WAYNE, NEBRASKA 68787, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1980
ONE-HUNDRED FIFTH YEAR NUMBER SEVENTEEN

Von Minden, Vopalensky, Craun Winners

Despite some concern to the contrary, absentee ballots had little or no bearing on the outcome of four area races. It appears Merle Von Minden, Gary Vopalensky, Jim Craun, Becky Keldel, Jim Hummel and Neil Sandahl will emerge as winners of local and area elections.

ABSENTEE ballots were counted late Wednesday morning after a phone call to the Secretary of State by the Wayne County Clerk cleared potential hurdles.

However, Merle Von Minden of Allen will represent District 17 as its State Senator despite an early Wednesday vote margin of just 211 votes.

Before the absentee votes were counted, the three-county total had Von Minden with 6,057 votes and Conway with 5,841 votes. After the Wayne ballots were counted, Von Minden had total of 6,119 and Conway's support totalled 5,892, a difference of about 227 votes.

It should be noted that absentee ballots for Dixon and Dakota Counties are not figured into the totals.

THE BIGGEST surprise of the election on the local level was Gary Vopalensky's late surge to overcome incumbent Cliff Ginn for the Ward IV City Council seat. Vopalensky had a vote total of 309 votes in Ward IV and Ginn a total of 251 votes.

Vopalensky conducted a vigorous campaign the last two weeks of the race, using a door-to-door effort along with heavy media advertising to support his candidacy. Vopalensky also cited a last-minute telephone campaign by volunteers. Ginn on the other hand kept a low profile throughout the race.

VOPALENSKY'S public statements that the city of Wayne does not need a city administrator also had some bearing on the outcome. Ginn, along with the rest of the City Council, recently voted to advertise for an administrator.

Only voters in Ward IV voted on that race. The Ward I City Council race turned out to be a barn burner, with Johnny-come-lately candidate Vernon Russell losing by just eight votes to announced candidate Jim Craun, 164 to 156.

CRAUN WAS unopposed until about a week before the election when Russell announced his intentions to become a Councilman again. He served from Ward I several years ago.

Absentee ballots did not have a significant effect on this race since Craun picked up three additional votes and Russell none.

The four-way race for three seats on the Wayne-Carroll School District board of education also turned out to be a close contest. Even after absentee ballots were counted, Becky Keldel was top vote-getter with 1,670 votes; Neil Sandahl had 1,609 votes, Jim Hummel had 1,545 votes and Bob Jordan had 1,487 votes.

THE TOP THREE vote-getters will serve on the school board, and only 67 votes separate Hummel and Jordan for third and fourth places respectively.

The hottest race going into the election Tuesday morning was between Von Minden and Conway. When polls opened, many saw the race as neck and neck, and the results bear that out.

Conway had hoped to get 50 percent of the Wayne County vote, 30 percent of the Dixon vote and 63 percent of the Dakota County vote to win. After the votes were counted, he received 46 percent of the Wayne County vote, 43 percent of the Dixon County vote and 54 percent of the Dakota County vote.

CONWAY, currently a resident of Wayne, had hoped to split Wayne County with Von Minden because of his (Conway's) support from the college and town communities. Von Minden is a resident of Dixon County and pulled most of the vote from there.

Conway apparently was hurt most in Dakota County. Although he is a native of South Sioux City, retiring District 17 Sen. Bob Murphy is from South Sioux City as well and stumped hard for Von Minden the last 10 days of the campaign.

In Wayne County, Conway carried only Ward 11, Ward 111 and Ward 1V in Wayne. Ward I in Wayne went to Von Minden by six votes, and all other townships in the county voted with Von Minden.

THROUGHOUT the 17th District, Conway did best in the more urban areas, while Von Minden swayed the rural vote.

In Wayne County, Conway received 1,599 votes to Von Minden's 1,831; in Dixon County, Conway generated 1,416 votes to Von Minden's 1,873 and in Dakota County, Conway received 2,826 votes to Von Minden's 2,348.

IN OTHER area races, results were as follows:

For Allen-Consolidated School District board of education, Marilyn Cramer, Matt Stapleton and Larry Boswell were the top three vote-getters and will serve on the board.

Vote totals found Stapleton with 392, Cramer with 355, Boswell with 328, Frank Plueger with 283, Richard Olesen with 164 and Verlin Hingst with 155. Hingst and Olesen are incumbents.

For Wakefield School District board of education, Merlin Greve, Herman Utech and Ronald G. Wenstrand will serve. They were the top three vote-getters and received votes as follows:

GREVE, 705; Wenstrand, 637; Utech, 584; Marvin Borg, 568; Larry D. Murfin, 176. Borg is the incumbent.

For Wakefield City Council, Gene Krafke defeated Catherine A. O'Connor in Ward I by a vote of 189 to 89. Neither was the incumbent. In Ward II, incumbent Derwin Hartman defeated challenger Kirk Gardner by a vote of 210 to 82.

For Laurel-Concord School District board of education, Mary Ann Christiansen, Richard Erwin and Curtis Crandall will serve.

Vote totals had Christiansen with 538; Erwin with 474; Crandall with 394; Gene Quist with 379; Fred Crisp with 365 and Mary Jo Schutte with 301.

For Laurel City Council, Elmer Munter was unopposed in Ward I and received 246 votes, while Dean Bruggeman was unopposed in Ward II and received 197 votes.

IN THE RACE for mayor challenger Gerald F. Mallett outpolled incumbent Eugene O. Sohler by 265 to 247.

For the Winside School District board of education, Dean Janke was top vote-getter with 387 votes; Dale Topp and Harlin J. Bruggen were next with 317 votes each; Gene Jorgensen had 244 votes; Dennis Bowers 162 votes and Don Nelson 90 votes.

It appears that Janke, Topp and Bruggen will serve on the board. Janke and Bruggen are the incumbents.

More results on other contests affecting the Wayne area will appear in Monday's Wayne Herald. For a breakdown of votes in Wayne County, see charge elsewhere in this issue.

County Goes With Reagan, Splits on the Amendments

Wayne County voted with the rest of Nebraska and the nation Tuesday, picking Ronald Reagan as its favorite for President. County voters sided with the rest of the state on the proposed amendments as well.

HOWEVER, THERE were some surprises locally, as an incumbent Councilman was ousted and a Council race was decided by a small percentage of voters. See story elsewhere on this page.

While the state was supporting Ronald Reagan by a majority of 66 percent, voters in Wayne County were behind him by 79 percent. Carter garnered only 20 percent of the vote in the county compared to 26 percent statewide.

County vote totals found Reagan with 2,747 and Carter with 699. Independent candidate John Anderson had 284 votes and Libertarian candidate Ed Clark received 42 votes.

REAGAN DID not lose any of the precincts in the county, with his largest vote total coming in Fourth Ward Wayne. Showing similar strength, First District Rep. Doug Bereuter took Wayne County and the district in easy style, winning his second term. Bereuter, challenged by Lincolnite Rex Story, received 85 percent of the vote compared to Story's 14 percent.

In carrying every precinct in the county, Bereuter totaled 3,172 votes — more than Reagan did — to Story's 528.

RESULTS involving the four proposed amendments to the state Constitution in Wayne fell in line with the state vote.

Wayne County voters approved amendments No. 2 and 3, but voted down amendments No. 1 and 4. Amendment No. 1 involved Supreme Court District reorganization, No. 2 involved the disciplining commission for judges, No. 3 involved energy tax exemptions and number four school taxation.

Voters voted 1,284 in favor of No. 1 and 1,862 against; 2,039 in favor of No. 2 and 1,004 against; 1,679 in favor of No. 3 and 1,518 against; and voted 1,226 in favor of No. 4 and 2,161 against.

IN OTHER ELECTIONS affecting Wayne County voters, Kenneth Eddie of Carroll, unopposed for the Second District Wayne County board of commissioners, received 985 votes.

All three candidates for the Wayne County Weed Control Authority were unopposed. Enos Williams of Carroll received 2,791 votes, Lester Menke of Carroll received 2,924 votes and Dwayne Reithwisch of Wayne received 2,900 votes.

Also on the local level, Dean Craun and Charles (Chuck) Barnes were elected to the Wayne Airport Authority. Both were unopposed; with Craun receiving 1,900 votes and Barnes 1,339 votes.

FOR THE WAYNE County Public Power District Subdistrict 1, challenger Glen Loberg of Carroll unseated incumbent Gerald M. Kruger of Randolph by 356 votes to 297 votes. Willis Meyer of Wayne, unopposed for Subdistrict II, received 751 votes.

Results for Educational Service Unit No. 1 are incomplete since several counties are involved. Candidates were Randy Shaw of Wayne and Sharon Boeckenhauer of Laurel. Incumbent Gene Bigelow of Wayne did not seek re-election.

Voters were asked to retain several judges in Northeast Nebraska, and these results were not available at press-time either.

150 Attend '2000' Session

More than 150 people representing various backgrounds and counties in Northeast Nebraska participated here in the first Nebraska 2000 meeting to be held in the state.

WAYNE, ALONG with Wayne State College, hosted one of 49 such meetings designed to help formulate the state's future through the year 2000. The program is Gov. Charles Thone's long range planning project.

Held at the WSC Student Union, the pilot meeting included words from co chairman Lt. Gov. Roland Luedtke and Wayne's Alan Cramer, State Sen. John R. (Robert) Murphy also participated in opening remarks. Lieutenant Governor Luedtke, shortly after the meeting began, told the group that "this is just the beginning" in formulating guidelines for the state's future.

QUOTING a passage from a book he read recently, Luedtke said "did we come to laugh or cry; are we dying or are we being born."

"We are taking the first steps (tonight) in the direction of that survival," he added. Speaking next, co-chairman Cramer told the group that "you are here to help chart the state into the future." He added that the meetings are not intended as a platform for any special interests.

As persons entered the room, they were handed workbooks numbered from 1 to 14. Each represented a different category and different set of questions. The categories included water, housing, food, health care, protection, education, transportation, environment, cultural enhancement, energy, recreation, human services, economic development and government.

AFTERWARDS, each participant filled out one of two questionnaires made available at the start of the program.

After further instructions, the participants were assigned to tables coordinated with their particular category. Additional questions were answered through group discussion.

AT THE GROUP discussion on economic development, a Wayne State College student from Lincoln said he would like to see more job opportunities for high school and college students. Providing a higher minimum wage would be incentives for job opportunities, he said.

A Wayne woman suggested there be more efficient use of tax money, and for the government to be more specific about who gets use of welfare money.

Another Wayne woman at the table agreed with the college student that there should be more job opportunities. However, she took issue with his comments on a higher minimum wage.

"THERE ARE fewer jobs (today) because of the minimum wage being too high. When businesses have to pay minimum wage, they consolidate jobs and eliminate positions that way," she said.

In discussing the environment at another table, a Wayne-area man said "the U.S. is the most wasteful nation in the world."

Another Wayne man said "our standard of living dictates that."

In listing their environmental goals, the gentlemen said clean water should be a priority as well as energy.

"GLOBAL ISSUES here are as important as on the community level," one man stated.

"A good educational system will help promote better understanding of the problems," another commented.

The discussion on water included the goals of recovering the safe water supply, recycling domestic and industrial water, prevention of excess runoff of water and not allowing water resources of this area to be exploited.

ONE OF THE major points posed by the questionnaire on the environment was this: "The year is 1995. Coal is the primary electrical generating source. The Sutherland plant has quadrupled in size. We buy all additional surplus electricity that we're able to. Still, there is not enough to meet all the needs."

"To date, the environmentalists have been able to block construction of nuclear energy plants. The legislature has just passed a bill authorizing construction of a nuclear plant two miles outside your community. You are going to write a letter to the Governor and recommend a) that he sign the law, or b) that he not sign the law."

ANOTHER question asked that "should local governments, either at the county or municipal level, be expected to accept more responsibility for the enforcement of environmental laws?"

The questionnaire on recreation asked participants to choose which of the following types of recreation best described their primary source of recreation: outdoor active (jogging, softball, etc.), indoor active (bowling, handball, etc.), outdoor passive (fishing, birdwatching, etc.), indoor passive (reading, cards, etc.).

Participants also were asked if the energy shortage and the resulting higher price of gasoline have affected their recreational activities; and if they thought that future gas price increases would affect their recreational activities.

