Away in A Manger

IN THE SPIRIT of Christmas, youth from St. Paul's Lutheran Church here depicted the manger scene of Mary and Joseph watching over Baby Jesus in his manger. Standing nearby are three shepherds and their animals. The youth spent from 7 to 8 p.m. Sunday,

(Editor's Note: The Wayne Herald has asked the Rev. Eddie Carter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, to provide a Christmas message for our readers. We hope to make this a tradition at The Herald, and will ask different members of the clergy each year to provide us with some spiritual insight into the birth of Jesus.)

The Wrapping Of A Gift Luke 2:7-12

by Rev. Eddie Carter

If it is your habit to put gifts under the Christmas tree as they are received or as you wrap them, the space under your tree is being filled more and more with boxes of various shapes and wrappings.

In our text, Luke tells us Mary wrapped her new born son in swaddling clothes (bands of cloth in which a new born baby was wrapped). As did other mothers of her day, she placed him diagonally on a square piece of cloth which was folded over the infant's feet and sides. Around this bundle, swaddling bands were wound. Thus, the great gift known to man was wrapped.

This is condescension of the rarest kind. Paul puts it in these words: "He made himself of no reputation and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men." This tremendous, innocent looking verse, aforementioned as our text, is the wrapping that explodes with life-challenging truths. Among them are:

The swaddling clothes were wrapped around The Lord Of The Universe. Consider the words of Paul who wrote: "God hath highly exalted him and given him a name which is above every name: that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

Phil. 2:9-11. . . "For it pleased the Father that in Him should all fullness dwell;" Col. 2:19. . . "And he is before all things, and by him all things consist;" With Peter I assert: "He is Lord of all" Acts 10:36. That babe, wrapped in swaddling clothes, was the Lord of the universe. . . and He is now. Let Him be Lord of your life today.

Those swaddling clothes were wrapped around The Savior Of The World. In the announcement of the angels to Joseph they declared: "And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins." In 1st Tim. 4:10 Paul calls Him "The Savior of all men." That Savior is waiting to enter your heart and life. He is the same Savior Of The World who came wrapped in swaddling clothes. Let Him save you. No one else can or will.

Those swaddling clothes were wrapped around A Brother. This truth is revealed to us in John 1:12 in these words: "As many as received Him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe in his name." The Son of God came to make us sons and daughters.

As a babe in the manger wrapped in swaddling clothes He came to be a Brother to all who would believe in Him, and we are told: "For both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren." Heb. 2:11.

Those swaddling clothes were wrapped around A Friend. No greater friend ever graced the soil of earth than that boy child of Mary's. He was the Friend who would give His life as a ransom for many. . . He was the Friend who said to his disciples in John 15:13-15, "Greater love hath no man than this, that may lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if you do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth, I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his Lord doeth, but I have called you friends, for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you."

Alvin Pitt is quoted to have said: "A true friend is one in whom we have our confidence and to whom we will listen." Jesus wants to be that kind of a friend, and there is none His equal.

Someone has said: "Every gift, though it be small, is in reality great if given with affection." Under God's tree of Grace on that first Christmas morning so long ago, Mary wrapped her new born gift of God in swaddling clothes. Though very small, He was a gift extraordinary because He was given by God our Father in love, and was meant to be to us Lord, Savior, Brother and Friend.

Receive and acknowledge Him as such in your life and Christmas 1980 will be a Merry and Blessed one with which to begin a New Year. "And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." Luke 2:7. Is there room in your heart for Him?

Two Local Projects Set for Review

Two substantial projects in Wayne will be reviewed by the Greater Nebraska Health Systems Agency's Northern Sularia Committee which meets Monday in Norfolk.

THIRTY COMMITTEE members representing 21 counties in Northeast and North Central Nebraska are expected to attend the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Commerce Club. Federal Services and Loan Community Building, 417 S. 24th Street, Norfolk, Nebraska.

The application is for Department of Health and Human Services money from the State Division of Maternal and Child Health.

Fees, donations such as rented space and nursing services for the program are estimated at $17,000 and the total project cost for fiscal year 1982 is $117,287.

HEALTH SERVICES are provided in Wayne, Dixon, Dakota, Cuming, Madison, Thurston, Dixon, Burr, Boyd, Cedar, Fillmore, Holt, Antelope and Stanton counties. Family planning clinics are being at Wayne, South Dakota City, West Point, Norfolk, Fremont, Creighton, Oakland, Lynch, Hartington, Pierce, O'Neill and Atkinson.

Favorable recommendation is being sought of an application by Providence Medical Center here for energy conservation measures totaling $107,287. This is a certificate of need review for federal and state monies.

A key objective of the proposal is to reduce energy usage by 11,456 BTUs per square foot per year.

WORK IS expected to start immediately on the four-story, 100,000-sq-ft general hospital replacing all windows (space of 7.7 years); installing new temperature controls (payback of 3.6 years); and recovering heat from the range hood exhaust system (payback of 5.22 years).

Also to be considered is an application for $72,414 by the Fremont Family Planning Institute which has a program similar to Wayne's Family Health Services.

Clifford Jensen, director of nursing at Providence Medical Center, is Wayne County's producer representative. Irene Jeffrey, co-owner of Jeff's Cafe, holds the Wayne consumer position on the committee.

NPPD May Cut Rate Hike Some

Wayne officials are not sure what impact a recent Nebraska Public Power District rate announcement will have on the city.

THE NPPD board of directors has learned that its proposed wholesale and retail rate increases for next year will not be as large as originally anticipated — at least at the start of the year.

NPPD officials told the board that the district's production cost adjustment (PCA) fund will not have the dollar deficiency that had been anticipated in the 1980 cost analysis, on which the revised rates were approved by the board.

Wayne City Clerk Norm Melton said Monday he has not received any word from NPPD on the announcement, but does anticipate some action by the major utility.

THE WAYNE CITY Council is considering a retail hike of 12 percent in electric rates here Jan. 1. The hike is the result of increases in the rates the city pays to NPPD, which says it will lose an estimated $11 million in revenue because of problems with two major electricity generating plants.

NPPD officials say the production cost adjustment is an adder to electric bills that it passes along to its wholesale and retail customers, reflecting the increase or decrease in the cost of fuel and other production items in the electric generation process. A PCA fund has been established in recent years so the adder would not fluctuate on a monthly basis, but would only be raised or lowered when the fund reaches certain levels.

OFFICIALS TOLD the NPPD board that when the new 1981 rates were proposed, it appeared that the PCA fund would have a deficiency of about $5 million at the end of 1980 which would have triggered an increase in the PCA adder.

"We had a better-than-anticipated experience in fuel costs and other production costs during the latter part of 1980 and it appears the PCA fund's deficiency will only be in the neighborhood of $1.3 million," a company spokesman said. "Thus, the PCA adder will be smaller than had been anticipated at least at the beginning of the year."

According to the spokesman, this situation will have the effect of reducing the proposed wholesale rate increase from approximately 11.3 percent to about 8.7 percent and the retail rate increase from about 15.7 percent to 14 percent.

HOWEVER, THE board has been cautioned that the PCA situation could deteriorate as the year progresses.

"During 1981, with the high inflationary spiral we are experiencing, we could see fuel costs and other energy costs rising more rapidly than we have planned," the company spokesman said. "Thus, a higher deficiency in the PCA fund could necessitate an increased adder which could return the rate to the previously proposed level."

