Garbage Is Topic Again

Adjourning suddenly at 10 p.m. Tuesday, the City Council took only one action as a result of continued negotiations involving demands by Wayne's Class A garbage haulers.

WHILE THERE were several motions considered, only one was approved. That one allows the haulers — Mrsny Sanitation Service and Wayne Refuse — to haul leaves, grass and burnable wood to a location other than the city's transfer station.

The special meeting was held partly to consider further garbage ordinance negotiations and to consider water system and sewage plant problems. For more information on these, see story elsewhere on this page.

The discussions Tuesday with the Class A haulers were the latest in a series of special meetings and attempts to reach agreement on four demands announced by Vern Russell and Frank Mrsny Oct. 13. The haulers held a 39-hour strike then, refusing to work until their demands were met.

HOWEVER, any serious garbage strike was averted when the city agreed to consider the demands. Several hours have been spent on the subject of garbage Oct. 14 during regular session, Oct. 15 at a special meeting and Tuesday night at another special meeting.

The abrupt ending to Tuesday's meeting came after a pair of motions failed, one as the result of a technicality.

The first motion, by Councilman Cliff Ginn, was to attempt, on a trial basis, an informal dumping schedule at the transfer station on all holidays, thus changing the current garbage ordinance. The haulers would notify the city's man-on-call in advance to be at the transfer station at a specific hour.

HOWEVER, City Attorney Ken Swarts recommended that Mayor Wayne Marsh rule the motion out of order since an ordinance cannot be amended by motion.

Ginn withdrew his motion and moved that attorney Swarts be directed to draw up an amendment to the existing ordinance that would revert to the holiday schedule of the original ordinance. This would mean the station would be open on all holidays, and the city would attempt a process of pre-arranged dump times by haulers for the remainder of the current calendar year.

This motion failed on a vote of 3-4, with Council members Larry Johnson, Darrel Fugelberth, Darrel Heier and Carolyn Filter. Volung yes were Keith Mosley, Ginn and Leo Hansen.

GINN THEN moved that the Council consider an adjustment of the current garbage fees being charged haulers and residents, seeking a more equitable difference between the $3.27 rate for haulers and the $2.50 rate for residents.

That motion failed also by a vote of 3-4 with Johnson, Fugelberth, Heier and Filter also voting against.

It was at that point that Councilwoman Filter moved for adjournment.

The concession made by the Council in its only motion that was approved will provide advantages to both the haulers and the city, officials agree.

The haulers will not be charged for the leaves, grass, etc., since the refuse will be taken to a location of their choice outside the city limits. The city will benefit since it will not be charged to have the grass, leaves, etc., hauled away to Norfolk by Community Refuse Inc.

THIS CONCESSION was a substitute for the haulers' first demand that Section 11, Paragraph 1 of the new garbage ordinance be eliminated. The section says that all refuse generated within the city limits shall be deposited at the transfer station. The haulers had asked that "shall" be changed to "may." The Council did not agree.

The second area of consideration Tuesday was hours of operation at the transfer station and holidays. It was this point that resulted in the failed motions and the adjournment.

A THIRD area of discussion involved rates and the other a $10 permit fee charged to persons outside the city limits and dumping at the transfer station.

During the discussion of rates, Mayor Wayne Marsh admitted that "maybe the city has been in error" on some of its figures, adding later that "we haven't done everything exactly right."

He noted that the city is new at operating a transfer station and only recently has had a full set of operating figures with which to work.

On the topic of the $10 permit fee, one official said that "the city is subsidizing the transfer station with about $8,000 each year and I don't think the country people should dump at the expense of the taxpayer. I don't think we should disallow the permit fee."

IT ALSO WAS pointed out that the city relies on the haulers to keep a list of $10 permit holders. If the haulers do not keep the list current, the ordinance becomes unenforceable. "We have to rely on the good faith of the haulers," it was noted.

Land Judging Contest Here

THE STATE Land Judging Contest was held southeast of Wayne Tuesday afternoon under sponsorship of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District and in cooperation with the Wayne County ASCS, SCS and Extension Offices. Some 150 Future Farmers of American and 4-H'ers and their coaches participated. The contest here was one of eight held throughout the state. Participants evaluated soil features, recommended land treatment practices and judged resident effectiveness for erosion control. The soil's features were judged for depth favorable to rooting, surface soil texture, permeability of subsoil, thickness of the surface soil, how wet the soil is and whether it floods, its slopes, organic matter content and how badly it has been eroded. The top club teams in the state contest are eligible to attend the international contest in Oklahoma City next May.

Another Superior

WAYNE-CARROLL High School Marching Blue Devils took a superior rating Saturday at the annual Wisner Pilgrimage Invitational Marching Band Contest in Wisner. There were seven bands that earned the coveted superior rating. Some 14 bands participated. Presenting the trophy to Wayne was Wisner Pilgrimage High School Principal Dr. Duane Anderson. From left are Anderson, Wayne Majorettes Tracy Otte and Stacy Marsh and Band Director Ron Dalton. In back is band president Todd Skokan.

Messersmith to Speak At Feeders Banquet

Rex Messersmith, communications director for the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, will be the featured speaker for the ninth annual Farmer-Businessmen's Banquet here Nov. 15.

THE EVENT will start with a social hour at the Fire Hall at 6 p.m. The banquet scheduled at Wayne State College Student Union will begin at 7 p.m., according to Bob Jordan, chairman of the event for the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Messersmith brings a lifetime of communications experience with his appearance, having served as Farm Director for Radio Stations KRNV in Lexington, and WNAX in Yankton, S.D., for a total of nearly 25 years.

He currently is heard twice each weekday on KTCH-AM and FM radio, with his reports on the Nebraska Broadcasting System network.

Rex Messersmith

HE WAS born and reared on a purebred Hereford ranch near Alliance which is still operated by his brothers. Messersmith graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and served on the Cooperative Extension Service staff as assistant extension editor in radio and television.

City Water, Sewer Pose Problems

Two major projects which will cost the city of Wayne thousands of dollars moved a little closer to reality Tuesday night at a special meeting of the City Council.

DENNIS Hirschbrunner, engineer for Bruce Gilmore & Associates of Columbus, briefed the Council on the deteriorating water supply situation and on progress of a grant for construction of a sewage treatment plant.

The water problem is the most serious since the city is now being served by just one good well. Several weeks ago, the city's other good well — No. 7 — began pumping air. Subsequent investigation found that the water table of the aquifer had fallen several feet over the past few years.

As a result, the Council authorized the engineers to begin proceedings for drilling two new test wells — one on the east edge of Wayne and the other on the west edge.

ACCORDING to Hirschbrunner, cost of the test wells will be about $3,000 total. Once the required health department tests have been made, the city is expected to proceed with drilling at least one production well at an estimated cost of $80,000. This includes contingency fees, engineering costs, electrical work and connecting pipe.

The Council also is expected to consider a plan which will improve the pumping capacity of wells No. 4, 5, 6 and 7. Only No. 6 is providing adequate gallonage.

Hirschbrunner said the primary reason for the sudden loss of water at well No. 7 is inadequate rainfall and snow melt over the past year. This has resulted in "ground water mining" where water is lost and not replaced.

THE WATER level in the glacial aquifer has fallen 10 to 15 feet over the last five years. Normally, the draw down is about a foot but is replaced.

A factor which also contributed to the lower water table is irrigation wells which are draining the aquifer as well.

"We have some major problems with the aquifer itself as well as the wells and pumps," Hirschbrunner explained.

A spokesman for Layne Western Drilling Co. told the Council that the water table was at 47 feet when the well was drilled several years ago. It has since dropped to 57 feet and now is at 65 feet.

HE CONCURRED with Hirschbrunner that rainfall and snow melt have not provided enough water to maintain the aquifer's water level. "I would hope to see that rainfall and snow will help it recover," he said.

Even if the Wayne area experiences normal rain and snow amounts this year, however, "the water tables wouldn't recover to the point of a year ago," the Layne Western engineer explained.

"More water has been taken out of the aquifer than mother nature has been able to replace," he said.

Hirschbrunner said the well settings in Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7 should be lowered to provide better pumping capacity and to allow a grace period during which one or two new wells can be drilled. Regardless, however, the city will only be able to have several small capacity wells rather than one or two wells that pump large capacities.

COST OF lowering the well settings on Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7 will be about $7,000. This includes an acid bath for well No. 6 which is partially clogged by iron deposits.