THEY ALSO were asked if they would like to see an increase in recreational facilities in their communities in the future; and who should be responsible for providing more recreational facilities in the state.

After all Nebraska 2000 meetings are held (one in each legislative district), a Governor's Conference will be held in the spring in Lincoln. After that conference, a compilation of all the data gathered will be made and a final document published.

The document will contain concrete recommendations to the Legislature and Governor for action to guide Nebraskans in to the year 2000.

GROUP LEADERS for Wayne County included Mike Carney, Wayne businessman; Mary Edmonds, minister's wife; Joe Claybaugh, farmer; Jack Middendorf, Wayne State College librarian; Donna Hansen, farm wife; Jay O'Keary, WSC music professor; and Sherry Jordan, businesswoman.

Other district meetings will be held Nov. 19 in Hartington for District 19; Nov. 20 in Norfolk for District 21; and Nov. 21 in Blair for District 16.

U.S. Policy of Human Rights Topic Of Recent Conference at College

A variety of speakers were featured at a conference entitled "Human Rights and Political Reality in United States Foreign Policy" Wednesday, Oct. 26, at Wayne State College.

NEBRASKA'S U.S. Sen. Ed Zorinsky; Jesse Clear, employed with the U.S. State Department bureau of human rights; Dr. Jackie St. John, professor of history at the University of Nebraska at Omaha; and Dr. Lloyd Ambrosius, professor of history at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, were among those offering their opinions.

Also, Allen O'Donnell, director of programs for the WSC Public Affairs Institute, moderated the panel forum.

O'Donnell began the conference by introducing the panel. The WSC social science instructor said human rights is not a new idea, but in the past was referred to as "morality in American foreign policy."

HE CONCLUDED by raising the question, "do we have a role to play in international affairs of other nations where human rights are being denied the people or do we stay out of it?"

The first panelist, Clear, began by saying he would define and examine basic premises and defend the human rights policy. He listed five propositions for the policy as follows:

The first concerned the idea that human rights is a major part of American foreign policy.

Secondly, he said, it is not a moral crusade, but rather a hard-nosed policy which further's national interests and security.

NEXT, HE POINTED out that there should be a relationship between the government and its people. The policy is not culturally linked or culture-bound.

Lastly, he linked the U.S. has to make choices.

The State Department employee also provided a definition of human rights according to the U.S. government. He said there are three levels of rights; the most controversial of which are political, civil and social rights.

Clear added that there must be diplomatic relations, but the question is how, what level and what degree of personal involvement should be developed.

SENATOR ZORINSKY spoke next, saying he based the decision making process on issues. He said that the human rights policy is not a uniform policy. What the U.S. does in the area of human rights in foreign policy should be in the best interest of the U.S., he said.

Zorinsky said the connection between human rights and dictatorships can best be explained this way:

"It is nice to be important, but it is even more important to be nice." He added that the sooner we support a government that has popular support from its people, the sooner we will have a uniform human rights concern world-wide.

"THE PEOPLE of these countries need to be themselves, not what the U.S. wants them to be," according to Zorinsky. "They need sovereignty, respect and integrity," he said.

He closed by saying he is a practical politician. "It all has to reflect back to what is in the best interests of the U.S."

Dr. St. John said, "Historically, we have been a supporter of status quo." She discussed human rights by saying there is a fine line between how much we can influence a country and where it becomes meddling in their internal affairs.

"How much influence do we have," she asked. She answered her own question by saying that the U.S. has a great deal of influence. "Ideas are powerful and the U.S. has ideas of democracy and freedom," she said.

REGARDING IRAN, St. John said, the Iranians "are guilty of gross violations of human rights." She concluded by saying human rights have to be applied on an individual (country) basis. If people see the human rights policy as selective, then they do not understand how important human rights are.

"We do not belong to a perfect society. There are violations of human rights within the U.S. and we are involved in a never-ending struggle to improve the situations," St. John said.

DR. AMBROSIUS looked at human rights from an historical perspective. He said the U.S. should maintain itself as a place of liberty and the idea of imperialism. According to him, the core difference of these two aspects were the different assumptions with regard to American policy.

Ambrosius said there is inconsistency in the character of the human rights policy. He said one reason for this is the "sheer lack of power." He also said that national interests or security are "too frequently used as a synonym for military defense."

After the panel, statements and closing comments, there was a question and answer session moderated by O'Donnell involving the panel and audience.

THE CONFERENCE was funded partially by a grant from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, a state-based program of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Business Notes

Pamida, Inc., Omaha-based operator of more than Pamida Discount Centers in 13 Midwestern and Rocky Mountain states, announced that its board of directors had approved the company's previously announced plan for the sale of substantially all of the company's assets and operations and that the sale agreement with the purchaser had been signed.

The board of directors acted after it had received a favorable report on the transaction from a special committee of "outside" directors which had been appointed to review and evaluate the proposed transaction.

After the asset sale is completed, the company will make a tender offer to its shareholders for any or all of their shares of the company's stock at a cash price of $6 per share.

Consummation of the proposed sale transaction remains subject, among other things, to shareholder approval, completion of financing arrangements, completion and distribution of definitive proxy materials and certain regulatory and other approvals and consents.

A special meeting of the company's shareholders presently is planned for late December or early January, at which time the shareholders will vote on the proposed transaction, which would be completed as promptly as possible after shareholder approval.

The purchaser in the proposed transaction will be a newly organized corporation whose stock will be owned by an "Employees' Stock Ownership Trust" established for the exclusive benefit of such new corporation's employees. In addition to the payment of the cash portion of the purchase price for the company's assets, such new corporation will assume substantially all of the company's liabilities and other obligations existing at the time of the closing of the transaction.

Assuming the proposed transaction is consummated, the company's present discount store business thereafter will be continued under the "Pamida" name by the new corporation substantially in the manner in which such business now is being conducted. The company's present senior management group generally will occupy similar positions with the new corporation. However, D.J. Witherspoon, presently chairman of the board of the company, and L.D. Wagener, presently vice chairman of the board of the company, will not be associated with the new corporation.

A Proud Grandmother

WHILE ALL GRANDMOTHERS are undeniably proud of their grandchildren, Mrs. Anna Frevert of Wayne, pictured at left, is especially pleased that her granddaughter, Kristin Frevert, was chosen this year to represent the local VFW Auxiliary as its Buddy Poppy Girl. Kristin is wearing the original Buddy Poppy cape made by her grandmother 13 years ago. Kristin, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Frevert, joins local VFW Auxiliary members in asking residents of Wayne to purchase a Buddy Poppy today (Thursday). Members of the auxiliary will be selling the poppies in downtown Wayne in honor of the sacrifices made by the nation's war dead. All proceeds from the sale of the Poppies go to the relief and welfare of the needy veteran, his widow and orphans. Pictured purchasing the first Buddy Poppy from Kristin is Mayor Wayne Marsh.

Reibold and Norma Denkinger. Mrs. Reibold said many women of the church were responsible for completing the quilt, which will be given away at the bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 15. Drawings also will be held that day for an afghan made by Marvel Corbit, a Christmas tree skirt made by Melba Wait, and two dolls made by Sheryl Marra.

Emblem Designed for New History of Wayne County

Members of the mailing committee of the Wayne County Historical Society met this week and began stuffing over 3,400 envelopes requesting Wayne County residents to submit their family histories for a new county history book.

The emblem for the history book project has been designed by Ted Blenderman, art instructor at Wayne-Carroll High School.

Clete Sharer, co-chairman of the book committee, said the emblem will soon be a familiar sight to county residents. The seal will be used as the logo for all county history correspondence and will be featured on the cover of the new history book.

The emblem is representative of Wayne County — depicting agriculture in the form of a windmill, plow and livestock, education in a pioneer school, and religion as shown in a small country church.

Wayne County families plus families who once lived in the county but have moved will soon be receiving a letter in the mail with this emblem on it. The letter will ask families to write their history for the county book.

Sharer said families who do not receive a letter should contact committee members in their area.

Residents residing in Wayne should contact Donna Shufelt, Bessie Baier, Wilma Johnson, Marian Jordan or Eleanor Edwards. Working with these women on a topical history of the county are Bill Burris, Veryl Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. N. L. Ditman and Mrs. Edith Cook.

Precinct chairmen are Ann Lage, Brenna; Bill Burris, Chapin; Mrs. Edith Cook, Deer Creek; Mrs. Jim Robinson, Garfield; Diane Jaeger, Hancock; Mrs. George Langenberg, Hoskins; Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ring, Hunter; Mrs. Floyd Johnson, Leslie; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bard, Logan; Mrs. Ernest Siefken, Plum Creek; Mr. and Mrs. John Rees, Sherman; Mrs. Richard Korn, Strahan; and Rhonda Sebade, Wilbur.

Working with Sharer as co-chairman of the project is John T. Bressler. Sharer said the letters will include an outline on how to write your family history as well as information on the book and how to receive it. Delivery on the book, which will be bound in hardback leatherette with a gold stamped cover, is expected in late fall of 1981.

In addition to family stories, the committee will be gathering stories and pictures about Wayne County schools, churches, organizations and businesses.

The book will contain between 300 and 500 pages and will be published by Taylor Publishing Co. of Texas. Publication consultant Bob Jonson is assisting county residents throughout the project.

New Arrivals

Norfolk Chaplain Speaking at Altona Church

The Rev. Jack Thiesen, chaplain at the Norfolk Regional Center, will be guest speaker this Sunday at First Trinity Lutheran Church, Altona.

The public is invited to attend the worship service at 9 a.m., followed with Sunday school at 10:15.

Pastor Thiesen, a recipient of organ transplants, will talk about the Christian implications of organ donations.

The Nebraska District Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod voted last summer to promote awareness of the opportunity to donate vitally needed organs.

Date Nears for Annual Bazaar

As in past years, hundreds of area shoppers are expected to attend the event on Saturday, Nov. 15, at the Wayne city auditorium.

Doors open at 10 a.m. and will remain open until 4 p.m.

Donna Schumacher and Sheryl Marra are co-chairmen for the bazaar, which annually features a unique selection of handmade items, including many holiday decorations and gift ideas.

In addition, there will be a candy booth, food fair, white elephant table and new and used toy department.

Mrs. Schumacher said Vials of Life also will be available free of charge that day from Mary Nichols, R.N. The Vials of Life project in Wayne County is sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary and Wayne County Home Extension Clubs.

The plastic vials provide ambulance personnel, nurses or doctors with vital medical information in the event of an emergency.

After filling out the necessary information forms located inside the vials, residents place them in side their refrigerator so they can be easily located.

The Hospital Auxiliary also will be serving a lunch of soup, sandwiches and dessert throughout the day of the bazaar in the Woman's Club room. Becky Keidel is dining room chairman and Mrs. Marra is heading up the kitchen committee.

Drawings will be held at 2 p.m. for a queen size quilt made by women of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, an afghan made by Marvel Corbit, and a Christmas tree skirt made by Melba Wait.

Donations for the drawing will be accepted the day of the bazaar or in advance from any auxiliary member. Persons need not be present at the bazaar to win.

The prizes are being displayed in the window of Swans' Women Apparel.

A special drawing the day of the bazaar will be for two dolls made by Sheryl Marra. Chairman for the drawing for the dolls is Mrs. Julia Haas.

Other chairmen for this year's bazaar are Jean Bentback and Hazel Lentz, gift shop; Marie Brugger and Alma Luschen, ticket sales for drawing; Nadine Thompson and Roberta Carman, candy booth; Evelyn McDerrott, food fair; Irene Reibold, Elsie Hailey and Thelma Young, white elephant table; Karen Wiseman and Sheryl Lindau, toys and Jan Kohl, member ships.

Guitarist Roan in Concert Friday

The Wayne Regional Arts Council, with the support of the Nebraska Arts Council, is sponsoring a special program this Friday evening by classical guitarist Neill Archer Roan.

The public is invited to the program at 8 p.m. in the Woman's Club room of the Wayne city auditorium.

Roan's recital here is less than one week before a return performance at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

He currently serves on the faculties of music at the University of Nebraska at Omaha and Creighton University and is an approved artist in the Nebraska Arts Council's Artist-in-Schools program.

