Meyer-Topp Exchange Vows

Jurie Meyer of Winside became the bride of Gáite Topp of Pilger during a 3 p.m. double ring wedding ceremony Nov. 7 at the United Methodist Church in Yankton, S.D.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer of Winside and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Topp of Pilger.

The Rev. Robert Vessey of Yankton officiated at the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a traditional long white gown of polyester organza lined in acetate. The gown featured an embroidered cameo affect bodice and high lace-trimmed neckline. Her chapel length veil was trimmed in pearls and embroidered, and she carried white and burgundy carnations.

Honor attendants were Rhonda Topp of Lincoln, sister of the bridegroom, and Larry Meyer of Winside, brother of the bride.

Miss Topp wore a long velvet burgundy dress and carried a white long stemmed carnation. The men in the wedding party wore light blue suits.

Both mothers of the couple wore burgundy dresses and corsages of red and white carnations.

A reception for 100 guests, registered by Alice Rhode of Carroll, was held that evening at the Winside auditorium.

Mrs. William Holtgrew of Winside and Mrs. Roger Vahle of Pilger cut and served the cake. Mrs. Warren Holtgrew of Winside poured. Serving punch were Cheryl Tillema and Rochelle Delfin, both of Hoskins.

Waitresses were Darla Janke and Joni Jaeger, both of Winside. The newlyweds are making their home in Winside.

The bride attends Winside High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Winside High School in 1980 and is employed at Rhode's Body Shop in Carroll.

Class members will be setting the peanuts and popcorn for 25

Other members of the cast include Kim Greve as Betsy Fairweather; Vaughn Nixon as Compton; Jon Pretzer as Jonas Fairweather; Steve Warren as Craven Sinclair; Holly Meyer as Miss Ophelia; Dirk Carlson as Robin Steel; Susan Baker as Mrs. Bloodgood; Kris Mitchell as Marie; John Barge as Lor Monmorency; and Todd Willers as the master of ceremonies.

Miss Brudigan, a 1978 graduate of Wayne Carroll High School, is attending Wayne State College and is employed at Jeff's Cafe. Her fiancé was graduated from Laurel High School in 1978 and is employed at Mike Perry Chevrolet Oldsmobile, Wayne.

Plans are being made for a January wedding at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Annual Fall Bazaar

THE WAYNE CITY AUDITORIUM was the center of activity Saturday as hundreds of area persons turned out for the annual fall bazaar sponsored by the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary. Although women were more interested in the many gift shop items offered for sale during the day, three-year-old Erik Wiseman, at left, son of Dr. and Mrs. Willis Wiseman, was attracted to a table filled with toys for the youngsters. Not only did a large crowd attend, Mrs. Donna Schumacher, president of the auxiliary, said it was the most profitable bazaar that the auxiliary has had since it began sponsoring the event 20 years ago.

Mrs. Wilmer Marra, treasurer, said nearly $4,700 was raised at this year's event. All proceeds go towards the purchase of new equipment at Providence Medical Center. Winners of drawings in the afternoon were Faunell Bennett, a quilt made by women of Redeemer Lutheran Church; Mrs. Fred Heier, a free skirt made by Melba Wait; Mabel Tietgen, an afghan, made by Marvel Corbit; and Katie Griess, dolls made by Sheryl Marra.

Midland Event Tonight

Northeast Nebraska friends of Midland Lutheran College of Fremont will gather for a dinner and program on behalf of the college at The Stratton House in Wayne tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. L. Dale Lund, President of Midland, and other college administrators will be on hand to meet friends of Midland in the Northeast Nebraska area and to share news from the college.

Carl Ege of Wayne will serve as the master of ceremonies. Darrell Wenzel, also of Wayne, will speak on behalf of Midland's parents, and Lynn Holm of Wakefield, recent Midland Homecoming Queen, will speak on behalf of Midland's students.

Coordinating the evening program is the Northeast Nebraska Committee.

Midland is a four-year coeducational college of the liberal arts and sciences affiliated with the Lutheran Church in America. Located on a 25-acre campus in Fremont, the college offers nearly 30 majors and pre-professional programs leading to baccalaureate and associate degrees.

About 800 students from 26 states and several foreign countries attend Midland.

The annual Community Thanksgiving Service sponsored by the Wayne Ministerial Association, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. this Sunday at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Delivering the sermon will be the Rev. Robert Haas, outgoing president of the Ministerial Association and pastor of the United Presbyterian Church. The senior choir of Redeemer Lutheran, under the direction of Kenneth Gansbom, will share an anthem.