Hirschbrunner explained that by improving the capacity of wells No. 4 through 7, the city will be brought back up to the pumping capacity it had a year ago. Any expansion of the system to help meet additional water distribution problems will have to include new wells.

In response to a question by Councilman Cliff Ginn, the Layne Western expert said the cost of constructing a new well will rise about 10 percent each year if it is delayed.

WHATEVER THE cost, improvements in the water system "probably will result in a moderate hike in water rates," Hirschbrunner said.

Council members also were told they "need to look into a method of limiting the production of wells on the city's aquifer by irrigation systems."

News involving the city's proposed sewage treatment was of a more positive type.

The Environmental Protection Agency has given initial approval to construction of a biological disk type of sewage system here. Because of the EPA decision, the Council now can move to Phase II of the project and apply for and receive a grant for design of the system.

THE TREATMENT plant is a federal requirement and funds other than city funds will make up about 87 percent of the total project cost, Hirschbrunner said.

The Council gave some consideration to an alternate type of treatment plant based on a history of mechanical problems with the bio disk type. However, the engineer assured the Council that the failure rate is minimal — 2 percent — and that an extended guarantee will be sought when the equipment is purchased.

Council members stayed with the bio disk type which will save about $9,000 in operation and maintenance costs compared to the activated sludge type of system.

IN OTHER ACTION, the Council approved payment of $27,723 to Concrete Specialties Inc. of South Sioux City for work on Hillside Drive, Thorman Street and extension of Sixth Street behind El Toro.

The Council also heard an opinion from City Attorney Ken Swarts that the city can legally terminate a contract with DeWild, Grant, Recker, an engineering firm which has been inspecting work at Sunnyview Subdivision.

Instead, Gilmore & Associates will do the inspection work on an hourly basis.

All members except Sam Hepburn were there.

Conway Responds to Challenge

(Editor's Note: District 17 State Senate candidate Merle Von Minden and his campaign manager John Kingsbury issued a challenge to candidate Gerald Conway after an Oct. 13 public forum.)

In response to a challenge by 17th District State Senate candidate Merle Von Minden, Gerald Conway, candidate for the same office, has charged Von Minden with attempting to deceive the voting public.

VON MINDEN'S challenge came a few days after a public forum in Wayne featuring both candidates. Sponsored by the Wayne Jaycees, the evening event was billed as a "Get Out the Vote" forum.

The challenge was for Conway to explain to voters "where he expects to raise the $5,000 or $6,000 he said he plans to spend in the general election."

In the waning moments of the forum, the candidates were asked who their major campaign contributors were. Von Minden said he did not know, but Conway was able to provide Von Minden and the audience with the information.

IN CONWAY'S rebuttal issued Monday, he said that "although I have concerns regarding the special interest groups that are supporting my opponent, my first concern was Merle's attempt to deceive the people when he was asked who was supporting him. He stated that 'just who they all are I don't know for sure and I can't give you the amounts for sure.'"

Conway pointed out that "this information is not only a matter of public record, but also was fully explained during the public forum in Wayne. In the debate format, Merle had every opportunity to ask, if he did not understand my position. Likewise, John (Kingsbury, Von Minden's campaign manager) was in attendance and could have forwarded similar questions at that time."

"FOR THE general public, however, I welcome the opportunity to clear the air regarding some misconceptions associated with this campaign," Conway said.

Since candidates are required by law to submit disclosure statements that are signed and notarized, Conway said his opponent was hiding the facts.

"This new-found pride in his supporters certainly was not evident when he was first asked the question," the Wayne State College instructor said.

WHEN Conway was asked during the forum about his support, he explained that $1,500 was contributed by the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) to his primary campaign. He added that more than $200 also was contributed by individual citizens in the district.

In direct response to the Von Minden challenge, Conway said he has filed disclosure statements with the Accountability Commission and the Wayne County Clerk's Office. He added that he once again every media source and every interested citizen to go to the Courthouse and read these statements.

REGARDING THE upcoming general election, Conway said he has received and reported $1,400 as of the Oct. 13 filing date and that the NSEA has offered up to $2,500 toward his general campaign. He noted, however, he has not accepted any funds from the NSEA for the general election and may not if individual contributions continue to be made.

A more recent financial report has been sent to the Accountability Commission covering contributions made before Oct. 15. Conway said "this report shows total receipts of $2,450 plus the $2,500 pledge made by the NSEA."

Conway went on to say that "there seems to be a great deal of unwarranted concern over the support I have received from NSEA. In the past, NSEA has supported many other Nebraska political candidates such as Doug Bereuter in 1974, Richard Marvel in 1976 and Eloy Helmer in 1980. Gov. Charles Thone was supported by the NSEA to the tune of $4,265.85 in 1978. Conway added.

"AS I indicated during the forum, I have a budget that ranges between $5,000 and $6,000 and feel this amount is sufficient to take my campaign to the people. My opponent's remarks that he does not have a budget out and would 'spend whatever I can take in' is, in my opinion, irresponsible."

"As far as collecting the necessary funds to support my campaign, I feel we are right on target and will be able to match receipts with expenditures just as we projected in our budget," Conway remarked.

In addition, Conway said "those of you who are familiar with my campaign organization realize that the majority of the effort has been undertaken by myself and my campaign treasurer. We have not, nor will we attempt to deceive the public by stalling disclosures of contributions. I object to this attack on the professional integrity of myself or my friends."

"I HOPE WE can now return to the issues and the question of which candidate possesses the depth of understanding regarding legislative impact, the will of the people and the ability to communicate our interests within our state government," he concluded.

Bond Interest Rates Up

The Treasury Department has raised the interest rate paid on all new issues of U.S. Savings Bonds by one percent effective Nov. 1. Beverly Etter, vice president of State National Bank & Trust Company said today. Mrs. Etter is the Savings Bonds volunteer chairman for Wayne County. In addition, all Series E, EE, H and HH Bonds and Savings Notes now outstanding have had their interim yields increased by one percent to their next maturity, she said. More than $70 billion worth of Savings Bonds are now outstanding. The new interest rate is eight percent for Series EE Bonds held to a nine-year maturity. The interim yields on these Bonds have also been improved to 5.5 percent after one year and 7.5 percent after five years. Series HH Bonds will now earn 7.5 percent to their 10-year maturity. The rate increase was made possible by legislation permitting the Secretary of the Treasury, with the President's approval, to raise Savings Bonds interest rates by up to one percent during any six-month period. The rates previously in effect were seven percent on EE Bonds held 11 years, and 6.5 percent on HH Bonds held 10 years. Depending on market conditions, the Treasury says, a further rate increase of up to one percent may be made as early as May 1, 1981.

Human Rights Conference

Wayne State College will have a conference on human rights and political reality on Wednesday, Oct. 29. Allen O'Donnell, director of programs at WSC's Public Affairs Institute, announced that the centerpiece for the conference will be Jesse Clear from the U.S. State Department, Washington, D.C., currently Human Rights Officer for North Africa, the Middle East and South Asia. Clear recently completed a tour of Labor Attache in Tunisia. He reported extensively on the labor, political and human rights situation during that country's confrontations between the national union and the central government which led to a general strike, widespread riots and bloodshed, severe government repression and human rights violations.

Between 1975 and 1977, Clear was career counselor for foreign service administration officers at the junior level. He also served as an examining officer for foreign service officer candidates. Over the previous four years, 1970 through 1974, he served in Brazil, first in Recife and later in Sao Paulo. This period was marked by terrorism and repression unique in Brazilian history. During these tours, Clear provided the government with continuing analyses of labor opposition, terrorism from the left and government brutality from the right. Before joining the foreign service in 1969, Clear worked as a miner, six years as a merchant seaman and radio officer, as a free-lance investigator in cases involving admiralty law and civil rights violations, as an ocean marine underwriter, and as a contract administrator for the Saturn V space program. In addition to Clear will be Dr. Jackie St. Johns, professor of history, University of Nebraska/Omaha, and Dr. Lloyd Ambrosius, professor of history, University of Nebraska/Lincoln. All are directly involved with the humanities and will be part of the conference.

Mayor Proclaims National Business Women's Week

Mayor Wayne Marsh signed a proclamation recently in observance of National Business Women's Week, Oct. 19-25.

Members of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) are joining in the salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to economic, civic and cultural purposes.