Roan has been performing extensively since 1972. His command of the late 17th and early 18th century repertoire for the guitar has earned him acclaim throughout the United States, Canada and Europe where he has appeared as soloist and in chamber music recitals.

Notable engagements have included Carnegie Hall, the Wigmore Hall in London, the National Theatre of Costa Rica in San Jose and the British Columbia International Festival.

In February of 1979 Roan made his New York debut at Carnegie Hall. The New York Times hailed his performance, saying "Music needs most of all charm and elegance, two qualities that Mr. Roan seemed to conjure up with disarming ease..." His performance was described as exhibiting a "command of coloristic nuances and ability to get over the strings of his instrument with a high degree of proficiency."

Roan will appear in the 1980-81 season with the Chicago String Ensemble and will reappear with the Nebraska Sinfonia.

He has been a student of such masters as Julian Bream, Javier Calderon, Michael Lorimer, Miguel Rubio and Oscar Chiglia. He recently was selected to participate in the Regional Touring Program under the auspices of the Mid-America Arts Alliance.

Admission to his performance in Wayne will be $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for youngsters under 12 years of age. Patron members of the Wayne Regional Arts Council (WRAC) will be admitted with their membership card.

Following the performance, refreshments will be served by the WRAC Board of Directors.

Leader Training Lesson Planned

The leader training lesson "Change: An Opportunity for Growth" will be presented Thursday, Nov. 13, at 9:30 a.m. at Villa Wayne.

The lesson will review changes common to each person throughout his adult life and focus on positive ways for coping with change.

Organizations are invited to send representatives to receive training and materials which they, in turn, can share with their own group members.

The lesson is sponsored by the Cedar County Cooperative Extension Service and is open to both home extension club members and the general public.

Ewing Passing Game Puts End to Winside Bid

If fans could select an all-state football team, Ewing quarterback Jeff Tomjack probably would have collected a few hundred votes, Tuesday night. That was the approximate number of Winside fans attending the state playoff game between Winside and Ewing.

Ewing tied two Class C-2 state playoff records as Tomjack threw three touchdown passes to tie the state record for most touchdown passes in one playoff game set in 1976 by Alma and tied in 1978 by Ansley. Receiver Dennis Schueth caught two of those TD passes to tie another playoff record.

The bad news for future Ewing opponents is that Tomjack is only a junior. The shifty Tomjack proved that he has the ability to throw long and hard with good accuracy as well as run and fake well.

Winside Takes Lead

Winside, an underdog according to predictions in The Omaha World Herald and Norfolk Daily News, nearly made the predictions look as inaccurate as the polls which called the presidential race close.

After a hard-fought scoreless first half, the Wildcats exploded early in the second half for a 14-0 advantage. The Lincoln Journal had predicted a three-point Winside triumph and for awhile it appeared their only mistake was the margin of victory.

Then, Tomjack struck like a bolt of lightning. He cranked up his passing game and it purred like a finely tuned engine. The turning point of the game was a 50-yard touchdown bomb from Tomjack to Al Walnofer with 54 seconds left in the third quarter.

The Wildcats scored both of their touchdowns while dominating play in the third quarter. The offensive line tore holes in Ewing's defense as Brian Foote, Rod Doffin and Tom Koch took turns grinding out first downs.

The first touchdown came on a 78-yard drive following the second half kickoff. Mark Koch carried the ball in on a one-yard run and Brian Foote kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

Winside got the ball back on a fumble recovery at the Ewing 36-yard line by Joel Broekemeier. The Cats took advantage of the break for another TD. This time, Foote scored on a one-yard run with 3:01 remaining in the third quarter. The PAT made the score 14-0.

The fired-up Wildcats thwarted Ewing's rushing attack. The Tigers were averaging 224 yards on the ground per game but managed only 62 against Winside's solid rushing defense.

The Wildcats entered the game averaging 159 yards rushing and finished the game with 216 yards on the ground, exactly double the average of Ewing's rushing defense.

Ewing's touchdown bomb seemed to deflate Winside while shifting the momentum to the home team. The Tigers added two more touchdowns with their passing attack to win the battle.

Winside was hurt badly by its passing game. The Cats had 39 passing yards with two completions in 12 attempts. Ewing intercepted four of those passes.

Ted Sojka picked off a pass at the Winside 30 yard line and Tomjack passed to Schueth for a 15 yard TD with 10:06 left in the game. A two-point conversion pass to Sojka knotted the score at 14-14.

Foote returned the ensuing kickoff to the 37 yard line but Sojka intercepted another pass to stop Winside's offense before it got started. Refusing to die, the Wildcat defense rose to the occasion. Jim Hawkins and Jim Krajcick combined to sack Tomjack for a 15 yard loss and an offensive pass interference call on the next play pushed Ewing back into a punting situation.

Winside took over at its own 15 with 7:48 remaining. The Wildcats quickly returned to their running game. The running backs broke through holes that the linemen punched in Ewing's defense, confidently moving the ball upfield. However, the drive stalled and Bill George punted.

A 56 yard punt with no return put Ewing in a hole at its own four yard line.

The Tigers ran two consecutive rushing plays, apparently content to run out the clock and force an overtime playoff. But failing to pick up a first down, Tomjack put the ball back in the air. He hit Walnofer for a 38 yard gain. Another pass moved the ball down to the Winside 11 yard line with only 33 seconds left in the game.

Tomjack fired a pass to Schueth in the endzone for the winning TD to cap a 96 yard drive. Winside got the ball back one last time but ran out of time.

season, Gonnerman stated, "There were a lot of bright spots. The kids really worked hard and played with good basic fundamentals this season. The seniors did a heck of a job for us."

"We had a good season. I told the team to remember that and not to remember the one we lost. That can hang with you forever," Gonnerman said. "It was a good season and we had a lot of bright spots."

Offensively, Foote carried the ball 30 times for 131 yards, improving his season total to 980 yards. Rod Doffin rushed nine times for 39 yards. Leading tacklers were Brad Roberts with nine tackles, Barry Bowers with 7 and Jim Krajcick and Rod Doffin with six tackles each.

"We didn't play to our potential in the first half. In the second half, our line blocked the way it should and we moved the ball well," Winside coach Dennis Gonnerman said. Cats Stopped One Point Short

By Diana Daniels
Wayne State SID

For awhile, it certainly looked as though the Wayne State Wildcats were going to spoil another homecoming for their opponents, but last weekend the charm of three victories in homecoming games was broken when the Wildcats were defeated 14-13 by Central States Intercollegiate Conference opponent Missouri Southern State College in Joplin, Mo.

The Wildcats had the lead going into the fourth quarter but a missed extra point attempt by Gary Cook made all the difference in the world when the Missouri Southern Lions scored twice in the fourth to wrest victory from the Wildcat's grasp.

The Cats' first score of the game came midway through the second quarter on a fumbled punt. The Lions had the Cats down with their backs against a wall. Pat Maxwell punted to the Lions who coughed it up. Defensive tackle Ron Berrie recovered the fumble and it was a matter of five plays and 47 yards to score. The scoring play was a 21-yard pass from junior quarterback Kelly Neustrom to split end Jeff Ingrum. Gary Cook split the uprights to put the Cats up 7-0 with 5:26 to play.

The Lions fumbled again in the second quarter but the Cats could not capitalize on the recovery. WSC's next and last score came off the opening kick off in the third quarter. The Wildcats kicked off to the Lions, but were penalized for offside and had to kick again. The first kick off was returned 11 yards but this one turned out differently.

The Lions receiver tumbled the kickoff and the ball was picked up by freshman defensive back Ken Kohloff. Two plays later, the Cats scored on an 11-yard pass from Kelly Neustrom to senior tight end Ed Blackburn. Kicker Gary Cook missed the extra point which eventually made the difference between a tie and loss.

The Wildcats had possession throughout most of the third quarter but could not manage to sustain a scoring drive. The Lions had fumbled the ball to the Cats twice in that time to account for the possession time.

The Lions struck for their first two touchdowns in the fourth on a series that began in the third after a Wildcat punt that went only 20 yards. The Lions had to cross the goal stripe twice in order to get one score on the board. Their first attempt, a 26-yard pass was called back for holding.

The eventual scoring play was set by a 42-yard pass from Kevin Ahlgren to Glenn Watson which set the Lions on the one-yard line. Two plays later quarterback Ahlgren carried the ball in for the score. The extra point attempt by Mark Stufflebeam was wide with 13:55 left to play.

The Lions attempted to score again on a field goal attempt of 42 yards with 9:50 remaining. The kick was off so the Wildcats were still ahead 14-6. Wayne State got a break in the form of a fumble later on but was unable to convert its good fortune into a scoring drive.

The Wildcats forced an interception on the next set of downs deep in Lion territory but returned the ball to the Lions on a defensive pass interference call. This gave Southern the momentum it needed and on a series of passing plays of 18, 23 and 25 yards, the Lions were in a position to score.

Quarterback Ahlgren again did the duties on a four-yard scamper for the score. The Lions decided to go for the win as the TD made the score 13-12. The two-point conversion for the win was a pass from Kevin Ahlgren to John Anderson with 2:55 remaining.

The Wildcats had control of the football later to the fourth and were trying to at least get into field goal range, but their hopes went up in smoke when a Kelly Neustrom pass was intercepted by Lion defender Darrell Scott. The Lions sat on the ball on the last possession for a 14-13 victory.

Several Wildcat freshmen saw a lot of action in last weekend's game. Freshman Pat McKown, a tailback from Sioux City, Iowa, stepped in to do a good share of the yard work with 30 rushing yards and a key pass reception in the second quarter to sustain the Wildcats' last scoring drive. Jim Ingrum, freshman brother of split end Jeff Ingrum from Sioux City, Iowa, also saw plenty of action in the receiving department.

The loss moves the Wildcats back to the .500 mark in the conference and overall. Going into the last week of CSIC play, the Wildcats are 3-3 in the conference and 4-4 overall.

WSC's last game of the season is a conference contest against rival Kearney State. The Antelopes and the Wildcats have played each other 52 times and Kearney leads the series 22-15-5. In the last 10 years, the Antelopes have beaten the Wildcats eight times, three of which were shutouts. WSC's two wins came in the first two games of the decade and were shutouts as well.

Last year, the Antelopes beat the Wildcats 24-7 at Kearney State in a game characterized by numerous fumbles. Last season Kearney was the co-champion in the CSIC along with Pittsburg State.

So far this season, the Antelopes are in sole possession of the conference lead with a 5-0-1 record. Their most recent win was over conference rival Washburn University Saturday in Topeka, Kan.

The only blemish on the Antelopes' CSIC record was to Ft. Hays 21-21 in the opening game of conference competition for both clubs.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hassel

THE PRESENT NEBRASKA high school classification (A, B, C-1, C-2, D-1, D-2) may be discarded for a new system according to information released by the Nebraska School Activities Association.

A committee of Nebraska high school officials has recommended that the NSAA Board of Control consider reclassifying the state's schools into seven classes for football competition and six classes in other activities (basketball, volleyball, track, music speech and one-act plays) in which all or most of the schools participate.

If adopted by the Board of Control, which is the elected group with the authority to administer interscholastic activities in Nebraska, the proposed plan would result in the first deviation since the 1959-60 school year from an A-B-C-D classification.

The recommendation came from an ad hoc committee appointed to study the classification of schools for athletics and the activities regulated by the NSAA. The recommended plan is based on enrollment and would divide schools as follows:

- FOOTBALL, seven classes:
 A-1: the largest 24 schools
 A-2: the next 24 schools
 A-3: the next 64 schools
 A-4: the next 64 schools
 A-5: the next 64 schools
 A-6: the next 64 schools
 A-7: remainder of schools

- OTHER ACTIVITIES, six classes:
 A-1: the largest 24 schools
 A-2: the next 24 schools
 A-3: the next 64 schools
 A-4: the next 64 schools
 A-5: the next 64 schools
 A-6: remainder of schools

The committee's proposal extended the Board of Control the authority to establish what classes are necessary in some of the other activities such as golf, baseball, wrestling, tennis, gymnastics, swimming and journalism.

The proposal for seven classes in football included a stipulation that the Board of Control would have latitude in the assignment in the A-5-6-7 classes of smaller schools playing eleven-man or eight-man football, similar to what is done now in football C-2 and D-1.

