Omnibus Small Business Bill Provides Incentives

House and Senate conferees reached agreement recently on a new omnibus small business bill that, among other things, would reimburse legal costs for small businesses that win lawsuits the government brings against them.
 "This compromise agreement allows Congress to go ahead with efforts to make the legal system more just in terms of defraying court costs and legal fees for the small business owner who faces unwarranted charges brought by the government," said Congressman Doug Bereuter, a House conferee.
 "The omnibus legislation also contains incentives to encourage small businesses to venture out into international markets."
 Bereuter, a member of the House Small Business Committee, helped fashion provisions contained in the original House bill.
 Specifically, the compromise incorporates the Small Business Equal Access to Justice Act of 1980 (H.R. 4429). Those provisions allow small business owners to recover reasonable attorney fees and costs. If they are successful in fighting civil or administrative charges brought against them by the Federal government, the small business owner still would not recover such costs, however, if the court determines that the action brought by the government was substantially justified.
 "To often small businesses face a catch 22 situation. Faced with unwarranted legal action initiated by the government, many small business owners decide to go ahead and pay the required fine, rather than pay prohibitive court costs."
 Bereuter also emphasized very significant compromise provisions dealing with export expansion.
 "Existing Federal programs are not responsive enough to the needs of small business in the area of export assistance," Bereuter said. "Generally speaking, small businesses have yet to realize their considerable potential as exporters."
 The conference agreement upgrades and expands export development programs and services of the Department of Commerce and the Small Business Administration. The

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Newton of Wakefield. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Delano Hanson of Seward.

The Rev. Robert V. Johnson of Wakefield and the Rev. Paul Hanson of Idaho Falls, Idaho officiated at the 7 o'clock double ring rite.

Decorations included candelabras with white flowers and greenery and white lace pew bows.

Kiela Lund of Wakefield sang "You Made Us for Each Other." Greg Hafer of Wakefield sang "The Lord's Prayer" and was joined by his wife in singing "The

The bride appeared at her father's side in a Chantilly lace gown handmade by the bridegroom's mother. French Venetian lace and seed pearls accented the Queen Anne neckline. The Chantilly gaiter skirt was trimmed with three front tiers of crystal pleated lace which swept gently into one tier to emphasize the cathedral train. The scalloped edging on her bridal illusion fingertip veil was hand-crafted from the skirt lace and attached to a headpiece of matching lace and seed pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis accented with Boston fern.

The bride's honor attendant was Kelly Murphy of Wakefield. Bridesmaids were Gwen Victor of Wayne and Carol Gran of Garden City, Kan.

Their green floral frocks were in floor length. They carried cascades of white gladioli made into a glanilla accented with Boston fern.

Flower girl was Dawn Oelsigle of Tilden. Candles were lighted by Wayne Newton of Wakefield and Jennie Hanson of Seward.

Mark Malmberg of Lincoln served as best man, and groomsmen were Bill Newton of Wakefield and Joey Hanson of Seward. They wore forest green tuxedos.

The bride's mother selected a forest green dress and the bridegroom's mother chose an apricot dress.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Erwin of Sioux City greeted guests at a reception in the church basement following the ceremony. Gifts were arranged by Kim Erwin of Sioux City, Sandy Oelalgie of Tilden and Nancy Hanson of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

'I Can Cope' Classes Begin

The first in a series of eight weekly cancer education programs in Wayne got underway Friday afternoon at Providence Medical Center.

The program, which is designed for persons with cancer and their family members, is entitled "I Can Cope" and is being sponsored by the American Cancer Society and Providence Medical Center (PMC).

Friday's session was attended by 13 persons from Wayne and Emerson and included a film describing the "I Can Cope" program.

Deris Mueller, director of medical affairs for the American Cancer Society in Omaha, Sister Gertrude of PMC, and Lorene Gildersteeve, a member of the Wayne County unit of the American Cancer Society, welcomed the group and explained course expectations.

Also attending the first session was Mary Jo Gross of Wayne, who told about library resources available on the subject of coping with cancer. The books may be checked out at the Wayne Public Library or at the Wayne State College Library. There also are several bibliographies.

The second "I Can Cope" session, scheduled this Friday at 2 p.m. in the Chapel Room at Providence Medical Center, will include a panel of cancer patients. Moderators will be Chris and Edna Tietgen of Wayne. Their topic will be "Living With Cancer."

Mrs. Gildersteeve, who is heading up the "I Can Cope" program in Wayne, said interested persons are invited to attend any or all of the sessions, which are designed to provide the opportunity to study and share problems and concerns encountered in living with cancer.

The course includes eight weekly classes and is taught by doctors, nurses, social workers and other professional persons. There is no charge and a physician's referral is not required.

Classes in Wayne run from 2 to 4 p.m. each Friday in the Chapel room at Providence Medical Center. The last session is scheduled Nov. 14.

Mrs. Gildersteeve said all of the sessions concern a different aspect of the problems facing cancer patients. Participants may attend any or all of the sessions.

Persons who would like more information about the program are invited to contact Mrs. Gildersteeve, 375-3484, or Mrs. Chris Tietgen, 375-1423.

Upcoming sessions and topics will be as follows:

SESSION 2 (Oct. 3) — "Learning to Like Yourself — Self Image." Moderators for a group discussion on living with cancer will be Mr. and Mrs. Chris SESSION 3 (Oct. 10) — "Communication, Self Image." Speakers will be Sister Gertrude and the Rev. Kenneth Edmonds of Wayne.

SESSION 4 (Oct. 17) — "Learning About Your Disease." This session will include the identification of body organs and the location of each individual's cancer. Speaker will be Dr. Jeffrey Englehart of Sioux City, herself a cancer patient.

SESSION 5 (Oct. 24) — "Coping With Daily Health Problems, Nutrition." Dietitian Tama Krause will be the speaker.

SESSION 6 (Oct. 31) — "Learning to Live With Limitations, Exercise." Speakers at this session, which deals with managing stress, will be Carol Sheldon, a physical therapist, and a nurse.

SESSION 7 (Nov. 7) — "Learning About Resources That Can Help." Speakers will include a social worker, an attorney, a minister, an American Cancer Society representative, and a home health nurse.

SESSION 8 (Nov. 14) — "Graduation and Evaluation." At this session, participants will talk about the course content as it relates to their individual situations, give their evaluation of each course, and offer suggestions for course improvement. They also will celebrate their completion of the course and their continued opportunity to participate in their own treatment.

"I Can Cope" was initiated in 1977 through North Memorial Medical Center in Robbinsdale, Minn. The program is unique for its focus on the cancer patients' role in their own treatment. The program is designed to help persons regain control over their lives through better knowledge of the disease and its impact on them physically, emotionally and socially.

Another Perfect Score

Blue Devils Set the Pace

Few teams in the state can run competitively on a one-to-one basis against the Wayne High cross country team. That point was emphasized in an easy dual victory for the Blue Devils over South Sioux City, Tuesday afternoon at the Wayne Country Club. The hosts claimed first, second, third, fourth and sixth positions at the finish line to sweep the Cardinals. Wayne won the meet with a perfect score of 10 while South Sioux finished with 29 points. For practice on Monday, a day before the race, the team conditioned with a 10-mile run to Wakefield. Then, the team members ran another 5,000 meters that evening on the Wayne course.

The heavy workout didn't seem to bother the Blue Devils, although some of the runners had tight muscles on Tuesday.

Doug Proff led the way for Wayne, covering the 5,000-plus meter course in 16:15. Steve Monson was second with a time of 16:31. Henric Olsson finished third in 17:41 and Joel Mosley placed fourth in 18:02.

Those four runners crossed the finish line together in 17:42 a week ago while defeating Hartington Cedar Catholic in a dual on the home course. Three of the runners improved their times.

