for the entire business or program to survive.

And as long as we're on the topic of the future, the City Council is and should be giving consideration to future building in Wayne.

The Council discovered last week that zoning ordinances approved about a year ago prohibit lots that are less than 100 feet in length. This is causing problems in some of the older areas of town.

The size limitations probably were designed to prevent the inner-city cracker boxes stacked window to window and back door to back door that are prevalent in the cities. Excellent idea.

But the firm that revamped Wayne's ordinances last year more than likely is not fully aware of problems that can exist in a smaller, community-like Wayne when developers look toward the older areas for redevelopment.

Developers have nearly exhausted undeveloped areas within the city limits of Wayne. Either the Council will have to consider annexing or it will have to relax the rules that involve redeveloping the inner areas.

In order to add houses on existing lots, the lots will have to be split and that is where the problem lies. Most lots, once they are split, do not meet the local minimum zoning standards. Some leniency on the part of the Planning Commission, the Council and the Board of Adjustment needs to be considered.

But we caution these planning groups in setting a minimum. They should not allow construction that promotes the unattractive style of housing that exists in many cities. An orderly and well-organized method of housing needs to be established.

Some Straight Talk About Federal Pay

Richard L. Leshar, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Leonard Reed, a former federal employee, recently wrote an article on federal pay which appeared in "The Washington Monthly," and considering his background, his conclusion was not just surprising, but downright shocking. He said, "By any fair comparison, the bulk of civil servants are far better compensated than the general public for whom they work. If comparability is to be achieved, it will require not an upward but a downward revision of government compensation. That's not likely to happen as long as the federal pay machine is designed and operated by the payees."

Cutting bureaucrats' salaries is an untouchable subject in Washington. In fact, federal employees' representatives most often complain that government salaries have not been kept comparable to those in private industry. For example, when President Carter proposed to limit the federal pay raise in 1979, the president of one federal union said, "This must stop before abject poverty becomes the mark of the average employee." The President's proposed 9.1 percent increase for next year has been similarly denounced.

Reed dismisses these complaints out of hand, noting that the method presently used to determine comparability does not take into account some very significant factors. The in-grade increases that most federal workers receive, the bonuses that executives will get, and some whopping built-in benefits, such as greater job security than in the private sector and a much more generous pension system. And, he presents as further evidence the July, 1979 "Survey of Current Business," which shows that in 1978, federal employees earned an average of $18,988 compared with an all-industry composite average of $13,275.

Federal officials counter that this survey does not reflect an accurate comparison. Indeed, they contend a straight, unadjusted comparison is impossible because the federal workforce has a much higher component of professional and administrative personnel than its private counterpart.

But Reed rebuts this argument as well, remarking, "...for those who were not born earlier than yesterday, the federal officials' explanation is a cop-out. Since 1962, the great increase in federal programming has not been in research and development, where professionals dominate, but in routine payment social programs which require hives of clerical worker bees. Yet, during that same period, the superiority of federal pay average over the all-industry average steadily increased from 27 percent in 1962 to 44 percent in 1978."

The federal government, of course, has developed its own survey to determine comparability, and through this mechanism it invariably finds its own workers are underpaid. But Reed reminds the reader that the General Accounting Office, the official congressional oversight agency, has already investigated this survey and given it negative marks. The GAO concluded that the jobs federal officials selected "contained disproportionate numbers which were highly paid in the private sector, which resulted in an upward bias of the average work rates."

Finally, Reed observes that the notion that government pay is low and needs to be boosted if we are to attract high quality people is periodically given new support by presidential pay commissions. But he warns: "Typically, these commissions consist of prominent citizens (Nelson Rockefeller headed the last one) who appear to the public to be neutral and authoritative figures. They are, in fact, busy people, dependent on the career civil servants who do the commissions' real work and greatly influence the conclusions. Inevitably, the commissions recommend sharply increase pay, particularly for the elite class of civil servants who help shape the recommendations."

Every once in a while you meet an individual in Washington who has the integrity and courage to do the right thing regardless of personal interests. Leonard Reed is just such a person. I wanted you to know about him, and what he said, because most people in this town will pretend he doesn't even exist.

Transportation Most Vital to State: Thone

"No agricultural state is more dependent upon a good transportation system than Nebraska."

"In 1979 our state was first among all 50 in production of alfalfa meal, great northern beans and popcorn, third in corn and sorghum for grain, fourth in pinto beans and fifth in winter wheat, rye and dry edible beans."

"Yet neither Nebraska farmers nor the Nebraska economy would have realized much of the $5 1/2 billion in 1979 cash receipts from farm marketings in our state if we hadn't had a good transportation system."

"Nebraska is farther away than most of the top agricultural states both from the centers of United States population and from the ports that ship American agricultural products abroad."