Members of the NSAA Board of Control are: Allen Friesen of Henderson; Dennis Smith of Papillion; Robert Pease of Wisner; Pilger; Max Ingram of Bartley; Lee Todd of Grant and Tom Milane of Scottsbluff. They will make the reclassification proposal a part of the NSAA's remaining district meetings and decide by their Jan. 10 board meeting whether to implement the plan, and if so, when.

OUT OF CURIOSITY, I checked through the NSAA's list of schools by enrollment to see where the area schools would fall under the proposed classification method. All enrollment figures that follow are determined from last year's figures for grades 9 through 11.

Wayne, with an enrollment listed at 271, would be in Class A-3 and would be the 13th largest school in this class of 64 schools.

Laurel, with an enrollment of 136, would both be placed in Class A-4. Laurel would be the 20th largest school in the class and Wakefield would be the sixth smallest.

Class A-5 would encompass Winside and Allen with enrollments of 77 and 76 respectively. They would be two of the 14 smallest schools in the 64-team class. Nemaha Valley, with an enrollment of 73, would be the smallest school in Class A-5.

THE NEW CLASSIFICATION system would have some good points and some bad points. Some schools would prefer to change and others would not.

Can you imagine what the prep raters at the Omaha World Herald and Lincoln Journal would have to go through. With only 24 teams in Classes A-1 and A-2, nearly half on the teams in each class would be ranked in their respective top 10 ratings.

I'm not sure of the reasoning behind the recommended change but I'm sure it has received considerable thought. Until I hear...

the pros and cons of the situation, I'll try not to take a stand on the issue.

DONATIONS are being accepted to help pay for the scoreboard that was purchased and installed at the Wakefield football (and baseball) field. Anyone who wishes to donate to the cause may send contributions to Wakefield High School.

MORNINGSIDE COLLEGE announces that Craig Nelson of Wakefield is a member of the Morningside football team. The 5-7, 225 pound freshman is an offensive lineman majoring in agri-business. The Chiefs are scheduled to host the University of Mexico Saturday.

AS EVERYONE KNOWS Winside was scheduled to play at Ewing in the Class C-2 football playoffs Tuesday night. Well, almost everyone knew that.

One couple from rural Pilger, with two daughters attending school in Winside, heard about the playoffs on a radio announcement. However, the couple apparently misunderstood the radio announcer. The Winside followers made plans to attend the game in Uehling.

Now, the names of the two towns would sound similar on the radio but I don't believe Uehling even has a high school not to mention a football field.

Dale and Judi Topp would have felt pretty silly when their friends would have heard that they were driving around a town of 250 people looking for a football field. Fortunately, the couple learned on Tuesday that the game was planned in Ewing not Uehling.

Allen Girls Reach District Finals

The Allen Eagles gained another rematch with Lewis Division foe Walthill by winning their first two district matches, Monday and Tuesday nights in Pender.

Allen defeated Snyder 15-11, 15-8 in the first round of Class D-3 action and then defeated top-seeded Coleridge 15-11, 15-10 Tuesday.

The Eagles were scheduled to meet Walthill at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in district finals at Pender. The winner of that game advances to a regional match against the Class D-4 district winner.

All three of Allen's losses this season are to Walthill. Wednesday's matchup was the fourth meeting of the year between the two clubs.

Against Coleridge, Janet Peterson had 11 points, Colette Kraemer scored nine points and Carmin Lubberstedt added seven. Lisa Erwin was the net leader with 11 kill spikes.

"Our serving was a little shaky so we want to underhand serves," Allen coach Gary Troth said. "We played better against Coleridge than we did the night before against Snyder but we still need to improve."

Allen defeated Snyder 15-11, 15-8, Monday night.

Wayne Volleyball Season is Ended

Proper Time Listed For Contacting SSI

It is important that everyone in the northeast area know the proper times to contact social security. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Knowing the five times action is needed is too important to take for granted, Branch said. It can mean greater security for local residents and members of their families. A person should contact social security:

• Before he or she gets a first job, because he or she needs a social security number to get proper credit for earnings.

• After a death in the family to learn if survivor benefits or a lump sum death payment are payable.

• When somebody is disabled to find out if disability benefits are payable.

• At retirement age, 65 for full cash benefits or as early as 62 for reduced payments. Sign up for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 even if the person has no plans to stop working.

• Whenever a person has a question about social security or needs to report a change that will affect monthly benefits.

The people at the Norfolk Social Security Office can tell a person how much work he or she needs to be insured who can qualify for benefits, how to replace a lost social security or Medicare card, how to get a free statement of his or her earnings record, or what documents are needed when a person applies for benefits.

These and other questions can be answered at the Norfolk social security office, located at 1310 Norfolk Ave. The telephone number is 1-800-642-8310.

Feed Grain Stocks Up

Nebraska feed grain stocks (oats, barley, old crop corn and grain sorghum) in all positions totaled 10.8 million tons on Oct. 1. This was 21 percent above a year earlier and the highest Oct. 1 feed grain stocks since 1964.

Total stocks of old crop corn were 329.2 million bushels on Oct. 1, 28 percent above a year ago and the highest on record for that date. Farm stocks of 206.3 million bushels were 33 percent above a year earlier. Off farm stocks equaled 122.9 million bushels, 21 percent higher.

Sorghum stocks totaled 44.4 million bushels, 8 percent below a year ago. Oats stocks were 17.9 million bushels, 16 percent less than a year earlier. Barley stocks at 1.3 million bushels were up 1 percent. Wheat stocks totaled 132.9 million bushels, 25 percent more than Oct. 1, 1979. Wheat stored on farms at 49.3 million bushels was 7 percent above a year earlier while off farm holdings of 83.6 million bushels were 38 percent higher. Rye stocks of 62 million bushels were 2 percent lower. Old crop soybean stocks on hand Sept. 1 totaled 11.0 million bushels, 67 percent above a year earlier.

College Credit Exam Registration Nearing

Nov. 10 will be the registration deadline for this month's College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examinations to be held on the Wayne State College campus on Wed. Nov. 12.

The CLEP program enables students to earn college credits by examination. Participants may sign up for one or more 90-minute exams to test their knowledge of specific areas. CLEP offers the opportunity to save both time and money in pursuing an education through recognition of your college level achievements.

Anyone can take CLEP exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions. To receive college credit for these exams at Wayne State College, you must either be currently enrolled or have completed admission requirements.

Individuals who have taken CLEP exams (particularly the subject exams) usually find that related introductory textbooks give a good overview of the area to be tested. If your local public library does not have this type of book, request it through an inter-library loan or simply visit the library of WSC.

Credit given through CLEP is entered on your record without grades and is not used in determining your grade point average. If you fail a CLEP exam, there is no official record made and it will not affect your transcript. The exam can also be taken again provided the appropriate fees are paid.

Wayne State College places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP which are taken before the senior year.

Every institution which participates in CLEP establishes its own policy concerning (among other things) which exams are officially recognized and the minimum scores necessary before credit is granted. If you know that you will be transferring to another college in the future, it is a good idea to check with the Registrar of that institution for their CLEP policy. WSC will accept CLEP credit earned at another institution provided the exams are recognized for credit and the necessary scores were obtained.

CLEP tests are usually given on the second Wednesday of every month, however, it is a good idea to confirm test dates by calling 402/375-1317. Each exam takes about 90 minutes and the exam schedule is set up so that anywhere from one to four tests can be taken on the same day. Other dates/times can be arranged for CLEP exams as appropriate.

The fee for General and Subject Examinations (with or without essay or lab exam) is $20 for each examination. Scores are reported to you and the College four to eight weeks after the test date.

For more information call 375-1317, WSC Student Services Office.

Reserve I Corn Loans Come Due in February

Farmers having corn in farmer-owned grain Reserve I will have until February to repay their loans following call of the reserve Oct. 31, according to John Goodwin, acting executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

them to repay their loans within 90 days of the date they are officially notified of the call. County offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will officially notify producers whose loans have been called.

Although the reserve has been called, farmers are not required to sell the grain. The call requires the reserve is being called because the national average market price for corn has been above the $3.15 per bushel reserve call level for five consecutive market days. The Oct. 30 five-day average price of $3.26 is the highest received by farmers since September, 1974.

"Farmers who have corn in reserve have reaped higher prices because of their participation," Goodwin said. The present national average price of corn is $1 more than the season average for 1978, $1.23 above 1977, and $1.10 more than 1976, he said. "This proves the value of the reserve to farmers, and shows that it is working as intended," he said.

Approximately 560 million bushels (14.2 million metric tons) of corn remain in Reserves II and III. These reserves are in release status. Call level for those reserves is $3.26 per bushel.

Medicare Available for Severe Kidney Failure

Medicare health insurance, including both hospital and medical insurance, is available to people in the Northeast Nebraska area who have permanent kidney failure and need regular kidney dialysis treatments or a kidney transplant. Dale Branch social security district manager in Norfolk said recently.

A person, regardless of his or her age, who needs dialysis or a transplant because of permanent kidney failure is eligible for Medicare if he or she:

- Worked long enough to be insured under social security, or;
- Already gets social security benefits, or;

• Is the husband, wife, or dependent child of someone insured or getting social security benefits.

Only the person who has permanent kidney failure is eligible for Medicare.

Medicare coverage for an eligible person generally begins on the first day of the third month after the month the person starts receiving maintenance dialysis treatments.

Medicare coverage can begin in the first month of a course of dialysis if the person takes part in a self-dialysis training program in an approved facility before the third month of dialysis and the person expects to complete training and self-dialyze afterwards.

Coverage can also begin the month the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant or preliminary procedures for a transplant if the transplant takes place that month or within the next 2 months.

Medicare coverage generally ends 12 months after the month a person no longer needs maintenance dialysis or 36 months following a kidney transplant.

For more information about Medicare coverage because of permanent kidney failure, call or write the Norfolk social security office, located at 1310 Norfolk Ave. The telephone number is 1-800-642-8310.

Attend Festival
About 50 Sunday school children and their families gathered at the United Methodist Church Saturday evening to take part in an All Saints Day Festival.

The festival was held to honor and celebrate the lives of all Christian saints.
The church basement was decorated with paper dolls, red and white paper chains, corn, red and white streamers and a pinata.
The paper dolls were used to symbolize all the saints, both living and dead. Chains symbolized how Christians are linked together as followers of Christ, and corn represented the harvest of all souls to come.

Decorations were made by Sunday school youngsters and their teachers, Mrs. Helen Hancock, Mrs. Lisa Cleveland, Lynne Wylie, Mrs. Bob Holtgrew and Mrs. Duane Field.
The children and adults played games and sang songs. The program also included a puppet show by Mrs. Irene Klug of Norfolk.

The celebration closed with the breaking of the pinata and refreshments.
The Rev. Shirley Carpenter said the church is planning to make the celebration an annual event.

St. Olaf College Concert Planned Here Nov. 12

Wayne State College Special Programs will present a concert by the St. Olaf College Orchestra on Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 8 p.m. in the WSC Ramsey Theatre.

The St. Olaf College Orchestra has initiated the concert season during its annual fall tour to upper midwestern communities for the past 30 years.

During that time the orchestra has grown in stature and reputation until it is now recognized by critics and audiences alike as one of the finest touring ensembles in the area.

The 78-member orchestra, made up entirely of students at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., has performed under the baton of four internationally known conductors in recent years.

In the spring of 1978, the orchestra rehearsed and performed with guest conductor Olaf Fjeldstad, retired music director and conductor of the Oslo Philharmonic.

A year earlier, Victor Borge, the famed Danish comedian, musician, conducted the Orchestra in two sold-out performances in Orchestra Hall, Minneapolis.

Krzysztof Penderecki, Polish composer-conductor and Antonio Brico, one of the few women conductors in the world, both conducted the orchestra in concerts following recent residencies on campus.

All were unanimous in their praise of the musicianship and character of the members of the St. Olaf College Orchestra.

Tickets for the performance cost $2.50 and will be sold at the door of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center starting at 7 p.m. on the night of the performance.