Other clergy sharing in the service will be the Rev. Thomas McDermott, the Rev. Donaver Peterson, the Rev. Kenneth Edmonds, the Rev. Daniel Johnson, the Rev. Eddie Carter and the Rev. A. R. Weiss.

The community is invited to share in the service. A three-way division of the offering will go to CROP, Lutheran World Relief and Catholic Relief Services.

Raun-to-Hoskins Power Line Will Be Topic at WSC Public Forum

Due to ongoing national and international public interest in the construction of powerlines, a Group Processes Class at Wayne State College will host a forum of various representatives of the public in which they can discuss their viewpoints concerning the Raun-Hoskins Powerline and all other powerlines being constructed in this area.

The forum will be held on Sunday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. in the North Dining Room of the WSC Student Center.

The Group Processes Class, under the direction of WSC Professor Dr. Bob Johnson of Ponca, became interested in the project following a visit to their class by Scott Raymond, former resident of Winnebago and former editor of the Winnebago Indian News.

The United States Supreme Court recently denied a writ of certiorari filed by the Winnebago Tribe regarding a decision of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals to permit construction of the powerline across the Missouri River from Raun, Iowa, to Hoskins, according to an order of the court, dated Oct. 6.

ongoing publicity in the media concerning powerline projects prompted the class to arrange the forum as a class project.

The class fully realizes that the unresolved Raun-Hoskins powerline issue has been in the public eye since 1977.

Persons having accepted the class's invitation to sit on the panel are: Robert Schoenfelder, anesthesiologist of Yankton, S.D.; Neola Walker, Tribal Council of Winnebago; L.E. Stetson, agriculture engineer of the University of Nebraska in Lincoln; and Bob Warrick, office of the Center for Rural Affairs, Meadow Grove.

The Nebraska Public Power District has declined the invitation of the WSC Group Processes class in view of their upcoming federal district court action concerning this issue.

WSC students will be represented at the forum by Bill Key, Cardinal Key and 4-H Students, participating in the Group Processes Class are:

Cut in State Tax Rate Approved

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association.

Nebraskans will save more than $75 million over a two-year period under recent action taken by the state board of equalization.

The five-member board voted unanimously to cut the state's individual income tax rate from 17 percent to 15 percent of a taxpayer's federal income tax liability. The reduction was made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1980, and the board also voted to set the 1981 income tax rate at 15 percent.

The action, which was prompted by a large state treasury balance, left the state sales tax rate at 3 percent.

Gov. Charles Thone, who serves as chairman of the board of equalization, said the state government finds itself in what he called "a very enviable fiscal position." He said $22 million in the state coffers will be used to repay additional tax refunds next spring to reflect the reduction from the lower income rate for this year.

Thone credited spending restraints by his administration and legislative cooperation for making the tax reduction possible. He added such spending restraint has not been easy.

The board also trimmed corporate and franchise tax rates for 1980 and 1981. The retroactive rate for this year and the new rate for next year will be 3.75 percent on the first $25,000 of taxable income and 4.125 percent on higher amounts of taxable income.

Thone had been criticized in recent months by some who thought the treasury balance had grown unnecessarily large and that the surplus should be returned to the taxpayers.

Lincoln Sen. Don Wesley suggested the board set the 1981 income tax rate at 16 percent, rather than 15 percent, and that the revenue generated by the higher rate be used to hike the individual's state food sales tax credit from $28 to $32. Wesley also proposed a special session of the Legislature to be called to revise the tax credit that can be claimed by all Nebraskans for the sales taxes paid on food.

The board, however, chose to stay with the 15 percent income tax rate for 1981, saying it would be improper to set a rate in anticipation of legislative action. Thone also repeated his opposition to the calling of special legislative sessions. He said less spending and less government can result in tax cuts such as those approved by the board.

Block-law's implementation

The state Supreme Court has blocked temporarily implementation of a new law providing for distribution of $70 million in state aid to counties.

The 1980 statute is being challenged by Attorney General Paul Douglas, and the high court recently ordered state officials to hold off for the time being the distribution of the funds.

The first disbursement was slated for December, and $10 million was planned for distribution in each of the next six months. The lawsuit challenging the law is pending in the Supreme Court, and Chief Justice Norman Krivosha's temporary restraining order will continue until resolution of the issue.

Also in the law is a clause for increasing each county's share in the property tax relief fund by $1 for every additional $10 levied in property taxes.