The spokesman went on to say that fuel and other energy costs have been extremely volatile in recent years, which makes planning for these expenses very uncertain. As a result, he explained, the district and its wholesale customers agreed that when the PCA fund reaches a deficiency of $4 million, NPPD has the right to adjust the PCA adder. The agreement with wholesale customers also involves the district's retail customers.

IN ANSWER TO an inquiry, the spokesman said the district's wholesale customers may or may not alter the proposed 1981 rates to their individual customers, anticipating that higher costs during the year could return the rate to the higher level.

He said NPPD's retail customers would benefit immediately from the lower rate, but could be subject to higher rates through the PCA adder during the year.

Counter Checks Here Going By the Wayside

As of Jan. 1, there will be no more counter checks available in Wayne. Only cash, credit cards or personal checks will be accepted by local businesses and the banks.

BY MANDATE OF the state Legislature, the counter checks will disappear from inside merchants' cash drawers, safes, atop counters and at the two local banks on the final day of the month.

The State National Bank and First National Bank have stopped issuing counter checks to merchants. The reason? Processing the checks has become an expensive overhead cost to the financial institutions. Other parts of the country have been without counter checks for more than a decade, and the move by the Nebraska Unicameral brings the state up to date on yet another item.

BECAUSE THE counter checks must be processed manually rather than by computerized mechanical means, the banks are finding themselves with higher costs. Ultimately, one spokesman said, that cost is passed on to the consumer. He is paying the freight.

Community Block Grant Participation Here Is Nil

None of six area communities has applied for Small Cities Community Development Block Grants which would help revitalize run-down housing areas or revamp deteriorating city services.

NEITHER WAYNE, Wakefield, Winslow, Carroll, Laurel nor Allen has made pre-application for the CDBG program, a spokesman for the Department of Housing and Urban Development said this week.

The federal grants are designed to help cities reconstruct deteriorating portions of the housing community and improve some segments of their utility programs. It appears, however, that none of the six area communities has housing problems serious enough to warrant the cumbersome grant application, or has the necessary criteria to meet federal requirements for utility help.

Norm Melton, acting city administrator for the city of Wayne, cited several reasons Wayne has not applied.

WAYNE WOULD have to have a large inventory of old homes that are in need of reconstruction. The vast majority of homes here are in good condition and Melton feels it would be a waste of time and effort to seek federal funds.

In addition, he said, Wayne must have a good number of low income residents and/or minorities. The percentage of what is considered to be poor people is small in Wayne, as is the number of minorities who own their own homes.

Besides these factors, Wayne would be competing with other, more needy, communities for the block grants, the acting city administrator explained.

"If we thought Wayne had a chance, we'd look in to it," he said. "It would be difficult to drum up the information that would qualify us, and even if we could, there is competition in greater need than we are."

WHILE NONE of the area communities appears to be in need of the federal help, communities served by the Stouland Interstate Metropolitan Planning Council (SIMPCO) have applied for more than $1 million in loans.

Communities in Wayne County are no longer served by a planning agency since it declined to support Tri-County Council of Governments. Allen, Laurel and Wakefield are served by Tri-COG in Hartington which is now working with a limited staff. Ponca is seeking funds totaling $491,174. South Sioux City is applying for $525,000 in help. Dakota County is seeking $120,000 in funds for its member communities, and Hubbard and Homer are after $90,000 and about $100,000 respectively.

Not all of the applications are for housing. Some seek help in installing water mains, water wells and inalter water plants.

Give-A-Way Over Sunday

The Grand Give-A-Way ended on a happy note Sunday afternoon with Marjorie McCright winning $488.

The win brought the total winnings during the six months of giveaways to $10,000 — all of it spent in the 20 participating businesses which sponsored the giveaways.

Other names drawn recently included Jerry Ziemer on Saturday afternoon. He was not present to win $200.

Jaycees Make

Christmas Nicer

Fifteen underprivileged youngsters in Wayne were treated to special Christmas gifts that normally wouldn't have been possible if it weren't for the Wayne County Jaycees. The Jaycees donated time and money to provide 15 chosen youths with Christmas presents and a Christmas party last Thursday. Each individual was allowed to choose a gift worth about $25 at an area business. Jaycees escorted the youths to six participating stores which discounted their toys for the annual occasion. The participating businesses were Sherry Brothers, Western Auto, Diers Supply, Pamida and Logan Valley Implement. After gifts were picked out, the Jaycees threw a free party at the Wayne Fire Hall. Santa Claus made a special visit to the party. Chairmen for the annual event were Dave Zach, Evan Wacker and Del Penlerick. The Jaycees said they wish to express their appreciation to the area businesses and to the Fire Hall for their cooperation.

Julie Overin Studies in Europe

"If you can survive two weeks of second class train travel in Europe, you can survive anything," dares Wayne State senior Julie Overin.

Julie, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hank Overin of Wayne, spent her 1980 spring term in Europe attending the University of Copenhagen while taking part in the Danish International Student Study Program. She was the first Wayne State College student to do so.

RECENTLY Julie gave talks in various classes at Wayne State on the business administration program offered in Denmark. Four students decided to accept her challenge. Instead of returning to Wayne after Christmas break, juniors Craig Haneman of Brunswick, Jeff Schultz of Scribner, Mike Vcelik of Osceola and Nancy Pyle of Schaller, Iowa will extend their vacation to Jan. 28 after which they will begin their journey to Denmark.

FOR THE next five months, these four students will participate in a program aimed at providing the business student with a knowledge of business conditions in Europe and the social framework in which business is carried out.

It will also train the students to make practical observations and recognize generalizations and comparisons between different systems.

THE STUDY program offers a unique experience in the European way of living owing to the housing arrangements which are made with Danish families. The parents actually provide a home away from home and offer the benefits of family living in Denmark.

In some cases two students live in the same home. "Having a roommate really helps because then you always have someone to talk to who feels the same way as you do," claims Miss Overin.

"In Denmark people really idolize Americans. Everywhere you look you see T-shirts with American sayings on them. They even have a 'Fonzie Store' that sells Fonzie jeans."

"THEY know more about celebrities, our politics, and world situations. Living over there really opened up my eyes. Before, I didn't pay much attention to news or world events, but people wanted to know what I thought. If you didn't have an opinion or know about the latest happenings they thought you were really strange. They wanted to know how I felt about the Iranian Crisis, and the Olympic Boycotts.

"Living over there gives you a different point of view," says the Wayne State coed. "The newspapers are written from an outlook that is neither American or Russian. It makes you well rounded. You are able to understand and become aware of others."

"YOU ARE a minority there (Europe), and at times it makes you afraid. The day we went into Poland for a week-long tour was the same day a rescue was attempted of the American hostages in Iran."

It was a frightening experience, says Miss Overin, adding that very little news was available to them because Poland is a communist bloc country.

"For a whole week we didn't know what was happening. For all we knew, America could have been at war. We kept thinking 'what if somebody decided to make an example of us?'"

LIVING in Europe changed Julie. "The world doesn't evolve around the Wayne State campus or your hometown newspaper. It is too bad students don't pay attention to things happening around the world all the time rather than just when it is brought face to face with them like when Liddy came and talked on campus."

(G. Gordon Liddy was a guest lecturer at Wayne earlier this year. His appearance caused many students and faculty to voice their opinions weeks after his visit.)