"Your state government is trying to strengthen every form of transportation in Nebraska. The 1980 uncameral provided additional funds for roads and highways, and I took the lead in persuading the Old West Regional Commission to establish this year an office in Omaha to promote increased barge traffic on the Missouri River."

"In August, I appointed the first members of the Nebraska Branch Rail Revitalization Council. This seven-person group will work to strengthen branch rail lines in the state without using tax funds."

"Nebraska is fortunate to have two railroads that are financially very strong and, in general, have their roadbeds in excellent condition: the Union Pacific and the Burlington Northern. Some western states were really dealt a severe blow recently when lines that were their main rail arteries of commerce declared bankruptcy.

"Southeast Nebraska suffered, and is still feeling the pain, from the bankruptcy of the Rock Island Railroad. The Chicago and North Western System is a line that needs to be strengthened and improved. Its service to Fremont, Norfolk and all across the entire northern section of the state is absolutely essential. If that line could share in the coal traffic from Montana-Wyoming, its finances would undoubtedly be much improved. The Nebraska Department of Economic Development is currently making a study to determine how best to improve that railroad's Nebraska prospects."

"Railroads are a very energy-efficient means of moving commodities over long distances. It's ironic that now that energy costs are rapidly rising, we have rail service to only a small fraction of the communities that enjoyed that service 75 years ago."

"We Nebraskans realize that we are terribly dependent on transportation. We must succeed in improving our railroad service and every other form of transportation."

Blue Devils 'Become Football Team' against Blair

The number four team in Class B had its hands full, Friday night.

The Blair Bears invaded Blue Devil country and went home with their second consecutive win. However, the fourth ranked team in the Omaha World Herald's Class B ratings, ran up against a stubborn Wayne team that dished out more than Blair wished to be served.

The Bears came out on top 17-7 during ideal football weather at Wayne State's Memorial Stadium, Friday night. Blair raised its record to 2-0 while Wayne fell to 0-2.

"We became a football team tonight," said Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt after the game. "We're not satisfied with the loss but we're happy to see the way we played. We stayed on the ground because we were moving the ball."

The option play really worked. Tod ran it well and we got the offensive line working," Ehrhardt said. "Our defense closed the holes after Blair's first drive. We'll take a look at the scouting report and see if we can improve again next week against Lakeview. If we can, we'll be alright."

The way Blair moved the ball on its first series, it appeared Wayne might be in for a long night like the prognosticators has forecast. The Bears rolled down the field untested on their first possession for a 7-0 lead. Kurt Shanahan scored the touchdown.

But, the Devils issued a challenge and weren't about to lie down and die.

A Wayne fumble turned the ball over to Blair on the invaders' 48 yard line. The defensive line stiffened up and held the Blair running game. A clipping call moved the ball back into Blair territory and the Bears were forced to punt.

Junior Eric Brink broke through the offensive line and cleanly blocked the punt. The ball rolled back to the Blair eight yard line where Wayne took over possession. Chip Carr carried the ball down to the three and Kevin Nissen took it in on the very next play. Pat McCright's PAT tied the game at 7-7 with 8:37 left in the first half.

Blair completed its only pass of the game for a 20 yard gain in the next series to keep a drive alive. The drive ended in glory for the visitors when Paul Seevers scored from nine yards out, giving Blair a 14-7 advantage.

Wayne again took to the offensive attack and began moving the ball under the direction of Tod Heier and running of Nissen. A pass interference call gave the hosts a first and 10 at the Blair 29-yard line.

The Blue Devils turned the ball over when they failed to convert a fourth down play at the 21-yard line. Blair made good use of the final 1:45 of the first half and moved the ball downfield effectively.

An interception by Heier appeared to end the half as the clock ran out. However, the ball was knocked loose and Blair recovered with a flag on the play. Clipping was called against Wayne and because the half can't end on a penalty, Blair had one last opportunity to score. The Bears booted a 30 yard field goal with time expired to pad their lead at 17-7.

Both teams moved the ball with success in the second half but neither team was able to score. Nissen recovered a fumble at mid field, giving Wayne an opportunity to close the gap.

Led by Heier's running, the Devils moved the ball to the Blair 28. The home team saw another drive come to an end as a fourth and two play was stopped short of a first down.

Blair was unable to move the ball but got off a 60 yard punt, puffing Wayne in the hole at its own 22. The Devils moved the ball for one series and then punted the ball.

Brink recovered a fumble at the Blue Devil 35 yard line and the locals were back on offense. Nissen and Carr moved the ball well and Heier ran the option as Wayne moved the ball to the Blair 28 for a first down. The Devils were knocking on the door but once again a good drive came to a disappointing ending. They failed to convert a fourth and three situation and the Bears took over the ball.