The course was actually extended from the usual 5,000 meters so the runners could finish at the top of the hill and on good blue grass rather than in the sticky rough at the usual finish line. Wayne coach Mac Maciejewski estimated that the extra yardage probably added about six seconds onto each runner's time.

Only one South Sioux runner stood in the way of Wayne taking the top five spots. Jeff Baier, Wayne's fifth runner, placed sixth with a time of 19:09.

"Most of our times improved. However, we need to improve the times of our fourth and fifth runners," said Maciejewski. "We have improved with each meet. That shows that our conditioning is on schedule. Our goal is to improve each week. We have to be careful not to peak too early."

Maciejewski stated that the Wayne Country Club course is one of the better courses around, especially for conditioning. He added that it is the second hilliest course the Wayne runners will compete on during the regular season. Crofton's course is the hilliest.

The Blue Devils will seek their third team championship in four invitational meets they compete in the Bloomfield Invitational tomorrow (Friday). Next on the schedule is the West Husker Conference meet next week and districts on the following week.

Wayne is hoping to qualify for the state meet, Friday, Oct. 24 at Kearney CC.

Maxwell Sets Reception Record But Cats Lose Explosive Game

by Diana Daniels
Wayne State SID

The Wayne State Wildcats opened conference play Saturday against a strong Missouri Western team and faced a long trip home after a 57-34 loss.

The Wildcats have been plagued by injuries in the defensive line so far this season and with numerous players down with illness their defensive strategy suffered.

"We were definitely working in the defensive department. The loss of Tony Scudder to an injury and several other key players to illness left us with a lot of reshuffling to do," commented head coach Del Stollenberg after the loss. "After the first half we were able to put our people in the right places and get them organized. We were then able to control a little better."

"The offense made a few key mistakes early and this hurt our confidence a little and our ability to attack. Kelly Neustrom did an excellent job coming in the second half and throwing so well," said Stollenberg. "Pat Maxwell also had a fine game. His catches were well handled, turning the ball up field for the big plays."

Pat Maxwell, junior wingback for the Wildcats, set a new single game pass reception record of 180 yards in 8 receptions. The former record holder was Maurice Mintken who had 155 yards set against William Penn on Sept. 6, 1975.

The Missouri Western Griffons controlled the better part of the game, particularly after the Wildcats coughed up two fumbles early and Western capitalized to score. The Griffons scored on a 17 yard run by Mike Taggart following a 51 yard drive that began on a Wildcat fumble. Their second touchdown of the first quarter was on a 58-yard pass from Greg Felters to Tim Hoskins. Kicker Mark Mesmer booted through one of the two extra points.

The Wildcats came close to a score on the next possession only to have Gary Cook's 19-yard field goal attempt sail off wide. The Griffons ended the scoring in the quarter on a one-yard run by Greg Felters, capping an 80-yard Griffon drive. The two-point conversion run by Felters was stopped by the Wildcat defense.

The Griffons scored early in the second quarter on a 58-yard field goal by Mark Mesmer with 12:36 on the clock. The Wildcats were moving well on the next possession until the Griffon defense tightened up and forced another Wildcat fumble. Defensive linebacker Steve Hawkins recovered the fumble and the Wildcats took advantage of the break to score their first touchdown on a 21-yard pass from Rick Lade to Jeff Ingram. Gary Cook redeemed himself by making the PAT.

Western struck twice more in the half on a 19-yard run by Mike Taggart with 1:42 on the clock and a 65-yard pass from Greg Felters to Marc Lewis with 57 seconds remaining in the half. The halftime score had the Griffons up over the Wildcats 36 to 7.

In the second half, the Wildcats shored up their defense and outscored the Griffons 27 to 18. In the third quarter both teams scored once. The Wildcats scored first on an 11-yard pass from replacement quarterback Kelly Neustrom to Jeff Ingram. Neustrom was later nominated for the District 11 offensive player of the week award.

The Griffons scored on their next drive on a 41-yard pass from Greg Felters to Tim Hoskins. Gary Cook and Mark Mesmer added the PAT's for their respective teams.

Wayne State had possession as the fourth quarter opened and scored a touchdown on a 67-yard pass from Neustrom to Pat Maxwell. The Cats scored again with 9:20 remaining on another Neustrom pass, this one a 20-yarder to senior Jeff Ingram. At this point, the score was 43 to 28 in favor of Missouri Western.

The Griffons put the damper on Wildcat hopes on their next possession scoring on an 18-yard run by Rodney Stephenson after a 67-yard pass from Greg Felters to Mark Lewis. The Cats hung in there in the closing minutes to put together their longest drive and capped it with a score by Anthony Marinella over the right tackle for two yards.

The last score of the game came on an interception by Ricky Benton, his second of the afternoon. Benton returned the ball 45 yards down field for the final touchdown with 56 seconds remaining to put the seal on the game for the Griffons.

The Wildcats pay a visit to Hays, Kan., on Saturday to face the Ft. Hays Tigers in their homecoming game. The Tigers are presently 1-2-1 in game play. Last weekend they held Kearney State to a 21-21 tie game in a conference game.

This will be the fourth meeting between the Tigers and the Wildcats. The Cats lead the series with two wins and a tie.

Powerful Eighth Graders Cruise

With a defensive line that was effective as a brick wall, Wayne's eighth grade football team pounded Hartington Trinity 30-0, Tuesday afternoon at the Wayne High School practice field.

The Wayne defense held Trinity to minus yardage and forced four fumbles. The victory improved Wayne's record to 7-0.

"The Wayne boys played real tough. The team showed lots of pride and desire to win," Wayne coach Al Hansen said. "A hard charging defense held Hartington."

Four individuals scored touchdowns in the game. Kevin Koenig scored the first one on a seven yard run in the first quarter and then added the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, the Blue Devils struck twice. Quarterback Steve Overin scrambled down the north side line 29 yards for a TD and Chris Wieseler added the two-point conversion.

The final touchdown of the first half was scored by Jeff Sherer on a four-yard run. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Devils scored the final touchdown of the game in the third quarter. Overin hit Brad Moore for a 19 yard touchdown pass. Wieseler threw a key block to make the TD possible and Overin converted the two-point conversion.

Leading rushers were Overin with 40 yards in seven carries, Koenig with five carries for 40 yards, Moore with 25 yards in four carries, Wieseler with four carries for 21 yards and Jeff Sherer with 14 yards in five carries. Other backs who saw action are Terry Schultz, Jassi Johar and Darrin Barner.

In the passing department, Overin threw three completions in six attempts for 45 yards. Moore had one reception for 19 yards, Wieseler had one reception for 14 yards and Kevin Maly had the other reception for 12 yards.

Leading tackler in the game was Koenig with seven tackles. Wieseler, Rod Luft, Peter March, Maly, Curtis Nelson and Jay Rebensdorf all had three tackles each.

Fumbles were recovered by Wieseler, Maly, Joel Jorgenson and Preston Olson. Jeff Sherer made two interceptions and Barner intercepted one. The next game is scheduled at 4:30 Tuesday when Schuyler visits the Blue Devils at the Wayne practice field.

THE CRUNCH BUNCH stops the opposing runner cold in his tracks on this play. The action shows the defensive unit of Wayne's eighth grade team stopping Hartington Trinity behind the line of scrimmage. Wayne held the visitors to negative yardage and won the game 30-0, Tuesday.

This Week's Contest once again found two prognosticators tied for the top spot with 16 correct picks of a possible 19. (Due to a change in scheduling the Oklahoma State vs. West Texas State was not played — so this game was not counted in the final tally.)

The tie-breaker game was used to decide the outcome. Melvin Lamb of Wayne predicted Wisner over Wayne 20-6 and Jess Robins picked Wayne by 17-12. Actual score was Wisner 45-12 over Wayne.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

DISTRICT FOOTBALL standings were again released by the Nebraska School Activities Association this week.