MISS OVERIN is hoping to get into some type of job that will help her utilize what she learned and gained from her experience. "I enjoy working with people. A government job in a diplomatic position would be interesting or some type of international company in management."

Words of wisdom from Miss Overin to the four students going to Europe next term are simple. "Learn to expect the unexpected."

LEARNING goes well beyond the classroom, according to Miss Overin. "All of our lives we are used to being exposed to new learning experiences in a gradual way. When you enter a foreign country to live and learn, their culture hits you fast and you have to be able to adjust very quickly."

"You change your habits, you learn how to compromise, and you learn how to communicate. Americans take for granted that everyone knows English. Many do speak English, but they also speak two or three other languages."

"DENMARK is the ideal country to offer the International Student Study Program," says Miss Overin, because English is commonly spoken there, so the language barrier is not a major setback.

Laurel Bears Bombard Coleridge

Experience paid off as the Laurel Bears defeated Coleridge 86-39 in boys basketball action, Saturday in Laurel.

Laurel coach Joel Parks started five seniors while Coleridge started four juniors and a 6-4 sophomore.

"We're coming together pretty well. The team seems to be more relaxed and we're gaining more confidence," Parks said. "This was a good game for us. We needed a win like that."

Parks broke basketball tradition with his defensive style of play. The Bears used a full court man-to-man press and then dropped back into a zone defense under the basket as the opponents penetrated into shooting range.

Laurel experimented with this style of defense successfully in a victory over Emerson on Friday and came back to utilize it again against Coleridge. The team quickness was effective on the man-to-man press but the hosts had to rely on a zone under the bucket because of their lack of height.

The Bears were sharp defensively, forcing numerous turnovers and stealing the ball.

A three-point play by Scott Norvell gave Laurel a 12-4 lead early in the first quarter and helped break the game wide open. The Bears mixed up their offense well, working inside for layups and adding baskets from the outside. With good hustle and good defense, Laurel was on top 28-8 at the end of the first quarter.

The Bears totally dominated the second quarter as they pulled even farther away. Jamie Johnson's three-point play gave the host team a landslide lead of 37-8. Laurel coasted to a half-time lead of 50-17.

"We passed the ball real crisply. After the first quarter, we didn't play as smoothly but we had a big lead," said Parks. "Our defense played well and Jamie Johnson's floor game was real important."

Laurel's five starters were all retired for the evening by the end of the third quarter and the reserve players took over. All 12 players who suited up for the Bears scored at least two points.

Scott Norvell was Laurel's leading scorer with 15 points. Joe Olsen scored 13, Bryan Buss scored 10, Jamie Johnson scored nine and sophomore Kelly Robson scored nine. Coleridge was led by Mike Hoffart with 17 points.

In junior varsity action, Laurel defeated Coleridge 51-35. The Bears were led by Tim Bloom with 12 points and Jerry Kastrop with 10.

Laurel scoring: Bloom, 12; Kastrop, 10; Mike Jonas, 4; Kraig Lotquist, 2; Kelly Robson, 8; Curt Christensen, 2; Phil Martin, 6; Brian Marquardt, 3; Tim Lineberry, 4.

Next varsity action for the Bears is scheduled Monday and Tuesday in the Wayne State College Holiday Tournament. Laurel will play Lyons at 8:30 p.m. Monday. Wayne and Randolph will square off in the other bracket. After a tough opening schedule, Laurel's record is now 2-4.

Allen Girls Defeat Tough Opponents on Road

Christmas came early for the Allen girls basketball team as the Eagles picked up two big wins within a span of four days.

The Eagles topped Homer 52-43 on Friday and came back to defeat Ponca 39-31 on Monday. Both games were played on the road.

Defensive Battle
Lisa Erwin burned the nets for 21 points as Allen defeated rival Ponca 39-31, Monday.

Defenses dominated play as Ponca led 5-4 after the first quarter and Allen tied the game at 10-10 by the end of the second quarter. The Eagles outscored Ponca 29-21 in the second half to clinch the win.

"It was a pretty good defensive game. Both teams forced mistakes. Ponca is very talented and experienced," Troth said as he described the 1979-80 Class C state qualifiers. "Everyone had a good defensive game and we held them to one shot while we got two or three. When we missed, we got the rebound."

Neither team shot well from the field. Allen hit 24 percent of its shots and Ponca hit 19 percent from the floor. The Eagles held an edge of 40 to 34 in the rebounding department.

Janet Peterson led Allen with 14 rebounds. Des and Shelly Williams added six points each to complement Erwin's shooting display.

In junior varsity action, Ponca won the game 23-20. Michelle Pettit scored six points to lead Allen's scoring. The Eagles had led 12-7 at the half.

Next action for Allen is scheduled in a rematch with Ponca Jan 3 in Allen. On Jan. 6, the Eagles will host Walthill.

and score, so if we can control the boards that will help quite a bit," said Allen coach Gary Troth.

Allen will take a 5-0 record into action vs. Ponca Jan. 3 and will host Walthill on Jan. 6.

Coco Named WSC Director

Wayne State College announces the part time appointment of Clark Coco as sports information director for the spring term of 1981.

Coco replaces Diana Daniels, who completed a full term internship this December at WSC. Coco has a BS degree from Kansas State University and is completing the requirements for an MS degree in Physical Education at WSC.

He coached basketball at Glasco High School in Kansas for two years and is presently in his second year at WSC as assistant varsity coach and head junior varsity coach.

Coco's appointment will end in May, 1981. Since WSC has no full time SID and internships are relatively short time positions, arrangements have been made by the executive administration to allocate a graduate assistant position beginning with the 1981-82 academic year to assist in the office of College Relations with sports information and establish a desired stability in the sports news program.

Coco, his wife Pat and daughter Megan reside in Wayne.

Wausa Trims Trojans by Four

The season continued its disappointing trend as the Wakefield girls lost to Wausa 52-48, Monday night in Wausa.

"We got hammered and we didn't shoot well," Trojan coach Dennis Wilbur said. "They (referees) called the fouls the way they saw them but they missed a lot."

Wausa was whistled for 33 fouls and five girls fouled out. And Wilbur said he felt even more fouls should have been called. Wilbur also pointed out that his team had trouble bringing the ball up court against Wausa's press. The Trojans committed 36 turnovers. "The turnovers beat us," stated Wilbur.

Wakefield hit 30 percent of its shots from the field and Homer hit 48 percent. Wakefield outrebounded the hosts 44 to 33.

The Trojans were led in scoring by Joan Miller with 12 points and Kris Mitchell with 11. Miller pulled down 19 rebounds and Rita Wilson grabbed eight. Wilson scored eight points and Teri Schwarten added seven.

Wakefield will play at Emerson-Hubbard on Jan. 5 and will compete in the Holiday Tourney at Homer Jan. 8, 9 and 10.

Wakefield Boys Lose to Wausa

Ned Blankenship and company set the tempo and played their own style of basketball as Wausa downed Wakefield 80-57, Monday night in Wausa.

Wausa jumped out in front 22-10 at the end of the first quarter and Wakefield could never get back in the game. Blankenship led all scorers with 28 points, Jeff Hoyt scored 18, Jeff Nelson scored 15 and Roger Koehler added 10 for the winners.

Wausa hit 53.3 percent of its shots compared to 44.4 percent for the Trojans. Jeff Hallstrom had a good offensive night for Wakefield, hitting 25 points. Brent Kahl had a season high 14 points. Hallstrom and Kahl were also the leading rebounders with eight and seven respectively. Rod Nixon had eight assists.