Wayne gained possession of the ball again and Carr moved the hosts back into Blair territory. A pass interference call gave Wayne a first down at the 32. The Bears intercepted a pass on the next play to end that drive.

The state ranked team drove the ball down to the Wayne three-yard line as time ran out in the game.

Blair rushed for 277 yards compared to 151 yards for the Devils. The Bears were led by Shanahan with 94 yards in 21 carries, Rich Orsi with 88 yards in 8 carries and Paul Seevers with 51 yards in 7 carries.

Wayne was led in rushing by Heier with 21 carries for 65 yards. Nissen rushed the ball 9 times for 37 yards. Carr carried 11 times for 28 yards and Richard Poehlman rushed 14 yards in 6 carries.

The Devils, which escaped the game with only a couple of minor injuries, were led on the defense by Heier, Aaron Schuett and Brett Frevert. Heier made 16 tackles. Schuett was responsible for 15 and Frevert had 13. Other leading tacklers were Pat McCright with 9, Jeff McCright with 8, Carr with 8 and Nissen with 7.

Both teams were penalized in key situations. Wayne was charged with six penalties for 60 yards and Blair had eight penalties called for 90 yards.

The Blue Devils will host West Husker favorite Columbus Lakeview at 7:30 p.m., Friday in Memorial Stadium.

THE BALL flies free as Eric Brink of Wayne (71) breaks through the line and nails Blair's quarterback Paul Seevers (15) as he pitches out to Kurt Shanahan (33). The ball shot high into the air because of Brink's contact and resulted in a loss of yardage.

Trojans Avenge Allen for 2nd Win

Wakefield's 19-6 triumph over Allen Friday night was more than just an average victory for the Trojans. It was the first win over the Eagles in three years and tied last year's disappointing victory mark of two wins.

The Trojan defense held Allen to only 79 total yards and gave up only a fourth quarter touchdown. Meanwhile, Allen's defense held Wakefield to 188 total yards and three TD's.

Wakefield scored one touchdown in the first quarter, one in the second and one in the fourth. Quarterback Mark Starzl hit Rod Nixon on a 29 yard strike for the first score of the game.

Jerry Roberts added the second TD in the second quarter on a one yard plunge. The point after attempt made the score 13-0. Allen came back with its lone touchdown in the third quarter. A 25 yard pass from Robb Linafelter to Terry Brewer set up the Eagles and Linafelter ran the ball in from the three yard line.

Jeff Hallstrom put the finishing touches on the game when he was on the receiving end of a 10 yard touchdown pass from Starzl in the fourth quarter.

Coaches from both teams complimented their own defenses. "We dominated them. We had a good, balanced defensive effort," Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur said. "It was a black and blue game, a bump and bruise game and it was a good win."

"We had our chances but Wakefield has a good defense and a pretty good team. Our defense came around and we looked a lot better. We still have some things to iron out, though," Allen coach Bart Kneiff said.

Wakefield was led defensively by Starzl with seven tackles. Hallstrom and Gary Tullberg had six tackles each. Tullberg had one sack for a loss of 10 yards. Hallstrom made a tackle for a loss of seven. Starzl made a tackle for a loss of three and Doug Verplank made a tackle for a minus five yards. Mike Clay, Alan Echenkamp, Vaughn Nixon and Dirk Carlson had four tackles each.

Allen was led on defense by Rick Gotch with 13 tackles and one fumble recovery. Frank Lanser with seven tackles and two blocked passes. Scott Carr with six tackles and one fumble recovery and Terry Brewer with five tackles.

Offensively, Wakefield was led in rushing by Jerry Roberts with 35 yards on 20 carries and Jody Sherer with 30 yards on five carries. Sherer carried the ball 33 yards on one play. Five other running backs saw action.

Starzl completed five of 12 passes for 71 yards with no interceptions. Hallstrom made three catches for 39 yards and Rod Nixon had one reception for 19 yards.

Wilbur credited Allen's defense, stating that the team plays on the line and comes in hard." Wilbur added that Alan and Roger Echtenkamp did a good job of blocking in the offensive line. Wakefield is scheduled to host Wausa next Friday in a conference battle.

Allen coach Kneiff credited Rick Gotch and Frank Lanser with the best jobs on offense. Brewer and Carr were the leading rushers. "We've played two pretty strong teams so far," Kneiff added. The Eagles are scheduled to play at Bancroft Friday in conference action.

The Winside Volleyball Tournament is scheduled to open tonight (Monday) with an eight team field fighting for team honors.

At 5:30 p.m., Winside will play host to Hartington. Coleridge and Wynot will meet at 6:30. Osmond will play Wausa at 7:30 and Wakefield and Laurel will clash at 8:30.