The number-two team in Class C-2's District 2 standings is Winslow with a 3-1 record. The Wildcats are ranked at 38.7 points while Leigh leads the district with a rating of 40.0.

AN AMUSING STORY about a runaway golf cart, which was printed in this column months ago, prompted another story about a similar situation.

When talking to Dale Gutshall several weeks ago, he informed me that Harold Ingalls of Wayne had an experience with a runaway cart.

While Ingalls was on vacation, he let a friend borrow his riding golf cart. When he returned he found out that the cart had quit working and was left out on the course.

Believing that he could make the necessary repairs, Ingalls took a couple of wrenches and a screw driver out to work on the cart. While he was tinkering around he accidentally dropped a wire from the cart's electrical system and it touched the metal frame.

The cart, which was in reverse at the time, took off under its own power and Ingalls followed, hoping he could catch it. Dick Armstrong of Wayne and his visiting grandson joined in the chase when they saw Ingalls trying to run down the getaway cart.

All three individuals failed to catch up with the cart but after a chase of about 200 yards, often in circles, the cart ran into a fence. Ingalls hopped on and quickly took it out of gear.

Anyone who witnessed the event, probably got a few chuckles. But Ingalls had to be relieved that the cart didn't plunge into the lake or take off down Highway 15.

Incidentally, Armstrong's grandson reported that the great chase was the most exciting part of his visit.

AFTER THIS WEEK in college football I will have to realign my top 10 and bottom 10. Those poor old Sooners didn't have enough power to pull a comeback against Stanford. What a shame.

If Nebraska can defeat Florida State this weekend, the Huskers are bound for top spot in the rankings. For some strange reason, Texas currently holds onto that spot in my ratings.

Florida State and Penn State drop out of the top 10 after losing to tough opponents.

Rice, which upset Louisiana State, now drops out of my bottom 10. So do Air Force, Michigan State and Georgia Tech after their first wins.

Top 10	Bottom 10

2. Nebraska (3-0)	2. Texas El Paso (0-4)

Allen Gals Eliminated

In a tough opening round match of the Newcast Volleyball Tournament, the Allen Eagles were eliminated by Waitstill 15-11, 10-15, 10-15, Monday night.

The loss dropped Allen from the six team tourney and lowered the Eagles' record to 4-2.

"They were good games. We started extremely well but lost our enthusiasm along the way,"

Allen coach Gary Troth said. "We didn't play as well as we could have. With only one game in the past month, we weren't real sharp. I was pretty pleased with our play overall."

The Eagles will get another shot at Waitstill tonight (Thursday) in a conference game on the road. Troth said he is expecting his team to win this one.

The WSC club, which was formed after cross country was dropped from the athletic program last spring, had five runners among the top 10 finishers. Dave Hauser, Dave Hamm, Ron Keegan, Jerry Steinauer and Stan Wamberg won the top five places respectively.

Laurel Netters Lose to Osmond

The inability to set and spike the ball successfully led to Laurel's demise as the Bears were defeated 15-6, 15-5 by Osmond in volleyball action at Laurel, Tuesday night.

The hosts took an early lead before a large cheering crowd during homecoming week but couldn't hold on long. After leading 5-1, the Bears fell behind and never regained the lead.

Laurel had a difficult time setting the ball up and Osmond took advantage to win 14 of the final 15 points. The Bears did play well at times on defense by double-teaming Osmond's front line and blocking several spikes.

Kay Anderson scored four points to lead Laurel in the first game.

In the second game, Osmond jumped off to a 9-1 advantage and didn't let up. Ann Schultz made two nice serves to bring the score to 3-11 but the Bears couldn't put together a solid rally.

Cyndi Jonas scored two more points, one on an ace serve to finish up the Laurel scoring at five points. Osmond put the hosts away 15-5 clinching the match.

In junior varsity action, Laurel lost in two games 5-15, 1-15. Kirsti Rindell scored three points in the first game.

Osmond also won the freshman match although the scores were much closer. Laurel lost 13-15, 10-15. Leading scorers were Sandy McCorkindale with six points in the second game and Barbara Dowling with five points in the first game.

The Bears will return to the court tonight (Thursday) at Emerson.

Cedar Hands Wayne Reserves Overtime Loss

Failing to take advantage of its opportunities, the Wayne junior varsity football team, lost a low scoring defensive battle, Monday afternoon. Host Hartington Cedar Catholic defeated the Blue Devils 6-0 in overtime.

Wayne held the hosts scoreless during regulation play but yielded the winning touchdown in the overtime period. The Devils had first possession at the Cedar 10-yard line in overtime but an interception cost them a scoring opportunity.

Cedar look over at Wayne's 10, according to playoff rules and scored on the third play from scrimmage.

"We had several opportunities to score but couldn't get the ball over the goal line," said Wayne coach Ron Carnes. "It was a well played, even football game." Don Koenig is also coach for the junior varsity team.

Offensively, Kurt Janke and Jim Sperry rushed for 46 and 42 yards respectively and Tim Heiler had three receptions. Defensive leaders were Jeff McCright, Janke and Sperry with 10 tackles each. Dallas Hansen added nine tackles.

Next action for the junior Blue Devils is scheduled at 5 p.m., Monday on the home turf against Schuyler.

Lady Cats Busy at Omaha

The Lady Wildcats played four matches over the past week, all of them road trips to Omaha. On Wednesday, the Lady Cats were at the University of Nebraska/Omaha to play the Lady Mavs and Doane College.

In the first match against Doane, Wayne State lost the first game 5-15. They fared better in the second game but still lost the match 12-15.

In the second match against the Lady Mavs, the Lady Wildcats could not gain control and lost both games, 10-15 and 2-15. UNO controlled the net play both offensively and defensively.

The Lady Wildcats again visited Omaha for matches against St. Mary's and Peru, on Friday. Against St. Mary's, the Lady Cats didn't play up to par and lost 7-15, 12-15. Against Peru, WSC played better stretching the match to three games. They won the first one 15-7 and lost the second 3-15, but came back to win the third game, 15-9.

The volleyball team is now 2-3 in league play and 5-7-3 overall including tournament play.

The Lady Cats are scheduled to play their first conference game against Missouri Western in St. Joseph, Mo., Wednesday. The first home match for the Lady Wildcats is Oct. 3-4 when they host conference opponents Pittsburg State, Kearney State and Washburn University.

KIM SHERRY (right) scores a point for Laurel here as she tips the ball over the net against Osmond, Tuesday night. Laurel lost the varsity match in two games.

Devils Blast Emerson

Preparing for the South Sioux City Volleyball Tournament, the Wayne Blue Devils defeated West Husker foe Emerson-Hubbard 15-4, 15-4 in varsity action, Tuesday night in Emerson.

Lynn Surber was the leading offensive player for Wayne. She scored eight service points and had five spikes to pace the winners. Wayne coach Mavis Dalton said her team played well in the match.

The 7-3 Blue Devils will open up tourney action at 5:15 p.m., Monday at South Sioux. First round foe will be Norfolk. Other teams in the tournament are top seeded Sioux City North (rated third in Iowa), second seeded Hartington Cedar Catholic, Sioux City West, Sioux-Sity East, Sioux City Heelan and South Sioux. The tourney will be completed on Tuesday.

In reserve action, Emerson came out on top 11-15, 16-14, 15-5. Mandy Peterson was the leading server with six points and Deb Prenger led the team with six spikes. Wayne's freshman lost their match 10-15, 1-15.

The Blue Devil freshmen lost their match 2-15, 15-8, 6-15. Fran Gross scored seven points to lead the hosts.

Next action for Wayne is scheduled Tuesday at Emerson-Hubbard.

Need Construction Done?