Krivosha noted any disbursed funds would have to be paid back if the court finds the law, LB 882 unconstitutional. That was the reason the temporary restraining order was issued, he said.

Krivosha said the restraining order was not in any way to be considered an indicator of how the controversial question would ultimately be decided on its merits.

The lawsuit claims the distribution formula is invalid and only perpetuates an old formula of questionable validity. Douglas said the state Justice Department's "fundamental attack on the validity of LB 882 is that it constitutes arbitrary and unreasonable classification and that it freezes the classes that it creates."

According to Douglas, the 1980 law sets up two "pots" — one continuing the amount paid to counties in 1980-81 and the other reflecting the change in general taxes levied. The first "pot" freezes a class, which he said was based on an unreasonable classification.

Task force memo circulated

All state agency directors recently received a memo from Bill Hamilton, special consultant to the Governor's Task Force for Government Improvement.

The memo said Governor Thone and the members of the task force are anxious to receive agency reactions to the task force recommendations but want the responses prepared and released according to a "guide" that accompanied the memo. A briefing was also called to advise agency directors just how the agency comments are to be handled. At this writing that briefing had not been held.

The "implementation guide" requires that "all communications or contact with the public, press or other news media" in connection with the implementation program have to be cleared through the governor's office.

Last September, the task force representatives submitted to Thone 88 recommendations designed to trim the state government and at the same time make it more cost-efficient and more responsive to the taxpayers.

At that time, Thone said he reserved to himself the right to reject any of the recommendations if he saw fit to do so.

The guide the agency directors received projects "a 24-to-27-month period of concentrated activity" for implementation of task force recommendations approved by the governor.

Get pay raises

About 1,350 state employees will receive pay hikes next month, and some of the increases will be sizable.

Employees affected are in labor, trades and crafts jobs. Most of the employees work for the Game and Parks Commission, Roads Department and the Department of Public Institutions.

Governor Thone imposed a hiring freeze last July 1 and ordered an evaluation of job classifications whose salary levels have appeared to be below competitive market rates.

The first evaluation results affected 1,350 workers in 40 job classifications. Evaluations of other jobs will be made and the results will be announced later, state Personnel Director Jan Pieper said.

Most of the affected employees will have their jobs reclassified and will receive 5 percent to 10 percent raises. A few, however, will receive substantially more. Mrs. Pieper said she knew of one example in which an employee could have his salary increased from his current $15,400 to $18,700.

Just what each employee will receive will depend upon whether extra money is available in the agency's budget and whether the agency director agrees with the recommendation of the personnel department.

Since July the number of full-time state employees has been reduced by about 500, leaving total state employment at about 25,000, including those employed at the state colleges and the University of Nebraska.

Look Before Leaping

Representatives of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development have proposed that the city of Wayne and Wayne County join and financially support a Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District.

As explained by its proponents, the district was formed for the single purpose of making 17 counties in the area eligible for grants and loans from the federal Economic Development Administration. Counties currently are eligible for these federal monies, but the development district maintains it will expedite the procedure.

During the year since the district was formed, discussions with the Economic Development Administration led district board members to believe that EDA funding would be difficult to obtain because the district basically was a "paper" organization. That is, it did not have a staff, any local funding commitment, no regular meeting schedule or no real effort to plan and promote economic development in Northeast Nebraska.

Because of this, and the fact that one of the area Council's of Government has closed and two are without staff, the district's governing board felt the district should be reorganized and become more active.

Under the new plan, Wayne County would be represented by one elected and one private sector member to be appointed by the county board of commissioners. However, each district member government would pay 5 cents per capita to support district activities. In other words, the cities of Wayne, Winside, Hoskins and Carroll would be paying the brunt of the county's fee, but would have virtually little say in determining the county's representatives.

The Wayne County board of commissioners earlier this month voted not to join the reorganized Economic Development District.

Some concerns that should be considered carefully are these:

Is the creation of such economic development districts a move toward regionalism, and would this result in a loss of badly needed and desired local control?

Would the political and financial interests of Wayne, Winside, Hoskins and Carroll be represented adequately through delegates selected by another government entity — the county?

Will the economic development district actually serve the best interests of Wayne, or is it merely a method of justifying another bureaucratic organization and its employees?

There are many, many unanswered questions posed by creation of the district. Wayne County has indicated it will not be led down a poorly defined path. It will be an independent leader. The City Council should be a leader, not a follower.

Counties, cities, villages, etc., which join such federally approved groups help perpetuate government overspending. — Dan Field, Editor.