Semifinals are scheduled tomorrow with the winners of the first two games meeting at 5:30 and the other two winners meeting at 6:30. Consolation finals are planned at 7:30 and finals will follow at about 8:30.

Ball Park Renovation, Tuesday

All volunteer labor is welcome as ball park renovation continues, tomorrow (Tuesday) at 6:30 p.m. This will be the third work session at the Wayne city ball park.

Hank Overin said he is hoping for another good turnout of workers so the field will be ready for the next phase of the project. Two dump trucks, one or two tractors with loaders and a couple of chain saws would make the evening's activities much easier, he said.

Anyone who would like to volunteer any of the preceding equipment is asked to bring it along Tuesday or call Overin at 375-2584.

Overin said that bidders want to deliver the chain link fence and indicated that the lighting firm will be ready to install poles in one or two weeks. Hopefully, the field will be ready for those steps after Tuesday's session, Overin said.

Some 32 persons volunteered to help with reconstruction work at last Tuesday's work session. Overin said he was really pleased and is hoping for another strong turnout this week. Last week, Brock Glese and Jerry Dorcay donated use of tractors and loaders, Mike Meyer donated use of his pickup and Stan Morris again donated use of his boom truck.

Wildcats Shutout Osmond

Winside coach Dennis Gonnerman wasn't pleased with his team's win, Friday night, but at least it was a win. The Wildcats trimmed Osmond 13-0 in Osmond.

The Wildcats scored in the second and fourth quarters and the defense held Osmond scoreless. Brian Foote scored the game's first touchdown when he scrambled 48 yards. He added the PAT for a 7-0 lead. Mark Koch took the ball across the goal line in the final quarter on a one yard quarterback sneak. Winside totaled 235 yards on offense but was assessed 140 yards in penalties. The Cats had three touchdowns called back.

"It was one of those games where I feel lucky that we came out and won. We have a lot to work on," Gonnerman said. "We had the opportunities but couldn't take advantage of them. The defense had a pretty good game overall."

Defensive leaders were Brad Roberts with 16 tackles, Joel Brockemeyer with 13, Barry Bowers with 12 and Byron Schellenberg with 10.

Offensively, the Wildcats rushed for 163 yards. Foote was the leading rusher with 82 yards on 14 carries. Schellenberg racked up 51 yards on nine carries. Bill George caught one pass for 48 yards and had another reception for a touchdown called back because of a holding penalty.

The locals took advantage of seven Osmond turnovers to control the tempo of the game. The hosts caught the ball up five times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

Winside is scheduled to play at Ponca, Friday.

Winside Spikers Fall

Osmond took a 15-3 win in the first game and then held off a rally in the second game to drop Winside's volleyball team 15-3, 15-13, Friday night in Osmond.

Winside rallied after the disappointing first game and closed in for a near victory but fell just short in the attempt.

"We lacked a lot of concentration and weren't ready to play in the first set. It was mostly due to problems with our serves and set ups," Winside coach Paul Sok said. "We came oh strong in the second set but lost a close one. Osmond is a pretty balanced team and we gave them too many breaks. A variety of little things led to the loss."

The Wildcats are scheduled to continue their season at 5:30 p.m. today when they host Hartington in the Winside Invitational. Tammy Thomas led Winside with five points and Evonne Edwards scored 10 points for Osmond. Winside's record fell to 0-2.

Five Wayne Runners Earn Medals in Championship

The Wayne Blue Devils are rapidly establishing themselves as one of the top cross country powers in the state.

The Devils made it two in a row as they won their second invitational in two outings this season. Wayne easily claimed team honors in the Plainview Invitational, Friday.

The locals scored 19 points to pull away from runner up Atkinson West Holt with 40 points. Crofton finished third and Bloomfield finished a distant fourth.

Top runners for the Blue Devils were again Doug Proett and Stephen Monson who finished first and second respectively in the 5,000 meter race. Because the 5,000 meter is a new distance in cross country racing this year, Proett's time of 16:32 is a Plainview course record. Monson's second place time was 16:55.

A pleasant surprise for Wayne coach Harold "Mac" Maciejewski was the improvement of foreign exchange student Henrik Olsson. Olsson, who placed 14th in the Albion Invitational last week, finished fifth in this meet with a time of 17:47.

Jeff Baier also improved from last week's performance and placed 11th in 18:06. Joel Mosley placed 16th in 18:48.

All five of Wayne's varsity runners won medals. Medals were given to the top 20 runners in the 11 team field. The team score of 19 points was the lowest ever scored by a Wayne cross country team.

"Most of the coaches weren't looking for this kind of showing from Wayne," Maciejewski said. "This early in the season, we're doing real well. We're running with good times and that's making us more confident."