Carroll Students Incognito

STUDENTS AND mothers of students took part in a Halloween party at Carroll Elementary School, Friday afternoon. Mothers planned the party and brought goodies while the students in grades kindergarten through fourth wore their costumes. Some of the mothers were even seen in costumes. The party was sponsored by the Wayne-Carroll School Boosters and included lunch and a costume parade. Here, some of the Carroll students admire their friends' costumes in a classroom.

Tight Money Keeps Some From College

Due to the rise of inflation, money has become an increasing factor in identifying the needs of students. Several students cannot attend college because of their money status.

However, there are ways of eliminating these problems. The first major step is contacting the Financial Aid Office at Wayne State College.

According to Chuck Kay, WSC financial aid director, aid is available to allow students to attend the college of their own choice regardless of the family's financial situation. He said that education is a cooperative investment of the families' contribution, the student's personal contribution through savings, summer or part-time work and aid awarded by the college according to financial need.

Kay stated that applying for financial aid is not meant to be difficult or confusing. It is a precise tool in identifying the needs of students. By completing the Pell Grant form (formerly the BEOG) for analysis, the facts of the student's financial situation, income, assets, debts and family size are analyzed to estimate a fair family contribution towards the student's college expenses.

Kay said that through federally funded programs, loans, scholarships and part-time employment, funds are awarded by the financial aid office, usually in a combination or aid package to meet the student's financial need including all resources available to him.

According to Kay, if students are to receive financial aid, the loan cannot exceed the budgets, such as the cost of living, transportation and several other sources. Another factor is that the loan cannot exceed the costs for a college year due to federal restrictions. The difference between the budget and the loan is financial aid.

There are several financial aid programs available, such as the Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant, the National Direct Student Loan and the BEOG grant.

Kay said that this year student guaranteed loans have been very popular. The interest rate on this loan is seven percent; January it will be nine percent. He added that if students want a guaranteed student loan, they must apply before the Saturday, Nov. 15 deadline.

Kay said that at this time, the loan will be processed and available to pay for education and related costs. This loan will be approximately $1.5 million. This year, the financial office will process financial aid to WSC students somewhere between $2.5 to $3 million.

Besides offering financial aid, the Financial Aid Office also offers scholarships that already have been awarded for this year. However, the office will soon be offering scholarships for the 1981-82 school years. This will be taking place in the WSC student center and the library in January of the coming year.

A few scholarships being offered are the Special Ability scholarships, athletic scholarships, Board of Trustees scholarships and the Student Teacher Cooperating School scholarships.

Kay said that he urges all students to apply for financial aids and added this year Congress has allowed for extra guaranteed loans. Next year the federal money provided may be cut in half for the program so he concluded students should take advantage of aids when they are offered.

Cub Scouts Get Awards

Cub Scout Pack 221 held its monthly meeting at the United Presbyterian Church on Oct. 28.

Willis Wiseman is new cub master. Den mothers are Joyce Reeg and Jane O'Leary, and secretary-treasurer and advisor is Carol Schmidt.

Receiving bobcat awards were Chad Frye, Scott Fuelberth, Shaun Flowers and Chris Scheuster.

Theme for the month was "Communication." For the program, Scouts sang a song in sign language.

Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Nov. 25 at the Presbyterian Church.

Halloweener Suits Up

AFTER TRICK or treating on Halloween night, seven-year-old Matt Krusemark of Wakefield didn't have time to change his costume before attending the Wakefield Laurel football game. The costume was pretty fitting as Matt watched the game from the sidelines. This year, high school football games coincided with Halloween.

Wayne State Offering Travel/Study Trips

Few learning experiences can surpass travel for acquiring knowledge; none compare for interest and pleasure.

Wayne State College offers four opportunities for interested persons to experience life in other countries first hand. The 1981 travel/study programs include trips to Germany, Spain, England-Scotland and Scandinavia/Russia.

The programs are open to all interested high school seniors, college students or adults. College credits of three to six hours may be earned on any one of the programs. The number of participants in each program is limited. According to Chuck Kay, director of International Education, some of the trips are already filling up so any interested persons should apply now to insure acceptance into a program.

Wayne State College will operate a bus between Wayne and Chicago. Cost for a round trip is approximately $40. Basic cost for each program is $1,395 for the England, Germany and Spain trips and $1,595 for the Scandinavian/Russia trip. Kay said the prices are basically the same as last year.

"Capitals of the North" Program is a new feature this year. The two week trip includes visits to Copenhagen, Denmark; Stockholm, Sweden; Helsinki, Finland; and Leningrad, Russia. This program is limited to 25 participants so early application is recommended. The trip is June 11-24. The visit to Leningrad will include sightseeing, tours, opera/ballet sessions and more.

The second program is a trip to Germany and Berlin. The trip is from June 11 to July 6. The academic program will take place in and around Bingen, Germany. No knowledge of the German language is needed for admission to the program.

Tours will take participants through such towns as Munich and Dachau, the site of a World War II concentration camp. Three nights will be spent in Berlin. Visits to East Berlin can also be arranged for persons desiring such tours.

Also running from June 11 to July 6 is the Spain program. Studies will take place in Valencia and will be taught by qualified professors and teachers from Spain and the United States on the University of Valencia campus.

The tour preceding the academic program will offer the participants the opportunity of touring the southern part of Spain. Accompanying professors will lecture on Spanish history and civilization during the tour. Cities included in the tour are Granada, Sevilla, Cordoba and Madrid.

England-Scotland are the destinations of the final program. It runs from June 30 to July 26. The itinerary includes a lecture series during a seven-day stay in Edinburgh, Scotland; two days in York, England; and 4-5 days of free travel. There will also be an 11 day stay in London during which another series of lectures is provided. Up to three books will be required as collateral reading.

This is just a sampling of what the 1981 International Programs have to offer. More information may be acquired by contacting Chuck Kay in room 202 in the Hahn Administration Building or by calling 402-375-2200, extension 255.

Hoskins Farmer Named to Group

Hoskins farmer Melvin "Mike" Meierhenry has been named field man for the recently formed Northeast Nebraska Farm Business Association.

The association is a farm-accounting system that includes farm and enterprise analysis, on-farm consultant service, analysis comparisons and income tax management and preparation.

It is organized by farmers to serve farm operators in cooperation with the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service.

Meierhenry, who assumed his position Oct. 1, operates a grain and stock farm northeast of Hoskins. He and his wife, Pat, have four children, Sue, 17, Jan, 15, Kay, 12 and Ann, 10. The family is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Winfield.

Meierhenry is a member of the Winfield School District board of education and a member of the Wayne County Farm Bureau. He also is on the board of directors of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District and currently is the treasurer.

In his part time field man position, Meierhenry will visit member farms several times a year, analyze their farm practices, interpret records and provide personalized record keeping and tax planning help.

The Northeast Association was formed earlier this year, with county extension agents supervising the program prior to Meierhenry's employment.

He said the association now has 30 members in five counties. It is expected that there will be members from all Northeast Nebraska counties in the near future.

Serving on the board of directors until August, 1981, are Mrs. Merle Bridge of Neligh and Jim Mullins of Plainview in Antelope County; Roger Lammers of Hartington in Cedar County; Jim Schroeder of West Point and Gaylord Wilcox of Howells in Cuming County; Mrs. Dwaine Ewald of Creighton in Knox County; and Joe Claybaugh of Carroll and Alan K. Johnson of Wakefield of Wayne County.

The association has been in Southeast Nebraska since 1978. Three field men currently serve the Lincoln area. Other on-going units are South Central (Clay Center) and West Central (North Platte), each with one field man. Membership statewide totals more than 350.

Farmers in the program pay a basic membership fee depending on acreage. Optional services include a complete enterprise breakdown of livestock and crop programs and income tax preparation.

The Nebraska association is patterned after existing associations in Iowa, Kansas, Illinois and Colorado.

For more information, contact Meierhenry or the local county Extension agent.

Elofsons Win Car, Trip

"I'M STILL EXCITED. Whoever thought we'd win a trip to Monte Carlo and a new car," exclaimed Ruth Elofson of Wayne! She and her husband, Mel, owners of Coast-to-Coast here, are grand prize winners in the Westinghouse "Sky's the Limit" Sweepstakes, a national promotion conducted by the Westinghouse Lamp Division for both retailers of the division's products and consumers. The Elofsons were flown to Coast-to-Coast headquarters in Minneapolis by Westinghouse for ceremonies with the hardware chain's executives. Between them, Ruth and Mel have 72 years of experience with Coast-to-Coast. For the grand prize, the Elofsons received two round trip airline tickets to Monte Carlo and keys to a 1980 Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

Nebraskans Have 3 Water Choices

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk
Director of Information

Nebraskans after the dry summer of 1980 may be ready to admit that they have only three choices relative to use of their underground water resources.

These choices are:
1. Continue unlimited development of the state's water resources with each landowner to manage his own water without direction from the Natural Resources District or the state. This attitude as often expressed is, "Pump the aquifer dry. The water is there to be used and after it is gone, then worry about alternatives."

2. Space out the use and make the water resources last as long as possible. "The managed yield concept." This involves determining the available water in the aquifer and a decision on the time frame for depletion of the available water and allocation on a yearly schedule based upon the number of irrigated acres in a control area. Instead of running out of water in 10 years, a farmer irrigator could extend his prospects of having water to 20 years or 30 years, maybe even longer.

3. Limit irrigation to the amount of annual infiltration of precipitation into the aquifer thus assuring perpetuation of the supply of groundwater for future generations.

Neither farmers and ranchers nor legislators have shown any particular support for this latter concept. Except in the river valleys which have nearly full recharge of their underground resources over the winter, virtually every area tapped by Nebraska's more than 64,000 irrigation wells are showing annual declines in the water levels of the aquifer. Declines which indicate annual usage is running several times the rate of normal recharge from precipitation. Some streams are going dry, some flowing wells have stopped flowing, and many domestic and stockwater wells have had to be deepened to chase the declining water source.

Only those who have an interest in continued exploitation can ignore and depreciate these clear evidences that the state's magnificent water resources are rapidly being depleted. The Nebraska Association of Natural Resources Districts recently reaffirmed its position that the Nebraska Groundwater Management Act should be amended to give the NRDs powers to adopt irrigation-control measures before serious damage results. Under current provisions, control measures can be instituted only if the director of the State Department of Water Resources has determined that critical water level declines are taking place in an underground water control area.

An example of how this loophole in the Groundwater Act works was provided recently by a representative of the Sandhills Resources Council testifying at a council session. He said the Lower Loup Natural Resources District proposed a water usage control area be established in a 3-county area where large scale center pivot development has moved in on marginal land with 50 to 60 unit pivot concentrations. He said the Department of Water Resources had rejected the proposed control area because it had not been demonstrated that there had been a permanent decline in the water level.

In effect, such an interpretation says that local people can do nothing to protect themselves until the damage has been done. The underground water resources have been depleted and polluted and wind erosion has encroached on the grasslands adjacent to the shifting sands of the newly developed cropland. The theory of "maintaining local control" is being effectively circumvented.

If and when rank and file Nebraska voters demonstrate to their state senators that they want and will support stronger legislation relative to the state's water problems, then corrective measures will be forthcoming. Until then, procrastination and wasteful exploitation of marginal cropland will continue to be the name of the game.

Halloween Carols at Care Centre

STUDENTS FROM ST. Mary's Catholic School entertained residents of the Wayne Care Centre Friday with some unusual Halloween carols. The youngsters, decked in Halloween garb, sang songs using Christmas melodies but with words of Halloween. At left is Terri Bowder, kindergarten and first grade instructor at St. Mary's, shown with some of the 25 students in grades 1-6 who participated.

Dianne Jessen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radford of Thurston was crowned 1981 Northeast Nebraska Pork Queen at the Pork Producers' annual banquet Sunday night at Wayne State College.

ANNETTE FINN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Finn of Carroll, was named runner up. Jessen is a junior at Emerson-Hubbard High School and Finn a junior at Laurel High School.

Also during the meeting, Pork Producers' Association board of directors were elected. Wayne Miller of Hubbard will represent Dakota County, David Johnson of Wayne will represent Wayne County, Dennis Darnell of Pender, Thurston County, and Veri Carlson of Wakefield, Dixon County.

Other directors include Ray Messerschmidt and Bob Anderson of Dakota County, Dean Rickell and William Borg of Dixon County, Glendon Meyer and Francis Fuller of Thurston County, and Gary Bierke and Gene Luff of Wayne County.