"They got us running early and we didn't handle it well. We didn't control the tempo. Wausa ran their game," Wakefield coach Ernie Kovar said.

Blankenship hit his first six shots of the game from about 18 feet and Kovar reported that Wakefield didn't react well. The Trojans whittled away at the lead and got back within 16 points midway through the fourth quarter. But Wausa again pulled away.

Next action for the Trojans is scheduled Jan. 8, 9 and 10 in the Post Holiday Tourney at Homer.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Husell

THE WINTER SPORTS

season dies off for a week or more at this time of the year, but one of the bigger events of the year is scheduled Monday and Tuesday at Wayne State College.

The annual Wayne State Holiday Tournament is bigger and better than last year and any basketball fan should be able to find at least one or two games of interest.

The unbeaten Wayne Blue Devils will put their streak on the line against a strong team from Lyons, an improving team from Laurel and an average team from Randolph. There should be one or two good games in that division.

The Wayne State Wildcats are scheduled to open their home season on Monday as well. After playing nine games on the road, the Cats are ready to play before their home crowd against a tough Nebraska Wesleyan ball club, Bellevue and South Dakota-Springfield are the other college teams in the tourney.

Four girls teams will square off in their division. They are Wayne, Laurel, Randolph and Stanton. With six basketball games scheduled on Monday and six more on Tuesday, there should be plenty of action for everyone.

THE HOLIDAY TOURNEY

can be used as a fine recruiting tool for Wayne State College. WSC coaches Rick Weaver and Clark Coop will be looking at a couple of Wayne players and at least two or three players from other teams. Lyons has at least one player who would be a dandy catch — another Hayes kid of course.

And I'm sure coach Helen Carroll will have her eye on a few possible recruits when the girls division opens. One of the best impressions on these young basketball players is a large, friendly crowd.

If these players are well treated during the tourney and impressed by the following of fans and the enthusiasm of coaches, chances of attracting them to WSC are much better.

FOUR BOWL GAMES

have been played this far in college football with about 11 more scheduled beginning this week. I made my predictions nearly a month ago and am making one change.

I originally picked Florida State to defeat Oklahoma 17-14 in the Orange Bowl. Make that Oklahoma 24, Florida State 10.

I have correctly picked four winners in the first four bowl games of the year but missed on the point spreads. Southern Mississippi beat McNeese State 16-14 in the Independence Bowl. I had predicted a score of 28-6.

In the Holiday Bowl, BYU nipped SMU 46-45 with a tremendous comeback. I had picked BYU 35-31. In the Tangerine Bowl, it was Florida State 35, Maryland 20. I said 21-14.

But, the biggest surprise was the score of the Houston-Navy game. I had picked Houston 17-14 but the score was actually 35-0.

season is here and I've decided to take two days of vacation (the 24th and 26th) in addition to Christmas Day. With no weekend paper, I don't think anyone will even know I'm gone.

Then, it's back to work again as the Wayne State Holiday Tournament opens on the 29th.

May everyone enjoy Christmas and the holiday season as much as I will. I hope there is a happy and prosperous New Year in the future for everyone.

Merry Christmas!

Allen Eagles are Pounded by Homer

The Homer Knights exerted their true basketball abilities as they defeated Allen 85-44 Friday night in Homer.

Homer wasted no time in jumping out in front 14-5 at the end of the first quarter and 43-19 at the half. Five players scored in double figures for the winners. They were led by Rod Harris with 16 points, Tim Sherman with 15 and Bruce Jensen with 12.

The winners shot 52 percent from the field while Allen was held to a dismal 19 percent. The rebounding department was nearly even with Allen pulling down 40 rebounds compared to 39 for Homer.

Leading the Eagles was Robb Linafelter with 15 points and 14 rebounds. Frank Lanser had 11 rebounds and seven points.

Rick Golch made four assists.

"They're really powerful when they're hitting. They are all about 6-2 and quick. They dominated our guards," Allen coach Dan Looft said about the Knights. "We tried everything and changed our offense and defense all the time."

Homer's players blocked the first five Allen shots to set the stage for the game.

Next action for the Eagles is scheduled Jan. 3 at home against Ponca and Jan. 6 at home against Walthill. Then, Allen will host a tournament Jan. 9 and 10.

That was as close as the Eagles could get as they were forced to foul and Bancroft held on for the win.

Allen is scheduled to play at Homer Friday and will then be out of action until January.

Conservation Tillage Conference Planned

Farmers and others interested in conservation tillage should mark Thursday, Jan. 22, on their calendars.

Agencies of three states are sponsoring a Conservation Tillage conference at the Marina Inn in South Sioux City. The sponsors are the Extension Services and Soil Conservation Services in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota. The Nebraska Natural Resources District is cooperating with the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce.

The program will include a keynote speaker, a farmer panel and Extension or research specialists selected from the three states on conservation tillage and weed control, soil compaction, economics and energy conservation. Several kinds of conservation tillage planters will be on display including some that have been modified by the farmer operator.

A spokesman for the conference said conservation tillage is an effective tool that allows for the conservation of soil, water and energy. The conference is planned to provide an opportunity to hear the latest conservation tillage results and production practices.

Five hundred seats are available for the conference and advance registration can be made and tickets bought for $5 at the local County Extension or Soil Conservation Service Offices.

A Christmas Tale

Editor's Note: Pat Gross, president of Triangle Finance Co., continues to improve from injuries suffered when he fell through the ceiling of State National Bank.

In the dark, he mistook ceiling tile for the floor and fell through. While recuperating in the hospital, he penned the following literary piece.

A Christmas Tale
by Pat Gross

'Twas three weeks before Christmas
And all through the town,
Three wise men were preparing
The speakers for sound.

It was thought by one
That glad tidings to hear,
Would enhance the Christmas spirit to all far and near.

The descent from the roof
To equipment below,
Ended up on the stairway
Instead of the snow.

At the sound of a thump
Workers rose from the clatter,
And ran to the stairs
to see what was the matter.

In soft falling dust
And broken ceiling tile all around,
Lila came to the stairs
And couldn't believe what she found.

Up Paul, up Roger,
Bob and Tom, too,
What a wonderful sight
This so-called rescue crew.

Don't bother with me
I'm OK I think,
But old St. Pat
Was about ready to faint.

As he tried to get up
Someone hollered "Don't bend,"
Get to the phone for an ambulance we'll send.

Dave Ewing climbed the steps
A tooth needed fixed,
I bet he thought
The building had been blitzed.

He told George & Helen
That Pat lay on the floor,
And it shook those poor people
Right down to the core.

George rushed to Pat's side
To console best he could,
Pat said his back felt
Like it was made out of wood.

The ambulance arrived
And they strapped poor Pat in,
And hauled him down the stairs
At the price of a few shins.

Now Pat's recovering nicely
Thanks to everyone's help,
But he still hasn't found
The rest of his scalp.

Tally Ho!
As the holiday nears,
we wish you the most treasured gifts of all...
peace and love. For your loyalty and friendship,
our sincere thanks.

Senator to Help Open Foreign Marketing

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The five states in the Old West Regional Commission are sending a Nebraska state senator to Germany to direct marketing and open doors for exportation of agricultural and other goods from the region.