In the proclamation, Mayor Marsh urges all citizens in Wayne, civic and fraternal groups, educational associations, the news media and other community organizations to join in honoring the nation's 43 million working women.

Mrs. Roberta Wette, president of the Wayne BPW, said the flood of women into the labor market has been called the single most outstanding phenomenon of our century. "The sheer numbers of women in the workforce is astounding," said Mrs. Wette, noting that women constitute more than two-fifths of all workers.

Mrs. Wette said the BPW is made up of women committed to improving the quality of their lives. "We have long been leaders in the struggle for equal opportunity so that we may be full partners in the economic life of our nation," she added.

Mrs. Wette noted that the BPW is committed to opening doors and expanding options and improving conditions for women. "We have committed ourselves to the ideal of freedom of choice for all adults, so that women and men alike can set their educational and occupational goals in accordance with their interests and abilities."

Persons interested in learning more about the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club are invited to call Mrs. Wette. The group meets once a month.

Johar Named President Of Bargaining Association

Faculty members at Wayne, Peru and Kearney State Colleges have voted to be represented by the State College Education Association, marking the end of a three-year, court-imposed cutoff of collective bargaining.

Chadron's faculty was authorized by the Nebraska Supreme Court to have a separate election.

Niney-three percent of those voting on the three campuses Tuesday chose the association in an election supervised by the Nebraska Commission for Industrial Relations (CIR). The vote was 199 to 15.

Named president of the Wayne-Peru-Kearney State College Education Association was J.S. Johar, a professor of chemistry at Wayne State. Named vice president of the newly-formed group was Dr. Jess C. Enns of Kearney State College.

The CIR will schedule a runoff election to determine whether Chadron teachers have the association or no agent. Results of the vote at the other three campuses will become final three days after the certification if no appeal is filed by the teachers or the State Colleges board of trustees.

THE BALL bounced the wrong way for the Wayne State Wildcats Saturday as WSC lost a CSIC game to Pittsburg. Here, a Pittsburg defender knocks the ball away from quarterback Ken Neuström.

Gorillas Trample Cats With 2nd Half Explosion

By Diana Daniels
Wayne State SID

The Wayne State College Wildcats slipped back to the .500 mark last weekend and may have ended their bid for a high finish in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. The Wildcats lost 37-7 to the Pittsburg State Gorillas last Saturday. Coming into the game the Wildcats and the Gorillas were tied for second place with 2-1 conference records. The loss gives the Wildcats a 2-2 CSIC record and 3-3 overall record. The win gives the Gorillas a 3-1 CSIC record and 5-2 overall.

The Wildcats got on the scoreboard first late in the first quarter on a 17-yard pass from Rick Lade to Jeff Ingrim. The score was set up after middle guard Troy Thein blocked a Pittsburg punt on the 27 and defensive back Steve Alaman recovered the ball on the Pittsburg 20-yard line. It took the Cats two plays to score. Gary Cook added the PAT to give the Cats their only lead and only score of the afternoon.

Pittsburg scored early in the second quarter on a 24-yard field goal by Joe Ballou. Pittsburg scored again on what should have been a Wildcat possession. The Gorillas punted the ball but the Cats never gained possession. On a freak play, the ball bounced off the helmet of a Wildcat player, was picked out of the air by John Pringle of the Gorillas and returned 46 yards to the Wayne State four-yard line. From there it was only a matter of handing the ball to Richard Overton for the score. Joe Ballou added the PAT to make the score 10-7 at the half.

The second half was exciting, if you were a Pittsburg fan. A combination of Wildcat fumbles and Pittsburg interceptions kept the Wildcat defense out on the field most of the half and set up three of the four touchdowns the Gorillas scored in the second half. The bright spot in the half was the performance of the Wildcat defense in the face of defeat. Wildcat defenders broke through to the Pittsburg quarterback seven times for a total of 39 yards lost.

The Cats will be on the road this weekend against conference opponent Emporia State. The Emporia State Hornets are 1-3 in the CSIC and 2-5 overall. Last weekend the Hornets played Kearney State at Kearney and lost 12-0 in a tough fought game. This game is Emporia's homecoming and game time is set for 2 p.m.

Wayne State's offense was shut down during most of the game. The Wildcats, who entered the game as the nation's fourth leading passing team averaging 227 yards passing per game, had only 113 yards in their air against the Gorillas. Pittsburg was in the cellar of the CSIC in pass defense, giving up some 206 passing yards a game. Leading receivers were Jeff Ingrim and Pat Maxwell.

Wayne's defensive leaders were Steve Hawkins with 13 total tackles including three quarterback sacks, Steve Dennis with 13 tackles, Ron Berrle with 13 tackles, Tony Scudder with 11 tackles and one quarterback sack, Ron Gilbert with 10 tackles and a blocked punt, Jim Morgan with nine tackles and two sacks and Ken Kohloff with nine tackles.

Allen 2nd in Division

The Allen Eagles wrapped up second place in their conference by defeating Lewis Division foe Homer 15-3, 15-7. Tuesday night Walthill won the Lewis title.

"We played real well just as we have in our last three matches," said Allen coach Gary Troth. "We're peaking and we're looking forward to districts."

The victory improved Allen's record to 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the Lewis Division of the Lewis and Clark Conference. All three losses were recorded against Walthill.

The Eagles had 17 ace spikes in the two game match and had a serving efficiency mark of 97 percent.

Freshman Tami Jewell scored 14 points and junior Janet Peterson added seven points to lead the scoring. Peterson, Lisa Erwin and Sonya Ellis were the leading net players. Leading setters were Colette Kraemer and Des Williams.

"We controlled the net. Our front line did a real good job. Troth said. "Setters don't always get much credit but ours did a tremendous job. They set the ball up in ideal spots to spike."

Two starters missed the match due to illness but Jewell and Carmin Lubberstedt "filled in real well" according to Troth.

The Eagles will finish their regular season by hosting Coleridge Tuesday. District action is scheduled to begin Nov. 3 at Pender. All Conference teams will be announced next week.

In B team action, Allen defeated Homer 11-0, 11-5. The reserves extended their string of consecutive points to 41. They defeated Newcastle 15-0, 15-0 last week and scored the first 11 points against Homer before giving up a point.

Machelle Harder, Pam Kavanaugh and Lisa Hanser were the leading players in that match.

Allen also won its C team match 11-14, 11-4. Shelly Williams, Lisa McDonald and Shellee Smith were leading players for the C team.

Finals: Hartington CC defeated Lakeview 15-12, 15-9.

C.C. Tops Wayne Frosh

The football season came to a close for the Wayne freshmen Tuesday afternoon in West Point. The Blue Devils lost their season finale 17-6 to West Point Central Catholic.

Wayne scored on its first possession of the game by driving the ball 50 yards for a touchdown. Layne Lueders capped the drive with an 18 yard run to score the TD.

West Point's two touchdowns came on runs of one yard later in the third quarter.

"We didn't play too badly but sometimes it's hard to win. Wayne coach Duane Blumenkamp. "We had some chances to score but made a few crucial mistakes. Overall, we played pretty well and the players showed the desire to win."

Leading rusher was Blaine Jones with 80 yards. Defensively, Jones had 11 tackles and Chad Janke and Brian Loberg had nine tackles each. Quarterback Layne Marsh completed six of 11 passes for 43 yards.

Lady Cats in Action

The Wayne State volleyball team played five matches during the past week, faring better against non conference opponents than it did against their conference opponents.

The Lady Wildcat varsity defeated Midland 15-10, 16-14, 15-2 in three straight games Tuesday.

Over the weekend the Lady Wildcats traveled to Kearney to play three matches against conference opponents. WSC dropped a match against Kearney State in three straight games 5-15, 11-15 and 9-15.

The Lady Cats reversed the trend to down Emporia State in three straight games, 15-13, 15-5 and 15-13.

The last match of the weekend for the Lady Cats was against Missouri Southern. Wayne State took this match out to four games, dropping the first two games of the match 13-15 and 5-15 before they could rally to win the third 15-12. The fourth game was the deciding game of the match which Southern won 15-7.

The Lady Wildcats are now 2-9 in Central States Intercollegiate Conference play and 10-17-3 overall. They are on the road again this weekend when they travel to Topeka, Kan. to play conference matches against Washburn University, Ft. Hays State and Missouri Southern. Next home matches are scheduled Tuesday, Oct. 28 against non conference opponents Westmar and Northeast Tech.