Giant Tax Cut From Small Frugality: Thone

The Nebraska personal income tax rate for 1980 and 1981 is now 16.6 percent less than that for 1979, and the corporate rate has been lowered proportionately.

Reducing state personal income taxes from the 1979 rate of 18 percent of that owed in federal income taxes to a rate of 15 percent in 1980 and 1981 will cut 1/16th off the rate paid to the state by each taxpayer. The action means that in 1980 and 1981 Nebraska citizens and businesses will have in excess of $100 million more to spend that otherwise would have been taken by state government.

That giant tax cut is the result of the tight fiscal policies of this administration. Your governor and the legislature have maintained needed services through our prudent budgeting and management. State spending has increased at a rate less than the rate of inflation. In the two years that I have been governor, the rate of increase in state spending has been less than half the average rate of increase in the previous eight years. Maintaining our policy of spending restraint has been tough. There are many groups, supported by some state senators, who want to establish a number of new state spending programs and wish to increase expenditures for existing programs astronomically. Earlier this year, I vetoed more than $53 million in spending voted by a majority in the unicameral.

When I became governor in January 1979, the state personal income tax rate was 18 percent of the amount owed in federal income taxes. At a meeting in November, 1979, the State Board of Equalization and Finance, which I serve as chairman of, reduced the rate for 1980 to 17 percent.

We reduced the rate retroactively to 15 percent for all of 1980. We set the same 15 percent rate for 1981.

For those who are wage or salary earners, the reduction from 18 to 17 percent has been reflected throughout 1980 in lower withholding rates. Those wage earners now can expect large refunds of tax dollars when they file their income tax returns for 1980.

Our neighboring states of Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota anticipated more state tax revenue coming in than has actually been realized. As a result, all three of those states have had to take drastic cuts in funds that had already been appropriated by those state legislatures and governors. In contrast, Nebraska's strong economy and the prudence of its state officials has allowed funding as authorized and a second income tax cut.

"Politicians often use the phrase, 'bold new leadership.' Too often, those words are used to describe plans for more government spending. In my opinion, more boldness is required and more true leadership is involved in maintaining a firm policy of fiscal restraint. I recommend that kind of leadership to the 1981 Nebraska unicameral.

Dear Editor,
Your comment about the adult population in Wayne showing "no desire to become better rounded from a cultural standpoint" is inaccurate.

In the 13 years since I have lived here, I have found Wayne culturally rich. There is a wide variety of cultural activities offered and this would not be so if the support were not here. In working with the Wayne Regional Arts Council I have seen that people here like to participate and show what they can do. They do some very good things!

I doubt that your inference that potential choir members might be sitting in front of the tube will motivate them to join the choir. Negative comments are not the best way to get positive results. I think it would be a safer bet to say that the singers in this community have not turned out in larger numbers because they are involved in a great many things I wish I had a nickel for every time I have heard someone say, "We've got something to go to every night this week."

It would be nice to have a large community choir. The potential is here. If Wayne is to have one, the singers will have to change their priorities.

Dear Editor,
I wish to comment on Mrs. O'Leary's letter regarding the Wayne Community Choir. It's not hard to see that the editorial of Nov. 13, regarding the Choir, was written with good intention. I, for one, did not know the Community Choir was experiencing difficulty in recruiting members. I'm sure that the purpose of the editorial was possibly aimed at alleviating this shortage.

One person did not see the value of Mr. Field's comments. Apparently, Mrs. O'Leary felt the need to go over the letter with a fine tooth comb. (I don't think she missed a word.)

The letter submitted by Mrs. O'Leary seems to focus on two points. First of all, the need to criticize Mr. Field for his comments. Again, I think Mr. Field intended to make mention of the fact that the Community Choir is in need of members. I don't think it was his intent to be an authoritative on the subject of "cultural standpoint." Well, I'm not going to discuss cultural standpoint because I don't need Mrs. O'Leary going over my letter to "cross the t's and dot the i's."

The second point in Mrs. O'Leary's letter was to inform us of the problems that the Community Choir is having. If the choir is having problems with attendance or other, why hasn't Mrs. O'Leary written to encourage people to attend or show support for the people that have participated. This is what the editor tried to do, until Mrs. O'Leary found fit to moan and groan.

I hope that in the future Mrs. O'Leary will support people that are working on her side and in the best interests of the Community Choir.

After reading that letter from Mrs. O'Leary, the Administrator of the Wayne Regional Arts Council, one can only understand why the Community Choir is having problems.