Gov. Charles Thone recently announced on behalf of governors in the Old West States that Sen. Walter George of Blair, a native of West Germany, has been appointed director of the commission's overseas marketing office in Frankfurt.

The announcement was viewed in many quarters as good news for Nebraska and the other Old West states — Montana, Wyoming and North and South Dakota. George's familiarity with both the Midwest and Germany is viewed as a major plus.

George is halfway through his second four-year term as a legislator from the 16th District, which includes Washington, Thurston and Burt counties. He currently serves as manager of the Blair Chamber of Commerce, a position that could be a major plus when his duties turn to promotion of the Old West region.

The 51-year-old lawmaker, a former college professor, attended higher education institutions in Germany before coming to the United States in 1954.

George, who will officially resign his legislative seat Dec. 31, expressed some sadness about leaving the Unicameral. But at the same time he appeared pleased with the appointment and quickly noted that promoting Old West states overseas is something that has to be done.

Urban affairs is open

The appointment of Blair Sen. Walter George to the directorship of the Old West Regional Commission's European Marketing Office in Frankfurt, West Germany, leaves a hole in the Nebraska Legislature.

George was expected to be re-elected next month to the chairmanship of the Urban Affairs Committee, a panel that admittedly receives little publicity but handles some major legislation. His recent appointment, however, means the position is more or less up for grabs.

Several present and former Urban Affairs Committee members would seem logical successors to George. One such lawmaker is George "Bill" Burrows of Adams, who recently announced his intention to seek the post.

Burrows, a farmer, spent two years on the committee, in addition to other assignments on the Revenue and Agriculture committees. He considers himself a "strong agricultural spokesman," and says he isn't under the influence of any city or group.

George's successor — and other important chairmanship and leadership positions — will become the focus of legislative attention when lawmakers convene in Lincoln Jan. 7. Many senators are predicting hot and lively organizational activities, but if past sessions are any indication, the Urban Affairs Committee won't be the focus of the most intense and spirited debate.

Insanity pleas

It's beginning to look like the 1981 Legislature again might be tackling the issue of insanity pleas in Nebraska.

In early 1980, just months after Erwin Charles Simants was found innocent by reason of insanity in the murders of six members of a Sutherland family, several legislative bills were introduced that addressed the insanity plea.

The proposals included measures to shift the burden of proof, a move that supporters would require the defense to prove insanity instead of requiring the prosecution to prove insanity. The latter charge, which is now part of state law, was an unrealistic burden, the supporters said.

In addition, some claimed in offering legislation that the public is misled when a defendant admits guilt yet is deemed innocent by reason of insanity.

Last year's legislative proposals got clogged in the legislative machinery and were laid to rest at the end of the session. The issue, however, has resurfaced.

But this time it's the judges and mental health officials who are talking about insanity pleas. Their comments likely will be heard and discussed by interest legislators, and legislation no doubt will surface again in 1981.

Nebraska Supreme Court Chief Justice Norman Krivosha recently suggested changes in how the state should deal with people who are found to be innocent by reason of insanity.

Nebraska law now stipulates that a person like Simants is committed to a regional center until psychiatrists decide he is ready to re-enter society. Krivosha proposed changes in that section of the law.

Krivosha's comments prompted reaction from Dr. Klaus Hartmann, superintendent of the Lincoln Regional Center. Hartmann said it was fine if society wanted to make sure defendants such as Simants "pay a price" after their mental health problem is taken care of. But he said it would be wrong to keep those people in regional centers.

Such offenders, he suggested, should instead be placed in a penal institution. He reasoned that doing it the other way would turn a regional center into a prison, which he said would effectively undermine the hospital's mission.

Regardless of what alternative is best, the recent public debate can almost certainly be expected to spark legislative interest. And that, if past performances are true to form this year, will result in legislative consideration of the issue again in 1981.

Social Security Facing Problems Again

Social Security is in deep trouble again. The combination of rising benefit payments pegged to inflation, and demographics — more older people collecting benefits — threatens the system's financial base.

And not even the infusion of massive new funds, starting Jan. 1, 1981, when Social Security taxes go up again, can avoid the difficulties that lie ahead. Both the tax rates and the wage base will go up sharply — by almost 25 percent for some workers. Consequently, Social Security taxes are expected to take $170 billion from workers and employers in 1981, up $20 billion over 1980, leaving that much less for the investment needed for the nation's economic growth.

The "Washington Post," in a recent editorial, recognized the problem. "Social Security taxes that you pay this year are not held, but are immediately paid out to this year's beneficiaries. There's very little (left) to invest."

The problem stems from soaring benefit payments and rising numbers of retirees collecting benefits compared to workers paying taxes.

In a recent report on Social Security and pensions, the Joint Economic Committee of Congress points out that in contrast to 1950 when total retirement, disability and survivor benefits accounted for 2 percent of the Gross National Product, these benefits in 1979 equaled 8 percent of GNP. All we produce as a nation in goods and services.

How can we provide retirees with an adequate income, yet still leave workers and business with enough funds to invest and keep our economy growing?

Part of the answer, in the opinion of one of the nation's leading business economists, Dr. Richard W. Rahn, vice president and chief economist of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is a tax policy which encourages greater supply of capital and labor by reducing the existing tax bias against saving, investing and working.

But the obvious solution — reducing the size of benefits — may be politically impractical.

"The best safety valve," Dr. Rahn and Kenneth D. Simonson, tax economist for the U.S. Chamber, said in a recent article, "is sustained real economic growth, to encourage more private retirement savings, keep intact the value of existing savings, and enable a slower growing workforce to afford the tax burden of paying reasonable Social Security benefits to an expanding retired population."

In turn, the key to sustained economic growth is a tax system which allows an adequate after-tax return on investments of capital and human effort. To achieve such a tax system, we must substantially reduce marginal tax rates on corporate, personal and capital gains income, reform our outmoded depreciation system, which penalizes productive investment, increase the availability of tax deferred retirement savings plans, and lower the tax bias against savings and investment generally."

To accomplish all this the U.S. Chamber, the largest U.S. business federation, supports a comprehensive new tax policy in the new Congress.

— A new system of depreciation for business investments, called the 10-5-3 plan, which will speed up the recovery of capital costs (10 years for structures, five years for equipment and machinery and three years for autos and light trucks).

— Lower corporate tax rates, enabling companies to retain a larger share of after-tax earnings.

— A combination of tax changes that will encourage people to increase savings, including changes to expand individual retirement programs or to supplement those already financed by employers. "Just as broad reduction in the tax bias against savings and investment will help all retirement savings, so too, these retirement-oriented changes would improve investment overall. That is because funds placed in individual and group tax deferred programs are added to the pool of private investment capital."

— Across the board cuts in individual tax rates in order to stop penalizing taxpayers who either work their way into new brackets or are pushed there by inflation.

Reversing the inflation/tax syndrome will take time. But it must start somewhere — and a new tax system designed to supply vast sums of money for investment and economic growth is the wave of the 1980's. Out of that growth also would come ensured security for future generations of retired American workers and their families.

Bulletin from the war against paperwork

One of the perennial problems in the Nation's Capital is trying to simplify the maze of paperwork that flows in and out of the federal bureaucracy.

The Army, it seems, is not to be outdone in the Battle Against Paperwork. It survived Valley Forge, scaled the heights with Teddy Roosevelt and stormed the European fortress in World War II with General Patton.