AN ESTIMATED 195 persons attended the banquet which included a buffet-style meal. The welcoming address was given by Clarence Beckmann of Rosale with the Rev. Kenneth Edmonds of Wayne giving the invocation. Erwin Larson of Emerson was the Master of Ceremonies.

4-H awards were presented, with the senior swine showmanship honor for Wayne County going to Trudy Hansen of Wakefield, William Reppert of Thurston County and Kris Rhodes of Dixon County took the honor.

Intermediate trophies went to Ryan Gillihan of Wayne County, Bryan Russman of Thurston County and Dirk Carlson of Dixon County. Junior showmanship trophies went to Cody Nelson of Wakefield for Wayne County, Scott Ostrand of Pender for Dakota County, and Doug Olson for Dixon County.

WINNERS OF THE 4-H carcass contest were Kelly Thomas of Dixon County, Annette Finn of Wayne County and Kelly Cosgrove for Dakota Thurston County.

Winners of the 4-H judging contest held in Wayne in September were John Fuchser and Cheryl Fuller, both of Pender, Kris Luff of Dakota City and Joel Finn of Wayne.

The Cloverleaf 4-H Club of Pender was giving a special award to the top girl swine showman at the Dakota Thurston Fair in memory of Brent Mayberry, a member of that club who died in a car accident this summer. Cheryl Fuller received the award and trophy.

TERRY SCHRICK, secretary of the Nebraska Pork Producer Council, was present to give a short speech and to show a film on pork and pork check off. He also presented awards for outstanding pork promotion to Ervin Sebade of Emerson and Veri Carlson of Wakefield.

Carlson and his wife, Carolyn, own the finest Wakefield hog operation "arrow-to-finish". Sebade and his wife, LuLene, farm southeast of Emerson and have a farrow-to-finish hog operation.

THE PORK booster award went to the First National Bank of Emerson for contributions to the pork industry.

Winners of the live hog and carcass contest held at Wayne Livestock Auction in September were Dale Hansen, Mita Filipp, Ron Wenstrand, Veri Carlson, Pat Finn, Carol Brinkman, Leon Svoboda, Ervin Sebade, Mary Nichols, Denny Luff, Gene Luff, Larry Echenkamp, Byron Roeber, Roger Gustafson, Robert Hansen and Bruce Roeber.

The Wayne Carroll High School Swing Choir sang several selections for the evening's entertainment.

The pork producers are planning area swine days at the Emerson Legion Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Jan. 22.

Van Meter Resigns Local Chamber Spot

The sale of Wayne's oldest jewelry store under one name has been announced by the new owners, Paula and Gary Van Meter.

MINES JEWELRY has been located at 204 Main St. since J.G. Mines first built and established the business in 1890. The sale was effective Nov. 3 from C.L. and Natalie Costello to the Van Meters who have lived in Wayne for three years.

With the purchase of the business, Van Meter has resigned his duties as executive director of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries, Inc.

THE VAN METERS said the move was an opportunity to stay in Wayne rather than to follow Chamber work elsewhere. We like it here. Wayne has become home for us, Van Meter said.

Chamber President John Dorcey said the Chamber will continue to operate as it has, and the board tentatively has decided to fill the vacated position. Secretary Kathy Hultmann and intern Dave Houser will staff the office until the position can be filled.

DORCEY SAID Van Meter has done "an excellent job" with the Chamber since he began there three years ago. The organization has shown steady improvement, with Van Meter helping to secure industry and medical personnel, Dorcey noted.

"We are deeply appreciative for his service and we will miss him," Dorcey said.

Sheep Group Meeting Set

The third annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Sheep Producers Association will be held Tuesday, Nov. 11, at Plainview.

The meeting will include a summary of the past year's events, planning programs for 1981 and election of officers.

The meeting will be held at the Plainview Theater, one-half block west of the bank, at 8 on Nov. 11.

Police Report

Wayne Police Department reports one accident and some political vandalism recently.

The accident was reported about 8:48 a.m. in the fourth block of West 12th Street. Vehicles were driven by Kenneth F. Prokup, 27, Wayne, and Darrell V. Brewington, 57, Wayne.

There were no injuries and both the Prokup van and Brewington pickup received minor damage.

Police reports indicate several political signs supporting Merle Van Minden for State Senator were either stolen or damaged in the last few days of the campaign.

Stocker-Feeder Show Set This Month

The fifth annual Stocker-Feeder Show and Sale will be held on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28 and 29, at the Norfolk Livestock Market in Norfolk.

This event is being sponsored by the Agricultural Economics Council of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce. Duane D. Zautke is chairman of this year's event with Mill Heifner serving as vice-chairman.

The Stocker-Feeder Show and Sale will feature a 4-H and FFA stocker-feeder show on Friday afternoon in which each exhibitor may show two head of steers or heifers. All calves must have been born after Jan. 1, and from cows owned by the exhibitor or his parents at the time of the calves birth.

Animals will be shown in two classes: British breeds, crossbred and others. No calf shown in the 4-H or FFA division will be eligible to be shown in the open class "Pen of Three" show. The 4-H or FFA exhibitor has the option, if they wish, to sell their stocker-feeder calf in the sale to be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 29.

Dan H. Gee, associate professor of the Animal Science Department at the South Dakota

State University, Brookings, S.D., will serve as judge for this year's show. Judging of the 4-H and FFA division will begin at 1 p.m., Friday, Nov. 28.

A showmanship contest will be a feature of this show and all exhibitors may enter. Trophies will be awarded to champion showman in each division and the top five finalists will receive a purple ribbon.

An open class "Pen of Three" show will be held on Saturday morning at 9 a.m., Nov. 29. This portion of the show is open to any producer of stocker-feeder cattle. No calf shown in the "Pen of Three" show will be eligible to be shown in the 4-H/FFA division show. You may enter as many "Pens of Three" as you like.

At about the same time Charles Darwin devised his theory of evolution, another Englishman, Alfred Russel Wallace thought up pretty much the same thing.

There will be an entry fee of $25 per each "Pen of Three." This money will be used for advertising and part for prize money. Trophies, ribbons and prize money will be given in both the steer and heifer division. The "Pens of Three" will sell immediately after the sale of the 4-H/FFA calves on Saturday at 1 p.m. All calves in the "Pens of Three" competition must be sold and will be sold individually.

4-H and FFA exhibitors may enter their calves between 8 and 11 a.m. the morning of Friday, Nov. 28. The open class "Pens of Three" calves must be in the yards of the Norfolk Livestock Market no later than 5 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 28. Show rules and regulations, as well as entry blanks are available from your county Agent or Vo-Ag Instructor. Deadline for getting these entry cards in to your County Agent or Vo-Ag Instructor will be Monday, Nov. 10.

Open class "Pen of Three" entries, along with the checks, are due at the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce office by Thursday, Nov. 13.

Don Stenberg, director of the Nebraska Policy Research Office, says until the federal bureaucracy is brought under control and federal over-regulation ceases, economic growth will be retarded and the taxpayer's burden will continue to increase.

In March, 1979, Stenberg's office was directed by Gov. Charles Thone to make a thorough review of all state regulations that are a burden to Nebraska businesses.

In a recent report to the governor, Stenberg said very many of the state's regulations resulted from federal laws and regulations. In general, the states have "caved in" to federal government pressure for many years, he said.

For the most part, Stenberg said, the federal government cannot require state governments to carry out its programs or enforce federal laws. But it entices states to participate by offering them funds if they carry out programs, he said.

In some cases, he added, the federal government may take over a program if the state has not and in those instances Uncle Sam will be much tougher in enforcement.

He recommended that Nebraska ask whether a rule is beneficial for Nebraskans. If it is determined such is not the case, careful consideration should be given to rejecting the rule and then dealing firmly with the federal bureaucracy that is trying to impose the rule, he said.

Stenberg said the state "instead of administering a bad program conceived by federal bureaucrats and trying to do it a little better," should consider telling the federal bureaucrats to enforce their own programs. Then, he said, the state should through lawsuits and other means attempt to eliminate or substantially change the entire thrust of the federal programs.

In his report, Stenberg said his office's review of rules and regulations has resulted in some state-level changes.

"Perhaps the most aggressive effort to improve its rules and regulations was undertaken by the state Department of Agriculture," he said. "In cooperation with the groups being regulated, 14 sets of rules and regulations were revised."

Stenberg said a "very important" administrative action, which received little public attention, was the governor's directive requiring all proposed rules and regulations be accompanied by a statement estimating the fiscal impact of a new rule or regulation on the people and businesses being regulated.

Zorinsky for Governor?

During a recent appearance in Omaha, Sen. Edward Zorinsky indicated he might be interested in running for governor, rather than a second U.S. Senate term.

Zorinsky told the Optimist Club his job has had rewarding moments, when asked by a club member if he plans to seek re-election, the senator said, "I don't know. I toyed with the idea of running for governor." He added that "having been a businessman and mayor of Omaha I could pick up the phone and make things happen Hitchcock Park, and the downtown library I had a hand in these. The governorship did appeal to me."

Zorinsky did not offer any additional specifics on his plans.

Court adopts new rule

The state Supreme Court has adopted a rule setting up the mechanism for creation of a special Supreme Court if all the regular judges are disqualified for a specific case.

Larry Donelson, the court's clerk, said a situation could arise in which all the judges could have a vested interest or a conflict of interest and would have to disqualify themselves.

He said the new rule, in the event of a whole-court disqualification, the chief justice would sign a written order disqualifying members of the court, then would advise the president of the Nebraska District Judges Association. The president would convene the association's executive committee, which would name seven district judges to serve on the special Supreme Court "with authority to hear such matter in which all of the members of the Supreme Court are disqualified."

The executive committee would have to select a district judge from each of the six Supreme Court districts and one at-large judge, who would be the special chief justice.

Executions reset

The state Supreme Court has reset the execution date for two penitentiary inmates whose cases were refused a U.S. Supreme Court review.

The execution for Robert E. Williams was rescheduled for Jan. 29 and that of Richard D. Holtan for Jan. 22.

Williams was given the death penalty for the August 1977 slayings of two young Lincoln women. In his appeal to the high court, Williams claimed his rights had been violated by sensational and irrelevant evidence introduced during his trial.

Holtan was convicted of the 1974 murder of an Omaha bartender during a robbery in a downtown Omaha bar.

In his appeal, Holtan said his sentence and conviction violated his constitutional rights and also that the jury failed to take into consideration mitigating circumstances in arriving at its verdict.

Other Holtan arguments were that his public defender made a mistake in allowing him to plead no contest, in failing to advise him of evidence the prosecution had, and in not pursuing a defense of innocent by reason of insanity.

Against Amendment No. 4

A week before the General Election, Gov. Thone came out strongly against the proposed Constitutional Amendment that called for a "thorough and efficient" school system with a method of financing that would not place too great a burden on property owners.

The Governor had been chided by some for not revealing his thoughts about the proposal earlier but said he purposely delayed announcement of his opposition so that it could have maximum effect.

If he had spoken out several months ago, the announcement would have been much less effective, Thone said.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, one of the chief advocates of the amendment during the 1980 legislative session, said if Thone was so adamantly opposed to it, he should have vetoed the proposition instead of permitting it to go on the ballot.

By the time this appears in print, the issue will have been decided by the voters.

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

A 1937 buffalo hunt in the Wild Cat Hills

It is understandably difficult to imagine the North Platte Valley as the scene of a buffalo hunt during the Depression years of the 1930s. The last buffalo had vanished from Scotts Bluff County at least a half century before. It wasn't until 1930 that they returned. Newspaper files of the Nebraska State Historical Society record the events.

In 1929 the Wild Cat Hills Game Preserve was established by the then named Nebraska Game, Forestation and Parks Commission. The preserve was initially 1,000 acres in size and located south of Scottsbluff. A year later in 1930 some 3,000 acres were fenced in preparation for its new residents. Six head of yearling buffalo and six head of yearling elk were ingloriously tucked in from the Wind Cave federal game preserve in the Black Hills. They were kept within their safe confines by a tightly strung, eight-foot-high fence. By October of 1931, the preserve's population had modestly risen from its humble beginnings to nine buffalo and ten elk, along with the addition of eight deer and one antelope.