Mac added that he is pleased with everyone, especially the runners who improved to help strengthen the team. He noted that the upcoming cooler weather may be an advantage to his team. Monson has been having breathing problems because of his hay fever and Olsson, who was a cross country skier in Sweden, is accustomed to cooler weather.

Wayne ran one reserve runner in the Invitational. Sophomore Glenn Elliott finished the race with a time of 18:34.

Next action for Wayne is scheduled tomorrow (Tuesday) in a triangular with Wisner and Norfolk in Norfolk. The Devils will compete in the O'Neill Invitational, Friday.

Team scoring:

1. Wayne	19
2. West Holt	40
3. Crofton	58
4. Bloomfield	94
5. O'Neill	96
6. Albion	100
7. Hartington CC	132
8. Genoa	137
9. Plainview	137
10. Naper	139
11. Ainsworth	143

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascoff

WAYNE STATE COLLEGE finally opened its fall sports season this weekend. The Wildcats were scheduled to host Chadron State Saturday and the volleyball team was scheduled to open in a tournament in Kansas.

The Wildcats have plenty of help in the coaching department this season with about eight assistants. Veteran head coach Del Stoltzenberg is of course assisted again by defensive coordinator, Ralph Barclay. LeRoy Simpson, veteran cross country coach, is making a return to football coaching this season and will be in charge of the specialty teams.

Other assistant coaches are offensive line coach Terry Szucs and defensive back coach Nick Danze. John Torczon and Milt Peters will assist the offensive and defensive lines, respectively. Student assistants are Bob Barry and Marty Hansen. Kurt Czupryn is the new athletic trainer.

Joining the staff of paid coaches will be three honorary coaches who will be chosen for each ball game. The Wayne Second Guessers Club will draw names of three members each week, who will be honorary coaches for one day.

This week's coaches are Bill Dickey, Pat Gross and Cap Peterson. Their names were drawn at Thursday's Second Guessers meeting. Each week, a new trio will eat a pre-game meal with the team, watch the game from the sidelines, join in locker room sessions, attend a post-game analysis etc.

NOW AND THEN we hear about a football player especially a place-kicker who is found as bouncer in a small town bar or bus driver in some remote part of the country. And soccer players continue to step into a sport they know nothing about.

Wayne State coaches are hoping that they have a pleasant surprise in a darkhorse place-kicker at the college. Gary Cook, a freshman from Johannesburg, South Africa, is the number one candidate in the place-kicking department although he has never played football. The side-winding soccer kicker may have gotten his first real test against Chadron Saturday.

CLUB SPORTS are being formed at Wayne State College after six sports were cut from the athletic program last spring. Sports which are no longer included at WSC include cross country, swimming, wrestling, golf, men's tennis and women's tennis.

Now, former members of the WSC swimming and cross country teams have formed clubs. Dave Hauser, the team leader on the cross country team for the past three years, and other members of the former squad raised funds last spring by running a concession stand at track meets in Memorial Stadium.

The 10-member club then contacted the Chesterman Coca-Cola Company in Sioux City for sponsorship and finances. Their first meet is scheduled Sept. 20 against Doane College. The club plans to be active in college meets, road races and a marathon.

The Swim Club, organized by Ken Timmerman, will be similar to the college team of the past but will not be recognized by a conference and therefore times will not be eligible as qualifying times for national competition.

The team, coached by sports information director Diana Daniels, is hoping to attend about 20 or 30 meets with the season running the length of the school year.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S TRACK are two of the sports retained by Wayne State's athletic department. Facilities have been improved substantially for the sports which were under consideration to be dropped with the budget cut last spring.

The track at Memorial Stadium has been resurfaced during past two weeks with a new layer of black top. The cost of the project, according to estimates listed by The Wayne Stater, is $12,995 with funds coming from the miscellaneous renovation budget.

THE WAYNE SECOND GUESSERS Club served 150 persons at a watermelon feed for Wayne High and Wayne State athletic teams, Wednesday night. Some 35 melons were served to show appreciation to the athletes.

Wayne Spikers Sweep Laurel

In a battle of area volleyball teams, Wayne earned the honors with a 15-9, 15-7 victory over Laurel, Thursday night in the first game. Hard spiking by Tamie Thomas and good setting by Jill Zeiss led the hosts to the win.

Led by Linda Ebmeier, Laurel rallied to within three points at 12-9. Wayne pulled away to win the next three points and win the opening game.

The Bears reversed the trend by winning the first four points of the second game. The advantage didn't last long for Laurel and the hosts came back to take a 7-5 lead. From that point, everything went the way of the Devils.