Now, according to Washington Watch, regulatory newsletter of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, it has mounted a secret weapon in the war against red tape and government paperwork.

The Army has invented a General Purpose Form which is so simple any school child could have thought of it. In fact, the new form looks like an ordinary sheet of ruled tablet paper — a blank sheet with ruled lines.

The form's creators, at the Headquarters of the 94th U.S. Army Reserve Command in Hanscom, Mass., say it is flexible enough to "conform to specific uses by inserting appropriate titles and rule lines."

"Other federal agencies," comments the newsletter, "should adopt this form. OSHA could use it to record the increased workplace injuries it has caused. EPA could use it to keep track of the businesses it has forced into bankruptcy. And the Energy Department would use it to explain how it has managed to make the energy crisis worse."

In slow times it could be readily adapted to play tic tac toe. But who has time in Washington to play tic tac toe when you can sit around reinventing the wheel?

WE ALL WANT TO HEAR ABOUT IT!

A Merry Christmas

Christmas is a time for giving. The Rev. Eddie Carter, in a Yuletide message on Page One, reminds us that "every gift, though it be small, is in reality great if given with affection."

We hope that at least some of us have not been caught up in the rush to buy gifts, but have taken at least a fleeting moment to recall the true meaning of Christmas. The giving of gifts is symbolic of the giving of love that a baby boy wrapped in swaddling clothes nearly 2,000 years ago has given the world.

A very Merry Christmas to everyone. We hope for peace. Dan Field, Editor

A reminder from Betty Addison:

Interest Earning Checking is coming to Midwest Federal.

You earn interest on the money you have in your savings account. Soon you can earn interest on your checking account balance. That means the idle money you now have in an ordinary checking account won't be idle anymore — that is if you put it in a Midwest Federal Interest Earning Checking Account. It's the beginning of an exciting new era in check writing.

It starts here at Midwest Federal on December 31st, but you don't have to wait until then. Watch for early sign-up announcements and more details. Or you can come in anytime and ask me more about Interest Earning Checking.

The five are: Valerie Stalling, age 13; Deborah Kraly, age 11; Kristi Blecke, age 11; Chad Blecke, age 9. The five clowned around on the ice and even did a few acrobatic falls. Since Wayne schools were dismissed for Christmas break, the mischievous students took advantage of the ice. At one time, Monday, some 24 skaters were on the pond.

Nitrogen Problems Surface

A large-scale investigation of nitrate-nitrogen concentrations in the groundwater of Nebraska was concluded Nov. 25 with the publication of six maps collectively covering half the state.

Problems unknown to University of Nebraska researchers prior to the two-year study surfaced in David City in Butler County, in Pawnee County, and generally in southeast Nebraska. No significant nitrate-nitrogen problems were reported from the Panhandle.

Published by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources' Conservation and Survey Division, the maps delineate nitrate-nitrogen concentrations in selected wells in the following six quadrangles: Lincoln, Fremont, Grand Island, Broken Bow, Alliance and Scottsbluff.

Carried out in the summer of 1978 and 1979, the project sampled 3,372 wells in an area roughly 40,000 square miles, which approximates half the state. The goal of the project was to indicate any areas where there are nitrate-nitrogen problems.

According to a 1962 action of the U.S. Public Health Service, the maximum permissible concentration of nitrate-nitrogen in drinking water is 10 milligrams per liter. On an average, approximately 10 percent of all wells sampled in the state had nitrate-nitrogen concentrations at that level or above. The recently completed two-year study reports the following distribution of high nitrate-nitrogen concentrations:

— In the Lincoln quadrangle, a relatively high 22 percent of 537 wells sampled;

— In the Fremont quadrangle, a relatively high 18 percent of 566 wells sampled;

— In the Grand Island quadrangle, 11 percent of 557 wells sampled;

— In the Alliance quadrangle, only 8 percent of 558 wells sampled;

— In the Broken Bow quadrangle, only 5 percent of 575 wells sampled; and — In the Scottsbluff quadrangle, only 3 percent of 581 wells sampled.

Each of the six maps is printed with up to five ranges of colors depicting wells with less than 7.6 milligrams of nitrate/nitrogen per liter all the way up to wells testing greater than 50 milligrams of nitrate-nitrogen per liter. Each map distinguishes four categories of sampled wells: domestic, stock, public supply and irrigation.

Irrigators and householders can use the new maps to determine their proximity to high nitrate-nitrogen groundwater. Additional research to determine the cause of some of the nitrate nitrogen problems in southeast Nebraska will be carried out by the Conservation and Survey Division.

The samples analyzed for this study were obtained in conjunction with the groundwater reconnaissance sampling of the National Uranium Resource Evaluation Program funded by the U.S. Department of Energy through Union Carbide Corporation. The project director was Dr. Roy F. Spalding, hydrochemist with the Conservation and Survey Division. Mary Spalding, research chemist with the Conservation and Survey Division, headed up the nitrate-nitrogen mapping project.

Preparation of the six maps was funded in part by a grant obtained by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency under section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

Copies of the new maps are available at 50 cents each or $3 for the set of six maps (plus sales tax for Nebraska residents) from the Conservation and Survey Division, 113 Nebraska Hall, Lincoln, Neb. 68588.

Research Helps Farmers

How much fuel does a particular farm use for various operations during a year? Would it be "energy-wise" to change tillage practices?

These and other questions concerning per acre fuel use were discussed by University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff members at a recent American Society of Agricultural Engineers Energy Symposium in Kansas City, Mo.

Dave Shelton, district extension agricultural engineer at the NU Northeast Station, Concord, presented a paper on research conducted during a two-year study on 100 Nebraska farms. Co-author of the paper was Kenneth Von Bargen, NU professor of agricultural engineering.

The initial research, which began in 1976, was to find out the amount of fuel used for various farming operations. "We tried to get a good representation from all crops in 30 Nebraska counties to determine the fuel use per acre," Shelton said. Recently, the focus centered on soil type, depth of the field operation, the tractor speed in the field, the tractor size and the farm size to determine fuel use per acre.

According to Shelton, larger farms tended to use less fuel per acre for field operations. He added that none of the farms in the study exceeded 2,500 tilled acres. It was also found that fuel use decreased from east to west across Nebraska. This was expected because lighter soils are more common in the west. As was also expected the deeper the operation, the more fuel was used," he said.

Tractor size was another factor that influenced the fuel used per acre for tillage operations. When high horsepower tractors were used with light duty operations, such as springtooth harrowing or row crop cultivating, fuel use per acre increased. Fuel use was more efficient when higher horsepower tractors were used for heavy tillage work such as field cultivating and chisel plowing.

The amount of diesel and gasoline used on a month by month basis was also calculated.

The heavy gasoline use months were June, July and October, especially during haying and fall grain harvesting. Diesel fuel use peaked during spring tillage. On the whole, the survey disclosed over four times more diesel fuel than gasoline was used. This should increase if the trend toward more diesel equipment continues," Shelton concluded.