Winside Loses Match

Clark Division foe Hartington handed Winside's volleyball team a 15-13, 15-2 loss Tuesday night in Hartington.

Laurie Gallop was Winside's leading scorer with six points. Gallop also increased her season total of ace spikes to 65. Joni Jaeger continued her streak of successful sets, increasing her mark to 98 good sets in 99 at temps.

"Our front row is really doing well but our back row isn't," Winside coach Paul Sok said.

In reserve action, Winside defeated Hartington 7-11, 11-4, 14-12. Daria Janke was Winside's leading server with 15 points.

Hartington won the C team match 11-1, 10-12, 11-1. Lori Schrant scored seven points for the Wildcats.

Atamian Shares His Duties with Family and Team

Steve and daughter Tiffany.

by Randy Hascall

Splitting duties between studies, athletics and a family isn't easy. Wayne State College free safety Steve Atamian knows first-hand.

Atamian came to Wayne State College from Schaumburg, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, in the fall of 1977. He was recruited by WSC defensive coordinator Ralph Barclay and offered a scholarship. The other schools that had contacted Atamian wanted him to walk-on.

"I wanted to move on and see the Midwest. Wayne State was the only college that offered me a scholarship," Atamian said. "In high school I was a defensive end. Coach Barclay said that his free safety had graduated and told me he needed someone to fill the position. I was pretty excited about it."

Atamian lived in Morey Hall for two years, then married and moved to a trailer court in Wayne. He and his wife Cindy now are the proud parents of a one-year-old daughter, Tiffany Rose.

"Making it through college with a family isn't the easiest thing in the world," Atamian said. "It was an adjustment just coming to college in a small town. During my freshman year I enjoyed playing ball but my grades weren't the best. My wife really helped me in that area.

"Fortunately, my association with the Second Guessers (Wayne State's booster club) helped her get a job at First National Bank. The Second Guessers are a great help to athletes in general," said Atamian

"They're responsible for many scholarships and we really appreciate their support."

Although Steve is a senior and plans to graduate with a teaching degree in physical education, the Atamian family doesn't plan to leave Wayne for awhile. Cindy—a business major, has two more years of school left.

How did Cindy react to the move from metropolitan Illinois to rural Nebraska? "She fell in love with this area," said Steve. "She adjusted real well. Friends are so easy to make in this area."

Steve has been playing football since he was eight years old. When this season is over, he will really miss it, he said. "I really enjoyed playing here. When I first came to college I thought the level of football here would be lower than it is."

Atamian will be missed by coaches, players and fans when his playing days are over. He was a four-year starter at Wayne State and missed only one game in his college career, that absence due to an injury.

At Schaumburg High School, Atamian earned all-area and all-conference honors as a defensive end. At Wayne State, the 6-1, 172-pound defensive back is well known as "Afa" or "number 31". He has earned all-state and all-conference honors as a Wildcat.

As free safety and co-captain, Atamian's duties include calling defensive signals, setting up routes and keeping things in order, as well as making key defensive plays.

"Football really takes its toll physically but I really enjoyed it," said Afa. "The people we met in the community and at the college will be missed the most."

Atamian said that when he and his family decide to move, they don't plan to go back east. "There aren't too many good areas to raise a daughter back there. We want to move west but not as far as California. We're looking for a town not a city."

Atamian drags down the opposition.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

I KNEW IT was too good to be true. The near ideal football weather could only last so long.

After four consecutive Friday nights of nice weather, we got our first hint of winter a week ago. But that wasn't too bad. However, it was a different story Friday night. Between the wind and cold, it just wasn't a very nice evening to watch a game or compete in one.

Remembering my lack of preparation for last season's eskimo-cold weather, especially at the Wayne-West Point CC game, I quickly dug out my long Johns, stocking cap and gloves. People kid me about never dressing warmly enough, but I'll be darned if I'm ever going to let my shutter finger freeze to a camera again.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Wayne cross country team and good luck at state. I had full confidence in the team and was all but sure they would win districts. Now, the tough one is ahead.

It's a long trip to Kearney but I'm sure that some of the runners' parents will be making the trek. A detailed first hand account will be published in The Wayne Herald when I return from the state meet.

THE QUESTION facing cross country fans is "How will Wayne do at state?" Doug Proett and Steve Monson are bound to be near the top in the individual competition. Both runners are experienced and have had a spectacular season.

No one-two punch in the state can keep up with these two in a head to head battle. But to place high in the team race, it takes more than two good runners.

Wayne is fortunate to have three other runners who are capable of running 5,000 meters in a good time. Henric Olsson, Jeff Baier and Joel Mosley will be the deciding factors in Wayne's quest for a strong team finish.

It's impossible to predict how well the Blue Devils will do at state against 17 other teams. The key is how well Wayne's third and fourth runners will compare with other teams' third and fourth runners.

NSAA FOOTBALL statistics received Monday show that the Class C-2 district 2 standings are still bunched up.

Windside, with a win over Wakefield last Friday, is on top with 41.4 points. Leigh, 32, is second with 40 points, Wakefield is third with 38.5 points and Hartington is fourth with 37.1 points.

The big matchup this week was actually played last night (Wednesday) but results were much too late for publication in this paper (we go to press Wednesday after noon).

Windside was scheduled to host Hartington to determine the Clark Division champion. A Windside win would clinch the division title and place the Wildcats close to a state berth. A win by Hartington would put the two teams in a tie at the top of the conference and open up the race for the state playoffs. Entering the vital Lewis and Clark battle, Hartington and Windside were ranked ninth and 10th respectively in The Omaha World Herald's Class C ratings.

When the going got tough, the Laurel Bears finally got going.

Laurel's volleyball team ended a losing streak of 10 matches by upsetting powerful Walthill 15-11, 17-15, Tuesday night in Walthill. The loss dropped Walthill's record to 14-2.

"We put it all together. It was our best performance of the season," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "The girls decided they didn't want to lose any more. It was a total team effort. We seem to be peaking at the right time."

The Bears were winless entering Tuesday's match but got the win over one of their most successful opponents. Iverson said that his team forced mistakes but added that Walthill also had an off night.

Key Anderson and Cyndi Jonas were the leading scorers for Laurel with 9 and 8 points respectively. It was Laurel's best team performance of the season.

Walthill won the B team match 8-15, 15-12, 15-5. Renee Gadeken scored eight points and had a good floor game to lead Laurel.

Next action for Laurel is scheduled on the home court against Hartington Cedar Catholic, next Thursday. Districts are scheduled Nov. 3, 4 and 5 at Laurel.

HELP!! HELP!! HELP!!

VOTE AGAINST PROP #4 on November 4th

Prop #4 is a proposed amendment to the Nebraska Constitution which will appear on the General Election Ballot!

Voter approval of Prop #4 will result in shifting the final responsibility for the state's school districts organizational structure and the determination of state tax collections for supporting our public school system away from the State Legislature and transfer them to the Nebraska State Supreme Court.

Such a massive transfer of final authority over the formation, operation and public funding of the school system, from our elected State Legislators, will have a profound effect on the historical concept of rule by consent of the governed, through elected representation. Voter approval of Prop #4 will bring to a close our form of self rule through government which is "of the people, by the people and for the people". We will have placed ourselves under the absolute rule of the Courts and rule by edict.

WHY? ... Because by design Proposition #4 contains no definition of terms. The phrases under which the mandate and ultimatum is given direct a total revamping of every aspect of the state's public schools.

Prop #4 is, then, a revolutionary concept which by design will destroy the present local-state school partnership by substituting absolute state centralized control for school decisions. It will replace the local authority to make decisions to solve local school problems under which our schools operate presently.

The trap is set! The bait is a temporary reduction in property taxes. After the trap is sprung, our total tax bill to support our schools can be expected to skyrocket. This statement is supported in historical trends based on actual experiences.

Is this what Nebraska taxpayers and voters expect and really want? We believe the answer is "NO"; but that is what they will get, if they are taken in and become caught in the clever trap which has been set for them in Prop #4.

Unless we are able to enlist your help, along with thousands of others, there is a substantial chance that Prop #4 will become the supreme school law of the state and render nearly every existing school law unconstitutional.

Such a prospect is too horrendous to even begin to contemplate. The repercussions will be as devastating to and as destructive of our elected representative form of government as if it were blown apart by a nuclear explosion.