WAYNE HIGH'S building construction class is finishing up projects at the homes of two area residents. The class, taught by Mike Mallette, is now lining up jobs for the winter. Mallette said that the class is still looking for a couple of jobs indoors. Anyone who is interested in having some construction done should contact Mallette at the high school or at home. Above, Brett Frevert, Kevin Nissen, John Anderson, Paul Warren, Ross Powers, Tim Pfeiffer, John Melena and Brian Fleming work on a roof enclosure of a patio. They poured concrete anchors for 4 x 4 braces and built a complete roof. They are presently shingling and putting in gutters. Below, Tom Fleer and Chip Carr put the finishing touches on some benches that were built in another project. A roof enclosure was added to a wooden deck, gutters were removed and reinstalled and the project was stained. The building construction class was split into two groups with one group building cabinets and vanities for the Wayne Senior Citizen Center.

Con Man Seminar Planned

Frank W. Abagnale Jr., described as the world's greatest retired con man, will conduct business fraud seminars Oct. 6 in Norfolk, Oct. 7 in Grand Island and Oct. 8 in Omaha.

Abagnale, 33, is a lecturer and consultant on retail loss prevention and white collar crime, who, between the ages of 16 and 21, forged 17,000 checks and cashed them for more than $25 million. During those five years he also impersonated a pilot, an FBI agent, a pediatrician, a college professor and a lawyer on a state attorney general's staff. Abagnale spoke in Wayne at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored event last year.

After serving prison terms in France, Sweden and the United States, Abagnale decided to use his knowledge about white collar crime to help businessmen and others. He began his business in 1976 and conducts more than 280 seminars annually.

Abagnale's business fraud seminars in Norfolk, Grand Island and Omaha will concentrate on deterring crime through education. The speaker will discuss check cashing, counterfeit money, credit cards, the con artist, short changing and related topics.

Seminars, hosted by the University of Nebraska at Omaha's Nebraska Business Development Center, will be held 7 p.m. Oct. 6 at Norfolk's Villa Inn, 13th and Omaha Ave., 7 p.m. Oct. 7 at the Grand Island Senior High School, 2124 Lafayette Ave., and 7 p.m. Oct. 8 at Omaha's Holiday Inn High Rise, 69th and Grover Streets.

Tickets for the Norfolk and Omaha seminars cost $3.50 per person in advance and $4.50 per person at the door, and tickets for the Grand Island seminar cost $5 per person. Tickets may be purchased through the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce and UNO's NBDC in Omaha.

The seminars are being co-sponsored by the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants Association of Nebraska and the Nebraska Bankers Association.

EACH TAX DOLLAR in the Wayne-Carroll School District and city of Wayne is divided among several agencies for tax purposes. County Assessor Doris Stipp has designed the pie so taxpayers can easily assess how much of each tax dollar goes to the various taxing entities. For example, city of Wayne taxpayers will find that 38 cents of their tax dollar will go to support the Wayne-Carroll School District; 24 cents goes for the city functions; 13 cents to county functions; two cents for Northeast Technical Community College and one cent each for County Fair board, Natural Resources District and Educational Service Unit No. 1.

Planetarium Programs Set

On Sunday Wayne State College will start the 1980-81 Planetarium Public Programs. All presentations are scheduled for Sunday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. in the Fred G. Dale Planetarium. Sunday's show will be "The Voyage to the Stars." The program will run through Oct. 19 and Nov. 2 through 16. This presentation, narrated by Carl Sagan, deals with the human exploratory vision — about how we have come, in only a few thousand years, from projecting our hopes and fears among the constellations to visiting the planets and setting sail for the stars. It follows the exploration of Mars from childhood dreams in the 19th Century to the realities of the Viking mission. It follows the course of the Voyager spacecrafts to the outer solar system. And we retrace the evolution of matter from interstellar gas and dust to beings like us, able to ponder the mystery of our own origins. The planetarium show, built around key elements in the COSMOS television series, explores the connections of human beings with the vast and awesome universe in which we live. The WSC planetarium, with its dome-shaped screen, includes a complex star projector, dozens of auxiliary and special effects projectors and unique sound system allow an exciting blend of art and science. Audiences are taken beyond the stars to experience the majestic beauty and unsolved mysteries of our vast universe. The Planetarium is located on the first floor of the Carhart Science Center, on the campus of Wayne State College. In addition to the regularly scheduled public shows, special programs concerning a particular subject may be arranged by school groups and organizations. The planetarium will accept reservations anytime during the school year (September through May). For reservations and program information call 402-375-2200, or write Box 77, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

It's hard to decide who needs your gift the most, isn't it?

United Way helps you do the right thing.

Some people only give financial support to the large, well-known charities. That's fine, but there are also a lot of small agencies providing vital aid to a lot of people. And United Way helps them do it. Because it helps not just the well-known causes, but those people you wouldn't turn your back on if you knew how much they really needed your help.

Thanks to you, it works for all of us.

Use the Telephone For SSI Business

Many people in the Northeast Nebraska area do not seem to be aware that they can take care of a great deal of their business with social security over the telephone. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk said recently.

The best time to call social security is after the middle of the month. That is because the first part of the month is usually a busy time, he said. Of course, if a person has urgent business, he or she should call at any time.

The telephone can be used to:

Apply for social security or supplemental security income payments; apply for Medicare; find out how to change name or address on social security records; report change in marital status; report starting or stopping work; report a lost or stolen check or delayed payment; find out how to replace a lost social security or Medicare card.

Get help in filling out Medicare claims forms; get information about direct deposit of checks; request a statement of social security earnings records; get help in having claims decisions reviewed; ask any question about social security or obtain a free publication.

The telephone number of the Norfolk social security office is 1-800-642-8310. The people there will be glad to help.

Double Digit Inflation A Problem

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
The Legislature's Revenue Committee recently received a number of suggestions on what to do about the law that places a limit on local government spending.

During a hearing in Lincoln, David Chambers of the League of Nebraska Municipalities said the principal problem with the law is that it must be obeyed in the face of double digit inflation.

If it were not for inflation, local governments could live with the law, he said.

The seven percent spending lid law was enacted during a special legislative session in 1978. In its original form, the statute applied the seven percent only to revenues generated by property taxes but was amended in 1979 to include state revenue sources. It now also includes exemptions for specified expenditures such as utilities and bonded indebtedness.

Frank Weberg, a member of the Wausa Village Board, told the committee the basic problem local governmental units have is that they are confronted with "double digit" increases in our costs. Weberg, however, said he could not offer a figure to which the seven percent should be raised. He did say the seven percent should be increased to reflect the reality of inflation.

Since the law was passed, there have been a number of recommendations that it either be repealed or that further exemptions be added.

Another witness at the hearing was Arnold Hansen of the Tri-County Council of Governments. He also advocated that the seven percent annual budget increase now permitted be changed to a more realistic figure.

Committee aides Don Norden and Bob Hallstrom, who conducted a random survey on the spending limit law this summer, indicated many local officials agreed with what Weberg and Hansen had said.

Norden said only one third of the governments queried responded to the questionnaire and that he doubted whether generalizations could be made on the basis of the survey.

Justin King, executive director of the Nebraska State School Boards Association, said his organization believes the law takes away local control and never should have been enacted.

King said any "fat" in school budgets has been eliminated and schools will now be forced to cut vital services in order to stay in compliance with the lid law.

Defends high-speed chases
Col. E.J. Kohmeischer, state patrol superintendent, has defended use of high-speed chases to apprehend traffic violators.

Many persons who flee from officers are trying to avoid arrest for more serious crimes, he told the Legislature's Law Enforcement Committee.

The issue arose in connection with the death of State Patrolman Michael Farber. He was killed when hit by a car allegedly driven by a 15-year-old Omaha youth during a chase by other officers that began with non-payment of a gas bill. The youth has since been charged with murder.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said he will work for legislation that would restrict high-speed pursuit by law officers.