Care for the New Club Calf Animal

"Lots of Tender Loving Care!" TLC is foremost in the mind of the wise cattle feeder when he unloads a load of new calves at his feedlot. It should be at the top of the list in the plans of 4-H members as they bring home next year's project animals, according to Doyle Wolverton, extension 4-H livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska. Two or more calves make a sizable investment for the 4-H'er and he should make every possible effort to get them off to a good start, he adds. Until the calves become familiar with their new surroundings, a smaller pen might be desirable, Wolverton advises. The pen should be clean and dry. Shelter also would be of benefit if available. And, the feed bunk should be proper height so the calf can easily clean up the feed placed before him each day. Fresh feed and water are very important, the specialist emphasizes. The waterer or tank should be cleaned as new calves are brought into the pen. The kind and amount of feed depends on what is available and previous feed the calf received. Most receiving programs are high in roughage. Four-H members should then gradually move to the desired growing or finishing program. "4-H'ers should take advantage of growth implants to increase the gain of animals," Wolverton recommends. Knowing the previous treatment record is a good start to maintaining a good health program for the calves. All feedlots vary as to vaccinations given to animals, depending on background of cattle and history of the farm. "A 4-H member should protect his project in the same manner as his father would treat a load of feeder calves," Wolverton says. "Start early (now) to train the calf to tie; it is much easier." It also gives the animal confidence in its new environment," he concludes.

Fireplaces

The fireplace facings may become stained with smoke and soot. But you can remove these stains by simple cleaning methods. First, scrub the fireplace facing with strong soap and water. You'll need to use a stiff brush for brick or rough textured areas. Rinse thoroughly with clear water. You may need to use a mild acid like vinegar or acetic acid. Apply with a brush and rinse with water.

Stubborn stains can be scrubbed with a hydrochloric acid and water solution. To prepare this solution, mix one part acid to ten parts of water. Rinse off with water immediately. This treatment will also remove construction stains from mortar. There are two precautions always wear gloves to protect your hands and never use the acid solution on stonework and it may discolor some types of bricks.

Care of African Violets. African violets do not require full sunlight to flower. Soft light sunshine in the early or late part of the day will produce compact plants covered with bloom.

To locate the proper light intensity needed the plants will have to be moved around the house. Light varies in any given house location from season to season so the spot the plant flowers in winter will likely not be the location it will bloom in summer.

During the night, African violets thrive in average room temperatures of 65 to 70 degrees.

A good mix consists of equal parts garden loam, peat moss, and sand. This must be well drained. Violets like a generous portion of peat moss.

African violets will respond to monthly fertilizing if used at half the recommended strength. Keep nitrogen fertilizers low at 5 percent rather than 30 percent.

Whether you prefer to water the top or from the bottom, use lukewarm water and try to prevent water from entering the plant's crown.

Many people believe you must not allow any water to touch African violet leaves but this is not true. A gentle lukewarm shower produces clean, deep green and thriving foliage. Problem arises when leaves are splashed with water that is colder than the leaf temperature. This causes yellow spotting of leaves.

African violets are propagated easily by placing a leaf with one inch stem into moist sand or vermiculite. Adding a rooting hormone is beneficial.

Do not bury the stem too deeply because rotting may occur, and do not root in water.

Annual Swine Show In Norfolk Jan. 19

The date of the 16th annual Norfolk Swine Show, sponsored by the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Economics Council, has been set for Monday, Jan. 19, and the Carcass Show on Wednesday, Jan. 21. Carcasses may be viewed on Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m.

This announcement was made by Ruben Vonderohs, show chairman. Larry Lehman will serve as vice chairman. The live show will be held at the Norfolk Livestock Market, in the cattle ring, and will be judged by Terry Schrick of Lincoln. Judging will begin at 9 a.m. the date of the show. The Carcass Show will be held at the Roman Packing Company on Wednesday, and will be judged by Chuck Pohlman and students from the Ag Department at Northeast Technical Community College.

The Swine Show will again include an FFA Judging Contest which is being handled by Neal Pohlman as chairman. A certain number of hogs will be selected by this committee and sorted into four classes; three market hogs and one breeding gilt. Two official teams of four boys from each school, in both junior and senior division, will judge as teams.

In the regular show there will be a commercial (crossbred) and a purebred division. There will be three weight classes in each division and the judge will divide the hogs equally into three weight classes for each division — light, medium and heavy. Only one hog per exhibitor will be allowed. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded the winners.

All of the hogs entered in the live show will be slaughtered and entered in the Carcass Show. Hogs must weigh between 200 and 250 pounds.

Entry blanks for this show are available at the Wayne County Agent's office, from the Norfolk Livestock Market and the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce office.

A Tour of the Museum

FIRST AND FIFTH grade students from Wayne Elementary and Middle Schools toured the Wayne County Historical Society Museum recently. Most of the students and the accompanying teachers had never viewed the antiques or heard of the county's history until then. Mrs. Clifford Johnson (above right), the museum curator, provided the students with some insight into how residents of the county lived decades ago. The first graders (above) were fascinated with the Christmas tree which depicts Christmas before the turn of the century.

Smaller Cars Generate Special Problems

The trend to downsize the cars we drive is causing concern among national traffic safety authorities.

The Highway Safety Research Institute at the University of Michigan reports that when a lighter car collides with a heavier car or truck, it stops very abruptly! Therefore, other things being equal, occupants of the lighter car face a higher probability of being injured — often fatally.

In fact, a recent report by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration states, "An examination of statistics of crashes in which subcompact cars collided with full-sized cars found that the occupants of the subcompact vehicles were eight times more likely to be killed than the occupants of the full-sized vehicle."

Another agency, the National Highway Safety Advisory Committee, enumerates the following problems associated with the new and smaller vehicles:

- Reduced car size lowers the driver's eye height. Visibility is thereby reduced at hillcrests, intersections or by roadside sight obstructions.
- Concrete barriers designed to guide straying vehicles safely back onto the roadway may cause smaller cars to flip over, increasing the severity of the crash.
- Sign posts and lamps designed to break away in crashes may not perform as designed when struck by lower, lighter cars.

• Car and truck bumpers may actually be too high or too low to do any good in crashes between the different size vehicles.

Now, a new perspective has been added by another traffic safety authority — Douglas M. Fergusson, vice president for traffic for the National Safety Council and director of safety services, Nationwide Insurance Company. In addition to these posts, Fergusson has served as chairman of the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards so he has had first-hand experience in the Council's winter test programs at Stevens Point, Wis.

Fergusson contends "While the economy and gas saving benefits of downsized cars is an established fact, the added hazards of winter driving, reduced visibility and inadequate traction — create a new dimension to the special problems associated with smaller cars."

Fergusson referred to one special small car problem based on findings from one of the Council's test programs.

When trying to get started from a stop on winter slick road surfaces, the smaller, lighter cars have a notable difficulty getting back into motion. This is particularly true at warmer ice temperatures or when ice has become highly polished, such as at intersections. Chances are increased of being rear-ended by vehicles that can get started quicker.

However, there is a plus factor. Stopping distances on ice for compact and subcompact cars can be as much as 25 percent shorter than for a full size vehicle. In short, the heavier the vehicle, the longer the distance required to slide to a stop.

This relationship between vehicle weight and locked wheel stopping distances on ice is at odds with the reported behavior of vehicles on either wet or dry pavements, but in the case of vehicles on glare ice, the difference has been well established.

However, the Council's tests have also shown that braking distances on glare ice may easily extend to as much as ten times the normal, dry pavement distance. Even with the help of traction aids on your car — tire chains or studs (where permitted) — far slower than normal speeds, along with far longer gaps between your vehicle and a car ahead, are essential.