Wayne set and spiked its way to the victory. Lisa Peters led the offense with nine spikes, one for an ace. She also led the club in serving with 12 points and two aces. Zeiss was the leading setter with 13 good sets.

Cyndi Jones, Anne Schultz and Kay Anderson led Laurel's scoring. Ebmeier contributed with spikes, sets and saves.

"We played better than we did last week. We're gaining a little experience and blocking and spiking a little more," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "We keep improving step by step but it takes time."

In reserve action, Wayne edged Laurel 15-9, 7-15, 15-12. Pam Nissen led the hosts in the serving department with 14 points and six aces. Missy Stoltzenberg had 10 spikes to lead that department. Kris Proett had 17 sets to lead that area. Laurel won the freshman game 15-4, 15-8. Cheryl Sukup led Wayne with five points.

The Bears are scheduled to play in the Winside Tournament tonight (Monday) and travel to Plainview, Thursday. Laurel was eliminated from the Pender Tournament last week by Walthill and West Point Central Catholic.

Wayne will be in action tomorrow (Tuesday) at West Point CC and will host Columbus Lakeview on Friday. The Blue Devils are now 4-1.

Seven at Club

Seven members of the Star Home Extension Club met Tuesday evening in the Dale Stottberg home, answering roll call with something they enjoyed this summer.

Mrs. Richard Jenkins, health leader, reminded members of the Community Health Fair scheduled Sept. 19 from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the city auditorium in Wayne. Newly elected officers are Mrs. Milton Owens, president; Mrs. John Rees, vice president; and Mrs. Keith Owens, secretary-treasurer. They will assume their duties in January.

Mrs. Don Harmer presented a craft lesson and all members made Christmas banners from green and red felt.

Mrs. Richard Jenkins will host the October meeting and Mrs. Keith Owens will have the lesson, entitled "Dressing for Your Life Style."

First Meeting

Hilltop Larks Social Club held its first meeting of the season Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jim Florine. All members and a guest, Mrs. Clifford Lindsay, attended.

The meeting was conducted by the hostess, Mrs. Paul Brader reported on the last meeting. For roll call, members told of a baking flap.

The group presented a gift to Gary Florine, infant son of the Jim Florines. The birthday song was sung for Mrs. Darrell French and Mrs. Merton Jones.

Mrs. John Williams gave a reading pertaining to the "Iag, entitled "Remember Me," and Mrs. Paul Brader read "Dollars and Cents."

Mrs. Ray Roberts and Mrs. John Williams were card winners.

Next meeting will be Oct. 14 in the John Bowers home.

Aid and LWML

Fourteen members were present when St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWML met Wednesday at the church.

Mrs. Ernest Junck was in charge of devotions, which included scripture and prayer. She also read "Helpless Feeling," taken from the LWML Leader. Mrs. Edward Fork accompanied group singing.

The business meeting was conducted by president Mrs. Murray

Leicy. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Cliff Rohde, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Ernest Junck.

Mrs. Gilmore Sals, Christian growth leader, presented plans to commemorate LWML Sunday on Oct. 5. The LWML Fall Rally will be held Oct. 21 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wakefield, with registration from 9 to 9:45 a.m.

The society will sponsor a fall paper drive on Oct. 12.

The group was invited to attend the annual birthday party of Carroll United Methodist Women on Sept. 24 at 2 p.m.

It was announced that Mrs. Murray Leicy, Mrs. Bertha Isom, Mrs. Cliff Rohde and Mrs. George Stoltz visited Mrs. Anna Paulsen at the Coleridge Park View Haven on Sept. 4.

Mrs. Arthur Cook was in charge of the Bible study, "The Holy Scripture," taken from the LWML Quarterly. Mrs. Ernest Junck served.

Mrs. Murray Leicy will be the Oct. 8 hostess.

Resuming Meetings

The Social Neighbors Club will resume meetings with a supper Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Ron's Steakhouse. Husbands will be guests.

The Dennis Juncks of Carroll and the Steve Decks of Winslow attended the State Fair in Lincoln Sept. 6. They returned home the following day. Misty, Carrie and Ryan Junck stayed with their grandparents, the Arnold Juncks.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bowers left Sept. 4 to visit relatives in western Nebraska and South Dakota. They visited her sister, Mrs. Helen Jacoby, and with the Hans Gehlens at Spencer, and the Robert Epkes at Crookston, all in Nebraska. They also visited Margaret Hamling at Gregory. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Soss of Winier, and the Emil Bries of Mission, all in South Dakota. They returned home last Monday.

Columnist Enthused About 'Fiddler'

Editor's Note: The following is a regular column written by Joan Burney of Hartington. It is of particular interest to Wayne Herald readers since her topic is Wayne's Community Theatre and the recent production of "Fiddler on the Roof." The column is carried by several NE Nebraska newspapers.