To the Editor:
The city of Wayne is blessed with many recreational facilities. Most of them are competitive sports. Few are for the joy and satisfaction of a single person. There are three and possibly many more self-contained activities available to citizens: swimming, roller skating and ice skating. I've lived in this area for 11½ years and the one thing I have felt deprived of is a well equipped ice skating rink. The town I was raised in used the community L-shaped tennis basketball course as an ice rink in winter. It was fenced in, had one gate and there was a permanent caretaker. Each Thursday the court was closed for resurfacing. When it snowed the caretaker cleared it before skating hours. There were rules and regulations and the caretaker watched over us all carefully. There was also a warning horn with pop machine.

I don't know how the town, Humboldt, Iowa, went about the financial business of running such a rink, but it was greatly appreciated. There was no cost to the skater, be he resident or non-resident.

Could such a rink be possible in Wayne? In the past there have been two or three places which were flooded and called skating areas. Without care these became bumpy and one also had to take a shovel along after a snow. Skating is such a lovely sport. I'm sure Wayne would benefit from such a service.

To the Editor:
The people of the Wayne area have a great opportunity they are missing out on. We have a Community Chorus. It has a fine director and accompanist and several dedicated singers. After the fantastic performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" we all can see how much talent there is in this vicinity. Most of the cast in "Fiddler" had no professional training. However, they had an excellent director and assistant.

I only point this out to beg many of you to consider one night a week to enjoy yourself in singing. It takes work and dedication, but so does doing the dishes every day. It's tough work, but you can enjoy the accomplishment.

Come to the next rehearsal. Look for the announcement in this paper. Listen for it on KTCH. It'll be worth it!

Lobasco — Nebraska Trotting Horse, 1892
Horse racing has a long history of popularity in Nebraska, but few think of the state as the home of some of the world's fastest horses. Omaha, winner of the 1935 Kentucky Derby, though buried at Ak-Sar-Ben race track in Omaha, was a Kentucky bred horse.

Yet, Nebraska State Historical Society sources show that a dark-bay stallion from Beatrice was setting world trotting records before the turn of the century. The trotter Lobasco, owned by James G. Ladd of Beatrice, achieved fame in 1892 at Independence, Iowa, by breaking the then standing mile record of 2:17 by one-half second with a 2:11½. Later that year Lobasco broke his own record at St. Joseph, Mo., running three heats in 2:11½, 2:10¾ and 2:12, marking the fastest time yet by a trotter in a single or set of three heats.

The Sept. 15, 1892, "Daily Nebraska State Journal" reported Lobasco's spectacular win at St. Joseph. "[W]hen the time of the third heat, was put up pandemonium broke loose. Hats, canes and everything movable, filled the air for some seconds and scenes were enacted that are rarely witnessed at a race track. Everybody shouted themselves hoarse and wanted to caress the horse and shake the hand of Mr. Ladd who was on the ground. Soon after the close of the third heat, a handsome bouquet of choice flowers was presented the owner, and an equally handsome horse shoe shaped wreath of flowers was placed around Lobasco's neck. The entire race was a prolonged ovation and tonight little else is talked of in the city. All admit that in every sense he is the greatest stallion in the world. Mr. Ladd promptly said to "The Journal" correspondent tonight that there was not enough money in Nebraska to buy the horse.

Historical Society sources give this description of the stallion's return to the grand parade down main street: The Beatrice Military Band paraded smartly to the depot and played horse; as well as patriotic melodies, bringing out special numbers ordinarily reserved for Presidential Candidates on tour. The Mayor donned a new celluloid collar and arrived with an immense (gold) horse shoe which with the aid of several prominent citizens he draped about Lobasco's neck. There were other fitting ceremonies attended by thousands. Afterwards the saloons sold an immense amount of beer, and two men held a tight

Shortly thereafter, Lobasco contracted laryngitis and died on April 9, 1893, as a result of an operation performed on his neck. He was buried in a standing position surrounded by his trotting regalia and trophies, according to the "Lincoln Journal" of Nov. 25, 1866. The grave is thought to be in a pasture near Beatrice, but the exact location is unknown.

Omaha was retired after his fourth season and was brought to the Grove Porter Farm near Beatrice, City for the purpose of improving Nebraska thoroughbreds. After his death on April 24, 1959, he was buried at the Ak-Sar-Ben race track where a life-size bronze figure by sculptor Bill Richard marks the grave site.