When the nearby town of Gering decided to celebrate its 50-year anniversary in April of 1937, the city fathers resolved to crown the event with a grand barbecue. The main course would harken back to the town's pioneer heritage, a buffalo from the Wild Cat Hills game reserve. The Chamber of Commerce secured the necessary permission from Frank B. O'Connell, executive secretary of the Game Commission. On the morning of April 23, the "hunt" commenced.

Six men were in the party: C.C. Hurling, district game warden, J. Ned Atison, Warren Wood, M.E. Downar, H.J. Dollinger and Conrad Eisenach, a Gering butcher. The "Scottsbluff Star Herald" described their exploits:

"At first believed but the work of a few moments as the buffalo are usually easy to be found, the hunt resolved into nearly a full all-day work."

"Snow-soaked ground hindered the trek over the game reserve in search of the young bull."

"Because yesterday fell in the middle of the calving season, the buffalo were even more wary than usual. When the hunters approached the herd, the animals moved on."

"Never once did the men get within range of the young bull sought throughout the morning."

"Undaunted, the men came back to town at noon, put on additional coats to protect them from the cold winds and then returned to the park."

"The men soon spotted the herd and again crept up on the animal hunted. A moment later shots rang out. The bull fell dead."

So ended the Gering Buffalo Hunt of 1937. At this point the valuable Eisenach brought his skills into play and skinned and dressed the three-year-old animal. Twelve hundred pounds of buffalo meat were hung in cold storage until the gala celebration. This one animal served an estimated 3,000 persons on Friday, April 30. According to the newspaper, the head and hide were presented to the Gering Fire Department for mounting in the firemen's room of the new municipal building.

Planned for An Energy Emergency

Richard L. Lesh, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Given the current war between Iran and Iraq, and the growing instability elsewhere in the Middle East, what is the likelihood of a severe disruption of oil production in the Persian Gulf? Does the United States have a contingency plan in place to deal with a possible emergency? If not, what should we be doing?

These were some of the principal questions addressed recently at a special conference "Planning for an Energy Emergency," that was hosted by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D.C. Our panel participants included several of the top energy experts in the country, and the conference featured such speakers as Senator Peter Domenici of New Mexico and Frank Zarb, the former Federal Energy Administrator and now a general partner of Lazard Freres and Company. I must tell you that the gist of what we heard was anything but optimistic.

Listen, for example, to the message from Senator Domenici. He warned:

"Let me be blunt with you. My judgment is that the probability of a supply disruption in Middle East oil is 100 percent. That is, I believe it will occur, sooner or later, regardless of what policies this nation takes."

"Look at the recent record: Internal dissension in Iran in 1979 removed that nation's oil reserves from our supply mix; accidental fires in a Saudi oil field in 1978 reduced capacity for that nation by 1 million barrels per day; the military conflict in the Middle East" between Iran and Iraq is now costing the world even more. "And, single nation embargoes involving individual OPEC or non-OPEC nations always remain a grave danger."

Domenici also emphasized the concerns recently voiced by James Schlesinger, the former Secretary of Defense and of Energy, vis-a-vis the Soviet Union. Since the Soviets are now reaching their peak domestic production in energy, Schlesinger believes they will seek to extend their influence in the Middle East — an influence that is bound to be disruptive.

The impact of a major cutoff of petroleum cannot be overestimated. The Congressional Budget Office has already projected that in the event all OPEC oil were denied to America for a full year, unemployment would jump by 25 percent, inflation would soar by as much as 15 full points, and our gross national product would plunge by 10 percent. I should add that such a worst case is still unlikely since several important OPEC members, Nigeria, Venezuela and Indonesia, for example, are located outside the dangerous Middle East area. Then too, Canada, which is not a member of OPEC, but is an important energy supplier, could be expected to increase its own production.

Nevertheless, what most worried the conference participants was the realization, that our government has done virtually nothing to protect the American people from a potential catastrophe. According to Senator Domenici, for example, as recently as last year, a memo from the Senate Energy Committee staff characterized the possibility of a supply interruption from the Middle East oil fields resulting from a military attack on a major oil producing nation as "remote."

The Administration was severely criticized for its failure to stockpile oil in the U.S. Strategic Oil Reserve. Frank Zarb stated: "The only sensible embargo insurance in the next 15 years is the stockpiling of oil, but the U.S. program has been victimized by bad judgment and mismanagement. Indeed, as originally conceived by Zarb himself, this program envisioned our stockpiling a billion barrels of oil by 1983, and enough by this year to provide us a cushion of several months in case of an emergency. At last count, however, the reserve was filled to only 10 percent of capacity, and at one time, the Administration had even neglected to install pumps to get what little oil there was out of the ground."

In 1979, when the Iranian revolution caused only about a 4 percent loss of oil imports, we suffered through long gasoline lines and witnessed outbreaks of violence among American motorists. But now, faced with the prospect of a much larger cutoff, and the possibility of real chaos, the Administration has still not put in place the crash production programs America so desperately needs.

Prepare for the Worst But We're Not: Thone

"Describing the Strait of Hormuz, a narrow passageway bordering Iran through which about 40 percent of the free world's oil flows, a recent Omaha World-Herald editorial said, 'We must be prepared for the worst. We are not.'"

"I totally agree."

"The United States is now a partner with 20 other nations in a promise to share oil with any partner that faces more than a 7 percent shortage. Although the United States is dependent on that part of the globe for only 13 percent of its oil, other partners receive as much as 92 percent of their petroleum through that narrow strait that could be closed by the sinking of one or two tankers."

"A federal law that went into effect in November, 1979 provided that a nationwide rationing plan should be prepared to go into effect whenever a gasoline shortage of more than 20 percent existed for more than 30 days and that each state should prepare plans for dealing with lesser shortages."

"Nebraska is the only state in the union to have submitted a plan for coping with gasoline shortages of up to 20 percent. The U.S. Department of Energy is supposed to approve or reject a state's plan within 30 days. Nebraska submitted its plan in July. The federal department acknowledged its receipt in October, and there has been no indication when the federal government will approve or disapprove it."

"The law provides that the federal government will give the states targets for gasoline reduction. If they are needed, and that the federal government can step in with its own plan if a state doesn't achieve the goal. Therefore, I see no reason for the federal government to have a veto power over a state's plan. It should be each state's business how it reaches targets for minor reductions in gasoline use."

Dear Editor

I happen to drive old highway 35 west of Winside to Hoskins everyday and it's nothing but one complete mess of mud and that's due to the snow that was left on the road after the 5 inches of snow on Monday.

I can't understand why they have such large equipment for snow removal when they don't intend for using it. They always gripe that there's not enough money for the gravel fund. Well, if they'd take care of the roads like there suppose to be they wouldn't need as much gravel.

I'd like to compliment Kenneth Eddie, commissioner from Carroll, for such a nice job he's done on his roads at least his are dry by now. They got out right after it snowed and got the roads cleared off so now they're dry. Winside's roads are still mud and will be for awhile.

As much as highway 35 is traveled, you'd think it would be better taken care of. That road is so muddy and bumpy. I wouldn't mind if the side roads weren't cleared, but at least the main road should have been taken care of properly. Oh by the way there was enough snow to be pushed off. I sure hope the rest of winter goes better than what I've seen so far!!

AID Buys Millions Worth From State

More than $55 million goods, services and agricultural products were purchased in Nebraska last year by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) for use in its overseas economic development program, according to an institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources administrator.

AID also had $7,757,877 in technical contracts in effect for 1979 with universities and other private institutions in Nebraska. This money is for research or the services of development overseas, said Dr. R.W. Kleis, dean of international programs for IANR. Nearly all of this amount was for research and education programs, he said.

Manufactured goods and services are acquired directly by AID, which spent a total of $790,576,773 throughout the United States in fiscal year 1979, he said. Agricultural products are purchased by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the Food for Peace program and AID administrators overseas use. Kleis added that nationwide, these purchases totaled $1,168.8 million in 1979.

Of the fiscal year 1979 total, $55.7 million went to Nebraska farmers and food processors for grain and other agricultural commodities. Another additional $90,144 went to Nebraska manufacturers and businesses for goods and commodities used in economic development programs.

IANR international program activities serve Nebraska interests both directly through the trade and indirectly through enhanced research and education programs, said Kleis.

The United States maintains technical services cover a wide range of research and supervision of field projects to combat disease, hunger, illiteracy and overpopulation. These contracts extend for various periods up to five years.

Soybean Prices Should Move Up

Prices for soybeans could continue to rise, a University of Nebraska agricultural economist predicted recently.

"I don't think we've seen the highest prices at this time," said Lynn Lutgen, extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

But producers who are holding on to their beans should keep a sharp eye on crushings and exports, he cautioned. "Market analysts are saying if crushings and exports start to decline, it might signal the high point with beans and prices could start to drop after that," he said.

Currently, however, "it doesn't look like we've reached the point where crushings and exports are going to taper off," he said. Although the U.S. had a respectable bean crop this year, worldwide oilseed production is down, he said, with both sunflower and rape seed experiencing 50 percent declines in production. Corn is not to the price where it's going to have much effect on soybean prices, he added.

It's important to consider carryover stocks, Lutgen said, especially as they relate to past years. Looking at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Oct. 10 crop report, it appears that the '80-'81 carryover is going to drop from this year's 359 million bushels to 135 to 150 million bushels next year.

"The last time we had this kind of carryover, beans went to $8.76," Soybeans are going to be the price leaders in the market, he added.

USDA now is estimating soybean prices at $8.20, give or take $1.25 a bushel. Lutgen feels a realistic price for Nebraska farmers to expect would fall in a range of $8 to $8.50 before the end of the year.

"Even considering this range, producers need to be watching the market closely because major market factors would indicate there's certainly a strong probability that prices could move higher still," he said. Those market factors would include crushings and exports continuing strong, prospects for a poor Brazilian bean crop, psychological factors reacting to the short crop or the November crop report estimating fewer beans than currently.

Historically in short years, "the majority of the time, bean prices have tended to peak in the early part of the marketing year — fall and early winter — and then begin to taper off through the end of the year," he said. In years of amply supply, twin peaks have come in January and July.

Producers may want to hold on for higher prices, but Lutgen reiterated, "Keep watching crushings and exports on the demand side."

Corn Production Forecast Down

Corn production on Oct. 1 is forecast at 612 million bushels, down 4 percent from the September 1 estimate. Total estimated production is 23 percent below last year's record crop of 793.5 million bushels. Yield is forecast at 90 bushels per acre, four bushels less than a month earlier and 25 bushels below last year's record 115 bushel average. This compares with the 1975-79 average yield of 99.4 bushels. The acreage intended for grain at 6.8 million is unchanged from a month earlier and is 1 percent under last year's harvested acreage.

Dryland corn production is forecast at 87.3 million bushels, 53 percent lower than last year. The yield is now estimated at 47.2 bushels per acre, up from last month but still down 39.1 bushels from last year's record 86.3 bushel yield. The 1975-79 average yield is 64.6 bushels per acre. Farmers are expected to harvest 1.85 million acres of dryland corn for grain, 14 percent less than last year.

Irrigated corn production is now forecast at 524.7 million bushels, 14 percent below last year's record. The yield is forecast at 106 bushels per acre, down from last month and 22 bushels under 1979's record high yield of 128 bushels. The 1975-79 average yield is 118.7 bushels

The acreage intended for grain harvest is estimated at a record 4.95 million, 4 percent more than last year's previous record.

Sorghum grain production is forecast at 111.94 million bushels, the same as a month earlier but 23 percent less than last year. Yield per acre is estimated at 58 bushels, down 21 bushels from 1979's record yield. The 1975-79 average is 67.4 bushels per acre. Acreage for harvest at 1.93 million is 5 percent more than last year.

Production of soybeans is estimated at 49.8 million bushels, the same as a month earlier but 9 percent below last year's record crop of 54.7 million. The yield forecast of 28 bushels is unchanged from a month earlier but 6 bushels below last year. The 1975-79 average yield is 30.2 bushels per acre. Acreage for harvest of 1.8 million is at a record high and 11 percent above last year's previous record.