He said to threaten the one enforcing the law is "a greater threat to the public" than the one who allegedly committed a minor offense. But Kohmeischer said high-speed chases may often save lives because the violator is arrested and removed from the road.

The patrol chief said he could think of no legislative action needed to control such chases.

Chambers argued high-speed chases place in danger the lives of the alleged offender, the officers involved and the motoring public.

Kohmeischer said safety is always emphasized and that officers often forego continuation of a high-speed chase when safety is endangered.

Appeal of ruling urged
Harry Peterson, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, is urging that the state appeal a Douglas County District Court ruling that Nebraska's revised motor vehicle safety sticker law is unconstitutional.

According to Peterson, the law "keeps a lot of junk off the highways."

At this writing, the attorney general's office had not decided on what action, if any, to take.

Attorney General Paul Douglas said, however, owners of motor vehicles should continue to have their vehicles inspected.

District Judge John Clark ruled recently the vehicle inspection law, passed by the Legislature last April, is unconstitutional because it places different requirements on different types of vehicle owners.

The court action was initiated by an Omaha attorney, Renne Edmunds, who was accused of failing to display a safety inspection sticker on his car on May 2.

Edmunds was convicted in municipal court and then appealed the case to the district court. Edmunds and his attorney, Larry Myers, told Clark the revised law was still unconstitutional because it exempted some kinds of vehicles from having annual inspections.

Clark said the old law did not require new and used vehicle dealers to have annual inspections but that the new law did. But, said Clark, the new law does not require dealers to put safety inspection stickers in the windows of vehicles as other motorists must do.

In 1979, Edmunds was convicted in another case for failure to display an inspection sticker and filed an appeal with District Judge John Burke, who has since retired.

Burke ruled the law as it was then was unconstitutional but said his ruling applied only to Edmunds, not all motor vehicle owners.

This year, Edmunds and Myers argued a class-action lawsuit before District Judge Samuel Caniglia. That suit challenged the sticker law on behalf of all vehicle owners.

Last May, Caniglia said the law when Edmunds first filed the suit probably was unconstitutional but noted the Legislature had recently amended the law. Caniglia said he did not have the new law before him and therefore could not make a ruling on it.

The case then was appealed to the Supreme Court, which has not yet made a decision on the statute.

Many plant applicants
A spokesman for the Nebraska Gasohol Commission says the commission has received about 20 applications for gasohol plants.

Todd Sneller said most applicants indicated they plan to seek loan guarantees from either the Farmers Home Administration or the U.S. Department of Energy.

Sneller said the plants involved in the applications have production capacities between 1 million and 50 million gallons annually.

Nebraska Leading in Attack on OPEC: Thone

"Nebraskans are leading the way in America's attempt to break OPEC's stranglehold on our nation, and there are signs that the U.S. may be succeeding."

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to cut its official price from $32 to $30 a barrel at its September meeting. It's the first OPEC price reversal after years of one sharp increase after another.

"Use of less gasoline by Americans is the prime cause for this reversal. During the first six months of 1980, Americans used 9 percent less gasoline than in the January-June, 1979 period and 15 percent less than in the first half of 1978."

"Nebraskans outdid the remainder of the nation in conservation. For the first seven months of 1980, Nebraskans used 11 percent less gasoline than in January-July, 1979 and 16 percent less than in the same period of 1978."

"Any percentage reduction in use of petroleum results in a much greater percentage reduction in imports. In 1980, from Jan. 1 through Aug. 8, America's petroleum imports were 15 percent lower than in the same period last year."

"The OPEC agreement to cut the official price by $2 was not a total victory for the United States and other oil-importing nations. That understanding came about only because Saudi Arabia, the nation that exports more oil than any other, agreed to raise its price by $2, from $28 to $30. The Saudi price had been $4 a barrel under the official OPEC price.

"Nevertheless, the other OPEC members agreed not to make any increases in price until the organization's next meeting on Dec. 15. If Nebraskans along with all Americans continue to use less gasoline than last year, OPEC prices might fall further."

"No actions of the federal government contributed much, if anything, to America's victory over OPEC. Credit belongs to millions of American families who decided on their own that they were spending too large a share of their budgets on gasoline."

"As a matter of fact, federal government inaction, or misguided action, has aided OPEC. Despite the fact that Congress has repeatedly ordered the Administration to fill the Louisiana underground reserves with oil, little has been put in. The federal government is using most of the funds from the so-called 'windfall profits tax' not for new sources of energy but to finance welfare schemes."

"If the laws of supply and demand are allowed to operate, and if Americans see that certain actions are in their own best interests, the people themselves can solve their problems — without government help and even despite government interference."

A Letter From
Gov. Charles Thone

A Help for Consumers

Who is a consumer? Every man, woman and child everywhere.

What is a consumer? A consumer is one who purchases, uses, maintains, and/or disposes of goods and/or services. That leaves no one out, does it?

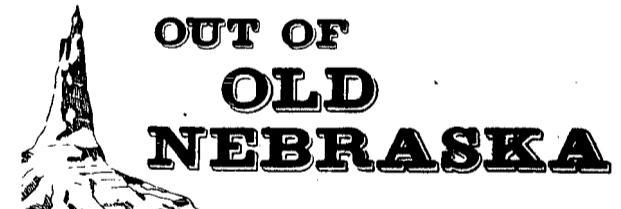

Each part of the process is complex — requiring knowledge, skill, imagination, ingenuity. In this day and age, most of us have many questions about each step.

Have you thought about using the Cooperative Extension Service in our county as a source of information for those questions? As a source of assistance in solving problems?

Each of Nebraska's 93 counties has access to the Cooperative Extension Service. You have, as close as your telephone, a ready source of reliable, factual information on topics of importance to Nebraska families. Home Economics programs are designed to meet the needs of families in local communities.

National Consumer Education Week is Oct. 5-11. In the proclamation signed by President Carter, it is stated that "America's economy is the largest and most complex in the history of the world. It offers an unparalleled choice of goods and services. For our economy to work best for our people, all of us must have the information and knowledge we need to make intelligent decisions as consumers."

Let the Cooperative Extension Service in this county be a source for that information and knowledge.

Nebraska State Historical Society

Nebraska preferred to Alaska, Texas

In the days before out-of-state travel was as frequent as it is now, letters from traveling Nebraskans were sometimes published in their hometown newspapers. Local residents, some of whom rarely left the county, were interested in the descriptions of the geography and climate of neighboring states as well as distant lands.

The July 21, 1901, weekly "Edgar Post," on file at the Nebraska State Historical Society, published a letter from Allie Meeker to his grandfather, A.W. Pratt, (which) will be of interest, and ought to make good hot weather reading:

"Nome, Alaska, July 13. — Dear Grandfather: I guess I am about as far away as it is possible to get on the North American continent, in the far-famed gold beach of Nome. It is truly a great place in many ways. There is not a tree or a shrub, or blade of grass growing within 500 miles of here, yet here is a city of 10,000 people, and a country for 200 miles square that is probably richer than the famous Klondike. . . ."

"Everything is excitement here all the time and new strikes of rich gravel are reported almost daily, and claims that are known to be good are selling from $10,000 to $250,000 apiece. Fortunes are being made, and fortunes sunk. One man has spent over a million and has not taken $100 from his claim yet. Many of the claims are very expensive to work on account of water. There is a million dollar pumping station being built here now to pump water all over the country for ten miles around to wash the gold with. Even drinking water has to be hauled ten miles and sells for 25 cents a pail. . . ."

"A pork chop costs $1, a cup of coffee and doughnuts 50 cents and other things in proportion and yet we call it a cheap camp. But I will write more later, as it is 3 a.m., and I have been writing since 10 p.m. and am tired. I have no lamp, but have been writing by daylight all night. Will write on my way home, as it is a fourteen days' trip by sea from here to Seattle, A.P. Meeker."