This has been quite a year for us, theatrically speaking. We've seen "Chorus Line" in Los Angeles, "The Mousetrap" in London and "Fiddler on the Roof" at Wayne, presented by the Wayne Community Theatre.

Although we enjoyed all of these productions immensely, I'd have to say for sheer personal involvement, Fiddler on the Roof was the most fun.

We've always suspected the Wayne publisher, Al Cramer, was a ham. To find out he is an immensely talented ham was indeed a delight.

And long-time friend Alice Froeschle threw herself into the character of the mat chmaker. Yente with such enthusiasm I almost turned our five aging unmarried kids over to her.

That's the wonderful thing about "community" theater. You have a great production with all the professionalism a person could possibly ask for, and you have — to and behold — in person and in living color — your own good friends, whom you just might see in an entirely new light. Even sitting in the audience is fun, because whether your particular friend or relative is the star or one of the extras or — even a crew member — the tremendous warmth the friendliness (and concern!) that surges out of the audience has to be an almost tangible reinforcement for the sugar cured hams on the stage.

And it is great to see talented people from all walks of life involved. Alice, for instance, is an advertising consultant for the radio station KTCB. Publisher Al played Teyve with such expertise that I will never see him pontificating solemnly at a press meeting again without the image of the bearded Teyve dancing in my head. (And I suspect, I requested or not. If I were a Rich Man, I will be rendered with enthusiasm at many an informal gather from here to eternity.)

Bill Dicky, a bank vice president, played Perchek, and federal savings and loan manager Mike Carney played Lazar Wolf, the butcher giving that Community Theatre makes strange bed fellows, so to speak.

As a matter of fact, it looked to me as if almost 100 people were involved in the Wayne production, excellently directed by Sioux City native Ted Blenderman. People who for their love of theatre sacrificed enormous amounts of time, blood, sweat and tears to bring the production into life.

But then, we don't have to tell those of you who've been involved in community theater about that. It's darned hard work.

And being an "old" director myself, I know what it means to work with adults who have priorities and legitimate excuses for not coming to rehearsals. I remember one community variety show when the only time we had the whole show, chorus and everything, together was the night of the production. It turned out really well, too, but it gets a little hairy.

I also know, as many of you do, that the memories of the camaraderie which develops during such a production will remain forever. That long after the roar of the standing ovations fades into fond memory, the participants will feel a warm place in their hearts for one another, and will be glad they had the courage to become involved. One is never quite the same, you know. For one thing, appreciation of community productions is heightened-appreciably.

So, a rousing bravissimo to the Wayne Community Theatre, and to all of the people who give of themselves in community theaters everywhere. You make a bright spot in our sad old world.

Story Advocates Tax Credit

Congressional candidate Rex Story advocates a tax credit to reduce all taxpayers' tax liabilities equally rather than a 10 percent across the board tax cut as proposed by the Republicans. Story said the GOP plan, supported by his opponent Rep. Doug Bereuter, would benefit the wealthy far greater than the middle and lower income wage earners.

A 10 percent tax cut would decrease the tax liability of someone in Doug Bereuter's tax bracket by approximately $2,000 while the average Nebraska wage earner who makes $16,000 a year with four exemptions would receive only a $150 reduction in taxes," Story stated.

Bereuter's opponent is suggesting a tax credit for all tax payers of an equal amount rather than allowing the wealthy to reap the vast majority of the benefits of the tax reduction. This way those who are in the lower and middle income brackets who are the most burdened by the current tax laws, would receive a tax reduction of an equal amount to those in the higher income brackets who are not in as great a need for a tax break.

Action Boost to Business

Congressman Doug Bereuter has praised House passage of legislation that would make federal regulations more flexible so as to reduce the "disproportionate burden" placed on small business.

By voice vote, the House approved the Small Business Regulatory Flexibility Act (S. 299). The bill requires federal agencies to analyze the effects of proposed rules and regulations in terms of impact on small businesses. Analyses would include whether small businesses should be exempted or receive different and less burdensome standards for compliance, as well as expected recordkeeping and reporting requirements.

Agencies would also be required twice a year to publish an agenda of proposed regulations likely to have significant economic impact on small businesses.

"This regulatory reform is critical," Bereuter said. "As if small businesses bear a disproportionate burden in coping with the regulatory maze Reporting and recordkeeping requirements force many small businesses to hire costly outside consultants."

Bereuter said, "Unnecessary and overly burdensome regulations stifle innovation and growth of small businesses, which nonetheless have a record as the most vital, jobs-producing sector of our economy. This legislation is an attempt to tilt regulations to the scale of the businesses being regulated."