VOTE AGAINST PROP #4 ... Call at least five registered voters and ask them to vote against Prop #4 and ask them to call at least five more voters and so on.

At this late date, this is the only chance we have to defeat Proposition #4 on November 4th.

Paid for by S.O.S. Senator Don Dienes; Chairman G.M. Ziegler; Board: J. T. Tolson, P.O. Box 81799, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501.

Candidate Night Planned

This event is another first for the MCCA. The Maple Creek Concerned Citizens Association (MCCA) in a letter recently invited candidates of the eight sub-districts of the Lower Elkhorn NRD to participate in a candidates night on Oct. 26 at the Bishop Neumann Social Hall in Clarkson.

"What better way to inform people of the Lower Elkhorn than to hold a candidates night," Rita Shonka, a member of the MCCA, said.

"The people of the 13-county area should know what all the candidates views are and how it will affect their lives, whether they are city dwellers or conscientious farmers," Rita continued.

The people in the entire Lower Elkhorn NRD will have the opportunity to vote for all the candidates in the eight sub-districts. The district consists of the following counties in part or in whole: Pierce, Wayne, Thurston, Madison, Stanton, Cuming, Burr, Colfax, Dodge, Platte, Dixon, Cedar and Knox. "The MCCA is an organization of farmers and businessmen in the Maple Creek Watershed" who have successfully sought a voluntary accelerated land treatment program to replace a LENRD project of 28 dams.

We Urge You to Vote

This is a presidential election year. As we head toward the general election in November, let's make it an election that will let the world know Americans value their freedoms.

The American Legion again this year is participating in the "Get Out The Vote" campaign. The Legion has been on record since 1920 urging all Legionnaires to exercise their patriotic duty.

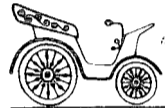

But the Legion has found, just as the candidates have, it's a tough task getting Americans to exercise their right to vote, particularly during presidential election years.

Inquiring into this dilemma, all kinds of explanations are offered, but none of the excuses offered stands up under analysis. One vote, for example, can decide an election and frequently has.

President Harry Truman won the 1948 election, but would have lost if he had not carried California and Ohio, and he did that by less than one vote per precinct. In the same year, Texas sent Lyndon Johnson to the Senate by a majority of only 87 votes. In the 1960 presidential election, the late John F. Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon for the highest office in the land by a hairline margin, averaging less than one vote per precinct. That year there were 166,137 election precincts in the United States, and his plurality was only 118,550. If some of those people who thought their vote wouldn't count, had voted, the results of these elections might have been different.

This is America... and we live the American way of life. But unfortunately one of the frailties of human nature is to take for granted the blessings that are given to us. Perhaps, as Legionnaires, we value them more. The American Legion is made up of over 2.6 million veterans who value freedom because we have experienced the hardships and pain of having to fight for it.

We as Legionnaires should gladly assume the obligation of helping to point out the one way all Americans can safeguard that freedom now. That one way is the way to the polls in the upcoming state primaries and the general election.

WAY BACK WHEN

30 years ago
October 26, 1950 Official totals on money received at the annual Wayne 4-H and FFA auction are reported to be $15,898, according to County Agent Don Warner. Mr. and Mrs. John Bressler Pender narrowly escaped serious injury last week when a blowout caused their car to leave the road landing on its side in a ditch on Highway 21 near Norfolk. Dr. Howard Tempero, WSTC dean, will preside at the general session leading off the 28th annual NE Nebraska district teachers' convention in Norfolk today. Corn storage bins in the Wayne area are now nearing completion. Five new 40,000 bushel bins are up at Wayne. Five at Wakarusa will be finished soon and work is going ahead on three at Winside.

The place is farmed by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schreiber. Mrs. F.A. Midner, Wayne city librarian, was elected Nebraska Library Association president at the group's annual convention recently at Scottsbluff. Mrs. Keith Owens, Carroll, is the new president of the Wayne County Legion Auxiliary and Frank Weible, Winside is the new commander of the Wayne County Legion. Cliff Dahl of Dahl's Retirement Center was in Chicago last week where he received a plaque in honor of "exceptional service to the association from the American Nursing Home Association. He was also awarded a lifetime membership, free registration for he and his wife for all future ANHA conventions and special seating at all future national banquets. October 22, 1970 Jerome Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Roberts, Allen, lost the end of a middle finger Friday noon while he was, along with other members of the football team, getting the Allen football field ready for the evening game. Col. Anson D. Marston, chairman of the Mid America Council Camp Development Committee, has announced that a formal ground-breaking ceremony is scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday at the 1,800-acre Scout reservation near Little Sioux, Iowa. Harold Ingalls, agriculture agent, noted Tuesday that the poor yield of corn and beans this year is due to drought conditions during July and August, estimating between 35 and 40 percent of the farmers in the area have cut their corn for silage. Carl Rump, planetarium director, has arranged a series of four shows to introduce basic astronomical concepts and demonstrate the changing movements of the important celestial objects.

Out of Old Nebraska

"This is the way we wash our clothes," Fremont, 1845
Every year, young men strike out on their own for the first time; for many of them this is their first experience wrestling with such problems as doing the laundry. Some are better prepared than others. Mrs. M. Elizabeth Reynolds describes an attempt by young men in Fremont in 1857 to deal with wash day. Her manuscript is on file at the Nebraska Historical Society:
"On the lot directly east of the Congregational Church and on which the residence now owned by Mr. Bruner stands, stood a log cabin built by the Bowman Brothers, and which for many years was occupied as a Bachelors' Hall. To accommodate the many young men who were here, and who could not find homes in our small cabins with the few families here.
"So they clubbed together and kept house for themselves. There were no Chinese Laundries, no wash women at that time. Most of these young men had come directly from comfortable homes in the east; and as long as there remained a clean garment in the trunks, packed by loving mothers or kind sisters, not a thought was given to the future cleanliness of their wearing apparel.
"But there came a day, when the fact that if they had any more clean clothes, some washing must be done, and by themselves too. The young housekeeper opposite was asked for the loan of a tub and wash-boiler; no instructions were asked, and none volunteered; but as the day began to wane, the curiosity of the young housekeeper was aroused, as to the cause of the non-appearance of the wash upon the line. Presently one of the number came over, and asked what they should do. They were afraid they had ruined their white shirts.

"Here, I must stop to explain that in those days there were no fancy colored shirts, no pretty flannel, or soft chevils (wool fabric in a twill weave or cotton cloth resembling it). The working man's shirt was either red flannel or a blue or white striped cotton goods, called Hickory. The bachelors aforesaid, after washing their shirts, inquired of one another what they should do next. One wise youth, with a dim reminiscence of his mother's kitchen, asked if they should not be boiled. Certainly that was the next process.
"So into the boiler went the white shirts, hickory shirts and red flannel shirts, and a thorough boiling for an hour was given them. Imagine their dismay, on lifting the cover of the boiler, to find every thing a vivid red, which no amount of rinsing could remove."

Dear Editor:
It seems that one of our aspiring legislators has sold out to big business. Is that why he was so reluctant to name his supporters at the forum the other night?
Even though banks, oil companies and packing companies are providing the big money for his campaign he insists he supports Dixon, Wayne and Dakota counties which are rural areas.

Issue 4: School Financing

EDITOR'S NOTE: Nebraskans will be voting on 4 issues when they go to the general election polls on November 4. So that voters can better understand these important issues that would change the State's Constitution, the Nebraska Press Association in cooperation with this newspaper, has prepared a series of news reports on each of the 4 proposed issues. Each story in the series concentrates on a single issue, briefly defining the issue, explaining its purpose and finally stating the arguments both for and against the issue. The following is the fourth in the special public service series.
4. SCHOOL FINANCING AMENDMENT
"Constitutional amendment to provide that the Legislature enact a system of financing public education which does not impose an unfair and excessive property tax burden."
PURPOSE: The amendment would expand constitutional requirements on the Legislature in providing for public schools.

Currently, the constitution requires that they be free. The amendment would mandate that they also be "thorough and efficient." It would require that the Legislature enact a financing system that does not impose an unfair and excessive burden on property owners.
SUPPORT: Senators who backed the amendment said the Legislature needs a push from the public in order to lighten the property-tax share of school budgets and change the school-financing system. The "thorough and efficient" provision, they contend, would force equal opportunity for educational quality throughout the state. It would be a benchmark against which the Legislature and courts could measure the proficiency of a school, they add. One possible effect of the amendment would be to boost the state's role in financing public schools with state sales and income taxes thus reducing heavy reliance on real estate taxes.