Ten years later the June 30, 1911, "Custer County Chief," published in Broken Bow printed under the headline "They Don't Like Texas" a letter from disgruntled Nebraskans Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Humphrey, "away on a trip to Vernon, Texas, where they went to attend the wedding of their son, Paul, to the daughter of a Texas congressman. While they have reason to like Texas people and no doubt endorse Paul's judgment of (the) Texas girl, they are not stuck on Texas weather. The following letter which the 'Chief' received from Gus yesterday morning would make almost any Custer County person feel that we are not so badly located after all:

"Vernon, Texas, June 25, 1911. Dear 'Chief': If you could take the essence of all the rotten days that Custer County has experienced in 25 years and compress it into one day and enter it into competition with June 24, 1911, at Vernon, Texas, the 24th of June at Vernon would get under the wire before the other day would reach the quarter post. Yesterday, the morning started warm and sultry before sunrise. The mercury rose to 106 by noon. The 'Gentle Gulf Breeze' increased to a stiff wind, and at three o'clock the mercury stood at 115 in the shade and the hot winds from the south scorched the country of 40 miles an hour. Every green thing perished, except early cotton and it curled up for the day. . . ."

"There is no hope for crops, except cotton. Corn, cantaloupes, muskmelons, watermelons — everything went out in that wind. Men congregated on the shady side of the street and talked. I drifted in among them and listened. They all agree that yesterday was a record breaker. Anyhow it beat anything I ever saw, and this red-souled country has the bluest citizens today. . . . Most of them, I have seen for many moons. Moral — There's no place like home. A.R. Humphrey"

Pat Gaster, Nebraska State Historical Society

Sept. 29, 1980

Dear Editor:

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

That is the Equal Rights Amendment. God and the Bible, men, President Carter nor Ronald Reagan defeated the ERA. WOMEN defeated the amendment for equal rights. Why? The amendment cleared Congress in March of 1972 with only eight dissents in the Senate and 24 in the House. Before the year was over, no fewer than 22 state legislatures had ratified the ERA. The 16 others needed for its adoption were expected to follow suit in 1973. THEN —

The Big Guns (women like Betty Friedan for example) began to talk as if, quite literally, it signaled a new era. They made the cause a militant cause of women's liberation. Guarantees purposely left vague in the wording of the amendment were now discussed in concrete terms. In specific terms (as one example) they began the use of Ms. for Mrs. and it was easy to imply that the title "Mrs." showed passive acquiescence to a subordinate condition. These "Big Guns" began to define the vagueness in the wording and therefore brought about the defeat of their own cause.

They have the Phyllis Schlaflys and the women who are housewives (and hesitant to air their underlying anxieties) the ammunition to destroy the legislation that would have given to all women the equal rights which they really should have.

The profession of housewifery (the most respected position or profession a woman can hold and rightly so if the race of men and women is to continue upon this planet) began to talk as though the ERA would destroy the family when really underneath what they are saying is that the "Big Guns" do not think the profession of housewifery respectable anymore. They (the housewives) did not relish the idea that to be respectable they must leave the homes and go to work.

Too late, the Big Guns are realizing that there are women who only want to be housewives and they want their profession to continue to be what it has always been — honorable and respectable. Schlafly represents these women. It is the saddest of the sad that the Big Guns could not have had the foresight to recognize this simple fact of life from the beginning of the ERA.

The ERA is a good amendment and it should have been passed for the sake of ALL women; they need it. When Pennsylvania put the ERA into effect in their state, 350 laws had to be changed in order for women to receive equal treatment under the law.

Men did not defeat the ERA. God did not defeat the ERA. The Bible did not defeat the ERA. Women defeated their own amendment. Maybe (and I pray sincerely that this will happen within my lifetime) on the next time around, the Big Guns will have more foresight and the Amendment all of us need will be passed

Dear Editor:

Will the Equal Rights Amendment add to the dilemma of this nation? Are women evil? I fail to see where any sane-thinking individual could use the Garden of Eden story to try to defeat the Equal Rights Amendment. I wonder just how that story would be written for today's world if it could be rewritten?

Eve was tempted and ate of the forbidden tree. Adam came along later and when offered a bite, took it. Eve, according to the story, was deceived while Adam sinned with his eyes wide open. Which is the worst sin today — falling into sin because of treachery or doing it on your own volition with your senses fully alert?

Isn't it about time to cease calling women evil and quit blaming them for all the transgressions of the world? Each individual is responsible for his or her own actions. Why blame someone else for one's mistakes?

The ERA will not destroy the family just as communism will not conquer the U.S. Families are destroyed because the parents of these families fail in their duties as disciplinarians. Parents are so busy going to different functions today, they do not stay home and have a family life anymore. Communism will not destroy the U.S. The U.S. if it fails, will cause its own destruction from within because of its greed, destruction of resources and just plain not doing what a person who loves his or her country should do.

How many times do you hear today the expression, "Well, the neighbor gets a check from the government, why shouldn't I?" or, "Let the other guy fight for the country."

The ERA has nothing to do as to who is stronger, men or women. It has to do with "equal rights" before the LAW. The ERA has nothing to do with courtesy. Men and women will and should treat each other in the same manner as always. The ERA has nothing to do with combat. When women fight in the front lines of the U.S. Army or whatever, this country will be on its last legs and the men will all be dead. Again, the ERA is merely "Equal Rights" before the law of this great land.

And since when shouldn't children have rights? I thought slavery disappeared from our land with the Civil War. Children have rights concerning understanding, compassion, security, food and freedom from abuse. They did not ask to be born.

I think that if Jesus were on earth, today, he would campaign for the ERA, because above all, our Christ was a humanitarian. He also liked kids.

County's Consumer Health Rep Up for Selection This Month

In October, 10 positions on the Northern Subarea Committee of the Greater Nebraska Health Systems Agency come up for election.

Elections for these positions will be held at the annual meeting of the Committee on Oct. 6. Nominations are open for any person, consumer or providers of health care, who would be interested in representing his county on issues relating to the health care delivery system.

The GNHSA is one of three agencies in Nebraska responsible for assessing the current health care delivery system and developing goals to improve it. This process begins at the local level, where county representatives on the Subarea Committee meet and discuss local health concerns.

The 30-member committee, representing 20 Northern counties, then forwards recommendations to the GNHSA Governing Board on matters of primary importance to the local citizens, including approval or disapproval of federal funding.

The first step in this process begins with the county representative. Persons interested in being nominated to the Northern Subarea Committee should contact Bonnie Nickle, Northern Subarea Coordinator, Box 1247, Norfolk, Neb. 68701, 402-371-7040.

The Health Systems Agency particularly seeks consumer representation of low income, female and handicapped individuals.

The current positions up for election are three providers representing Platte, Boone and Cedar counties. One consumer representative each will be elected from Pierce, Thurston, Boyd, Cherry, Keya Paha, Wayne and Colfax Counties. The following people are the current members from these counties:

Pierce County — Jim Stratton, consumer; Thurston County — Jean Karlen, consumer; Boyd County — Jack Darnell, consumer; Cherry County — Paul Hoefs, consumer; Keya Paha County — Lloyd Lawrence, consumer; Wayne County — Irene Jeffrey, consumer; Colfax County — Eileen Gerrard, consumer; Platte County — Dr. Charles Seeger, provider; Boone County — Teresa Anderson, provider; Cedar County — Pat Meierhenry, provider.

At the Oct. 6 meeting, the committee member will hear a report on two hypertension grants, the first is a $5,400 project for Burt and Washington Counties, the second for the Santee, Omaha and Winnebago Tribes for a total of $22,768.

A full review for a Certificate of Need requested by Columbus Community Hospital in Platte County will be conducted. An expenditure of $655,400 by the hospital is involved.