Dry bean production is estimated at a record 2,625 million cwt., up 22 percent from last year's record. Sugar beet production is forecast at 1.64 million tons, 12 percent above 1979. Fall potato production is forecast at 1.788 million cwt., 21 percent more than last year. Hay production is estimated at 6.218 million tons, down 18 percent from last year.

Corn Prices Predicted Over $3

There's no reason to believe corn prices will stay much below the $3 mark, a University of Nebraska agricultural economist said Thursday. Lynn Lutgen, extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, is predicting a national average price range of $3 to $3.40. If local demand factors are higher, prices could be too, he added.

"Carryover stocks can give a pretty fair indication of how prices run in relation to previous years," he said. Right now, corn prices look bullish, with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Oct. 10 report estimating beginning stocks at 1,701 million bushels, up considerably from last year's 1,285.7 million, and '78-'79's 1,104 million bushels.

Because of the short crop this year, total stocks are down, Lutgen said, to 8,169 million bushels, compared to last year's record total of 9,050.5 million bushels. Last year, prices to farmers averaged $2.50 nationally and $2.39 at Omaha, he said. In '78-'79, the national average was $2.25 and at Omaha, $2.28.

Export demand for corn appears to be stronger than last year, he said. China is buying grain, and the Soviet feed grain crop is down so Russia will be buying somewhere on the world market, Lutgen said.

On the domestic side, if corn prices would continue to rise, some livestock producers could reduce their animals on feed. If that kind of usage would drop, then prices would get down to the lower end of his predicted $3 — $3.40 range, Lutgen said.

Many analysts are suggesting producers hold their grain for better prices. Lutgen agrees, but he cautions "If the market takes off and really climbs rapidly, it's very possible we may see the highest prices in the fall or early winter of the marketing year." In a year of short supply, peak prices will occur at a different time than in a normal year, he explained. "But if prices get too high, we could see price rationing and prices backing off."

Stohler Honored for Service

Three University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff members will receive awards during the National Association of Extension 4-H Agents annual meeting, in session here through Friday.

Tom Leisy, district extension youth specialist, Lincoln, and Glenn Krohn, extension 4-H youth development specialist, Lincoln, will receive Distinguished Service Awards. Roy F. Stohler, district extension 4-H, youth and Community Resource Development specialist, Northeast Station, Concord, will be honored for 25 years of service to the 4-H program.

Leisy, a native of Wisner received his bachelor's degree in 1954 at the University of Nebraska Lincoln and earned his master's at UNL in 1968. He was a Douglas County extension agent from 1962 to 1965 and then served as Washington County agent. National Association of County Agricultural Agents and the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association.

Leisy has been heavily involved in the development of the Eastern Nebraska 4-H Center near Gretna.

Krohn, a native of Hooper, earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Nebraska Lincoln in 1962, his master's in 1967 and Ph.D. degree in 1972, both from UNL.

He joined the Cooperative Extension staff in 1962 as Sarge County Extension agent before being named Polk County Extension agent chairman in 1966. From 1966 to 1967 he was an assistant state leader for studies and training in 1967, he was named urban youth specialist, a title he held until 1973 when he assumed his present position.

His responsibilities have included designing and implementing 4-H programs for small town, city and inner city youth. He has served on three National 4-H Program Development Committees on Evaluation and Accountability, Expanded Food and Nutrition Education program and Urban 4-H. He also serves as a consultant to the national 4-H Energy Development Committee.

Krohn is a member of the National Association of 4-H Agents and Gamma Sigma Delta agricultural honorary.

Stohler has served in various extension positions in several Nebraska counties during the past 25 years. He is presently chairman of the Nebraska 4-H camp safety committee and was involved in Alcohol Impact 1979, an alcohol abuse program.

Stohler has conducted a number of area wide programs including Hazardous Occupation training, special 4-H project camps, judging and identification contests, and leader training.

He has received the Distinguished Service Award from both the National Association of Agricultural Agents and the National Association of 4-H Agents and in 1976 received the Outstanding County Agent Award from the Nebraska Association of County Extension Boards.

Brown needles on evergreens
Don't worry if your evergreens are dropping needles. Fall is the season for evergreens to shed their older needles and, as needles turn yellow or brown, the trees tend to look sickly.

The needles that turn brown and naturally fall off are two, three or four years old. These needles are located nearest the center of the tree. The younger green healthy needles are located on the outside or at the ends of branches.

This needles browning is apparent for only a short period of time as the rain or wind will knock these needles to the ground and the tree will again appear normal.

If upon inspection of trees, you notice young needles or needles that are only partially brown you may have a disease.

Sunscaid
Young deciduous trees which have not developed a tough outer bark are susceptible to sunscaid during the winter months. Sunscald damage appears as splits and cracks that typically develop on the south side of the tree.

Sunscaid damage occurs when the sun heats bark on a day when temperatures are below the freezing point to a level where tissues expand and cellular activity begins. At sunset or when the sun is obscured by clouds, there is a rapid temperature drop and these tissues quickly contract.

This expansion contraction process results in the outer bark splitting. To prevent this damage, wrap the trunks of smooth trees such as apple, aspen, locust, maple, mountain ash and white pine with a light colored tree wrapper. Another method is to paint the trunk with a white water base latex paint that is lead free.

Give your plants love
While many people mist their indoor plants, to increase humidity a shower of warm water can act in maintaining the health and attractiveness of your plants. A shower nozzle in your bathroom sink or bathtub is ideal to wash dirt and insects from your house plants.

In fact, while this practice may not eliminate chemical spraying, it will reduce the frequency of chemical applications required to maintain healthy plants.

4-H Council Officers Set

The results of the election for the Wayne County 4-H Council have been announced. Newly elected junior members are Karen Sandahl, Wayne, and Kent Roberts, Wakefield.

Mrs. Roger Willers of Wayne and Larry Sievers of Carroll are the adult members elected for a two year term.

4-H Council members who have one year yet to serve include junior members Shaun Niemann, Carroll, and Marcia Rethwisch, Wayne. Adult members include Mrs. Ron Wriedt, Wayne, and Melvin Wilson, Pender.

The 4-H Council has the responsibility of the budget, policy and a number of specially sponsored 4-H activities for the Wayne County 4-H Club program.

Author: Campuses Ripe for Cults

College campuses are fertile grounds for religious cult recruitment, particularly at the beginning of each semester, according to Joel A. MacCollam, author of "Carnival of Souls," which deals with religious cults and young people.

He said that the new student is a good target for cults because he is experiencing separation from family, often for the first time, is unsettled and will gravitate toward any offer of friendship and attention.

Various faculty advisors of religious organizations on the Wayne State College campus expressed their views on cults.

Howard Schmidt, advisor for Gamma Delta (Missouri Synod Lutheran group), said he thinks colleges are good spawning grounds for cults because they are institutions of education.

He added that the new college student is unsure of his religion and is searching for answers not only in religion but in personal identity as well. Schmidt said, "If we adopted the cult's methods of befriending the new student and helping him, then the cults wouldn't have that chance to recruit."

Dr. Steven Dinsmore, inter-visibility advisor, said the college student would be susceptible to cult recruitment because the student has many developmental tasks ahead of him.

According to Dinsmore, the student must develop in four specific categories: autonomy from parents, sex role identity, an internalized morality and career choice. He added that he believed that the students here would be less susceptible to classical cult recruitment than students in a more urban setting, citing deep cultural roots as one of the reasons.

Pastor Edward Carter of the First Baptist Church of Wayne believes that the religious deception used by cults fits into our religions so well that "a person can be caught up in it before he knows it." He emphasized the necessity of "knowing the Word" (the Bible) as the best possible defense against cults.

Is Wayne State or the town of Wayne a potential spawning ground for religious cults? How vulnerable are we? What, in fact, is a cult?

According to MacCollam's book, "It is a religious group that bears some significant difference, in one or more ways, of belief or practice from the groups that we would consider normative to our society."

Carla Pfeiffer, who has recently opened the Norfolk Enrichment Center, which is directed toward counseling for the deprogrammed cult member, says a cult is a deviant group that enslaves and uses people. Pfeiffer, who has a masters degree in counseling, has had the experience of kidnapping her own son from the Unification Church, or Moonies, and having him deprogrammed.

According to Pfeiffer, the most frightening technique used by cults is mind control. She said some degree of mind control can be established in about two hours and that this control is steadily increased as the person is led deeper into the cult organization. These people become so controlled that they are unable to think for themselves.

Pfeiffer said that deception is the name of the game, when cult members are trying to recruit. The recruiters lie about who they are and their affiliation. The next step is to get the would-be member to come to a get-together.

"Before you realize what you are into, it is too late and you are hooked," explained Pfeiffer.

She believes that Wayne State College could be an ideal recruitment ground for cults. She emphasized that the typical recruit is the good kid, the cream of the crop from the middle class.

"Often this person is from a small town church family and is away from home for the first time," she said. She added that the cult "lovebombs" (shows false affection) to the person and is ready with easy answers on how to save the world.

Some defenses against the invasion of cults shared by Pfeiffer and MacCollam are:

1. Be aware and informed.
2. Share your knowledge.
3. Strengthen the family unit and sense of community.
4. Develop a ministry to cult members (family support groups).
5. Explore moral and religious issues with your family.
6. Share feelings and know yourself.

Are we vulnerable to a cult invasion? The answer may or may not be known. MacCollam reminds us of this fact in his book. "To say 'it can't happen to us' is not a valid observation."

Campus Ministry Defined

The purpose of Campus Ministry is to assist people in an academic setting to discover and fulfill their vocations in Jesus Christ, according to Pastor John Jorde of Wayne State College.

The Wayne Ecumenical Campus Ministry is located at 312 E. 13th St. It is a cooperative venture of National Lutheran Campus Ministry and United Ministries in Higher Education. From these two organizations it receives support enough to have a full-time pastor.

Campus Ministry provides many services to the college community. Among these are counseling, travel babysitting and a learning resource for area congregations.

Counseling can be arranged for individuals, or on a group basis. Gatherings planned include a couples sharing group and an interpersonal growth group. A five-day Ski Trip is scheduled for Dec. 28 through Jan. 3.

The child care referral service or babysitting not only fills a need for the family, but for the student as well. The student receives a small fee for the chance to interact with small children and be in a family environment for a few hours. In these ways Campus Ministry serves as a bridge between the college and the community, Jorde said.

Campus Ministry sponsors youth evenings for area high school church groups. These evenings could include a swim or a meal, and discussion on a controversial issue. This is a good introduction to college for high school students and good public relations for WSC, according to Jorde.

Dairy Princess Attends WSC

The 1981 Nebraska Dairy Princess, crowned here recently, thinks youngsters should know about milk products and where milk comes from. And she intends to tell them.

Nineteen-year-old Lori Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zimmerman of Center, believes young children are the easiest to convince that a product is good for them. For starters, she plans to visit every private and public school in her two county area and then go into schools in Lincoln, Omaha and other large cities to talk about Jorde.

The Campus Ministry building itself is open with arrangements with Pastor Jorde for college groups to use. Office hours are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 3 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday, 1 to 2 p.m. Currently, Monday nights are reserved for Alcohol Anonymous (AA) meetings at 8 p.m.

As far as a long-term goal, Campus Ministry would like to affirm the faith that each student may already have, and in a broad sense, help students to live fuller and more enjoyable lives, said Jorde.

milk and how it gets from farm to table.

Zimmerman attends Wayne State College and has been active in 4-H, FFA, concert bands and choir. She is available for public appearances and may be contacted through Janet Lammers, Hartington, Neb. 68139.

The first runner-up and alternate for the title is Susan Kurz, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kurz of Oakland.

The Dairy Princess Contest was sponsored by the Nebraska Dairy Industries Association and carried out by the Nebraska Dairy Women.

Good Neighbor Awards Sought By Ak-Sar-Ben

Nominations will be accepted from newspapers, radio and television stations, Chambers of Commerce, civic organizations and interested groups or individuals and must be sent to the Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassador for the community or area. Names and addresses of Ambassadors are available as well as nomination forms by writing the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards Committee, Ak-Sar-Ben Field, Omaha, Neb. 68106.

All nominations must be postmarked not later than Feb. 1.

Framed citations and gold plate emblems are awarded annually to those selected by a statewide judging committee. Honorees will be announced about May 1.