OPPOSITION: Those who oppose the amendment note that the Legislature already has the authority to change the school-financing system or add the "thorough and efficient" rule. They contend that the amendment would cause increases in state sales and income tax rates and lead to a flurry of court suits involving parents and school districts. That, they argue, threatens legislative control of the schools.

Constitutionality of State Aid Bill Challenged

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
A 1980 law that changed the method for distributing the $70 million state aid to local governments popped back into the news again recently.
The occasion was a Supreme Court session at Creighton University Ahmanson Law Center in Omaha during which the high court heard arguments on a number of controversial cases.
Assistant Attorney General Ralph Gillan told the judges the method for distributing the state aid will lead to inequities among the various subdivisions and should be declared unconstitutional.
If the court agrees, payments that are slated to begin in December would be withheld. After that it would be up to the Legislature, either meeting in special session or next year, to come up with a constitutional formula before the money could be distributed.
James Ryan, a Lincoln lobbyist who played a key role in devising the formula that is being questioned, told the court the formula is fair.
Ryan represents the state officials against whom Attorney General Paul Douglas filed the action that is challenging the distribution formula.
The 1977 Legislature provided for reimbursement of local governments for monies lost after personal property tax exemptions were granted on farm machinery, business inventories and livestock.
At the start, local governmental units received payments that were based on the amount of exempted personal property on their tax rolls in 1976. That was the last time property was taxed and registered with the governments.

Last year, the Nebraska State Education Association filed but later chose not to proceed with a lawsuit that led to the lawmakers changing the distribution method. The NSEA had argued that unless the statute was altered, the distribution formula would not take into consideration up to date conditions in the governmental units.
The 1980 law provides for payments based on what subdivisions received the previous year with the amount changed by a percentage of the increase or decrease in general property taxes levied in the subdivisions from year to year.
According to Gillan, the way the law now stands it doesn't do anything about what he says is an unconstitutional situation because local governments will get a fixed share of the property tax relief money. Eventually, Gillan said, the state will have a "hodgepodge" with counties that are identical receiving different amounts.
The only possible way to justify it is on a historical basis, he said in reference to the exempted personal property on 1976 tax rolls.
Ryan disagreed. He said the distribution formula is defensible on constitutional grounds. One of the Legislature's most important powers is the power to tax, he said, adding that the distribution method keeps payments quite close to the 1976 tax rolls.

Further, Ryan said, if inequality becomes apparent, the legislature can make adjustments designed to bring about equity.
Busing will be tested
The Lincoln board of education has decided to proceed with a court test of a five-year-old law that permits the busing of private school students in public school buses.
The board said it would continue the court action, despite appeals from the Lincoln Catholic Diocese and a statewide group composed of Lutheran (Missouri Synod) and Seventh Day Adventist churches.
Former Gov. Robert Crosby, attorney for the Catholic Diocese, urged the board to approve the busing of parochial students and wait for a taxpayer to sue the board to test the issue.
But the board, on the recommendation of its attorney, Ed Perry, decided to file a lawsuit to test the constitutional validity of the statute.
Perry reasoned that if the board refused to bus the parochial students, Catholic parents would probably sue and if the board approved the transportation, there would be a taxpayer's suit.
By taking the action itself, Perry said, the board could "frame the questions regarding the law's constitutionality and ambiguities."
He said if the courts find the law constitutional, the board wants to find out whether public schools must buy additional equipment and drivers to bus the private school children.

John Prasch, Lincoln superintendent of schools, and his staff had drawn up guidelines for busing the parochial students but the board refused to approve them, choosing instead to check the law's constitutionality.
The Rev. James Dawson, Lincoln Diocese superintendent of schools, told the Lincoln board at least 46 public schools in Nebraska transport Catholic or parochial students.
Silver-Haired Unicameral meets
Forty-nine senior citizens met in Lincoln recently for the first model Legislature formed to address issues affecting older people.
Al Boettcher of Fairbury, who was elected speaker, said he figures the senior senators will fare well if they manage to get a half dozen measures introduced in the 1981 Unicameral.
The Silver-Haired Unicameral was sponsored by the Nebraska Senior Citizens Council and was designed to develop bills of particular concern to the senior citizens.
Twenty-one bills were prepared for committee hearing, but Boettcher said he thought only about six will be taken to a real state senator for formal introduction.
He indicated, however, that he believes the model Legislature, after a few kinks are worked out, can make a meaningful contribution in the years to come.

State Can Hike Farm Income in 1980's: Thone

"Nebraska has the opportunity during the 1980's to increase its agricultural income about 2 1/2 times, I believe.
"To do so, we will have to do a much better job within this state of managing and protecting our water and soil resources. We will need to manage our agricultural inputs much more carefully, both to conserve resources and to lessen the blow of skyrocketing production costs paid by farmers and ranchers.
"One of our most important goals will have to be the vast improvement of our transportation system, so that we will be able to move increasing amounts of our farm produce to the people who want it all over the nation and all over the globe.
"For such agricultural prosperity, we will have to increase our farm and ranch research and demonstration of it within Nebraska. We must make certain that American agriculture does not lose its worldwide technological advantage, as has happened to most U.S. industries.

"The progress that American agriculture has made in finding expanded markets around the world in the 1970's indicates that we can achieve even greater success in the 1980's. The extent of the success of the past ten years was brought home to me dramatically when I was the co-moderator with North Dakota Governor Arthur A. Link at a National Governors' Association session in August on "Food in the 1980's."
"Our meeting emphasized that U.S. farm exports had grown from about $6.8 billion in 1970 to an estimated $30 billion in 1980, or an average annual increase of about 20 percent.
"In the 1970's the foreign market for corn increased ten times as much as the American market. The United States captured about 70 percent of the increased world demand for grain in the 1970's.
"Peoples of 100 nations are now eating grain grown in Nebraska. Somewhere between 30 and 40 percent of current U.S. agricultural exports are being sold commercially — not through any aid programs — to the developing nations. As standards of living continue to rise around the world, we can expect to sell more and more American food to those countries that are just moving into the industrial age.

"All Americans ought to be proud that we are meeting this increased global demand for food without causing sharp price increases in U.S. supermarkets. Since 1978, food prices paid by American households have increased at a lower rate than the overall consumer price index, and the food price increases have been due mostly to increases in processing, packaging and transportation costs.

"To make American agriculture the leading growth industry of the 1980's will require a sensible U.S. foreign policy and a federal attitude that farmers and ranchers are entitled to seek profitable prices for their livestock and crops.
"We in Nebraska can make a difference, however, and we can be the leading state in furthering agricultural success. I intend to work long and hard to provide the economic and political climate that will enable Nebraska's agricultural economy to bloom as never before."

Economic Progress — It's Everybody's Business

Richard L. Leshner, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States
One of my most pleasant and important responsibilities as president of the U.S. Chamber during the past five years has been the preparation of these "Voice of Business" columns.
They are an indispensable means of communicating at least some of the information that crosses my desk, and of relating just a few of the follies that take place in Washington every day. Then too, they have been a vehicle through which I have enjoyed corresponding with thousands of wonderful people who have taken their time to write and share their ideas with me.
Through the years, our audience has grown remarkably. The "Voice of Business" is now sent to 589 newspapers, 307 radio and television stations and to scores of state and local chambers, journalists, politicians, heads of large and small businesses, and individual taxpayers. As we experienced this surge in readership, I began receiving more and more requests to reproduce the columns in book form. I want you to know that we have now done just that.
The publication we have completed, and which is just coming off the press, is entitled "Economic Progress... It's Everybody's Business." The book is, of course, a compilation of our best "Voice of Business" columns. But, at the risk of being somewhat immodest, I believe it is even more than that. The columns have been specially arranged to tell a unique story about economic principles and issues as they relate to the everyday lives of the American people. The underlying theme emphasizes what has gone wrong with America, what is still right, and — above all — what must be done so that we may all enjoy the bounties of increased progress, prosperity and individual freedom.