A report on Appropriateness Review for End Stage Renal Disease and Neonatal Intensive Care Services for the northern areas is scheduled.

Announcements and information on the implementation of health programs will include a new home health service for Nance County, and a private practice option for medical students with scholarship obligations to federal funding programs.

Representatives of the Norfolk Regional Center have also requested time on the agenda

College Level Exams Planned At Wayne State College Oct. 8

Oct. 4 will be the registration deadline for this month's College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examinations to be held on the Wayne State College campus on Wednesday, Oct. 8.

The CLEP program enables students to earn college credits by examination. Participants may sign up for one or more 90-minute exams to test their knowledge of specific areas. CLEP offers the opportunity to save both time and money in pursuing an education through recognition of your college level achievements.

Anyone can take CLEP exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions. To receive college credit for these exams at Wayne State College, you must either be currently enrolled or have completed admission requirements.

Individuals who have taken CLEP exams (particularly the subject exams) usually find that related introductory textbooks give a good overview of the area to be tested. If your local public library does not have this type of book, request it through an inter-library loan or simply visit the library of WSC.

Credit given through CLEP is entered on your record without grades and is not used in determining your grade point average. If you fail a CLEP exam, there is no official record made and it will not affect your transcript. The exam can also be taken again provided the appropriate fees are paid.

Wayne State places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP which are taken before the senior year.

Every institution which participates in CLEP establishes its own policy concerning (among other things) which exams are officially recognized and the minimum scores necessary before credit is granted. If you know that you will be transferring to another college in the future, it is a good idea to check with the Registrar of that institution for their CLEP policy. WSC will accept CLEP credit earned at another institution provided the exams are recognized for credit and the necessary scores were obtained.

CLEP tests are usually given on the second Wednesday of every month, however, it's a good idea to confirm test dates by calling 402-375-1317. Each exam takes about 90 minutes and the exam schedule is set up so that anywhere from one to four tests can be taken on the same day. Other dates/times can be arranged for CLEP exams as appropriate.

The fee for General and Subject Examinations (with or without essay or lab exam) is $20 for each examination. Scores are reported to you and the College four to eight weeks after the test date.

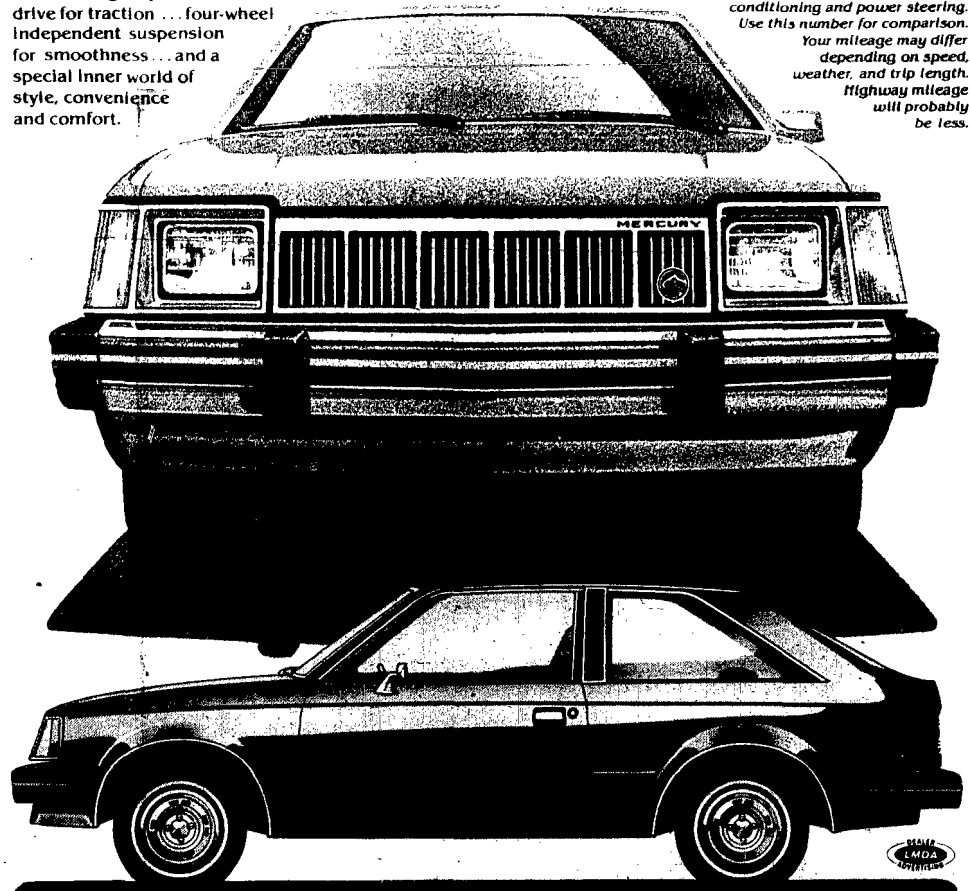

For more information call 375-1317, WSC Student Services Office.

Quality of Stored Grain A Concern

It's unlikely that storage space for this year's crop will be a problem, but quality of that grain and of stored grain is a continuing concern, according to members of the Extension Grain Storage Task Force which met Sept. 22.

Task force members reported that even though the supply of railroad cars has greatly improved, the turning capacity limits the fast movement of grain out of the farmer-owned reserve and the new harvest.

Jack Aschwege of the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said that in spite of the record wheat crop, production on all crops will be down about 15 percent compared to last year's production.

On-farm capacity of stored grain has increased by about 70 million bushels since last year. Harold Rademacher, of the Lincoln office of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said total on-farm capacity is about 1.2 billion bushels.

On-farm storage will continue to be important, because we just can't haul grain to market fast enough," said Rademacher, an advisor to the task force, which is a committee of the Cooperative Extension Service and the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Some problems with new crop and old crop stored grain are becoming apparent, according to extension specialists and others serving on the task force. Bob Anderson, executive vice president for the Nebraska Grain & Feed Dealers Association and the Nebraska Fertilizer Institute, said there are some unique problems with this year's crops.

"Many sorghum producers are combining chinch bugs," Anderson said. Chinch bugs in sorghum give it a vinegary smell, causing it to be sample grade, with discounts of up to 20 cents per hundredweight being assessed. Some farmers have tried feeding the affected sorghum, Anderson said, but it is unpalatable to poultry and also to livestock, depending on concentration.

Another problem is apparent in some areas of the state where bird-resistant milos are being mixed with other sorghums and are then subject to have discounts, Anderson added. The tannin coat on bird-resistant milo also make it unpalatable to poultry, he said.

Two problems with the excellent winter wheat crop are beginning to appear, according to Anderson. Soft red winter wheat varieties are being mixed with hard red winter wheat in some areas of southeast Nebraska. The soft variety is difficult to detect visually, but makes its presence known during the grinding process.

Extension agronomist Duane Foote, chairman of the task force and executive secretary of the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association, said the soft wheat creates problems in both the domestic and export markets. "Foreign buyers depend on our good bread wheat to blend with their own wheat for bread production," he said.

Wheat from poor production areas is showing up "whitish" in quality tests, Anderson said, and protein machines calibrated for normal wheat are grading it a lower protein level, although protein is not affected. Discounts of up to eight cents a bushel are being assessed in the northwest, Anderson said.

He noted that the quality of the corn crop is down considerably from last year, and is not grading as high. Farmers are in the field earlier than normal, with much ear droppage, he added.

Dave Keith, extension entomologist, noted that European corn borer damage is severe in many areas of the state this year. Parts in the west and northwest continue to require corn borer certificates for corn moving to those markets, he said.