Small businesses spent an estimated $12.7 billion per year to comply with reporting requirements, Bereuter said. This expense diverts resources from productive activity.

"Consistency is the last refuge of the unimaginative," Oscar Wilde

Rail Labor Protection Plan

Rail deregulation legislation passed by the House will enable implementation of a labor protection plan for former Rock Island Railroad employees, now stalled by court order. Congressman Doug Bereuter said recently.

The bill, approved last week by a 337-20 margin, contains an amendment that would give the Rock Island rail trustee a means for redress for any claims against the government, Bereuter said. This provision would allow lifting of a court injunction against the labor protection plan contained in the Rock Island Railroad Transition and Employee Assistance Act, earlier passed by Congress and signed into law.

"The amendment will allow anyone who has a claim against the government arising under the labor protection provisions of the Rock Island law to go to the U.S. Court of Claims," Bereuter said. "Any compensation would be pursuant to Federal law commonly known as the Tucker Act." Bereuter said. "The Tucker Act provides a lawful, equitable mechanism for parties to settle any claims against the government."

A Federal District Court judge has ruled that requiring the Rock Island estate to repay unsolicited government loans to fund the compensation plan for former employees, unconstitutionally deprives the estate of its property. This fall, the Supreme Court is expected to make a final decision on the constitutionality question. Conferees are likely to meet and iron out differences between House and Senate versions of the rail deregulation legislation before the scheduled adjournment in early October. Bereuter said.

Wakefield Man Wins in Carcass

Kon Wenstrand of Wakefield won the carcass division of the Northeast Pork Producers market hog show held Tuesday in Wayne. The reserve champion market hog carcass was exhibited by Verl Carlson of Wakefield.

The carcass hogs were ranked based on the estimated percent lean meat in the carcass. Wenstrand's champion carcass had an estimated percent lean of 61.02 percent, a loin eye measuring 5.6 square inches and a backfat at the tenth rib of 4 inches. The reserve champion carcass contained an estimated 60.61 percent lean with a 6.2 square inch loin eye and 7 inches of backfat at the tenth rib.

Fifty-nine hogs were exhibited in the carcass division with an average percent lean of 56.37 percent, a loin eye of 5.3 square inches and .89 inches of backfat at the tenth rib.

Other entries in the top 10 of the carcass division included Pat Finn of Carroll, Carol Brinkman of Wakefield, Leon Svoboda of Pender, Ervin Sebade of Emerson, Denny Luff, Mary Nichols, Gene Luff and Larry Echtenkamp of Wayne.

Benefits Can Be Paid to Many Survivors of Workers Who Die

Social security benefits can be paid to many survivors of workers who die after working long enough under social security. Dale Branch social security district manager in Norfolk said recently:

These survivors include the worker's unmarried children under 18, under 22 if fulltime students, or disabled before reaching 22; a parent caring for a child under 18 or disabled who gets benefits; a widow or widower 60 or over, or 50 or older if severely disabled and dependent parents 62 or older. In addition, a surviving divorced wife can generally get the same benefits as a widow if the marriage lasted 10 years or more. A lump sum payment of $225 can be made to the worker's widow or widower who lived in the same household if there is no eligible widow or widower. The lump sum is generally applied towards the funeral expenses.

It is important that survivors apply for benefits as soon as possible following the worker's death. This is especially important for widows or widowers 60 65 or 50 or over if disabled. This is because, for these people, benefits cannot be paid before the month of application.

At the present time the average social security payment to a mother and two children is $778 a month. The average payment to an aged widow is $310 a month.

When applying, survivors should have their own and the worker's social security card or a record of the number, birth certificates for any eligible children, marriage certificate, proof of age for widow or widower, and Forms W-2 for the past 2 years or self-employment tax returns for the past 2 years. Parents 62 or older will need to show they were dependent on the worker for their support.

For more information about social security survivor benefits or about other social security benefits, contact the Norfolk social security office. The telephone number is 1-800-642-8310 and the office is located at 1310 Norfolk Ave.

WHEN IT COMES TO LEGAL MATTERS, WHAT COULD COST MORE THAN SEEING A LAWYER?
NOT SEEING A LAWYER.

The notion that you've got to pay through the nose for good legal work keeps many people away from lawyers' offices — often the very people who need legal advice the most. Actually, legal fees are no higher than those for any other professional service. And considering the costs you might be avoiding — high fines or drawn-out litigation, for example — seeing a lawyer can quickly pay for itself.

Most lawyers will tell you — in advance and as accurately as possible — how much their services will cost if they don't tell you have to do it ask if you have a legal problem, don't be afraid to seek legal advice because of what it might cost. It's putting off seeing a lawyer that can really get expensive.

ASK A LAWYER.