The book addresses all the major issues from inflation to recession, energy, taxation, regulation, productivity, the environment, health, welfare and many others. As it does, it examines such questions as: What is the secret of America's success? Is big business running America? Why can't government free enterprise? Are you a right-wing extremist? Could Uncle Sam make us all millionaires? Will EPA require toilet-trained seafood? How is the Iowan Navy? What is the best way to destroy a city?
I am also quite excited, and, indeed, deeply honored that former President Ford agreed to write the foreword for the book, which he describes as "the best ongoing commentary I have read on the major economic issues confronting the nation during the past five years."
If there was one compelling reason that motivated me to write this book, it was my conviction that America today faces the greatest financial and economic emergency since the Great Depression. Unless we soon rid ourselves of our dangerous complacency regarding the benefits and the responsibilities of living in a free society, I fear Americans are destined to suffer profound hardship.

Winston Churchill once remarked: "Some see private enterprise as a predatory target to be shot, others as a cow to be milked, but few are those who see it as a sturdy horse pulling the wagon." If we are to surmount the problems challenging America in the 1980's — problems which seem to grow more difficult and dangerous by the day — we must begin rebuilding the nation's economic base by harnessing the tremendous, neglected potential of the private enterprise system. How to do that is what "Economic Progress... It's Everybody's Business" is all about. I hope you'll read it.

Wayne State College Berry and Terrace Halls have New Directors
Wayne State College Berry and Terrace Halls have new resident directors for the 1980-81 term. David Martin holds the position at Berry. Dan Helgenberger is at Terrace.

Martin is 22 years old and an English major. He needs 15 credit hours to complete his bachelors degree. Before attending WSC, Martin was enrolled at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley for four years. Martin is from Aurora, Colo.

Martin applied for a residency directorship at 35 colleges and was offered the job at WSC. Usually colleges hire people who have their masters degree for the position, Martin said, but he got the job without his.

When asked how he liked his new occupation after a month and a half, Martin said he is enjoying his job and finds the people at WSC friendly, helpful and easy to get along with. His major complaints were early morning calls, late night calls and not enough hours in the day. He also mentioned that there is a great deal of paperwork involved.

After completing his degree, Martin would like to go into admissions work for a college and feels this job will give him good experience in working with college age students. He would also like to obtain his masters degree in higher education.

Martin's previous experience

Berry, Terrace Halls Have New Directors

included working in the housing department for two years along with being editor of the campus paper at the University of Northern Colorado. Martin said that if the rest of the year goes well, he will be back.

Dan Helgenberger is 24 years old and is a Scribner native. He has been a student at WSC for six years and has his masters degree in physical education, which he completed in August.

What Helgenberger likes about his new job is getting to know people because he enjoys working with them. He especially likes being in Terrace with the upperclassmen.

Helgenberger did not have any major complaints and said he found the job easy. When he is not working at the dormitory, Helgenberger trains four days a week as a power lifter in the future. Helgenberger wants to become a strength coach for a major college or for a professional athletic team. He said that he did not think he would be back next year.

Some of the major responsibilities involved with the job mentioned by Martin and Helgenberger included occupancy reports, maintenance requests, responsibility for the resident assistants and desk workers, helping students, working with dorm counsel and being available for the students when they have any problems.

Community Improvement Finalists Are Named

Thirty Nebraska communities and seven neighborhoods are playing host to community experts as finalists in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP).

These communities were picked by a panel of judges in Lincoln on Monday, Oct. 12. The finalists are now competing for 15 community awards in five population categories and for neighborhood awards.

The community finalists were chosen from scrapbook materials submitted in September. Two out-of-state community development experts judged each of the five population categories and chose finalists. The judges are visiting each community today and Wednesday. During the visits, community leaders meet the judges in each town and escort them on tours highlighting community achievements during the NCIP year.

At the conclusion of the visits, first, second and third place winners are chosen in each of the five population categories and neighborhoods. The winners will be announced at the Recognition Day Banquet in Lincoln, Nov. 7, which will also be televised live on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Judging for special awards and evaluation for All-Nebraska Community awards have been completed.

Although Wayne was an original contestant, it was not listed as a finalist.

James Madison, president from 1809 to 1817, was the first to wear long trousers, replacing knee-breeches popular until that time.

Farm

Soviet Agriculture Controlled From Central Agency

A trip to Russia has given two Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff members insight into the workings of a communist-controlled agriculture.

William Splinter, head of the department of agricultural engineering at the University of Nebraska, spent two weeks in the Soviet Union as part of an exchange program with that country. Last year, two Soviets were in the United States for two months to study research and testing programs in agriculture, Splinter said.

One of the most unusual features of Soviet agricultural tractor and machinery research is the extent to which equipment is tested and the process of designing new machines.

According to Splinter, a new tractor or agricultural machine is designed and developed at a central agency where all agricultural aspects of the society are coordinated. There is no private manufacturing of tractors or agricultural equipment.

The equipment is designed and developed at the central agency laboratory in Moscow. Then it is sent to a test farm for field tests and on to a factory where it is redesigned so it can be manufactured.

From there, it goes to another testing farm where modifications may be recommended. After the final testing, the equipment is sent back to the manufacturer where it is produced and made available to farmers, Splinter explained.

The equipment purchased for a state or collective farm is decided upon by its employees. Farming in Russia is motivated differently than in America, he said, because the state owns everything and employees on the farms receive a state salary.

"We visited a collective farm of about 40,000 acres and 3,000 people working on it. All of the people lived in a village and operated as a total unit with work and decision making. Each received a salary according to his or her job which is the only job they are expected to do. If the farm showed a profit, they received a bonus, but not in a monetary sense. Usually it was in the form of improved schools or roads."

Splinter said that under the system in Russia, no equipment is available unless it is tested. In contrast, anyone can create a machine and sell it in the U.S. except in Nebraska where all models of tractors sold in the state must be tested.

In addition to the UNL Tractor Test Laboratory, no other tests are run on any equipment sold in this country. There is much more extensive testing of machinery in Russia, but Soviet engineers test only a few pieces of equipment at a time while in Nebraska, about 30 tractors are tested each year.

"The philosophies of testing are different. We put some credence into the accuracy of the companies' claims. If a company says a combine has a certain capacity, we tend to use that figure because they are forced to maintain credibility of their own name or they won't be in business long," he said.

Splinter added that the Nebraska Tractor Test program simply checks manufacturer's claims for horsepower, sound level and fuel efficiency.

"Unfortunately, we still have cases where these claims cannot be achieved."

There are 38 testing farms in Russia where tractors and other machinery are tested 24 hours a day. Tractors are automated so the operator can control a model from a distance, Splinter said. About 4,000 hours of testing are put on each tractor which averages out to about three years of hard use.

A major drawback of the extensive testing, Splinter noted, is the time required, which delays introduction of new ideas. For instance, rotary combines are only now being tested there but have been in use in the U.S. since 1975. Splinter also said a number of the basic equipment ideas seem to have stemmed from the U.S., such as a large round baler and a fruit tree shaker.

"The equipment they were testing and using was similar to American machines. While we were there, they were testing a John Deere Tractor Deere had modified for their potential use," he said.

"Although Russian testing sounds very extensive and efficient, getting something new on the market appears cumbersome and using an idea from any other source but the Central Agency appears difficult," Splinter said.

He pointed out that the American system is more individualistic and allows new ideas to be implemented faster.

"Many of our most innovative ideas for farm equipment have come from farmers, for example, the center pivot irrigation system. Some inventions are from universities and manufacturers, but the farmer knows what his needs are and is often a source of new ideas."

However, Splinter did note two types of equipment that weren't used in America, a self-propelled sugar beet harvester and a self-propelled potato harvester. He added he planned to contact companies here with the idea.

"We brought back some new ideas that might be usable here, which made the trip a success," Splinter concluded.

Vented vs. Unvented Heat For Swine Housing Studied

The efficiency of unvented heaters in swine confinement housing may be offset by the increased amount of heat loss due to the extra ventilation needed, according to an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agricultural engineer.

A comparison of vented and unvented heaters for swine housing was presented at the American Society of Agricultural Engineers' summer meeting in Texas. Dennis D. Schulte and Gerald R. Bodman, associate professors at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, product engineer Gerald Green from Deere & Co. Waterloo Iowa, and David P. Shelton, district extension engineer at the UNL Northeast Station, Concord, contributed to the research.

Unvented heaters discharge their products of combustion directly to the environment within the building," Schulte said.