A high incidence of smut also has prompted inquiries, according to Dave Wyson, extension plant pathologist. "So far as we know, there's no toxicity problem with common smut in feed or store grain," he said. Plant pathologists also are anticipating more stalk rot in corn and sorghum than in the last four or five years, Wyson said. "Timely harvest will help reduce losses," he said.

Some rosette and bird problems have become apparent, according to Bob Timm, extension vertebrate pest specialist and Ron Johnson, extension wildlife specialist. In isolated cases, rats are gaining entry to the bin subfloor through fan ducts. Timm encouraged farmers to close off the ducts when aeration is not in process. Grain can be condemned if it contains even a fairly low concentration of rodent or bird contamination, task force members said.

Rollie Schnieder, extension safety specialist, noted that three fatalities related to on-farm grain storage have occurred this year, with a number of additional persons receiving augur injuries. Milo dust has not shown up as a problem this year, he said.

Task force members noted that "the stage is set for potential problems with stored grain next year" because of the drought and severe insect problems this year.

Amaryllis for Christmas time
If you would like to have one of these flowers blooming during Christmas or later, now is the time. These are the steps you should take to produce the Christmas flower.

A new amaryllis bulb should be potted eight to 12 weeks before you want it to bloom. For Christmas blooming, October is the time to pot. For a continuous display, stagger the blooming by potting several bulbs over two-week intervals. Store the new bulbs in a dry place that stays approximately 60-65 degrees F.

When you pot amaryllis, use a standard pot that leaves an inch of room all around the bulb. A three-inch wide bulb will require a five-inch pot.

Position the neck of the bulb so it sticks above the rim of the pot. Cover the widest part of the bulb with potting soil and leave the top third of the bulb exposed. Water thoroughly. Use a potting soil that consists of equal parts of potting soil, peat moss and perlite.

When you're ready to start the bulb, expose the pot to a heat of 70-75 degrees F. Give the bulb this warm treatment for about three weeks. After the three week warm period, reduce the temperature to 65 degrees F to promote foliage growth. If you're unable to reduce the temperature, the bulb will bloom anyway.

After the amaryllis begins growth, it will require added sunlight and moisture. Place the plant in an east or west window

Story Says He Would Seek Ag Group Seat

Congressional candidate Rex Story said that if elected to Congress he would actively pursue a seat on the House Agricultural Committee.

"Agriculture must be a primary consideration for a representative from Nebraska and our current representative has not made it so. As your Congressman I would expect to be working for the farmer, and the first step would be to obtain a seat on the House Agricultural Committee. Those of the First District belonging to the agricultural sector have had too long without adequate representation and I would expect to change that when I'm elected," Story said.

Story also criticized his opponent for not actively seeking a seat on the House Agricultural Committee when he was elected two years ago.

"My opponent is a public administrator and an urban planner and subsequently sought seats dealing with urban affairs and public works, ignoring the needs of his constituents. He has not introduced any agricultural related bills or energetically fought for the farmer as he should have. If we are to have a Congressman who will work enthusiastically for Nebraskans, we must elect someone with an agricultural background, familiar with the problems and needs of the farmer."

Story emphasized his farming background and experience in expressing his qualifications to be a representative of the people of this state.

"As a young man I grew up farming in rural Lancaster County and still maintain close ties to the farm and to the people in the rural areas of Nebraska. I think this is highly important for the First District in order to better understand and relate to many obstacles facing the people of an agricultural state," Story said.

Pseudorabies A Continuing Threat

Producers and disease control officials can agree about pseudorabies: the disease is a continuing threat to swine production.

How to identify infected herds, how to control the swine disease and who is carrying the burden for eradicating the virus are questions all parts of the swine industry are asking.

Attempts to answer the major questions created by pseudorabies were made at an August 5th morning panel session during the 21st annual George A. Young Conference for Advances in SPF Swine Production held at the Nebraska Center in Lincoln.

SPF or specific pathogen free, is a state wide program for raising swine in a sterile environment, free from disease. There are 66 swine herds enrolled in the Nebraska program.

The Lincoln conference was sponsored by the Nebraska SPF Association and the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Department of Veterinary Science and Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Studies at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Participating in the panel session were Dr. John P. Kluge, professor and chairman of the Department of Pathology at Iowa State University's College of Veterinary Medicine. Dr. Burrell D. Spahr, deputy state veterinarian with the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, Jim Pappas, Hershey farrow to finish producer, Dale Barth of the Feeder Pig Co-op in Stanton, and Robert V. Craft, SPF breeding stock producer from Foster. The panel was moderated by Dr. Alex Hogg, IANR extension veterinarian.

In Nebraska, 120 new herds are infected each year, Hogg said, with 200 herds quarantined. In determining the number of infected herds that exist but have not been reported, Pappas estimated three or four times the 200 figure and Spahr said his office figures about half of the infected herds have been reported and are under quarantine. Barth said incentives, rather than penalties, are needed for producers "not to go underground with the disease."

Pigs, which apparently are the only carriers of the disease, pass it along through direct contact. Other species that become affected almost always die, but if they do survive they are not chronically affected.

Although the disease affects all pigs, death is more prevalent in suckling pigs.

The three federally licensed vaccines available, Kluge said, will reduce the disease's signs and the death rate but will not prevent infection or reduce or eliminate the virus from circulating in a swine herd.

"There is no single method of eradication," short of depopulation, thorough disinfection and repopulation with pseudorabies free animals that will guarantee success," Kluge said. In herds with less than 20 percent infection, alternative methods may be successful.

"After years of control by vaccination," Kluge added, "several foreign countries are currently attempting eradication on a national scale through the use of combinations of the (alternative) methods."

Pappas said the domestic vaccine program has hindered control and eradication by giving producers an easy way out. "I think we can eradicate it," he said.

"It's a matter of economics," Kluge said. "Is it cheaper to eradicate or is it cheaper to vaccinate and live with it? Nobody can guarantee you of any one method working."

Any eradication will not be done overnight, but efforts can be successful eventually, he said. "I think we're definitely obligated to eradicate pseudorabies," said Barth. "I think we can."

Craft suggested producers change to clean clothes when they go to town and take special care not to spread the disease to other herds.

Each producer must make the decision whether to vaccinate if his neighbor has an infected herd, the panelists said. Eradication is worthwhile in a herd even though a neighboring herd is infected, Pappas said, because cleaning up "will force your neighbor to clean up, too."

"Seedstock producers have to play a leading role in trying to maintain a pseudorabies-free herd," Craft said. "It's a difficult role to play, but someone has to be the leader."

Kluge said the burden of eradication has been carried by seedstock producers, but Pappas said other producers are sharing the burden.

"The seedstock producer is in a position to maintain a healthy herd for interstate movement," Craft said, "so it is a burden."

Spahr said the lack of uniformity among states on control programs will disappear when one state can develop a successful program. "I think if we know enough about it — we can eradicate it."

STOP MANURE RUNOFF

Pollution is a hazard when you handle large volumes of manure. There are times when you can't haul. There's also the risk of runoff and water pollution. The SLURRYSTORE System can put an end to manure problems. At the same time, a SLURRYSTORE System can work as a hedge against rising fertilizer costs, inadequate supplies or delivery problems.

Where Your Tax Dollar Goes For Taxing Districts in the County

COUNTY-ASSESSOR DORIS Stipp has announced certified mill levies for taxing districts within Wayne County. To help taxpayers understand where each dollar of their tax money goes, she has prepared a series of pies representing eight districts. Pies for Wayne-Carroll School District and the city of Wayne are located elsewhere in this issue. The pies explain where portions of each dollar goes in the particular taxing district as presented above. For example, in District 57, some 43 cents of every dollar goes for free high or non-resident tuition; 25 cents goes to support the school district; 24 cents to Wayne County; three cents for Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk; two cents for Natural Resources District; and one cent each for Educational Service Unit No. 1, the rural fire district and the County Fair board. A story on the 1980 mill levies is on front page of this issue.