Fergusson concluded with the following common sense suggestions for coping with adverse conditions regardless of the size car you drive:

1. Get the "feet" of the road by accelerating carefully to see if wheels spin or brake gently to see if they skid. Reduce speed accordingly.
2. Increase your following distance. It takes three to nine times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry pavement.
3. Pump your brakes to slow or stop — don't jam them on. An intermittent pumping action keeps the wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control.
4. Have good tires with good treads. Better yet, use snow tires which provide half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires. Studded snow tires, where permitted, offer still more help on icy surfaces.
5. Always carry reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car for use during severe snow and ice conditions. They provide four to seven times as much traction on snow or ice as regular tires.
6. Keep your windshield and windows clear at all times. Replace streaking wiper blades gone dead from exposure to sun, wind and oily road film. Be sure that your windshield washer solution contains adequate anti-freeze.

SSI Delay Caused By Lack of Itemized Bill

Many people in the Northeast Nebraska area undergo needless delay in receiving reimbursement under Medicare medical insurance because they do not include an itemized bill when they submit their "Request for Medicare Payment" form. Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently:

An itemized bill must accompany the form if Part II of the form is not completed by the doctor or supplier. If the bill is not acceptable, the Medicare carrier will return the form to the person and an extensive delay in payment may result.

To be acceptable, a bill for services must include:

A complete description of each service or supply received, the date each service or supply was received, the place each service or supply was received, the charge for each service or supply, the name of the doctor or supplier who provided each service or supply, the person's name and complete health insurance number exactly as shown on the person's Medicare card, if possible, the diagnosis.

A bill which just shows "For professional services rendered" or "Balance forward" is not acceptable.

More information about filing Medicare claims can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office. The people there will be glad to answer questions about itemized bills as well as about the "Request for Medicare Payment" form. The office is located at 1310 Norfolk Ave. and the telephone number is 1-800-642-8310.

In this land of plenty, let us celebrate Christmas in warmth and brotherhood.

MERRY CHRISTMAS MILK PRODUCERS!

Again this year Neu Cheese Company is distributing our Annual Christmas Bonus in TWO DOLLAR BILLS to our milk producers and employees.

This year we are sending out $40,639.20. This may not seem like much compared to the dividends given out by our competition, the giant milk cooperatives—who are much larger than we, as much as 330 times larger. These same cooperatives, however, do not pay 330 times the $40,639.20 we pay the producers selling to Neu Cheese. We also do not deduct a 1% revolving fund charge for doing business with us.

The reason we pay our producers and employees in TWO DOLLAR BILLS is to show area merchants and businessmen, the impact that dairying has on our area economy. Even national radio broadcaster, Paul Harvey, made mention of Neu Cheese's $2.00 bill.

We heartily encourage you to consider us for marketing your milk. We also encourage any milk producer to tour our plant at their convenience. We are one of the larger manufacturers of specialty cheeses in the U.S. May we serve you?

Christmas Through the Eyes of Children

Or, on Donner,

The Case of the Christmas Tree Thief
One Christmas Eve, Cris and Dan Winkle, two curious children went to bed. They were suddenly awakened when they heard a crash downstairs. They thought it sounded like an ornament had fallen off the tree. They both went downstairs quietly so they would not wake up their parents. When they got to the bottom of the stairs they looked up. Well, a ball had fallen off all right, all the balls and ornaments had fallen off. The tree was being pushed up the chimney. Cris went up to the person and yanked on his red suit. The man didn't know what to say. Cris said, "Santa Claus, why are you taking our tree?" The man said, "I'm not taking your tree, I'm just taking it to a repair shop." Then the children and the man heard sleigh bells. Right then the man got the tree out of the chimney and put it back up. When Santa came down the chimney he knew right then what was going on because the same man stole their tree. Santa took the thief to the police station. Then he came back to Cris and Dan's house and helped them set up the tree better, and put on the ornaments. Then he gave Cris and Dan their presents and then Santa left. In the morning, Cris and Dan's parents didn't know what had happened that Christmas Eve, and Cris and Dan didn't tell them anything either.

The Abominable Snowman Kidnapper
One day Santa was walking along a snow bank in back of the yard when all the sudden the Abominable Snowman came quietly along and kidnapped Santa Claus. He started running away with Santa. Santa started yelling for help but Abominable put his finger over his mouth and said, "You better be quiet or I will eat you."

They came to a big cave that was Abominable's home. Santa asked him, "Why did you kidnap me? I have to deliver presents to all of the kid's houses. In just two days I have to help the elves load up the toys and that day I am off into the night with the sleigh and reindeer. The children depend on me to give them what they want. They love me for it. Please let me go!"

"That's the problem," said Abominable, "everyone likes and loves you. Nobody likes me. They don't even want me around, that's why I kidnaped you, because I am jealous of you."

"But this won't solve your problem. The elves will deliver the presents for me and give me the credit the kids will still love me," said Santa.

"You are right Santa, I will have to kidnap them too!" said Abominable.

"No," said Santa, "that wouldn't solve anything either. Now why don't you come back with me and you can help the elves and I do things that are too hard and heavy to do!"

"Yes, I am a nice snowman and the snowman was liked by everyone. He helped Santa and the elves and was happy for the rest of his life."

The Mystery of the Sled
One Christmas night Santa Claus started on his journey. He kissed Mrs. Claus good by. Then he got the reindeer hitched up. After he hitched them up he gave them some hay for the long journey. The elves loaded up the toys and one elf stayed with him. Off he went. Down one chimney. It was Jack Johnson's house. But when he got out of the chimney there was no sled or toys. He called the elf on the CB and he said he was sleeping and all of a sudden the sled started to go. It wouldn't stop. The elf told the sled if it didn't go back and get Santa we wouldn't let it take the toys and help Santa. The sled didn't turn back it kept in touch. He said it was all cloudy no sun. After an hour Santa called Mrs. Claus to bring the sled for emergencies. She brought some more toys and the reindeer and elf with the other sled came back. But no sled. One day Santa was walking and there it was in a snow bank.

The Sled
Santa was tired of his old sled so he went to the sled shop and got a new sled. It didn't even need reindeer. All of them were sad. Christmas was getting closer. It was Christmas Eve. Santa started his new sled. The elves loaded all the toys. Santa revved his sled up, they were off. Santa got no more than a hundred feet up. The sled killed and had a crash. It broke into a thousands of pieces. As soon as reindeer saw it they hitched up to the old sled and rushed to Santa. Santa wasn't hurt but was sorry he ever doubted the old team. So they loaded their toys and they were off just like all the other Christmases. They were all happy now.

Tax Packages Due Soon

Approximately 513,278 taxpayers in Nebraska will receive their federal income tax packages within the next two weeks.

The IRS sends taxpayers either a Form 1040 or 1040A package, based on which form the taxpayer filed last year. Some taxpayers may need to file a form different from the one received, due to a change in their tax status. These individuals can pick up forms and tax schedules at most local IRS offices, post offices and many banks. Extra forms are also available by using the order blank in the tax package.

The tax package received in the mail has a pre-addressed, peel-off label and return envelope which taxpayers should use. The label and envelope help to speed up the processing of the return, decrease the chance of errors and often produce a refund faster.

If there is an error on the label, such as the name, the correction can be made right on the label.

The tax package contains the complete instructions that the taxpayer needs to complete the form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS forms/tax information number listed in the local telephone directory. Some IRS offices also have the publications for personal pickup.

Merry Christmas