Theoretically, he added, a well-adjusted furnace discharges only carbon dioxide and water vapor in addition to the heat it produces.

Precise adjustment of vented and unvented heaters is difficult in swine confinement buildings and lack of adequate ventilation could result in accumulation of undesirable levels of water vapor, unburned hydrocarbons, and possibly oxides of nitrogen and carbon monoxide in the building.

Another problem in the use of unvented heaters is moisture control, Schulte said.

When compared to vented heaters, the moisture added to the animal environment due to fuel combustion in unvented heaters requires additional ventilation to maintain a given humidity level, he noted.

More fuel is then needed to replace the heat lost in the ventilating air, consequently, even more moisture is released. Because of this cycle, more fuel and electricity is used by unvented heaters than it would first seem," Schulte said.

Unvented heaters operating at peak efficiency and under typical Midwest conditions, he added, require an increased ventilation rate of 3 to 40 percent to maintain equivalent relative humidity and temperatures.

If a condensation in the building is noticed on cold days, it may mean extra ventilation is needed.

When unvented heaters were used with ventilation rates based on conventional vented systems design procedures, relative humidity levels rose by 5 to 13 percent.

The study also showed that fuel savings due to the use of unvented heaters as opposed to vented units were less than 10 percent in spite of an assumption allowing 100 percent conversion efficiency for the unvented heater, Schulte said.

Unvented heaters should be properly adjusted, free from corrosion and without an accumulation of dust on the heating elements, he said. Otherwise, this type of heater may be no better or possibly could be worse than the conventional vented heater.

It isn't just one thing. It's the toughest gearbox in the industry — the one they put on other make center pivots by the thousands when their gearboxes fail.

Marvin Hansen Nominated For Foundation Scholarship

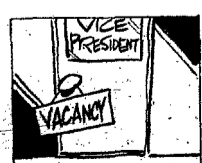

Nine Nebraska 4-H members and one outstanding 4-H alumnus have received statewide recognition for their achievements and contributions to the 4-H program.

In the case of the 4-H members, the recognition is a result of an evaluation of their records for various projects in competition with other 4-H'ers from around the state in which superior accomplishments have been shown.

Among those recognized was Marvin Hansen, Wayne.

Hansen, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hansen, is the state nominee to receive the Edwin T. Meredith Foundation Scholarship. He now attends the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where he majors in math and physical science.

In his 10 years in 4-H, Hansen completed projects in leaders, swine, photography and gardening. He won a public speaking award three years, participated in district speech contests twice and the state contest once. He also participated in the Alcohol Impact Program "Reflections in a Glass."

The office of the U.S. Vice President has been vacant 18 times for a total of 37 years.

MERLE VON MINDEN for State Legislature

"Without a lot of political doubt-talk, I think it is important that you know how I will represent you in Lincoln. The issues change, but one's approach to government is the essential concern.

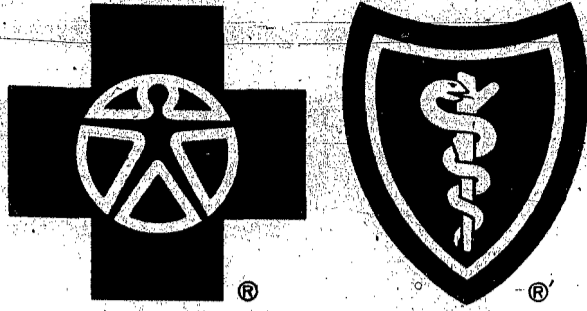

My roots are in farming, business and more than ten years experience in local government. I believe primarily in local government control. The best decisions are made at home.

I don't like legislative give-aways and I believe in hard work and free-enterprise. ... that's what made America great! I think spending MUST be held down to control inflation and I want to provide common sense leadership which only comes from one's background and experience."

LEGAL NOTICE OF MEASURES TO BE VOTED UPON NOVEMBER 1, 1980

amendment to Article V, section 6, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature.

"Sec. 5. The Legislature shall divide the state into six contiguous and compact districts of approximately equal population, which shall be numbered from one to six; and which shall be known as the Supreme Court judicial districts. The Legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal decennial census. In any such redistricting, county lines shall be followed whenever practicable, but other established lines may be followed at the discretion of the Legislature. Such districts shall correspond in location and numbers with the congressional districts of the state. An equal number of judges of the Supreme Court shall be selected from each of the districts, except that any judge serving on the effective date of this amendment may continue to serve from the district from which he was originally selected until his position becomes vacant because of retirement, resignation, death, or removal from office whether by rejection by the voters or otherwise. Such districts shall not be changed except upon the concurrence of a majority of the members of the Legislature. Whenever the Supreme Court is redistricted, the judges serving prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established districts which they shall represent for the balance of their terms."

Proposed Amendment No. 1
A vote FOR this proposal will reduce the number of Supreme Court judicial districts from 6 to 3, with these to coincide with the 3 congressional districts; provide that 2 judges would be selected from each of these 3 districts; provide that any judge serving on the effective date of this amendment would continue to serve until his position becomes vacant for any reason; and repeal the provision for the redistricting of the former 6 Supreme Court districts following the U.S. census every 10 years.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will retain the present 6 Supreme Court judicial districts and the provision for redistricting of them after the U.S. census every 10 years.

"Constitutional amendment to change the number and formation of Supreme Court judicial districts.

Proposed Amendment No. 2
A vote FOR this proposal will reduce the membership of the Commission on Judicial Qualifications from 11 to 10; add the sanctions of reprimand, discipline, censure and suspension of judges without pay for not to exceed 6 months to the present ones of removal or retirement;

add a new ground of conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice for such sanctions; and authorize the Supreme Court to disqualify a judge whenever there is pending against such judge a felony charge, and on its own motion or recommendation of the Commission remove a judge whenever such judge pleads guilty or no contest to a felony charge.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will retain the membership of the Commission on Judicial Qualifications at 11; will retain the present provisions allowing only the sanctions of removal or retirement of judges on certain grounds and not add the proposed additional sanctions listed above; will not add the additional ground for sanctions of conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice; and will not add the proposed new authority of the Supreme Court regarding the disqualification or removal of judges when charged with or pleading guilty or no contest to felony charges.

Sec. 30. Any citizen of the State of Nebraska may request the Commission on Judicial Qualifications to consider the qualifications of any Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge, and in such event, the commission shall make such investigation as the commission deems necessary and in its discretion may shall, upon a finding of probable cause, privately reprimand such Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge or order a formal open hearing to be held before it concerning the reprimand, discipline, censure, suspension, removal, or retirement of such Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge. If his or her conviction is reversed, suspension shall terminate and he or she shall be paid his or her salary for the period of suspension. If he or she is suspended and his or her conviction becomes final the Supreme Court shall remove him or her from office.

(4) In addition to the procedure set forth in subsections (1) and (2) of this section, on recommendation of the Commission on Judicial Qualifications or on its own motion, the Supreme Court (a) shall remove a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge from office when in any court in the United States such Justice or Judge pleads guilty or no contest to a crime punishable as a felony under Nebraska or federal law, and (b) may suspend a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge from office without salary when in any court in the United States such Justice or Judge is found guilty of a crime punishable as a felony under Nebraska or federal law or of any other crime that involves moral turpitude. If his or her conviction is reversed, suspension shall terminate and he or she shall be paid his or her salary for the period of suspension. If he or she is suspended and his or her conviction becomes final the Supreme Court shall remove him or her from office.

(5) All papers filed with and proceedings before the commission or masters appointed by the Supreme Court pursuant to this section prior to any formal open hearing shall be confidential and the filing of papers with and the testimony given before the commission or masters of the Supreme Court shall be deemed a privileged communication. The Supreme Court shall by rule provide for procedure under this section before the commission, the masters, and the Supreme Court.

(6) No Justice or Judge who is a member of the commission or of the Supreme Court or other judge shall participate, as a member of such commission, or as a master, or as a member of the Supreme Court, in any proceedings involving his or her own reprimand, discipline, censure, suspension, removal, or retirement.

Proposed Amendment No. 4
A vote FOR this proposal would provide that the Legislature shall enact a method of financing public education which would make the state responsible to provide maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of common schools, which method shall not rely on property taxes to the extent that an unfair and excessive burden is imposed on property owners.

A vote AGAINST this proposal would not add to the constitution the above mandate to the Legislature relative to the enactment of a plan for the financing of public education in the state.
